CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE

Jernigan to Become President

O'LEARY RESIGNS

by Art Rogers

Throughout the course of three quarters, President O'Leary accomplished many things. Among the more recent accomplishments were the suggestion boxes and the student lounge improvements.

After a long battle with the administration, O'Leary just recently obtained a clearance on the suggestion boxes. This has been one of her main goals ever since she took office last spring.

The student lounge improvements are being sought out presently and should come soon in the area of (1) a listening area set up in the cafeteria, (2) new furniture for the lounge areas, and (3) more games for the lounge area in the student center.

O'Leary's administration is also credited with improving the number of students involved in SGA over last year's participation.

Many other proposals are presently being worked on. They include the addition of left handed desks, possible addition of lights on the streets leading into the institution and the purchase and erection of an antennae to improve the reception of the TV lounge.

When asked what were some of her main goals for this year O'Leary replied, "I have to admit what were some of my goals were not accomplished but I think that this has been the best SGA that I have seen in the past few years. We have had more student input, we have had just about all openings on all the committees filled, and a lot more students have been getting a lot more aggressive."

O'Leary also recalled SGA's success in the Marathon Dance and the fact that student involvement is up over last year.

"I think that the situation around here has grown tremendously and that we're very involved. The students around here have been terrific."

When questioned about Vice President James Jernigan moving up to fill the vacancy, O'Leary replied, "I think that James has got a lot to learn. I had to learn the hard way because nobody taught me and he's going to have to do the same."

O'Leary was also highly respectful toward the administration. "The Administration are our best friends. They have been through this before and they know what to expect and what to do. I couldn't have made it without Dean Bolander and some other people. They may always seem against us but they have a lot of good ideas and a lot of good suggestions."

President O'Leary's resignation becomes effective December 31, 1977. After filling the office of the Presidency, Jernigan will have to meet with the senators in order to select a new Vice President.

O'Leary's Accomplishments

SGA President Jenny O'Leary resigned from office today effective at the end of December. She cited reasons for the resignation due to the fact that she will be transferring to Valdosta State College.

In an interview with Ms. O'Leary she commented, "The main reason that I'm transferring is because I'm going to finish up with a major in criminal justice and a minor in business administration at Valdosta State College." She went on to add that, "I like Clayton a lot and I like the administration but you just have to keep moving on if you want to get anywhere."

Ms. O'Leary took over the office of President last spring quarter after winning the election. She has two quarters left in her present term of office. Vice President James Jernigan will fill the vacancy created by O'Leary's resignation. This is normal procedure as stated in the constitution of the school.

CLUB FOCUS

Phi Beta Lambda is an organization for Business majors or anyone taking at least one business class. They meet on the first and third Wednesday of every month at noon in room D-112.

On the first meeting they discuss the business and in the second meeting they have a speaker. This past Wednesday, Kenneth Hamilton from Southern Bell spoke on the topic, "Let's Hear it for Free Enterprise."

Phi Beta Lambda has many activities planned for this year. On December 13th, they will have a Christmas party and PBL week begins on February 12.

Phi Beta Lambda also enters competition on typing and shorthand. Participants who win are able to attend the State Convention in July, free of charges.

Thirty-eight outstanding students from the Clayton Junior College service area are currently attending the Morrow institution on scholarships awarded by the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc.

The talented students, graduates from area high schools, each received a two-year, full-tuition scholarship in the amount of $684. Of the 38 students currently enrolled in Fall Quarter classes, 21 are beginning freshmen at the two-year institution near Morrow while the remaining 17 are recipients of awards the year before and currently are in their second year of study.

The non-profit corporation, chartered in September of 1974, was established primarily to assist and support Clayton Junior College in its "pursuit of excellence" in programs and services, and to assist and encourage citizens of our community in their pursuit of an education.

Since its founding, the Foundation's Board of Trustees has supported a program of work spotlighted on student scholarships.

Two scholarship programs have been established by the Foundation: one for the highest ranking students from area high schools who elect to attend Clayton Junior College, and the other for talented students in selected academic fields. "Foundation Merit Scholarships" recognize and reward outstanding high school students for their record of academic achievement, and this year's awards were available to the highest ranking 1977 graduates of 17 area high schools. "Talent Scholarships" were awarded to outstanding students in the fields of business, art, forestry, physics, music, pre-medicine, and teacher assistant.

1977 "Foundation Merit" recipients include:

--Forest Park High School: Mary Elizabeth Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Henderson, 4758 Ruby Land, Forest Park.

--Jonesboro High School: Martha Faye Henley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Henley, 7379 Fielder Road, Jonesboro.

--Morrow High School: Randy Lee Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Scott, 1541 Greenwillow Drive, Conley.

--Henry County High School: Donna Carlisle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Carlisle, 32 Brown Avenue, McDonough.

--Palmetto High School: Cherry Sue Pulliam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Pulliam, Route 2, Newnan.

Katrina Mae Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Thompson of Route 2, Fayetteville, received the award from Fayette County High School and enrolled during the recently-completed Summer Quarter. Although not enrolled during the Fall Quarter, she plans to return during the Winter Quarter.

Brenda Jean Howse received the Briarwood High School award, withdrew from Fall Quarter classes, but plans to return. Tammy Shepherd received the North Clayton Senior High award and Scott Craig Larson the Lakeshore High School award, but each enrolled at other institutions. No awards were made at College Park High School and Headland High School where students in the top five per cent of their graduating class were eligible.

1977 "Foundation Talent" recipients include:

--Andrea M. Baird, an undecided major, graduate of Jonesboro High School, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Baird, 6709 Brookwood Circle, Jonesboro.

In addition to its scholarship program, the Foundation also supports an "honors day program" at the college, recognizing and rewarding students who establish records of outstanding achievement at the college. And, in recognition of the importance of quality leadership in a strong academic atmosphere, the Foundation also supports an awards program honoring faculty and staff members.

The Board of Trustees also has established a growing endowment fund, earnings from which will be utilized during the years ahead.

All programs supported by the Foundation are totally funded by contributions, and all contributions to the non-profit organization are tax deductible.

Rice To Release Book

by Julia Youngblood

Progressive Cities a book written by Dr. Bradley R. Rice, Clayton Junior College Associate Professor of History, will be released, nationally, by the University of Texas Press in December.

According to Dr. Rice, "It is a revised and reorganized version of my doctoral dissertation." The book is a historical look at the origin, spread, and decline of the Commission Plan form of government in which elected commissioners have their own particular jobs, (e.g. Commissioner of Utilities or Commissioner of Revenue, etc.) and yet all the commissioners work together to establish city policy.

This system was conceived, in Galveston, Texas, as an emergency effort to get the city back on its feet following a hurricane in 1901. The plan enjoyed popularity, throughout the country, until 1920, when the city manager plan became more widely utilized.

Professor Bruce M. Stave, editor of the Journal of Urban History, commented that Dr. Rice's book is "a sound piece of work which should make a useful and worthwhile contribution to the existing scholarship on urban reform and should appeal to an audience which cuts across disciplines: history, political, science, urban studies and urban planning."

Dr. Rice, who has published articles and book reviews prior to this more recent effort, received his Ph.D. in History from the University of Texas at Austin. He taught at the University of Denver for one year as a visiting Assistant Professor before coming to Clayton Junior College. He has been at the Morrow institution for almost two years teaching State and Local Government, Constitutional Studies, and Recent U.S. History.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

O'LEARY BIDS FAREWELL

Dear Editor:

Reference the article "Just A Word . . .", Issue 3, Dated November 2, 1977.

The tone of the article disturbed me somewhat, but I must admit that I doubt if I would have responded had not a personal experience prompted me. Last week, I encountered difficulty in starting my car (it turned out to be an alternator failure). One of our Public Safety representatives was kind enough to offer assistance; and by means of a jump, I was off to the repair shop (under my own power and not in tow). In view of the circumstances, I felt a response to Mr. Rogers' article was necessary.

Let me preface my reply by saying that I have been a student at CJC since the Summer Quarter of 1975 and I have yet to receive a parking (or any other) citation. My wife has also attended CJC for the past four quarters without managing to obtain any tickets either.

I would like to address the questions raised in the article in the sequence in which they are posed:

1) The procedure for obtaining a temporary permit is quite simple - the receptionist in the Administration Building is very accomodating when presented problems of this nature.

2) In my opinion, the purpose of issuing parking permits is quite obvious and hardly deserves comment; but for Mr. Rogers' edification, it protects the limited amount of parking spaces available for authorized users. Admittedly there is a scarcity of parking places this Quarter, but attitudes such as Mr. Rogers' only aggravates the problem.

3) It has been my experience that the Administration has always made prior parking provisions for the participants of special events (SAT Tests, seminars, etc.), and there is also a section set aside for visitors at the Administration Building; so I doubt that our visitors have been unduly harassed.

4) The temporary parking areas are well-defined, and appear to be adequate. Should they, in fact, not be; we students have the means to correct it by utilizing the Student Government Association. I don't think a public harangue of the people who have to enforce the Administration's rules is the answer. I would also think that by the time a person has received more than one ticket for a particular offense, he would "get the message."

5) Mr. Rogers' comment about the ticket that he received when he parked along the curb (outside of the designated temporary area) "around Three o'clock and there were not many cars on the campus anyway" really puzzles me. One can only wonder why he did not make use of a proper parking space under the circumstances described.

Sometimes it is difficult to keep things in the proper perspective; but, even with the difficult parking situation that we have this Quarter, we are so much more fortunate than the students at Georgia State (for example). I would also like to reiterate that through the SGA we have the means to approach the Administration with real problems. I guess that I just don't feel that, under the circumstances, The Bent Tree is the proper forum to air personal dissatisfaction with a Department that provides each and every one of us (student, faculty, and staff alike) an invaluable service.

Thank you for this opportunity to express my viewpoint.

Very truly yours,
Walter E. Doll, Jr.

The following is the context of President O'Leary's Farewell Address to the students.

"I was sitting down one day and it all came to me . . . that I would be leaving. I realize that the biggest thing that I have against the student body sometimes is that I see a lot of students gripe and then they don't go out and do anything about it. Then there are some who gripe and they go out and fight their way through it and find a solution to it. And these are the students that always make the campus a little bit easier to live with. The last message that I would give to students is to take risks and don't be afraid what's going to happen. Without you taking risks you never know whether or not your going to make it. You never know if you are going to fail. And many times I've made a lot of mistakes this past quarter but I've learned a lot. I've gotten to the point where I don't mind making mistakes and I don't mind failure because I know in the long run that I'm going to learn something from it. And I feel that it's going to do me better and those around me are going to be better off for it.

I would like to see more student involvement. I recall one time that we were handing out these sheets for a questionnaire about the TV lounge and the game room. And one of them asked what would you like to see improved about the game room and the reply was "I've never heard of such foolishness." It really got me mad to think that a student would think that way. Then it sorta upset me to realize that he's gonna learn in here but its going to be all from books. He's going to be a very narrow person for doing that. I think that fifty percent of your learning comes from books and fifty percent is done with people.

I have learned alot from this place and some of it was from books but most of it was from the people that I've worked with. I've learned how to get along and how to be a better leader. I know how to present myself in an argument and how to present my side. A lot of students really miss this and I really don't know why. They don't understand that being involved is just as important as your classes.

In closing I would just like to say to all the students to take a risk; get involved. You may really enjoy what you're doing. There are so many ways here at Clayton Junior to get involved and if they want a way, they can find it. And if it's not there, then we can make one for them.

Dear Editor,

The fact that Fulton County Solicitor, Henson McCauliffe is on a crusade is common knowledge to Metro area residents who are news wise and knowledgable in events of importance. The implications of a public official thrusting his attitudes, ideals and morals upon the public that he "serves" are not as frightening on a one-county basis as they are on a state or national level. The minor inconveniences that Fulton County residents are feeling as a result of McCauliffe's crusade are nothing compared to the real intellectual repression that America could one day feel if the decisions of what is right and wrong are not made soon, and made in the Supreme Court (as will be the case of Larry Flint, if his case goes that far) where the guidelines will stand for all municipal and state governnents to see.

The significance of the decision, I predict, will be that the government has no right to tell adults how they will use their minds.

Yes, Henson McCauliffe may be a crusader but there is much good to be gained from the results of his crusade despite its repressiveness.

Alan W. Farriba

Dear Editor:

It has come to our attention (names withheld) that in the course of human events, such as walking down the hall outside of the cafeteria that the hall is transformed into a delightful listening experience. It is as though one is actually transported from the everyday pressures of college life into a musical fantasy-land of complete wholeness with oneself. This experience brought to mind the following argument:

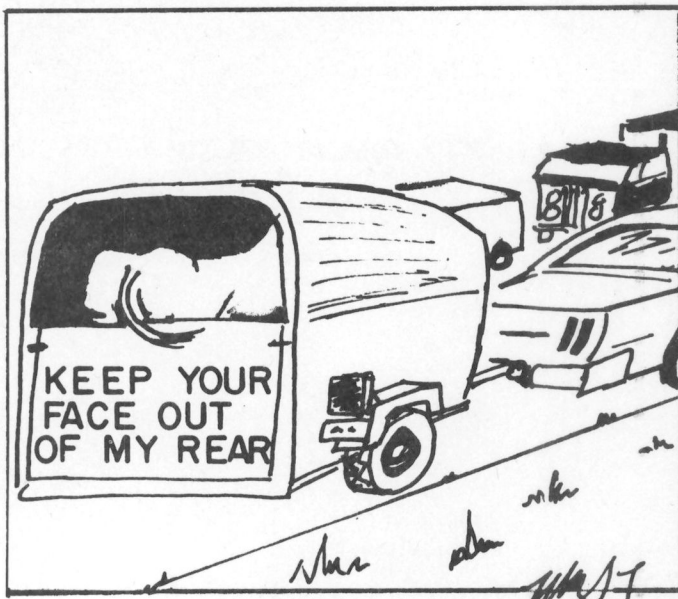

if there are speakers
then there will be music

the cafeteria has speakers therefore, there is music.

Obviously, this is an invalid argument, the true premises result in a false conclusion. But alas, all this is saying is that there is no music in the cafeteria. Therefore, we make the following proposals:

1. By taking wires (a) from speakers (b) and connecting to sound unit (c) which is rumored to be somewhere in the student lounge, there would also be the same musical ecstasy as in the cafeteria.

2. There is no second proposal.

We the party two concerned students hereby give the honored SGA the right to reproduce (orally or in writing) the said suggestion and/or proposal in its entirety.

General Entertainment Announces Upcoming Movies

by Gigi Helton

The General Entertainment Committee held a meeting on November 14 to discuss the upcoming Christmas Ball, potential movies for the Spring quarter, and the Winter quarter concert.

The Committee, called to order by chairman James Jernigan, decided that the Christmas Ball would be held at the Top of the Mart with the Boston group SNOW performing. The Ball will be on December 8 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Since this is the day after exams everyone has an equal opportunity to attend.

The Ball will be a semi-formal affair in which Clayton Junior College students can bring a (one) guest either another student of CJC or an outsider. There will be no charge for tickets and free food will be served along with punch. Sorry folks no booze allowed.

Tickets for the Ball will be available beginning November 28 in the Dean of Students office. They will also be available at night for all night students in G-110. Come to the Ball and help break last years attendance of 725 and make the CJC Christmas Ball the event of the year.

The General Entertainment Committee also discussed potential movies for the Spring quarter. Final decisions for that quarter have not been reached as of yet but the possible ones are great. Winter quarter movies are set and they include: "Network," "Dog Day Afternoon," "All the Presidents Men," "The Pink Panther Strikes Again" and "Benji."

The last agenda topic discussed by the GE was the plans for the Winter quarter concert. Plans for this concert are still in the developmental stages but they seem to be promising.

Members of the General Entertainment Committee include Mr. Rob Taylor, Mr. William Gore, James Jernigan, Gary Madray and Justin Bruce.

CJC Women Run

in Race

by Gary Madray

Recently, CJC was well represented in a sporting event off campus. On November 5, a little over 400 females, including two CJC students, participated in the "Bonnie Bell Mini Marathon" Race.

Held in Atlanta, the race started at Piedmont Park and proceeded for some 10,000 meters around the park. The "Bonnie Bell Mini Marathon" has two ladies from CJC in it. They were Cheryl Thorn and Betty Cash.

Cheryl is presently a student at CJC and running has become very much a part of her normal life. She enjoys running and views it as an accomplishment as well as a good way to keep in shape. She placed in the top 100 by taking 91st place with a 49:55 time in the 6.2 mile course.

Betty is presently a nurse at South Fulton Hospital and graduated from the CJC Nursing Program in June. The amazing thing about Betty is that she is over forty years old, has several children, and just loves running and staying in shape. She views running as a type of enjoyment and principal.

The former student (Betty) placed 200th with a time of approximately 53 minutes. She plans to run in the first Marathon in the country sponsored by Avon to be held here in Atlanta this coming March.

Both Betty and Cheryl ran previously in the Peachtree Road Race.

Cross Country Race Completes Fall Calendar

by Gary Madray

The final event on the CJC Intramural Sports Calendar for Fall, 1977, took place on Wednesday, November 16. This event was the enduring 1.5 mile Cross Country Race.

The race began beside the PE building and traveled around the various paths of the rugged CJC campus. It included climbing hills, running down slopes, running across fields, around lakes, and on the roads and sidewalks. It concluded at the PE building.

There was a good showing and a lot of excitement and enthusiasm built up around the race.

The Tribunes won the overall race receiving ten points with Freddie Coots leading the way. He completed the race with a 8:56 time.

Several girls entered the race and proved competitive. Melanie Day ran an excellent race with an 11:31 time and took 11th place out of a total of 26 contestants.

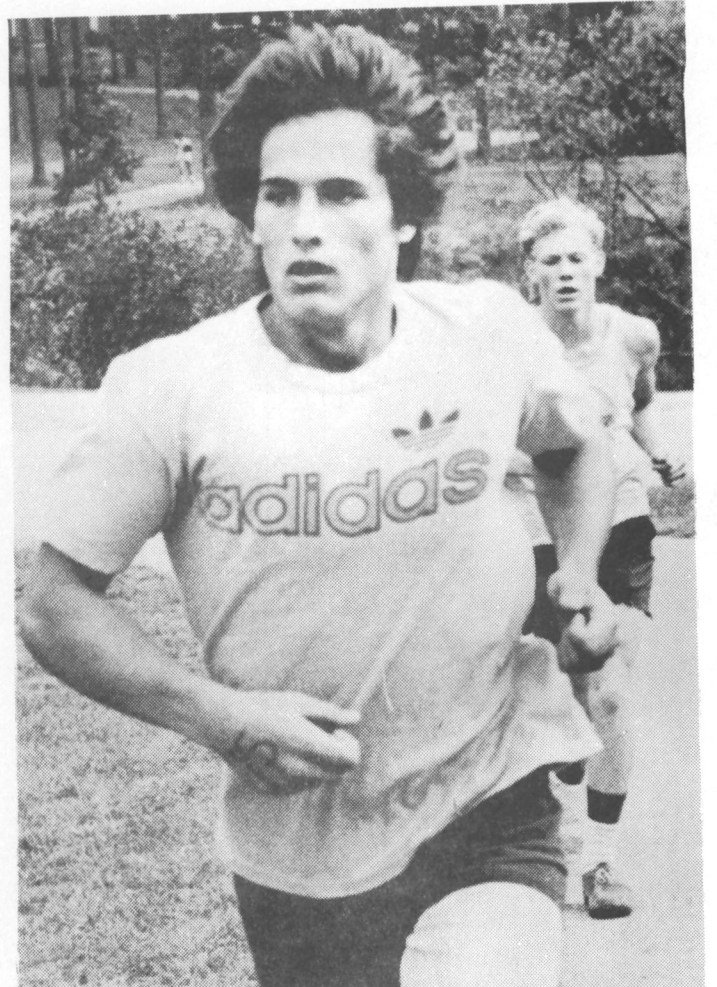

Several contestants were unable to finish the race as they found it to be very enduring. But all in all it turned out to be a very interesting day.

THE WINNERS! Freddie Coots (L) And Melanie Day

You can tell this was the beginning of the race.

Concentration was the #1 factor.

Recital To Be Presented

Movie Review

by Patricia Jeanes

Anyone who wants a good laugh should go to see "Kentucky Fried Movie." The movie has no plot. It is shown, not to be taken seriously, but to provide the audience with amusement and laughter.

While some parts are comical, they are embarrassing. Scenes have nudity, sex and too much cussing. The movie makes fun of things that are not.

All in all, the movie is for the enjoyment of the audience and as long as the audience takes it that way, they should enjoy it.

Concert

by Thomas Barry

Anyone who missed the Rod Stewart show at the Omni on November 20, has good reason to be disappointed because it was a fine concert.

"Air Supply," the back up band, had a good, balanced sound which all Music majors would appreciate. They performed many of their ballads, and seemed more like they were in a studio rather than a live performance.

Rod Stewart showed his immense stage experience by putting on a seemingly well organized show. During the hour and a half performance, Stewart did many of his new, as well as old, songs including; "Maggie May," "You Wear it Well," "Twisting the Night Away," the controversial, "Tonight's the Night," and his latest hit release, "You're In My Heart."

The band showed great talent which was pronounced by the Chuck Berry-style guitar riff work of "whoever that guy was on the Flying-V." Fine percussion and bass talent backed Rod up nicely. The good lighting work, added intensity to the show.

Although the concert was not a sell out, through the smoke-filled Omni one could see a massive amount of people having a real good time.

Rod Stewart was not the best concert of the year, but there surely hasn't been one better lately. (When are you coming Aerosmith?)

Coming soon are Kiss and Atlanta Rhythm Section. Tickets have still not gone on sale for either one.

CJC Band

Presents Concert

By Gigi Helton

The Clayton Junior College Band, under the direction of Bill Gore, instructor of Music here at CJC, presented their fall concert here recently.

With confidence, the Band presented their program which included the Manhattan Beach March by Sousa, Three Sketches for Winds by Clare Grundman, Toccata Marziale by Ralph Vaughan-Williams, Salvic March by Vaclav Nelhybel, Alleluia! Laudamus Te by Alfred Reed, Barnum and Bailey's Favorite by Karl King, Procession of Nobles by Nikolai Rimsky-Korsakov and selection from the Fantasticks as arranged by Jones-Schmidt.

The precision with which the band performed made the program interesting as well as entertaining.

The Foreign Film schedule has been announced for Winter and Spring Quarters. It will include:
 Jan 12-Blue Angel
 Feb 2-Alexander Nevsky
 Feb 9-Oedipus the King
 March 2-Forbidden Games
 April 4-Viridiana
 April 4-The Would-be Gentleman
 May 4-Winter Light
 May 25-Tristana
 The showings will both be in classes and in the evening.

Musicians NEEDED for "The King and I." Strings, French Horns especially wanted. Contact the music people at 363-7760.

RECORD REVIEW

by Randy Sims

The Rolling Stones current live release, Love You Live, will take some patient listening to enjoy. This album is an embarrassing one for the Stones.

Love You Live depicts the Stones as a has-been band who is struggling to stay on their superstar platform.

The album was recorded in Paris in 1976 with the exception of side three, which was recorded in Toronto earlier this year. The Paris sides for the album were so poorly recorded, they resemble the sound quality of a bootleg recording. Musically, the lead vocals are flat, the backing vocals are too loud, and the guitars seem to overlap and clash. The same fidelity of this recording could probably be obtained by a cassette recorder on the fifteenth row of the concert.

Side three, recorded in Toronto, is an improvement over the rest of the album. The guitars and vocals are somewhat balanced in volume. The sound recording quality is also a better example of a quality recording.

From the sound of things, the Rolling Stones should restrict themselves to studio produced albums or take a long rest before another Love You Live.

SGA Presents Study Break Film Festival

During final exams this week and next the SGA will present a series of cartoon programs. The Student Government Association is doing this in order to help decrease the pressure that may be on many students during final exams. Drop by D-112 on the mornings of December 2nd, 5th and 6th beginning at 10:00 a.m. and you can see The Pink Panther, go daffy with Daffy Duck, leave your worries behind with Goofy and be entertained by a variety of other cartoon characters. Grab a coke and join others in the same boat as you are. This may be your best exam break yet. See you in D-112.
