

According to information released by the Studies Abroad Program of the University System, students wishing to participate in a program this summer should get their applications in at once.

The Studies Abroad office is now located on the second floor of the Old College at the University of Georgia, and their new telephone number is (404) 542-5961. Mrs. Mary Schlundt is in charge of office operations.

They advise that the official deadline for applying for the German program has already passed because of the early reservations required by German universities. However, one or two places are being held in the program, and interested persons are urged to call the Studies Abroad office.

Other programs will include both spring and summer programs in Spain, summer programs in Cortona and Rome, Italy and in France. All except the Spanish Spring Program, departing April 2, will leave June 15 or 18, returning August 31 or September 1.

University System staff members will be supplemented by staff members from the host countries on all programs, their information states.
