NEW CAREER PROGRAM OFFERED

A new two-year program designed to prepare students for higher entry-level positions in the field of accounting has been added to the wide variety of educational programs offered at Clayton Junior College.

A request for the college to offer a major in accounting, effective with the start of the current Fall Quarter, was approved by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia at their October meeting.

One of 14 "career programs" currently being offered by the Morrow institution, the accounting program is designed to enable students, after two years of study, to secure positions as accounting clerks, accounting trainees, or junior accountants, particularly within the general service area of the college. Career programs combine general education courses with specialized professional or paraprofessional training, and most graduates of these programs receive the Associate in Arts Degree.

The need for a program in accounting was realized following discussions with current and prospective students, a survey of the college service area's educational needs, and a survey of job opportunities which were channeled through the college's business administration faculty.

An advisory committee, representing area business and accounting firms, was appointed to study the options of such a program. Members of the accounting "advisory board" were: R. C. Amsberry of R. C. Amsberry and Company Accounting Service of College Park; James A. Harden, a CPA in East Point; Homer H. Wilkerson, Jr., of Wilkerson Accounting in Forest Park; Maurice Hebert, a CPA in East Point; Joe Twomey, who was the Morrow Branch Manager of Data Corporation of America before being transferred recently; and the late William Griffin, a business accountant in Morrow.

Existing courses in the areas of general education, business administration, and business management at the college were incorporated into the proposed curriculum for the new accounting program. In addition, the advisory board recommended that three new courses be offered by the college, two in intermediate accounting and one in income tax accounting.

The accounting program was designed to provide students with skills required for immediate employment after two years of study as well as for advancement possibilities. In addition, the curriculum also fits requirements for students who wish to continue educational studies at other institutions of higher learning. Most of the course credits completed within the program may be transferred without loss to other institutions within the University System.

Phi Theta Kappa is Active on Campus

Gary Scott Mask

Phi Theta Kappa, CJC's Honor Society was formed in March of last year under the direction of Mr. Robert Welborn and through the Academic Honors Committee. Mr. Welborn, also a member of Phi Theta Kappa while in junior college, heads the program and also serves as a member of the Academic Honors Committee. Students receive recognition at the annual Honors Day convocation and become permanent members of Phi Theta Kappa.

Student membership is only through invitation based on the student's academic criteria. CJC's campus chapter of Phi Theta Kappa is known as Alpha Beta Delta. There are more than 450 chapters across the nation and Phi Theta Kappa is the oldest (founded 1918) and only nationally recognized Honor Society. CJC's chapter adopted a service function for two reasons: (1) to honor students who have achieved academic excellence, and (2) service organizing for the college.

Phi Theta Kappa has as its permanent project the assisting with early registration, early bird orientation program, and regular registration. They also co-sponsored the Blood Drive as well as giving blood and getting pledge cards. They assisted SGA in the Halloween Carnival for underprivileged children. Mr. Welborn says Phi Theta Kappa is planning to hold a voter registration drive on campus in the spring.

The campus chapter of Phi Theta Kappa will play host to South DeKalb's Community College and central DeKalb's Community College chapters of Phi Theta Kappa in January as to ideas for joint projects.

Alpha Beta Delta had a meeting on November 12 for its new members. There were 19 present with its 12 new members. There were 29 invitations sent out to Spring and Summer Quarter students in which 12 have responded. They have an active membership of about 20-25. Invitations are sent out every quarter except summer to deserving students. Mr. Welborn also says that there will be a State Phi Theta Kappa meeting in Albany during the month of February and he definitely plans to send a delegation from Clayton Junior College.

Dr. Thomas Speaks on the Confederacy

Sheila Buschman

Dr. Emory Thomas, Associate Professor of History at the University of Georgia, spoke to an audience of approximately 100 people on November 18. An author of several books on the Confederacy, Dr. Thomas discussed the Civil War comparing the Confederate experience to that of the American Revolution. "We use history as an experience to learn from," he said.

The title of Dr. Thomas's speech was "Jefferson Davis and the Founding Fathers." In his speech, he pointed out similarities between the radicals of the revolution, such as Patrick Henry and Sam Adams, with the "fire-eaters" of the ante-bellum South, such as Robert B. Rhett, William Yancy and Edmond Ruffin. He also drew a comparison between the "trappings" and constitutional structure and phraseology of the constitutions drawn up by the Founding Fathers and the founders of the Confederacy.

In addition, Thomas showed how the military leaders of the South based their actions on the strategy of the Revolution. Davis and his generals fell into an "offensive defense" which allowed the North "to do as the British did."

Thomas also discussed Jefferson Davis as a President capable of being able to "appropriate the past and build upon experience." For example, Thomas stressed Davis' willingness to emancipate the slaves and, with Robert E. Lee's support, arm the slaves in the closing days of the Confederacy.

Thomas closed with the reminder that, like the Confederacy, we need to "Use our experience without becoming trapped by it."

ECONOMIST SPEAKS HERE AT CJC

Sheila Buschman

On November 17 Dr. Donald Ratajczak, Director of the Georgia State University Forecasting Project, was at Clayton Junior College speaking on the subject of the current economic situation. An audience of 95 people listened to Dr. Ratajczak's speech on "Economic Forecasting."

His presentation dealt with several areas of economics. First he discussed the problems of forecasting what the structure of the economic system was based on theory not history. And secondly he stressed that prices are not as passive as the textbooks indicate: "Prices do have a life of their own."

Ratajczak projected a slow economic recovery over the next two years. His projection was based on an analysis of a wealth of economics statistics, price indexes and rates of interest and unemployment.

Following Dr. Ratajczak's speech there was an intense question and answer session. One member of the audience, on his way to the post lecture reception, was overheard to say, "He was really knowledgeable and I would have liked to ask him a question, but I was afraid he might have already answered it."

SGA Election Results

SGA Elections were held November 18 and 19. The results are as follows: President: Elaine Noles; Vice President: Pat Patterson; Senators: Bary Jester, Al Peppers, Debra Peterson, Jon Patterson, Marty Braden, and Jo Dellinger.

Installation of the newly elected officers and senators will be December 4, 1975 at 2:30 p.m. in the Student Lounge (D-14).

CJC is proud to announce that Eli is returning once again to play at the Sixth Annual Christmas Ball. This year's Christmas Ball will be held in the Underground Ballroom, better known as the cafeteria. The dance will take place on Wednesday, December 10th, from 9:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m. Dress will be semi-formal.

Rob Taylor.

The Dental Hygiene Aptitude Test is required of all applicants to the Dental Hygiene Program. Applications may be obtained at CJC in C-57. Registration is made through the American Dental Hygienists' Association and must be completed at least four weeks in advance. The address of the ADHA is 211 East Chicago Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Applications must be sent in no later than January 2, 1976; the fee for the test is $9.00, payable to the ADHA. The date of the test is February 6, 1976.

in brief

The SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) of the College Entrance Examination Board is a requirement for admission to CJC. This test measures the student's level of verbal and mathematical skills and is important for effective placement in college courses. The next test date is December 11, 1975. Approximately four hours of testing time should be allowed. Advance registration may be made by calling the Admissions Office at CJC (363-7540). Fees ($6.50) may be paid at the time of testing, which will begin at 6:00 p.m. in B-15.

Spotlight on Dr. Fisher

Randy Williams

Dr. William Fisher is Assistant Professor and Coordinator of Physical Sciences here at CJC. Dr. Fisher came in June of 1974. Since then, he, in cooperation with the other professors, has upgraded the Physical Science Department and received a grant from the National Science Foundation to upgrade the organic courses.

Previous to his coming to Clayton Junior, he taught at Georgia Tech for five years. Dr. Fisher said he liked Clayton Junior College better than Tech because his work load here is heavier and he enjoys it. He is constantly working on ways to improve the department and better qualify the students who go through these courses.

At present, he and the other professors are working on new laboratory programs that involve energy, waste materials and other applications of Chemistry to national problems.

Dr. Fisher's outside activities revolve around his family. He likes to be involved in youth activities such as baseball and the like. He also enjoys reading in his spare time.

Dr. Fisher likes the students at CJC very much. He says they are friendly and very open and in general, have a mature attitude toward his classes. He has a good standing with the faculty and administration and enjoys working with each one of them.

In conclusion, Dr. Fisher is one of the best professors here at Clayton. His goal is to make this college the best two year institution he can. Aside from his expert teaching ability, he has a bit of comedy integrated with each class he teaches. After all, how many instructors wear their masks to class on Halloween?

AAUP AND GAE FILE SUITS FOR RAISES

BY Paul Hinson and Marty Phelps

As a result of the legislature's cutback in allocations for faculty pay raises, The American Association of University Professors (AAUP) and the Georgia Association of Educators (GAE) filed state and federal suits for reinstatement of pay raises on the grounds of breach of contract. Although these two organizations filed separate actions, they were combined by the court.

The legal actions were based on the fact that contracts with the inclusion of pay raises had already been issued, signed and returned.

A three judge federal panel consisting of U.S. District Judges Charles A. Moye, Jr. and James C. Hill, and 5th circuit Court of Appeals Judge Lewis R. Morgan, delayed a decision feeling the case should be tried first by a state court.

On Tuesday, October 28, Fulton County Superior Court Judge Charles A. Wofford said the Georgia General Assembly unconstitutionally abolished University System employee pay raises and that he would rule in favor of the organizations representing college professors and teachers who filed the suit against the state.

Governor George Busbee was in Taiwan at this time. His executive assistant, Norman Underwood, said the state would appeal the decision and "no injunctive relief has been ordered by the Court and no budgetary actions of the State will be modified, pending a final determination of the issues by the Georgia Supreme Court".

Lawyers of the AAUP and GAE feel that Wofford's decision will influence future decisions, but this remains to be seen.

If the court rules in favor of the educators they will not only receive their raises but will also be able to collect back pay due them since September.

GAE-AAUP attorney Theodore Frankel said, "If we win in state court, they will get all the pay to which they are entitled-but if it goes back to federal court, there is some question about it". This reflects from the fact that the federal court cannot order the state to give back pay, but the State Court can make this ruling.

Rep Joe Frank Harris argues that the legislature really doesn't have any money to take from other areas. "You could have some receiving salary increases and others losing their jobs", Harris said.

Attorney Theodore Frankel's rebuttal to this was, "If they fire anybody to make up the raises, then we'll be back in court pronto".

The public seems to resent the court action being taken by the professors and make this evident in several editorials in local newspapers.

At this point, educators at Clayton Junior College are not taking any action.

Although they may agree there is a breach of contract involved, some feel that circumstances may prohibit the reinstatement of raises, those circumstances involving the alleged degree of the state's financial crisis being so great to justify the breach of contract.

President Downs: "If a person is not able to perform in accordance with his contract then there comes a point when you have to acknowledge that this is an imperfection of the human being. There are circumstances that inhibit people from living up to their good intentions, and this is acceptable in our society, that when there are extenuating circumstances it is agreed by all parties that you can't live up to your contract."

When asked, however, whether he was against the recent suits brought against the state, he said, "I really have no feeling one way or the other on that, though I do feel that if an individual thinks he has been treated unfairly, I think it is his right and responsibility to try to correct that. I do have the feeling that the citizens of this state felt the legislature did a reasonably good job."

According to President Downs, "the anticipation at this point, the anxiety is what will happen come January, whether it will be necessary to make further cuts in state operations."

William F. Fisher, CJC chemistry professor (not actually connected with the AAUP, but a vehicle for distribution of AAUP materials) said, "All that anybody can do is sit and wait until the courts make their ruling and then of course the Board of Regents and the state will have to decide what they're going to do according to the ruling".

There is a great deal of disappointment felt by faculty members, but they feel that, being professionals, they should not attempt any action until a decision is reached.

Very little optimism was expressed when Mr. Fisher said, "probably if we end up winning this court suit, we'll end up getting no raises next year because of the people we upset by it. So I don't know if you really win at all".

On November 18 the Georgia Supreme Court heard the State's appeal to the case. A decision is expected before January 1, 1976.

Rotary Scholarships Awarded to CJC Students

Public Information

Five Clayton Junior College students have been named as recipients of Rotary scholarships, according to Larry M. Patterson, Director of Financial Aid and Placement at the college. Funds for the scholarship are made possible through an annual gift from the Rotary Club of Atlanta Airport.

Recipients of 1975-76 awards include Nancy I. Kelley of Griffin, Michael E. Smith of College Park, Linda C. Sweeton of Jonesboro, E. Glenn Turner of Forest Park, and Paul T. Umphress of Jonesboro.

Members of the college faculty and the Airport Rotary Club honored the five scholarship winners on two occasions recently, first at the college and then at a meeting of the Rotarians. Club president John Smith and Community Service director Dan Wright visited the college for the dinner meeting there, and college president Dr. Harry S. Downs joined Mr. Patterson and the students in their meeting with Rotary Club members.

Ms. Kelley, daughter of Mrs. Ione W. Kelley of 927 Hamilton Blvd. in Griffin, graduated from Griffin High School. She has completed 48 quarter credit hours of work at Clayton Junior College, majoring in Criminal Justice, and is carrying a 3.5 grade point average. She is a member of the Phi Theta Kappa honor society.

Smith, a graduate of Sylvan Hills High School in Atlanta, lives with his wife Carol Ann at 5724 Riverdale Road in College Park. Majoring in English, he has completed 50 quarter credit hours with a 3.2 grade point average, and is a member of the Veterans Club at the college.

Ms. Sweeton, a graduate of Lake City High School in Lake City, Tennessee, lives with her husband and son at 6441 Ardmoor Drive in Jonesboro. A member of Phi Theta Kappa and a pre-pharmacy major, she has completed 60 quarter credit hours at the college and posted a 3.8 grade point average.

Turner, son of Mrs. Louise Turner, 4265 Oak Circle in Forest Park, is carrying a perfect 4.0 grade point average at the college. The recipient of a Scholarship Achievement Award from the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc., he is vice president of Phi Theta Kappa. A biology major, Turner has completed 62 quarter credit hours at the college.

Umphress, currently employed by the Atlanta Police Department, is a Criminal Justice major at the college. A graduate of Hapeville High School, he and his wife and daughter live at 2879 Botany Drive in Jonesboro. Carrying a 3.5 grade point average through 40 quarter credit hours of work at the college, Umphress is a former captain with the U.S. Army, Airborne and Special Forces divisions, and received the Purple Heart and Bronze Star.

In recent years, the Airport Rotary Club has made an annual $1,200 gift to Clayton Junior College, designed to provide four scholarships for deserving students. Five scholarships were awarded this year by utilizing leftover money in the fund along with the annual contribution.

CJC Offers New Legal Secretarial Program

Public Information

A new "Legal Secretarial Program" is being offered at Clayton Junior College as an option under the existing "Secretarial Studies Program," according to Ms. Martha F. Oates, Assistant Professor and Coordinator of secretarial studies at the college.

The new option was designed to provide a program of study for persons interested in a career as a legal secretary. The curriculum provides for general education courses as well as for specialized training in modern office practices.

Similar to the Secretarial Studies Program, the Legal Secretarial option is designed to qualify a student for immediate employment after two years of study. Including these two programs, the college offers 14 two-year career programs, each designed to meet a specific need within the south Atlanta metropolitan area.

"The majority of the courses in the new program are either now, or in the process of being individualized," Ms. Oates said, explaining that students may enter the program at the start of any of the four quarters of the year. "Many courses in the program," she added, "are offered each quarter, or at least twice each year."

An advisory committee, including several area professionals in legal secretarial work, was formed to assist the college in the development of the legal secretarial program. Mrs. Jetta Bolander, now an Assistant Comptroller at the college and an instructor in secretarial studies last year, designed the program.

Students interested in Secretarial Studies, or its optional program, should contact a member of the faculty (phone 363-7596), or the Office of Admissions and Records (363-7540).

Salary Increases Refused by Legislature

By Paul Hinson and Marty Phelps

This past June Gov. Busbee, faced with a sluggish economy, called a special emergency session of the Georgia legislature for the purpose of cutting back the state budget to avoid a major deficit.

It was decided that the Board of Regents along with the Department of Human Resources would bear the bulk of the financial burden.

The Board of Regents then announced that due to these state cutbacks, it was mandatory that the previously announced pay raises, averaging 5%, be cut with the University System of Georgia.

The pay raises were discussed at a faculty meeting at CJC, with all employees in a supervisory position on campus attending.

Many people feel that the action taken was the only way out for the Board, even though many of these same people feel that the highest priority is basically good faculty members.

President Harry S. Downs of Clayton Junior College, when asked in a recent Bent Tree interview if there was any priority considered in the budget of a college replied that "the highest priority for a teaching institution is the faculty and instructional program".

"I hoped that they (Bd. of Regents) would find some way to cut the budget acknowledging that it had to be cut without reducing salaries or reducing the operating funds. In addition to our salaries, we had to cut our operating budget by about 2.4%, so that, over the long run, tends to decrease the quality of the instructional program."

President Downs went on to say, "the University System employees, in my opinion, have never been well enough paid. We have lost some of our good employees because of the salary cut and if things don't improve we will lose more of them."

One of the basic quarrels of many faculty members was that there possible could have been other areas cut, instead of pay raises, especially since the faculty pay raise cutback represented only about 3% of the total University System budget. When asked whether he thought that other areas could have been cut,

Dr. Downs replied, "that question has been raised and I don't think there is any question about it -- sure. I think that, under the right circumstances, could have happened."

He went on to say, however, that the Board of Regents, over the years, has assumed a policy of working in cooperation with the legislature. "The legislature in their session of early June and July withdrew their appropriation of funds that they had scheduled for salary increases, so the intent of the legislature was clear and I think that the Board felt like they had some obligation to follow that intent", added Downs.

Additional support for the professors comes from the fact that many public school employees, despite controversy, received their annual pay increases while the University System employees did not and raises for University System employees must be specifically allocated through the legislature.

Another important issue, sometimes overlooked, is that the pay raises were awarded to incoming faculty new to the University System, even though they hold a lower status than established professors. The reason for this, according to Mr. Harry Murphy, Director of Public Information for the Board of Regents, was to prevent new employees from becoming directly involved in the law suits that followed the revocation of pay raises.

Some faculty members have expressed that the building funds of the University System could have been reduced, making it unnecessary to cut pay raises.

Again, quoting President Downs, "This may have been an alternative if the money had been there, but all building funds were frozen by the governor prior to the legislative session", so this couldn't have even come into consideration.

The time of announcement of revocation of pay raises also angered many faculty members, that time being after many of the teaching contracts had already been signed, with the pay raise included in their contracts. This applies to all professors at Clayton Junior College.

ALBUM REVIEWS

by: Jeff Cochran

Darryl Rhodes: at the Music Hall

The man suited in what appeared to be Colony Square casual asked the boy standing by door 6 of The Music Hall's performing room what group was leaving the stage. "Oh, that's Darryl Rhoades and his band. Rhoades is the most perverse, bizarre and weirdest performer I've ever seen. Personally I don't care for him but it looks as if most of the people here tonight really like him." Darryl Rhoades would not be upset by those remarks. In fact, negative reaction is better than none at all, according to Rhoades. "I'd rather somebody get mad at what I'm doing on stage than just look at me with a dumb expression, unaware of what's going on altogether," Darryl says when reflecting on criticism. But most opinions differ from the boy at door 6 that night. Instead Darryl Rhoades and The Hahavishnu Orchestra are now considered to be the most inventive and creative group to come out of Atlanta.

For those unaware, Darryl Rhoades for several years played drums for bands throughout the Atlanta area specializing in your Steak And Ale Three Dog Night medleys. Tired of such and wanting to express his feelings through a barrage of grotesque approaches, he formed a band and began work on his unique brand of rock theater. Fortunate enough to find a group of competent musicians, vocalists, and dancers understanding and good natured enough to attempt his goals, things have happened rather fast for Darryl Rhoades. The biggest break yet was the November 20 date at The Great Southeast Music Hall as he and the Hahavishnu opened the evening for another musician-satirist, Martin Mull.

The satire of Mull's is not as vicious and no-holds-barred as that of Rhoades' so playing before what seemed to be a straight suburban crowd, Rhoades and his group were sure to shock. After all, who else does an abortion song entitled "Coat Hanger" or does a spoof on suicide set to soul music? For Rhoades, nothing is too sacred to be made fun of. Religion, social attitudes, sexual roles, fads, contemporary music and whatever else he may think of come under attack without mercy. It isn't that Darryl is trying to offend or hurt anyone. No, his purpose is to show how the world and its sense of values are so warped. Not a crusader, just an individual who recognizes the shortcomings of society and a penchant to laugh at them at the same time.

Strangely enough those most offended by Rhoades are those who are supposedly more open minded and (shall I say it?) liberated. One Atlanta writer felt Darryl's race songs, "Yipes, Here Come The Negroes" and "I Wish They All Would Leave Alabama" were in poor taste. Interested, I sought out a young black man attending one of Darryl's shows earlier in the fall and asked how he felt about the racial pokes. "Oh, it's alright," the man replied. "He's just making fun of the bigots showing how stupid they are." Everyone should pick it up so easily.

To say the least, the appearances by Darryl Rhoades and The Hahavishnu Orchestra were quite a success. Martin Mull had many kind things to say for Rhoades as did Alex Cooley (new owner of The Music Hall), who promised to book him again. The performances were first rate with the musicians very tight, the vocalists continuing to deserve their featured portions of the show, and yes, Darryl was at his best also. Where it all will go from here is difficult to say now but the group continues to impress. The first time you see them you will laugh till your side hurts and with repeated viewing, you will understand and appreciate their task. Gathering from all this one realizes Darryl Rhoades and The Hahavishnu Orchestra will become a very popular and important band.

SPORTS: CJC INTRAMURALS

by Lock Laughridge

Clockwise: Mark Gomez takes the cake winning first place in the men's cross country. Tink Cooper contemplates her victory in the women's individual race. Dr. Harvill points the way for these hopeful cross country runners.

Cross Country Cake Race

Debbie Cooper, Debbie Bridges, and you guessed it, Debbie Brown. Congrats to the individual winners, the team winners, and all those who competed.

The Annual Clayton Junior College Cross Country Cake Race was held last Wednesday at noon. The large turnout was a welcomed sight to the Intramural Staff with much gratitude going to David Cooper and Dr. Harvill.

A big cake was awarded to Mark Gomez for being the men's first place individual winner. Tink Cooper also took the cake for being the women's first place winner.

In team finishing, the Vandals took first place. Team members were: Wendelle Turner, Mary Anne Vogtner, Doug Walker, and Kenny Weigel. The Tribunes and Knights tied for second place honors. First the Tribunes: Mike Alred, Joey Alverson, Bill Comine, and Michel Darison. The Knights included Noreen Miller, John Patterson, Andy Pearson, and David Robertson.

The only division to have enough to make up a girl's team was the Tribunes, who also captured the female team Crown. These girls were: Tink Cooper,

FLAG FOOTBALL: FINAL WEEKS

November the ninth was to be the last of the regular season games for Flag Football '75, but what it turned out to be was a couple of no-show games. The schedule listed the Tribunes II against the Huns, but neither had enough to contest the other so a loss was slapped on both. In the second game, Tribunes I were to meet the Vandals. The Vandals failed to show and the Tribunes I received the forfeit and the win.

With all these forfeits the final Team Standings looked like this: The Huns, having a domineering season, finished first. Following the Huns came the Tribunes I, the Tribunes II, the Vandals and the Knights.

In the line up for the Flag Football Championship, the Huns took on the last-place Vandals and defeated them. The second round play saw the Tribunes II defeat the Tribunes I. In the end, and for the championship, the Huns (as I predicted) lashed the Tribunes II.

Tennis Doubles Tournament

A Belated Story:

As you well know, the Tennis Doubles were held October 26. Well, this sports writer failed, without an excuse, to report the winners and losers, so here are the facts!

In the men's finals, Ron Baily and Kelly Baker "set" back John Buck and brother Danny Buck, to capture the championship.

There were no female participants, so there were no winners or losers.

In the team finishings, the Tribunes took the winner's chair as the Huns trailed in second place.

To those who competed in the tournament, it's you to forgive for the delayed article and me to forget or to have forgotten! Sorry!!!
