Learning Support Center Can Help You Relieve Exam Anxiety

by Loretta Robertson
Learning Support Center Staff

Final exams are almost here, and you have the situation well in hand, right? No? Is a little panic beginning to creep into your head? Are your palms beginning to sweat? Well, this would be a great time to consider a visit to the Learning Support Center.

The LSC does not have a magic wand, but if you can identify specific problems that you're having in preparing for your finals, LSC staff may be able to recommend some programs that will help. There are videotape, audiotape and/or computer programs that can help you with math, English, chemistry, biology, anatomy and physiology, physics, psychology, medical terminology and other subjects.

Mathematics support materials are available on all levels, from M095 through the upper levels of calculus and statistics. "Allied Health Sciences: Mathematics" can also be useful for applied mathematics in some nursing courses.

If, for example, you are about to have your final in Math 115, but you just haven't yet mastered one or several components of the course, you may be interested in the fact that the Learning Support Center has a series of videotapes that correspond to the chapters in the Math 115 textbook. A session or two with the tapes that cover your problem areas can broaden your math perspective and enhance your ability to perform well on the final exam.

In another scenario you might be an English student who has mastered most of the course material, but you continue to be haunted by "comma confusion." Well, the LSC has a videotape/workbook program that will give you a quick refresher course on the use of the comma and semicolon so that you can take your English final with a bit more confidence and precision.

In the field of psychology, there are several computer programs that can not only reinforce your factual knowledge of the subject but also increase your grasp of some of the finer points through simulations of actual experiments. There are similar programs in chemistry, physics, and human anatomy.

Another way you can use the Center is for a gathering place. The main room of the LSC is NOT a quiet study area. Students are encouraged to form study groups and use this space for collaborative learning. Professional staff are available for consultation and will give assistance as they are able.

Don't ignore this valuable resource! The staff at the Learning Support Center understands the end-of-the-quarter jitters and will be happy to direct you to the materials that you need to see you through the crisis. For those of you who do not yet know, the LSC is located downstairs from the campus library. Well, what are you waiting for? Come on down!

The End Does Not Justify The Means

by Lori B. Cohen
Editor

In a letter to the editor, printed in the November 30, 1992, issue of The Bent Tree, four student leaders of the Black Cultural Awareness Association expressed their views regarding an incident of an alleged racial slur on campus. The allegations of an October 29, 1992, racial slur reported by a CSC student were brought out into the open prematurely, in my opinion, and I feel that this letter needed to be addressed by me.

The student involved in the alleged incident "stood by her allegation and filed a formal grievance." Yet, on the day of the hearing this student dropped the charges. This occurred just a few hours before the hearing. I am not trying to discredit this student, I am merely stating the facts. If the grievance hearing proved that these allegations were true, I certainly agree that strong action would have been required.

Keep Gays Out Of The Military

by: Jeff Bradley
Staff Writer

I have spoken with dozens of people who have served in our Armed Forces, and all of them have agreed that the ban on homosexuals should remain intact. For most of them, the most important issue is not security risks or the spread of the AIDS virus--it is privacy. The military is responsible for housing and sheltering large numbers of people of the same sex in very small living quarters. You have to sleep together; you have to shower together; you are forced to become very personal with everyone in your barracks. There aren't small cliques of friends--you have to be able to function as a whole group. And a homosexual wouldn't be welcomed into the group.

The military is a very aggressive, sometimes violent, element of our society. Explaining the military mindset, Wayne Turner, a former marine, said, "In the absence of a foreign enemy, marines hate sailors. In the absence of sailors, they hate new recruits. Gays would make a better target than any of these." The entrance of homosexuals into the military would cause dissension among the troops and destroy the comradeship needed to function properly.

A large number of states still have laws against sodomy. If an institution as large and powerful as the U.S. Military were to sanction homosexuality, how would this affect the rest of society? The Gene-

Many of you students reading this editorial are regular viewers of television news programs. Sometimes it appears that cases are tried in the media long before a formal hearing. Was this letter to the editor used in this sense?

Since the charges were dropped on January 13, and no public hearing was held, I feel it necessary to make the student body aware that the accused persons were not given the opportunity to defend themselves. As a result, the Student Services Committee made revisions to the current Grievance Process as listed in the Student Handbook. The first change was to place a focus on requiring the individual who files the grievance to interact with the Student Services Committee. The second change was to make certain the process reflects the judicial concept of speedy justice.

As the student editor I believe that this paper is not prejudiced or biased in any way. I also feel that everyone has a right to an opinion and has every right, within the first amendment of the Constitution, to state their opinion. With this editorial, there is at least another view to consider.

Letter To The Editor

An American Race Relations Act

If we do not have a vision of respect for all people, then as a people, we will perish. A vision to live in a world where the uniqueness of all people are recognized. A vision where one's behavior is the determining factor and not the color of one's skin.

People currently have the license, which is a negative liberty under the first amendment, to destroy another human being with racial hatred.

Was this the original intent of the Bill of Rights or was the intent to protect individual citizens who live in this great nation from harm? As citizens we have a right to be protected from harm.

I submit that we in the United States need "An American Race Relations Act" such as the "British Race Relations Act" which forbids speech of racial hatred of any kind and protects all people from racial insults. This would be in keeping with the intent and the words of the Bill of Rights.

I submit that an American Race Relations Act would provide an equal opportunity for all people to co-exist in a society where basic human rights would be guaranteed for all.

A Student's View

Give Homosexuals A Chance To Prove Themselves

by Paul Brady
Student Freelance Contribution

Should homosexuals be allowed to serve in the military? It's a very simple question, but the underlying issues are complex. President Clinton has taken on a monster, and possibly created a few more in the process. Basically, this is a question of fairness. But it is also a question of law. The law prohibits denying a person housing or a job because of their race, color, creed, or sex. It does not refer explicitly to sexual orientation, but certainly if a homosexual could prove he was denied housing or a job on the basis of his sexuality, there are few courts who would not side with him or her. The military, as an entity separate from civilian institutions, has basically made up its own rules.

As president, Harry Truman integrated the military. Many of the same arguments used to keep homosexuals out today were used against Truman, but very few were born out. Many people seem to believe that homosexuals are asking for special rights or privileges, but their demand is for equal rights just as women demanded in the seventies with ERA. ERA did not pass, but many of the rights they asked for they have been given.

We should give homosexuals a chance to prove themselves. They deserve the benefit of the doubt just as much as anyone else.

LYCEUM EVENTS

Second Tuesday

Two International Guests Will Present Lectures On March 9

Tuesday, March 9, brings Dr. Ebele Eko and Mr. Mikio Kato to CSC for "Tuesday Tradition" lecture presentations.

Dr. Eko, a visiting professor from the University of Calabria in Nigeria, will be speaking on "Modern African Literature" at 12:05 p.m. in room G-132. She will present a talk on "Creative Writing" at 7:00 p.m. in room D-218.

Dr. Eko is teaching at Valdosta State College this year, as a part of the Fulbright Foundation Fellowship program. She visited Clayton State in the fall quarter of 1991, as a Lyceum presenter and as a part of the University System of Georgia's World History Conference.

Mr. Kato, also speaking at 12:05 p.m. that day, will address the topic of "International Good Will and Understanding." His presentation will take place in room D-223. He will also be involved in some class discussion periods during his visit to campus.

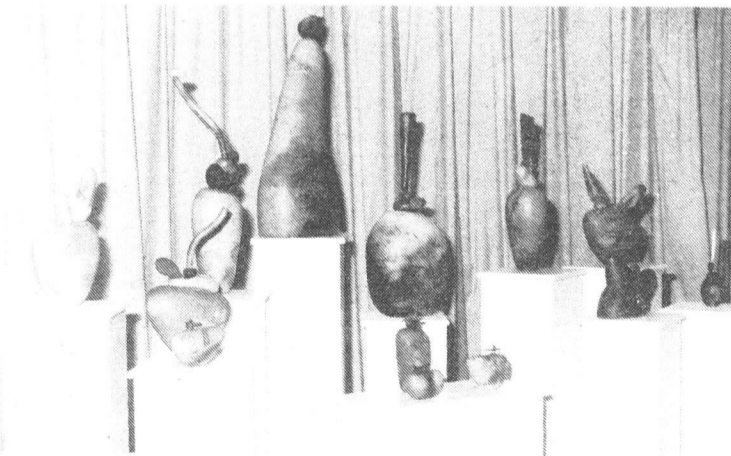

Mr. Kato is Associate Director of International House of Japan, a private organization committed to the furtherance of international understanding.

Ceramic Artist Susan Duncan Returns For Artist Residency This Month

Susan Duncan, a frequent participant in the Lyceum artist-in-residence program, will return to campus for the week of February 22-26. She will be speaking to a variety of classes, in addition to working with students in G-100.

Ms. Duncan works with both thrown and hand-built pieces in colored clays and lusters. She has taught pottery at the prestigious John C. Campbell Folk School and ceramics and weaving at the Callanwolde Fine Arts Center. Her works are included in numerous private collections in both the United States and Europe. Last year she was selected as Lyceum's first producing artist-in-residence. Her work is now a part of the College's permanent collection. In 1992, she received a merit award at the national juried show of works by recent MFA graduates in Washington, D.C.

Woodturner Residency Set For March 1-5

Woodturner Mark Barr will be involved in a residency from March 1-5. Mr. Barr is an Atlanta woodworker whose enjoyment of the medium is focused on his lathe turnings. In turning, the artist tries to best capture the natural grain of the wood to enhance the work. He will be working in the art room (G-100), and will be lecturing in art and humanities classes.

Mr. Barr is immediate past president of the Woodworkers Guild of Georgia. His works have exhibited at the Madison Morgan Cultural Arts Center and at Berry College's Moon Gallery.

Guest Artists And Student Groups Share Spivey Hall In Coming Weeks

The Choral Guild of Atlanta returns to Spivey Hall on Friday, February 26, for an 8:15 p.m. concert. The all-Durufle program will include the Requiem, Four Motets and the Mass Cum Jubilo performed by one Atlanta's finest choral ensembles. The group is directed by Alcie Parker and William Noll will serve as organist for this performance.

Former CSC student Alan Morrison will present an organ recital in Spivey Hall on Friday, March 5, at 8:15 p.m. He is a first prize-winner in the Mader National Organ Competition and the Poister National Organ Playing Competition, and is a graduate of The Curtis Institute of Music where he studied with John Weaver who performed earlier this week in Spivey Hall.

The Musicians of Swanee Alley, named after a 16th Century professional Elizabethan ensemble, will perform at 8:15 p.m. on Tuesday, March 9. This critically acclaimed group of performers specializes in the later Renaissance English and Italian repertory. Formed in 1976 by lutenists Paul O'Dette and Lyle Nordstrom, the newly appointed head of Clayton State College's Music Department, they have received consistently enthusiastic critical acclaim on both sides of the Atlantic for their "joie de vivre, rhythmic sense and technical elan."

Tickets for the above events are free for CSC students and a guest. Call the Spivey Hall ticket office at 961-3683 to make your reservations.

CSC student will perform in Spivey Hall on February 25 and on March 4 at 12:05 p.m.

Choral music in the "American Tradition" will be performed by the CSC choirs on Sunday, February 28, at 3:00 p.m. "An American Montage" will be directed by Dr. John Peed and selections will include the "Four Pastorals" by Cecil Effinger as well as a collection of American folk tunes.

Cultural And Political Influences on International Business Is Topic Of March 11 Lecture

Mr. Jan Bodd will speak on "The Impact of Culture and Politics on International Business" on Thursday, March 11. His presentation, a part of the Lyceum "Staying in Touch with the World" series will take place at 12:05 p.m. in D-223.

Mr. Bodd is the Marketing Operations Manager for the European Community Group for the Coca-Cola Company.

Prior to assuming this position, he was Country Manager for Norway and Iceland. He has also served as Sales and Marketing Manager for Finland and Norway for R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. He recently spoke on Coke's business involvement in the New European Community at the Southern Center for International Studies.

S.T.E.P.S. Workshops Concludes On March 4 With International Dining And Business Etiquette

The four-part S.T.E.P.S. workshop series, presented by Lyceum, ends next week with a presentation on International Dining and Business Etiquette. Ms. Blackie Scott will present this two-hour workshop. It will begin at 11:05 a.m. in room D-223.

Ms. Scott, President of Scott and Scott Associates, Inc., artistically combines her ever-present humor with a practical knowledge of human nature to address a variety of topics relevant to today's business person. She is the author of three books and is currently working on a book on manners for young people. This two-hour workshop will give participants the "people skills" needed to feel comfortable in any business/social situation from civic meetings to international dining with corporate executives.

Nursing Lecture Scheduled For March 11

Dr. Sandra Missroon will speak on "Advance Directives: What You Need to Know" on March 11, 1993. This lecture, a part of the Lyceum Health and Wellness series will take place in G-132 and will begin at 12:05 p.m.

Dr. Missroon is Coordinator of the Baccalaureate Nursing Program and Assistant Professor of Nursing at Clayton State College. A clinical nurse with over 30 years of experience, her area of specialization is medical/surgical nursing. Among the courses she teaches is Legal/Ethical Issues in Nursing. Dr. Missroon is a past member of the American Nurses Association Ethical Review Committee. In 1990, she was selected for inclusion in Who's Who in American Nursing. She frequently serves as a consultant with several law firms in reviewing potential nursing liability and malpractice cases.

Get Involved In The Accounting Club

by Julie Luedeke
Accounting Club Vice President

Want an excellent opportunity to find out about the accounting profession? Become involved in the Accounting Club.

What is the Accounting Club involved in?

1. The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program (VITA) is coming to a close on Saturday, February 27. Many volunteers have been busy completing personal income tax returns for others and it has been a success.

2. The Tutorial Program is going strong. It is offered every Tuesday from 12:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. and Sundays from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. in L-200. We have many volunteers involved in helping those who are having trouble in the accounting courses. It has been beneficial to all students who have attended. We are planning to continue this program during the Spring Quarter.

3. On February 10 and 11, we had Sherry Cook from Bell South speak on the Accounting Profession within her firm. She was very informative and helped broaden our professional experience. Next quarter we will be placing our emphasis on governmental accounting and will be having at least one speaker talk about the accounting profession within the Federal Government.

Learning about the professional world can help us decide where we want to go (at least where to start). Our next meeting will be Thursday, April 8 at 12:05 p.m. in T-100. We hope you can come. If you have not had your tax return completed, do not forget to bring it to a VITA session by Saturday, February 27.

ENTERTAINMENT

The Old Neck Biter Comes To CSC On March 5

by Jeff Bradley
Staff Writer

On Friday, March 5, Bram Stoker's Dracula is coming to Clayton State College. Winona Ryder and Keanu Reeves star in the movie based on Stoker's 1897 novel.

This Dracula belongs more to the cinematography of Francis Ford Coppola than to the writing of Bram Stoker, though. Mr. Coppola assumes that the audience already knows that Count Dracula (Gary Oldman) has come to London to prey on Mina Murray (Ryder). He tends to ignore the original plot, focusing, instead, on "inventive embellishment," according to an Atlanta Journal/Constitution reviewer. The reviewer went on to write that the film was, "more bombastic than scary."

Dracula will be screened in room G-132, at 1:15, 6:30, 8:45, and 11:00 p.m. The children's movie, That Darned Cat, will be shown in room G-127, at 6:30 and 8:45 p.m.

Clayton State Theater Presents Patience In Spivey Hall On March 12-13

Free Tickets Still Available for Both Performances

They're back! The madness of Gilbert and Sullivan will be unleashed again in Spivey Hall, Friday and Saturday nights, March 12-13 at 8:15 p.m. when Lyceum and Clayton State Theater present Patience, the story of a milkmaid loved by two poets. Wendy Baker sings the role of the milkmaid Patience, Tony Kimbrell and Phillip Shepherd play the two poets Reginald Bunthorne and Archibald Grosvenor. Bunthorne loves Patience, but loves more to be admired; Grosvenor has loved Patience since he was a baby.

Art has seldom been this silly or this delightful.

Bunthorne is pursued by maidens who long for his love and dote on his every utterance. The maidens include Lady Jane (Terri Finlinson), Angela (Gretchen Kelhoffer), Saphir (Donise Hall), Ella (Holly Hammock) and their companions (Gina Diamon, Paula Streible, and Donna Zicarelli).

The maidens a year ago were engaged to the 35th Dragoon Guards led by a Duke (Kyle Barnes), a Colonel obsessed with his uniform (Earl Miller) and a befuddled Major (Dwain Eidson). The Dragoon Guards also include Tim Mullen, Arnesto Ross, Russell Smith, Christopher Smith, Fritz Sullens, and Barney Trader.

The maidens switch their affections to Grosvenor when Patience agrees to marry Bunthorne who was about to be raffled off by his Solicitor (Patrick Butler). The Dragoon Guards are miffed at the broken engagement, Grosvenor despises the affection of the maidens, and Lady Jane pines for Bunthorne while aesthetically playing her cello.

Art has seldom been this silly or this delightful.

The production is directed by Dr. Larry Corse. Dr. John Peed has prepared the chorus. Holly Chatham and Dr. Robin Hensley will play the two-piano accompaniment. Choreography is by Terri Finlinson; set design is by Dwain Eidson and Larry Corse.

Patience can also be seen at a preview performance in Spivey Hall on Thursday, March 11 at 12:05 p.m. No tickets are needed for this performance. Admission is free for all performances. Tickets for the evening performances can be reserved by contacting the Spivey Hall box office (961-3683).

The Saints Go Marching Home With A Loss

CSC Defeats North Georgia For Homecoming

by Cameron D. Barham
Staff Writer

The Clayton State Lakers (13-11 over all, 5-6 district) came into their February 13 match up against the North Georgia College Saints (13-11, 4-8) having lost two close district games in a row. The Lakers were hungry for a homecoming victory after twice being denied.

The two teams battled back and forth in the first half of the initial period. Nine minutes into the game, Eric Boazman's 3-pointer gave Clayton a 17-14 lead. The Lakers never lost the lead.

CSC dominated the first half offensively and on the boards. They shot 58% from the floor and 63% from the 3-point zone. They also out rebounded the Saints by a margin of 24 to 15. The half ended with CSC leading 43-26.

Clayton's domination continued in the second half. The Lakers had another stellar shooting performance by hitting 50% of their shots from the floor. CSC finished the game with a 53% average from the floor, 41% from 3-point land, and 80% from the charity stripe. This added up to a 97-82 victory for CSC.

The Lakers had five players in double figures. Todd Holts led the way with 23 points and Carlos Head had 17. Josh Kammerer finished with 14 and Eric Boazman and David Viti each had 12. Dexter Brown led Clayton in rebounds with 10.

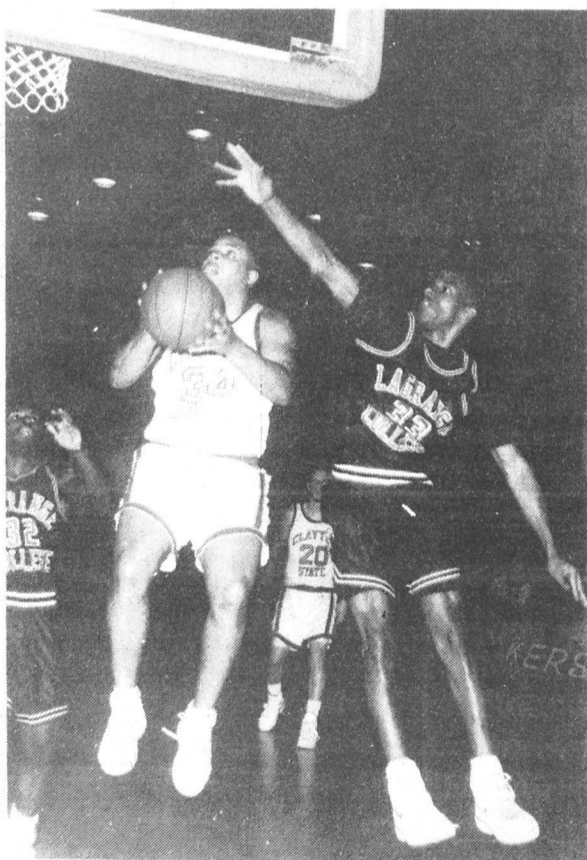

North Georgia was led by Paul Hodges with 18 points. He was followed by Calvin Ward with 13 and Daryl Johnson with 11. The team finished the game with an abysmal 9 of 30 from the free-throw line.

The story of the game was the milestone reached by Carlos Head. He became the first player in CSC history to score 1,000 points. Head nailed a 3-pointer with 3 minutes left in the game, giving Clayton a 90-66 lead. This is just another accomplishment in what has been an excellent college basketball career for Head.

The whole team will have a chance to reach a milestone. The Lakers are in an excellent position to go to the NAIA District 25 playoffs.

Lady Lakers Fall To The Lady Saints

The Clayton State Lady Lakers (13-0 over all, 3-7 district) entered their February 13 game against the North Georgia College Lady Saints (7-19, 3-7) having won only one of their last five games. This game was an important game in the race for a spot in the NAIA District 25 playoffs. In addition it was the LakerFest III homecoming game.

Lady Lakers' Coach Lynn Jarrett viewed this game as "one that North Georgia almost has to win." The Lady Saints proved that the pressure of having to win was not a hindrance.

North Georgia took control of the first half at the 12:12 mark with an 8-6 lead on a lay-up by Gena Gilstrap. From this point on, the Lady Lakers appeared disjointed and tentative on offense and defense during the first half. Clayton had problems. They turned the ball over and had difficulty getting key defensive rebounds.

CSC did make a run at the Lady Saints by scoring 8 unanswered points in a three-minute span near the end of the half. However, they gave up 6 straight points in the final 73 seconds of the half to give North Georgia a 31-20 lead at intermission.

Clayton opened the second half with a very aggressive defense that forced the Lady Saints to hit only 25% from the floor. This was a far cry from the 52% average that North Georgia shot in the first half.

The offense for CSC came alive after being down by 14 points with only 9:10 to go in the game. The Lady Lakers fought back to a 45-45 tie at the 2:36 mark but were unable to break into the lead. Clayton's hopes ended on a 3-point attempt by Tarla Tanner that came up short. The game ended in favor of North Georgia at 51-46. The Lady Lakers were led by Candi Wyatt and Dorian Ransby with 13 points each. Ruth Idahosa had another incredible rebounding performance, pulling down 14.

The key reason that CSC lost was that they made only 25% of their field goal attempts in the second half. Idahosa, the team's leading scorer, hit only 3 of 15 for the game. Clayton went 0 for 6 from 3-point land to round out their shooting performance.

The Lady Saints were led by Gina Gilstrap with 20 points and Chere Whitlock with 14 points. The team also had 7 blocked shots, 3 contributed by Gilstrap. playoffs.

Lady Lakers Update

Berry College's Lady Vikings defeated the Georgia Southwestern College Lady Hurricanes on February 17, assuring the Lady Lakers a spot in the playoffs, after only two seasons of competition. They went to Rome on February 20. The Lady Vikings beat the Lady Lakers 80-50. Thanks for an exciting year ladies.
