SGA Executive Election Set For April 21-22

The SGA executive positions election will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 21-22. The voting hours on April 21 will be from 10:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m., 5:30-6:15 p.m. and 7:45-8:15 p.m. Voting will take place in the lobby of the C building. The polls will be open at the AVMT breakroom from 10:50-11:20 a.m. on April 22. Voting will resume in the C-lobby that evening from 5:30-6:15 p.m. and again from 7:45-8:15 p.m.

All students registered for academic classes at CSC this quarter are eligible to cast a vote for any or all of the offices. Students voting must present a validated CSC student ID card to obtain a ballot. Below is information on each of the candidates:

Cindy Jones

Candidate For President

Hi, my name is Cindy Jones, and I am the current SGA President. In this past year, one of the main objectives has been to make the Student Government more visible. Students need to be aware that there is a student group available to voice their concerns to the administration at CSC. Because I have enjoyed being a representative of the student body, I wish to run for re-election.

The current SGA has begun many projects that I would like to see through. In order for change to take place, some continuity is needed in an organization.

The changes that have been initiated begin with an overall redirection in the spending of the activities fee. I would like to see this money spent on things that could benefit students everyday, for example, improving the student lounges, purchasing new copy machines, and increasing the safety in the parking lots.

Steve Byrd

Candidate for Vice President

I was born and raised in Riverdale where I attended Riverdale Elementary, Junior, and Senior High Schools. After graduation I moved to Jonesboro, where I have lived since. Of all the things I am involved in, my family is most important.

When I returned to school in the fall of 1991, I decided to hit the ground running. I immediately became involved in Student Government and with the International Awareness Club. I was elected President of the International Awareness Club after only a few weeks. While presiding over the International Awareness Club, we have sponsored many successful activities. Not only did we sponsor a needy international family over the Christmas holidays, we also sponsored activities during the week of LakerFest.

Through my hard work with the Student Government Association I have been chosen to serve Clayton State College in several different ways. In addition to being an active member of the Student Government Association, I also serve on the Lyceum, Student Services, and Judicial Committees. I have also become an active member of the Student Advisory Council to the Georgia Board of Regents.

My main goal as Vice-President will be to build a stronger communications network for the student body. Not only will this be achieved through service as Vice-President, but also through service as chairman of the Council of Clubs - which the Student Government Association Vice-President automatically serves as by virtue of the office - and through activities designed to encourage the student body to get involved in campus operations.

Debbie Golinski

Candidate for Secretary

Hi, my name is Debbie Golinski and I am running for the office of Secretary for the Clayton State Student Government Association. I am the current Secretary for Student Government and would like to continue in this position. Previous Student Government experience includes President, Vice President, and executive board member in junior high school and senior high school.

I feel that Clayton State College is full of potential which just needs the proper developing. I think I would make a good member of this team to enhance student activities and overall campus organization.

William A. (Bill) Durham Candidate for Treasurer

I enrolled in CSC Winter Quarter of 1991 to pursue an A.S. Degree in Mechanical Drafting and Design. I have been on the Dean's List four of the five quarters that I have been enrolled and have served the student body since October, 1991 as Technology Representative to the Student Government Association. I have also served on the Student Services and Lyceum Committees and took an active part in the Student Advisory Council to the Georgia Board of Regents during Winter Quarter of this year.

I am currently the President of the CSC Technical Education Association and involved with Leadership CSC. I feel that these qualifications will enable me to carry out the duties of the office of Treasurer in our SGA with competence and professionalism.

As an officer in the SGA, one of my projects will be voter registration in our student body. It is my belief that each of us can make a difference if we are willing to make the effort. I would like to encourage each of you to vote in our elections and thank you in advance for your support.

VIEWPOINT

Editorial: Happy... Passover?

by Melinda Zolowicz
Staff Writer

Happy Easter to the majority of you who celebrated the spring holiday last Sunday. Easter is a wonderful holiday with new spring dresses and colorful Easter eggs for the children to find. The day is filled with family and good friends and lots of laughter. The dinner table is set with the good china and silverware and the sweet smells from the kitchen beckon everyone together to begin the traditional Easter feast.

In fact, this does not sound so entirely different from the holiday that a minority of people celebrated on Saturday night. Only this holiday is called "Passover" and is a Jewish celebration. No, "Passover" does not stand for "Pass-over-the-bread-please," though food, and especially bread, plays a very big part in this holiday.

Passover is a joyous time that dates back to the Exodus of the Jews from bondage to the Egyptians. The term "Passover" derived from when "the plague passed over the home of the Jewish children, killing only those of the Egyptians" just as God had promised to Moses.

The night before the holiday begins, the Jewish home is cleansed of all "leavened" breads or things made of yeast. This is in tradition and respect to ancestors who were forced to flee Egypt and did not have the time to wait for their bread to rise, thus eating flat bread. We call this flat bread "Matzah."

On the first night of Pesach (pronounced pay-sock) or Passover, the family and close friends come together for a Seder dinner. Similar to the Easter feast, the Seder table is set with the nicest china and the aroma of mouth-watering dishes filters from the kitchen, bringing everyone to the table. At the Passover dinner there are several foods already placed at the table. As soon as everyone is seated, the "haggadah" begins. This is the story of how the Jews were freed from bondage. In the story there are many references to the foods at the table. As each symbol is mentioned, everyone samples their taste.

These foods consist of a roasted or baked egg, a roasted lamb bone, bitter herbs, lettuce and cucumbers, chopped apples and nuts, a dish of salt water, and most importantly, red wine. The egg represents the festival of sacrifice brought to the temple in ancient times, while the lamb bone refers to the sacrificial lamb to the temple. The bitter herbs stand for the bitter lives of the slaves, the vegetables reminds us of the spring festival, and the sweet taste of the apples and chopped nuts calls attention to the sweet taste of freedom and happiness. The dish of salt water is there to recall all of the tears that were shed while the Jews were in captivity and the wine is so we will never forget all of the blood that was shed.

When the meal is finished and everyone has eaten too much, the children wait impatiently for their fun to begin. Just as children can't wait to go in search of Easter eggs and chocolate, these children search for another treasure. It's called the "Afiqoman," better known as dessert, which is a piece of matzah. When a child has found the "Afiqoman" he is rewarded with a gift. To end the Passover Seder, a final glass of wine is drunk and an additional glass is poured and left for a very special guest. His name is "Elijah," the Prophet whose return to the world is said will "herald the Messiah's arrival." The front door is then unlocked or left open (depending upon what neighborhood you live in) to make sure that Elijah does not get locked out.

Regardless of which holiday you celebrated last weekend, I think that it is important to remember that joy and even the sorrow of the traditions that have remained through the hundreds and thousands of years of struggle and triumph. I have recently moved away from my family in California and for the first time have really come to understand what is so important about holidays such as Easter and Passover, and quite simply, it's all about love and family.

Disney Makes A "Beauty" Of A Film

By Lori Cohen
Staff Writer

The movie also has the highlight of the Academy Award-winning musical score written by Alan Menken.

General Entertainment presents Beauty and the Beast on Friday, May 1. The film will be shown on campus in room G-132 at 1:15, 8:30, 10:30 p.m., and in the Dining Hall at 7:30 p.m. This film is rated G.

The classic story of Beauty and the Beast is well told in the new animated film by Disney Productions. This film is undoubtedly one of the best movies to come out last year. It has all of the ingredients needed for the well-deserved Academy Award nomination it received for best picture. The laughter, the danger, the suspense, and the tears all add up to one of the greatest animated movies of all time. It is the only animated feature that has earned $100 million in its initial release.

The vocal performances by Paige O'Hara as "Belle" and Robby Benson as "The Beast" are outstanding. The voices along with the extraordinary animation let the characters come alive. The rest of the voices are made up of such famous names as Angela Lansbury, David Ogden Stiers, and Jerry Orbach.

As an adult, Disney films are not a must-see in my book, but this film touches on a lot of points that grown-ups will like. The animation goes away soon after the film starts, and begins to look and feel real. This reviewer recommends this movie to any audience. It is based on the original Beauty and the Beast and both young and old will delight in its production.

CAMPUS NEWS

Thompson Wins Local GOAL Award

Mr. Brian Thompson, an electronics major at CSC, will represent the College and the southern crescent region during a statewide competition in late May.

Thompson was named the local winner in Georgia Occupational Award for Leadership (GOAL) competition during the March 18 meeting of the Clayton County Rotary Club. He will compete against 31 other technical education program winners from Georgia on the state level. The other Clayton State finalists were Tony Carnell, an architectural drafting major, and Bill Durham, a mechanical drafting major.

The three finalists were nominated by their instructors: Mr. Dennis J. Bladine, Assistant Professor of Avionics, and Mr. Thomas C. Eddins, Associate Professor of Drafting and Design Technology. Eddins also serves as the local GOAL Program coordinator.

As the local winner, Thompson receives a three-day trip to Atlanta for the state judging and awards activities. First prize for the state-wide winner is a new car.

The GOAL program is in its 21st year of recognizing the state's most outstanding students in Georgia's technical colleges. GOAL activities around the state, the first of its kind in the nation, promote the image of technical training and emphasizes the dignity of work.

The GOAL awards program, sponsored statewide by the Georgia Department of Technical and Adult Education and the Business Council of Georgia, is sponsored locally by the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce and the Clayton County Rotary Club.

Tuition Increases Four Percent Starting This Summer

Tuition at Clayton State College and at Georgia's other public colleges and universities will increase four percent beginning with the Summer Quarter, following a decision by the University System's Board of Regents.

The increase, likely to be among the most modest tuition hikes in the Southeast, amounts to $17 per quarter for a full-time Georgia resident attending CSC.

"It is never a pleasant task for us to raise matriculation at our institutions," Dr. H. Dean Propst, University System Chancellor said of the increase, "but we are pleased that this increase is so modest."

The tuition increase is necessary, the Chancellor added, because of the rising cost of higher education. Georgia's university system experienced its sixth consecutive year of record-breaking enrollment increases this year with more than 191,000 students attending college during the Fall Quarter.

Tuition only covers a fourth of the costs associated with a college degree in the University System, with the remainder of the costs being funded by the state. This year's increase marks the fifth consecutive year tuition hikes have been held to 4 percent. This is significantly lower than the 21 percent increase in 1981.

Currently, a full-time student attending Clayton State pays $430 for matriculation plus a $15 student activity fee and an $18 athletic fee. Starting with the Summer Quarter, full-time residents (students taking 12 or more quarter credit hours) will pay $447 plus the same activity and athletic fees ($480 per quarter).

Durham Receives ATEA Technical "Student Of The Year" Award

Bill Durham, a sophomore drafting and design technology student at Clayton State College, was recently selected as the American Technical Education Association's (ATEA) "Outstanding Technical Student of the Year."

The Riverdale resident was named during ATEA's annual conference in Indianapolis, March 12-15. He was accompanied by his wife, Cora, and Tom Eddins, Associate Professor of Drafting and Design Technology at Clayton State.

"Everybody at the conference was a good student," said Durham of the other 11 finalists. "What made the difference was the package we put together and my investment here at the school and in the community."

Durham, 41, enrolled at Clayton State during Winter Quarter, 1991. A 1987 injury on the job at General Motors forced Durham to undergo back surgery twice during the next three years. Unable to (See Durham on page 7)

Volunteer Fair Set For April 30

Clayton State's Student Government Association is proud to sponsor the second annual Volunteer Fair. The Volunteer Fair will be held on April 30 from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. in C-lobby.

Represented at the Fair will be various community service organizations from Clayton County and the greater Atlanta area. Students will have the chance to discuss volunteer opportunities with the representatives of these organizations and to obtain literature describing these groups. Cindy Jones, SGA President, invites all to attend, adding that "it is a wonderful way to encourage students to become active in their community and to provide these organizations with much-needed help."

Organizations currently scheduled to attend include the Rainbow House, AID Atlanta, the American Cancer Society, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, TOWER, the USO, Clayton Clean and Beautiful, and the YWCA Transitional House. In addition, representatives from the Clayton

County Aging Program, the Department of Family and Children's Service, and Clayton Mental Health will be available to answer questions.

CSC To Participate In Voter Registration Project

Clayton State College, along with other schools in the University System of Georgia, will take part in a nationwide effort sponsored by the Vote America Foundation to increase voter participation among younger voters.

The SGA and the Clayton State Library, in conjunction with local election officials, will hold a "Vote About It" Voter Registration drive on April 21 and 22 to register students to vote. The drive will be held in C-lobby from 10:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m., 5:30-6:30 p.m., and 7:45-8:15 p.m. on April 21 and 5:30-6:30 p.m. and 7:45-8:15 p.m. on April 22.

Voting percentages by America's younger voters are embarrassingly low and have been declining for years. According to information from the U.S. Census Bureau, only 36.2% of eligible voters aged 18-24 participated in the most recent Presidential election.

The Vote America Foundation is a non-profit organization working with student groups at high schools and colleges across the nation to improve voter awareness and participation. For further information or to participate in CSC's voter awareness program, contact Cindy Jones at 961-3510.

HOT DOG!

It's Time For Another Family Night Dinner

That's right! General Entertainment will present a family night hot dog dinner on Friday, May 1 at 6:30 p.m. Tickets go on sale on April 20 and can be purchased in the Office of Student Services, room D-217. Prices are $1.50 for a one-dog platter and $2.50 for a two-dog platter. Each platter includes a canned soft drink, Grandma's cookies and your choice of potato chips, baked beans or potato salad.

FREE DENTAL HYGIENE SERVICES AVAILABLE

The CSC Dental Hygiene Department offers free services to students and the public. Services available are oral examinations, x-rays, teeth cleaning, and referral for other dental or medical treatment. Hours of operation are 9:00 a.m. - Noon, Monday through Friday, 2:00 - 5:00 p.m. on Monday through Thursday and 1:00-4:00 p.m. on Friday. Appointments may be made by calling 961-3441 or in person in Room D-103. The latest techniques of sterilization and infection control are used.

Persons who are interested in a rewarding health science career in Dental Hygiene should contact the Department of Dental Hygiene (961-3430) or the Office of Admissions and Records (961-3500).

Pianist Lucktenberg Presents "Battle Of The Grands"

Pianist George Lucktenberg will present a concert featuring two different grand pianos at 8:15 p.m. on Friday, April 24 in Spivey Hall. Students can get two free tickets by calling the Spivey Hall at 961-3683.

Lucktenberg plans an all-Viennese Romantic program that will illuminate the differences between his Bosendorfer grand piano built in 1878 and the nine-foot Spivey Hall Steinway built a decade ago.

The program will include music written during two different eras when Bosendorfers were built; Schubert lieder transcribed by Franz Liszt and piano solos of Chopin. Joining Lucktenberg for Brahms' "Trio for Waldhorn, Violin, and Piano, Op. 40" will be violinist Linda Sinanian and hornist Jeffrey Forden. Ms. Sinanian serves as adjunct faculty in music at CSC.

The 1878 Bosendorfer featured in the concert is the latest acquisition by Lucktenberg to his unique collection of antique and replica harpsichords, clavichords and early pianos.

An expert in historical keyboards, Dr. Lucktenberg is a music professor at Clayton State College where he serves a director for the Southeastern Historical Keyboard Center. Prior to joining the faculty at Clayton State College one year ago, Dr. Lucktenberg was on the faculties of Converse College in South Carolina and the Interlochen Arts Camp in Michigan.

Historian Presents Lecture on Contemporary India

On Thursday, April 30, Dr. V. Suryanarayan will present a lecture on "Traditional Hindu Culture in Contemporary India." Dr. Suryanarayan's presentation will take place in G-132 and will begin at 12:05 p.m. That evening, he will address the topic of "International Trade" in a 6:00 p.m. lecture, also located in G-132. Both of these Lyceum-sponsored presentations are open to all at no cost.

Dr. Suryanarayan is the director of the Center for South and Southeast Asian studies at the University of Madras in India. He has also served on the faculty of the Siddharth College of Arts and Sciences, Dhempe College of Arts and Sciences, Marathwada University, and served as the Head of the Department of History in the School of Social Sciences at North Eastern Hill University. In 1987, he served as a visiting professor in the Department of History at UCLA.

Dr. Suryanarayan is the author of Singapore - Path to Independence and has contributed chapters to numerous other books. He has also published more than three dozen articles in scholarly journals. He was awarded the Ph.D. in Southeast Asian Studies from the Indian School of International Studies in New Delhi. He earned a B.A. in economics and an M.A. in history from the University of Bombay.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Romero Concert Sold Out

Free Seats Are Still Available For April 30 Lecture/Demonstration

Renowned classical guitarist Pepe Romero is already a hit with Spivey Hall audiences and he has yet to play a note on campus. His May 3 concert is a "sell-out" according to Spivey Hall Director Sherryl Lucarelli. Mr. Romero will be doing a free lecture/demonstration on April 30 at 12:05 p.m. There should be adequate seating available for all students who want to attend this Spivey Hall event.

Mr. Romero, celebrated worldwide for his thrilling interpretations and flawless technique on the guitar, is constantly in demand for solo recitals and performances with orchestras. His contributions to the field of classical guitar have inspired a number of distinguished composers to write works specifically for him. At fifteen, he made his first recording.

Mr. Romero's discography presently contains more than fifty recordings for solo guitar, guitar with orchestra and chamber music for guitar. In addition, he has revived and premiered major works from the Classical and Early Romantic periods, as well as presenting contemporary pieces written specifically for him. Possessing a strong belief in helping future generations of guitarists, Mr. Romero is dedicated to passing along his knowledge of the instrument and has several students who are first-prize winners in international guitar competitions. He has been Professor of Guitar at the University of Southern California, the University of California at San Diego, and Southern Methodist University, and he now teaches at the University of San Diego.

Georgia Conservancy Senior Vice President Speaks On "Saving The Whales"

On April 23, Mr. Hans Neuhauser will present a slide lecture on "Endangered Species: Saving the Whales." This presentation will take place in G-132 at 12:05 p.m. It is the last presentation in the Lyceum series on "Survival of Species."

Mr. Neuhauser is Senior Vice President of the Georgia Conservancy, a non-profit environmental organization whose mission is to protect Georgia's environment and encourage responsible stewardship of vital natural resources. He has taught at the University of Georgia and at Middlebury College. A former curator of mammals at the Savannah Science Museum, he is a member of the Smithsonian Institution's National Marine Mammal Stranding Network. Mr. Neuhauser is Chairman of the National Marine Fisheries Service's National Recovery Team for the Endangered White Whale.

Mr. Neuhauser received his B.A. from Middlebury College and his M.S. from the University of Georgia. He has published nearly 20 scientific papers, most dealing with the systematics, distribution and ecology of both old and new world mammals. He is a member of several professional societies, including the Ecological Society of America, the Society of Marine Mammalogists and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Among his awards and honors are the 1976 American Motors Conservation Award and the 1980-81 Conservationist of the Year Award from the Georgia Wildlife Federation. In 1979, he was the recipient of the first U.S. Department of the Interior Outdoor Recreation Achievement Award.

White To Speak In Nursing Lecture Series

On April 23, Ms. Suzanne White will address the topic of "Caring, Commitment and Collaboration" at 10:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. lectures in room G-132. Her presentation is the last one in a three-part Lyceum lecture series which began last fall.

Ms. White is the Assistant Director of Nursing and the Director of the Department of Cardiovascular/Cardiology Nursing at the Emory University Hospital. In addition, she is an Assistant Professor at the Woodruff School of Nursing at Emory University. She served as President of the American Association of Critical-Care Nurses (AACN) in 1989-90.

Ms. White received her B.S.N. from Barry College and her M.N. from Emory University. She has published numerous articles in AACN News and other publications, is a Fellow of the American College of Critical Care Medicine, and was selected in 1986 as a member of Who's Who in American Nursing.

Weaver Presents Two Bass-Baritone Recitals In Spivey Hall This Week

Dr. Brent Weaver will be featured in two free bass-baritone vocal recitals in Spivey Hall this Thursday. He will perform at 12:05 p.m. and again at 8:15 p.m. While both concerts are free and open to the public, tickets are required for the evening performance. Call the Spivey Hall ticket office at 961-3683 to reserve tickets.

Dr. Brent Weaver, a composer and singer, coordinates the vocal and choral programs at Clayton State in addition to teaching music theory and humanities courses. Dr. Weaver received his B.A. from Goshen College and his M.M. and

D.M.A. from the University of Oregon. He has performed with the Atlanta Symphony Chorus under Robert Shaw, the Georgia State University Opera Workshop and the Oregon Bach Festival under Helmuth Rilling.

Among Dr. Weaver's compositions are works for chorus, orchestra, electronic music, chamber music and songs for voices and instruments. He is the composer of Aria da Capo, an opera which was premiered at Clayton State in November, 1990, and which will be presented again in late May, 1992.

Daughtry Is CSC's Renaissance Man

By Emmanuel Wahiwe
Staff Writer

"Drop! Cross! Get back on defense!" "This work's too busy. Explore the potential of negative space." "Oh, that's a viola tricolor hortensis." Any of these expressions might come from Thomas B. Daughtry, CSC Associate Professor of Art, who received his B.F.A. from the University of Alabama in 1967 and his M.A. from the same institution in 1968.

The art specialist who taught in Columbia Mississippi Public Schools for three years has been at CSC for 20 years, teaching students and teachers how to employ art techniques in teaching their various classes.

This Renaissance man specializes in drawing, painting, ceramics, sculpturing, video editing and photography. Married to Linda Daughtry with two boys aged 14 and 15, Tommy (as he is popularly called) has done a lot of community work and truly encourages art works at CSC. He is not just a teacher but also a professional artist. His interests and hobbies include hiking in the woods and fishing. He has been the faculty sponsor/coach of CSC's Soccer Club, which fielded indoor teams at the Fayetteville indoor center for two years. Now that soccer will be Clayton's newest intercollegiate sport, Mr. Daughtry (See Daughtry on page 7)

Attention All Student Actors

Auditions for the Fall, 1992 Clayton State Theater production of Sam Shephard's Pulitzer Prize-Winning Drama Buried Child will be held Thursday, April 30 in room D-212 from 2:00-4:00 p.m. The production, scheduled to be presented in November, 1992 has roles for five men and two women. Cast members will rehearse this summer and will need to register for Drama 191 in both summer and fall quarters. For more information contact Dr. Larry Corse in G-210-D (961-3633).

UPCOMING EVENTS

Five Visual Artists Will Participate in Varied One-Day Residencies

On April 29, the Clayton State College Lyceum will present five metro Atlanta visual artists in a one-day residency. The artists will be working in various locations in and around the G-building.

The artists are Allison Baker, a basket weaver; Martin Dawe, a sculptor; Susan Duncan, a ceramicist; Amy Landesberg, a painter and architect; and Curtis Patterson, a sculptor. All five have been involved in previous residencies at CSC. Additionally the artists will be presenting workshops for Clayton County high school and middle school art instructors.

Ms. Baker is a self-taught weaver of baskets. She works with primarily local grapevine, wisteria, honeysuckle, and reed which are dyed with nature's colors extracted from bark, berries, flowers and foods. The baskets that she creates are each one-of-a-kind, built to be structurally strong and functional, as well as being sculptural works of art. She sees her pieces as reflections of nature's strength and beauty.

From 1982 to the present, she has been involved full-time in basket weaving. In 1987, she was one of 12 Georgia artists selected by the Georgia Tourism Division to represent the state at a special exhibit at the Plaza Hotel in New York City.

Mr. Dawe is a sculptor who works primarily in bronze, wood and clay. The emphasis of his work has been outdoor sculpture based upon architectural metaphors and built in figurative scale. Among his commissions are carved figures for the stage set of Madonna's "Blond Ambition" tour, larger-than-life size figures for a national Honda commercial, and the Naismith Trophy, presented annually to the nation's top collegiate basketball players. He has taught figurative clay sculpture at the North Arts Center in Atlanta.

Ms. Duncan is a clay sculptor working with both thrown and hand-built pieces in colored clay and lusters. She taught art at Roswell High School from 1974 to 1979, and has taught in the Governor's Honors Program in Art. In the past, she has taught pottery at the prestigious John C. Campbell Folk School and in the Callanwolde Fine Arts Center's Kaleidoscope Program. Her works are in private collections in both the United States and Europe.

Ms. Amy Landesberg is a painter whose works have found a substantial and growing audience in the Atlanta metropolitan area and throughout the Southeast. She has had solo exhibitions at the Fay Gold Gallery, the Nexus Contemporary Art Center, both in Atlanta, and at the High Museum of Art. In addition, her works have been featured in the Atlanta in France exhibition mounted in Paris and Toulouse in 1985.

Mr. Patterson is a sculptor working primarily in bronze. He has been commissioned by agencies such as the Atlanta Bureau of Cultural Affairs and MARTA to construct various sculptures. His work, "Bright Moments, Bright Moments," a fabricated bronze, can be seen by travelers from all over the world when they pass through Hartsfield International Airport. At Ohio State University, spectators can enjoy his work, "Celebration for a Champion: A Memorial to Jesse Owens," a fabricated bronze. Additionally, Mr. Patterson's works have appeared in group exhibitions throughout the Southeast, and in Sweden, France and Nigeria. He is on the faculty of the Atlanta College of Art.

Jerry Brown: Mr. Reform Hits The Political Trail

by Joe Consoli
Staff Writer

Jerry Brown entered the New York primary hoping to take a large bite out of the Big Apple, but instead he was only able to take a small portion of the voters. Even though he lost, Brown quipped that he has yet to begin to fight. So who is this candidate running for the highest office in the land?

A former Governor of California, Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown, Jr. has launched a serious campaign of reform. He is the radical democratic candidate who has found a home in many hearts, except for the leadership of the Democrat Party. And like an unwanted guest, Brown has refused to leave.

His political career began when he won the governorship of California with the same basic strategy he uses today. Although his whole life has revolved around politics, he took some time off to experience the world. He traveled to Japan to study with the Jesuits, and helped the poor in India with Mother Theresa.

Brown began his reform campaign with his toll free number, 1-800-426-1112, a way to cut down on the power of special interest groups. The number also unleashed his grassroots strategy, for a caller can only contribute a maximum of a hundred dollars.

Another Brown innovation is his 13% flat tax where mortgage interest, rent, and charitable contributions are the only deductions. He believes that with the introduction of his tax plan, it will make the tax code fair to everyone and cut out all the loopholes, as he puts it, for the "fat cats." However many economists have condemned it, stating that there are many flaws and will cost the country even more than it already does.

On the issue of health care, Brown has fused world ideas into his own. He has stated that he would use a universal coverage based upon the system that can be found in Canada and in socialist countries.

Usually regarded as a flake and Governor Moonbeam, Brown has either supported or rebutted that claim with the selection of Jesse Jackson as his Vice Presidential candidate. This move would get the support of Blacks and other minorities, but it might not sit well with the rest of the voters.

Jerry Brown has only recently come to the media's spotlight due to his upset win in Connecticut's primary. Brown has also won in Nevada and Maine, and has gained support from environmentalists and labor unions alike, but what he gains in recognition he lacks in delegates. He needs to win in California where delegates are numerous and where Willie Brown, Democratic speaker of the California assembly, warns that Clinton could face an embarrassing defeat at Brown's hands on the 2nd of June. A good omen, perhaps.

Many experts, though, agree that Jerry Brown's chances of being the nominee for president at the Democratic Convention is highly unlikely. However, he could hamper any success that Clinton might have against President Bush.

Clayton State Golfers Begin Tournament Play As A Club Sport

Sport Will Be Intercollegiate In Fall Season

Led by junior Trae Cassell, Clayton State College tied for sixth out of eleven teams in the Berry-Coosa Invitational Golf Tournament at Coosa Country Club near Rome. The tournament took place in late March. Following Cassell in CSC's scoring was Claude Thorn at 163, Philip Pearson at 169 and Matt Webb at 171.

On April 6-7, the CSC golfers were number 10 in a field of 15 teams participating in the Emory University Invitational Tournament. This competition was played at Royal Lakes Golf and Country Club in Gainesville, Georgia.

In the Berry-Coosa Invitational, Cassell shot a two-day total of 152 on the par 72 course and missed making the all-tournament team by only one stroke. The Lakers tied with Motlow State with a four-person team total of 655.

"For our first tournament, I thought we did quite well," said Lakers coach Jeff Ozment. "We had the usual first-time jitters, but I thought the players had a good time. We definitely have something to build on."

At the Emory Invitational Tournament Trae Cassell again led the Clayton players with a two-day total of 165. Cassell's score placed him fifteenth in a field of 73 competitors.

hopes that soccer will have an impact on the students just as basketball has done. He is also involved in the International Awareness Club which exposes the international and other students to programs that embrace multicultural activities.

Mr. Daughtry has always made himself available to his students. According to Amy Brown, a student who has studied with him for three quarters, "Tommy is always there to solve our problems." "I have been wanting to have him as my academic advisor," Miss Brown added.

Mr. Daughtry said, "Although it's the teacher's responsibility to expose the students to certain things, it's the students' job to get the education they have paid for."

Mr. Daughtry has been getting a lot of cooperation from the CSC administration, faculty, staff and students. He enjoys working with them. "I am very happy to be a part of the growing CSC community," he said.

For Daughtry, with so much talent in many different areas, his greatest pride remains in his art and teaching. Like Bing Crosby, who took pride in being able to carry a tune, he can take pride in being able to draw and paint and teach others those rare and valuable skills.

Methodist College won the tournament with a team total 599. This was 52 strokes better than second-place Rhodes College. The five players from Methodist College were all among the top 7 finishers, capturing the first through fourth places and also the seventh position. CSC finished with a team total of 705.

Clayton's Claude Thorn finished with a 175. The other CSC players, Matt Webb and Philip Pearson, finished with 181 and 184, respectively.

A shortage of team players has forced the Lakers to play this season as a club sport rather than at the intercollegiate level as earlier planned. "We will be offering scholarships next year and compete at the intercollegiate level," said Ozment. He added the squad would compete in a few fall tournaments as well.

Those interested in competing on CSC's team next year can contact Coach Ozment at 961-3669.

Lakers Signs Former Lamar County High Star Player

The Clayton State College basketball Lakers have added some size to their post position for the 1992-93 season with the signing of Todd Holts, a former Lamar County High School standout. He becomes the first Lakers' addition for next season.

Holts, at 6'8" and 235 pounds, adds not only size but depth at the post position. "Todd fills a spot that gives us another quality big man at the post," said Lakers Coach Mason Barfield. "He has the size and athletic ability to help us in the hole."

The Lamar County graduate played for Oscar Wimbley and was an all-state pick and placed in the Georgia-Tennessee All-Star game. After high school, Holts attended Gordon College in Barnesville where he helped Gordon win the state junior college title and advance into the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) national tournament.

During his first collegiate season under coach Len West, Holts averaged 13.0 points and 9.0 rebounds. He was named MVP at the Tampa-Hillsborough Invitational Tournament and had 21 points and 16 rebounds in Gordon's first game at the NJCAA national tourney.

Holts left Gordon after one year and spent last season at Daytona Beach College. "Todd didn't have as big a role at Daytona Beach as he did at Gordon," explained Barfield. "Daytona Beach had three or four Division I-calibre players on that team. Todd could have sulked, but he did his part."

Daytona Beach, guided by Ray Ride-nour, went on to win Florida's junior college state title and appeared in the NJCAA national tourney. "Todd has the distinction of playing for state junior college champions in Georgia and Florida," said Barfield. Following the season, Holts' teammates at Daytona Beach voted him "most spirited."

"Todd has the potential to fill a leadership role," said Barfield. "He chose Clayton State for a combined reason -- it's close to home and David Viti is a familiar face." Both Holts and Viti played together at Gordon. Viti joined the Lakers this season.

return to work, General Motors sent him back to school.

Durham underwent a series of evaluations at Clayton State's Counseling Center and discovered he was strong in mechanical drafting and design. Thus, he enrolled in the College's two-year program and anticipates to graduate at the end of Fall Quarter, 1992.

"I was scared to death coming back to school," said Durham. He felt additional pressure to do well at Clayton State because of his three children, daughters

Jodi and Rachel, and son Billy.

But Durham has been tremendously successful and active in many phases of campus life at Clayton State while making the Dean's List and maintaining a grade point average above 3.5.

He is president of the student chapter of ATEA, serves as a Student Government representative and was selected to Leadership CSC. He has also worked as a volunteer on several campus and community service projects.

Candidates for the annual ATEA award must be enrolled in a post secondary technical program. Selection is made strictly on the documented merits of the nominee, based on criteria designated by ATEA, such as academic and technical achievement, extra-curricular activities, and community service.

"Bill is an outstanding student who constantly strives to contribute to the College and the community," said Ed-dins. "Many of the faculty, staff, and students at Clayton State have learned that if you want something done, give it to Bill."

Lady Lakers Sign Two High School Standouts

Two all-star players have signed basketball grants-in-aid to play for the Clayton State College Lady Lakers.

Dorian Ransby, a 5'9" forward from Gwinnett County's Meadowcreek High School, and Ruth Idahosa, a 5'11" center from Cathedral Academy in DeKalb County, signed to play with the Lady Lakers last week.

Not satisfied with a respectable 8-16 record during the Lady Lakers' inaugural season, Coach Lynn Jarrett is hoping to sign from two to four more additions to the 1992-93 team.

"We must continue to be patient and recruit players who will come here and work on the basketball court as well as in the classroom to earn a degree," Jarrett said. "Dorian's quickness will be a major asset for us," she continued. "She's able to make things happen around the basket, and has the ability to score on the move. And, the fact that she is lefthanded might give her a little edge at times."

The 5'9" Ransby, should be a strong contender for a wing position with the Lady Lakers. She led her Meadowcreek team in scoring last season with a 14.4 average, pulled down 7.2 rebounds a game, and contributed 1.6 assists and 2.1 steals per outing. Meadowcreek, which plays in the tough 8-AAAA North Division, finished with an 11-13 record this season.

Idahosa, a 5'11" center, was DeKalb County's leading scorer during the 1991-92 season. "Ruth has the ability to make an immediate impact with us as a freshman," Coach Jarrett said. "Not only can she score, but she is good on the offensive boards. She's a very intelligent player and has the potential to really help us at the post position."

A two-time All-DeKalb County selection, she is the first women's player from a six-year-old Class A school to earn a college basketball scholarship. Donnie Paulk, a 1991 graduate of Cathedral (formerly Harvester Academy), played for the Clayton State men's team last season. A native of Nigeria, Idahosa has been in the United States for three years, and started all three seasons for Cathedral. Coached by Duane Swilley, this year's team posted a 17-7 record, winning the 7-A west sub-region championship before losing to Gordon Lee in the first round of the state tournament.

Idahosa averaged 24.3 points in 24 games this season, making good 62 percent of her field goal attempts and 81 percent of her free throws. She averaged 14.5 rebounds, 2 blocked shots, 3.1 steals per game. Her single-game scoring high was 33 points.

Labeled an outstanding college basketball prospect, Idahosa also excels in the classroom with a 3.9 grade point average. With desires to become a lawyer, she will enroll in pre-law classes at Clayton State.

Clayton State took the floor most of last season with only nine players, gaining experience in a new system with a new coach and new teammates. Coach Jarrett hopes the addition of a few good players like Idahosa and Ransby will blend with that experience to make the 1992-93 Lady Lakers more competitive.
