Clayton State To Get New Gateway To The World

by Don Oberg
Staff Writer

Some Clayton State College faculty members and students may remember the December 22, 1992 dedication ceremony for Clayton State Boulevard. This is a new $625,000 four-lane street, which will lead from Highway 54 directly into the Clayton State College campus.

What they probably don't know is the reason for the delay in opening our new gateway to the world. In a recent interview, Mr. Robert Koermer, Vice President for Fiscal Affairs, gave some insight to the delay in making this new street available.

Mr. Koermer indicated that the rainy weather has been the biggest factor in delaying completion of the project. Mr. Koermer said, "The railroad crossing installation is the last major component of this project, and that has not yet been completed." He went on to describe the importance of the railroad crossing materials, which are installed at track level, to prevent wear and tear on automobiles, as they travel over the crossing.

In spite of the weather delays Mr. Koermer said, "Curb and gutter work are being completed now. After the crossing is in, a final pavement surface will be the last step. Landscaping, directional signals, and a CSC entrance sign will be added as soon as possible thereafter."

More than 4,500 people come onto the Clayton State College campus daily, and a large number of them use the South entrance at Oxford Drive. Only a few cars at a time can cross over the railroad crossing during a traffic signal cycle. The North Entrance, at North Lee Street and Hampton Drive is another option, but that is "the long way around" if you're heading South.

In addition to giving students, faculty, and visitors direct access to the campus from Highway 54, Mr. Koermer stated that, "Clayton State Boulevard will provide improved access from I-75 to the College and our facilities, such as Spivey Hall."

Although the Clayton County Department of Transportation and Development (DOT) has not provided a date when Clayton State Boulevard can be used, Mr. Koermer expects it will be about two or three weeks after the railroad crossing is in, provided the rain and bad weather do not delay work further.

In addition, Mr. Koermer indicated that the actual start date for engineering and funding on this project was sometime ago, within the last two years, while the actual construction started this past fall.

The biggest aspect of this project for the College, and for Mr. Koermer, was getting all the project participants underway. These participants include the Mayor and Councilmen of the City of Morrow, the Clayton County Commissioners and the County DOT, the Georgia State DOT, our Georgia State legislative delegation, and the Norfolk Southern Railroad. Once the project got off the ground, everyone has cooperated fully, and it has moved along smoothly, except for the weather.

Chick-fil-A Comes To Clayton State

Chick-fil-A has arrived at Clayton State. It made a major entrance on January 6, with a ribbon-cutting ceremony in the College's dining hall. Chick-fil-A entered the campus market last spring quarter with an outlet at Georgia Tech. Although other colleges have added Chick-fil-A to their food services, Clayton State is the world's only commuter campus to have a Chick-fil-A outlet.

The addition of Chick-fil-A products to the dining hall has proved to be popular with students. Dozens of students and staff were lined up to purchase Chick-fil-A items on opening day. According to Rich Edenfield, Assistant Campus Dining Services Manager, Campus Dining Services served approximately 100 more sandwiches than anticipated on the first day. Although first-week sales were strong, business was even better during the second week of Chick-fil-A sales. Currently Chick-fil-A accounts for approximately 30% of the weekly business in the dining hall.

Chick-fil-A has supported education in a positive way for several years. Their employee scholarship program has awarded over $9,000,000 in $1,000 scholarships since its inception. Evelyn Robbins, of Chick-fil-A said that $77,000 in scholarships have been awarded to Clayton State College students in the last decade. To be (See Chick-fil-A on page 11)

LakerFest Goes Global This Year

by Steve Byrd
SGA Vice President

Due to some pattern that we have yet to completely figure out, LakerFest has once again descended upon us. It has even been rumored that this is an annual affair! LakerFest has evolved from The Tradition to Total Satisfaction to this year's theme, Going Global. This was decided upon in trying to keep up the Olympic spirit and to interject a bit of international flair.

Each club/organization will pick a country to represent. This will mostly come into play during the Club Olympics and the Scavenger Hunt. One of the events at the Club Olympics will be where each "country" will be asked to give a piece of trivia about its "homeland." Groups will receive points for the most interesting piece of trivia. The decorations for the events will be done with an international flavor.

The week of LakerFest (if you are wondering by now when this week is, it is February 8 to February 13) will kick off (See LakerFest on page 6)

A Message From The Editor New Editor Desires More Student Input

A few weeks ago, the CSC Publications Committee appointed me as the Editor of The Bent Tree. I am the first student to hold this position in two years and I hope to fulfill and complete this job to my best ability. To do this well I feel more student input is essential. Please feel free to submit letters or any freelance work. Take your submissions to the Student Activities Office in room D-217.

Letter To The Editor Math Help Is Available On Campus

The Editors:

Why are so many students failing math? The most obvious answers would be the lack of a solid math background from high school and apathy on the part of students themselves.

With all of the resources available on this campus, it would seem almost impossible for anyone to fail math at Clayton State. Yet, almost daily, I hear someone say: "I failed math because I just didn't understand it," or "I'm afraid I'm going to fail math." If you are struggling with algebra, you should know that there is hope! In addition to the fact that math instructors are usually available at some time during the week to provide extra help, the learning support center, located downstairs in the library building, is staffed by a full-time math tutor! There are also several good math computer programs and videos available in the Learning Support Center. As if that weren't enough, there is also a list of student tutors available in D-201.

Don't be afraid to ask for help. No matter how confusing algebra seems, there is someone out there who can get it across to you in terms you can understand.

Get Involved With Habitat For Humanity

by Paul Brady
Student Freelance Submission

"Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country..."

Sadly, these words have almost become a cliché, and yet they still ring true today. Every night we see images of poverty and despair on the evening news. Some of us see them firsthand. As we watch these problems grow, it is easy to decide that they are unsolvable, and yet we have only to look right here in Atlanta to find many organizations working hard to help make life better for the less fortunate.

One of the most active and noteworthy of these organizations is Habitat for Humanity International. Habitat was founded by Millard Fuller in 1976 and has built several thousand houses in the U.S. and 18 other countries. Habitat is a non-profit organization which relies on volunteers, both skilled and unskilled, for its labor force, which includes such celebrities as former president and first lady Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter.

Having worked with this organization, I can tell you that it is one of the most rewarding things I have done in my life. One reason the work is so rewarding is the fact that of all the houses built and financed in Atlanta by Habitat, only one has been repossessed. This fact speaks highly of Habitat's commitment to providing housing for those who are responsible, rather than perpetuating a faulty welfare system.

On any given weekend you can find Habitat volunteers working on low cost housing in Atlanta. If you would like to join them, simply call 223-5180. You will be asked to attend an orientation session, and then you'll be ready to get to work.

Former Soviet Georgian Teacher Speaks On The Changes In Education in The Republic of Georgia

Ms. Nana Georgiadze will speak on "Educational Changes in the Republic of Georgia" on February 2. Her presentation will take place in D-223 and will begin at 12:05 p.m. Ms. Georgiadze is a former teacher of Russian language and literature at Tbelesi State University and at the high school level in the Republic of Georgia. With assistance from and sponsorship by contacts made through in the Friendship Force, she emigrated to the Atlanta area in 1991.

Second Tuesday

The Millennium video series continues on February 9, with a screening of "Mistaken Identity" at 12:05 p.m. in D-223.

Who are you? Where does your individual identity begin and end? While Western societies strive to answer these question through a biological view --conception, birth, adolescence, maturity, and death-- tribal cultures define identity by the myths and rituals of their society, by the people who rear them, and by an organic continuum to which they belong. In "Mistaken Identity," explore the differing views of life and death.

Sculptor Set For Two-week Artist Residency

Mr. David Butler, an Atlanta sculptor and goldsmith will be a producing artist-in-residence during his 10-day residency next month. He will be on campus from February 1-12. Mr. Butler will be working in G-100 each day. In addition he will be speaking to selected art and humanities classes during his two-week residency.

A work which he creates, while on campus during this residency, will become a part of the College's permanent collection. Mr. Butler is the second producing artist-in-residence to participate in this program. In the past, he held an assistantship at the Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts in Gatlinburg. Among the exhibits he has participated in are the Society of North American Goldsmiths in Kansas; the Sterling Silversmiths Guild of America Exhibit in New York City; the Contemporary Metals U.S.A. Exhibition in California; and the Art of Georgia, U.S.A. show in Argentina.

For more details on Mr. Butler's residency or any of the other upcoming artists' residencies this year, contact Mr. Tommy Daughtry in the art room (G-100).

Spivey Hall Has A Full Schedule Of Programs In The Next Few Weeks

Upcoming on the Spivey Hall schedule are two concerts by the Robert Shaw Festival Singers. The group will perform at 8:15 p.m. on Friday, January 29 and Saturday, January 30. Mr. Shaw will conduct the singers in an all Brahms program.

Last May, Shaw conducted the Robert Shaw Festival Singers in two choral/organ concerts dedicating Spivey Hall's new Ruffatti organ. In January, 1991, he celebrated the opening of Spivey Hall by offering a dedication statement preceding the Hall's first concert by violinist Itzhak Perlman.

Music Director Emeritus and Conductor Laureate of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, Mr. Shaw was the 1991 recipient of the nation's highest distinction in the arts -- The Kennedy Center Honors. Last year he was named Musician of the Year for 1992 by Musical America, the international directory of the performing arts, he was featured on the cover of the publication. The cover story stated, "He also has a visiting professorship at Clayton State College in Morrow, Georgia, where there's a superb new concert hall. The Spivey Foundation has commissioned a series of concerts to be presented in the hall during the next three seasons, for which Shaw will form a new professional chorus and offer lectures, seminars, and public rehearsals."

Pianist Jeffrey Siegel returns to Spivey Hall with another in his Keyboard Conversations® programs on February 2. This 8:15 program will feature Musorgsky's Pictures at an Exhibition. It will be a behind-the-scenes look at this great musical masterpiece.

Keyboard Conversations® are more than just concerts, more than just lectures. Siegel returns to Spivey Hall for his popular concerts with commentary, complete recitals concluding with audience participation in questions and answers. For those who love great music -- or want to love it even more.

Thamyris, the contemporary chamber music ensemble will perform twice in one week at Spivey Hall. On Thursday, February 4, they will present a one-hour program at 12:05 p.m. and on Monday, February 8, they will present a full concert at 8:15 p.m. The February 8 concert will feature the world premiere of "If Only" by Tera de Narez Oyens, notable Dutch composer, and a regional premiere by Janice Giteck.

Thamyris serves as ensemble-in-residence at Spivey Hall and includes soprano Cheryl Boyd-Waddell, flutist Paul Brittan, clarinetist Ted Gurch, percussionist Peggy Benkeser and pianist Laura Gordy. Ms. Boyd-Waddell, Ms. Benkeser, and Mr. Gurch are part-time music faculty members at CSC.

Free tickets for CSC students are available for the Shaw, Siegel, and the evening Thamyris concert. Call the Spivey Hall Ticket office at 961-3683.

Thamyris will be performing in Spivey Hall on February 4 and February 8.

Lyceum Visiting Artist Shared His Experiences With Students

by Angi Ascher
Student Freelance Submission

Many people may wonder why some artist use non-objective shapes rather than realistic images in their paintings--or why some artist use the same media or same sub subjects with slight variations. Joseph Perrin is not such a typical artist. His work is not characterized by one style, one form, or one subject. Mr. Perrin was on campus for five days, earlier this month, as a Lyceum Artist-in-Residence.

As a child, Perrin was encouraged by his parents to become an engineer, advice which he followed. His engineering background enriches his paintings with shapes representing space between people, such as atoms, ions, energy, and radiation.

A native of DeKalb County, Georgia, where he still resides, he studied at Georgia Tech, Virginia Tech, Atlanta College of Art and the Ringling School of Art. His painting degrees are from the University of Georgia and University of California at Los Angeles.

Rich personal experience enhance the work of Mr. Perrin. Earlier in life, Joe, as he prefers to be called, was able to visit Paris with 14 of his art students. While there, they were invited to reside in the palace of the Eiffel Tower's designer. That time was among the most influential on his art.

During WWII his legs were severely injured. After being transferred from location to location in Europe, he was finally sent home with instructions to have both legs amputated on the day of his arrival. When he arrived home, his surgery was put off for a day, then a week, then for months and he is now running wild with both of his original legs. He went back to Europe to design airfields. He is the designer of runways and other structures for major airports, such as Orly, in Paris.

One of his many emphases is progressive color, rather than repetitive color. He never has a preconceived idea of what he is going to create. He feels no artist should because art should be a free expression of ideas and images. "Color is magic," he says. "There is rhythm in color." Perrin's expertise in color made him a carpet color consultant for 20 years. His geometric paintings exhibit his idea of color of magic, because he does not repeat colors. A good example is his CHROMA 4000 which includes 4000 non-repeating colors. He challenged the CSC art classes to create a similar work using 150 different colors.

In the CSC library, students can view

two styles of Perrin's work, scenic and (See Perrin on page 7)

Mr. Perrin worked with dozens of students each day in the art room. Additionally he spoke to several humanities classes during his five-day residency.

Speaker Struggled To Fulfill "The Dream"

by Jeff Bradley
Staff Writer

Mayor Unita Blackwell recently visited the Clayton State College campus to deliver a speech entitled "The Dream". Her presentation was a part of the annual Lyceum Laureate series. In her speech, and later in conversation with a group of interested students, she spoke modestly of the tremendous strides she has made for the advancement of equality.

Ms. Blackwell has been a part of the civil rights movement since the early 1960's. Encouraged by such men as Stokely Carmichael and Charlie Cobb, she marched with a group of eight people to the Mayersville courthouse in an effort to register to vote. When they got to the courthouse they were surrounded by a group of white men with guns. Only two of them were allowed to register that day. Looking back on this instance, she says of the same small courthouse in the same small Mississippi town, "Now I am the mayor; I am judge."

Although she was born in Lule, Mississippi, Ms. Blackwell had to travel to Helene, Arkansas, and live with an aunt for two months each year, in order to attend school. Although her mother could not read, she made sure Ms. Blackwell learned to read.

Ms. Blackwell is currently the mayor of Mayersville, Mississippi, an office she has held since 1976. She plans to run for the U.S. Congress this year. She is a recipient of the 1992 MacArthur Foundation Grant. This award is intended to free her from economic constraints and to allow her more opportunities to use her skills and creativity.

BCAA Members To Perform At "High School Day" Program

On Thursday, February 4, Clayton State's Black Cultural Awareness Association (BCAA) and Lyceum will present the annual "High School Day" program. This activity will take place at 12:05 p.m. in G-132. It is a part of the College's annual Black History Celebration

This year the entertainment portion of the program will feature "home-grown talent. Members of the BCAA will perform for the audience, composed of CSC students and three groups of students from high schools in the College's service area.

This activity serves both an entertainment and recruitment function. If you are not already a part of the talent lineup, and wish to participate, contact Greta Baldwin, BCAA President, immediately. The performers have been rehearsing since earlier this month

Following the entertainment, there will be a brief program for the high school students in attendance. Members of the BCAA will then lead the high school students on tours of campus.

All Clayton State students are invited to attend this program. It is also open to the public at no cost.

Addiction Counselor To Talk On "Use, Abuse, and Addiction"

Mr. James Burgin will present a lecture on "Use, Abuse, and Addiction" at 12:05 p.m. on Thursday, January 28. This lecture, a part of Lyceum's Health and Wellness series will take place in room D-223.

Mr. Burgin is the Executive Director of Atlanta Health Resources, a consortium that provides training and consultation for counselors, professional treatment programs, and business and industry. In 1985, he founded Recovery Place of Savannah, a private intensive outpatient program. He has been on staff at the Clayton Mental Health Center and the DeKalb Addiction Clinic. For five years, he served as Clinical Director of Fenwick Hall, a private addiction and psychiatric hospital. Mr. Burgin serves on the Board of Directors of the Georgia Addiction Counselor's Association.

Carter Returns To Speak On "Understanding Racism" On January 28

Last spring quarter Dr. Allen Carter came to Clayton State to present a lecture on "Understanding Racism." It was very well received by the audience that day and the Black Cultural Awareness Association asked to bring Dr. Carter back this year as part of the "Keys To A Better Nation" Lyceum lecture series that they proposed. His January 28 lecture will begin at 12:05 p.m. and will take place in room G-132.

Dr. Allen Carter is a clinical psychologist with experience both in private practice and in higher education. Currently working with Carter/Newkirk and Associates, a group psychological practice he co-founded, Dr. Carter taught psychology full-time at Morehouse College and still serves as an adjunct faculty member. He has also taught at Atlanta University and Prairie View A & M University.

How One CSC Student Conquered The Regents' Test

by Flo Walsh

Learning Support Center Staff

Pam Pryce smiles broadly when she tells you that she passed the Regents' Tests, and she has good reason. She doesn't mind revealing that she's taken both the writing and reading test "more than once," because she wants others to realize that passing is not "automatic." To explain why she had trouble with the Regents' Tests and with the remediation courses, Pam relates a bit of her personal history.

After finishing high school, she went on to college for two years to get an associate's degree. She recalled, however, "I didn't have any courses that emphasized critical thinking skills." She's quick to admit that at the time she just wanted to get her piece of paper and get on with it and that she didn't invest her best effort in that segment of her education.

From junior college, she went directly into a job "that didn't require any critical thinking, analytical reading, math, or anything like that." She observed, "My job didn't require me to do anything other than do what I did. When you don't develop and practice things or learn them and use them, they just get rusty." After ten years in the work force, Pam was among a population who had "good jobs that paid good money." But she emphasized, "The day of good jobs and no skills is over ... go to school and get your degree." "People have to be adaptable," she continues, "and they've got to have strong skills to fall back on." Her goal is to go into health sciences where she feels the need for her skills will always exist.

When she arrived at Clayton State to enter the nursing program, Pam became part of the 9.9% of the student body that is categorized as "non-traditional" (people who have not attended school in five years or more), and among the 34.9% who are transfer students. She was almost immediately faced with the Regents' Test requirement.

She learned that the Board of Regents requires that when students have accumulated 45 hours, they must take the Regents' Reading and Essay Tests. Passing these tests assures that students "exhibit literary competency in certain minimum skills in reading and writing" ('92-'93 CSC Catalog, p.40). Students who fail either of these tests are required to take an appropriate remediation course before re-taking the failed test.

Since the experience became problematic for her, Pam finally adopted a radical approach. In Fall '92, she registered for only ENGL 88 and READ 88, the Regents' remediation courses required for her. Also, during the break between summer and fall quarters, she came to the Learning Support Center (LSC) to formulate and begin executing a battle plan.

Pam identified that she was experiencing more difficulty with the reading test and felt that if she could work those problems out she would do alright with the essay. She had begun to suspect that part of the trouble was related to the way she read and interpreted questions, and so she worked with Skills for Successful Test Taking. This interactive computer program helps students assess their preparation for tests, attitudes toward them, ability to follow directions, and confidence in dealing with objective and essay items.

Using this program and doing a computerized study skills inventory, (L.A.S.S.I.), helped her to realize, "I had to start from the beginning and throw out everything I'd ever learned about how to learn and study and start over." She asserts that during Fall '92, "I learned how to learn and learned how to study."

She approached Dr. Penney Miller's reading class with new determination. Dr. Miller directed her use of some materials presenting reading and test skills tips in a different way from what Pam had used before. She was also referred to Mrs. Michelle Settle in Counseling and Testing who helped her with test taking techniques such as coding.

In the Learning Support Center, Pam worked with A User's Guide to College, Studying the Content Areas, and Methods of Inquiry. She also used College Level Reading Comprehension, a computer program which gave her much needed practice in applying the skills she was beginning to sort out.

"I just lived down here," she said referring to the LSC, and she soon found out that she was not living alone. She began noticing another person from her classes who was in the same predicament she was in, and they quickly joined forces to share whatever worked best to build up their reading skills.

They also used many of the support materials for writing, but Pam finally found the key to success in the essay test during one of their many conversations. From the other student she heard as if for the first time what she had heard before from Dr. Tom Barnett in her essay conferences. "I was writing too much," she said. "I had to change and learn to write enough, then do a good job of proofreading." Both students reaped the benefits of collaborative learning when they passed the two Regents' Tests in October.

Pam wanted her story told because she knows there are plenty of people like herself who have been out of school and whose skills have "gotten rusty." She doesn't think that others need to go through what she went through. She can laugh now as she summarizes the entire experience: "It stressed me out. I was on high (See Regents' Test on page 8)

Regents' Test Alert

1. What is the Regents' Test?

The Regents' Test is a test used by the University System of Georgia to determine students' competence in reading and writing. A certain level of competence in these areas as demonstrated on this test is required for graduation. Thus passing this test is a milestone toward graduation just as passing a course is a milestone toward graduation. The test takes less than three hours to complete and consists of an essay and a reading section.

2. Who needs to take the Regents' Test this quarter?

All students who plan to graduate with a two- or four-year degree from Clayton State College must take and pass the Regents' Test at some point in their academic career. Students who have completed their English and speech requirements are eligible to take this test.

Students who have 45 or more quarter hours and have not taken and passed both parts of the Regents' Test should plan to take it this quarter. Students who are required to take it will receive a card from the Counseling and Career Center notifying them of the dates and times for the tests. This card also acts as their ticket for admission to the test.

Contact Dr. Don Carson in D-208, or call 961-3515 for more information

3. When is the Regents' Test offered this quarter?

Students are asked to choose the test session (date and time) that they plan to attend, and to register their choice in D-208 (phone 961-3515), by February 5, 1993.

Test Requirement	Test Dates/Times	Location
Both Parts	February 8 2:15 - 4:45 PM	G-132
	February 8 6:00 - 8:30 PM	G-132
	February 9 2:15 - 4:45 PM	G-132
	February 9 6:00 - 8:30 PM	G-132
Essay Only	February 8 2:15 - 3:45 PM	G-132
	February 8 6:00 - 7:30 PM	G-132
	February 9 2:15 - 3:45 PM	G-132
	February 9 6:00 - 7:30 PM	G-132
Reading Only	February 8 2:15 - 3:45 PM	L-200
	February 8 6:00 - 7:30 PM	L-200
	February 9 2:15 - 3:45 PM	L-200
	February 9 6:00 - 7:30 PM	L-200

NOTE: Students may attend a Regents' Test Review session on Wednesday, February 3. Sessions will run from 11 - 11:45 a.m. or from 5 - 5:45 p.m. in L-131.

Dunn To Speak On Resume Preparation

First Speaker In S.T.E.P.S. Series Set For February 11

The S.T.E.P.S. workshop series will begin Thursday, February 11. The first workshop in this Lyceum series will be presented by Ms. Katherine Dunn, Director of Human Resources with Six Flags Over Georgia. She will speak on resume preparation from an employer prospective: the do's and don'ts, how resumes are utilized, proper preparation and presentation of resumes. This workshop will begin at 12:05 p.m. in room D-223.

There are three additional workshops in this series. All will take place in D-223. They include "Interviewing Techniques," hosted by Ms. Dee Ann Turner (February 18 at 12:05 p.m.); "Organizing A Job Search," hosted by Ms. Jan Cavanaugh (February 25 at 12:05 p.m.) and "International Dining & Business Etiquette" hosted by Ms. Blackie Scott (March 4 from 11:05 a.m. until 1:05 p.m.).

with study breaks for the students. The Scavenger Hunt and Club Olympics have proven to be the most popular events of the LakerFest week. The week will reach its climax with a totally international barbecue and Homecoming Dance to be held in the Continuing Education Building. The week reaches its conclusion on Saturday with the Alumni Reception, men's and women's Homecoming basketball games, and the crowning of the new LakerFest Homecoming King and Queen.

Voting for King and Queen will take place at various times on campus. Anyone needing info on events or on running for LakerFest Homecoming King or Queen should contact the Student Activities Office in D-217 or at 961-3510.

As always, I want to remind everyone that you need not be sponsored by a club/organization to participate.

Delta Epsilon Chi To Host State Career Development Conference

by Stacie Leigh Haight
Georgia Delta Epsilon Chi President

Delta Epsilon Chi, a division of DECA, holds annual State and National Career Development Conferences in which students compete in their chosen events, to include: Management Decision Making, Full Service Restaurant Management, General Marketing, Finance and Credit, Hospitality and Tourism, Advertising Campaign, Entrepreneurship Event, Apparel and Accessories, and many more. For the first time, Clayton State College is hosting this year's State Career Development Conference. The National Career Development Conference will be held in Orlando, Florida, which will cut travel and expenses down to a minimum this year for students planning to attend.

At fall quarter meetings, nominations were made for the 1993-1994 officers. They were elected at the Christmas dinner. The 1993-1994 officers are as follows:

President-Ken Ellis
Day Vice-President-Jody Shaw

Night Vice-President-Terri Crowder
Day Secretary-Nicole Gamble
Night Secretary-Sheena Mitchell
Historian/Librarian-Carla Howard
Fundraiser Chairperson-Brenda McDowell

This next year promises to be one of our strongest as our past and present officers unite. With the help of our newly formed Alumni Association, were hoping to make Delta Epsilon Chi one of the strongest and largest groups on campus. If you would like more information, or are interested in joining Delta Epsilon Chi or competing, please call 961-3453 or stop by room C-11-G to fill out a sheet on the door.

Join the club that allows you to travel throughout the United States, interact with people in the business community, meet other students with similar interests, and compete in your chosen field. Even if your still undecided, join us at our next meeting, Monday, February 1, 1993 at 11:00 a.m. & 7:45 p.m. in C-47. We look forward to seeing you there. Annual dues are only $15.00.

Accounting Club Provides Tax Preparation Assistance And Tutoring This Quarter

by Jeff McLeod
Accounting Club Public Relations Chair

The Clayton State College Accounting Club would like to invite anyone with an interest in accounting to attend our meetings and become a member. The Club meets on the second Thursday of every month in room T - 100, from 12:05 to 1:05. For persons interested in going into accounting as a profession, the Accounting Club offers different speakers from different career settings. It also has social functions where everyone has the chance to meet others.

The Accounting Club is sponsoring the Voluntary Income Tax Assistance program for the third year. Last year was a big success and we're hoping for this year to be even better. The program offers free assistance on income tax returns and/or free income tax return preparation for individuals. The program will run throughout the month of February. We will be set up in the C-lobby on Mondays and Wednesdays from 5:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m. and on Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 11:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. There will also be sessions on Saturdays from 10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. in room L - 200 (in the library). We invite anyone that needs assistance.

The Accounting Club is also holding FREE tutoring sessions for anyone needing help with their accounting courses. These tutoring sessions began January 19th and will continue throughout the winter quarter. There is no appointment needed. Tutors will be available on Sundays, from 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m., and on Tuesdays, from 12:00 p.m. - 2:00 p.m. These tutoring sessions will take place in L-200.

This quarter, the Club's theme is accounting in industry. We have invited speakers from Bell South to present an overview of what it is like to work in accounting in an industry setting. They will be here on February 10, from 6:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m., and on February 11, from 12:05 p.m. - 1:05 p.m.

FREE DENTAL HYGIENE SERVICES AVAILABLE

The CSC Dental Hygiene Department offers free services to students and the public. Services available are oral examinations, x-rays, teeth cleaning, and referral for other dental or medical treatment. During the winter quarter the hours of operation are 9:00 a.m. - Noon and 2-5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Appointments may be made by calling 961-3441 or in person in Room D-103. The latest techniques of sterilization and infection control are used in the CSC Dental Hygiene Clinic.

Persons who are interested in a rewarding health science career in Dental Hygiene should contact the Department of Dental Hygiene (961-3430) or the Office of Admissions and Records (961-3500).

geometric. The fact that he is also a writer shows in the works, as the inner person of Perrin is represented in many art forms. His work can be viewed through February 1.

Several of these paintings are from Costa Rica. A friend invited him to Costa Rica, and while staying there he looked out the window. Turning his back on the scent, he painted what he felt, instead of exactly what he saw. These works look very similar to impressionistic types of paintings.

During his visit to campus, CSC students heard many theories that Perrin uses when creating any type of art. They included, "Creative behavior means turning disaster into ultimate advantage," and "If you know what you're doing, then you're not being creative."

Thomas Daughtry, Professor of Art at CSC, was happy to have Mr. Perrin serve as an artist-in-residence. He stated, "Joe Perrin has had great influence in shaping art in Georgia and the Southeast. He has exhibited locally, nationally and internationally. Students of CSC are quite fortunate to have the opportunity to speak and listen to such a fine artist."

CSC STUDENTS SERVE THE COMMUNITY - While the Technical Education Association sponsors activities like the "Kiss the Pig Contest" and field trips to companies like Southern States and Panasonic, they are also involved in a community service project each quarter. For the past two years, members of the group have joined together each quarter to clean up a one mile stretch of U.S. Highway 41 (just North of Georgia Highway 138). During fall quarter members did their civic duty on a beautiful November afternoon. Don't let the picture fool you, they still had fun. Several New Music Faculty Members Added This Past Quarter

The Music Department at Clayton State College continues to grow at a fast rate, both in new students and faculty.

During the 1992 fall quarter, the student population among music majors increased nearly 50 percent, including transfer students from California, Arizona, Michigan, North Carolina and other Georgia colleges.

Paralleling that growth in students has been the addition of several new and distinguished faculty members, according to Dr. Lyle Nordstrom, appointed last summer as Head of the new Music Department.

Included among the new faculty appointments were Dr. Cheryl Boyd-Waddell who will head the vocal department; Dr. John Peed, director of choral activities; Mr. Richard Morris, Organist-In-Residence at Spivey Hall; Mr. Wayne Baughman of the voice faculty; Mr. Ted Gurch, appointed to teach clarinet; Mr. William Hearn, instructor of guitar; Dr. Robin Hensley, appointed to teach class piano; and Mr. Harry Vas Dias, teacher of Baroque oboe and historical wind instrument construction.

Dr. Boyd-Waddell has taught at several colleges in Florida, Nevada and Georgia, most recently at Brenau College. She received both her masters and doctoral degrees from the Eastman School of Music. As a lyric leggiero soprano, she has performed at several festivals and with several orchestras throughout the United States and Canada. She is well known in the Atlanta area through her performances with Thamyras, the contemporary music ensemble that is in residence at Spivey Hall.

Prior to his appointment at Clayton State, Dr. Peed was Director of Choral Activities at McMurry University in Abilene, Texas, and for 15 years, directed the highly-successful choral program in Farmington, New Mexico. Dr. Peed also serves as the new Music Director for the Tara Choral Guild and has been selected as a member of the Robert Shaw Chamber Singers, the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra Chamber Chorus, and the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra Chorus. He received his doctorate from the University of Northern Colorado.

Among the new faces joining the applied music faculty is Mr. Morris, who regularly is heard in organ concerts at Spivey Hall. As a recitalist, Morris has toured North America and Europe to enthusiastic audiences at locations including Carnegie Hall, Town Hall and Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall. Morris also has recorded on several labels such as Klavier, New World, Crystal Clear and R&R Records.

Added to the voice faculty is Mr. Baughman, the bass-baritone who studied at the University of Alabama and the University of Michigan. He has been soloist for the Robert Shaw and the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra and Choruses on several occasions, including the Grammy Award-winning recording of "Belshazzar's Feast" and "Chichester Psalms." He has performed leading roles with the Atlanta Civic Opera, the Brevard Opera Company, the Atlanta Chamber Opera, the Knoxville Civic Opera and Atlanta's Opera Sampler.

Mr. Gurch, who has his degree in clarinet performance with Eastman School of Music, is a well-known performer on both clarinet and saxophone as a member of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra and Thamyras. He performs regularly in Spivey Hall with Thamyras, the contemporary music ensemble.

Mr. Hearn, currently finishing his D.M.A. degree at the University of Arizona, has been a visiting artist at Catawba Valley Community College, Mitchell Community College and Brunswick Technical College. A finalist in the Augusta Symphony Competition for Strings, he won the Florida Music Teachers National Association Collegiate Competition. He also has been a semifinalist several times in the International Guitar Foundation of American Solo Competitions.

In addition to teaching class piano, Ms. Hensley also serves as a staff accompanist. She received several prestigious scholarships and awards while completing degrees at Salem College, Converse College and the University of Georgia, and has been employed in several positions as organist and accompanist in Georgia and the Carolinas.

Employed to both teach oboe and wind instrument construction, Mr. Vas Dias received training at the Juilliard School of Music and has played in several orchestras in the Eastern United States. Since 1973, he has become increasingly well known as a maker of Baroque and Classical oboes.

Dr. Nordstrom, Clayton State's first Head of the Department of Music, is charged with the development of the Bachelor of Music program which was implemented over a year ago. Prior to joining the Clayton State faculty, Dr. Nordstrom spent 23 years as a Professor and Director of Early Music and Chorale at Oakland University in Michigan. He graduated Cum Laude from Macalester College with a bachelor's degree in music composition, and earned both his master's and doctoral degrees in Early Music Performance Practices from Stanford University.

Although not included in the article to the left, Mr. Shaw is Clayton State's Distinguished Visiting Professor of Music. His new vocal group, the Robert Shaw Festival Singers, will perform on January 29-30, at Spivey Hall. The concerts begin at 8:15 p.m. and tickets are still available. Call the Spivey Hall ticket office at 961-3683 to reserve your free student ticket (and guest ticket) today.

Atlanta Bible College: CSC's Neighbor To The East

by Heather L. Echols
Staff Writer

Most Clayton State students do not realize that CSC has a neighboring college. Behind the CSC campus lies the campus of Atlanta Bible College (ABC). Several students from Atlanta Bible College are jointly enrolled at CSC.

Atlanta Bible College has been located in Morrow for almost two years. Originally the college was located in Oregon, Illinois, which is about ten miles west of Chicago. Atlanta Bible College President David Krogh said that CSC had a large influence on the College administration's decision to move to Morrow. He added, "We were very impressed with Clayton State College and the kind of program they had to offer." President Krogh said that they researched areas across the country before deciding upon Morrow. He explained that the College's closeness to CSC was not the only benefit for the present location of the ABC campus. The easy access to the larger city of Atlanta offered many job opportunities for students in local churches.

Students at ABC are working towards degrees in Theology and Music. Many of the students plan to become ministers of music or pastors. The students are encouraged to gain more experience in their fields of study by receiving class credit for ministry activities. These include working in a prison ministry program, helping the homeless, working with youth groups, and visiting nursing homes.

Basic tuition is $165 per quarter hour. Subsidies from local supporting churches have cut the tuition fees to approximately $55 per quarter hour. There are 39 students presently enrolled. The College, through mailings, phone calls, and youth camp tours has attracted students from several states, including California, Arizona, Minnesota, and Nebraska.

Julie Vance, Captain of the CSC cheer-leading squad, is a jointly-enrolled student at ABC and CSC. She lives with two roommates on the ABC campus in an apartment provided for the students. She plans to major in English education at CSC and receive a Bachelor's Degree in theology from Atlanta Bible College. "I plan to do some missionary work," Julie explained. She said she wants to teach English to the children in the missions.

All of the ABC students are active in the New Friends Bible Church, a church started by the College. Church services are held on Sunday mornings at 10:00 a.m. On Wednesday nights at 6:30 p.m., a free meal is offered to everyone who attends the evening worship service.

This April 30 through May 2, ABC will be offering a theological conference that will be open, free of charge, to the community. Speakers from Australia, Russia, and Washington have been scheduled for the conference program.

Construction of a gate connecting the campuses of ABC and CSC is underway. This will allow jointly-enrolled students to walk to their classes rather than drive from campus to campus. This gate should be open in a few weeks and will result in an a much shorter walk between campuses.

The Girls Of Summer Come To CSC This Friday

by Lori Cohen
Editor

A League Of Their Own, rated PG, will be shown on January 29, at 1:15, 8:30, and 10:45 p.m. in room G-132. Another screening will be presented at 7:30 p.m. in the dining hall, following the Family Night Dinner.

Penny Marshall directed this funny yet endearing film, which focuses on the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League that started out in 1943. The lead characters are Dottie Hinson (Geena Davis) and Kit Keller (Lori Petty). These two are sisters that make a great catcher/pitcher team. Tom Hanks plays the ever precocious Jimmy Dugan, the Rockford Peaches coach. Rounding out the top players in this film is Madonna and her portrayal of center fielder Mae Mordabito, also know as "All-The-Way-Mae."

"While the women on the field are knocking themselves out to achieve fame and glory in a league that embraces just three Midwestern states, the film never strains to get a laugh or make a point. It adopts a summer pace as it follows Dottie, Kit, Mae, and their teammates from what is, in effect, boot camp to the league's first world series, in which the Peaches face the Racine (Wis.) Belles," wrote Vincent Canby in a New York Times movie review.

The story starts out showing a middle-aged Dottie reflecting back on her inspiring career as a professional baseball player. The plot continues on to tell the story of the start of the girls professional baseball league, and ends in a teary but joyful reunion at the Baseball Hall of Fame.

A League of Their Own stands tall with most of the big sports films of the past and celebrates the myth that sports are in America.

eligible for a $1,000 scholarship, you must have worked at Chick-fil-A for a minimum of 20 hour per week for 2 years. Among those involved in the ribbon-cutting ceremony were Chick-fil-A executives Dan Cathy and Bubba Cathy; Harry Downs, CSC President; Robert Koerner, CSC Vice President for Fiscal Affairs; Rick Beeson, the Director of Campus Dining Services at CSC Steve, Zutel, ARA Campus Dining Service Southern Region District Manager; and "Doodles," the Chick-fil-A mascot.

According to Chick-fil-A Founder and Chairman S. Truett Cathy, "Bringing Chick-fil-A to Clayton State College was a natural step towards expanding our business into new areas. We are excited about working with ARA because of their long tradition of excellence in the food service industry." According to Mr. Cathy, Clayton State is just the beginning. The chain plans to open numerous campus locations nationally in 1993. Chick-fil-A is the nation's third largest quick-service chicken restaurant. The chain currently has 470 restaurants in 31 states.

The menu, in the CSC dining hall, includes the original Chick-fil-A chicken sandwich, Chicken Nuggets™, Waffle Potato Fries™, and both regular and diet lemonade.

Lady Lakers Home Winning Streak Stopped At Six

by Cameron D. Barham
Staff Writer

The Clayton State Lady Lakers came into its January 16 home game against the Kennesaw State Lady Owls having no wins in three tries against KSC. However, the Lady Lakers were also riding an undefeated home streak of 6-0 this season. One of the two streaks would have to come to an end.

The Lady Lakers came in with a 10-4 overall record and a 2-2 district record which had them in fourth place in District 25. The KSC Lady Owls had a 9-6 overall record and a 2-1 district record. This had them in third place in the district. The Lady Lakers were also coming off an easy victory over non-district opponent Piedmont College (82-68) on January 14, at Piedmont.

It looked as if the Lady Lakers would continue their winning ways during the first half of the game against KSC. Both teams started the game out by making a number of errors concerning ball handling and bad pass selection. Neither team was able to take full advantage of the other team's mistakes.

The first half turned into a major battle during which there were 6 ties and 10 lead changes. The Lady Lakers had a slight edge in field goal percentage (41% to 40%), free throws (11 of 17 to 0 of 0), rebounds (22 to 13), and total score (29-26). The Lady Owls lead only in 3-point field goals (2 of 2 to 0 of 1) and shots attempted and shots made (12 of 30 to 9 of 22).

A team which Lady Lakers' Coach Lynn Jarrett called, "The best team in the district by far" but, "Beatable" appeared to be more of the latter.

However, the second half began with the Lady Owls scoring 8 unanswered points against a confused Lady Lakers' defense to take a 34-29 lead. They never trailed again. The main reason for this reversal of fortune was the incredible second half shooting percentage of the Lady Owls (56%) and the poor shooting percentage of CSC (16%).

The Lady Lakers at one point went for nearly six minutes without making a basket. It was not so much the poor shot selection of CSC as it was a matter of the baskets just were not falling. The Lady Lakers were also overpowered on the blocks in the second half. The Lady Owls were able to score at will down low. KSC's Monica Fouch shot 100% (8 of 8) in the second half. She scored 14 of the first 17 points after the half and finished the game with 22 points, 13 rebounds, 2 blocked shots, and a shooting percentage of 73%. Kim Watts, the Lady Owls center, scored 8 of their last 10 points to shut the door on the Lady Lakers. She finished the game with 18 points, 7 rebounds, and 2 blocked shots.

For the Lady Lakers, Ruth Idahosa, Kim Hamilton, and Dorian Ransby each scored 10 points. Idahosa also had 10 rebounds and played a very tenacious game despite being outweighed on the blocks. Ransby also had a very good game with 14 rebounds, in addition to her point total.

The story of the game was Candi Wyatt's quick offensive start and equally quick exit. She started the game by scoring 8 of the Lady Lakers first 12 points but was never heard from again offensively. She appeared to be very apprehensive about putting the ball on the floor against a defense that was obviously not able to contain her. Coach Jarrett stated in a post-game interview that Candi had, "Played the most minutes in a game since she injured her left hamstring." She felt that Candi might have been suffering from some fatigue as a result of this. It did not appear to be a situation that Coach Jarrett was overly concerned about. From this defeat, Coach Jarrett hoped that her team would learn that, "When another team begins to play harder, we must begin to play harder."

LADY LAKERS UPDATE

On January 19, the Lady Lakers defeated Spelman College by a score of 51-37. On January 21, they faced Morris Brown College and lost 54-51. The Georgia Southwestern Lady Hurricanes visited the CSC gym on January 23, and the Lady Lakers won 82-52. The Lady Lakers' record, through January 23 is 12-6. Last season they won a total of eight games. The Lady Lakers added three 3-point goals in the Georgia Southwestern game, bringing their 1992-93 total to 40. Last season they hit on a total of 25 3-point goals during their 24 games.

Kennesaw State Ends Lakers Three-Game Winning Streak

by Cameron D. Barham
Staff Writer

The Clayton State Lakers (10-5, 2-1 in district) came into its non-district match up against the Kennesaw State Fighting Owls (4-10, 3-3 in district) on January 16 with a 3-game winning streak. This streak included an easy victory over Piedmont College (85-53) on January 14. The Lakers had never beaten the Owls before.

The team that Lakers' Coach Barfield called, "The best 4-10 in the district" and that has, "No weaknesses," proved to be all of this. Their quickness, shooting ability, and balanced attack was more than the Lakers could handle. The Fighting Owls lead from the opening basket until the final buzzer sounded.

CSC stayed close to KSC for most of the first half. The biggest lead for the Owls came at the 7:29 mark (21-11). Clayton fought to close the gap to 29-22 at the half. The Lakers finished the first with a shooting percentage of only 29% (8 of 28) and had a scoring drought that lasted the first 4 minutes of the game. However, CSC did finish the half with a 21 to 17 edge in rebounding.

Clayton State started the second half with a significant run at the Fighting Owls. This run ended when the Lakers' zone defense surrendered 2 quick 3-pointers to KSC's Tony Williams, which made the lead more than 10 points for the first time in the game. The lead never again dropped to 10 points and rarely was it below 15.

Coach Barfield took the blame for this after the game by saying, "I am responsible for the play at the beginning of the second half. The use of the zone defense was a poor coaching decision."

The game ended in a 69-52 defeat for the Lakers. CSC only shot 27% overall which is well below their season average of 46%. Dexter Brown, leading scorer for the Lakers this season, hit only 1 of 8 from the floor and finished with just 5 points, well under his 11.2 points per game average. In addition, David Viti fouled out of the game and was hit with a technical foul when he passed the ball to the official in a manner that the official felt was unsportsmanlike.

Carlos Head lead the Lakers with 15 points. David Curry, with 12 points, was the only other laker in double figures. CSC won the rebounding battle by a margin of 51 to 38 with a 25 to 10 edge in offensive rebounding.

KSC finished with a very balanced scoring attack. Four of their five starters finished in double figures lead by Tony Williams (16) followed by Israel Brown (15), Todd Reedy (11), and Daniel Dunlap (10).

The story of the game was the spirited play of CSC's Todd Holts. Even though he hit only 1 of 7 from the floor and finished with just 4 points, he ruled the paint with 18 rebounds, grabbing 12 in the second half. Coach Barfield praised Holts for his efforts.

After the game, Coach Phil Zenoni of the KSC Fighting Owls stated that, "Clayton State needs to get some of their young guys going. They are much better than what they played."

LAKERS UPDATE

Southern Tech's Hornets invaded the CSC gym on January 20 and beat the Lakers by a score of 69-61. The Georgia Southwestern Hurricanes came to campus on January 23 and handed the Lakers a 65-61 defeat. The Lakers' season record stands at 10-8, through January 23. The Lakers won only nine games last season. In their two previous seasons the Lakers had never won a game in January. This year they have already won three January contests. They are 1-3 in NAIA District 25 and 6-4 for all home games this season.
