CJC SCRAPBOOK JULY 1979 - JUNE 1980

INDEX

A	E	K	P
	F
				U
		L
В				V.
				V
				W
			Q
	G		R
		M
· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
			S
C	Н
		Mc		XYZ
		Mc		XYZ
		N		XYZ
				XYZ
D				XYZ
D				XYZ
D
D				X Y Z MISCELLANEOUS
D
D		N .
D
D		N .
D		N .
D		N .
D		N .

THE COLLEGE

Teacher drug seminar underway

A drug abuse education seminar is being held this week for Clayton teachers as part of a $10,000 United Way dinated by the Metro Atlanta Abuse and the Clayton Mental Health Department in cooperation with the Clayton school system.

information dissemination session included an ex-addict talking to teachers about her experiences with drugs, a program conducted by county police, a team life skills training session and guest speaker Waino W. Suojanen, who is a Georgia State University professor in the department of management and school of urban life, according to Bob Halford, MACAD director.

Dr. Suojanen has also been a speaker for the Southeast Drug Conference in Atlanta on two occasions on the topics, "Addiction, Management and the Minds of Man." and "Altered States of Consciousness and Coping with Addictive Behavior.'

The drug awareness seminar consisted of 50 hours of instruction over a

WAINO W. SUOJANEN, SPEAKER AT DRUG ABUSE EDUCATION SEMINAR Program Held For Clayton Teachers At CJC

CLAYTON CENTRAL SERVICE EMPLOYEES ATTEND WORKSHOP Studying At CJC Are, From Left, Jim Kelly, Newton Morgan And Joan Watkins

County government employees spend week at CJC workshop

School bells rang recently for a large group of Clayton County government employees.

The county workers spent a week enrolled in a Management and Communication workshop at Clayton Response to the workshop was so great, two sessions folks wanting to attend. The course was conducted by CJC's Office of Community Services and its Division of Business.

had to be scheduled to accommodate the number of

Course instructors included John Feathers, chairman of the Division of Business; Dr. Doris Cash, professor; W. Michael Field, assistant professor; and Charles Stone, instructor.

Topics covered in each four day session were: supervision, motivation, time management, body language, communication strategies, basic managerial skills and various management theories. Movies, lectures, group discussions and actual case studies were utilized to convey information to the students.

The idea, of the course, was to upgrade and enhance

"I'm glad we could offer county supervisors this learning opportunity," commented county commission chairman Charley Griswell. "And we appreciate Clayton Junior College's cooperation in conducting these training sessions for our people. They did a great job for us and we are grateful."

He continued: "Anytime you can upgrade the skills of county government employees, the people benefit. With better trained more professional folks, citizens can be served more efficiently and effectively. Better training breeds better employees, better services and better government. And that's what we're after, to find ways of making your government work better for

According to Ric Sanchez, CJC's Community Services director, the county government workshop was made possible through funding from Atlanta Area Technical School. Courses were especially geared for county government needs.

THE ATLANTA JOURNAL/CONST PIANO CONFERENCE 7/8

Clayton Junior College will host a southeastern music conference Monday through Friday. Events include a threeday conference, "The World of the Piano," Monday through Wednesday, and a "National Piano Symposium" Thursday and Friday. Jeannine Morrison is coordinator. For additional information, telephone 373-7923.

Chamber says strong action needed to promote county

Clayton image

Associate Publisher

Reaction of Chamber of Commerce representatives and governmental leaders followed a common theme Thursday night after the results of the chamber-sponsored "image study" of Clayton County were disclosed: Strong action is needed to promote a more favorable image of Clayton County, they agreed. Although the county's image is good among the located on a 163 acres and Both academic and ca-

The school offers the first two years of college work in reer programs are offered in the major fields of study, which are transferable without loss of credit to any university, senior or junior college in the state univer-grams, which combine reguar academic courses with special professional or para-

Some of the career programs include nursing, dental hygiene, medical technology, legal secretary and library/Media technical assistants, fire science technology and aviation adminis-

Other programs include

non-credit courses offered professional training.

In addition, the school of-the school's curriculum

people who live here, it needs polishing to appeal more to outsiders, the leaders concluded during an onstage press conference which was part of the program doubt in my mind that we got our money's worth. Now the leadership of the Chamber of Commerce has the important task of clearing up misconceptions of the county. We all need to join hands in identifying our problems and getting solutions to educational attributes

Griswell suggested that favorable aspects of Clayton County should be promoted on several fronts, including through the news media, personal contact, the Chamber of Commerce, business people and civic organizations

We must project ourseles stronger. We must advertise ourselves and be

Also responding to questions posed by media representatives were Representative Bill Lee and Ed Armentrout, consultant with quarterly by the community Some of the programs the department offered last year included assertiveness training, dance, interior design, flower arranging, positive parenting, creative writing, photography, yoga, relaxation skills and others. These courses are open ot all members of the community and are directed toward personal and pro-

Clayton Junior also offers

For more information. persons can call the school

10th Birthday

the two-year Nursing Pro-Staff Writer gram at Clayton Junior Col-The recent graduates include Doris A. Allison of Jonesboro, Patricia A. Bowers of Riverdale, Sondra H. Bush of Jonesboro, Elizabeth A. Conroy of Rex, Nancy C. Gifford of Forest Park and David L. Howe of

THE CLAYION NEIGHBOR

Program

lege recently

15 Finish 6/27/

Fifteen students from

Clayton County were listed

among the 41 graduates of

Other graduates from Clayton include Rebecca R. Key of Morrow and M. Ruthie Lloyd of Morrow, Michael A. McCullough of Morrow, Judy Ann Mills of Forest Park, Sylvia F. Morris of Forest Park, Howard S. Morrison of Jonesboro, Sherri L. Peterson of Riverdale, Karen L. Steedman of Morrow and Gwendolyn D. Sudduth of Jonesboro.

Arts Fair

Scheduled

Saturday

The Arts and Humanities

Council of Clayton County will sponsor a Celebration of Arts at Clayton Junior College August 18 from 10

There will be activities.

performances, displays, and workshops for all ages and interests. Activities will include puppetry, mime,

mid-eastern dancing, magic,

face painting, sculpture,

nature workshops, bag

pipes, woodcarving, photography art exhibits.

magic shows and singing.

The day is designed to be an ongoing day of festivities

with various types of activities to entertain and amuse all ages. Admission is an opportunity for the entire family to spend a fun-filled

For more information contact Becky Brown at 996-day together.

u the event provides a.m. to 4 p.m.

The graduates may now be licensed as registered nurses by the Georgia Board of Nursing.

The nursing program is one of 13 two-year career programs leading to immediate employment, and consists of six quarters of

Conference Is Slated

Atlanta-area piano teachers will be joined by instructors from throughout the nation during a week-long piano conference at Clayton Junior College which begins

Sponsored by the National Piano Foundation, a three-day conference entitled, "The World of Piano," will take place Monday through Wednesday, and will be followed by a twoday "National Group Piano Symposium on Thursday and 6 Friday.

All work sessions during the week-long program will be conducted at Clayton Jun-

Jeannine Morrison, assis-I tant professor of music at Clayton Junior, and Dr. Sally Monsour, head of the graduate program for music education at Georgia State University, will serve as local coordinators for the Many participants have pre-registered with the National Piano Foundation's office in Chicago, but late registrations will be ac-S cepted prior to the start of - each program.

Music teachers can register at Clayton Junior College at 8:30 a.m., Monday, 量 for the "World of Piano" conference and at 8 a.m. on July 12 for the "National Group Piano Symposium."

They Get

Eight Clayton residents

The program consists of seven consecutive quarters of full-time study and leads to an Associate in Arts Degree.

gram is limited to 32 students each year, and a graduate of the program may be licensed by the state as a practicing dental hygienist.

H & C Sun

Ends

Students will enjoy

Is Celebrated

it's 10th year of classes beginning with the 1979 fall

students over the past dec-fers two-year career pro-

Diplomas

were among the 30 students at Clayton Junior College who completed the two-year Dental Hygiene Program and received diplomas re-

They include Holly Bradberry of Forest Park, Barbara Castleberry of Forest Park, Cathy Gibson of Forest Park, Linda Jones of Conley, Sandra Keeth of Lake City, Cynthia Orihuela of Riverdale, Diane Powell of Lake City and Holly Stewart of Jonesboro.

Enrollment in the pro-

December 6, 1979 Quarter

At CJC

Fall quarter credit classes will end at Clayton Junior College this week and final examinations will begin. Classes will meet through Thursday, Dec. 6, and finals will get underway the following day. Examinations will continue through Thursday, Dec. 13.

CREDIT classes, which began in late September, attracted 2,900 students to the two-year institution near three-week holiday break between quarters. Winter quarter classes won't begin until Thursday, Jan. 3, 1980, the day after registra-

A unit of the University surrounded by three lakes in System of Georgia, Clayton Morrow Junior College will celebrate

The college was designed to meet the growing needs for higher education in the south metro area, and has adapted its program according to the charging needs of sity system. Clayton Junior is a two-services department.

fessional enrichment.

tration

two other special programs. the Freshman Scholar Program for high school seniors and the Special Studies Pro-

Chamber President Carl Rhodenizer, responding to a reporter's question about the value of the image study, said "There's no

He added that Clayton County has a good image to promote. "I see nothing wrong with buying land and homes at reasonable prices. And we have fine

Commission Chairman Charley

State Senator Terrell Starr said that willing to spend a little money doing Research Group, Inc., one of the firms which conducted the study.

Chamber executive vice president Stan May served as moderator for the press conference, which touched on subjects ranging from the possibility of obtaining four-year college status for Clayton Junior College to the county's position in relation to MARTA.

Answering a question about legalized sale of alcoholic beverages and its effect on Clayton's growth and image, Rep. Lee and Rhodenizer both said they believed legalization, 'properly handled," probably would promote growth. Rhodenizer said he had personal reservations about the use of alcohol and Sen. Starr said his position opposing alcohol is well known, "but several Clayton County cities have voted for legal sale of alcoholic beverages and it's an issue for the people to decide. I hope we can control it as it should be controlled," he said.

Griswell fielding a question about airport noise, stated that he is still hopeful of obtaining a favorable reaction to the county's request that take-off patterns be altered to divert raffic away from Clayton County in an effort to reduce the noise level. Both Lee and Starr said they favored four-year status for Clayton Junior College and are "pushing hard" for it. Starr said that Clayton Junior College president Harry S. Downs feels "we are now ready."

Both legislators also favored efforts to secure a vocational technical school for Clayton County to provide instruction for persons after completion of high school.

Starr, responding to a question about the future of MARTA and mass public transportation in Clayton County, noted that local citizens opposed joining MARTA "ten or twelve-to-one in the last referendum." Even if the public mood changed, he said, it could be 15 or 20 years before MARTA could be operational in Clayton County

"Basically, I think our mode of transportation here will not change appreciably within the next few years. May concluded the conference by observing that while the local media responded to the chamber's invitation to attend the meeting, most of the Atlanta press, television and radio stations did not.

He implied that this indifference could be one of the problems in favorably presenting Clayton County's image in other metro

THE ATLANTA JOURNAL 6/27/79 Clayton Image Studied

A consulting team hired to make a study on the image of Clayton County will make an oral and visual report of their findings to the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the auditorium at Clayton Junior College. The meeting is of a select group of community leaders by invitation only. The findings of the image study group will be released to the public at a

Harry Osborne (right), president of the Clayton County Bar Association, presents a $600 scholarship check to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of Clayton Junior College and a member of the CJC Foundation's Board of Trustees. To go into the foundation's general scholarship fund, the contribution increases the total given by members of the Bar Association to $3,200 during the last four years.

Health Students Among CJC Grads Graduates

Dental Hygienists Complete Two-Year Program

Thirty students completed Henry. the two-year Dental Hygiene Program at Clayton Junior College recently.

NEWS/DAILY

November 21, 1979

Student at Clayton Junior College

attempts to get water at a fountain outside of the tennis courts. He steps on the foot pedal and gets no water. As this continues, he puts his full weight on the pedal with still no results.

Finally he angrily looks down into the untain and gets a face full of water.

graduates in the Morrow in- associate in arts degree. stitution's ninth annual Commencement on June 9, Cobb, four each from Fulton students. and Fayette, two from Douglas, Rockdale, and limited to 32 students each Judy Cochrane, Fayet-

THE DENTAL Hygiene Program at Clayton Junior College consists of seven consecutive quarters of full-Listed among the 290 time study and leads to an

Applicants for the Program Dental Hygiene students must meet the admission rewere from a nine-county quirements of the College, area, including: 10 from as well as special require-Clayton County, five from ments of Dental Hygiene program may be licensed by the State of Georgia, as a practicing dental hygienist.

Enrollment in the Dental Carroll, and one each from Hygiene curriculum is Forest Park;

GRADUATES of the 1979 Dental Hygiene class are: Kim Ainsworth, Stockbridge; Angela Awalt, Temple; Brenda Bates, Marietta; Blankenship, Conyers; Holly Bradberry, Forest Park; Belinda Bryant, Austell; Nancy Caprara, College Park; Barbara Castleberry, Marietta; Elaine Fuller, Lithonia; Cathy Gibson, Forest Park; Christine Haer.

Conley; Sandra Keeth, Lake City; Cynthia Kroger, CAROLYN Levin, Atlan-ta; Karen Lomax, Marietta;

Decatur; Martha Melton,

year, and a graduate of the teville; Jackie Dorst, O'Connor, Atlanta; Cynthia Decatur; Karen Fletcher, Orihuela, Riverdale; Teresa Parker, Atlanta; Diane Powell, Lake City; Susan Reese, Douglasville; Kathy Seabaugh, Marietta; Holly Diane Hannan, Stewart, Jonesboro; and Villa Rica; Linda Jones, Mary Whitney, Peachtree

> Students enrolled in the 1980 Dental Hygiene class will begin their second year at Clayton Junior College in September, and candidates Marsha McCrimmon, for the 1981 class will begin College Park; Claudia their program.

Listed among the 280 stu- CJC's Nursing Program, Alberta M. Gatewood, dents who received associate and the examination of the degrees during Clayton Georgia Board of Nursing, Junior College's ninth an- graduates may be licensed nual Commencement this as Registered Nurses. year were 41 graduates of The Nursing Program, one the two-year Nursing of 13 two-year career Program. Students in the program mediate employment, conrepresented a six-county sists of six quarters of study,

Clayton County, 11 from

Fulton, three from Fayette, Candidates for acceptance two each from DeKalb and into the program must meet all admission requirements Coweta, and one from of the College as well as special requirements of the UPON COMPLETION of Nursing Program.

area, including 22 from and a new class begins each

September.

Junior College include: Elizabeth M. Adams, Peachtree City; Doris A. Allison, Jonesboro; Dana G. Boehmer, Locust Grove; Patricia A. Bowers, Riverdale; Sondra H. Bush, Jonesboro; Brenda J. Byrd, nan; Margaret S. Clarke, College Park; Brenda L. Coker, Hapeville; Elizabeth A. Conroy, Rex; Brenda A. Daniel, East Point; Ann W. Daugherty, Hapeville; Jimnie L. Dixon, College Park;

Park; Michael A. Mc-Cullough, Morrow; Mary J. GRADUATES of the 1979 Nursing class at Clayton McNutt, Ellenwood; Carla Ann Mills, Forest Park;

Riverdale; Jacquelyn Byrd, Grantville; Constance K. Cantwell, Atlanta; Jacqueline Cherry, New-

SYLVIA F. MORRIS, Forest Park; Howard S. Morrison, Jonesboro; Renee H. Payne, East Point; Sherri L. Peterson, Riverdale; Karen L. Steedman, Morrow: Gwendolyn D. Sudduth, Jonesboro; Peggy R. Valentine, Union City; and Joyce H. Whitelsey,

MYRNA M. GILLESPIE,

East Point; Nancy C. Gifford, Forest Park; Betty Ann

Halm, East Point; Cathi D.

Helms, Tucker; David L.

Howe, Jonesboro; Rebecca

R. Jey, Morrow; Deborah B.

Kujawa, Fayetteville; Gail

Lemoine, East Point; M. Ruthie Lloye, Morrow;

Sharon A. Long, college Park; Linda B. McCall,

East Point; Sharon A. Mc-

Clenny, Fayetteville; Amy

McCullough, College

A. Melzer, Decatur; Judy

More than 300 students

Broadcasters Workshop Is Planned Topics to be covered inanyone interested in gaining breaks. Registration will be A workshop to help broad-qualities will be held at characteristics of a good Clayton Junior College Feb. speaking voice, projection, Alan Shiller, an instructor pitch variations, vocal in the University of Georgia variety and articulation. The workshop is primarily department of speech communication, will lead the for radio and television anprogram, which will be held nouncers, station managers, in room D112 of the student program and news directors, public service directors and center building.

casters develop good speak- clude common voice production. ing voices and improve vocal problems in broadcasting, The workshop is spon-tion sored by Clayton Junior Registration information breath control resonance.

Education. cludes instruction, College, Morrow 30260, knowledge of effective voice limited to assure maximum opportunity for participa-

College and the University is available by contacting of Georgia College of Arts Margaret E. Holt, Univerand Sciences, department of sity of Georgia Center for speech communication and Continuing Education, Center for Continuing Athens, 30602, telephone Education. 542-2245; or Kathie A $45 registration fee in-Robichaud, Clayton Junior meterologists, but is open to materials, and refreshment telephone 363-7718.

Georgia Secretary of State David B. Poythress has presidential preference primary. Poythress invites judges of probate court, members of county boards of education, county attorneys, registrars, poll officers, poll watchers, candidates and interested citizens to attend the seminar. The seminar in this area will be held in the Lecture Hall at Clayton Junior College on Thursday, Fe. 7 from 9 a.m. to 12

December 20, 1979 NEWS/DAILY Election Seminar At CJC

announced that he will conduct a series of one-day election seminars prior to the state presidential preference primary. Georgia election officials will be briefed on the 1979 changes in the Georgia election laws as well as the procedures for conducting the noon. No pre-registration or fee is required.

Nursing Grads Number 41 from Clayton programs leading to im-

have graduated from the Nursing Program at CHAMBER, GOVERNEMTN OFFICIALS ANSWER QUESTIONS DURING 'IMAGE' STUDY PROGRAM Panel Included Chamber President Rhodenizer, Chairman Griswell, Sen. Starr, and Rep. Lee

CJC Slates Piano Conference

structors from throughout sour, head of the graduate terest to piano teachers of late registration will be acthe southeast and nation program for music educa- all levels....pre-school cepted prior to the start of during a week-long group tion at Georgia State through college. piano conference at Clayton Junior College July 9-13. Sponsored by the event. National Piano Foundation, three-day conference entitled "the World of Piano" will take place Monday Piano Foundation to spon- Marguerite Miller of ference, and at 8 a.m. on through Wednesday (July 9- sor this conference in a Kansas, coordinator of the Thursday (July 12) for the 11), followed by a two-day series of five scheduled this National Foundation, also two-day national group national group piano sym-posium on Thursday and for Eugene, Oregon; Denver, Friday. All work sessions during the week-long Ohio; and West Chester, is geared toward private ducted during the morning, program for piano teachers. Pennsylvania. studio teachers," Mrs. Moralternoon, and evening will be conducted at the two-year institution near University, will serve as Lynn Freeman Olson, rison pointed out. Music

Colorado; Bowling Green, "Group piano instruction Workshops will be con-specialists will present a students,' JEANNINE MOR- variety of pedagogical Many participants have rison at her Decatur home

Atlanta-area piano of Music at Clayton Junior methods, and supplementation's office in Chicago, but local coordinators for the highly-regarded and well-teachers may register at known writer/composer Clayton Junior College at The current national in- from New York City, will 8:30 a.m. on Monday (July terest in group piano in- head the clinicians 9) for the three-day World of struction led the National scheduled to appear. Piano group piano con-

rison explained, "to show throughout the week. them how to utilize time Atlanta-area residents who A TEAM of group piano more wisely with their seek additional information

RISON, assistant professor techniques, strategies, pre-registered with the (phone 373-7923)

each program, Mrs. Mor-

should contact Mrs. Mor-

CJC to host piano conference

teachers will be joined by instructors from throughout the southeast and nation piano conference at Clayton event. Junior College July 9-13.

Sponsored by the National terest in group piano in-Piano Foundation, a threeday conference entitled "the world of piano" will take this conference in a series of place Monday through Wednesday (July 9-11), followed by a two-day 'national group piano posium" on Thursday and Friday. All work Pennsylvania. sessions during the weeklong program for piano teachers will be conducted at the two-year institution near Morrow.

Jeannine Morrison, Assistant Professor of Music at Clayton Junior College,

The current national instruction led the National Piano Foundation to sponsor Others are planned for

A team of group piano will appear on the program week.

Atlanta area piano and Dr. Sally Monsour, head specialists will present a State University, will serve methods, and during a week-long group as local coordinators for the supplementary materials of teachers of all levels....preschool through college.

Lynn Freeman Olson, highly-regarded and wellknown writer-composer five scheduled this summer. from New York City, will registration will be accepted. head the clinicians Eugene, Oregon; Denver, scheduled to appear. Colorado; Bowling Green, Marguerite Miller of Kan- conducted during the "Group piano instruction of the graduate program for variet of pedagogical is geared toward private music education at Georgia techniques, strategies, studio teachers," Mrs. Morrison explained, "to show them how to utilize special interest to piano time more wisely with their students

Many participants have pre.registered with the National Piano Foundation's office in Chicago, but late

Workshops will be National Foundation, also evening throughout the Pollshows good, bad localimage

Associate Publisher

Clayton County took a searching look at itself in the mirror of public opinion Thursday night and discovered a double image.

Clayton residents' view of the county as a place to work and live is generally flattering, an "image" survey revealed, but those living elsewhere in metropolitan Atlanta see more flaws.

Results of the special image study commissioned by the Clayton County Chamber of commerce were reviewed during a meeting of chamber members and other invited citizens at Clayton Junior College. The county imageespecially as seen by outsiders--needs polishing, chamber and governmental leaders participating in the program agreed.

The study, which sampled opinion of about 700 respondents, was conducted by two Atlanta companies, Research Group, Inc., a private governmental consulting firm, and the public relations company of Brown-Gray Ltd.

The survey sought views on Clayton County's educational system, governmental units, shopping opportunities, transportation, desirability as a location for new industry, cultural aspects and livability. Both residents and nonresidents of Clayton County were surveyed.

A summary of the study showed that while most Clayton countians think well of their county, many who live in other metro areas have a poor image of the county or are too unfamiliar with it to have clear-cut opinions.

The purpose of the study is to bring forth ideas and opinions from which to set goals for future development, Chamber president Carl Rhodenizer said.

County residents surveyed gave Clayton high marks in most categories, including the prices of home and land (lower than other metro counties), the quality of schools and over-all quality of living in Clayton County. "Good or excellent" was the way 74 per cent of respondents who live here described their county. Aspects of life in Clayton County which drew most criticism of residents were availability of jobs and cultural and entertainment opportunities here.

Persons living outside Clayton County, but who are familiar with it, also have negative impressions of the cultural and entertainment activities available, the survey revealed. Outsiders in the "over $20,000" income bracket were more inclined to view Clayton County as "Backward."

In general, however, the survey showed that those outsiders who are familiar with Clayton County speak favorably of it. State and metro Atlanta political leaders regard the county as "about the same as the rest of metro Atlanta." Other outsider respondents who have knowledge of the county, the study group said, "regard the county as having low priced homes, good schools, good college, lots of nearby shopping, good natural environment and friendly Local businesses sampled showed that 56 per cent of Clayton's business leaders live within the county. Businessmen, asked for a one-word assessment of the county, responded most often with "growth," "nice," and "opportunity." A majority of the business people surveyed favored local sale of alcoholic beverages by the drink, as did most of the local Clayton County officials interviewed.

Other Clayton County residents interviewed reached no consensus of whether alcoholic beverages by the drink should be sold here, the survey summary reported.

In analyzing the surveys, Chamber officials concluded that the primary factors influencing people to locate in a given area include location of job, prices of homes and land, "livability," friends and relatives nearby and environmental quality.

Business leaders with firms in Clayton County and with homes outside of Clayton and residents with homes in counties in metropolitan counties other than Atlanta find environmental quality more important than those who chose to reside in Clayton, the survey revealed. And the report concluded that businesses which choose metro counties rather than Clayton cite a number of reasons. They include: lack of entertainment, restrictions against alcoholic beverages by the drink, poor image, lack of promotion, lack of quality housing, lack of freeport and lack of adequate water and sewer services in the county.

The full report of the Clayton County Image Study is a 90-page document. It is on file at the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce office and copies are also available for purchase, officials said.

Results of the study will be reported in detail in future editions of News-Daily.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR 8/16/79 Clayton Junior Offers

Course At Feldwood High

Clayton Junior College will be offering credit courses this fall Stockbridge include English III at Feldwood High School and at Stockbridge High School.

venture by the two-year institution near Morrow and the States since the Civil War. Fulton and Henry County boards of education, according will be limited to spaces to Annete B. Satterfield. Director of Admissions and Registrar.

will be included in the classes, cepted. enrollment will not be limited to encourage them to enroll," Satterfield said.

The course offered at English III. The class will be meet all admission requirement held in the early afternoon and of Clayton Junior College. For includes the basic principles of complete details, call the Office paragraph and

Morning classes scheduled at and History 252 which presents an inquiry into selected areas of The courses are part of a joint the social, intellectual and cultural growth of the United

Enrollment in both classes available, Satterfield said, adding that 17 seniors from Feldwood and M.D. Collins Although high school students High have already been ac-Each class will carry five such students. "We want to hours of college credit and make all community residents enrollment fees for each course aware of these offerings and will be $62.50 plus an $8 student services fee. Registration deadline is Sept. 4.

To be admitted, into off-Feldwood this fall will be campus classes, students must theme of Admissions and Records at

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 8/16/79 Summer Quarter Ends At CIC

ses for the special second classes will continue session which began on July through December 13. 25 will continue through Friday, Aug. 24. day, Aug. 28, while second Aug. 27 and 28.

Summer quarter classes STUDENTS who are at Clayton Junior College enrolled in Summer Quarter will end next week and final classes will enjoy almost a examinations will continue month break before the Fall into the following week. Quarter begins. Registration Credit classes in the Colfor Fall classes will be conlege's regular session which ducted on September 24, began on June 19 will end and classes will begin the Tuesday, Aug. 21, but clas- following day. Fall quarter

New students who plan to enroll in fall quarter classes Finals for students enrol- 'should contact the College's led in the regular session Office of Admissions and will begin on Wednesday Records at 363-7723 for comand continue through Tues- plete information. All applications and credentials session exams will be given for credit programs must be on Monday and Tuesday, filed with the College by Sept. 4.

P.R. Student Does Internship

At Woodward Academy

Southern College in work out a quality program Scout Council in Savannah Statesboro, a student is refor a Public Relations stuard the Regional Hospital quired to do an internship dent. with a company or school that has a PR office. To be adequately prepared for the internship, students wait fulfill the intern requirement.

Mark Kelly of Savannah has started his internship at Woodward Academy in College Park. The son of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Kelly Jr., Kelly is finishing his college education by doing publicity for Woodward Academy and the various sports camps held throughout the summer at the metropolitan Atlanta school. Along with publicity, Kelly will design a slide show for the school, assist with summer publications and aid Alumni and Development Director Paul Stockhammer.

This is the first internship at Woodward Academy.

To receive a B.S.in location and Stockham- Company, Clayton Junior Speech with emphasis in mer's research enabled Public Relations (PR) Georgia Southern and degree from Georgia Woodward Academy to Prior to starting his internship, Mark worked as student assistant to Larry until their last quarter to Albright in the Sports Information office at Georgia Southern. Other jobs relating to the Public Relations field include two years as a tour guide for the Historic Savannah Foundation and two summers as a desk clerk at the I-95 Holiday Inn in Savannah.

Dr. Clarence McCord, head of the Georgia Southern Speech department, developed the Public Relations major at the Statesboro school. When he prepared the curriculum, the need for on the job training was the "foundation" of the program, therefore the internship completes a student's requirements for graduation

Internships in the seven at Woodward Academy. year old program have in-The need for a new intern cluded the Georgia Power

College, Cumberland Mall, South Lake Mall, Lockheed International, The Girl in Orangeburg, South

In designing the intern program. Dr. McCord has selected organizations which provide quality supervision and activities to prepare students for a career in Public Relations.

Piano Conference Slated At CJC teachers will be joined by in- variety of pedagogical National Piano Foundastructors from throughout techniques, strategies, the southeast and nation methods, and supplemenduring a week-long group piano conference at Clayton Junior College July 9 through 13. Sponsored by the National Piano Foundation, a three-day conference entitled "the World of Piano" will take place Monday through Wednesday, followed by a two-day "national group piano sym-posium" on Thursday and Friday. All work sessions during the week-long program for piano teachers will be conducted at the two-year institution near Morrow.

Jeannine Morrison, assistant professor of Music at Clayton Junior College, and Dr. Sally Monsour, head of the graduate program for music education at Georgia State University, will serve as local coordinators for the

The current national interest in group piano in-struction led the National Piano Foundation to sponseries of five scheduled this summer. Others are planned for Eugene, Oregon; Denver, Colorado; Bowling Green, Ohio; and West Chester, Pennsylvania. A team of group piano

Atlanta-area piano specialists will present a pre-registered with the tary materials of special interest to piano teachers of all levels....pre-school through college. Lynn Freeman Olson, highly-regarded and wellknown writer/composer from New York City, will head the clinicians scheduled to appear. Marguerite Miller of Kansas, coordinator of the National Foundation, also will appear on the program.

is geared toward private afternoon, and evening studio teachers," Mrs. Morrison explained, "to show them how to utilize time seek additional information more wisely with their students.' Many participants have (phone 373-7923).

Workshops will be con-"Group piano instruction ducted during the morning, throughout the week. Atlanta area residents who should contact Mrs. Morrison at her Decatur home tion's office in Chicago, but late registration will be accepted prior to the start of each program, Mrs. Morrison pointed out. Music teachers may register at Clayton Junior College at 8:30 a.m. on Monday (July

9) for the three-day "world of piano" group piano conference, and at 8 a.m. on Thursday (July 12) for the two-day "national group

piano symposium.'

IIM KELLY, NEWTON MORGAN AND JOAN WATKINS OF CLAYTON'S CENTRAL SERVICES DEPARTMENT Clayton Junior College Officials Had To Schedule Additional Class Sessions Because Of Response

School Bells Ring

Workers Learn Skills

School bells rang recently for a strategies, basic managerial skills large group of Clayton County government employees. The county workers spent a week enrolled in management and communication workshop at Clayton Junior College sponsored by the college's Office of Community Services and its Division of Business.

Course instructors included John Feathers, chairman of the Division of Business; Dr. Doris Cash, professor, W. Michael Field, assistant professor; and Charles Stone, instructor.

Topics covered in each four day session included supervision, motivation, time management, body language, communication and various management theories, according to a spokeswoman

Movies, lectures, group discussions and actual case studies were utilized to convey information to the students. According to the spokeswoman, the idea of the course was to upgrade and enhance the managerial skills of county employees in supervisory positions.

"I'm glad we could offer county supervisors this learning opportunity," commented Clayton Commission Chairman Charley Griswell. "And we appreciate Clayton Junior College's cooperation in conducting these training sessions for our people. They did a great job and we are grateful.' He continued, "Anytime you can upgrade the skills of county government employees, the people 'With better trained, more professional folks," Griswell said, "citizens can be served more efficiently and effectively. And that's what we're after, to find ways of making your government work better for you.

According to Ric Sanchez, the college's community services director, the county government workshop was made possible through funding from Atlanta Area Technical School.

NEWS/DAILY CJC hosts sessions on piano

Clayton Junior College hosted five days of group piano conferences for piano teachers of all levels this week. Instructors from the south metropolitan Atlanta area were joined by teachers from across the nation.

A three-day conference entitled "the world of piano," spensored by the National Piano Foundation, began Monday and was followed by a two-day "national piano symposium" on Thursday and Friday.

Pedagogical techniques, strategies, methods and supplementary materials special interest to all piano teachers were provided by clinicians at the "world of piano conference.

Writer-composer Lynn Freeman Olson of New York, headed the list of clinicians at the conference. Other teachers included Fred Kern, Marguerite Miller, Jeannine Morrison, Doris Allen, Ted Pandel, Steve Lee, and Anna Belle Bogner. Overall coordinator of "the world of piano conference" was Marguerite Miller professor of music and coordinator of keyboard studies at Wichita State University and a member of the Education Advisory Board tro the National Piano Foundation.

Jeannine Morrison, assistant professor of music at Clayton Junior Cillege, and Dr. Sally Monsour, head to the graduate program for music education at Georgia State University, served as local coordinators for the Advanced training in communications skills, sight reading, and other areas were introduced at the National Group Piano Symposium. Brenda Rager, instructor of Keyboard Programs at Brookhaven College in Dallas, Texas headed the two-day program.

(L-R) Linda Garcia. Lyra Crapps of Jonesboro. Brenda Rager HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN July 19, 1979

Scholarships Donated

Members of the Clayton County Bar Association have funded two scholarships sponsored by the Clayton Junior College Foundation. Receiving the $720 contribution on behalf of the Foundation's Board of Trustees was Dr. Harry S. Downs (second from right), president of the college. Making the presentation for the Bar Association were, left to right: Joe Todd, treasurer; James Bradley, president; and Harry Osborne, vice president.

Looking ahead for college scenes

Since Clayton Junior College is in our midst, and undergoing discussions about advancing to four-year status, it behooves us to pay attention to trends in higher

Clayton Junior College is one of our community's bright stars of progress. It was brought about after the State of Georgia, under the guidance of former Gov. Carl Sanders, embarked upon a series of junior colleges over the state. The aim was to take education to all nooks and corners of Georgia, putting a college within commuting distance of fifty miles of every citizens. Generally, this has been done. The formula was simple. The local community had to furnish the land, put up the money for the opening facilities, and give it all to the state. Clayton was one of those counties willing and able to do that. Local citizens responded to a bond issue called by the Board of Education for almost five million dollars. It was passed overwhelmingly. In 1969, the college opened its doors and it has been growing ever since. Most recently Clayton Junior College has claimed the title of Georgia's largest enrollment, among junior colleges, and continues to hang on to that

But of the future? Clayton County is prominently mentioned for two advances in higher education---a four-year commuting college and a vocational or technical school on the order of Southern Tech near Marietta. Both offerings are needed, in our opinion.

You will note that growth factors brought Southern Tech to Cobb County, and more recently has increased Kennesaw's offering to those of a four-year college. Some would like for Clayton Junior College to follow this pattern.

However, there are some who don't follow this thinking. They want Clayton to remain "a superior" junior college. They also want a tech school separated from the liberal arts college grounds. The Southern Regional Education Board, whose offices are in Atlanta, regularly does a profile on southern educational particularly in coordinating efforts for the betterment of all education on the college level in all states. Working together, our colleges and universities have been able to prevent overlapping. Nationwide, the 18-24 year noticeable trend of older students and women making up an increasing part of the enrollment of our colleges. This develops because of the growing part-time students, now looked upon as the key to a volume of students for

The Southern Regional

Education Board has done wonders for the southern states in promoting higher education, numbers and there will be a larger share of persons over 24 years old.

This greater percentage of older people will be matched by a larger number of students from this age group, a factor of considerable importance to the college future.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

colleges during the 1980s.

trends. These latest findings should be of interest in helping our community arrive at some ideas about its own college thinking. For instance, there is a

Thus, if these are accurate projections, Clayton Junior College sits in an enviable seat no matter four-year college, or continued two-year existence, will be smiled upon by the ones who seek college into the technical school offerings.

August 2, 1979

And of its planning for effective curriculum, too. Thus, in the face of these that public two-year colleges and statistics, it is good to remember urban universities are more than likely to be the prime growth institutions. There is no doubt that these institutions are in the midst of the populations which will be seeking college enrollment.

These factors will have much to do with plans for Clayton's fouryear status, and for its advance what its future status. Likely a bracket will be declining in

July 22, 1979

Airport noise hearing at CJC

By ANGEL RODRIGUEZ

News Editor Months of study on airport flight patterns and aircraft noise over Clayton County will be discussed in the form of noise abatement alternatives at a public hearing Monday night at Clayton Junior

Jim Bradley, coordinator of an 18-month study sponsored by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), the cities of Atlanta, Forest Park and College Park, and the Clayton County government, said Friday public input is sought on 10 different sets of plans affecting Clayton County.

"We have arrived at considerations by engineers and other professionals, and citizens advisory committees, but you have to get input from the people in this suggestions gathered at earlier public hearings will be available at the hearing, as well as a panel of engineers and representatives to explain noise abatement alternatives in detail, the project coordinator added.

The hearing Monday night will be in building G2 of the Clayton Junior College campus. According to Bradley, signs will be posted on the campus roads to lead visitors to ths meeting room.

County Commission Chairman Charley Griswell stressed the importance of the Monday night

"This is an important meeting," he said. "I urge all people in areas concerned about (airplane) noise now and in the future to attend." Griswell added, "it is important that people in these areas know what the airport could do to them."

Ah-One and Ah-Two...

Drill team director Linda Vaughn, right, demonstrates various marching techniques to Lisa Williams as Marlina Jordan and Laura Davis look on. The Dixie Choreography Camp, sponsored by the Clayton County Parks and Recreation Department, was held recently on the Clayton Junior College campus.

CJC may expand to 4 years Asked when the request might Junior College a four year institution is underway by Clayton County legislators, according to State Sen. Terrell Starr.

Starr said that he and the county's other legislators have decided to make a formal request to the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia, asking that they make CJC a four year school. He said he had already mentioned the plan to Gov. Busbee. "We have the finest two-year college in the state, and we believe its time to make it a four-year college," Starr asserted.

me made, Starr said, "We are not too far from it.'

CJC President Harry Downs said the school could make the transition, if asked by the Board of Regents.

"If the Board wants us to, I see no reason why we couldn't turn CJC into a good, four-year college. We are certainly capable of that." Downs said he has not studied what is required for such a transition, but he estimated that the switch would take four years: two years for planning; one year for adding a junior class; and one year for adding a senior class.

"With a four year college there are abvious differences in terms of facilities, especially in the sciences," Downs continued. Departments such as chemistry and physics would require additional, more sophisticated laboratories if they are to offer majors, he said. Certain changes would also have to be made in the library, since the resources needed by upper level students differ somewhat from those in their first two years.

One major addition would be new faculty members, a certain percentage of whom would have to have doctorate degrees for the school to be accredited as a four year institution.

Since Fall of 1975 CJC has had a gradual decline in students. That year saw 3,598 students attending; this past fall the school enrolled 2,965 students.

A substantial decrease occurred in 1976 when there was a cutback in Veterans benefits.

NEWS/DAILY Wednesday, August 1979

Celebration Of Arts Slated For Saturday

Council of Clayton County is sponsoring a Celebration of Arts to be held Saturday, August 18, at Clayton Junior College from 10 a.m. until 4

The day is designed to include ongoing festivities for all ages and admission will be free, according to Becky Brown, Council member.

The schedule of events and their locations that day are as follow. Puppeteer Alan Sugar will perform outside at the college from 10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. The Morrow High School band will perform outside from 10:30 to 11 a.m. Curt Williams will conduct a hands-on puppetry workshop in D-112 from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon. Mid-Eastern dancing will be held outside from 11 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Tom Mertl will perform on the guitar and sing outside from 11 a.m. to 12 noon. Eric Hahn, director of the Reynolds Preserve, will conduct a nature and arts for adults program outside from 11 a.m. to 12 noon. A creative arts workshop will be held ir. the college's television lounge from 11:30 a.m. to

John Mohr will perform on the McIntosh pipes and drums outside from 12 noon

The Arts and Humanities to 12:30 p.m. A puppet show Alliance outside along with will be held in D-112 from 12 pottery demonstrations, face noon to 12:30 p.m. and the Clayton County Community band will perform outside from 12:30 to 1 p.m.

Dr. Jim Braun, professor of magic, will perform magic tricks outside from 1 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. Chen Jen, a Chinese artist, will have an exhibit of his work and demonstrate Chinese brush painting from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Another creative arts workshop will be held in the television lounge from 1:30 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. and a nature and arts program for kids will be taught by Eric Hahn outside from 1:30 to Mallie Haralson will demonstrate mime outside from 2 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

A fencing demonstration will take place outside from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. and the Forest Park High School band will perform from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. A magical clown "Short-Tee" will perform outside from 3 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and the XYZ club will present a one act play entitled "A Breath of Spring" from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Continuous programs during the day include an art exhibit by the Clayton Art

Jerry Lucas. A photography exhibit will be held in the television lounge; music display and games in D-116; sculpture and prints in D-108 and a slide presentation by Historical Jonesboro in the upstairs lobby in the D building at the college.

Club Plans 500 Meter Run At CJC

painting and woodcarving by

The Morrow Lions Club will sponsor a "fun run"

The 500 meter run will > begin at Clayton Junior College at 8:30 a.m. with prizes going to the first. second, Z and third place finishers in z mens and womens divisions. T-shirts will be given to the first 250 finishers. The advance entry fee is $4, entry fee the day of the All proceeds from the run will go to the Georgia Con-sight Conservation Pro-∞ gram, Georgia Lighthouse

for the Blind and the Geor-N

gia Eye Bank.

Clayton Jr. Offers Many New Non- Credit Courses

Clayton Junior College is offering a number of non-credit courses for the first time this quarter.

Included among the more than 80 classes offered through the College's Office of Community Services will be such new topics as "soft sculpture," "professional development for executive secretaries," "beginning crocheting," "birds in your backyard," "understanding the weather," and "exercise and weight training for adults."

In addition, advanced classes in "principles of supervision" and "rapid reading" will be offered for the first time.

These and other noncredit classes offered by week of January 14-18, and since most classes have limited enrollments, participants should phone the Office of Community Services (363-7717; to reserve a place in class.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

August 9, 1979

Summer Blues?

CJC Has Programs to Give Youngsters Excitement

By KEVIN KINCHELOE

Are your children bored this summer? Are they looking for excitement other than at Six Flags and the local pool, while you're simultaneously searching for something constructive for them to occupy themselves with?

Clayton Junior College has come up with a partial solution, if the problem comes up in future.

This summer, the college is offering a group of bright junior high-age youngsters a chance to improve their knowledge in a variety of fields. Each Tuesday and Thursday, career services courses in tennis, music theory and computers are being held.

In charge of the music theory class is Lyra Crapps, a part-time piano teacher who first became involved with CJC community services in 1974. Mrs. Crapps started out by having her nine students do exercises on their impressive-looking Wurlitzer electronic pianosa tactic designed "to let you see how the instrument works. The talk soon became technical in nature, enough to demand concentration from a reporter who spent nine years in a band

CJC Quarter Nears End

Summer Quarter classes through Tuesday, August 28, should contact the College's

Students who are enrolled program, but the youngsters seemed to take it all in

The main thrust of the day's class was in the art of transposing music where, as one girl put it, the goal is to "change it to a different key." Not nearly as simple of the music class was remarkable accomplishments that the students were able to achieve at the pianos. Using a simple pattern of notes, with the talented Mrs. Crapps improvising, they were able to produce some sounds of a near professional calibre-

Office of Admissions and Records at 363-7723 for complete information. All applications and credentials

for credit programs must be filed with the College by

September 4.

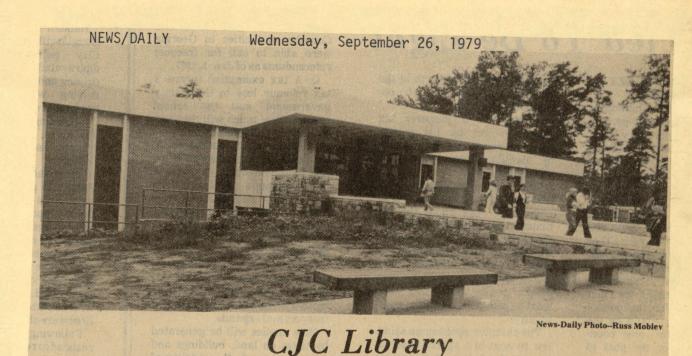

certainly something different from the five finger exercises you might expect. Do all the students plan to make a career of music? Mrs. Crapps doesn't know, but says she is anxious to "better acquaint them for whatever their needs are in music-to broaden their horizons." During the fiveweek program, she is able to The most impressive part find time to give each student personal attention, and little homework to boot, she

> From NORAD's classified super-computers that were used to compute the trajectory of Skylab to the Texas Instruments calculators which can fit into your pocket, computers play an important part in all our Thanks, in part, to the space program, size and costs keep decreasing while efficiency goes up refreshing in today's world. Fifteen interested students are learning more about this from a computer expert named Dr. Bob Kropa. Although the chalkboard was filled several times with complex notes, Dr. Kropa is able to use his immense grasp of the subject to make the world of computers fun and simple for his pupils.

Students Already Enrolling

College Offers Community Courses

terfield, director of ad- County, daytime courses be limited to such students.

Clayton Junior College missions and registrar.

will be offered at Feldwood off-campus location in two-year institution near Although high school stu-Ssouth Fulton this fall, ac- Morrow and the Board of dents will be included in the cording to Annete B. Sat- Education from Fulton classes, enrollment will not Mrs. Satterfield said.

will conduct courses at one In a joint venture by the High School near Union City. community residents aware will be offered. It will be an of these offerings and to early afternoon offering. encourage them to enroll.' At Feldwood High during Tuesday marked the beginning of Clayton Junior

College's eleventh year and the start of classes for the new fall quarter. Despite some furniture not having arrived, students were able to use the new CJC library,

Wednesday, August 15, 1979

"We want to make all the fall quarter English 111 ited to spaces available,

Currently 17 seniors from Feldwood and M.D. Collins High have been accepted. Participating in the shown above. Precise enrollment figures were not available, but about 2900 students are registered for the fall term. Also, about 1400 people will be taking non-credit courses at CJC during the coming session.

college's "freshman scholar program," these students will receive both high school and college credit for satisfactory completion of course work

Each class will carry five quarter hours of college credit and enrollment fees for each course will be $62.50 ($12.50 per quarter credit hour). In addition, regardless of the number of hours taken, each student must pay an $8 student services fee.

Courses offered on the campus cost $9.50 per quarter credit hour, or $47.50 for a five-hour course plus the $8 student services fee. For complete information about applications and procedures, contact the Office of Admissions and Records in the Administration Building at 363-7723.

CJC leads junior colleges in enrollment

By SAM HODGES Staff Writer

at Clayton Junior College while second session exams will end next week and final will be given on Monday and examinations will continue Tuesday, August 27 and 28.

Credit classes in the in Summer Quarter classes

College's "regular session" will enjoy almost a month which began on June 19 will break before the Fall end on Tuesday, August 21, Quarter begins. Registration

but classes for the special for Fall classes will be

"second session" which conducted on September 24, began on July 25 will con- and classes will begin the tinue through Friday, following day. Fall Quarter

August 24. Finals for classes will continue through regular session will begin on New students who plan to Wednesday and continue enroll in Fall Quarter classes students enrolled in the December 13.

into the following week.

Despite an enrollment drop from last year, Clayton Junior College again leads all 15 state junior colleges in number of students, according to statistics released by the University System of Georgia.

CJC had an 8.2 percent drop in enrollment from Spring 1978 to Spring 1979, going from 2,568 to 2,358. That decrease was higher proportionately than the rest of the system, which enrolled 2.6 percent less students in Spring 1979 than

Even with the drop, CJC had more students than six of the 17 four-year colleges within the system, including North Georgia College, Georgia Southwestern College, Albany State College, and the Medical College of Georgia, Fort Valley State College, and Savannah State College.

Among state junior colleges, Macon Junior College was second in enrollment with 2,077 students. Unlike most Georgia colleges, MJC rose in attendance by 4.7 percent over Spring 1978.

Year to year statistics show CJC enrollmednt declining slightly but consistently from 1977, when the school had 3140 students Fall term. From Fall 1977 to Fall 1978 attendance went from 3140 to 2965, a drop of 175 students. From Winter 1978 to Winter 1979 enrollment dropped from 2838 to 2691, a loss of 147 students. Spring statistics show a drop of 210 students. This summer CJC has, for the first time, offered a split session curriculum along with its regular summer-long courses. Students are able to complete certain courses in five weeks, instead of the traditional 10 weeks. CJC admissions officials said earlier that the new plan was devised to increase attendance among those students who wanted vacation time during the summer, but also wanted to continue their schooling. Last week state Sen. Terrell Starr (D-Forest Park) said that the Clayton County legislative delegation would be making a formal request to the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia that they make CJC a four year

In response, CJC President Harry Downs said the school is ready to make the change, if asked to by the Board of Regents.

Business

Students At Clayton Junior College Pursue Degrees, Business Careers

People are looking for a practical approach, as well as a textbook approach' -- John Feathers

· Calvin Coolidge once made the not so obvious assertion that "the business of America is business." Also recognizing the importance of commerce to this country is Clayton Junior College, where one can receive most any kind of business

Last winter 680 CJC students were pursuing a major within the business division, a number that represents nearly one fourth of the student population. That group of 680 falls into two categories: those who intend to finish college at a four year institution; and those who are ready for a career upon graduation from

John Feathers, chairman of the business division, offers encouraging words for those in the former category.

"Some people do not look upon the junior college as quite the same as a regular college or university, but actually the first two years are equivalent. Courses from CJC will transfer without difficulty to any four year college within the University System of Georgia.'

According to Feathers, a majority of the theoretically minded business majors go on to either Georgia State or the University of Georgia, where they get degrees in

While at CJC, they take courses in accounting and economics, along with other requirements necessary for a four year degree.

Many of the students studying business at CJC do so with a specific reason: to get career training for immediate employment. For them there is less emphasis on theory and more on developing marketable sills within their chosen field.

For example, a Delta employee might enroll in the aviation administration sequence and take such courses as passenger operations, air cargo handling, airline ground operations and maintenance, and aviation economics; all these apply directly to a career with the airlines.

This particular sequence is unique because the instruction comes from Georgia State University. Classes are held at CJC, but the professors drive down from the four-year school.

"It's a matter of convenience for those students who do not want to drive downtown," Feathers said. "In view of the gas shortage, it seems to have been an excellent idea."

Secretarial studies is a less glamorous, but no less important part of the division of business. Those choosing this curriculum major either in a program in general secretarial studies or one that prepares the student to be a legal secretary.

BUSINESS DIVISION LEADERS DISCUSS UPCOMING TERM John Feathers, (Left), Chats With SBDC Director Lee Woodward

Students in the secretarial programs spend more time n the business laboratory than any other group within the division. The lab, which consists of typewriters and other business machines, courses. Currently, they are looking for a professor who can claim several years of. working in the field which he plans to teach.

"It's important to the students," asserts Dr. Doris Cash, professor of business. "They want to have a teacher who has had first hand experience, who knows the problems they will be

Story By Sam Hodges

We have ordered some magnetic card typewriters and some other new machines so that our students will have the advantage of having learned on the kind of equipment being used today," Feathers

Other programs offered within the career section of the business division include accounting, banking and finance, and business management.

Members of the business division faculty are aware of the need to have instructors with practical experience to teach the career-oriented

"People are looking for a practical approach, as well as a text book approach,"

Feathers added. Besides teaching, the 12 business faculty members conduct workshops, supervise CETA training programs, assist the Small Business Development Center, and counsel their students in both academic and business matters.

They also help students in stepping out of CJC into the world of employment.

"We are very active in assisting students in finding jobs," Feathers said

Clayton JC Offers Credit Courses

Clayton Junior College will conduct credit courses at two offcampus locations this fall, according to Annete B. Satterfield, Director of Admissions and Regis-

In a joint venture by the two-year institution near Morrow and the Boards of Education from Henry County and Fulton County, daytime courses will be offered at Stockbridge High School and at Feldwood High School

The college participated in its first offcampus credit course offerings at Stockbridge High last year. Off-+ campus locations for non-credit Community Services programs have d been operated for a a number of years.

Although high school students will be included in the classes, enrollment will not be limited to such students.

STOCKBRIDGE COURSES

Morning classes scheold duled at Stockbridge High w English High will include an composition course (entitled English ≥ III - Composition) and ≥ an American history 무 class (entitled History 252 - American Civilization II). English III includes the basic principles of paragraph and organization, theme while History 252 presents an inquiry into selected areas of the social, intellectural, and cultural growth of the United States since the Civil War.

Enrollment in classes at both high schools will be limited to spaces available, Mrs. Satterfield pointed out. Currently, 15 seniors from Stockbridge and Henry County High School, and 17 from Feldwood and M.D. Collins High have been accepted.

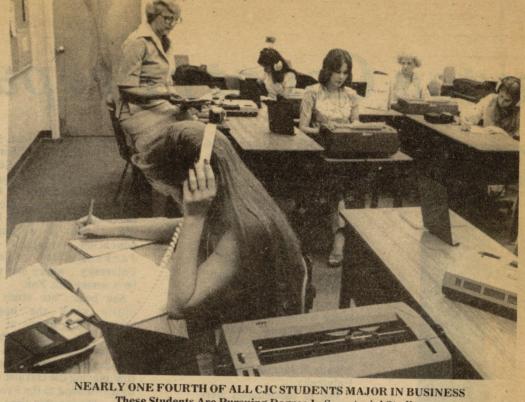

Participating in the college's "freshman scholar program," these students will receive both high school and college credit for satisfactory completion of course work.

Each class will carry five quarter hours of college credit, and enrollment fees for each course will be $62.50 ($12.50 per quarter credit hour). In addition, regardless of the number of hours taken, each student must pay an $8 student services fee. Courses offered on the CJC campus cost $9.50 per quarter credit hour, or $47.50 for a five-hour course plus the $8 student services fee. To be admitted into off-campus classes, students must meet all admission requirements of the college. For complete information about applications and procedures, contact the Office of Admissions and Records (phone 363-7723) in the Administration Building.

New students planning to enroll in Fall Quarter classes must file all applications and credentials with the college by September 4.

August 5, 1979

These Students Are Pursuing Degree In Secretarial Studies

CJC Business Center Offers Business Aid

woman running a small business go for help when a question arises about taxes or marketing or borrowing money or making improvements? If the person is from Clayton County, or the surrounding area, one place to go is Clayton Junior College, home of the Small Business Development

The local SBDC will be one year old this fall, and in its first year served more than 600 local business persons. Most of that number participated in one or twoday seminars, but some 60 of them became clients of SBDC director Lee Woodward, going to him for advice on various business

Teaching and counseling are the two services provided by this new institution, which was created by the U.S. Small Business Administration to help small businesses compete against their larger competitors. Often the small businesses are struggling just for survival

"A survey showed that 95% of all businesses fail in the first five years, and that 50% fail within the first year, Woodward said, "Still, small businesses make up an extremely significant part of the Gross National Product. They are vital to the economy.

Woodward's counseling is available for free to those interested in starting a small business or already underway with one. If he cannot provide necessary advice, he will call on experts from other institutions (the University of Georgia, Georgia State, Georgia Tech) who can:

8/22/79

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTIO

Woodward emphasizes that his service is not a substitute for professional help, as supplied by certified public accountants and professional consultants.

"Often we help people who know they have a problem. but don't know exactly what the problem is. Once it is identified, we can recommend that they seek professional help, if that is what they need. A fee is charged for the

SBDC classes, ranging from $10 to $75, depending on the length of the course. This summer the curriculum was divided into two parts, a small business management series, with courses such as "The Legal Requirements Of Doing Business," "Small Computers For Small Business," and "Improving Your Cash Flow And Financial condition": and an extended business training series, offering courses in "Introductory Bookeeping And Accounting", "Real Estate Sales Preparation," and "Principles O Supervision and Supervisory Communications.

The SBDC at Clayton Junior is part of a nationwide program that started two years ago at five sites across the country, including the University of Georgia. Eventually, there will be 12 district SBDC centers.

THE HENRY NEIGHBOR 1/4/80 W. Cameron Mitchell has presented Clayton Junior College Foundation Trustee S. Truett Cathy with $375 from the Mitchell Foundation, Inc. The contribution from the Henry County-based corporation will be used to fund a one-year scholarship awarded by the foundation. Cathy is also the founder and presi-

W. CAMERON MITCHEL His Firm Aids College

7:30 EVERY WEEKNIGHT

WAGA-TV Atlanta

Wednesday

A visit with the world's smallest horses and a look at the "horse hotel" they occupy. A talk about the golden days of Hollywood with 82-year-old Oscar win-

Clayton Junior College.

ner Frank Capra, at

THE SOUTH FULTON NEIGHBOR WEE Education:

College Courses Are Available

STUDENTS PRACTICE TYPING FROM DICTATION TAPES

Business Lab Is Due For New Equipment In Near Future

Wednesday, August 15, 1979

opportunity to receive college to take college courses beginning this fall without leaving the Clayton Junior College is offering off-campus courses at Feldwood High School near Union City. The off-campus college is an excellent idea. Residents will be given the opportunity to take courses during daytime hours.

With the price of gasoline, no one wants to drive further than necessary. With the classes being held in South Fulton, citizens will be close to home. The classes are also being offered to South

Fulton high school students. According to Annete B. Satterfield, director of stay close to home.

South Fulton residents will be given the admissions and registrar, 17 seniors from Feldwood and M.D. Collins High Schools already have been accepted into the program.

"We want to make all community residents aware of these offerings and to encourage them to enroll," Mrs. Satterfield said.

Persons planning to enroll for the fall quarter classes must file all applications and credentials with the college by Sept. 4.

For complete information persons can call the Office of Admissions and Records in the Administration Building at 363-7723.

This program is a good opportunity for persons who want to go to college but also want to

November 4, 1979

INSIDE • On Stage! Clayton Little Theater And CJC

Provide Live Theater Productions

-Pages 6-7

ter classes at Clayton Junior and classes for the 11-week register between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. or 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. today. The registration set-up has been moved to the upper level of the student center building ("D" building) this

For complete information about the registration process, phone the college's office of admissions and (363-7723) today. The college will also begin taking registration for winter

Clayton Arts Celebration Slated At CJC

By SAM HODGES Staff Writer

The Ciayton County Arts and Humanities Council is sponsoring a "Celebration Of The Arts" this Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Clayton

A full day of arts and crafts, dancing, music, and drama will take place at various locations on the CJC campus. Every activity is free and open to the Several events will be going on all day, but most are scheduled for one-half hour or one hour intervals. Those all day events going on outside, include: an art exhibit by the Clayton County Art Alliance; a clay pottery demonstration; face painting for the children; and a woodcarving demonstration.

Going on all day at inside locations will be: a music display and games, in room D-116; a photography exhibit, in the t.v. lounge; a sculpture and prints exhibit, in D-108; a slide presentation of Historic Jonesboro, in the upstairs lobby of the D building.

Those events scheduled for specific times outside are: a show by puppeteer Alan Sugar, from 10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.; a performance by the Morrow Senior High band, from 10:30 a.m. to 11 a.m.; a mid-eastern dance demonstration, from 11 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.; a guitar and singing show by Tom Mertl, from 11 a.m. to noon; a nature and arts demonstration, by Eric Hahn, from 11 a.m. to noon; the McIntosh Pipes and Drums show, from noon to 12:30 p.m.; a performance by the Clayton Community band, from 12:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.; a magic show by Dr. Jim Braun from 1 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.; a performance by the Clayton Community Chorus, from 1:30 p.m. to 2 p.m.; a nature and arts demonstration by EricHahn, from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.; a mime show by Malie Harrison, from 2 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.; a fencing demonstration from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.; a performance by the Forest Park Senior High band, from 2 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.; and a magical clown show from 3 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Special events at inside locations include: a hand puppetry workshop by Curi Williams, at D-112 from 10:30 a.m. to 11 a.m.; a creative arts workshop, at the t.v. lounge, from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.; and a Chinese Brush painting lecture by Chen Jen, from 3 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The XYZ senior citizens will present the first act of "Breath Of Spring", play, at 3 p.m. in the school auditorium, room G-132. In case of rain, events scheduled for outside will be moved to the lobby of the student center-library building.

Registration for winter quar- College in Morrow will be today, quarter will begin tomorrow. quarter non-credit continuing Students enrolling at the education classes today. college for the first time must Coordinated through the report to Room G-132 at either office of community services, 10 a.m. or 6 p.m. for orientation more than 75 non-credit and registration explanations. offerings are scheduled during Returning students may the quarter, and most classes will begin the week of Jan. 14-18. A number of courses for the business and professional field will be offered, along with others dealing with the home and individual personal growth. In addition, classes are planned in sports, recreation, the arts, music, and leisure time activities.

To reserve a place in one or more classes, call the office of community services at 363-7717.

BAR ASSOCIATION HELPS

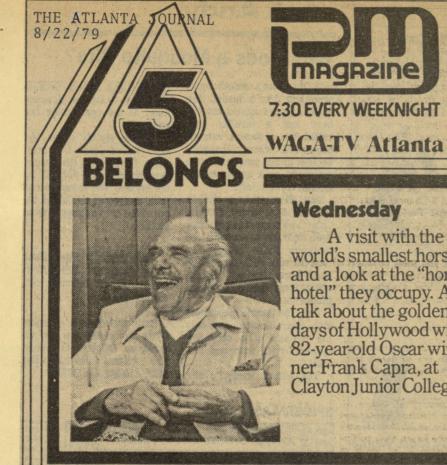

Members of the Clayton County Bar Association funded two foundation's board of trustees is Dr. Harry S. Downs (second scholarships to be used by students attending Clayton Junior from right), president of the college. Making the presentation College. The scholarship money was turned over to the Clay- for the bar association (left to right) are Joe Todd, treasurer, ton Junior College Foundation, which will distribute the scholarships. Receiving the $720 contribution on behalf of the

Scholarship funds

have funded two scholarships sponsored by the Clayton the Bar Association were, from left, Joe Todd, Junior College Foundation. Receiving the $720 contribution on behalf of the Foundation's Board of Trustees was Dr. Harry S. Downs (second from right), Members of the Clayton County Bar Association President of the College. Making the presentation for treasurer; James Bradley, president; and Harry Osborne, vice president.

Wednesday

A visit with the world's smallest horses and a look at the "horse hotel" they occupy. A talk about the golden days of Hollywood with 82-year-old Oscar winner Frank Capra, at Clayton Junior College.

Congratulations October 25, 1979

Sunday, Clayton County will celebrate the farsightedness and progressiveness of its leadership. The occasion is the tenth anniversary of Clayton Junior College. The college, which now enrolls almost 3,000 students and provides a plethora of community betterment programs, wouldn't be here if public officials hadn't seen fit to ask the public to endorse a bond issue to provide local money to build the in-

Since it was built, Clayton Junior has grown, which is a testament to the fact that it was needed in the first place, and that those who worked so hard for its founding were right.

Open House will be Sunday, 2-5. You might want to go out and see what your tax dollars have wrought. It's your community college, and we think as you walk the grounds and check out the latest additions.

Congratulations, CJC, on ten years of service to education and to Clayton County.

you'll be proud of yourselves.

December 12, 1979

CJC board approves new budget

Fayette County High is one of several high schools benefiting from the recently approved 1980-'81 budget for Clayton Junior College in Morrow.

In their sixth year of directing the Clayton Junior College Foundation's programs, the foundation's board of trustees approved a budget of $24,040 to cover one year of costs for 64 scholarships: first year costs for 33 new scholarships for 1980 area graduates and second year costs for 31 scholarships awarded last spring. Scholarships awarded yearly cover fees and tuition for two years of study at the college.

Among the 33 new awards are 10 "Foundation Talent Scholarships" given in recognition of superior ability and talent in specific fields of study and 19 "Foundation Merit Scholarships" given on the basis of outstanding academic achievement in high school. Also, STAR students named from competition in Fayette, Henry, Clayton and Fulton counties will be awarded full tuition scholarships from the funding.

For more information on the talent scholarships, contact Clayton Junior's director of financial aid at 363-7735 or visit the office of the dean of students. Information on the merit awards can be obtained from high school counselors or

Clayton Junior College Open House October 28

Clayton Junior College will late during the time period, a began its sixth year, a twoopen its doors to area residents during an "open house" on Sunday afternoon, October 28, according to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the two-year institution near Morrow.

"We'd like to extend a cordial invitation to everyone for our open house," Dr. Downs said. "The success this institution has enjoyed has been possible only through the support of the community. This is our small way of showing appreciation.' Members of the College's faculty and staff, along with many students, will welcome visitors to the campus between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. To allow visitors an option of fouring the campus early or special program commemorating the event will be held at 3 p.m.

The open house was planned to coincide with the College's Tenth Anniversary Celebration, which officially began with the start of Fall Quarter classes on September 25. The College first opened for classes in September of 1969, and began its second decade of service this fall.

"During the past ten years, many changes have taken place on our campus," Dr. Downs added. "Our open house was planned to give everyone in the community an opportunity to see first-hand how we are striving to meet the demands for higher education in the south metropolitan Atlanta area." The only president in the College's history, Dr. Downs has seen enrollment figures triple during the ten-year period. Credit courses attracted 942 students during the 1969 Fall Quarter, and the total this Fall will be near the

As a public institution operated by the University System of Georgia, Clayton Junior College is able to offer a wide variety of educational programs at a minimum cost. And, most credit courses are offered both during the day and at night.

Although the first classes were taught in 1969, the history of the institution can be traced to a 1963 report issued by the Governor's Commission to Improve Education in Georgia. A comprehensive study revealed a need for additional junior colleges in the state. and one of the areas noted was the south metropolitan area. In October of 1965, the northern section of Clayton County was designated as the general location of the new institution, and a year later. voters of Clayton County overwhelmingly endorsed a bond election sponsored by the Board of Education. With that approval, citizens provided $4.9 million needed for the development of a site for the College, and for the cost of the initial buildings and equip-

The original campus included six buildings, constructed at a cost of the College completed its first five years of operation, and story Classroom Building was

And now, as the two-year institution heads into its second decade of service, another building has entered the picture--a Learning Resources Center. This 57,000square foot facility, which includes the College's Library Holdings, opened with the start of the Fall Quarter last month and will be a feature attraction of the open house. Molded around three lakes on a beautifully-landscaped 163-acre tract, each of the College's eight modern buildings were constructed to blend with the natural beauty of their surroundings.

All buildings on the campus, except the Maintenance Building, will be open for inspection on the afternoon of the 28th. Visitors will be provided with self-tour maps and may attend at any time during the three-hour period.

Next Week Is Deadline For Classes

New students who plan to enroll in credit classes at Clayton Junior College during the winter quarter have until next week to file all capplications and credentials with the College's Office of -Admissions and Records.

. To be considered for ad-Omission, applicants must scomplete and return all required forms by Dec. 13. Registration for winter squarter classes will be comepleted on Jan. 2 and classes will begin the following day. New students must provide the college with a high school transcript or an equivalency certificate and must take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). Required for the purposes of placement, no applicant is refused admission because of his or her score on the SAT. The College will administer the SAT to prospective students on the Dec. 13 dead-

Sline date. For complete information about admission requirements, persons may call or visit the Office of Admissions and Records (363-7723)

For further information about the SAT, persons may contact the Office of Counseling and Testing (363-7744)

Winter quarter credit classes, both day and night offerings, will continue until the last of final examinations are given on Mar. 18.

Wheels in Motion

Legislators Seeking Four-Year Status for Clayton Junior College

By TRACY THOMPSON

Clayton County legislators will begin in earnest this fall to push a proposal to make Clayton Junior College into a four-year institution, said Sen. Terrell Starr (D-Forest Park) this week.

"We've already made contact with (Gov. George Busbee)," Starr said. "I think we'll consider making a formal application to the State Board of Regents this fall."

Even should the proposal encounter no hurdles and receive prompt funding from the Georgia General Assembly, CJC won't become a four-year college before 1982 at the earliest, legislators and college officials say.

BUT THE proposal itself actually predates the existence of the college, said CJC President Dr. Harry Downs, who noted that since World War II converting junior colleges into four-year institutions has been a unusual pattern of growth process for colleges in the state university system. 'We think the time is right to do this,' said Starr. "Dr. Downs' attitude has always been that he wanted to have the best junior college in the state. I think we've reached that milestone.

But Downs himself was less emphatic in his assessment.

THE BOARD of Regents asked me to be lege," Downs said. "Any other way I spend my time is not in keeping with what they asked me to do.

But if the Board of Regents decides that "to be responsive to the needs of the citizens" CJC should be a four-year college, Downs said, "I think we could get ready." Converting a junior college into a four-year institution is not accomplished by a mere legislative act, Downs cautioned. Different standards—issued by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools-apply to fouryear colleges than to junior colleges.

Thursday, August 16, 1979

For instance:

-AT LEAST 40 percent of the faculty members of a junior college must have at least one year of graduate work beyond the master's degree, while "some" faculty members should have completed their doc-

-At least half the faculty members of a four-year college should have one year's graduate work completed beyond the master's degree level, while 30 per cent of the faculty should hold doctorates in their respective disciplines.

CJC currently has 79 faculty members who might be expected to attain the doctorate level in their various disciplines. (Nine per cent level specified by the SACS.

But Downs said faculty qualifications are only a small part of the overall number of requirements needed to attain four-year accreditation.

additional faculty members in nursing and dental hygiene programs already hold the highest degree in their specialties, either a bachelor's or master's degree or its equivalent.) Of that 79, 35 faculty members already hold doctorates—well above the 30

"I WOULD say we would need about a twoyear planning period (to become a four-year college)," he said. The college has an enrollment of about 3,0-00 students, with a new library underway to accomodate the expected influx of part-time and commuting students in the years to come. The library, which will encompass about 60,000 square feet, will have shelf space for about 100,000 volumes, twice the space of the existing library, Downs said.

PARTICULARLY in light of the college's new library, Starr said, the conversion of CJC into a four-year college would require 'no huge capital outlay."

How much political factors play a role in the proposal's fate remains to be seen. Starr admitted he felt the idea has not been pushed earlier this year due to turmoil at the State Board of Regents between now and this fall. But these things take time."

CJC Holds Open House ©On Sunday

Former Georgia governor Carl E. Sanders will be guest speaker for a special 10th anniversary program and , open house at Clayton Junior College Sunday afternoon.

Sanders, who was governor when initial steps were taken for the of founding of the junior college, will speak at 3 p.m. on the upper level of the Student Center Building.

The open house is scheduled between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. Classrooms and offices will be open for inspection and the public is encouraged to at-Hend, CJC president Dr. Harry S. Downs said.

Clayton Junior College Offers Non-Credit Courses will conduct credit courses Stockbridge High last year. High will include an English the fall quarter will be and college credit for fee

In a joint venture by the two-year institution near Morrow and the Boards of Education from Henry County and Fulton County, daytime courses will be offered at Stockbridge High School and at Feldwood High School.

The College participated Mrs. Satterfield said. in its first off-campus credit the classes, enrollment will community residents aware growth of the United States Feldwood and M. D. Collins vices fee. of these offerings and to en- since the Civil War. courage them to enroll,"

Carl Sanders To Speak

this fall, according to Annon-credit Community Ser- EnglishIII-Composition) ly afternoon offering. nete B. Satterfield, director vices programs have been and an American history of admissions and registrar. operated for a number of class (entitled History 252-

American Civilization II). At Feldwood High,

High have been accepted. Participating in the Col-at two off-campus locations Off-campus locations for composition course (entitled English III. It will be an ear-satisfactory completion of ENROLLMENT in clas- five quarter hours of college English III includes the ses at both high schools will credit, and enrollment fees about applications and basic principles of be limited to spaces for each course will be ALTHOUGH high school paragraph and theme available, Mrs. Satterfield $62.50 ($12.50 per quarter students will be included in organization, while History pointed out. Currently, 15 credit hour). In addition, 252 presents an inquiry into seniors from Stockbridge regardless of the number of not be limited to such stu-dents. "We want to make all intellectural, and cultural School, and 17 from must pay an $8 student serhours taken, each student campus classes, students must meet all admission re-EACH CLASS will carry quirements of the College. For complete information procedures, contact the Office of Admissions and Records (phone 363-7723) in Administration

New students planning to Courses offered on the enroll in Fall Quarter classes CJC campus cost $9.50 per must file all applications located southwest of College lege's "freshman scholar quarter credit hour, or and credentials with the Morning classes Park on Feldwood Road, the program," these students $47.50 for a five-hour course College by September 4.

GRIFFIN DAILY NEWS Clayton Jr. College

wish it a happy birthday.

It has offered education opportunity to numbers of Spalding County students who could not have afforded to go to college except for it. It was one of the early junior colleges established under Former Governor and under his leadership.

Clayton Junior College north of Carl Sanders' program to expand Griffin will celebrate its tenth an- the University System in order to ofniversary later this month, and we fer this opportunity to Georgians throughout the state. Thus it is entirely appropriate that he will be the birthday speaker, and we congratulate him upon the success of this program which was inuagurated while he was Governor

At CJC Anniversary

'Celebration of Arts' Slated Aug. 18 at Clayton Jr. A first-act production of "A Breath of Spring," dozen programs are concert by the Morrow throughout the morning will presented by the XYZ scheduled for the day-long Senior High School Band at be a belly dancing exhibi-

The XYZ Players, photography, wood carving, show is scheduled in the members of the Xtra Years and paintings by local ar- same room at noon. of Zest club for seniors tist. citizens sponsored by the The day's events will Clayton County Parks and begin at 10 a.m. with pup-Recreation Department, petteer Alan Sugar performwill perform at 3 p.m. in ing on the college campus,

Players, will highlight the series of events, which will 10:30 a.m. upcoming Celebration of the feature puppet shows, the Also at 10:30 a.m., a pup-Arts planned for Aug. 18 at Clayton Community Band, petry workshop will be held and the McIntosh Pipes and and exhibitions of in room D-112. A puppet

OTHER OUTSIDE ac- to be followed by a perfor- demonstration, also at 2 include an art exhibit by the

tion, Tom Mertle perform-

and the McIntosh Pipes and Drums corps at noon. The Clayton County Community Band will permime at 2 p.m. by Mallie at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

IN THE afternoon, out- Eric Hahn will lead of-door activities will in- seminars on nature and the clude a demonstration of arts for adults and children form outside at 12:30 p.m., Haralson; a fencing Continuous programs will

Brown. The Clayton County High School Band, perform- liance, sculpture and prints pottery. Community Chorus will ing at 2:30 p.m.; and a exhibits, face painting, a For more information on perform outside at 1:30 p.m. magical clown performing at slide presentation by the Arts Celebration, call Historic Jonesboro, Inc., Becky Brown at 996-4156.

Clayton Junior Offers Stockbridge Course Work

fall, one of which is at Stockbridge High School, according to Director of Admissions and Registrar An- Stockbridge and Henry program, these students credit and enrollment fees nete B. Satterfield.

In a joint venture by the two-year institution near Morrow and the Boards of Education from Henry County and Fulton County, daytime courses will be offered at Stockbridge and at Feldwood High School.

The college participated in its first off-campus credit course offerings at Stockbridge High last year. Offcampus locations for noncredit Community Services programs have been operated for a number of years. Although high school students will be included in the classes, enrollment will not be limited to such students.

'We want to make all community residents aware of these offerings and to encourage them to enroll," Mrs. Satterfield said.

Morning classes scheduled at Stockbridge High will include an English composition course (entitled English 111 - Composition) and an American history class (entitled History 252 -American Civilization II).

English 111 includes the basic principles of paragraph and theme organization, while History 252 presents an inquiry into selected areas of the social, intellectual and cultural growth of the United States since the Civil War.

At Feldwood High, located southwest of College Park on Feldwood Road, the only course offered during the fall quarter will be English 111. It will be an early afternoon offering.

Enrollment in classes at County High Schools, and 17 will receive both high school Mrs. Satterfield pointed out. cepted.

will conduct credit courses both high schools will be from Feldwood and M.D. and college credit for satisat off-campus locations this limited to spaces available. Collins Highs have been ac-

Participating in the Each class will carry five

News-Daily Photos-Bennet George

ARMY OFFICIALS CALLED WILDLIFE EXPERTS FOR HELP

Sgt. Gordon (R), Col. Ted Phillips, Sgt. Pat Patterson, News Media Wait

ALLIGATOR HAS BEEN ELUDING CAPTURE FOR

TWO WEEKS

Sgts. James Gordon (R) and Charles Dilman Wait Pa-

Sgt. James Gordon said he was first told of the alligator about two weeks ago. He didn't believe it at first, he added, until he spotted the reptile last Friday

"I watched him for 30 minutes," said Sgt. Gordon.

had six or eight telephone calls last week about the alligator. The lake is mainly used for recreational purposes by both military and civilians.

eye on him," said Sgt. Dilman.

Military police Sgt. Charles Dilman said his office

"Ever since then, I have been keeping a pretty close

Col. Ted Phillips, Deputy Commander at Fort

Gillem, said unconfirmed reports have been coming in stating that the alligator found its way to Marchman

Lake from the lake at Clayton Junior College. Two alligators, he said, were reportedly seen there last morning basking in the sun on the lake's north bank.

NEWS/DAILY Wednesday, August
Alligator

Wednesday, August 22, 1979

Elusive Reptile In Ft. Gillem Lake

Has Military Personnel All Astir

pay an $8 student services Currently, 15 seniors from college's "freshman scholar quarter hours of college

By SCOTT HAMPLE

Staff Writer

Army personnel at Fort Gillem waited patiently.

Several had expressed hopes of spotting the elusive target through their field glasses while others held

The infiltrator, said one sergeant, was first spotted two weeks ago. The military police also had reports of his presence and were keeping tabs periodically around Marchman Lake, where he was last seen

The deputy commander said he was forced to call in reinforcements. The base, whose main purpose is to supply military bases throughout the world, lacked the proper equipment and know-how to capture the in-

One detachment, added another sergeant, refused the assignment while the second indicated they would be happy to help. They were due to arrive at 13:30, said

The cause of the commotion and military maneuvers

The lowering of the water level of Marchman Lake,

Environmental Control Officer Rudy Stine said, probably enticed the reptile, estimated to be four feet long and weighing 65 pounds, to make its presence

The lake had been lowered about eight feet upon the recommendation of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The earthen dam, said Stine, were showing signs of seepage and the silt washing into the lake from nearby timbering operations was depleting the oxygen level in

See ALLIGATOR on page 8A

at Fort Gillem was a four-foot alligator spotted at cameras in great anticipation.

basking in the hot August sun.

filtrator alive.

the deputy commander.

for each course will be $62.50 ($12.50 per quarter credit CJC campus cost $9.50 per must meet all admission rehour). In addition, regardless of the number of hours taken, each student must

$47.50 for a five-hour course quarter credit hour, or plus the $8 student services about applications and pro-

To be admitted into off- of Admissions and Records

Courses offered on the campus classes, students quirements of the college. For complete information cedures, contact the Office ministration Building.

enroll in fall quarter classes must file all applications and credentials with the col-

CJC Offers Courses At 2 Off-Campus Sites

conduct credit courses at two off-campus locations this fall, according to Annete B. Satterfield, Director of Admissions and Registrar.

In a joint venture by the two-year institution near Morrow and the Boards of Education from Henry County and Fulton County, daytime courses will be offered at Stockbridge High School and at Feldwood High

The College participated in its first off-campus credit course offerings at Stockbridge High last year. Off-campus locations for non-credit Community Services programs have been operated for a number

Although high school students will be included in the classes, enrollment will not be limited to such students. "We want to make all community residents aware of these offerings and to encourage them to enroll,"

Mrs. Satterfield said. Morning classes scheduled at Stockbridge High will include an English composition course (entitled English 111 - Composition) and an American history class (entitled History 252 American Civilization II) English 111 includes the principles of paragraph and theme organization, while History 252 presents an inquiry into selected areas of the social, intellectural, and cultural growth of the United States since the Civil War. At Feldwood High, located southwest of College Park on Clayton Junior College will course offered during the $47.50 for a five-hour course Fall Quarter will be English 111. It will be an early af-> both high schools will be limited to spaces available, Mrs. Satterfield pointed out. Currently, 15 seniors from Stockbridge and Henry County High School, and 17 from Feldwood and M. D. Collins High have been

Participating in the College's "freshman scholar program," these students will receive both high school and college credit for ($12.50 per quarter credit regardless of the number of hours taken, each student must pay an $8 student

Courses offered on the CJC campus cost $9.50 per quarter credit hour, or plus the $8 student services

To be admitted into offcampus classes, students must meet all admission requirements of the College. For complete information about applications and procedures, contact the Office of Admissions and Records (phone 363-7723) in the Administration Building.

New students planning to enroll in Fall Quarter classes must file all applications and credentials with the College by September 4.

CARL SANDERS Speaks At College

Sanders &Will Speak

Atlanta attorney Carl Sanders, ex-Georgia governor, will be the keynote speaker at Clayton Junior College's 10th Anniversary Program Sunday.

The anniversary program will begin at 3 p.m. on the upper level of the Student Center Building.

"We are pleased to have former Governor Sanders as our speaker during our celeubration program," Dr. Harry Downs, president of highest ranking official.'

CJC Is Moving Into New Library

By SAM HODGES

The new library at Clayton Junior College is being moved into, and if all goes well it should be ready for operation when fall term classes

"We had the building turned over to us Friday afternoon and the moving has already started," said Jerry Atkins, spokesman for the college. On Friday inspectors from the Georgia State Financing and Investment Commission looked the building over before giving school officials permission to begin moving. Included in their report was a list of minor changes that must be made, none of which prohibited the building's occupation.

"The GSFIC is the state agency in charge of state construction when bonds are involved," Atkins ex-

All this week students and em ployees at the college will be moving books and equipement from the current library to the new building and Atkins said the task should be completed by Tuesday of next week. Atkins added that the contractor Van Winkle and Company, still has

Both the old and new libraries will be closed to the public during the

"several minor things to finish" and that the GSFIC still has to deliver furniture and loose equipment for the Built and furnished at a cost of almost $2.6 million, the new building includes nearly 57,000 square feet and will house the entire special studies program on the ground floor. A variety of other instructional spaces, resources, and services will be available in the library, in addition to books, newspapers and magazines.

Construction on the new library began in July, 1978, after funds were appropriated by the state legislature on the recommendation of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. The new library is the eighth building constructed on the CJC campus, which accepted students for the first time in the fall of 1969. The last building constructed, a classroom building, opened in September of 1974. An addition to the physical education building is the next scheduled building project. The current library, located on the second floor of a combined librarystudent center building, will provide meeting space for non-credit classes within the school's community services department.

the college said. "The foundsatisfactory completion of ing steps establishing Claycourse work. ton Junior College were Each class will carry five taken during a period of apquarter hours of college proximately one and a half credit, and enrollment fees 出years when Governor Esanders was the state's for each course will be $62.50

Staff Writer

begin, a week from today.

CJC Offers Credit Courses

cepted

At Feldwood High This Fall

Clayton Junior College will conduct credit courses at two off-campus locations this fall, according to Annete B. Satterfield, director of admissions and registrar. In a joint venture by the

Morrow and the Boards of County High School, and 17 Education from Henry from Feldwood and M. C. County and Fulton County, daytime courses will be offered at Stockbridge High School and at Feldwood High School. Although high school students will be included in the classes, enrollment will not be limited to such students. Morning scheduled at Stockbridge High will include an English composition course (English 111 - Composition) and an American history class (History 252 - American Civilization II). English III includes the basic principles of paragraph and theme organization, while History 252 presents an inquiry into selected areas of the social, since the Civil War. English III will be offered at Feldwood High, located southwest of College Park on Feldwood Road, during the Fall Quarter early after-intellectual, and cultural growth of the United States

Enrollment will be limited to spaces available. Currently, 15 seniors from two-year institution near Stockbridge and Henry $62.50 ($12.50 per quarter credit hour). In addition, Collins High have been ac-

> Participants in the College's 'freshman scholar program,' will receive high school and college credit for satisfactory completion of course work.

Each class will carry five there will be an $8 student Courses offered on the CJC campus cost $9.50 per quarter credit hour, or $47.50 for a five-hour course plus the $8 student services To be admitted into off-quarter hours of college campus classes, students credit, and enrollment fees must meet all admission refor each course will be quirements of the College.

THE SOUTH FULTON NEIGHBOR October 24, 1979 Georgia State University—NOW IN METRO ATLANTA

WINTER QUARTER, 1980 Class Schedule Registration/Advising Sessions, Monday, November 5 and Wednesday, December 5, Clayton Junior College, Building G, Room 101, 4:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m. CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE CLAYTON COUNTY: ECI 702 Needs of the Middle Grade Learner, Dr. Elizabeth Jenkins, Wednesday, ds and Materials of Teaching Mathematics in the Elementary School, Staff, Tuesday,

ECI 749

Methods and Materials of Teaching Mathematics in the Elementary School, Staff, Tuesday, 4:30-8:50
Curriculum Trends, Dr. Larry Parker, Monday, 4:30-8:50
Problems of Teaching Composition, Dr. Charles Billilard, Wednesday, 4:00-8:20
Developmental Psychology, Dr. 'Jo Cooley, Tuesday/Thursday, 4:30-6:35
Exceptional Children and Youth, Staff, Menday/Wednesday, 4:00-8:05
Curriculum and Methods of Teaching the Gifted, Dr. Leonard Lucito, Tuesday/Thursday, 4:30-6:35

October 15, 1979

Sanders To Keynote CJC Anniversary

Sanders, governor of Georgia when initial steps 1963 through 1967. Groundwere made to establish Clayton Junior College, will be the keynote speaker at the Tenth Year Anniversary Program of the two-year institution on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 28.

celebration program," Dr. the College said. "The October of the same year, highest ranking official." Sanders, a partner in the affirmatively for a bond law firm of Troutman, issue in the amount of Sanders, Lockerman and $4,900,000 to finance the Georgia's governor from work for the establishment of Clayton Junior College developed in mid-1965 and matured early in 1967.

"A statewide study recommending a new college to serve the area "We are pleased to have immediately south of former Governor Sanders as metropolitan Atlanta was our speaker during our adopted by the Board of Regents in June of 1965," Harry S. Downs, president of Dr. Downs recalled. "In founding steps establishing the Board designated the Clayton Junior College were northern section of Clayton taken during a period of County as the general approximately one and a location of the new college, half years when Governor and one year later, in Sanders was the state's October of 1966, the citizens of Clayton County voted Atlanta attorney Carl E. Ashmore, served as initial phase of the college. "A contractual agreement between the Clayton County Board of Education and the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia, was made on January 11, 1967, setting forth the obligations of each agency for the development of the college," Dr. Downs continued. "Under the terms of this agreement, campus development was the responsibility of the Clayton County Board of Education and building development was the responsibility of the Board of Regents.'

> As Governor, Sanders was closely associated with these arrangements which led to the construction and 1969 opening of Clayton Junior

He is definitely somewhere in the lake, they added, in the mud bed located at the eastern cove.

Tracks, said Stine and the three officers, were found even though the only signs of the elusive alligator during Tuesday's stakeout turned out to be snapping turtle who occasionally came to the water surface for air.

Atlanta Zoo officials, who were first to be called by Col. Phillips, refused the Army's offer of a free alligator. The state Fish and Wildlife Commission, however, agreed to capture the reptile and transport it back tto its natural habitat.

The game officials, carrying a huge wire cage in the back of their pick-up truck, finally arrived at 3:30 p.m. The cage trap was placed in the mud bed. All there is to do now is wait, said one Army official.

He expected the alligator's capture in a couple of days.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR

Georgia State University—NOW IN METRO ATLANTA WINTER QUARTER, 1980 Class Schedule Registration/Advising Sessions, Monday, November 5 and Wednesday, December 5, Clayton Junior College, Building G, Room 101, 4:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m. CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE CLAYTON COUNTY:

October 24, 1979

ture and Curriculum Needs of the Middle Grade Learner, Dr. Elizabeth Jenkins, Wednesday ECI 749 ods and Materials of Teaching Mathematics in the Elementary School, Staff, Tuesday, 4:30-9:50
Curriculum Trends, Dr. Larry Parker, Monday, 4:30-8:50
Problems of Teaching Composition, Dr. Charles Billiard, Wednesday, 4:00-8:20
Developmental Psychology, Dr. Jo Cooley, Tuesday/Thursday, 4:30-8:35
Exceptional Children and Youth, Staff, Monday/Wednesday, 4:00-8:05
Curriculum and Methods of Teaching the Gifted, Dr. Leonard Lucito, Tuesday/Thursday,

Clayton Junior College Figures Show Increase

has 2,990 students enrolled in pated. fall quarter credit courses, according to Annette Satterfield, director of admissions and registrar.

Of the total enrolled, slightly over 1,200 are new students to the two-year institution near Morrow. Almost half of that number

The quarterly headcount represents only a slight in-(539) are beginning crease of 25 students over freshman. the 2,965 who enrolled one Fall quarter enrollment year ago, but the final count figures showed a total of 32 turned out to be conforeign students from 19 difsiderably higher than colferent nations who are in-

Clayton Junior College lege officials had antici- cluded on class rolls. Non-resident students enrolled are natives of Burma, Canada, Columbia, Ecuador, Guyana, Haiti, India. Iran, Jamaica, Kenya, Korea, Nigeria, Phillipines, Saudi Arabia, Scotland, Taiwan, Tanzania, Trinidad and United Arab Emirates.

Students from 24-county areas are entered in credit programs at the college with the four counties of Clayton, Fulton, Fayette and Henry contributing 94.2 percent of the total.

Students living in Clayton County number 1,648, while 738 Fulton Countians, 229 Fayette Countians and 203 Henry Countians are in-

Southlake Mall To Host Fair

Southlake Mall will host Clayton Junior College during a three-day Fair and Festivities presentation Jan. 31 to Feb. 2.

salute to Clayton Junior's Community Life program have been scheduled between 6 and 8:45 p.m. on Thursday and Friday evening and between 1 and 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Featured activities include performances by the Clayton Junior College chorus, choir and jazz band. Folk dances vocal and musical presentations as well as Greek drama will 5 also be featured. Practical displays of CPR techniques, blood pressure able as well. For additional information persons may call 961-1050 or 363-7748.

in formation and other helpful

Support

information will be avail-Harry Osborne (right), president of the Clayton County Bar Association, presents a $600 scholarship check to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of Clayton Junior College and a member of the CJC Foundation's Board of Trustees. To go into the Foundation's general scholarship fund, the contribution increases the total given by members of the Bar Association to $3,200 during the last four years.

• The 1980s will be critical for many col leges and universities, as enrollments and the birth rate decline. Some of them will not survive. This article, second in a four-part series, surveys the plight of Georgia's public institutions of higher education.

By VICKI PEARLMAN

In the 1960s, Georgians were having babies at a record pace. The post World War II children - now grown - were flocking to the state's institutions of higher learning, and inflation, by and large, was not rearing its bered only five in 1964, but during the mid-son) that the state needed a geographically

There are too many junior colleges in Georgia, and too much of a smorgasbord at too many institutions.

-State Sen. Paul Broun

'head.

So Georgia's Board of Regents built colthe regents established 11 more. It was one of the board's major decisions (heartily sup-Two-year institutions in Georgia num- ported by former Cha cellor George L. Simpdispersed educational system that would put at least the first two years of college within commuting distance (30 to 40 miles) of all Geor-

Lake City Experiences Busy Year With Completion of Thoroughfare

Staff Writer

It was a busy year in Lake City during 1979, according to City Clerk she said.

Forest Parkway, the major eastwest thoroughfare, was extended to the eastern boundaries of the city and North ollege was completed to the North Lee extension at Clayton Junior

The city council agreed to allow the sale of cold beer in the city.changing an earlier law which only allowed hot beer to be sold.

Plunkett points to Georgia's traditionally lower enrollment of the 18-to-24-year-old student and the migration of young families into the state as factors that may offset the enrollment deline here. "I foresee that we will not have as sharp of a curve as in most Nevertheless, "we must have, somewhere down the line, more immediately than not, some study of retrenchment and some plans on tap of retrenchment if necessary.

The junior colleges that we have that are small in enrollment probably should be (developed) as a community col-until the hour comes. We'll have to be totally aware of the possibility and be discerning of what might be best to Gignilliat (D-Savannah),

chairman of the House committee on the University System of Georgia: "There's a very strong possibility that some of our institutions, particularly those with less than 500 students, are going to need to be evaluated very closely in terms of whether or not - not so much that they nating some administrative overhead by operating them out of a nearby larger institu-

Broun agrees that perhaps a consolidation of administrations of some schools might be appropriate. "Why do you need a president with a school of 350 students? You could easily have the offices at Valdosta State College (in the case of Waycross Junior Col-

tion or a branch campus."

may be closed - but elimi-

According to Rep. Arthur

do if this comes to pass."

"We believe we can't wait states," he said.

lege operation.

impact during the summer months,

Since city businesses were allowed to sell the cold beverage in October, the usually lagging winter month sales havekept pace, indicating a growth in sales already, according to Mrs.Inman.

$70,000 per year in beer and wine

The city collects approximately

Another road development was the start of the fifth-lane on Georgia area, Mrs. Inman noted.

The additional revenues that Highway 54 which will run from North should be gained will begin to make an Lake at the north end of the city to I-75 in Morrow

The police department purchased a radar unit and a computer which is linked to the Georgia Crime Informa-

The city hopes in the future to develop an industrial complex on Georgia Highway 54 across from city

The 40-acre site has already been rezoned for industry and the governing body is planning a street through the

Politics Continued from 1A

Today, in the face of declining enrollments and dim enrollment projections, the wisdom of that decision is widely questioned, although there are few who will publicly criticize the junior college concept.

Sen. Paul Broun (D-Athens), however, is not one of those.

"There are too many junior colleges in Georgia, and too much of a smorgasbord at too many institutions," said Broun, who is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and a member of the board of the Southern Regional Education Board. "It's like this because our previous chancellor, Mr. Simpson, wanted to run everything out of his hip pocket.

"I sat in a Board of Regents meeting when Lester Maddox was going out as governor," Broun recalled. "I so he could go tell the governor what they had done." College in Swainsboro is a good example, Broun said. Statesboro (Georgia Southern College) is right next door House speaker) George L. 17 years in politics."

The Board of Regents, planning for the projected enrollment declines several years ago. "The regents' staff are yes people. That's all he had over there. The chancellor was feeding facts to the regents that he could use to serve his means and ends. "They (the regents) need to start right now, yesterday, on awarded by the state schools 433 students enrolled for planning when and if they're going to close a school, the amount of people it's serving. the quality of the faculty, the example, at Georgia Tech last the junior colleges," one distances people have to travel to get served, an indepth study of what we're going to do towards closing those that are immensely expensive, and where the students would do better to travel a little further and go to a top flight junior college. The only reason they're staying open is politics." Georgia's college-age population increased by 50 percent, but the projection for the 22 percent. The decline begins

6.6 percent drop by 1990.

CLAYTON COUNTY:

ECI 749 -

rollment losses will still be felt. (Georgia's population is expected to increase by almost 16 percent from 1980 to 1990, compared to a national average increase of only 9.6

Educators admit that variables like population growth, the status of the economy (during a recession, more students attend and stay in college), and the job market will undoubtedly affect college en-

The U.S. Census Bureau makes this projection for Georgia: the 15-to-24-yearolds will number about 1 million in 1980 and fall to 929,-200 in 1995. In contrast, the numbers of 25-to-34-year-olds will increase from 907,500 in 1980 to about 1 million in

Enrollment at state colleges and universities declined by 2.5 percent for the saw Simpson recommend six winter quarter of 1979 and by junior colleges at one time, 2.6 percent for the spring and then they called a recess 1979 quarter. Enrollment of equivalent full-time students which takes into account Emanuel County Junior the increasing number of part-time students — declined even more for the winter Enrollments at 26 of the already. That was for (former state's 32 schools (which re-

> The biggest decline (27.2 percent) was at the traditionally black Savannah State standards have been raised in regular enrollment of 366 stuthe wake of desegregation secretarial science.

Three junior colleges, Wayrespectively - have enroll-Although Georgia's Sun ments of under 500 students Belt attraction is expected to and have shown little growth contribute to an overall popu- in the last few years. Way- Friedman counters the dim

Georgia State University-NOW IN METRO ATLANTA

WINTER QUARTER, 1980 Class Schedule

Registration/Advising Sessions, Monday, November 5 and Wednesday, December 5, Clayton Junior College, Building G, Room 101, 4:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m. CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE

Nature and Curriculum Needs of the Middle Grade Learner, Dr. Elizabeth Jenkins, Wednesday, 4:00-8:20

Methods and Materials of Teaching Mathematics in the Elementary School, Staff, Tuesday, 4:30-8:50

4:30-8:50
Curriculum Trends, Dr. Larry Parker, Monday, 4:30-8:50
Problems of Teaching Composition, Dr. Charles Billiard, Wednesday, 4:00-8:20
Developmental Psychology, Dr. Jo Cooley, Tuesday/Thuraday, 4:30-6:35
Exceptional Children and Youth, Staff, Monday/Wednesday, 4:00-6:05
Curriculum and Methods of Teaching the Gifted, Dr. Leonard Lucito, Tuesday/Thuraday,

THE CLAYTON SUN

January 3, 1980

percent.)

rollment.

quarter: 3.2 percent.

ceived a total appropriation Smith. That was about as raw of $3.7 million in tax money politics as I ever saw in my for 1980) were down for the spring 1979 quarter, and declines were registered at 13 Broun said, should have begun of the state's 15 junior col-

College, where entrance opened in 1976, showed a

A review of degrees showed numerous degree programs where only one or two ter of science in ceramic were an example of the politiawarded a bachelor of science in music education; at Between 1960 and 1970, science degrees in medical

Enrollments

Company of the compan	1978	1979	Percent Change
Georgia Institute of Technology	8,925	9,596	7.5
Southern Technical Institute	2,014	2,072	2.9
Georgia State University	19,752	19,047	-3.6
Medical College of Georgia	2,232	2,160	-3.2
University of Georgia	19,888	19,867	-0.1
Albany State College	2,012	1,686	-16.2
Armstrong State College	3,059	2,915	-4.7
Augusta College	3,510	3,429	-2.3
Columbus College	4,747	4,403	-7.2
Fort Valley State College	1,936	1,775	-8.3
Georgia College	3,241	3,169	-2.2 3.5
Georgia Southern College	5,864	6,068	-10.3
Georgia Southwestern College	2,378	2,134	13.0
Kennesaw College	2,927	3,308	0.9
North Georgia College	1,700	2,018	-22.2
Savannah State College	2,595	4,631	-22.2
Valdosta State College	4,873	4,896	-10.0
West Georgia College	5,440	1,985	-1.8
Abraham Baldwin Agric. College	2,021	1,710	-1.3
Albany Junior College	1,733	1,408	-14.1
Atlanta Junior College	1,639	433	-6.7
Bainbridge Junior College	990	931	-6.0
Brunswick Junior College	2,568	2,358	-8.2
Clayton Junior College		1.230	-7.1
Dalton Junior College	1,324	318	-1.5
Emanuel County Junior College	1,335	1,211	-9.3
Floyd Junior College	1,368	1,330	-2.8
Gainesville Junior College	984	1,026	4.3
Gordon Junior College	1.984	2,077	4.7
Macon Junior College	1,336	1,318	-1.3
Middle Georgia College	1,066	970	-9.0
South Georgia College Waycross Junior College	. 394	366	-7.1
TOTALS	116,622	113,560	-2.6

dents for the spring quarter, while Emanuel County showed 318. Bainbridge had spring 1979. "It's getting harder and degrees were awarded. For harder to justify the costs of year, one student got a mas- Georgia professor said. "They engineering; at Fort Valley cal expediency of the '60s. State College, one person was Someone's going to pay the piper for that."

"The one way they can Georgia College, two students save themselves and still received degrees in music justify their existence," Broun therapy; and at Brunswick said, is by changing their Junior College, two students focus to include vocational-were awarded associate of technical training. This could technical training. This could be done with a cooperative arrangement between the state Board of Education and cross, Emanuel County and the regents, Broun said. 1970s was an increase of only Bainbridge - which have "There needs to be more state appropriations of $935,- cooperation between the two after 1980, with an expected 000, $940,000 and $1.2 million, than I've ever seen. They've only given lip service to cooperation Regents Chairman Erwin lation increase in Georgia, en- cross Junior College, which predictions with a picture of

that growth. We're now enter- tions in any danger.'

period of "stability" for Georgia's colleges and universities. "In the last 15 years, there has been such an explosion in the sheer physical growth and enrollment tha' we have, of necessity, had to stress meeting the immediate needs of greatest need.

where we feel there is the "I look upon it as a great opportunity," Friedman said. "I don't see any of our institu-

October 10, 1979

the coming decade as a ing into a period of stability; we'll be able to focus more of our resources in those specific areas of higher education

lege). Everybody would be "There's no question that most of the local junior col-logical, planned, coherent institution. They were done out of civic pride or political competition among many members of the Georgia General Assembly. And there are some that have been running way, way below what they should have been running." Waycross Junior College

want to be identified. "They were not done out of response to the educational needs or a Board member Lamar tions," according to an lunkett points to Georgia's Atlanta educator who did not president James M. Dye disa-

"We're just getting under way. We have not yet developed all the programs for people in our area," Dye said. "I see a very bright future, particularly for the junior colleges, because we traditionally have catered to people who are employed, who have traditionally not been considered college age, lifelong learners, housewives who stay at home, and women who are preparing for greater

Dye predicts a fall enrollment at Waycross - which draws its students mostly from Ware County and nearby Pierce County - of more than 400.

But, grumbles one Georgia lawmaker who asked not to be identified, Waycross "should never have been established. It was George Simpson paying off politics."

Declining enrollment "very definitely concerns us," said Atlanta Junior College Dean of Student Services Charles Easley. Enrollment was down at the school - where the average student age is 27 -11 percent for the winter quarter and 14 percent for the spring quarter.

New and better recruitment programs, some type of leges were political crea- financial aid for older adult students and better career planning are all necessary to ensure the future of many schools, he said.

It is true that junior colleges are able to serve the means of establishing an needs of older and part-time students - the student groups, along with women and blacks, that are predicted to increase - better than four-year colleges, said Dave Spence of the Southern Regional Education Board.

But, Spence says, the question is: Are Georgia's junior colleges doing that?

"The focus of two-year colleges, as an average, is different in Georgia," Spence said.
"Their focus has been on college transfer. But they're supposed to be flexible. The community college concept meshes exactly with the needs of these people. (adults, women, working students.)"

It's the small private schools and the junior colleges that cannot change their focus that should be prepared to struggle, said Dr. Cameron Fincher, head of the University of Georgia's Institute of Higher Education and a member of the Governor's Committee on Postsecondary

There may be some "rearrangement" of Georgia's public colleges, Fincher pre-dicted. "Some are not prepared to go out and find the faculty for their institu-

"You could be sarcastic and say that just about everybody wants to teach the really bright, well-prepared, 18- to 22-year-old."

And it's those students, Fincher added, who are going to be in short supply in 1980

Sanders to speak at CJC tenth anniversary

Atlanta attorney Carl E. Sanders, Governor of Georgia when initial steps were made to establish Clayton Junior College, will be the keynote speaker at the Tenth Year Anniversary Program of the two-year institution on Sunday afternoon, October 28.

"We are pleased to o have former Governor Sanders as our speaker during our celebration program," Dr. Harry S. Downs, President of the College said. "The founding steps establishing Clayton S Junior College were taken during a period of approximately one and a half years when Governor Sanders was the state's highest manking official. The special anniversary program will begin at 3 p.m. on the upper level of the ы Student Center Building. Harmon M. Born, L' Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, will preside over the event, planned as a highlight of campuswide "open house" festivities. All campus buildings will be open between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. on the 28th, and College faculty members will be available to answer questions. Tours of campus facilities may be completed prior to or after the special program.

NEWS/DAILY On Oct. 28

CJC Open House Scheduled

Clayton Junior College will open its doors to area residents during an "open house" on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 28. according to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the two-year institution near

"We'd like to extend a cordial invitation to everyone for our open house," Dr. Downs said. 'The success this institution has enjoyed has been possible only through the support of the community. This is our small way of showing appreciation."

Members of the College's faculty and staff, along with many students, will welcome visitors to the campus between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. To allow visitors an option of touring the campus early or late during the time period, a special program commemorating the event will be held at 3 p.m.

The open house was planned to coincide with the College's Tenth Anniversary Celebration, which officially began with the start of Fall Quarter classes on Sept. 25. The College first opened for classes in September of 1969, and began its second decade of service this fall.

taken place on our campus," Dr. Downs added. "Our open house was planned to give everyone in the community an opportunity to see firsthand how we are striving to meet the demands for higher education in the south metropolitan Atlanta area."

The only president in the College's history, Dr. Downs has seen enrollment figures triple during the ten-year period. Credit courses second decade of service, attracted 942 students during the total this Fall are near the 3,000 level. As a public institution operated by the University System of Georgia, Clayton Junior College is able to offer a wide variety of educational programs at a minimum cost. And, most credit courses are offered both during the day and at night.

Although the first classes were taught in 1969, the history of the institution can be traced to a 1963 report issued by the Governor's Commission to Improve Education in Georgia. A comprehensive study revealed a need for additional junior colleges in the state, and one of the areas noted was the south metropolitan area.

In October of 1965, the northern section of Clayton County was designated as the general location of the new institution, and a year later, voters of Clayton County overwhelmingly endorsed a bond election sponsored by the Board of Education. With that approval, citizens provided $4.9 million needed for the development of a site for the "During the past ten College, and for the cost of years, many changes have the initial buildings and > included six buildings. constructed at a cost of slightly over $3.5 million. As the College completed its first five years of operation, and began its sixth year, a two-story Classroom Building was occupied.

The original campus

And now, as the two-year

institution heads into its another building has entered the picture--a learning the 1969 Fall Quarter, and Resources Center. This 57,000-square foot facility, which includes the College's Library Holdings, opened with the start of the Fal Quarter last month and will be a feature attraction of the

Molded around three lakes on a beautifully-landscaped three-hour period.

163-acre tract, each of the College's eight modern buildings were constructed to blend with the natural beauty of their surroundings. All buildings on the campus, except the Maintenance Building, will be open for inspection on the afternoon of the 28th. Visitors will be provided with self-tour maps and may attend at any time during the

Learning Resources Center Featured At

CJC Open House between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. A feature attraction when "Our open house was Clayton Junior College planned to give everyone in welcomes area residents the community an during "open house" festivities on Sunday how we are striving to meet afternoon will be the the demands for higher institution's newest building...the Learning Resources Center.

Opened at the start of the current Fall Quarter, the two-story structure was built at a cost of almost $2.6 million. Including ap- Sanders. Scheduled as the proximately 57,000 square keynote speaker dduring a 3 feet, the new library facility houses a variety of instructional spaces, services attorney was Governor when and resmuccss.

The "open house" was planned to coincide with the College's Tenth Anniversary Celebration, which officially began with the start of Fall Quarter classes on September 25. The College first opened for classes in September of 1969, and began its second decade of service this fall.

The only president in Clayton Junior College's history, Dr. Harry S. Downs, has issued an open invitation for all community residents to attend Sunday's event.

opportunity to see first-hand education in the south metropolitan Atlanta area," he said.

A special attraction during the afternoon will be a formal program featuring former Governor Carl E. p.m. program in the "old library" area, the Atlanta groundowrk for the establishment of the College developed in mid-1965 and matured early in 1967.

A number of county Board of Education and state officials who were involved in the founding of the Collete will be on hand for the special ceremony. Harmon Building was occupied. M. Born, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, will serve as toastmaster for the event. Members of the College's faculty and staff, along with many students, will welcome

visitors to the campus

on Sunday afternoon. The Learning Resources Center, designed on the modern concept to go beyond the traditional library setting, will be one of seven campus buildings which will be open for inspection.

In addition, members of the faculty and staff will be on hand to answer questions and to provide complete information about the College's offerings. The original campus for the two-year institution opened in September of 1969 with six modern buildings, each constructed to blend with the natural beauty of their surroundings. As the College completed its first five years of operation in 1974, and began its sixth year, a two-story Classroom

Visitors attending the Tenth Anniversary "open house" on Sunday will be provided with self-guided tour maps, making it possible to begin tours at any location and at any time during the three-hour period.

Mitchell Foundation Gives Check

W. Cameron Mitchell (left) presents Clayton Junior College Foundation Trustee S. Truett Cathy with a check for $375 from the Mitchell Foundation, Inc. The contribution from the Henry County based corporation will be used to fund a one-year scholarship awarded by the foundation. Programs funded by the CJC Foundation are supported totally by contributions, and all contributions are tax deductible.

Monday, August 20, 1979

Regents Going to School to Help Johnny With His Learning excellence would be a major goal during but many may not, and I simply want all curriculum. Next month, enrollment Some students are attentive. Some his one-year tenure as the acting chan- of us to have whatever information we floor of 244 Washington St. from any others seen daily at the state's 32 col-A lecturer stands in front of the class spewing forth many words of wisdom

By PETER SCOTT

seem sleepy and bored. Many ask questions and make comments. At first glance, there is little to distin-What makes the different classes difguish the monthly classes on the fourth ferent are its students and teachers.

The students are members of the state Board of Regents, and the teachers are members of the staff of acting chancellor Vernon Crawford.

Crawford said improving academic and he has begun the effort by trying to better inform himself and members of the board about issues in higher education, especially those bearing directly on the university system. "Many of the regents read widely briefings. (about issues affecting higher education), cellor of Georgia's university system, can get before we make decisions," Crawford said. Before each month's board meeting,

Crawford and his staff make a presentation on a selected topic in education. Crawford calls the class-like sessions Last month, the subject was the core trends will be discussed, and in following sessions, the board will talk about fiscal management, testing, student retention and energy conservation.

"Our regents have more to think about than whether a school needs a new gym or some other building," Crawford said. "We're trying to look at problems as a tives. Almost nothing we do is done in isolation. There is some statewide effect throughout the university system," he

"Sometimes, I'd like to conduct a session myself, but I can't find anything I know enough about yet," he said.

Energy News Conference Set

A news conference to launch "Energy and the Way We Live: A National Issues Forum" in the southeastern region has been scheduled for 3:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 28, at the Airport Holiday Inn.

"Energy and the Way We Live" is a national program of public forums on the past, present and future dimensions of the energy crisis. Sponsored by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges with funding from the National Endowment for he Humanities, the U.S. Officer of Energy and the Charles Mott Foundation, the program is tied to a national calendar of energy issues for February, March and April. Valencia Community College in Orlando, Florida, is coordinating the program in Region III: Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone. Clayton Junior College in Morrow is the coordinator for the statewide program. Other metropolitan Atlanta schools presenting forums are Spelman College and DeKalb Community College.

Contract Let for CJC Phys. Ed. Building

The contract for construction of an addition to the physical education building at Clayton Junior College has been awarded, according to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the two-year institution near Morrow.

McDevitt & Company of Atlanta offered the low construction bid of $1,391,000 and will begin work in late September. The structure should be ready for occupancy within a year.

The physical education addition was funded by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia at its April meeting this year. The Board allocated $1,487,496 for the total project from supplemental appropriation funds.

"WE ARE VERY pleased with the awarding of this contract," Dr. Downs said. "The new structure will provide our

THE FAYETTE NEIGH. 1/4/80 W. Cameron Mitchell has presented Clayton Junior College Foundation Trustee S. Truett Cathy with $375 from the Mitchell Foundation, Inc. The contribution from the Henry County-based corporation will be used to fund a one-year scholarship awarded by the foundation. Cathy is also the founder and president of Chic-Fil-A.

W. CAMERON MITCHELL His Firm Aids College

THE S. FULTON NEIGH. 1/3 W. Cameron Mitchell has presented Clayton Junior College Foundation Trustee S. Truett Cathy with $375 from the Mitchell Foundation, Inc. The contribution from the Henry County-based corporation will be used to fund a one-year scholarship awarded by the foundation. Cathy is also the founder and presilent of Chic-Fil-A.

W. CAMERON MITCHELL His Firm Aids College

campus with a multi-purpose facility which will be available for use by the entire student body. We feel that it will be a very important addition to our overall

Construction bids for the new structure were considerably higher than had been anticipated, causing College officials and project architects to submit an alternate plan. "We were able to delete a number of items from the project without damaging the overall plan," Dr. Downs said, adding that most of the items omitted could be added at a later date as additional funds become available

The Atlanta firm of Morris Hall & Peter Norris are architects for the project.

ORIGINAL PLANS and specifications for the addition were approved in December of 1972, but a lack of funds for the project forced a seven-year delay. Funds for the CJC project and a number of other University System construction projects were provided by the 1979 Georgia General Assembly.

The CJC addition will be attached to the north side of the current structure, and its 25,000 square feet will expand the college's physical education plant to over 42,000 square feet.

Designed around a multi-use gymnasium, other new facilities provided will be classroom space, a dance and music studio, faculty office space, a lobby and exhibit area, storage areas and restrooms. The gymnasium will include two fulllength basketball courts which will also serve students for indoor badminton, tennis and volleyball. An isometric area and practice cages for golf and archery also will be included.

IN ADDITION, the gymnasium will provide the college with an indoor assembly area for activities such as registration, graduation ceremonies and programs requiring a large seating area.

Current physical education facilities, constructed at a cost of $489,862 when the college opened in 1969, include 17,303 square feet. Within the building, one of six original structures on the campus, are areas for classroom instruction and physical activities, shower and locker areas for men and women, equipment storage areas and faculty offices.

Playing fields for softball and baseball, tennis courts, a putting green for golf and jogging trails are located adjacent to the physical education building.

CONSTRUCTION of the addition will begin at about the same time that the College moves into its new learning resources center. Work on this 57,000 sq. ft-two-story structure, which will house the college's library holdings, began last

Clayton Junior College opened its doors to area students during the fall quarter of 1969 with campus structures designed to blend with the natural beauty of their surroundings. Five years later -- in September of 1974 -- a two-story classroom building was occupied, and the opening of the learning resources center this year comes on the college's tenth anniversary.

"The addition to our physical education facility moves us another step closer to completion of our original campus plans," Dr. Downs pointed out.

Molded around three lakes on a 163-acre tract, the Clayton Junior College campus was designed to meet the growing demands for higher education in the south metropolitan Atlanta area. Almost 3,000 students are anticipated for fall quarter credit classes this year, set to begin Sept.

ARTIST'S RENDERING OF NEW BUILDING

Old Complex is at Left

Clayton Junior Celebrates Sunday October 24, 1979

Learning Resources Center To Open

A feature attraction when institution's newest build- two-story structure was Clayton Junior College welcomes area residents during Open House festivities on Sunday afternoon will be the current fall quarter, the services and resources.

College welcomes area residents during

"open house" festivities Sunday afternoon,

Oct. 28, will be the institution's newest building....the Learning Resources Center.

quarter, the two-story structure was built at a cost of almost $2.6 million. Including approximately 57,000 square feet, the new library facility houses a variety of instruc-

The open house was planned to coincide with the college's tenth anniversary celebration, which officially began with the start of fall quarter classes Sept. 25. The college first opened for classes in September of

THE ONLY PRESIDENT in Clayton

Junior College's history, Dr. Harry S.

Downs, has issued an open invitation for all community residents to attend Sunday's event. "Our open house was planned to give everyone in the community an opportunity to see first-hand how we are striving to meet the demands for higher education in the south metropolitan Atlanta area." he said.

A special attraction during the afternoon

m. program in

will be a formal program featuring former Governor Carl E. Sanders. Scheduled as the

the "old library" area, the Atlanta attorney was Governor when groundwork for the establishment of the college developed in mid-

A number of county Board of Education and state officials who were involved in the founding will be on hand. Harmon M. Born.

chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, will

FACULTY AND STAFF, along with

The Learning Resources Center, designed on the modern concept to go beyond the traditional library setting, will be one of seven campus buildings which will be open

In addition, faculty and staff will answer

many students, will welcome visitors to the 1965 and matured early in 1967.

serve as toastmaster for the event.

campus 1:30 - 4:30 p.m.

tional spaces, services and resources.

Opened at the start of the current fall ing, the Learning Resources built at a cost of almost $2.6 Opened at the start of the riety of instructional spaces,

CJC Plans Ten-Year

Celebration Sunday

million and will house a va- college's 10th Anniversary for classes in September of questions and provide information about

THE ORIGINAL campus for the two-year institution had six modern buildings,

each constructed to blend with the natural beauty of their surroundings. As the college completed its first five years of operation in 1974, and began its sixth year, a two-story

Now as the tenth year ends and the second decade of service begins, the modern

Learning Resources Center has entered the Visitors attending the Tenth Anniversary

"open house" Sunday will be provided with selfguided tour maps, making it possible to begin tours at any location and at any time classroom building was occupied.

during the three-hour period.

the college's offerings.

The Open House was quarter Sept. 25. planned to coincide with the Celebration, which officially 1969 and began its second planned to give everyone in the community an opportunity to see first-hand how we are striving to meet the demands for higher education in the south metropolitan Atlanta area," Dr. Harry Downs, dean of the college, said.

The college first opened began with the start of fall decade of service this fall.

A special attraction during the afternoon will be a formal program featuring former Georgia Governor Carl Sanders.

Scheduled as the keynote speaker during a 3 p.m. program in the Old Library area, the Atlanta attorney was governor when the groundwork for the establishment of the college developed in mid-1965 and matured in early 1967.

A number of Clayton County Board of Education and state officials, who were involved in the founding of the college will be on hand for the special ceremony.

Harmon Born, chairman of the Clayton Junior College Foundation Board of Trustees, will serve as toastmaster for the event. Members of the college's faculty and staff, along with many students, will welcome visitors to the campus between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. The Learning Resources Center, designed on the modern concept to go beyond the traditional library setting, will be one of seven campus buildings which will be open for in-In addition, members of the faculty and staff will be on hand to answer questions and to provide complete information about the college's offering.

Visitors attending the 10th Anniversary Open House will be provided with self-guided tour maps, making it possible to begin tours at any location and at any time during the three-hour period.

Day Classes Expanding

Clayton Junior College will offer more daytime noncredit classes this quarter than ever before, according to Ricardo D. Sanchez, director of community ser-

"We have scheduled eight courses during the day in an effort to meet the many requests we have received for such offerings," Sanchez said. Most non-credit courses are offered during the evening hours.

Day classes scheduled include Real Estate Preparation from 9 a.m. to noon on Mondays and Wednesdays; Introduction to Bookkeeping and Accounting from 9 to 11 a.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays and Slimnastics from 10 to 11 a.m. on Mon-

Others include Refresher Typing, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Monday though Friday Jan. 14-25.

Beginning Piano for Adults, Drawing and Sketching, Fashion Sewing and Style, Fashion and Your Personal Image are other daytime classes being of-

Day Classes Expanding

Clayton Junior College will offer more daytime noncredit classes this quarter than ever before, according to Ricardo D. Sanchez, director of community sero vices. "We have scheduled eight courses during the day in an effort to meet the many requests we have received for such offerings," Sanchez

Most non-credit courses are offered during the evening hours.

Day classes scheduled intion from 9 a.m. to noon on Mondays and Wednesdays; Introduction to Bookkeeping iii and Accounting from 9 to 11 a.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays and Shifing Street from 10 to 11 a.m. on Mon-

Others include Refresher Typing, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Monday though Friday Jan. 14-25.

Beginning Piano for Sketching, Fashion Sewing and Style, Fashion and Your Personal Image are other daytime classes being of-

FOUNDATION SUPPORT--Allen S. presents a $500 check from his firm to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of Clayton Junior College. Dr. Downs accepted the contribution on behalf of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Burks (right), vice president of Martin Inc. By supporting the programs of the Burks Chevrolet, Inc., of Forest Park, Foundation, Martin Burks Chevrolet joins other business firms and individuals in providing scholarships for outstanding area

New Equipment

John Feathers (left), chairman of the Division of Business at Clayton Junior College, points out improved features of a new electronic typewriter to Kawneer personnel manager Jim Stewart (center) and general manager Art Gray (right) as Mrs. Martha O. Beliveau, assistant professor of Business Education at the college, demonstrates. The Jonesboro manufacturer of architectrual products gave the College $1,000 toward the purchase of the new typewriter, to be used by students enrolled in business education courses. Kawneer has contributed $4,000 to the college for equipment purchases during the past five years.

It Helps

John Feathers (L), chairman of the division of business at Clayton Junior College, points out improved features of a new electronic typewriter to Kawneer personnel manager Jim Stewart (C) and general manager Art Gray (R) as Martha O. Beliveau, assistant professor of business at the college, demonstrates.

It Helps

John Feathers (L), chairman of the division of business at Clayton Junior College, points out improved features of a new electronic typewriter to Kawneer personnel manager Jim Stewart (C) and general manager Art Gray (R) as Martha O. Beliveau, assistant professor of business at the college, demonstrates.

Attention CJC Students

New students who plan to enroll in credit classes at Clayton Junior College during the Winter Quarter have until next week to file all applications and credentials with the College's Office of Admissions and Records. To be considered for admission, applicants must complete and return all required forms by Thursday, December 13. Registration for Winter Quarter classes will be completed on January 2, 1980, and classes will begin the following day.

New students must provide the College with a high school transcript or an equivalency certificate, and must take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). Required for the purpose of placement, no applicant is refused admission because of his or her score on the SAT. The College will administer the SAT to prospective students on the December deadline date.

For complete information about admission requirements, call or visit the Office of Admissions and Records (363-7723). For further information about the SAT, contact the Office of Counseling and Testing (363-7744).

Winter Quarter credit classes, both day and night offerings, will continue until the last of final examinations are given on March 18.

Scheduled

Clayton Junior College is the coordinator for the state-

The program which involves several hundred colleges throughout the United States will be described in detail and time will be provided for interviews with national, regional and local

Moliday Inn.

= coordinators.

wide program.

The contract for construction of an addition to the physical education building at Clayton Junior College has been awarded, according to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the two-year institution near Morrow.

McDevitt & Street Company of Atlanta offered the low construction bid of $1,391,000 and will begin work in late September. The structure should be ready for occupancy within a year. The physical education addition was funded by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia at its April meeting this year. The Board allocated $1,487,496 for the total project from supplemental appropriation funds.

"We are very pleased with the

ENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

awarding of this contract," Dr. Downs said. "The new structure will provide our campus with a multipurpose facility which will be available for use by the entire student body. We feel that it will be a very important addition to our overall plant facilities.'

Construction bids for the new structure were considerably higher than had been anticipated, causing College officials and project architects to submit an alternate plan. "We were able to delete a number of items from the project without damaging the overall plan," Dr. Downs said, adding that most of the items omitted could be added at a later date as additional funds become

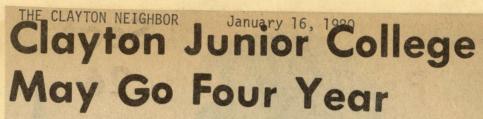

The Atlanta firm of Morris Hall & Peter Norris are architects for the Original plans and specifications for the addition were approved in December of 1972, but a lack of funds for the project forced a seven-year delay. Funds for the CJC project and a number of other University System construction projects were provided by the 1979 Georgia General

The CJC addition will be attached to the north side of the current structure, and its 25,000 square feet will expand the College's physical education plant to over 42,000 square feet of space. Designed around a multi-use provided will be classroom space, a dance and music studio, faculty office space, a lobby and exhibit area, storage areas, and restrooms. The gymnasium will include two fulllength basketball courts which will also serve students for indoor badminton, tennis, and volleyball. An isometric area and practice cages for golf and archery also will be included.

In addition, the gymnasium will provide the college with an indoor assembly area for activities such as registration, graduation ceremonies, and programs requiring a large

Clayton Junior College developed a committee to may become a four year evaluate the changes that institution in the near future would have to be made to if the State Board of Regents convert from the present approves the move.

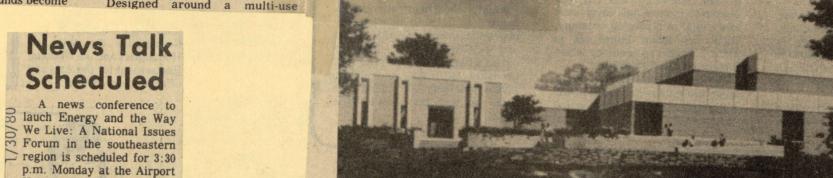

two year school to a four The board of regents has year school.

The county's four State legislators have been working for several years on the school conversion

According to Clayton Junior College President Harry Downs, the school would be given a two year preparation period to add staff and cur-

Clayton presently has a faculty of 80 full time instructors. If the conversion is made then the staff would increase by approximatley 50 percent.

No cost estimates are available at this time but since housing won't be available on campus.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION BUILDING ADDITION AT CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE A Portion Of Current Structure Is Shown At Left

Continued from page 1A

· Current physical education facilities, constructed at a cost of $489,862 when the college opened in 1969, include 17,303 square feet of space. Within the building, one of six original structures on the campus, are areas for classroom instruction and physical activities, shower and locker areas for men and women, equipment storage areas, and faculty offices.

Playing fields for softball and baseball, tennis courts, a putting green for golf, and jogging trails are located adjacent to the physical education building.

Construction of the addition will begin at about the same time the college moves into its new Learning Resources Center. Work on this 57,000 square foot two-story structure, which will house the College's Library holdings, began last year.

Clayton Junior College opened its doors to area students during the Fall Quarter of 1969 with campus structures designed to blend with the natural beauty of their surroundings. Five years later - in September of 1974 -- a two-story classroom building was occupied, and the opening of the Learning Resources Center this year comes on the college's tenth an-

"The addition to our physical education facility moves us another step closer to completion of our original campus plans," Dr. Downs pointed out.

Molded around three lakes on a beautifully-landscaped 163-acre tract. the Clayton Junior College campus was designed to meet the growing demands for higher education in the south metropolitan Atlanta area. Almost 3,000 students are anticipated for fall quarter credit classes this year, set to begin on September 25

I Love To Go A-Wandering...

Eleven-month-old Veronica Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnston, of Riverdale, was bent on exploring Clayton Junior College's re-cent Open house festivities, but Daddy said no. At least, that's what he thought he said. Veronica thought he said, "Go." Which meant after a few moments that Veronica had to be rescued from getting trampled in the crowd. At last report, Veronica was doing well. Her parents, however, are exhausted. (SUNphotos by Tracy Thompson)

NEWS/DAILY November 16, 1979

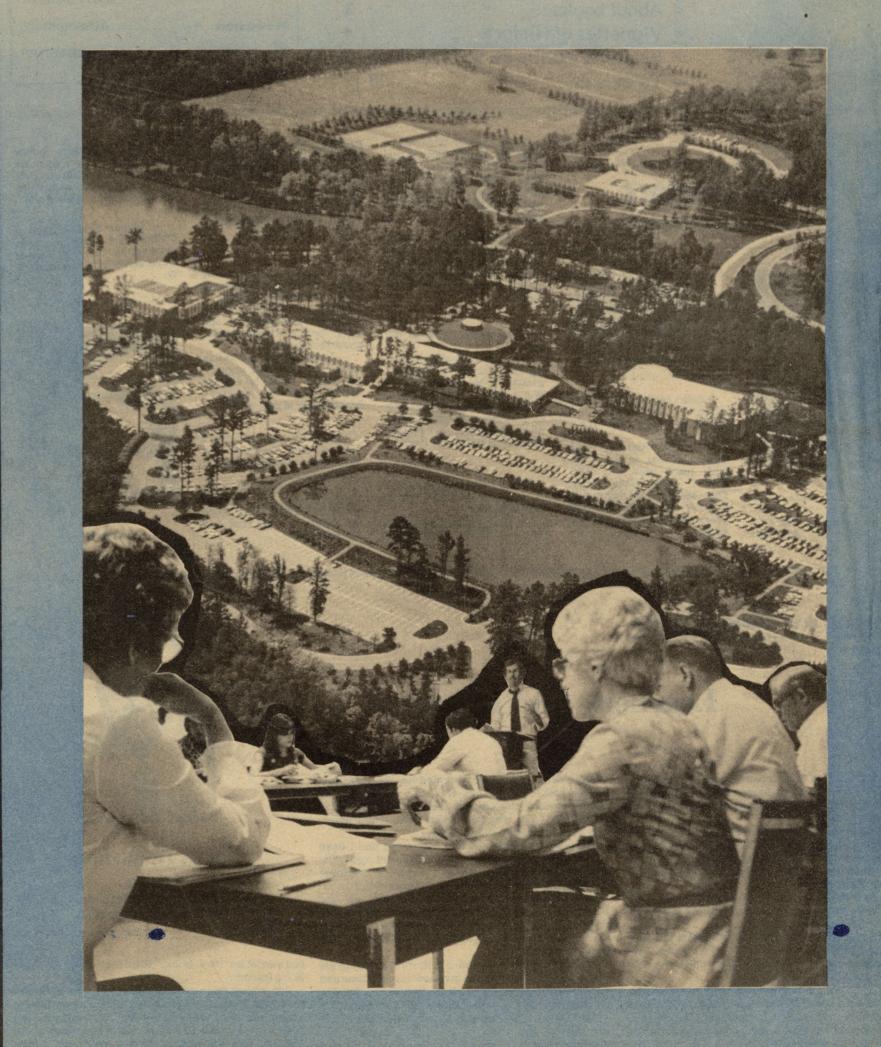

Scholarships Donated

Allen S. Burks (right), vice president of Martin Burks Chevrolet, Inc., of Forest Park, presents a $500 check from his firm to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of Clayton Junior College. Dr. Downs accepted the contribution on behalf of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc. By sup-porting the programs of the Foundation, Martin-Burks Chevrolet joins other business firms and in dividuals in providing scholarships for outstanding

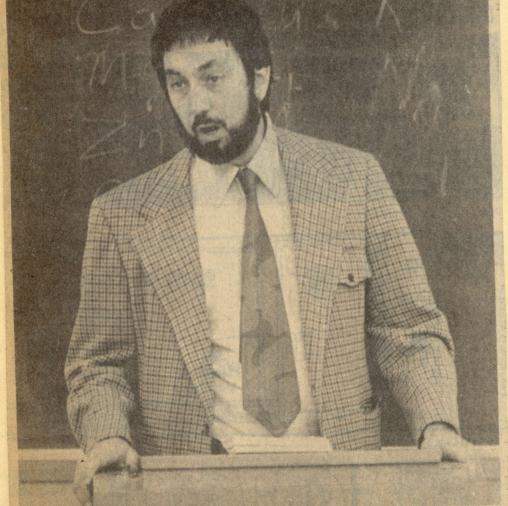

September 2, 1979

Sunday Magazine

INSIIDE • Bringing Adults Back To College

Nutrition Speaker

Dr. Ronald Dressler, M.D., was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the South Metro Dental Hygienists Component at Clayton Junior College on the topic of nutrition and body chemistry. The program was presented in two parts and is part of hygienists' continuing education through the Compnent.

Day Classes Expanding

Clayton Junior College will offer more daytime noncredit classes this quarter than ever before, according to Ricardo D. Sanchez, director of community ser-

"We have scheduled eight courses during the day in an of effort to meet the many requests we have received for such offerings," Sanchez

Most non-credit courses Zning hours.

Day classes scheduled in-Day classes scheen clude Real Estate Preparation from 9 a.m. to noon on Mondays and Wednesdays; Introduction to Bookkeeping and Accounting from 9 to 11 a.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays and Slimnastics from 10 to 11 a.m. on Mondays.

Others include Refresher Others include Refresher Typing, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Monday though Friday Jan. 14-25.

Beginning Piano for Additional Property of the Prope

Sketching, Fashion Sewing ≟ and Style, Fashion and Your Personal Image are other daytime classes being of-

Kicks Off American Education Week

The "Art of Good Teaching" Fair, held Saturday at Clayton Junior College, served as a starting point for American Education Week, which continues in Clayton County schools through this Friday.

The fair, directed by Rick Winstel of Riverdale Junior High, was an effort to expose parents and teachers to techniques and curriculum used by Clayton teachers to stimulate student interests.

On display were learning centers, arts and crafts, scale-model exhibits depicting Indian and prehistoric life and games used in the schools by teachers.

Teachers from various schools displayed filmstrips and animated films their students had made, as well as talking about different programs unique to their particular school.

Students participated in chorus singing, a puppet show, pantomine and improvisational drama. "We had a turnout of about 300 people," sand Winstel. "We were hoping for more, but I though everything went well and we appreciate the people who aid come."

Winstel announced the winners

Winstel announced the winners of the judging of displays by teachers. First place winners will go on to the Sixth District Teaching Fair.

In the elementary grades, the winners were: first place, Pauline Buchanon, Mt. Zion; second, Linda Fairchild, Church Street; third, Anna Gover, Church Street.

Winners in the junior high competition were: first place, Judy Joiner, Riverdale, second, Pat Jamison, Fountain; third, Menna Madan, Fountain.

In the senior high schools, the winners were: Susan Simpson, Jonesboro; second, Anita Tinsley, North Clayton; third (Tie), Virginia Hall, Jonesboro, Roslyn Spraybeery, Riverdale.

MORROW ELEMENTARY STUDENTS PRESENT PUPPET SHOW

Part Of "Art Of Good Teaching Fair"

It Helps

John Feathers (L), chairman of the division of business at Clayton Junior College, points out improved features of a new electronic typewriter to Kawneer personnel manager Jim Stewart (C) and general manager Art Gray (R) as Martha O. Beliveau, assistant professor of business at the college, demonstrates.

It Helps

John Feathers (L), chairman of the division of business at Clayton Junior College, points out improved features of a new electronic typewriter to Kawneer personnel manager Jim Stewart (C) and general manager Art Gray (R) as Martha O. Beliveau, assistant professor of business at the college, demonstrates

Clayton Junior College Community Service Program Brings Adults Back To College

NEWS/DAILY October 10, 1979

Classroom Aid

John Feathers (left), chairman of the Division of Business at Clayton Junior College, points out improved features of a new electronic typewriter to Kawneer personnel manager Jim Stewart (center) and general manager Art Gray as Mrs. Marth O. Beliveau, assistant professor of business education, demonstrates. The Jonesboro manufacturer of architectural products contributed toward the purchase of the educational equipment.

By SCOTT HAMPLE

Staff Writer
An adequate description of the Office of Community Services at Clayton Junior College is easily found in the latest edition of the school's catalog:

catalog:
 "Clayton Junior College is dedicated to serving the educational and cultural needs of the south metropolitan Atlanta community. As an institution of the University System of Georgia, the College shares with its sister institutions the philosophy that such service should extend beyond purely academic offerings to the special educational and cultural needs of the community itself, especially through continuing education for adults in all walks of life. It is the mission of the Office of Community Services to act as a liaison between the College and the community."

The bubbly enthusiasm of the office's six-member staff, needless 'to say, hardly matches the matter-of-fact description. One only is required to sit down and listen to the office's executives—Ric Sanchez, Kathie Robichaud and Cilla Marsh—to become convinced.

convinced.

"We are responding just to the needs of the community," says Sanchez, director of the Office of Community Services.

"We have the freedom to offer anything we want, if we can find the right resources."

Non-credit courses, as one observer noted, is just the tip of the proverbial iceberg in describing the Office of Community Services involvement.

"We are constantly growing, adding to, and broadening the scope of our office," said Sanchez.

More and more workshops, conferences and seminars are being held at the college each quarter, noted Mrs. Marsh, section supervisor. It has become the office's responsibility to make sure everything is handled

A quick look at the groups utilizing the facilities show how popular it has become to hold their meetings at Clayton

Junior.
The National Piano Foundation, who held its annual conference there this summer; the Georgia Dental Hygienists Association; and the Internal Revenue Service have all held meetings at the junior college.

The school has also become the metropolitan Atlanta center for the Certified Public Manager Program; a conference for state government employees jointly sponsored by the State Merit System and the University of Georgia.

The first annual Southern Writers Conference will also be held at the school later this year. Journalist and novelist Paul Hemphill is coordinating the conference along with the Office of Community Services.

According to Mrs. Marsh, an average of one conference a month is held at the campus in Morrow.

The office, notes Mrs. Robichaud, the office's assistant director, helps with what is termed as the "visitors on campus" program.

Special interest groupssuch as the Georgia Citizens for the Arts and the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce-often borrow the school's facilities but plan the conferences on their own. The office of Community

Continued on page 6

Board Suggests CJC For Vocational Site

By JAN LITTLE Living Editor

Clayton County Board of Education passed a resolution Monday night to recommend location of a $12 million post-secondary vocational facility on the Clayton Junior College campus.

The school is designated for the Clayton-Henry County area but no definite decision is expected until next spring or summer on which county the facility will be leasted in second in the county the spring or summer on which county the facility will be located in, according to Dr. Joe Freund, associate state school superintendent for co-vocational education.

A state study's projected need for such schools in the metro Atlanta area.

A state study's projected need for such schools in the metro Atlanta area in the next 10 years resulted in one facility being recommended for DeKalb-Gwinnett Counties and one for the Clayton-Henry area, according to Ernest Stroud, Clayton school superintendent.

Executive session to discuss personnel was called at the end of the Board meeting. Larry Foster, school board attorney, recounted for the board grand jury indictments issued concerning a kickback scheme in the system's maintenance department, a 27 count indictment brought Friday against Principal Gareth Lewayne Anderson of East Clayton Elementary School charged with theft by taking and attempting to perjure himself if called upon to testify in court, Stroud

In 'addition, Stroud's own indictment and subsequent nolo contendere (no contest) plea on five counts of failure to disclose campaign contributions were also recounted for the board, Stroud added.

The resolution on the vocational facility will be sent to the State Board of Education and the State Board of Regents recommending the college as a good location because of the land already available for construction, services available at the College which could be utilized also for the facility's students and convenience of location for county residents.

Construction is slated to begin sometime in 1982 and the facility is second priority on the list of new construction, he told Board members.

First priority is a similar facility to be built in Gwinnett County, Dr. Freund said.

Programs offered at the new school

could include: trucking-related courses and those related to the airport such as navigational ones, Stroud said. A needs survey in the business community would project the job market for the area and influence what programs are offered, he added.

Another program which might be offered would be a "quick-start" or "start-up" program which offers eight to 12 weeks training for companies which plan to locate in the area and require skilled labor such as tooland-die skills. The program offers local residents the opportunity of training for such jobs and enhances their chances of being employed by the new company which would not then have to bring in skilled labor from other areas, Stroud said.

Decision on which county the facility will be located in will be made by the State Board of Education, Dr. Freund said, and will probably be made within the next year.

Fair, held Saturday at Clayton Junior College, served as a starting point for American Education Week, which continues in Clayton County schools through this Friday.

The fair, directed by Rick Winstel of Riverdale Junior High, was an effort to expose parents and teachers to techniques and curriculum used by Clayton teachers to stimulate student

On display were learning centers, arts and crafts, scalemodel exhibits depicting Indian and prehistoric life and games used in the schools by teachers.

animated films their students had made, as well as talking about different programs unique to their particular school. Students participated in chorus singing, a puppet show, pantomine and improvisational displayed filmstrips and

"We had a turnout of about 300 people," sand Winstel. "We were hoping for more, but I though everything went well and we appreciate the people who did

Winstel announced the winners of the judging of displays by teachers. First place winners will

Teaching Fair. In the elementary grades, the winners were: first place, Pauline Buchanon, Mt. Zion: second, Linda Fairchild, Church Street; third, Anna Gover, Church Street. Winners in the junior high competition were: first place, Judy Joiner, Riverdale, second Pat Jamison, Fountain; third, Menna Madan, Fountain. In the senior high schools, the winners were: Susan Simpson, Jonesboro; second, Anita Tinsley, North Clayton; third (Tie) Virginia Hall, Jonesboro, Roslyn Spraybeery, Riverdale.

Part Of "Art Of Good Teaching Fair"

It Helps

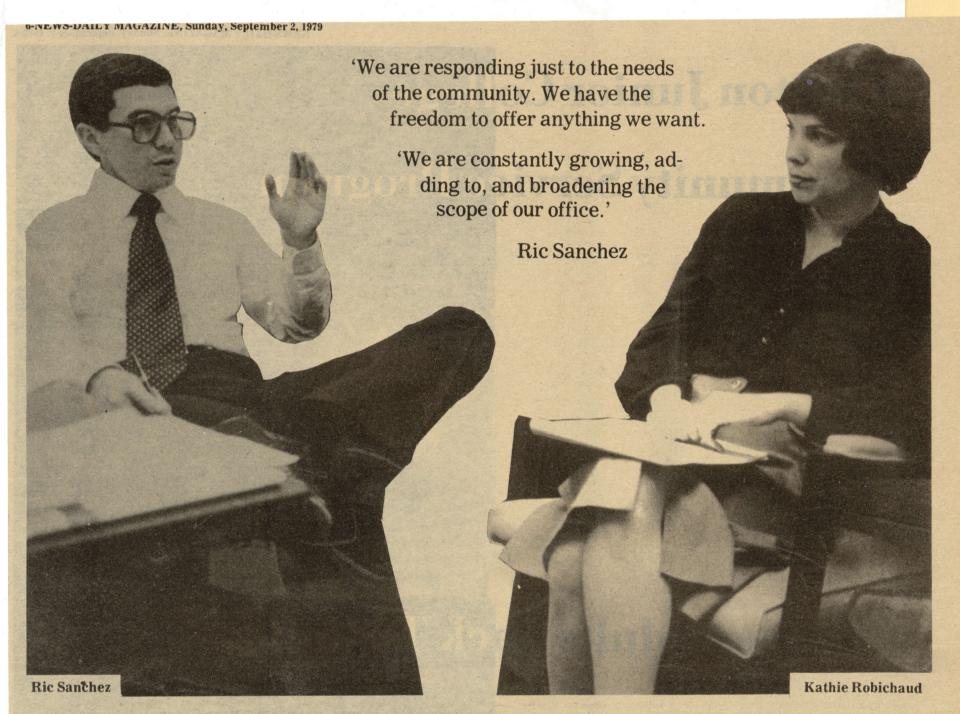

John Feathers (L), chairman of the division of business at Clayton Junior College, points out improved features of a new electronic typewriter to Kawneer personnel manager Jim Stewart (C) and general manager Art Gray (R) as Martha O. Beliveau, assistant professor of business at the college, demonstrates.

NEWS/DAILY

It Helps

John Feathers (L), chairman of the division of business at Clayton Junior College, points out improved features of a new electronic typewriter to Kawneer personnel manager Jim Stewart (C) and general manager Art Gray (R) as Martha O. Beliveau, assistant professor of business at the college, demonstrates.

Bringing Adults Back To College

Continued from page 5

Services co-ordinates the scheduling of the physical requirements like classrooms, chairs and overhead

Clayton Junior hosted some 10,000 "visitors to campus" last year. An average of 30 to 40 organizations visit Clayton Junior each month. A speakers' bureau is also coordinated through the Office of Community Services, said Sanchez. Drawing from the expertise of the campus' staff and faculty, speakers are offered to the various organizations without charge. A brochure detailing who is available should be published later this fall.

But despite these responsibilities, said Sanchez, conferences and "visitors to campus program" comprise only 20 percent of the office's normal workload. The administration of the non-credit course program fills any possible leisure time. Enrollment in the noncreditors courses, said Sanchez has increased dramatically over the past

A little over 880 area residents attended the short courses in the Fall of 1977. Sanchez predicted enrollment could be close to 1,800 this fall. And there are other

The average student, for between the ages of 25 and 35 years-old, female and a member of the working middle class. Some students have had some post-secondary "Having completed college is not required to enroll in the statistics available, Sanchez short courses," said Mrs. Although there are no estimates approximately 20 to 25 percent of the students have 'What are you offering'", she example, is somewhere returned quarter after quarter said while explaining that at "Nationwide, other into additional non-credit

He also said less than two percent of his students attend Clayton Junior as a full-time credit earning student. The most unusual request made of the Office of Community Services, reflected

Mrs. Marsh, was not for some out-of-the-ordinary course like underwater basket weaving. "We are frequently asked any given quarter, some 90 short courses are offered. Clayton Junior, like other institutions throughout the nation, is slowly moving away from the leisure-type courses--like art and tennis--in preference to business and career oriented instruction. Personal growth courses, with titles such as "Divorce

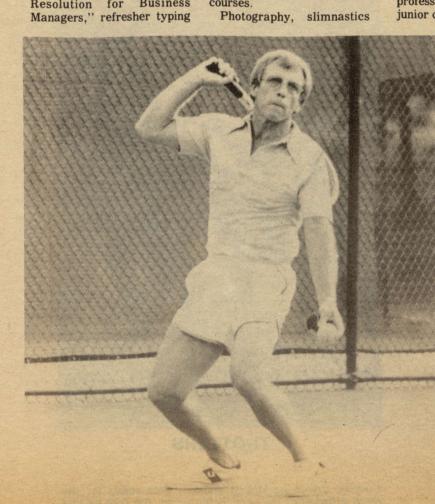

Adjustment" and "Asser-

grown in popularity.

adjustments." Robichaud said. "We look at what other institutions are offering and place the ideas in our planning file." Area residents are also constantly telephoning or personally Aiding the Office of Community Services with not only suggestions but also mantiveness Training", have also power are several local ser-

Tennis, Karate Offered For Non-Credit

and secretarial courses, vice agencies. needlepoint and a preparatory The Clayton Parks and course for adults intending to Recreation Commission, the Clayton County Library return to college. system, the YMCA, the Often local service agencies will co-sponsor with the Office of Community Services courses that are likely to fall within the "personal growth" The Clayton County Police and Fire Departments along with the Emergency Medical Service recently offered a short course entitled "Home Security," said Mrs.

Although the Office of Community Services tries to offer as many courses for free or in the $20 to $30 range, some

YWCA, the Department of Family and Children's Services, both the Clayton County Public Health and Mental Health Departments, the Clayton County Ministerial Association and the Clayton County Extension Service help the junior college in coordinating public service programs throughout the

"We have found that we have better programs if two or three groups get involved," said Sanchez.

Non-credit courses offered course costs run as high as this fall quarter and in the $75. Textbooks and materials past have included "Conflict are not included in most Resolution for Business courses.

and real estate courses are some equipment and available simply because of lack of popular among area residents, said Mrs. Robichaud, while courses like home insulation, foreign languages and "Medication for Women" often have little persons.

or no participation. Most of the faculty of the short course program come from groups as well as members of the nearby business community. One local accountant teaches practical bookkeeping methods, for example.

"We come up with an idea for a short course and search the community for the right person to teach it," said supply of knowledgeable businessmen professionals in the area, the junior college, however, lacks to 16 students, they explained, space for some of the courses.

(Georgia State University

Department of Continuing process of publishing a computer printout of short

Scheduling short courses courses available throughout around the numerous conferences and regular activities planned by the junior college also poses some

Some art classes are limited problems, said Sanchez.

the metro area.)

and

Anywhere from 12 to 14 "Some people would like us to offer keypunch or word courses a quarter are offered processing but we don't have off-campus, however. Currently M.D. Collins High the equipment," said Sanchez. Other schools in the area offer School in College Park is the such courses, he explained, only off-campus site but and the office refers those Sanchez is looking into the interested to Atlanta and possibility of scheduling Griffin Area Tech. classes somewhere in

NEWS-DAILY MAGAZINE, Sunuay, September 2, 1919-1

Enrollment in non-credit courses has increased dramatically over the past two years. Approximately 880 area residents attended the short courses in the fall of 1977.

Enrollment this fall could be close to 1,800

Peachtree City. There are also hopes in the Office of Community services to reserve some space in the present library once the new libraby has completed con-adequate space.

Most of the faculty of the short course program come from local service agencies groups as well as members of munity. One local accountant teaches practical bookkeeping methods, for example.

October 10, 19/9

Classroom Aid

Business at Clayton Junior College, points out improved features of a new electronic typewriter to Kawneer personnel manager Jim Stewart (center) and general tributed toward the purchase of the educational equipment.

John Feathers (left), chairman of the Division of manager Art Gray as Mrs. Marth O. Beliveau, assistant professor of business education, demonstrates. The Jonesboro manufacturer of architectural products con-

Board Suggests CJC For Vocational Site

Living Editor

Clayton County Board of Education passed a resolution Monday night to recommend location of a $12 million post-secondary vocational facility on the Clayton Junior College campus. The school is designated for the Clayton-Henry County area but no definite decision is expected until next spring or summer on which county the facility will be located in, according to Dr. Joe Freund, associate state school superintendent for co-vocational

A state study's projected need for such schools in the metro Atlanta area in the next 10 years resulted in one facility being recommended for DeKalb-Gwinnett Counties and one for the Clayton-Henry area, according to Ernest Stroud, Clayton school

Executive session to discuss personnel was called at the end of the Board meeting. Larry Foster, school board attorney, recounted for the board grand jury indictments issued concerning a kickback scheme in the

27 count indictment brought Friday against Principal Gareth Lewayne Anderson of East Clayton Elementary School charged with theft by taking and attempting to perjure himself if called upon to testify in court, Stroud

In 'addition, Stroud's own indictment and subsequent nolo contendere (no contest) plea on five counts of failure to disclose campaign contributions were also recounted for the board, Stroud added.

The resolution on the vocational facility will be sent to the State Board of Education and the State Board of Regents recommending the college as a good location because of the land already available for construction. services available at the College which could be utilized also for the facility's students and convenience of location for county residents. Construction is slated to begin sometime in 1982 and the facility is second priority on the list of new construction, he told Board members. First priority is a similar facility to be built in Gwinnett County, Dr. Freund said.

Programs offered at the new school

could include: trucking-related courses and those related to the airport such as navigational ones. Stroud said. A needs survey in the business community would project the job market for the area and influence what programs are offered, he Another program which might be offered would be a "quick-start" or

'start-up'' program which offers eight to 12 weeks training for companies which plan to locate in the area and require skilled labor such as tooland-die skills. The program offers local residents the opportunity of training for such jobs and enhances their chances of being employed b the new company which would not then have to bring in skilled labor from other areas, Stroud said.

Decision on which county the facility will be located in will be made by the State Board of Education, Dr. Freund said, and will probably be made within the next year.

Some 90 short courses are offered at any given quarter

October 11, 1979

CJC Celebrates 10 Years with Open House

Clayton Junior College will open its doors to area residents during an "open house" on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 28, according to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the two-year institution near Morrow. "We'd like to extend a cordial invitation to everyone for our open house," Dr. Downs said. "The success this instituion has enjoyed has been possible only through the support of the communtiy. This is our small way of showing appreciation.'

MEMBERS of the College's faculty and staff, along with many students, will welcome visitors to the campus between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. To allow visitors an option of touring the campus early or late during the time period, a special program commemorating the event will be held at 3 p.m.

The open house was planned to coincide with the College's Tenth Anniversary Celebration, which officially began with the start of Fall Quarter classes on Sept. 25. The college first opened for classes in September of 1969, and began its second decade of service this fall.

"DURING past 10 years, many changes have taken place on our campus," Dr. Downs added. "Our open house was planned to give everyone in the community an opportunity to see first-hand how we are striving to meet the demands for higher education in the south metropolitan Atlanta

The only president in the College's history, Dr. Downs has seen enrollment figures triple during the 10-year period. Credit courses attracted 942 students during the 1969 fall quarter, and the total this fall will be near the 3,000 level.

As a public institution operated by the University System of Georgia, Clayton Junior College is able to offer a wide variety of educational programs at a minimum cost. And, most credit courses are offered both during the day and at night.

ALTHOUGH the first classes were taught in 1969, the history of the institution can be traced to a 1963 report by the Governor's Commission to Improve Education in Georgia. A comprehensive study revealed a need for additional junior colleges in the state, and one of the areas noted was the south metropolitan area. In October of 1965, the northern section of Clayton County was designated as the general location of the new institution, and a year later, voters of Clayton County overwhelmingly endorsed a bond election sponsored by the Board of Education.

With that approval, citizens provided $4.9 million needed for the development of a site for the College, and for the cost of the initial buildings and equipment.

The original campus included six buildings, constructed at a cost of slightly over $3.5 million. As the College completed its first five years of operation, and began its sixth year, a two-story Classroom Building was occupied.

NOW, as the two-year institution heads into its second decade of service, another building has entered the picture—a Learning Resources Center. This 57,000 square foot facility, which includes the College's Library Holdings, opened with the start of the Fall Quarter last month and will be a feature attraction of the open house.

Molded around three lakes on a beautifully-landscaped 163-acre tract, each of the College's eight modern buildings were constructed to blend with the natural beauty of their surroundings.

All buildings on the campus, except the Maintenance Building, will be open for inspection on the afternoon of Oct. 28. Visitors will be provided with self-tour maps and may attend at any time during the three-hour period.

THE HENRY HERALD

December 19, 1979 W. Cameron Mitchell (left) presents Clayton Junior College Foundation Trustee S. Truett Cathy with a check for $375 from the Mitchell Foundation, Inc. The contribution from the Henry County based corporation will be used to fund a one-year scholarship awarded by the Foundation. Programs funded by the CJC Foundation are supported totally by contributions, and all contributions are tax deductible

CJC New Library Opens This Fall

construction, work is underway to enlarge the college's inventory of media 25,000 square foot physical equipment education building by 17,000 programs go beyond the traditional setting, and CJC's new building will be constructed on the concept of a comprehensive "Learning

Four basic areas will be included in the new building.

A public services area will include circulation,

reference and periodicals,

media carrels, general study

students and faculty members. A technical services area will include space for the ordering,

A media services area will provision of a number of instructional services, including the design and production of slides, transparencies, audio tapes resources.

areas, and special rooms for Resources Center."

doors to area students during natural beauty of their an audio recording booth. surroundings. A seventh building, the two story

Forest Park 366-5750 Christian's Pharmacy

Industrial Bouleyard

Forest Park 366-0080

Parkway Garden Chapel

completed on the new library and layout areas for the building at Clayton Junior printing of college College, with occupancy publications, photographic scheduled this fall. In other darkroom facilities, and a maintenance area for the

An area also has been designed for the production The college opened its of videotape and closed circuit or cable television, as the Fall Quarter of 1969 with well as for the production of six original buildings, each audiotapes. Included will be constructed to blend with the a television control room and

The college's Deaprtment of Special Studies, presently Classroom Building, was located in the two-story opened in September of 1974. Classroom Building, also The new library building to will be moved into the new include approximately 57,000 facility. Administrative and square feet, will house a instructional spaces for variety of instructional remedial programs in spaces, services, and mathematics, reading, and resources. Modern library English will be included.

The present library facility at CJC includes about 28,000 square feet of space and is located on the second floor of a combined Library-Student Center Building. This "old" library space will be converted into additional academic and student activity space when the new library building is completed.

The new library facility, which will offer a wide range of resources and services for student, faculty, and staff receiving, cataloging, and processing of all library functions, is between the present Library Student Center Building and the college's Administration include space for the Building. Overlooking one of the three lakes on the beautifully-landscaped campus, the building will be located in an area easily accessible from classroom and charts. Additionally, and parking areas.

CJC Anniversary Honored

GUITAR SOLO-Tom Bell, of Jonesboro, presents Registro (Prelude) by Antonio Diaz, and Campo No. 3, by Abel Carlwaro.

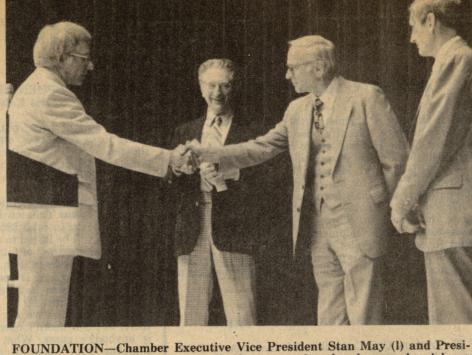

The Clayton County dignitaries and officials of Chamber of Commerce the college participated. recently hosted a birthday party in honor of the tenth slide program on the college's history, a musical program by the college's Bill Gore. music department and presentation of a donation to the Clayton Junior College Foundation highlighted the celebration.

The musical program involved students Tim anniversary of Clayton Burton, Connie Durham, Steve Graver, Tom Bell, of A chamber-produced Jonesboro Kris Creecy and the Clayton Junior College Jazz Ensemble, directed by Remarks were delivered by College President Harry S. Downs, Chamber President Carl Rhodenizer, and Chamber Executive Vice Local politicians, President Stan May.

SUNphotos By Dave Hamrick

dent Carl Rhodenizer (r) present a check representing chamber members' donation for Clayton Junior College Scholarships to College President Harry S. Downs, as Dr. Ernest Dunbar, a member of the board of trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, looks on.

Making plans

Kim Beaty, Mildred Sawyer and Lee Woodward (1r) discuss seminar possibilities for the Merchants Association this year. Beaty as president talked with Woodward from Clayton Junior College about resources available for the seminars. Mrs. Sawyer is executive vice president of the Chamber of Com-

The Clayton Junior College Jazz Ensemble, directed by Bill Gore, and Connie Lambert Durham, from Riverdale (r), were among students featured Sunday as the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce sponsored a celebration of Clayton Junior College's tenth anniversary. The chamber presented a slide show and a check representing chamber members' donations for scholarships to the college, and the school's music department presented a program.

CJC Amniversary

Sanders Cites Growth Of College; Criticizes Atlanta's High Crime Rate

By SAM HODGES

Staff Writer Former Gov. Carl Sanders departed from congratulatory remarks Sunday at the Clayton Junior College anniversary celebration to reaffirm his commitment to fighting crime in

"We can't tolerate it any longer," he said, in reference to the spiraling murder rate. "If we need more judges, more district attorneys, more prisons, more courthouses, then let's get them. We need to get on with cleaning up the streets of Atlanta."

Sanders alluded to the recent murder of a secretary in his Atlanta office, as well as the multiple stabbing of a male employee with his firm. Both incidents occurred in downtown

Calling himself "a concerned citizen" and vowing that he is "not a candidate for anything," Sanders criticized Atlanta officials for worrying more about their public images than about the city's crime rate and growing reputation as the murder capital of the U.S.

He urged passage of handgun legislation and called on those present "to organize with your neighbors and friends to do something now" in the battle against crime in Atlanta and Georgia.

Sanders was selected as speaker for the CJC tenth anniversary because he was governor when funds were fire approved for construction of the

"Who would have believed that this school would have achieved the growth and success that it has in just 10 years?" he asked.

Sanders called CJC "a benefit to the community" and said the institution has "elevated the economic, social and cultural standards" of Clayton County and the surrounding area. He specifically cited the school's program of speakers and the physical beauty of the campus as factors which distinguish it from other junior colleges.

Near the beginning of his speech Sanders noted his own roots in Clayton County telling

See CJC on page 8A

SANDERS, WIFE BETTY, GREET WALTER ESTES Estes 's Distant Relative Of Former Governor

Leaders Needed

One of the qualities that has always distinguished Clayton County is the strength and progressiveness of its leadership.

There are people in ever facet of government, economic and civic life who can see beyond a problem to its possible solutions and who are not reactionary in their choice of solu-

The future of the county will be tied directly to the continuance of that quality of leadership.

That's why we're excited about the joint project of the county chamber of commerce and Clayton Junior College to identify potential community leaders and to train them in the skills they will need and the information they will have to possess in order to help find the solutions that will be needed in the future. Plans to develop Leadership Clayton as a model for leadership development programs throughout the state were announced this week, and the program has a good chance of being such a model with the kinds of leaders who are hammering it out. We salute this effort and urge business and other organizations to consider who among their ranks has the potential of taking a leadership position in Clayton County within the next five to ten years. Nominating those people for Leadership Clayton would be of great benefit to them and would assure the county of continuing good

Continued from page 1A how his father was born in Rex and how he spent boyhood summers there in the company of Harmon Born (president of the Clayton Junior College foundation) and Walter Estes, a patriarch of Clayton County and distant relative of Sanders. Others speaking at the anniversary program included Born, CJC President Harry Downs, and Henry G. Neal, executive secretary of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. In addition to the program in which Sander's spoke, visitors to the school had a chance to tour the CJC facilities, including the new Learning Resources Center, which opened this fall.

Student Recital at CJC

Several local youngsters got a moment in the spotlight recently at Clayton Junior College, as teachers in the South Metro Atlanta Music Teachers Association presented their pupils in a student recital. Teachers participating in the event were Rebecca Boak, of Jonesboro, Melissa Hensel, of Jonesboro, Betty White, of Morrow, and Lyra Crapps, of Jonesboro. Above, students are, left to right: Melissa Jamison, Jennifer Spratlin, Anna Batson, Barbara Casey, Sherri Dobbs, and Leigh Murphy. Below, students are, left to right: Richard Dobbs, Leigh Moore, Beth Boak, Molly Benefield and Misty Steedman.

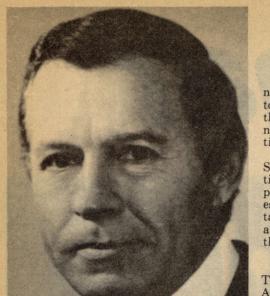

Contribution

W. Cameron Mitchell (left) presents corporation will be used to fund a one-year the Mitchell Foundation, Inc. The con- are supported totally by contributions. tribution from the Henry County based

Clayton Junior College Foundation Trustee scholarship awarded by the Foundation. S. Truett Cathy with a check for $375 from Programs funded by the CJC Foundation

Carl Sanders to Speak At CJC Anniversary

Atlanta attorney Carl E. Sanders, Gover- Downs recalled. "In October of the same tor degree from the University of Georgia. nor of Georgia when initial steps were made year, the Board designated the northern secto establish Clayton Junior College, will be tion of Clayton County as the general locathe keynote speaker at the Tenth Year Anniversary Program of the two-year institution Sunday afternoon, Oct. 28.

"We are pleased to have former Governor Sanders as our speaker during our celebra- itial phase of the college. tion program," said Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the college. "The founding steps establishing Clayton Junior College were taken during a period of approximately one of Georgia, was made on Jan. 11, 1967, setand a half years when Governor Sanders was ting forth the obligations of each agency for the state's highest ranking official."

Sanders, a partner in the law firm of Troutman, Sanders, Lockerman and Ashmore, served 1963-1967. Groundwork for the establishment of Clayton Junior College developed in mid-1965 and matured early in

"A STATEWIDE study recommending a new college to serve the area immediately south of metropolitan Atlanta was adopted by the Board of Regents in June of 1965," Dr.

tion of the new college, and one year later, in October of 1966, the citizens of Clayton County voted affirmatively for a bond issue in the amount of $4,900,000 to finance the in-

"A contractual agreement between the Clayton County Board of Education and the Board of Regents of the University System the development of the college," Dr. Downs continued. "Under the terms of this agreement, campus development was the responsibility of the Clayton County Board of Education and building development was the responsibility of the Baord of Regents."

sociated with these arrangements which led to the construction and 1969 opening of Clayton Junior College.

As Governor, Sanders was closely as-graduated from the Academy of Richmond National Governors' Conference and as Currently a member of the American and Atlanta Bar Associations, the State Bar of Georgia, the Lawyers Club of Atlanta and Phi Delta Phi Legal Society, Sanders played an active part in Georgia politics form 1954 until his term as Governor ended in 1967.

HE SERVED IN the Georgia House of Representatives from 1954-56 and the Georgia State Senate from 1956-62. From 1960-62, he served as President Pro Tempore of the State Senate, and was elected to the governorship the following year.

Honored with many local, state and national awards, Governor Sanders has held a number of other governmental positions. From 1963-65, he served as a member of the U. S. Intergovernmental Commission of Federal State Relations. In 1964, he was chairman of the rules committee at the Democratic National Convention.

During 1964-65, Sanders served as a Born in Augusta in 1925, Sanders was member of the executive committee at the County in Augusta, and earned a Juris Doc- chairman of the Appalachian Governors'

Conference. He was named vice chairman of the Southern Governors Conference in 1965-66, and chairman of the Southern Regional Education Board in 1965. Since 1966, he has served as counsel to the Southern Governors'

MARRIED TO THE former Betty Bird Foy of Statesboro, Sanders has two children: Carl Edward Sanders Jr. and Betty Sanders Botts, both of Atlanta.

The special anniversary program will begin at 3 p.m. on the upper level of the Student Center Building. Harmon M. Born, chairman of the board of trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, will preside over the event, planned as a highlight of campus-wide "open house"

All campus buildings will be open 1:30-4:30 p.m. on the 28th, and college faculty members will be available to answer questions. Tours of campus facilities may be completed prior to or after the special

NEWS/DAILY

October 16, 1979

Jim Wood Says

Higher Education Shows Improvement

Coming away from Legislator's Day at the University of Georgia football game with Louisiana State University last Saturday it was easy to have occasion to reflect on higher education in our state. Optimistically, too!

We'd have to say that despite the problems of uncertainty our higher educational institutions face in the days ahead, the situation is filled with more promise for improvement than problems. And,

yes, there are problems. Saturday's occasion celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the dedication of Sanford Stadium, and a renewed marking of history with the upset win over Yale University, skillfully maneuvered this time by the Georgia Bulldogs 1979 edition with another upset win over LSU. The timing was perfect.

Not only have the Bulldogs been having their problems on the gridiron, but the University System itself is beset with problems of inflation and rising needs to accommodate the times. The University System finds itself searching for a new chancellor and pondering the effectiveness of its junior colege expansion. Fortunately, Clayton Junior College is not among the junior college problems, except for its possible expansion needs. CJC itself marks a tenth anniversary of its opening in a few days---October 28th to be exact-and will have special ceremonies to mark this occasion. Former Governor Carl Sanders will be the principal speaker at the formal event. It was during the Sanders administration that the site was accepted, and a $4.9 million bond issue passed by Clayton County citizens to build the first stages of construction.

It does not seem that it has been ten years, a decade of years, since the college got going. But the time has passed rapidly and Clayton Junior College has been a decided asset to our community. Ten years have seen CJC enrollment rise to the top of the junior college list, and given rise to investigation of how practical it would be to make Clayton Junior into a four-year senior college.

Transportation costs are on the rise and add a solid factor to the need for increasing the collegiate offerings for a commuter college such as CJC. The study is underway, but conclusions are still Georgians can be proud of Clayton Junior College, and of the University System. With a few exceptions, the state government has been able to bring college education facilities to within fifty miles of commuting distance of any student in the state.

The state of Georgia has done this and yet only three of the junior colleges seem to be faced with unduly small enrollments. Clayton, as the leader in enrollment, is the other end of the acceptance

Problems? Teaching salaries have been rising steadily to meet the offerings of neighboring states, keeping us competitive and allowing us to maintain quality instruction. Our facilities likewise have been upgraded. The future looks good, and further improvements are due next year.

So Athens, Georgia, was filled with expectation Saturday, listing accomplishments as well as looking optimistically to the future. The football fortunes, after a rough setback, loom with improvement, too, and undoubtedly now will show fans new victories.

But it is education which shows the solid improvements which are most lasting, and higher education in Georgia has this mark.

We are proud of the educational strides which have been made in our state in recent years.

Schools Observe Education Week

By JOE CHANDLER

Staff Writer November 10-17 is American Education Week, and Clayton County schools will begin their observance of the special week with the "Art of Good Teaching Fair"

The fair will be held Saturday at the old library at Clayton Junior College from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"The fair serves two purposes," said Rich Winstel of Riverdale Junior High, in charge of activities this weekend. "One, it will serve as a form of public relations for the schools.

"Having a central location enables us to be accessible to all county residents," Winstel said.

Secondly, the fair will offer county teachers a chance to meet each other. "That will make it possible for them to share ideas and communicate about their programs," Winstel

"Teaching fairs were started two years ago by the Georgia Association of Educators. This is the first one held by Clayton County.'

At the fair, teachers will explain teaching methods, present audiovisual displays, show film-strips they have made with their classes and hold classroom demonstrations with students.

"There will also be a puppet show, table-top games and activities, art displays and singing by two choruses from local schools," Winstel said..

From nine to 11, judges will select first, second and third place winners for elementary, junior and senior high schools for exhibits presented by

The exhibits will show teaching methods, ideas and creative learning activities that have been successfull learning tools in the classroom. First place winners will receive $50 and a chance to enter the Sixth District "Art of Good Teaching Fair.'

Second and third place winners will receive $30 and $15 prizes. Winstel estimated that between 75 and 100 teachers will take part in the

"This is the type of thing that will grow and grow," he said, stating that the fair could become a regular event. Winstel said there would be signs on the campus directing those attending the fair to the old library.

The theme of ths year's American Education Week is "Teach All the Children.

Shirley Addington of the Clayton County Educational Association siad one of the concerns of this year's activities will be to instill in children a sense of educational values.

Getting parents to help teachers, teaching young people that intellectual curiosity is natural and valuable and that the schools belong to them also are listed by Ms. Addington as ways to instill these values in children.

The teaching fair will be the major thrust of American Exucation Week this year.

Jim Wood Says

November 8, 1979

Two Hundred Years And Change?

Random thoughts with a typewriter handy:

Just to show you that times haven't changed all that much in two hundred years, here's a quote of Thomas Jefferson to prove the

"Were we directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we should soon want for

Seems like one who wrote most of the guidelines for our federal government would be a good one to know something about it, and in the course of two centuries there is every reason to believe that Mr. Jefferson's contentions are still

Clayton Junior College is getting double-barreled attention. First, as the site for a vocational technical school on the college level, and second, as the site for the state's next four-year college. Both futures are being pursued. The State Department of Education must select a site for the vocational school and Clayton and Henry Counties are in contention. The available land on the CJC campus gives it a big plus. The move to four-year status is being pushed by the legislative delegation and other county officials who feel that the junior college is ready for the advancement in curriculum and facility and facilities. CJC is already the state's largest junior college and appears at this point ready to follow Kennesaw College of Cobb County into fouryear status. Preliminary statistics show Clayton has all of the needed factors to move it into full fouryear levels of instruction.

Here's a bit of wordly wisdom: The real measure of wealth is how much we would be worth if we lost A lot of people don't want to face that possibility. The public opinion polls are already beginning to reflect a move upward by President Jimmy Carter in relation to Senator Ted Kennedy. This proves a point. Those on the firing line soon lose their glamour. Kennedy was forced into an earlier presidential announcement than he had planned, which must be a singular major acievement. for Carter forces. Now, as a candidate Kennedy is going to have to offer alternatives to all of the criticism he has for the President. That's no small order. It is much easier to criticize than to have the responsibility.

And Kennedy, in giving Carter someone to compete with, has enhanced the Carter image by giving him a combatant status, at which the President is best suited. This early competition helps Carter immensely, as Kennedy realized, but there is little Teddy can do about it. He's in.

And speaking of early arrivals, the senatorial campaign in Georgia is getting off to an amazingly early start, quite uncharacteristic for our state. There are those who believe that a year's exposure of the Herman Talmadge case, almost a daily airing of the senator's troubles, is going to wear his support thinner and thinner.

That may or may not be true. But a year-long campaign seems like a mighty long one for anybody, and mighty expensive, too.

There's an old folk saying which should shed some light on all of us, which goes: It ain't the things you don't know what gets you into trouble; it's the things you know for sure that ain't so.

Jim Wood Says

NEWS/DAILY

November 15, 1979

Pride In Clayton County Education

The Clayton County school system is probably the best one in the state of Georgia and if it is not the best, it is likely tied with another system for the top honor. This recognition for Clayton County's schools is being widely acclaimed and the general acceptance of this achievement among Georgia educators is acknowledged readily. This is an achievement of which all of the county can be proud, and one which most of our citizens have worked hard to attain.

The process has not been easy. It has been a long and tedious route, one which included many false starts, and one which has brought forth hard work from many, including school administrators, teachers and parents. It has been a team effort toward great progress.

The road to better schools began during the term of office of Ed Edmonds, a superintendent of fiery fighting qualities for Clayton county's young people. This work has continued forward under the direction of Ernest Stroud, who succeeded Edmonds in 1971. A school board which has cooperated fully in the planning and implementation of better schools and instruction has been a must, an important must all these years.

Above all has been the sympathetic understanding of parents and citizens, rallying to approve bond issue after bond issue, building new schools and remodeling old ones, working to upgrade teacher qualifications and supplement their salaries, and the general cooperation which has brought better education for our

Clayton County's schools-there's about forty of them-are all accredited and graded as standard schools. It is the only system in the Atlanta metro area which can make that statement. Every one of our high schools contains a fullrounded vocational program as well as the elements for the liberal arts and college prep. This, too, is a fine achievement in comprehensive education. The local legislative delegation is working currently to bring Clayton Junior College into the ranks of the four-year colleges, and there is every reason to believe that the junior college campus will soon contain a vocational technical school on the college level. If all this happens, Clayton County will have completed the full scope of higher education for its people, too, and stand as an example of fine educational opportunity unmatched in the United States The goal is within our reach.

In light of this it is of some concern that investigations of some elements of the school operation should be in the limelight these days. Not that we fear the final results because we feel that the guilty will be punished. But we hope that our citizens will not lose faith in the school progress which has been made. It would be a major pity if this happened, and we don't expect that it will, but we believe fair warning should be presented to keep it from Almost two thousand persons work for the Clayton County Board of Education. Its yearly budget represents expenditures of the largest amount of tax money in our county. And it is not exactly unexpected that there should be some mishaps from time to time.

The important thing, however, is that these temporary embarrassments should be taken for what they are, and no more, and above all should not be allowed to detract from the educational achievements which have been made over the years.

None of the indictments presented, nor the persons accused by various sources, have subtracted one bit from the educational instruction achievement levels which our school system has maintained. It is important that we remember this.

The past score of years have seen our schools undergo major changes, caring for a rapidly increasing pupil population, and taking all of this into a stride of progress whose pace has not weakened. Not even current wrongdoings should be allowed to disrupt this achievement for public education in our county.

Your children and mine still go to fine schools in a system that is without equal in this state. Let us not forget this because it represents a great achievement in our community for school administration, teachers, parents and citizens of which we all can be proud-and most of us are.

ALLEN BURKS Martin Burks Chevrelet Allen Burks, vice-president of Martin Burks Chevrolet in Forest Park, has presented a $500 check to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of Clayton Junior College, for the Clayton Junior College Foundation's board His firm's contribution will benefit a local student at the Morrow junior

Represents C&S of Clayton

Allette Cheaves, secretary of the Citizens and Southern Bank of Clayton County, has presented two checks for the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc. Assisting in the presentation was Charles E. Wells, president and chairman of the board for C&S Bank of Clayton County. Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the college and a member of the foundation's board of trustees, accepted the gift of $1,000 for the endowment fund and another $720 to fund two student scholarships this will open its doors to area residents during an 'open house" on Sunday afternoon, October 28, according to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the two-year institution near Morrow.

RICH WINSTEL

Clayton Junior College to Host Open House, Oct. 28

"We'd like to extend a cordial invitation to everyone for our open house." Dr. Downs said. "The success this institution has enjoyed has been possible only through the support of the community. This is our small way of showing appreciation." WELCOME

Members of the College's faculty and staff, along with many students, will welcome visitors to the campus between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. To allow visitors an option of touring the campus early or late during the time period, a special program commemorating the event will be held at 3 p.m.

The open house was planned to coincide with the College's Tenth Anniversary Celebration, which officially began with the start of Fall Quarter classes on September 25. The College first opened for classes in September of 1969, and began its second decade of service this fall.

"During the past ten years, many changes have taken place on our campus," Dr. Downs added. "Our open house was planned to give everyone in the community an opportunity to see first-hand how we are striving to meet the demands for higher education in the south metropolitan Atlanta

The only president in the College's history, Dr. Downs has seen enrollment figures triple during the ten-year period. Credit courses attracted 942 students during the 1969 Fall Quarter, and the total this Fall will be near the

3,000 level. As public institution operated by the University System of Georgia, Clayton Junior College is able to offer a wide variety of educational programs at a minimum cost. And, most credit courses are offered both during the day and at night. FIRST CLASSES metropolitan area. In October of 1965, the northern section of Clayton County was designated as the general location of the new institution, and a year later, voters of Clayton County overwhelmingly endorsed a bond election sponsored by the Board of Education. With that approval, citizens provided $4.9 million needed for the development of a site for the College, and for the cost of the initial buildings and equipment.

Although the first classes were taught in 1969, the history of the institution can be traced to a 1963 report issued by the Governor's Commission to Improve Education in Georgia. A comprehensive study revealed a need for additional junior colleges in the state, and one of the areas noted was the south

The original campus included six buildings, constructed at a cost of slightly over $3.5 million. As the College completed its first five years of operation, and began its sixth year, a two-

Building was occupied. And now, as the twoyear institution heads into its second decade of service, another building

story Classroom

Clayton Junior College has entered the picture— Holdings, opened with Molded around three vill open its doors to a Learning Resources the start of the Fall lakes on a beautifully-Center. This 57,000- Quarter last month and landscaped 163-acre square foot facility, will be a feature at- tract, each of the which includes the traction of the open College's eight modern College's Library house.

buildings were constructed to blend with the natural beauty of their surroundings.

All buildings on the during the three-hour campus, except the period.

Maintenance Building, will be open for inspection on the afternoon of the 28th. Visitors will be provided with selftour maps and may attend at any time

Public Is Appreciated October 17, 1979

Clayton Junior Holding Open House

will open its doors to area stitution heads into its sec- cility, which includes the residents during an Open ond decade of service, an- college's library holdings, lakes on a beautifully-land- roundings. House Oct. 28, according to other building has entered opened with the start of the scaped 163-acre tract, each Dr. Harry S. Downs, presi- the picture— a Learning Re- fall quarter last month and of the college's eight pus, except the Maintenance during the three-hour perident of the institute. "We'd like to extend a cordial invitation to everyone for our open house," Downs said. "The success this institution has enjoyed has been possible only through the support of the community. This is our small way of showing appreciation.

Members of the college's faculty and staff, along with many students, will welcome visitors to the campus between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m.

To allow visitors an option of touring the campus early or late during the time period, a special program commemorating the event will be held at 3 p.m.
The open house was planned to coincide with the college's 10th Anniversary Celebration, which officially began with the start of Fall Quarter classes on Sept. 25. The college first opened for classes in September

1969, and began its second decade of service this fall. "During the past 10 years, many changes have taken place on our campus," Downs added. "Our open house was planned to give everyone in the community an opportunity to see firsthand how we are striving to meet the demands for higher education in the south metropolitan Atlanta area." The only president in the college's history, Downs has seen enrollment figures triple during the 10 year period from 942 students in the fall of 1969 to 3,000 this fall. As a public institution operated by the University System of Georgia, Clayton Junior College is able to offer a wide variety of educational programs at a minimum cost. And most credit courses are offered both during the day and at

In October of 1965, the northern section of Clayton County was designated as the general location of the new institution, and a year later, voters of Clayton County overwhelmingly endorsed a bond election sponsored by the Board of Education. With that approval, citizens provided $4.9 million needed for the development of a site for the college, and for the cost of the initial buildings and equipment.

The original campus included six buildings, constructed at a cost of slightly over $3.5 million. As the college completed its first five years of operation, and began its sixth year, a twostory classroom building was occupied.

Clayton Junior College Now, as the two-year in- This 57,000-square foot fa- of the open house.

will be a feature attraction modern buildings were con- Building, will be open for od.

Molded ar ound three natural beauty of their sur- of the 28th. Visitors will be

All buildings on the cam- and may attend at any time

AW, GEE-Eleven-month-old Veronica Johnston, of Riverdale, says she's never seen a real live Bill Lee before. Rep. Lee (D-Forest Park) was among Clayton County's legislative delegation attending the Clayton Junior's 10th anniversary open house.

SUNphotos by Tracy Thompson

SEEING THE CAMPUS—Two visitors to the CJC campus take a stroll during the college's 10th anniversary open house. Perfect fall weather and the prospect of touring the college's new Learning Resources Center drew hundreds of alumni, students, ad local residents to the Morrow campus

AFTERNOON ASSEMBLY-Harmon Born, chairman of the Baord of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foudation, addresses gathering of approximately 275 people at the college's 3 p.m. convocation celebrating its 10th anniversary. Former Georgia Gov. Carl Sanders was the afternoon's featured speaker.

GREETING THE PUBLIC-Bo Bolander, dean of students at Clayton Junior College, greets alumni and visitors at the college's open house celebrating its 10th anniversary Sunday. THE HENRY NEIGHBOR January 31, 1980

Allette Cheaves, secretary of the Citizens and Southern Bank of Clayton County, has presented two checks for the Clayton Junior College Founda-

Assisting in the presentation was Charles E. Wells, president and chairman of the board for C&S Bank of Clayton County. Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the college and a member of the foundation's board of trustees, accepted the gift of $1,000 for the endowment fund and another $720 to fund two student scholarships this

Allen Burks, vice-president of Martin Burks Chevrolet in Forest Park, has presented a $500 check to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of Clayton Junior College, for the Clayton Junior College Foundation's board of trustees.

His firm's contribution will benefit a local student at the Morrow junior

Represents C&S of Clayton

ALLEN BURKS Martin Burks Chevrolet

Student Recital Slated Sunday

presented a student recital Sherri Dobbs. were Clayton County Brown" and "Little Indian residents studying with local teachers who are SMAMTA nembers. Mrs. Rebecca Boak of onesboro was represented by Beth Boak who played Over the Waves" and 'Marching Band' by

Mrs. Melissa Hensel, also of Jonesboro, had Anna Batson playing "Merry Farmer" by Schumann. The first of Mrs. Betty program with Grieg's White's students was Richard Dobbs playing "Marcus Snapicus" by Poe.

The South Metro Atlanta Diabelli's "Sonatina, opus Music Teachers Association 151, no. 1" was played by at Clayton Junior College on Leigh Moore and Molly Sunday, October 14. Several Benefield performed two of the performing students Bastien duets called "John Princess.

Mrs. Lyra Crapps was the last teacher on the program. Mrs. Crapps of Jonesboro is the president of SMAMTA. Misty Steedman played "Let's Sneak Up" and "Spanish Dance" by Owens. Jennifer Spratlin and Melissa Jamison played a duet version of the fold song "Scarborough Fair." Barbara Casey closed the

"Puck, opus 71, no. 3." SMAMTA will be having another student recital on Burgmuller's "The Knight Sunday, November 18, at 3 Errant, opus 100, no. 25" was p.m. at Clayton Junior performed by Leigh Mur- College. Admission is free, phy. "Rondo" from and the public is invited.

L-R, FRONT ROW, ARE JAMISON, BATSON, DOBBS L-R, Back Row, Spratlin, Casey, Murphy

FRONT ROW, LEIGH MOORE AND MOLLY BENEFIELD L-R, Back, Dobbs, Boak And Steedman

'Art Of Good Teaching' Fair At CJC

There were mimes and puppets, fallpainters and balloons at the county's first 'Act of Good Teaching' Fair held at Clayton Junior College last week. There were some good teaching ideas, too, presentations scheduled throughout the day helped elementary and secondary teachers in the county learn the best ways of presenting textbook material to their students. The fair was held observance of National Education Week, Nov. 12-19. Sponsored by the Clayton County Education Association, the fair had as its theme "Teach All the Children."

SUN Photos by Tracy Thompson

T.H.E. (Technological Horizons in Education) Journal

Special Media Services Help Students With Limited Study Time

Today's community colleges generally are serving older students who have a broad variety of educational goals and complex demands of family and employment responsibilities. Clayton Junior College, one of 15 Jr. Colleges in the University of Georgia system, has found that the average age of its students is twenty-five. Clayton creatively meets the needs of its 2800 adult students with a unique media services program.

This program encompasses special buildings to utilize the latest audio-visual techniques, personnel to efficiently administer the wide variety of media services, and equipment to provide for different learning styles and individual time demands.

For example, the "Round Building" was constructed with audio-visual presentations in mind. It has six lecture halls, each equipped with lecterns with built-in microphones as well as facilities for motion picture and slide/tape presentations. In addition each lecture hall is connected to the "Round Building Tower" which houses a patch panel with reel-to-reel tape recorders. The Media Services staff can preset a recorder so that a teacher in the lecture hall below can simply turn it on and the lecture will be recorded. Classes which are not in the "Round Building" also have the option of being recorded.

After completing each one hour reelto-reel recording, the lecture is duplicated onto two C-60 cassettes and made available for student use in the Learning Resources Center. Some students copy the tape on a high-speed duplicator and then have the lecture available for home review. Other stuthe LRC in order to save time while reviewing lectures.

The A-7 Speech Controller, also known as a Variable Speech Control tape recorder, is capable of playing back cassette tapes at varying speeds without pitch distortion. When the user moves the VSC slide lever to 1.5 or 2.0, the tape is played at 1 ½ times or 2 times the original recording speed—but there is no high-pitched "chipmunk" distortion. It simply sounds like the lecturer talking quickly. Tapes can be played as fast as 21/2 times recorded speed. Controlled research at other colleges, such as Syracuse University, has proven that using VSC results in an average time savings of 32% and an average grade increase of 4.2 points on post test scores. It has been established that people learn best at a rate of 250-350 words per minute. Thus the VSC Speech Controller makes it possible to increase the lecturers' average speaking speed and maximize students' learning.

Dr. Rebecca Halyard, teacher of the Clayton Junior College Human Anatomy and Physiology class, finds that at least 25% of her students choose to review taped lectures. Dr. Halyard states that the Media Service recordings of her lectures are advantageous because students no longer get distracted with making their own low-quality recordings during class. She encourages them to use the VSC Speech Controller to skim through familiar parts of a lecture and to slow down on difficult parts.

The VSC slide control lever allows the students to slow down the tape to 60% of recorded speed for unfamiliar materials, for learning foreign languages, or for shorthand or court reporting practice-again, without pitch distortion.

Media Services Coordinator Robert Harrell recognized VSC's potential for meeting students' needs to review lectures in the most efficient way possible. He says it is "just the greatest thing to come along in audio. In fact, I use it to review tapes of media seminars and end up saving 30 minutes every hour.'

The Learning Resources Center moved into a new facility which opened in the Fall of 1979 in reponse to the rapidly-growing student needs. It goes far beyond a traditional library setting dents use the A-7 Speech Controller in and provides a public services area, a technical services area, and a media services area. There are over 22,000 audio-visual materials including slides, tapes, and filmstrips as well as over 50,000 books.

> The Director of the Learning Resources Center, Dr. Jack Bennett, found an unexpected use for the VSC Speech Controller recently. He produced a slide/tape show commemorating Clayton's tenth anniversary. The show included excerpts from lectures given in the past by such guests as former Governor Jimmy Carter. Rather than spending days listening to tapes of all the lectures given in the past ten years, Dr. Bennett used the Speech Controller to review the tapes in less

November 1979

It is significant that this slide/tape show is entitled "Clayton Junior College-Change and Challenge." The challenge of providing for students' diverse needs is being met; the change to an effective media program, including services and equipment, is certainly one of those ways.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

CJC Foundation Approves Record Fiscal Year Budget

trustees of the Clayton awards will be 10 "Founda-Junior College Foundation, tion 'Talent Scholarships,' record budget for the 1980- Scholarships" and four

Now in their sixth year of tuition scolarships will directing the foundation's become programs of providing automatically when STAR scholarship to outstanding Student winners are named area students, board from competition in the four members approved a budget counties of Clayton, Henry, of $24,040 for the year begin- Fayette, and Fulton.

ning July 1, 1980. Having chartered in "Talent Scholarships" are September of 1974, the for students who have disfoundation's budget has played superior ability and grown steadily from $1,700 talent in specific fields of that first year to next year's record level. The current budget for this year's program is slightly over

INCLUDED in the new budget are funds for 64 scholarships, an expenditure of over $23,000. Also provided is the continuation of a $500 program to honor students for superior academic accomplishments, and a $500 program to honor outstanding members of the college's faculty and staff.

Foundation scholarships, first awarded at the start of the 1975-76 year, cover all tuition and fees for two years of study at Clayton Junior College. The Board funded 18 scholarships that first year, 25 the next year, 27 the third year and 31 during each of the past two

The new program includes funds for the first year of 33 new scholarships designated for 1980 area graduates, and for the second year of 31 scholarships awarded to 1979 high school graduates. Scholarships will be for the first two years of college studies, beginning either during the summer or fall quarters next year.

Members of the board of AMONG the 33 new study. Applications for STUDENTS interested to recognize students who service at the College. Inc., have approved another 19 "Foundation Merit director of financial aid high school principals or the two-year institution. Born of Rex, chairman; G. STAR Stud visiting the office of the formation. dean of students.

graduating class.

Participating high schools receive cash awards. "Merit Scholarships" in the 1979-80 program inrecognize students for clude: Forest Park, academic achievement in Jonesboro, Morrow, North high school. Two-year Clayton, and Riverdale from importance of a quality awards are provided for the Clayton County, and Henry faculty and staff to provide B. Clonts of Jonesboro: highest ranking graduates of County and Stockbridge a strong academic at- Ernest A. Dunbar Jr., M.D., area high schools who elect from the Henry County mosphere for students. of Morrow; W. Cameron to attend Clayton Junior, school system.

providing they are in the top By providing support to provided to honor all faculty Claude H. Whaley of five percent of their an honors day program at and staff members who Jonesboro; and James M. CJC, the foundation is able complete five or ten years of Wood Jr. of Forest Park.

these awards may be ob- in competing for these have established records of tained by contacting the awards should contact their outstanding achievement at (phone 363-7735) or by counselors for complete in- Recipients honored during Robert Oliver of Morrow, this annual ceremony

> TRUSTEES of the Foundation also recognize the Thus, awards have been. Mitchell of Hampton;

Trustees are: Harmon M. tion are funded totally by ble Conklin of Jonesboro secretary-treasurer; Harry S. Downs of Morrow, assist tant treasurer; S. Truett Cathy of Hampton; Thomas

Members of the Board of by the non-profit corpora- tributions are tax deducti-

NEWS/DAILY

Monday, November 19, 1979

CJC Foundation Trustees Approve Record Budget

Continuing an established Scholarships", 19 specific fields of study. program of providing scholarships to outstanding area students, members of the Board of Trustees of the tuition scholarships will Director of Financial Aid Clayton Junior College become available (phone 363-7735) or by their graduating class. Foundation, Inc., have automatically when STAR visiting the Office of the approved another record budget for the 1980-81 year. Now in their sixth year of directing the Foundation's Fayette, and Fulton. programs, Board members approved a budget of $24,040 for the year beginning July 1,

Having chartered in September of 1974, the Foundation's budget has grown steadily from $1,700 that first year to next year's record level. The current budget for this year's program is slightly over $22,000.

Included in the new budget are funds for 64 scholarships, an expenditure of over $23,000. Also provided is the continuation of a $500 program to honor students for superior academic accomplishments, and a $500 program to honor outstanding members of the

College's faculty and staff. Foundation scholarships, first awarded at the start of the 1975-76 year, cover all tuition and fees for two years of study at Clayton Junior College. The Board funded 18 scholarships that first year, 25 the next year, 27 the third year, and 31 during each of the past two years. The new program includes funds for the first year of 33 new scholarships designated for 1980 area graduates, and for the second year of 31 scholarships awarded to 1979 high school graduates. Scholarships will be for the first two years of college studies, beginning either during the summer or fall quarters next year.

Included among the 33 new awards will be 10 "Foundation Talent

"Foundation Merit Applications for these Scholarships" and four awards may be obtained by STAR Student awards. Full- contacting the College's Student winners are named Dean of Students. from competition in the four

"Talent Scholarships" are counties of Clayton, Henry, designed to recognize and school principals or Headland, Lakeshore, M.D. reward outstanding area students for their record of information. designated to reward academic achievement in Participating high schools south Fulton County area. students who have displayed high school work. Two-year in the 1979-80 program insuperior ability and talent in awards are provided for the clude: Forest Park, highest ranking graduates of Jonesboro, Morrow, North area high schools who elect Clayton, and Riverdale from

"Merit Scholarships" are should contact their high counselors for complete Collins, Palmetto, Russell, to attend Clayton Junior Clayton County; Henry recognize and reward College, providing they are County and Stockbridge in the top five percent of from Henry County school system; Fayette County Students interested in High; and Briarwood, competing for these awards Campbell, College Park, Feldwood, Hapeville,

By providing support to an academic atmosphere for Assistant Treasurer; S. deductible.

and Westwood from the

the Foundation is able to established records of outstanding achievement at the two-year institution. Recipients honored during this annual ceremony receive cash awards. Trustees of the Foundation also recognize the im-honors day program at CJC, students. Thus, awards have Truett Cathy of Hampton; been provided to honor all faculty and staff members Jonesboro; Ernest A. students who have who complete five or ten Dunbar Jr., M.D., of years of service at the College.

Trustees are: Harmon M. James M. Wood Jr. of Forest Born of Rex, Chairman; G. Park. Robert Oliver of Morrow, Conklin of Jonesboro, are funded totally by portance of a quality faculty Secretary-Treasurer; Harry contributions, and all and staff to provide a strong s. Downs of Morrow, contributions are tax

Thomas B. Clonts of Morrow; W. Cameron Mitchell of Hampton; Claude Members of the Board of H. Whaley of Jonesboro; and

All programs sponsored by Vice-Chairman; Charles S. the non-profit corporation

CJC Increases Non-Credit Offerings

Clayton Junior College will offer more daytime non-credit classes this quarter than ever before, according to Ricardo D. Sanchez, director of community services at the two-year institution near Morrow.

"We have scheduled eight courses during the day in an effort to meet the many requests we have received for such offerings. Sanchez said. Most non-credit classes are offered during the evening hours.

COURSES SCHEDULED during the day each Monday and Wednesday

-Real Estate Sales Preparation, 9 a.m.noon each Monday and Wednesday. -Introduction to Bookkeeping and Accounting, 9-11 a.m., also on Mondays and Wednesdays.

-Slimnastics, 10-11 a.m. each Monday. -Refresher Typing, Jan. 14-25, 1:30-3:30 p.m. Monday-Friday. -Beginning Piano for Adults, noon-1 p.m.

—Drawing and Sketching for Adults, 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. each Monday and Wednes--Fashion Sewing "plus," 9:30-11:30 a.m. each Thursday

-Style, Fashion, and Your Personal Image, Tuesdays 9:30-11:30 a.m.

THESE AND OTHER non-credit classes offered by the college will begin the week of Jan. 14-18. Refresher Typing is a Sketching, Fashion Sewing, and Style, Fashion and Your Personal Image will run six weeks each; and Real Estate Sales Preparation, Introduction to Bookeeping and Accounting, and Beginning Piano for Adults will run for ten weeks.

Since most classes have limited enroll ments, participants should phone the office of community services (3637717) to reserve a place in class.

CJC

Recommendation Made For Four Year College

By JAN LITTLE Living Editor

Clayton's delegation of state legislators have recommended to the State Board of Regents that Clayton Junior College become a four-year institution.

A committee has been appointed from the Board of Regents to evaluate what would have to be done to convert the institution and recommendations are expected by March of this year, according to State Senator

"It's a process that will take a little time but I think for a minimal amount of money Clayton Junior can be converted," he added. "I think probably Clayton Junior ought to be next in line.

Senator Starr estimated that a two year period will be needed before the study process is completed and a decision made. As a four-year college, Clayton

Junior would not have housing on campus and cost to convert it would be minimal compared to capital outlay needed for a new institution, he added. Personnel and additional facilities for classes would be the major

The recommendation for the college was made to the Board of Regents by the Clayton delegation which worked last year to gather needed information such as potential enrollment to initiate the study requirements for the conversion.

Lamar Plunkett, member of the Board of Regents, was appointed to evaluate what needed to be done and met with the delegation, Starr said. The delegation had previously met with Dr. Harry Downs, Clayton Junior president, gathering information for the presentation.

State legislators have been interested for several years in Clayton's becoming a four-year institution, Starr said.

has postponed hiring of a director for the technical school since that "has to be synchronized with whenever we can expect to get the money for the school. We want to try and get a year's lead time so the director can coordinate curriculum, hiring and

It appears certain, however, that the plan to build a vocational-technical school in Clayton County will be delayed beyond the 1982

The delay, of course, is tied to the tight economic conditions that now

But there is no argument about the need of a vocational-technical school in Clayton County to serve the south

Metropolitan Atlanta area. And, we hope a serious effort will be made to curb inflation and control our

But, even in poor economic times, it is smart to make good investments, setting up the school."

construction date.

runaway economy.

Dr. Downs noted the decision about what level Clayton would remain or become is solely up to the Board of Regents. "We have developed what we think is a good quality institution at the two-year level. We are able and willing to make the conversion," he said. Kennesaw Junior College was the last state institution converted to a four-year school and graduated its first senior class this year. The decision to convert was made about four years ago and the college was given a two-year planning period in order to add needed faculty members and curriculum, he

In the fall quarter, CJC had 2,990 students enrolled. Average age of the students is 23.3 years and age distribution is as follows: 16 to 22 years, 63.5 percent; 23 to 29, 19 percent; 30 to 39, 13 percent; and 40 and older, four percent, he said.

The service area for the college is based on where students come from, and estimated population of the area in 1978 was 335,000. One-fourth of the student body is from South Fulton County, over half from Clayton and approximately eight percent each from Fayette and Henry

Counties. Clayton Junior has a faculty of 80 full-time instructors which has remained fairly constant for the last several years, Dr. Downs said. Converting to a four year institution would not double the number of faculty members but would mean an increase of approximately 50 percent. Approximately one-third of a four-year school's enrollment are juniors and seniors and the other two-thirds, freshmen and sophmores. Increase in enrollment would be an additional 1,000 to 1,500 if two more classes were added, he said, If the Board of Regents decides to make Clayton a four-year institution, the school would be given a two-year preparation period for the added staff and additions in curriculum, Dr. Downs said.

Four Year College
NEWS/DAILY Yanuary 13, 1980

Clayton Junior College has enjoyed an outstanding period of growth and development during the past decade. But while the past demonstrates accomplishment, the promise of the decade ahead is brighter.

The Clayton County Board of Education has proposed that the new vocational technical school be located at Clayton Junior College, which will mean additional expansion and development.

But what is even more exciting is the proposed expansion of the junior college into a four year college offering graduates the opportunity to earn a bachelor's degree.

The Clayton County legislative delegation has recommended CJC be made a four-year college, and the recommendation has been well

A committee has been appointed by the Board of of Regents to evaluate what would be necessary to convert CJC into a four-year school.

The results of this study are expected to be announced in March, according to State Sen. Terrell Starr, who estimates it will require a twoyear period before the study process is completed and a decision is

Additional facilities and additional personnel are the major changes that would be required for expansion of the school officials say. To its advantage, CJC would not require dormitory facilities.

Dr. Harry Downs, president of the college, observes, "We have developed what we think is a good quality institution at the two-year level. We are able and willing to make the conversion.'

CJC has been an invaluable asset to the community, offering not only educational opportunities, but cultural outlets. The school has played an active role in community life.

In the 10 years since Clayton Junior College was founded, the population around the institution located in Morrow has mushroomed. CJC has grown with the county.

The decade ahead offers the opportunity of continued growth and development. It is now time for the school to expand and continue to grow. We believe the Board of Regents will realize that and approve CJC to become a four-year institution. And that's just as it should be.

Vo-Tech Delay NEWS/DAILY

It appears as though plans for development of a post secondary vocátional technical school in Clayton County will be delayed at least a year. A tight budget, teacher pay raises, and a $75 million tax cut all played a role in the General Assembly decision not to fund the vocational technical school this year.

And as Dr. Joseph Freund, state director of vocational education observed, "The legislature had some tough decisions to make in the area of priorities. The vocational plans apparently became less of a priority when they decided to try and keep the higher teachers' raises and the tax cut in the budget."

That leaves future funding of the vocational school to be located on the campus of Clayton Junior College in Morrow uncertain.

Dr. Harry Downs, president of the college, observed that "we still might get funded for next July, but there is st no way to guess when the funding ill come now ' and an investment in education is always wise. We hope our vo-tech And, as Dr. Downs pointed out, that school will be funded for next year.

Vo-EdSchoolOK Seen For Clayton

By DANIEL PAGE

Staff Writer A vocational education school should be approved for location at Clayton Junior College in Morrow and funded in next year's state budget, according to Clayton Junior College

President Dr. Harry Downs. A recent study, authorized and approved by the State Board of Education, has determined need for such a school to serve the people of Clayton and Henry counties. The study determined the need for several new vocational schools, as well as for expansion of existing vocational programs throughout the

Larry Foster, attorney for the Clayton County Board of Education and a member of the State Board of Education, has proposed to the state board that the state join the staff of Clayton Junior College, as well as citizens of Clayton and Henry counties, to pursue a plan for a vocational site at the Morrow school to fulfill the study's recommendation.

"The school seems fairly certain, but even if everything goes according to plan, the earliest date we would have funds for it would be July 1, 1981," Dr. Downs said.

"It is, of course, too late for the school to be included in this year's budget, so it will not be considered by the General Assembly until next

It is believed that Henry County officials will also make a bid to have the school located there, but as Dr. Downs put it, "They do not have a junior college campus to put it on."

Dr. Downs said that he has been involved in several planning discussions about the school, but, until they receive official go-ahead from the State Board of Education, no architechural or others in-depth planning would be done. Dr. Downs also said that ongoing efforts to convert Clayton Junior College into a four year institution would have no effect on the vocational

"That should not have any effect on a vocational facility," he said. "We have plenty of acreage available to fulfill both proposals.

ember 4, 1979

3-NEWS-DAILY MAGAZINE, Sunday,

Clayton Little Theater Provide And CJC

Productions Theater

in the southeastern region will be held at 3:30, 7-9:30 p.m. in the upper level of the student p.m. Monday, Jan. 28, at the Airport Holi- center.

DeKalb Community College, Clayton Junior keynote the first forum. He also is national College and News/Sun Publications. The ar- coordinator for the newspaper series. ticles will appear every Thursday in the He will discuss how the United States Clayton Sun, beginning Jan. 31.

The forums will focus on the past, present energy problems. John Kohler, assistant and future dimensions of the energy crisis. professor of history at CJC, will Sponsored by the American Association of moderate.

Community and Junior Colleges with However, the focus of the forum will be funding from the National Endowment for public discussion among those in attendance the Humanities, the U.S. Office of Energy on the energy topic and Dr. Kranzberg will and the Charles Mott Foundation, the merely begin the discussion. program is tied to a national calendar of energy issues for February, March and April. PERSONS interested in participating in metropolitan Atlanta schools presenting Community Services, 363-7717.

Florida, is coordinating the program in presenting the energy series and community Region III: Georgia, North Carolina, South forums. Carolina, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Mis- The Committee on the Humanities in sissippi, Louisiana, Puerto Rico and the Georgia is providing funds for the first forum hundred colleges throughout the United fields of Technology and Change, Energy States, will be described in detail at the press Sociology, Political Science, Economics and conference and time will be provided for in-terviews with national, regional and local the course for five hours of academic credit or coordinators.

Clayton Junior has planned three public for audit.

Instructor will be Dr. Jim Fisher.

A news conference to launch "Energy and forums on energy in connection with the the Way We Live: A National Issues Forum" series of articles, the first to be held Feb. 21,

Dr. Melvin Kranzberg, Callaway Professor The national program of public forums of the History of Technology at Georgia will be accompanied in Georgia by a series of Tech, internationally known for his work in newspaper articles sponsored jointly by the study of the history of technology, will > became an energy dependent society and whether technology has the answers to Clayton Junior College is the coordinator one or more of the discussion forums at for the statewide program. Other Clayton Junior should call the Office of forums are Spelman College and DeKalb Clayton Junior College is joining with Community College.

Community College and Spelman Valencia Community College in Orlando, College and the News/Sun Newspapers in at Clayton Junior.

THE PROGRAM, which involves several cles by top academicians and writers in the undred colleges throughout the United fields of Tools and writers in the

ERNEST L. CHEAVES GUY L. BENEFIELD

NEWS/DAILY

January 14, 1980

Benefield, Cheaves Named Trustees

Two prominent Clayton and professional community Countians have been named to serve on the Board of Trustees of the Clayton group manager for Ford Junior College Foundation, Motor Company, Benefield according to Harmon M. Born, Chairman of the nonprofit corporation.

L. Benefield of Morrow and activities. A member of the Ernest L. Cheaves of Forest Board of Directors of the Park, increasing the Board Clayton County Chamber of

A retired engineering

will add service on the Foundation's Board of Trustees to an already active Elected to serve were Guy list of community service of Trustees to 12 business Commerce, he also serves as a trustee on the Clayton Hospital Authority and of the Boards of the Clayton County Cancer Society and the C & S Bank of Clayton County.

Benefield has served in all the Jones Memorial Past Master of the Forest Park Masonic Lodge. He and his wife, Melba, who live at 6062 Phillips Drive in Morrow, have four sons: Jerry, Jimmy, Kenneth, and Harold.

Benefield graduated from Jonesboro Senior High and studied engineering at Georgia Tech. He worked his stations. way through the ranks of Ford assembly plant in line and advancing to all service. In 1966, he was the Forest Park Kiwanis $24,000.

Born in Wrightsville, Ga., Park since 1933 when he poration. Like Benefield, he too is retired and has turned much of his time toward volunteer work.

After graduating from high school in Johnson County, Cheaves earned a degree from Middle Georgia College and later a law degree from Atlanta Law ten others on the Board of School. During his 42 years with Gulf, he also attended offices held by a layman at Georgia State University, the University of Georgia, Methodist Church, and is a and the University of Missouri.

A real estate representative with Gulf, Cheaves served on special Europe and Central and South America. When this Born in Riverdale, country's interstate highway system began to develop, he traveled from coast to coast selecting sites for new promoted to Engineering Club, and holds a lifetime Group Manager, a position membership in the Jaycees. he held until he retired in He currently is serving his second term as Lt. Governor of the 17th District of Cheaves has lived in Forest Kiwanis International and also serves as vice chairman joined the Gulf Oil Cor- of the Clayton County Industrial Board

A Mason, Cheaves serves as a deacon for the First

> Cheaves and his wife, Glennis, live at 5160 Woodland Drive in Forest Park. They have two sons, Walter and Michael, and seven grandchildren.

Benefield and Cheaves join Trustees, including: Harmon M. Born of Rex, chairman; G. Robert Oliver of Morrow, vice chairman; Charles S. Conklin of Jonesboro, secretary-treasurer; Harry S. Downs of Morrow, assistant treasurer; S. Truett Cathy of assignment missions all over Hampton; Thomas B. Clonts of Jonesboro; Ernest A. Dunbar Jr., M.D., of Morrow; W. Cameron Mitchell of Hampton; Claude H. Whaley of Jonesboro; and James M. Wood Jr., of Forest Park.

Chartered in September of Hapeville, starting out on the Baptist Church of Forest 1974, the Foundation Park. He is a past president recently began its sixth year levels of supervision before of the Clayton County of operation by adopting a retiring after 42 years of Chamber of Commerce and 1980-81 budget of just over

SUN TO CARRY SERIES BEGINNING JAN. 31

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

Energy Forums at CJC Tied to Newspaper Articles

The tough choices that will shape America's energy future are the subject of a credit course offered this winter by DeKalb Community College in cooperation with

News/Sun Publications. Weekly newspaper articles, one component of the course entitled "Energy and the Way We Live," will appear each Wednesday beginning January 31 in the DeKalb News/Sun and the Clayton Sun.

Issues raised in the newspaper series will be discussed as part of a nationwide dialogue on energy issues planned for February, March and April. Organized by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges, community forums and town meetings will be held in hundreds of communities across the country during these

Clayton Junior College is statewide coordinator of the dialogue on energy issues, which includes the newspaper series. There are nine participating institutions in Georgia in which Clayton Junior College is consultant on the history at CJC, will moderate. However, the focus of the forum will be public discussion among those in attendance on the energy topic and Dr. Kranzberg will merely begin the discussion.

Dr. Melvin Kranzberg, Callaway Professor of the History of Technology at Georgia Tech, internationally known for his work in the study of the history of technology, will keynote the first forum. He also is national coordinator for the newspaper series.

He will discuss how the United States became an energy dependent society and whether technology has the answers to energy problems. John Kohler, assistant professor of

Feb. 21, from 7-9:30 p.m. in the upper level of the student

PERSONS interested in participating in one or more of the discussion forums at Clayton Junior should call the Office of Community Services, 363-7717.

Clayton Junior College is joining with DeKalb Community College and Spelman College and the News/Sun Newspapers in presenting the energy series and community forums. The Committee on the Humanities in Georgia is providing funds for the first forum at Clayton Junior.

The newspapers will carry 15 weekly articles by top academicians and writers in the fields of Technology and Change, Energy Sociology, Political Science, Economics and other related disciplines. DeKalb will offer the course for five hours of academic credit or for audit. Instructor will be Dr. Jim Fisher.

The newspaper articles will explore the multi-faceted energy issue, its policy options and its trade-offs, incorporating the historical implications of the energy issue, the effects it has on the American society and its way of life and what the future holds for energy and the American society. The Courses by Newspaper series is authored by energy experts who explore the history of energy technology and consumption, the impact of often contradictory values on energy policy and the effects of current energy dilemmas on the national and international

AMONG THE AUTHORS are Dorothy K. Newman, socio-economist, consultant and lecturer on energy issues; S. David Freeman, Chairman of the Board of Directors, Tennessee Valley Authority; Lynn White Jr., University Professor of History, Emeritus, University of California, Los Angeles; John G. Burke, Professor of History, University of California, Los Angeles; Daniel Bell, Professor of Sociology, Harvard University; Norman Metzger, Senior Editor, Office of Information, National Academy of Sciences; John K. Cooley, Defense and National Security Affairs Correspondent, The Christian Science Monitor; and Joel Darmstadter, Senior Fellow, Center for Energy

Policy Research, Resources for the Future. Other authors are Kenneth K. Boulding, Distinguished Professor of Economics and Director, Program for Research on General Social and Economic Dynamics, Institute of Behavorial Sciences, University of Colorado at Boulder; Don E. Kash, Research Professor of Political Science and Director, Science and Public Policy Program, University of Oklahoma; Alvin M. Weinberg, Director, Institute for Energy Analysis, Oak Ridge Associated Universities; Wilson Clark, Assistant to the Governor for Issues and Planning, State of California; John H. Gibbons, Director, Office of Technology Assessment, Washington, D.C.; William Chandler, Senior Research Associate, The Energy Environment and Resources Center, University of Tennessee; and Denis Hays, Executive Director, Solar Energy Research Institute, Golden, Colorado. A SPECIALLY PREPARED Calendar of Issues will serve as the basis of community discussions sponsored by educational institutions, local libraries, museums, and civic and public service groups. A seven-part series of halfhour documentaries broadcast by National Public Radio and a series of public affairs programs produced for cable systems nationwide by WTBS-TV, the Atlanta "super station," provide other vehicles for citizen involvement. For students and readers seeking additional perspectives on the series topics, Courses by Newspaper has prepared a package of educational materials that include a Reader/Study Guide edited by Professor Kranzberg.

Course materials can be purchased from the DeKalb Community College bookstores on the North and South Campus or by mail from Boyd & Fraser Publishing Company, 3627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco, CA 94118. For additional information on this course, contact Randy Pierce at 393-3300 or Bill Crews at 243-3860. They are located at the North and South Campuses of DeKalb

A national education program that has combined the resources of the nation's newspapers, colleges and universities since 1973, Courses by Newspaper is a project of University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and is funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, with supplemental funding for this course from the National Science Foundation.

The college has planned three public forums on energy

SUN TO CARRY SERIES BEGINNING JAN. 31

THE FAYETTE SUN

January 24, 1980

Energy Forums at CJC Tied to Newspaper Articles

The tough choices that will shape America's energy future are the subject of a credit course offered this winter by DeKalb Community College in cooperation with News/Sun Publications.

Weekly newspaper articles, one component of the course entitled, "Energy and the Way We Live," will begin Jan. 31 in the Southside Fayette Sun and other Sun new-Issues raised in the articles will be discussed as part of a nationwide dialogue on energy planned for February, March and April at local institutions including Spelman College and Clayton Junior College. The first forum at Clayton Junior College has been set for February 21,7 to 9:30 p.m. in the upper level of the student center. A similar forum will be held at Spelman at a time to be announced later. Coordinating the Spelman forums will be Biology Department chairperson, Dr. Rena Additional forums will be held at both institutions in March, and the schools are planning to co-sponsor a forum Organized by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges, forums such as these will be conducted in hundreds of communities throughout the nation during these three months. Clayton Junior College is the statewide coordinator of the dialogue on energy issues, which includes the newspapers series. There are nine participating institutions in Georgia in the program for which Clayton Junior College is serving as the consultant. Dr. Melvin Kranzberg, Callaway Professor of the History of Technology at Georgia Tech, internationallyknown for his work in the study of the history of technology, will keynote the first Clayton Junior College forum. He is also national coordinator for the newspaper

Dr. Kranzberg will discuss how the United States became an energy dependent society and whether technology has the answers to energy problems. John Kohler, assistant professor of history at CJC, will

However, the focus of the forum will be public discussion among those in attendance on the energy topic and Dr. Kranzberg will merely begin the discussion

PERSONS interested in participating in one or more of the discussion forums at Clayton Junior should call the Office of Community Services, 363-7717.

The Committee on the Humanities in Georgia is providing funds for the first forum at Clayton Junior.

The newspapers will carry 15 weekly articles by top academicians and writers in the fields of Technology and Change, Energy Sociology, Political Science, Economics and other related disciplines. DeKalb will offer the course for five hours of academic credit or for audit.

Instructor will be Dr. Jim Fisher. The newspaper articles will explore the multi-faceted energy issue, its policy options and its trade-offs, incorporating the historical implications of the energy issue, the effects it has on the American society and its way of life and what the future holds for energy and the American society. The Courses by Newspaper series is authored by energy experts who explore the history of energy technology and consumption, the impact of often contradictory values on energy policy and the effects of current energy dilemmas on the national and international

AMONG THE AUTHORS are Dorothy K. Newman. socio-economist, consultant and lecturer on energy issues; David Freeman, Chairman of the Board of Directors, Tennessee Valley Authority; Lynn White Jr., University Professor of History, Emeritus, University of California, Los Angeles; John G. Burke, Professor of History, University of California, Californi sity of California, Los Angeles; Daniel Bell, Professor of Sociology, Harvard University; Norman Metzger, Senior Editor, Office of Information, National Academy of Sciences; John K. Cooley, Defense and National Security Affairs Correspondent, The Christian Science Monitor; and Joel Darmstadter, Senior Fellow, Center for Energy Policy Research, Resources for the Future.

Other authors are Kenneth K. Boulding, Distinguished Professor of Economics and Director, Program for Research on General Social and Economic Dynamics, Institute of Behavorial Sciences, University of Colorado at Boulder; Don E. Kash, Research Professor of Political Science and Director, Science and Public Policy Program, University of Oklahoma; Alvin M. Weinberg, Director, Institute for Energy Analysis, Oak Ridge Associated Universities; Wilson Clark, Assistant to the Governor for Issues and Planning, State of California; John H. Gibbons, Director, Office of Technology Assessment, Washington, D.C.; William Chandler, Senior Research Associate, The Energy Environment and Resources Center, University of Tennessee; and Denis Hays, Executive Director, Solar Energy Research Institute, Golden, Colorado.

A SPECIALLY PREPARED Calendar of Issues will serve as the basis of community discussions sponsored by educational institutions, local libraries, museums, and civic and public service groups. A seven-part series of halfhour documentaries broadcast by National Public Radio and a series of public affairs programs produced for cable systems nationwide by WTBS-TV, the Atlanta "super station," provide other vehicles for citizen involvement. For students and readers seeking additional perspectives on the series topics, Courses by Newspaper has prepared a package of educational materials that include a Reader/Study Guide edited by Professor Kranzberg. Course materials can be purchased from the DeKalb Community College bookstores on the North and South Campus or by mail from Boyd & Fraser Publishing Company, 3627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco, CA 94118. For additional information on this course, contact Randy Pierce at 393-3300 or Bill Crews at 243-3860. They are located at the North and South Campuses of DeKalb

A national education program that has combined the resources of the nation's newspapers, colleges and universities since 1973, Courses by Newspaper is a project of University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and is funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, with supplemental funding for this course from the National Science Foundation.

SOUTHSIDE INSIDER March-April, 1980

East Point Women Of Moose Establish Nursing Scholarship

$1,000 NURSING SCHOLARSHIP--Dr. O. C. Lam (second from right), Chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics at Clayton Junior College, accepts a $1,000 scholarship to be awarded to a nursing student through the Clayton Junior College Foundation. Members of the Women of the Moose, East Point Chapter 1239, making the presentation were, from left: Linda Payne, Senior Regent; Faye Coker, Star Recorder Chairman; and Minnie Jeanes, Hospital Chairman. Attending the meeting with Dr. Lam was Joy Lynn Douglas (right), Head of the College's Department of Nursing. The contribution will fund a two-year scholarship for a nursing student to attend Clayton Junior College.

Martin Burks Chevrolet Allen Burks, vice-president of Martin Burks Chevrolet in Forest Park, has presented a $500 check to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of Clayton Junior College, for the Clayton Junior College Foundation's board of trustees. His firm's contribution will benefit a local student at the Morrow junior

Citizens and Southern Bank of Clayton County, has presented two checks for the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc. Assisting in the presentation was Charles E. Wells, president and chair-

Allette Cheaves, secretary of the man of the board for C&S Bank of Clayton County. Dr. Harry S. Downs. president of the college and a member of the foundation's board of trustees, accepted the gift of $1,000 for the endowment fund and another $720 to fund two student scholarships this

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR January 30, 1980

Allette Cheaves, secretary of the Citizens and Southern Bank of Clayton County, has presented two checks for the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc.

Assisting in the presentation was Charles E. Wells, president and chairman of the board for C&S Bank of Clayton County. Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the college and a member of the foundation's board of trustees, accepted the gift of $1,000 for the endowment fund and another $720 to fund two student scholarships this

Allen Burks, vice-president of Martin Burks Chevrolet in Forest Park, has presented a $500 check to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of Clayton Junior College, for the Clayton Junior College Foundation's board of trustees.

His firm's contribution will benefit a local student at the Morrow junior

ALLEN BURKS Martin Burks Chevrolet

Formal Proposal Asks Regents To Make CJC a Four-Year School

A proposal bandied around unofficially for the past several years has finally reached official status via a recommendation to the State Board of Regents by the Clayton County legislative delegation.

The subject? A proposal for the establishment of a four-year college at Clayton Junior College.

THE IDEA has long been notice. talked by of by local civic leaders eager to see the college develop not just a regional vocational school but a full-fledged college capable or awarding bac-

Staff Writer

There is a possibility that Clayton

"We (the state representatives)

Junior College will switch from a two year school to a four year school by

1985, according to State Senator Ter-heve been working on this for quite a while," Starr said. "I feel that the school will be a four year institution offers a two year study program with an associates degree offered upon

If the college develops a four year program then the students will be offered a study program to receive

According to Starr there would be

'Aside from adding a four year minimal changes that would have to curriculum and a few faculty changes

there won't be that much to do," Starr

A study committee has submitted several reports to the Georgia Board of Regents and a reply is expected in the past about the school going to four year school, according to sources but a possibility that the school will go to a four year school," Clayton Junior Col-said. "The decision lies with the Board

these seem to be changing.

lege Dean, Billy Nail said.

of Regents.

There has been mixed feelings in

"I am pleased to know that there is

"It is out of our hands now," Nail

"Everyone I have talked to seems pleased about the possibility," Nail

Many of the students are pleased that the school has a possibility of take place within the school.

either an associates degree or a Clayton Junior College presently

by at the most 1985.

By TRACY THOMPSON likelihood of that prospect proposed to the Regents lump sum to the Regents, growing dramatically, seems to be getting stronger since the Clayton's fivemember legislative delegation to the General Asproposal to the Board of Regents last fall.

> of the General Assembly, and the talk of passing a state budget including the yearly allocation for the State Board or Regents, the four-year proposal for CJC has again come to public

With this week's opening

STATE STEN. Terrell Starr (D-Forest Park), Gov. George Busbee's floor proposal, Starr added. leader, said the idea had

Four Year

Is Possible

Qualtrough echoed Ms. Williams

Georgia State doesn't appeal to me," year school there would have to be at least a 50 percent increase in the members, to make the change we would increase that number to 120

what the Board of Regents says," Nail faculty members," Nail said.

Ms. Qualtrough said.

'The though of going all the way to

To make the transition to a four

"We presently have 80 faculty

We will just have to wait and see ficials wanted to make sure locate the money," Starr number of veterans/stuthe college's two-year cur- said. money from the Regents.

planting the seeds," he said. enrollment. This type of thing could take one year or four years for the Board of Regents to get all their studies done. This doesn't happen over-this year, or even next.

THE BOARD of Regents traditionally attracted. has the final say-so over the 'We (the legislature) ap-before because college of- who are the ones who al- Downs said. Even with the riculum was in strong shape Why a four-year proposal in 1973 and declining sembly made the formal before requesting more in a year when Gov. Busbee gradually ever since, he adin his State of the State ad-Starr doesn't believe the dress warned the legislature suffered an enrollment proposal will see fruition of the effects on the state's decline-even though he university systems of fund called last year's increase of 'What we're doing is toward declining student 25 students "too slight to mention.' CJC President Dr. Harry Downs doesn't see the enrol- decline, I don't feel it will be lment trend as affecting his as much of a decline as in school-partly because of the state as a whole," he ad-CJC's location, and partly ded. because of the high number of veterans it has sion to a four-year school would expand CJC's service

"WE'RE A community tions of south DeKalb councalaureate degrees. The never been formally propriates the money in a college, and our serve area is ties

KENNESAW College, in Marietta, was the last twodents at the school peaking four-year institution, Downs said. It graduated its first senior class this year. ded, the school has never CJC's 80-member faculty would require about 40 additional members should the school convert to a fouryear institution, Downs said. But he added that no additional buildings would be needed for the change, since CJC would continue to be a community college not offering housing on campus.

"Even if we do suffer a

Downs said the conver-area to Spalding, Rockdale,

Newton and even some por-

ARC Promotes Services For Elderly In Clayton

Living Editor The Atlanta Regional Commission (ARC) is designated as the Atlanta Area Agency on Aging and is authorized to plan, coordinate and administer services to the elderly in the Atlanta region which includes: Clayton, Cobb, DeKalb, Douglas, Fulton, Gwinnett and Rockdale counties.

The Older Americans Act of 1965 created the Federal Administration on Aging and provided the states with funds for programs to meet the needs of the elderly population, according to ARC's 1980 Area Plan on Through one division of ARC, funds are secured and disbursed for the Atlanta region under Title III of the Older Americans Act as amended.

A Task Force on Aging is composed of consumers and aging related agencies to advise ARC's Human Services Planning Advisory Council on the issues affecting the elderly. Three residents from Clayton County: Eula Arnold, Claude Adams and James Baswell. serve as consumers from the county on the Task Force. The Human Services Council is composed of such agencies as Clayton Junior College, Clayton's CSA in addition to United Way of Metropolitan Atlanta, Georgia Health Care Association proximately organizations concerned with elderly needs and Charley Griswell, Clayton commission chairman, serves as treasurer for the Atlanta Regional Commission, and Lou Hisel, former mayor of Morrow, as one of the ARC's members. According to the 1978 ARC population and housing estimates, approximately 185,925 elderly persons live in the seven counties and 7,824 in Clayton alone.

The incidence of illness ARC's Area Plan. and debility is much greater An ARC survey discovered among this age group than that 60 percent of those any other and the elderly elderly people surveyed account for the largest per lived alone and the greatest capita out-of-pocket health number of these lived in the expenditures, despite more urbanized area of Medicare, according to Fulton and DeKalb counties.

NEWS/DAILY February 29, 1980 CJC Foundation Scholarships

Clayton Junior College scholarships. Foundation Inc. have approved a $24,040 budget for the 1980-81 year. Included contacting the college's are funds for 33 new Director of Financial Aid scholarships and renewal of (phone 363-7735). 31 scholarships contracted in the following year and 31 for 1979-80. For the third consecutive year, full tuition awards are Morrow vice chairman, offered the four county Charles Conklin of Jonesboro STAR students from Clayton, Henry, Fayette and Downs of Morrow assistant Fulton counties. Nineteen treasurer.

The program for student honors was allocated $500, as outstanding members of the college's faculty and staff. Foundation scholarships two years of study at Clayton Junior College. The first 18 Morrow, Ernest L. Cheaves scholarships were funded in of Forest Park and Hill R.

Applications for these awards may be obtained by "Merit Scholarships" are designed to recognize and reward outstanding area students for their record of

was a program to honor academic achievement in high school work Three new trustees were named to the board of cover all tuition and fees for trustees. The new members are Guy L. Benefield of 1975-76, 25 the next year, 27 Redwine of Fayetteville. Harmon Born of Rex is president of the trustee board, G. Robert Oliver of treasurer and Harry S. merit scholarships are being Other trustees are: S.

The 13 trustees of the offered, and 10 talent Truett Cathy of Hampton, Thomas B. Clonts of Jonesboro, Ernest A. Dunbar Jr. of Morrow, W. Cameron Mitchell of Hampton, Claude H. Whaley of Jonesboro and James M. Wood Jr. of Forest Park.

necessary to sign up prior to the testing time, applicants should contact the Office of Admissions and Records (phone 363-7723) or the Office of Counseling and Testing (363-7744) for complete information. An $8.25 testing fee is payable before taking the SAT. Registration day for Summer deadline

Students who plan to Clayton Junior College enroll in credit classes in for the first time during the Summer Quarter have until next week to file all applications and credentials with the

College's Office of

Admissions and Records.

student applications is

The College will administer the Schol-

students of the two-year institution on Thursday evening, May 29.

requirement for students entering credit programs, the three-hour

SAT will be given in Room G-132, beginning

Although it is not at 6 p.m.

Wednesday, May 28.

astic Aptitude

The deadline for new

May 28 at CJC

Summer Quarter classes is set for Monday, June 16, and students will have an opportunity to select courses in either or both of two five-week sessions, or a regular ten-week session. A limited number of courses will be offered during the two shortened sessions, the first one scheduled between June 17 and July 18, and the second between July 21 and August 19. The regular ten-week session will begin on June 17 and conclude on August 19.

For complete information about admission requirements and courses to be offered during the Summer Quarter, contact the Office of Admissions and Records at 363-7723.

Vo-Tech At CJC

Clayton County appears at last to be on the verge of having a postsecondary vocational technical

The Georgia University System Board of Regents has tentatively given its okay for location of a vo-tech school at Clayton Junior College in Morrow.

The Regents are reserving final approval for a later meeting. Even so, the preliminary approval came earlier than expected.

"This came as a surprise to all of us here," said Jerry Atkins, public information director at the two-year college. "The State Board of Education just authorized a committee to look into the proposal with college representatives two or three weeks ago.

Clayton Junior College President has since been meeting some of the Regents who visited the college campus last week.

A detailed 23-page proposal shows, however, that Clayton Junior College officials weren't caught totally unprepared. They have done their homework in preparation for establishment a vocational-techincal school. It's just that approval by the Regents may be forthcoming sooner than anticipated.

In the study, the college observes, "The establishment of vocationaltechnical programs at Clayton Junior College would be a logical and needed extension of current

The 1979 Master Plan for Post-Secondary Area Vocational Technical Schools published by the State Department of Education and the Office of Vocational Education, pointed out the need for a postsecondary vocational-techincal facility to serve the Clayton-Henry County area.

"Vocational-techical education programs could be effectively and efficiently integrated into the present structure and programming at Clayton Junior College," the proposal said. "In keeping with one of the purposes of the college -- to prepare sutdents for gainful employmentcareer programs already exist

"In addition to the need for support services, most vocational-technical programs require general education components. These needs could be met through programs already extant at the college ..

Four of our high schools-Forest Park, Jonesboro, Morrow and North Clayton--already have excellent vocational programs, and a postsecondary school would certainly complement and expand the existing system. It will likewise complement and expand the higher education program offered at Clayton Junior

A vocational-technical school which would serve both Clayton and Henry counties. It is a need which should be becoming a four year school. "I hope it is changed to a four year school soon," Freshman French major Debbie Williams said. "I really don't like the thought of having to go to Atlanta and Georgia

State to finish school," Ms. Williams Another student, Lauren

-Another view-Junior colleges in Georgia

By DENTON R. COKER, PRESIDENT The Georgia Association of Junior Colleges South Georgia College

One of the assets of the State of Georgia is a strong system of 25 community and junior colleges which are consistently making giant contributions to the educational and economic growth and development of the state. While most of the attention and resources in higher education have been given to the large, prestigious institutions, this unheralded group of quality two-year colleges offering associate degrees has steadily grown in number and in service to the citizens of Georgia.

Georgia is particularly fortunate to have a junior college within commuting distance of most of her citizens. These two-year institutions spread across the state from Young Harris to Brunswick and from Cleveland to Bainbridge.

There is a great variety of junior colleges in Georgia. Fifteen of the colleges are state colleges under the Board of Regents of the University System; seven are sponsored by churches; two are parts of county school systems; and one is an independent, non-profit institution. Twelve of the twoyear colleges have dormitories and thirteen serve only commuting students. Four of the group offer a wide range of vocational-technical education programs: and some concentrate on preparing students to transfer to senior colleges and universities to complete baccalaureate and graduate pro-

All of these associate degree institutions have several things in common: (1) they emphasize good classroom instruction; (2) they provide for close faculty-student inter-relationships; (3) they provide quality higher education at much lower costs for the tax payers and the students; (4) they are close to their communities and offer special services; (5) they are sensitive to changing educational needs and quick to meet them; and (6) they make a very significant direct and indirect economic impact on the regions in which they are

The role of the two-year college, whether it be called junior college, community college, or associate degree college, is predicted to be more important during the 1980's. Already more than half of all students entering college in the United States start in community or junior colleges. In "A Profile of Higher Education in the South in 1985," the Southern Regional Education Board projects a decrease in enrollment in public and private universities as well as in public and private senior colleges but projects a five percent increase in public two-year institutions. This projection indicates that by 1985, 37 percent of all the students enrolled in college in the southern states will be in public two-year institutions.

New Store Aids College

the ribbon-cutting ceremony for the opening of Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers at Southlake Mall while members of Clayton County and Morrow governments assist. From left are Raymond Johnson, Lucille Mills, Annie Ruth Ford, Mike Mixon, Ernest Duffey, Wendy's Area Director Jack Schussler, Dr. Downs, Loren Cheaves, and Gwen Grayson. Wendy's donated the $256 ribbon, representing the number of ways in which hamburgers are provided, to the scholarship fund of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc.

Dr. Harry S. Downs (third from right) cuts the string of $5 bills used during 1-5 p.m. Saturday.

College representatives will be on hand throughout the times listed for the "fair and festivities" program to answer questions about admission into credit and non-credit programs of the College or other institutions of the University System of Georgia.

GETTING READY—Clayton Junior College art stu- festivities" at Southlake Mall Thursday, Friday and dent Jim Duke of Jonesboro applies the finishing touches to a display to be used during CJC's "fair and Saturday (January 31-February 2).

Fair and Festivities

Clayton Junior Plans Presentation at Southlake Mall

Clayton Junior College Jazz Band, along with by dental hygiene, nursing, In addition, Saturday tudents and faculty demonstrations by students and art students.

In addition, Saturday afternoon's feature will instudents and faculty demonstrations by students members will be featured enrolled in the foreign during a three-day "fair and language program and the festivities" presentation at dental hygiene program. In Southlake Mall this week.

Programs of entertain- will provide free blood presment and information have sure checks. been scheduled 6-8:45 p.m.

Thursday will be presenta- Clayton Community language, dental hygiene lege or other institutions of tions by the CJC Choir and Chorus, and demonstrations and nursing students.

and a Greek drama will be included in Saturday after-Friday's program will Demonstrations by com- the times listed for the "fair Thursday and Friday, and feature a variety show by puter and library/media and festivities" program to foreign language students, a electronic equipment will be answer questions about adspecial feature on CPR featured along with ad- mission into credit and non-OPENING the festivities training, a concert by the ditional activities by foreign credit programs of the colafternoon's feature will include a concert by the FOLK dances, vocal and Clayton Community Band instrumental performances, and a demonstration on dog obedience training. aturday after- College representatives program. will be on hand throughout

January 30, 1980 CJC Plans Fair At Southlake Mall

Clayton Junior College students and faculty members will be featured during a three-day "fair and festivities" presentation at Southlake Mall this week.

Programs of entertainment and information have been scheduled between 6 and 8:45 p.m. on Thursday and Friday evening, and between 1 and 5 p.m. on Saturday afternoon. Opening the festivities on Thursday evening will be presentations by the CJC Choir and Jazz Band, along with demonstrations by students enrolled in the foreign language program and the dental hygiene program. In ad-language students, a special feature on CPR training, a concert by the Clayton Community Chorus, and demonstrations by dental hygiene, nursing, and art students. Folk dances, vocal and instrumental performances, and a Greek drama will be included in Saturday afternoon's program. Demonstrations by computer and library/media electronic equipment will be featured along with additional dition, nursing students will provide free blood pressure

Friday's program will feature a variety show by foreign activities by foreign language, dental hygiene, and nursing

In addition, Saturday afternoon's feature will include a concert by the Clayton Community Band and a demonstration on dog obedience training.

By DANIEL PAGE

Staff Writer A preliminary proposal for the establishment of a vocationaltechnical division at Clayton Junior College has been sent to the State Board of Education and the Board of Regents by college officials.

A liaison committee of the two boards will consider the proposal sometime in the next three months. The Morrow school was tentatively approved as a site for the project by the Regents earlier this week.

The detailed 23-page proposal estimates that the facility will require about 15.2 million in state money through the fiscal year 1983, to begin operations. About $8.3 million of that is the Projected cost of capital construction as allowed by the state's master vocational plan.

The proposal also asks that a permanent director of the facility be hired by July 1 of this year at a salary of $30,000 to oversee development of "The proposal contains a timetable, in keeping with the Board of Education's Zimmerman study, which would probably allow us to start looking for a full-time director as soon as the proposal is accepted," said Jerry Atkins. public information director for the college.

The Zimmerman study gave the state a detailed picture of vocational education on the post-high school level throughout the state and determined a list of priorities for establishing vocational-technical schools where they are needed the most. Because of that study, a division for Clayton and Henry Counties was proposed.

The timetable proposed by college officials would begin with the hiring of a director by July. The director would begin verifying and identifying needed programs for the school.

By September of 1980, officials hope that more definite plans could be decided on such as a hiring timetable for the necessary personnel.

Construction plans would be developed by next spring and construction would start July 1. 1981. which is the earliest date state funds would be available. These funds will be considered by the state legislature in next year's session.

If everything goes according to plans, the college hopes to have the facility completed and in full operation by September, 1982. The projected budgets during the development of the division is $51,485 for the fiscal year 1981, $13.3 million for 1982, which includes all construction costs, and 1.8 million in 1982, which is a general estimate of what the actual annual operating costs for the project will be once the construction and development are completed.

"As we go along we will need to develop a complete study that will list the exact programs and costs in detail," Atkins said. "We will need a master plan to guide the development of the programs and to determine what personnel will be needed."

Many local officials outside the college have worked to bring Clayton Junior College the Vocational-Technical school, Atkins said. He specifically praised Clayton's legislative delegation for their efforts "They are the ones that have really been pushing this proposal and working on getting it approved," he

By DANIEL PAGE Staff Writer

The Georgia University System Board of Regents has tentatively approved Clayton Junior College in Morrow as the site for a vocationaltechnical division to serve the citizens of Clayton and Henry counties "on principle.'

In announcing the decision, the Regents reserved the right to give the proposal a final okay at a later meeting.

According to Jerry Atkins, public information director at the two-year college, no set timetable has been set for further development of the vocational division, but that additional steps, such as a master development plan, would be undertaken by the college, "as fast as possible."

"This came as a surprise to all of us here. The State Board of Education just authorized a committee to look into the proposal with college representatives two or three weeks ago," he said.

A Clayton College committee, headed by college president Harry Downs, has been trying to get a vocational site approved in Clayton County for several months, Atkins

Downs, who was meeting with some Regents visiting the Morrow campus Thursday morning, was unavailable for comment

The vocational education proposal for Clayton county has been in the works for some time, the result of a state-wide study by the State Board of Education to determine where such programs were needed. A list of priorities was adopted by the state as a master plan for developing vocational programs, with service to Clayton and Henry Counties near the legislature in next year's session, meaning the earliest date construction could take place would be July 1, 1981. Dr. Downs has said that he hopes some vocational classes could begin during the Fall Quarter, While Clayton Junior College has been the most prominent site mentioned for the program, Henry County officials did hope to locate the school there. But, as Rep. Rudolph Johnson, D-Morrow, has said, "They don't have a junior college campus to put it on." Along with Dr. Downs, Clayton Board of Education attorney Larry Foster, who is a member of the State Board of Education, has spearheaded considered for funding by the state the efforts to get the vocationaltechnical site approved. Foster introduced the Clayton Junior proposal to the State Board for approval last month.

The Clayton Junior College vocational-technical school will be

The state currently has vocationaltechnical programs at Bainbridge, Dalton, and Brunswick Junior Colleges. They operate under a cooperative agreement between the State Board of Education and the Board of Regents.

Other priorities in the state's master plan for vocational technical facilities include the upgrading of current vocational programs in the state and other new schools throughout the state.

The House Appropriations committee has cooperated with the vocational education master plan thus far, passing approving funding for all vocational proposals sent them by the Regents, and blocking efforts by some legislators to fund some programs ahead of the state's schedule.

CJC Enrollment Open For Summer

Students who plan to ning at 6 p.m. Clayton Junior College for about admission require- of Admissions and Records the first time during the ments and courses to be of- at 363-7723. Summer Quarter have until next week to file all applications and credentials with the College's Office of Admissions and Records. he deadline for new student applications is Wednesday, May 28. The College will administer the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) to prospective students of the two-year institution on Thursday evening, May 29. A requirement for students entering credit programs, the three-hour SAT will be given in Room G-132, begin-enroll in credit classes at For complete information Quarter, contact the Office

fered during the Summer

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS June 18, 1980

CJC Has Grant Money Information

Area residents who are puzzled about financing their collegiate education could put the pieces together with a Basic Grant, according to Robert C. Bolander, Dean of Students at Clayton Junior College, and Ms. Constance S. King, Director of Financial Ald and Placement. "There has been an increase of at least 30 percent in the number of Basic Grant recipients this year as compared to the last academic year," Dean Bolander pointed out. But, while the increase in dependent recipients is significant, he added, "we feel that there are many potential students who are eligible and have not made application at the College. Ms. King agrees. "The Basic Grant is the largest federal student aid program and is the basis of financial aid for most students," she said. 'It is a federal program designed to help pay educational expenses after high school.

And, unlike loans, Ms. King stressed, these grants do not have to be General eligibility requirements for the program are not difficult to meet, Ms. King added. Students interested in applying for a Basic Grant, or any type of financial aid package, should contact her in the Office of Financial Aid (phone 961-3510) for

Auxiliarians Meet at CIC

Elizabeth Miller, district director of the North Central District of the Council on Auxiliaries of the Georgia Hospital Association addresses a gathering of approximately 200 members of metropolitan "Atlanta hospital auxiliaries as they met last week at Clayton Junior College. The North Central District general meeting, held each year at the college, is a one-day affair of seminars and business meetings for the auxiliary members, most of them working as Pink Ladies in local hospitals. Clayton General Hospital Auxiliary president Jewel McNeal attended the meeting, which featured a presentation of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Cancer Home in Atlanta and seminars on legislative, medical, and social issues affecting patient care. (SUN Photo

26 Fayette Students Graduated From CJC June 19, 1980

Students from a 13- Stephen Kirby Hedden,

by Tracy Thompson)

Included among the and Nicki D. Turbeville. graduates were 26 from Graduates from Peachtree Fayette County.

James Lloyd Baker Jr., Patricia Gail Baker, George tner, Eva Marie Bomba, Anne Coley, Catherine A. Dori Lvnn Eagen:

296 graduates to receive As- Joy Lee, Terri Lynne Lyles, sociate Degrees during an- Kathy Cleary Maddock, nual Commencement exer- Frank A. Robinson Jr., Billy cises conducted at Clayton W. Smith, Geraldine Bunn Junior College on Saturday Spahos, Charles R. Spearman, Elaine P. Spicer, degrees.

Fayetteville residents Davis, Thomas E. Dupree, Lynne Kaurin.

Forsyth, Cobb, Gwinnett, county area were among the Phyllis Anne Lee, Marian lege campus for the Saturday morning ceremony. Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College, presented can-didates and Dr. Harry S. Downs, President, awarded

S. Truett Cathy, presi-City included: Sandra Lynn dent and owner of Chick-fi-A, Inc., and a charter receiving degrees were: George D. Hare, and Mary member of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Other graduates listed Junior College Foundation, W. Biles Jr., Wallace A. Bit- were from the counties of delivered the Commence-Clayton, Fulton, Henry, ment address. The nev. Kathy Angela Brown, Caia DeKalb, Newton, Spalding, Cleason L. Melton, Missionary with the South Colombo, Muriel Janet Dol- Coweta, Butts and Carroll. Metro Baptist Association, lar, James Mundy Drury, Almost 900 graduates, gave the invocation and faculty, and friends benediction.

Sunrise Service NEWS/DAILY March 21, 1980

Clayton Ministers To Sponsor Program

Living Editor

Clayton Minister's Conference will sponsor an interdenominational community Sunrise Service on Easter Sunday, April 6, at 6:19 a.m. at Clayton Junior College in front of the new library on the campus.

Father John Kieran, pastor of St. Philip Benizi Catholic Church in Jonesboro, will deliver the sermon and the special service will last pproximately one half hour.

"The joint service originated from the effort to do something together but more and more churches are holding their own sunrise services," said Father John. "The intent of the joint service is to share the Christian tradition in a special way. We're stressing something we Christians all have in common and this is a unique ecumenical effort."

"My thoughts and message that Sunday will be along that line. I think we don't do things together often enough," he added.

The service has been held for the past several years by the Conference and attendance last year was approximately 200 to 300 members from the community, according to the Rev. Steve Lorimer, pastor of the Living Word Lutheran Church in Jonesboro.

Music will be provided by the Clayton Community Band under the direction of Ed Bridges. Vocal music may be provided by choruses at again usher and collect the offering by the Jonesboro Kiwanis Club. THE REAL PROPERTY OF THE PROPE

CLAYTON MINISTERS CONFERENCE TO SPONSOR SUNRISE SEVICE L-R: Lorimer, Father Kieran, Bridges

finalized on that arrangement,

Bridges noted.

Morrow Junior and Senfor High which will be donated to Clayton Schools as a combined choir for the Community Services Authority to service under the direction of Mike serve the needs of the impoverished Dorough but the plans have not been people in Clayton, Father John said. In the event of rain, the service will be held in the school's auditorium. The Forest Park Kiwanis Club will Publicity for the event will be held

Dean Rusk to Speak At CJC Foundation

Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk will master's degree in 1934, and took additional meeting and banquet of the Clayton Junior many, during vacations. College Foundation Thursday evening, May each from members of the foundation's position he held will board of trustees, or by calling the college at the University of California at Berkley. 363-7748 or 363-7738.

meeting provides visitors with musical enter- dent of the Rockefeller Foundation. tainment, a report on the foundation's Rusk became Secretary of State in programs and goals, a report on the two-year January, 1961, a position he held until 1969. institution, and an address by a prominent

The Secretary of State in President John of international law. F. Kennedy's "new frontier" administration, Rusk worked mainly behind the scenes. Davidson College in North Carolina magna teville, Claude Whaley of Jonesboro, or Jim cum laude. Having won a Rhodes Wood, Jr., of Forest Park.

be the featured speaker at the annual courses at the University of Berlin, Ger-

RETURNING to the United States in This year's program, the fifth annual event 1934, Rusk accepted an offer to teach governsponsored by the non-profit corporation, will ment and international relations at Mills take place in the college cafeteria, beginning College in Oakland, California. In 1938 he at 7 p.m. Tickets are currently on sale at $8 was named dean of the faculty at Mills, a

After serving in World War II from 1940 until 1946, Rusk joined the State Depart-THE ANNUAL meeting and banquet of ment as assistant chief of the division of inthe foundation has been a spring feature at ternational security affairs. He held a the college since 1976. Attended by approx- number of positions with the State Departimately 200 area residents each year, the ment until 1952 when he took office as presi-

SINCE 1970, he has served the School of Law at the University of Georgia as professor

To obtain tickets, contact one of the Dean Rusk was responsible for dealing with members of the board of trustees: Harmon the problems and complexities of American Born of Rex, Robert Oliver of Morrow, foreign policy during a highly critical period. Charles Conklin of Jonesboro, Harry Downs Less known than many of his subordinates, of Morrow, Guy Benefield of Morrow, Truett Cathy of Hampton, Ernest Cheaves of Forest Born in Cherokee County, Georgia, in Park, Thomas Clonts of Jonesboro, Dr. 1909, Rusk was graduated from Boys' High Ernest Dunbar, Jr., of Morrow, Cameron School in Atlanta, and in 1931 from Mitchell of Hampton, Hill Redwine of Fayet-

scholarship, he attended St. John's College For additional information about the founat Oxford University, England, where he dation or the annual meeting and banquet, studied politics, economics and philosophy. call the college's Office of Public Information He received a bachelor's degree in 1933 and a at 363-7748.

Arts Week Proclaimed

Arts and Humanities Week will be observed in Clayton County April 27-May 3. To conclude the occasion May 3, a Celebration of the Arts sponsored by the Clayton County Arts and Humanities Council will be held on the campus of Clayton Junior College from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. In support of the observance, the Clayton County Board of Commissioners has issued a proclamation designating Arts and Humanities Week locally and encouraging support of and participation in the council's activities. Attending the proclamation presentation were (L-R) Commissioner Ed Echols, Commission Chairman Charley Griswell, Council Chairman Rob Taylor and Commissioner Annie Ruth Ford.

Rusk Featured At Clayton Jr.

for the annual meeting and To obtain tickets, contact a banquet of the Clayton Junior member of the board of College Foundation.

lege at 363-7748 or 363-7738. Mitchell of Hampton, Hill Redwine of Fayetteville,

An annual spring feature at Claude Whaley of Jonesboro, the college since 1976, more or Jim Wood, Jr. of Forest than 200 area residents are Park. keynote address at the ban- formation at 363-7748.

trustees: Harmon Born of Former Secretary of State Rex, Robert Oliver of Mor-Dean Rusk will be the row, Charles Conklin of featured speaker at the an- Jonesboro, Harry Downs of nual event, scheduled at 7 Morrow, Guy Benefield of p.m. Thursday, May 8. Morrow, Truett Cathy of Tickets are currently on sale Hampton, Ernest Cheaves of at $8 each from members of Forest Park, Thomas Clonts the foundation's board of of Jonesboro, Dr. Ernest Duntrustees, or by calling the col- bar, Jr. of Morrow, Cameron expected to attend. Rusk, For more information about secretary of state from 1961 the foundation or the annual until 1969, joins a growing list meeting and banquet, call the of dignitaries to give the college's Office of Public In-

CJC Has Important Role Here

Clayton County voters overwhelmingly approved a $4,900,000 bond issue to pave the way for location of a junior college in the county. Thirteen years later that decision has resulted in Georgia's largest two-year college, Clayton Junior College of Morrow. For 11 years, Clayton Junior College has played an important role in the Clayton community. Last fall, the institution opened its 11th year of operation, welcoming another large group of area students.

Student nrollment during fall quarter 1969 listed 942 students. Last fall the headcount was more than three times higher, with an enrollment for fall quarter 1979 of over 2,900 students.

Voters gave a heavy affirmative vote in an October, 1966 referendum, bringing to an end the search for the site of another junior college within the University System of Georgia. A year earlier, the Board of Regents had designated the northern section of Clayton County as

Two years after the bond referendum was passed-in October of 1968--construction of facilities began, and another year later--in September of 1969--the first group of students began to reap the harvest of high quality offerings by the two-

Student characteristics at the local institution have revealed in a general way that residents throughout the south metropolitan. Atlanta community are taking full advantage of college offerings. There has been no common mold of students during any given quarter... Instead there has been a special blend of students, including recent high school graduates and others who have been out of school for Enrollment reports tradionally reveal that the student body represents a unique accumulation of students from all walks of life. Many students are mature men and women with families...some are attending college while their own children are in school.

A recent survey by the college revealed that the average age of students was

By offering a wide variety of courses, both during the day and at night, people of all ages have an opportunity acquire a quality education while staying at home. A non-residential college since construction, most students of the college live in the fourcounty area of Clayton,

Henry, Fayette, and south

Fulton, but enrollment is not limited to these or other counties. Currently, the college offers the first two years of college in more than 45 major fields of study...the same credits earned during the first two years at Georgia State University, the University of Georgia, or other institutions within the Georgia. Additionally, the college offers "career programs" which combine regular college courses with specific professional or paraprofesional training. Career programs, designed to prepare students for

University System of

banking criminal

Quality programs of any institution are only as good as the academic atmosphere surrounding its students, and Clayton Junior College is blessed with a well-qualified faculty to fulfill this essential percent of the faculty member hold doctoral degrees in their field of major films and other special activities during each quarter

Lyceum's "forum' presentation includes many secretarial studies, and teaching.

In addition to academic offerings, the college also provides its students with a full activities program. Entertainment Committee, the college offers a series of

The college's Lyceum Committee sponsors programs of all types during the year, and all program sponsored by Lyceum are open both to students and resident of the community at no cost. A "cultural affairs" program sponsored by Lyceum includes a variety of programs dealing with classical and contemporary music, art exhibitions and demonstrations, and both student and professional drama productions. These programs feature many local, regional, and national performing artists.

local, regional, and national speakers During the current on environment consumerism, current national political trends, contemporary education, international affair and many other areas of interest. These presentations are given in several forms. ranging from lectures and panel discussion to films, exhibits, and

Clayton Homebuilders redevelopment of Mountain View and a possible new civic center in the county brighten the outlook for the Expect Good Year

Despite the dismal figure." forecasts predicted for the housing industry throughout most of the country, Clayton County homebuilders can expect a "boom year," according to Ken Herron of Wachovia Realty Company.

"The airport will bring Clayton County a good 7,000 jobs," Herron said, "and

Herron said the typical home buyer in Clayton County in 1980 will be male, 271/2 years-old, with 1.5 children, an income of

The apartment occupation rate will be 95.1 per cent, Herron predicted, "which is very low for the state as a phenomenal," he said. whole. The average apart-

Financing will be mostly 30-year mortgages he said and FHA financing will be the most popular route, followed by VA financing. "The benefits Clayton County offers its residents is a month per family

Herron also said the

ment rent will be around $350

"Clayton County is the most lucrative area to build in the Georgia," he concluded. "It is possibly the most lucrative area in the

"Also the sewage treatment facility is one of the finest in the world," Herron

"The highways are excellent, and the fire department is one of the finest in the state," he

For several years, Clayton County was one of the fastest growing counties in Georgia, as population zoomed well over 100,000. In the last two or three years, other metro Atlanta counties have enjoyed similar growth patterns, with growth slowing in Clayton, but continuing. New home starts here are expected to continue fairly strong, even in the predictions of a downturn in the general economy

at Clayton Twenty-four students from Henry County were among 296 graduates to receive Degrees commencement cises at Clayton Junior College June 7th. Graduates from Mc-Donough were: Mark D.

> Lewis, Karen Simms Robert and Rainer Steffensen. From Stockbridge were Wanda Gail George, Wyman Zachary Hendon, Jr., Thomas T. Jeanes David Randa

Crumbley, Laura Iola

Elliott, Elizabeth Annette

Greer, Maston Henry

Harnage, Jr., Melinda

Ann Keller, Tracey L.

24 receive

Associate

degrees

Trowell. From Locust Grove were Pamela Rebecca Crumbley, Laurence Lamar Holbert, Bobbie Combs Stone, Howard F. Waldrop and Sheila R. Allen of Hampton also graduated.

Graduates from the Ellenwood area were Maria Aspinwall, Arlene Bonner, Roxanne M. Cole, Danny E. Isenhour, Jeri Landers, Susan H. Pitman and Kenneth R.

Clayton Junior College Could Expand By 1985

MORROW'S CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE

Attractive Campus Welcomes Many Area Students

By TAM ADAMS

Staff Writer Progress into the 1980's will touch many facets of Clayton County, but none will have the impact on the county as the possibility of Clayton Junior College becoming a four year institution.

According to State Rep. Terrell Starr of Forest Park, the school could be a four year college by, at the latest, 1985. 'We have been working on this for quite a while," he said, "All the state representitives from this area would like to see the area have a nice four year school.'

The 10-year-old institution presently offers a two year study program with an associates degree offered upon completion. If the college develops a four year program the students will be offered a choice of either the two vear associate degree or a four year bachelors degree.

"There would be minimal changes that will take place if the transition is made," Starr said.

The Two Year Institution, which is 10 Years Old, May Become A Four Year College, According To Officials

Clayton May Get Vo-Tech

School Facility At CJC

Regents has tentatively

The Georgia Board of approved location of a tech schools to Clayton are vocational-technical school at Clayton Junior College of Morrow. But the board reserved the right for a final decision later.

A long range study prepared by the planning and engineering firm of Zimmerman, Leopold and Evans suggested a vo-tech school be located in either county.

Clayton Chamber of Commerce members have for some time been interested in development of such a school. With vocational programs flourishing in local high schools, and with the concentration of trucking and transportation in the northern half of the county, most people feel a postsecondary vo-tech school could be a boost to the area's

The study recommends a facility for 2,000 students. The study further said Georgia needs to spend $175 million for vo-tech construction over the next 11 economy.

Currently the closest vo- authorized a committee to located in Atlanta and Griffin. Others are in Bainbridge, Valdosta and Dalton.

The CJC vo-tech school will apparently be considred for funding by the 1981 legislature. The earliest possible construction date seems to be July 1, 1981, which means classes could probably begin by late 1981 or early 1982.

CJC president Dr. Harry S. Downs says ongoing efforts to have the college transformed into a four-year facility should have no effect on plans for the vo-tech

According to Jerry Atkins, public information director at the two-year college, no set timetable has been set for further development of the vocational division, but that additional steps, such as a master development plan, would be undertaken by the college, "as fast as

"This came as a surprise to all of us here. The State Board of Education just look into the proposal with college representatives two or three weeks ago," he said.

Basic Grant Can Help in College

Area residents who are puzzled about financing their college education could put the pieces together with a basic grant, according to Robert C. Bolander, dean of students at Clayton Junior College, and Ms. Constance

S. King. director of financial aid and placement. "There has been an increase of at least 30 percent in the number of Basic Grant recipients this year as compared to the last academic year," Dean Bolander pointed out. But, while the increase in dependent recipients is significant, he added, "we feel that there are many potential students who are eligible and have not made application at the college."

Ms. King agrees. "The basic grant is the largest federal student aid program and is the basis of financial aid for most students," she said. "It is a federal program designed to help pay educational expenses after high

And, unlike loans, Ms. King stressed, these grants do not have to be repaid. General eligibility requirements for the program are not difficult to meet, Ms. King added. Students interested in applying for a basic grant, or any type of financial aid package, should contact her in the Office of Financial Aid (phone 961-3510) for complete informa-

New CJC Summer Student Deadline Nears

Students who plan to enroll minister the Scholastic Junior College for the first time during the Summer Quarter have until next week to file all applications and credentials with the College's Office

Admissions and Records. The deadline for new student applications is Wednesday, May 28.

The College will ad- should contact the Office of in credit classes at Clayton Aptitude Test (SAT) to prospective students of the two-year institution on Thursday evening, May 29. A requirement for students entering credit programs, the three-hour SAT will be given in Room G-132, beginning at 6 p.m.

Although it is not necessary to sign up prior to the testing time, applicants

Admissions and Records ten-week session. (phone 363-7723) or the Office A limited number of of Counseling and Testing courses will be offered (363-7744) for complete during the two shortened information. An $8.25 testing sessions, the first one fee is payable before taking scheduled between June 17

Registration day for Summer Quarter classes is set for Monday, June 16, and students will have an opportunity to select courses in either or both of two fiveweek sessions, or a regular and July 18, and the second about admission between July 21 and August requirements and courses to 19. The regular ten-week be offered during the session will begin on June 17 Summer Quarter, contact and conclude on August 19. the Office of Admissions and

For complete information Records at 363-7723.

Scholarship Ribbon

Dr. Harry S. Downs (third from right) cuts the string of $5 bills used during the ribbon-cutting ceremony for the opening of Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers at Southlake Mall while members of Clayton County and Morrow city government officials assist. Pictured from left are Raymond Johnson, Lucille Mills, Annie Ruth Ford, Mike Mixon, Ernest Duffey, Wendy's Area Director Jack Schussler, Dr. Downs, Loren Cheaves, and Gwen Grayson. Wendy's donated the $256 ribbon, to the scholarship fund of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc.

Staff Writer With spring in the air several activities in the county have been planned and one of these activities will take place this weekend on the campus of Clayton Junior College.

The Celebration of the Arts will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will feature a wide assortment of different activities.

This is the second annual Celebration of the Arts. The first was held last August and over 500 Clayton residents participated in the event

This year the celebration is expected to be even bigger and will include choirs, bands, clogging, art, bluegrass, magic, crafts and much more, according to the Clayton County arts and humanities council.

"This Celebration of the Arts is being held in conjunction with the arts and humanities week recently proclaimed by the county commissioners," said Rob Taylor, chairman of the Clayton County Arts and Humanities Council.

"We will have a large variety of silk flower arrangments and stained glass making demonstrations," he

The cafeteria at the college will be open to provide cold drinks and sandwiches for participants.

ARTS AND HUMANITIES WEEK WILL BE CELEBRATED SATURDAY AT CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE (L-R) Ed Echols, Chairman Charley Griswell, Rob Taylor And Annie Ruth Ford

April 29, 1980

Clayton Promotes The Cultural Arts

Living Editor Arts and Humanities Week is being observed in Clayton April 27 through May 3 to promote public awareness of opportunities for involvement in the cultural

"We want increased participation and awareness of opportunities in Clayton with more people attending performances and also additional outlets for talent," said Rob Taylor, chairman of Clayton's Arts and Humanities Council

Concluding the week's observance is a Celebration of the Arts planned for Saturday, May 3, on Clayton Junior College with special events and ongoing programs such as cloggers, art exhibits, puppet shows and clowns both inside and outside on the school campus.

The day will begin at 10 a.m. with a performance by Swint Elementary School's chorus followed by a gospel singing group, the Joyful E's, at 10:30 a.m. Clayton Little Theater will perform at 11 a.m. and the Clayton Junior College jazz orchestra at 11:30 a.m. along with the Lake Harbin Elementary School

At 12 noon, the Georgia Belle Cloggers are scheduled to perform and the Clayton Community Chorus at 12:30 p.m. followed by the "Country Gold" band

Clayton Community band will perform at 1:30 p.m. and a performance by the Clayton Little Theater is slated for 1:30 p.m. also. Morrow Elementary School chorus will be featured at 2 p.m. and the "Country Gold" band will again per-

The "Starlite Ramblers" band will perform again at 2:30 p.m. followed by the Kilpatrick Elementary School chorus at 3 p.m. and a second performance by the "Starlite Ramblers" band at 3 p.m. Students from Swint and Suder Elementary Schools will folk dance beginning at 3:30 p.m.

A workshop and performance by the Ash Street puppets is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 12 noon in Building D-112.

Other programs will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will include: Clayton Art Alliance exhibit and art sale outside and South Metro Atlanta Music Teachers Association's music exhibit and games in D-114, in the lower level of the student building.

The Soromundi YWCA will have a display of tole painting, drawings and art works during the day. Clayton County Libraries will have art and sculpture that can be checked out with library cards in D-108 and Clayton Junior College Community Services will have a stained glass and silk flower-making exhibit

Pen and Pica Writer's Club exhibit will include distributions of compilations of members' poems and Shrine clowns will perform during the day on the

The first Celebration of the Arts was held last year in August and resulted from Clayton County Chamber of Commerce's image study, Taylor said. "We felt the need to coordinate activities going on in the county and in August of 1978 started the Arts and Humanities Council," he said. The council's objectives include: publishing a monthly publication of arts and humanities activities in Clayton; enhancing the quality of such programs in the county; encouraging participation of the public in such activities; coordination scheduling of events; and cooperating with member organizations in sponsoring program planning and implementation.

Member organizations include: Clayton Art Alliance, Clayton County Board of Education, Clayton County Libraries, Clayton Parks and Recreation Department, County PTA Council, Clayton Junior College, Clayton Little Theatre, Historical Jonesboro, Pen and Pica Writer's Club, South Metro Atlanta Music Teacher's Association and Soromundi Center YWCA.

Council secretary is Kay Trendell, Soromundi director. Taylor is student activities director at Clayton Junior and also the College's Lyceum Committee

Council Chairman

THE CLAYTON SUN

Arts Celebration This Weekend

Arts enthusiasts in Clayton County have a full day's activities in store for them this weekend, as the Clayton County Arts and Humanities Council sponsors its second annual Celebration of the Arts at Clayton Junior College in Morrow.

The Celebration will begin at 10 a.m. and will last until 4 p.m. on the college campus, featuring everything from choirs, bands, clogging, art, bluegrass music, magic, crafts, and theatrical productions.

ONGOING programs during the day at the Celebration will include the Clayton Art Alliance exhibit and art sale; the South Metro Atlanta Music Teachers Association music exhibit and games (in room D-114); a display of arts and crafts by members of the YWCA; the Clayton County Libraries' check-out art and sculpture (in room D-108); CJC's community services stained glass and silk flower making exhibit; the Pen and Pica Writers' Club exhibit; and clowns from the Tara Shrine Club. Special events, all of which will take place outside, will include the Swint Elementary School Chorus at 10:30 a.m.; the Joyful E's Gospel Singing Group at 11 a.m.; a performance by members of the Clayton Little Theater, also at 11 a.m.; the Clayton Junior College Jazz Orchestra, at 11:30 a.m.

THE LAKE Harbin Elementary School chorus, at 11:30 a.m.; the Georgia Belle Cloggers, at noon; the Clayton Community Chorus, at 12:30 p.m.; the Country Gold Band, at 1 p.m.; the Clayton Community Band, at 1:30 p.m.; another performance by the Clayton Little Theater troupe, at 1:30 p.m.; the Morrow Elementary School chorus. at 2 p.m.; the County Country Gold Band, at 2 p.m.; the Starlite Ramblers Band, at 2:30 p.m.; the Kilpatrick Elementary School chorus, at 3 p.m.; the Starlite Ramblers band, again, at 3 p.m.; and folk dancers from Swint and Suder Elementary schools, at 3:30

Other activities will be going on both outside and inside during the day, and the cafeteria at the college will be open to provide cold drinks and sandwiches for visitors to the Celebration. There is no charge for this program and there is plenty of free parking available.

Clayton Junior College is located just east of Highway 54 in Morrow. There will be signs on campus directing Celebration visitors to the location of the Celebration

For further information, call Rob Taylor, chairman of the Clayton County Arts and Humanities Council, at 363-7735.

Rusk: U.S. -Soviet War Still Unlikely

By KIRK MARTIN Staff Writer

The world is not on the brink of war, according to former Secretary of State Dean Rusk, but today's students should be prepared for complex problems because, "The stakes are Speaking at a Clayton Junior College Foundation banquet Thursday night, the former cabinet member under President John F. Kennedy said that American hostages will be released, but not soon, and advocated a firmer stand against Russian intervention around the world.

Students today face a number of problems that have never before existed, including energy shortages, environmental damage, population explosions and the need to establish a durable peace in a world heavily armed with nuclear weapons, according to

FORMER SECRETARY OF STATE DEAN RUSK (C) AT BANQUET With CJC President Harry Downs And Board Chairman Harmon Born

"If we and the Soviet Union engage in mortal and deadly combat, it will raise serious questions as to whether this planet would continue to be able to sustain the species Homo Sapiens," said Rusk. Rusk advocated detente with Russia, calling it a "continuous search for possible areas of agreement." He pointed out that detente did not begin with President Richard Nixon, but with presidents Truman and Eisenhower. He did, however, recommend a stronger response to Russia's military incursions such as the one presently occurring in Afghanistan. The quick and total disarmament of United States forces after its victory over Japan was a mistake that led to Russian adventures outside its territory, according to Rusk.

"We demobilized overnight," he said. "That's where the Cold War started. We were disarmed. It was not until 1950 that we started building up our forces."

Citing a number of Russian invasion and military operations, including those in Hungary, Czechoslovakia, guerilla raids into Greece from Albania and others, Rusk called for a "strong message to the Kremlin that this kind of thing will not be allowed." "At the time of the Cuban missile crisis, I am convinced that one scenario Kruschev didn't have in mind was that the United States would step in and demand that the missiles be removed from Cuba," Rusk said. Rusk points out that the United States and the Soviet Union have had fundamental political differences since the 1917 revolution that brought communists to power in that country, but there hasn't yet been a total war between the two countries. He reminds that last August marked 34 years since a nuclear weapon was fired in anger.

"I personally believe the possibilities of a war are far more remote today than at any other point in the nuclear age," he said.

On the subject of 50 American diplomats taken hostage at the U.S. embassy in Tehran, Iran, Rusk said that the holding of the hostages is a very serious business. Rusk, lately a professor of international law at the University of Georgia, Athens, said that the preservation of an embassy was one of the oldest and most fundamental elements of international

"When nations declare war against each other, they still protect each other's embassies and diplomats," he

"The problem is that in Iran it is a very revolutionary situation," Rusk said. "Who is in authority has not been sorted out yet." He warned that unrest within that country, including civil war, increases danger to the American hostages.

"If I were Jimmy the Greek--and he's a betting man--I would bet we're going to get our hostages back," said Rusk. "It's going to take a little more time. It took 11 months to get the crewmen of the Pueblo out of North Korea, and they had a government established already."

Graduation

Spring Commencement was held Saturday at Clayton Junior College, and in the top photograph graduates sit under the pines during the ceremonies. At left, Annette Saterfield, director of admissions and registrar, looks on as Dr. Harry S. Downs presents an associate degree to Kim Krieger of Newnan.

News/Daily Photos by Guy Hardegree

TELLING THE STORY

THE CLAYTON SUN

June 19, 1980

Chamber to Publish Mag.

tion of a county magazine in the county."

"Residents of Clayton International Airport. County have always known Also covered in the first that their community was issue will be the county's one of fine homes, lovely lifestyle, with a view of scenery and the amenities homes, recreation and other that provide for the good activities for the family life," said May.

"The publication will be a Other articles will deal with 20-page, full-color magazine government, schools and with information on the history of the area. many good things that our Future copies, already on community has to offer," the boards, will emphasize said, "We want to use this to tion. In-depth articles will promote Clayton County as cover Clayton Junior Col-

he Clayton County, a tool in our ongoing efforts business opportunities that Chamber of Commerce to secure continued exist in the county. recently approved publica- economic development for field Terminal of Hartsfield offer," said May.

available in the community

such topics as shopping, In his announcement, he transportation and educa an attractive place to both lege, Clayton General

The board of directors of live and work. It will also be Hospital, and many of the

"The new magazine promises to be a new opporan effort to "tell Clayton The first edition, slated tunity to tell, in an in-depth County's story," according to for mid-August, will feature manner about the good life Stan May, executive vice the opening of the new Mid- that Clayton County has to

I want to thank all supporters publicly for their support in bringing about the Vocational-Technical School at Clayton Jr. College. Special thanks to Dr. Harry Downs, President, Clayton Jr. College, Dr. Jim Broughton, Vocational Training Director, Clayton Co. Board of Education, Dr. Charles McDaniel, State Superintendent of Education, Dr. Joseph Freund, State Vocational Training Director, Mr. Yardy Williams, Project Director, Board of Regents, Mr. Roy Hendricks, State Chairman, Board of Education, Larry Foster, Board Member, State Board of Education, Mr. Jack Wells, Former Chairman Clayton Co. Commissioners, Charlie Griswell, Chairman, Clayton Co. Commissioners, Terrell Starr, State Senator, Clayton Co., Mr. Jimmy Benefield, State Representative, Mr. Jan Jankovsky, Industrial Development, Clayton Co. Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Carl Rhodenizer, President, Clayton Co. Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Jim Wood, Editor, Clayton News Daily and State Representative, Mr. Billy Myles, Myles Transportation, Mr. Bill Beaver, Safety Director, Myles Transportation, Mr. Felton Pearson, Felton Pearson Trucking Co., Mr. Sam Nall, Southern Auto Electric Co., Mr. Bud Jung, President, Dixie Engine Co., Mr. Jack Schardine, Director of Training, Dixie Engine Co., Mr. Charles Byrd, Director of Training, Cummins Engine of Georgia, Mr. Buck Stith, President, Stith Equipment Co., Mr. McElreath, Vice President, Stith Equipment Co., Mr. Carey LeCroy, Mgr., LeCroy's Cafeterias, Transport City, Mr. Roy Butts, CETA Training Director, Mrs. Wilma Shellnut, Director, Clayton Co. Social Services, Marilyn Buckner, Consultant, Ga. State University, Mrs. Lucy Huie, Author, Rev. Charles Worthy, Minister, Rock Baptist Church and Chairman Clayton Co. Ministers Conference, Mr. Charles Skinner, Director, Georgia Motor Truckers Association, Mr. Tom Moreland, Commissioner, Ga. Dept. of Transportation, Mr. Florence Breen, Director of Planning and Programs, Ga. Dept. of Transportation, Mr. Orris Cowan, Clayton Co. Board of Education, East Clayton Kiwanis Club Members, Mr. Albert Planagan, Director, CAGNE U.S. Dept. of Commerce, Washington, D.C., Col. Joe S. Wood, Jr., Retired, U.S. Army Corp. of Engineers, Mr. Larry Little, Chairman, State Advisory Board on Vocational Technical Education*, Mr. Jim Thomson, Consultant, Bucko International, Mr. Wilson McKinley, Designer & Builder of Transport City, Mr. Al Lacewell, Consultant, Bucko International and Mr. Luther Vaughn, Retired Commander, Ft. Gillem, Ga., and very special thanks to my lovely wife, AnnieRuth for her devotion, love and understanding, and my children, Tommy, Marilyn, Susan, John, Georgia Ann and Mary Elizabeth.

Now let us all give thanks to God for his wisdom, love and grace.

B. W. Buckner

R.W. Buckner, Chairman, Development Committee & Mr. Paul Hamblin, President, International President, Bucko International

News/Daily October 22, 1978 By DEBBIE WEIL

R.W. Buckner has a dream.

"I came out of high school with a dollar and a pasteboard suitcase and I said I was going to help change the world," says the 52-year-old owner of a small Conley business specializing in surplus military truck parts.

Training, Inc., Mr. Reid Darnell,

Service Manager, Stith Equipment Co.

"I wanted to create more opportunities for young people," he adds, seemingly oblivious to how cliched his words sound.

For Buckner the words reflect an idea that has been shaping in his mind since he left Oneonta, Ala., a tiny town in the rural northern part of the state where he grew up as the youngest of 12 children. At 18 he found himself stationed in the Phillipines with the Army and it was then he plotted out his dream.

"I would use money I made out of government surplus to finance the education and training of young people lacking opportunity," he says, drawing on one of an unbroken chain of cigarettes. He is lingering over an eggs and grits breakfast in the Krystal restaurant in Forest Park across from Fort Gillem.

Next to his plate is a brown leather scrapbook bulging with letters, photos, and all manner of testimony, he says, to the fact a lot of other people are interested in his idea.

What Buckner has in mind specifically and what he has devoted much of his time to in the past five years is the location of a post-secondary vocational technical school in Clayton Coun-

Vo Ed Division Okayed For Clayton Jr. College

A Division of Vocational-Technical Dr. Harry S. Downs, President of the Education has been approved for two-year institution.

Clayton Junior College, according to The Board of Regents of the Basic Grant Can Help Residents

Area residents who are academic year," Dean pay educational expenses their collegiate education with a Basic Grant, according to Robert C. Bolander, Dean of Students at Clayton Junior College, and Constance S. King, director of financial aid and

'There has been an increase of at least 30 percent compared to the last program designed to help information.

puzzled about financing Bolander pointed out. But, after high school. while the increase in Unlike loans, Ms. King could put the pieces together dependent recipients is stressed, these grants do not significant, he added, "we have to be repaid, feel that there are many General eligibility potential students who are requirements for the eligible and have not made program are not difficult to application at the College."

Ms. King agrees. "The Basic Grant is the largest federal student aid program and is the basis of financial n the number of basic grant aid for most students," she meet, Ms. King added.

Students interested in applying for a Basic Grant, or any type of financial aid package, should contact her recipients this year as said. "It is a federal at 961-3510 for complete

University System of Georgia has authorized the establishment of the Vocational-Technical Division. The approval becomes effective July 1,

"The establishment of vocationaltechnical programs at Clayton Junior College is a logical and needed extension of our current offerings," Dr. Downs noted when announcing the approval of the Board. "There is substantial evidence indicating the need for such programs, and we're extremely pleased that the Board of Regents and the State Board of Education selected us to help meet the growing needs of citizens in this area

The Board also authorized the college to begin search for a division chairman. "We hope to have a chairman employed by September 1," Dr. Downs said. "During the next year, the chairman will be planning programs and identifying needed personnel for the division. We will consider transferring some existing programs into vocational-education, utilizing existing facilities."

Decisions on the development of new programs to be offered, and construction of vocational-technical facilities have not been made. Dr. Downs added.

New programs will be designed to add to the offerings of the college's existing one-year and two-year occupational programs.

Faculty within the new division will provide specialized short-term training programs for current and potential employees of both new and existing businesses and industries. Programs for the up-grading and-or re-training of employees will be designed in cooperation with the business community to help employees perform at higher or more efficient levels.

In addition, high school students currently enrolled in vocationaltechnical programs will have an opportunity to continue their training. An estimated 40 percent of students in area high schools are enrolled in some type of vocational program designed to help them become more proficient and highly-skilled workers.

Another feature of the new division should help attract new industry to the community. Training programs will be provided for applicants of new industries to help them qualify for newly-created positions.

According to a 1979 master plan published by the State Department of Education and the Office of Vocational Education, there is a need to expand post-secondary vocationaltechnical education programs in the metropolitan Atlanta area. The conclusion was based on an analysis of both population and labor demand

Projections contained in the master plan, indicated that occupations requiring vocational-technical training are expected to grow more rapidly than those requring traditional college degrees. Of the 35 occupations predicted by the Department of Labor to be the fastest growing between 1980 and 1990, about 75 percent require vocationaltechnical training.

A survey conducted by the college

during the Fall Quarter last year emphasized the need for vocational programs in the south Atlanta area. Almost 600 of the 3,000 students who enrolled in credit programs took career-oriented courses, and over 80 percent of the students indicated an interest in learning specific skills. Vocational-technical education programs will be integrated into the present structure and programming of the college. Over 80 percent of the students who are currently enrolled in career offerings of the college are in the health, business, and secretarial programs. These occupational areas were among those in which an increased labor demand is projected within the next ten years. The Division of Vocational-Techical Education at Clayton Junior College will be operated and funded in accordance with an existing agreement between the Board of Regents and the State Board of Education.

The college will offer graduates of its new division the Associate in Applied Sciences degree.

Vocational Wing Should Aid Industry--Downs

By TRACY THOMPSON

Clayton Junior College's new vocational education division, approved last week by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia, should be an inducement for new industries to settle in the county, CJC President Dr. Harry Downs said this

The new division should benefit existing industries in the county by offering short courses to update employees' job skills, Downs added.

"OUR intention now is to identify within the community the programs that are really needed, in areas where there are jobs, and an interest on the part of the students." Downs said. By the time the school opens in the fall of 1981, Downs said, "We should be able to offer some specialized training programs for employers who want to upgrade their employees or switch them to different jobs within the company.

And for business, he added, "that is an easily recognized payoff—to be able to draw on an existing educational institution in the

The vocational education division, long the object of a lobbying campaign in the General Assembly by the Clayton County legislative delegation, received its final approval May 14 from the Board of Regents, and should start receiving state funds by

AT THIS point, plans for the school—how many students it expects to have, what courses it will offer, who its director will be. and where on the CJC campus it will be located-are still sketchy. Downs said the first decision to be made is the choice of a

Advertisements for the position are being placed this week in educational journals across the country, he said, and an application deadline of July 25 has been set.

After the director starts Sept. 1, Downs said work will begin to identify the vocational courses most in demand in the county. What is certain is that at least some of the courses now offered at the junior college, such as the ones in the secretarial and accounting programs, will be switched to the new division.

In the one and a half to two years before construction on a building is expected to start, Downs said, the vocational division's courses will be offered in the junior college classrooms as much as possible

"IF WE RUN out of room, we can always lease outside space," Downs added. "We're going to try not to do that, though.

Figures on the operating cost of the new school, also are unavailable since they would depend largely on the type of courses to be offered and the number of teachers needed. Downs said. Approximately $30,000 has been allocated for 1980-81 to play clerical costs and the new director's salary, he added.

"The operating cost for a vocational school is considerably higher than for a regular junior college," Downs said. The reason: a lower pupil-teacher ratio, necessitating more teachers for the same number of students, and the costs of buying and maintaining upto-date equipment.

EQUIPMENT costs point out another problem inherent in the vocational school idea, Downs said—the ever-present possibility that technological changes in industry will outstrip the ability of the school to keep pace, with the result that students graduate with newly acquired job skills that are already obsolete.

"You're going to come up short sometimes," Downs acknowledged, but added the school would attempt to address the problem as much as possible through the use of short-term courses designed to update graduates' existing skills.

In addition, high school students currently enrolled in vocational-technical programs will have an opportunity to continue their training. An estimated 40 percent of students in area high schools are enrolled in some type of vocational program, according to a state

According to a 1979 master plan published by the State Department of Education and the Office of Vocational Education, there is a need to expand post-secondary vocationaltechnical education programs in the metropolitan Atlanta area. The conclusion was based on an analysis of both population and labor demand trends.

PROJECTIONS contained in the master plan indicated that occupations requiring vocational-technical training are expected to grow more rapidly than those requiring traditional college degrees. Of the 35 occupations predicted by the Department of Labor to be the fastest growing between 1980 and 1990, about 75 percent require vocationaltechnical training.

A survey conducted by the college during the fall quarter last year emphasized the need for vocational programs in the south Atlanta area. Almost 600 of the 3,000 students who enrolled in credit programs took career-oriented courses, and over 80 percent of the students indicated an interest in learning specific skills.

Vocational-technical education programs will be integrated into the present structure and programming of the College. Over 80 percent of the students who are currently enrolled in career offerings of the College are in the health, business, and secretarial programs. These occupational areas were among those in which an increased labor demand is projected within the next ten years.

The Division of Vocational-Technical Education at Clayton Junior College will be operated and funded in accordance with an existing agreement between the Board of Regents and the State Board of Education. The College will offer graduates of its new division the Associate in Applied Sciences

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS

Fayette Grads

Clayton Junior College Names 13 Fayette County Graduates

Students from a 13county area were among the 296 graduates to receive Associate Degrees during annual Commencement exercises conducted at Clayton Junior on Saturday morning, June

Included among the graduates were 26 from Fayette County. Favetteville residents receiving degrees were: James Lloyd Baker Jr., Patricia Gail Baker, George W. Biles Jr., Wallace A. Bittner, Eva

Marie Bomba, Kathy Angela Brown, Cala Anne Coley, Catherine A. Colombo, Muriel Janet Dollar, James Mundy Drury, Dori Lynn Eagen;

Stephen Kirby Hedden, Phyllis Ann Lee, Marian Joy Lee, Terri Lynne Lyles, Kathy Cleary Maddock, Frank A. Robinson Jr., Billy W. Smith, Geraldine Bunn Spahos, Charles R. Spearman, Elaine P. Spicer, and Nicki D.

Peachtree City included: candidates and Dr. Sandra Lynn Davis, Thomas E. Dupree, George D. Hare, and Mary Lynne Kaurin. Other graduates listed were from the counties of Clayton, Fulton, Henry, DeKalb, Newton, Spalding, Forsyth, Cobb, Gwinnett, Coweta, Butts and Carroll.

Almost 900 graduates, faculty, and friends gathered outside on the College campus for the Saturday morning ceremony. Dr. Billy R. Dean of the Graduates from College, presented

Harry S. Downs, President, awarded

Truett Cathy,

president and owner of Chick-fil A, Inc., and a charter member of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, delivered Commencement address. The Rev. Cleason L. Melton, Missionary with the South Metro Baptist Association, gave the invocation and Vocational-Technical Education has been 1980.

of meeting. The approval such programs, and 1," Dr. Downs said. grams to be offered, and training programs for becomes effective July 1, we're extremely pleased "During the next year, construction that the Board of the chairman will be "The establishment of Regents and the State planning programs and Junior College, accord- vocational-technical pro- Board of Education identifying ing to Dr. Harry S. grams at Clayton Junior selected us to help meet personnel for the Downs, President of the College is a logical and the growing needs of division. We will con-The Board of Regents current offerings," Dr. The Board also existing programs into

of the University System Downs noted when authorized the College to vocational-education, of Georgia authorized announcing the approval begin search for a utilizing the establishment of the of the Board. "There is division chairman. "We facilities." substantial evidence in- hope to have a chairman Division at its May 14 dicating the need for employed by September development of new pro- specialized short-term levels.

Decisions on the vocational-technical needed made, Dr. Downs added. and industries. Pro-New programs will be grams for the up-grading designed to add to the and-or re-training of sider transferring some offerings of the College's employees will be deexisting one-year and signed in cooperation existing programs.

Faculty within the new division will provided higher or more efficient of current and potential employees of both new facilities have not been and existing businesses community to help employees perform at

In addition, high school students currently have an opportunity to An estimated 40 percent schools are enrolled in some type of vocational program designed to help them become more proficient and highly-

BISHOP served as principal at Russell High School in south Fulton County and as an instructor at Georgia

Military Academy before being named Assistant

Chief of Construction for Fulton County. Later, he served as director of the Division of Traffic and Safety for the State

Highway Department and was formerly vice president and co-owner of

Tri-State Tractor Company, Inc.

board of South Fulton

Hospital and Fidelity

Federal Savings and Loan

Association, Bishop is a past foreman of the Fulton

County Grand Jury and past president of the South

Fulton Chamber of Commerce. He was a charter member of the MARTA

Board and served from January, 1966, until December, 1974, and is a former member of the West

End Golf Club, the Atlanta

Athletic Club, the Capitol

City Club, and the Lakeside

Bishop is a Trustee

Emeritus at Oglethorpe

University and Elder

Emeritus with the College

Park Presbyterian Church.

and his wife Phoebe have two children: Mitchell C.

Bishop, Jr., who is a partner

Married in 1926, Bishop

Country Club.

A former director on the

Another feature of the new division should help vided for applicants of new industries to help them qualify for newlycreated positions.

According to a 1979 master plan published by the State Department of Education and the Office of Vocational Education, there is a need to expand post secondary vocationaltechnical education programs in the metropolitan Atlanta area. The conclusion was based on an analysis of both population and labor demand trends.

Projections contained in the master plan indicated that occuparequiring tions vocational - technical training are expected to grow more rapidly than those requiring traditional college degrees. Of the 35 occupations predicted by the Department of Labor to be the fastest growing between 1980 and 1990, about 75 percent require vocational-technical training. A survey conducted by the College during the Fall Quarter last year emphasized the need for vocational programs in the south Atlanta area. Almost 600 of the 3,000 students who enrolled in credit programs took career-oriented courses, and over 80 percent of the students indicated an interest in learning specific skills. Vocational-technical education programs will be integrated into the present structure and College. Over 80 percent of the students who are currently enrolled in career offerings of the College are in the health. programs. occupational areas were among those in which an increased labor demand is projected within the next ten years. The Division of Vocational-Technical Education at Clayton Junior College will be operated and funded in accordance with an existing agreement between the Board of Regents and the State Board of Education.

The College will offer graduates of its new division the Associate in Applied Sciences degree.

CJC Announces Mitchell C.Bishop Scholarship

CIC TRUST FUND APPROVED-Mitchell C. Bishop, center, gives his smiling approval of a new trust fund established at Clayton Junior College. At left is Dr. Kirk L. Smick, president of the Atlanta Airport Rotary Club which sponsored the Mitchell C. Bishop Scholarship Fund. Dr. Harry S. Downs, right, president of Clayton Junior College, announced the approval of the establishment of the trust fund.

A new trust fund, established to provide financial assistance for deserving benefactor of the generous students to attend Clayton and thoughtful acts of the Junior College, has been approved, according to Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the two-year institution.

The Mitchell C. Bishop Scholarship Fund, established through a $1,000 contribution made by the Board of Directors of the Atlanta Airport Rotary Club, Inc., honors one of the club's most distringuished members. Bishop is a past president and a Paul Harris Fellow with the club.

Financial assistance to be provided by the trust fund will be available to deserving students in the form of scholarships, grants, awards, loans, and/or other appropriate stipends as determined by the college. Further contributions may be made to the fund, but only the interest income may be used to support the scholarship fund.

MEMBERS of the Atlanta Airport Rotary Club entered into the trust agreement with the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia on behalf Clayton Junior College. Approval of the agreement was made at the April meeting of the Board of Regents and announced at a recent meeting of the Rotary Atlanta Airport Rotary Club," Dr. Downs said. "It is a great pleasure for me to announce the establishment of this trust fund. We are extremely proud to have the name of Mitchell C. Bishop formally associated with Clayton Junior College, and I pray that the inspiration of this great and wonderful man will permeate all of us and our successors." The Rotary Club, inspired

"Clayton Junior College is indeed fortunate to be the

by Bishop, has sponsored an annual scholarship program at Clayton Junior College since 1972. The oldest continuing scholarship program at the College, the Club's annual $600 contribution has been matched each year by Bishop. Including this year's recipients, 45 students have received more than $10,000 in awards.

Born on September 29, 1903, in Acton, North Carolina, Bishop graduated from high school in Ashville and attended the University of North Carolina. He received a bachelors degree from Oglethorpe University and entered post graduate programs at the University of Georgia and at Mercer University. He received a

Airport Rotary Establishes New Trust Fund for CJC

tablished to provide financial assistance for deserving Scholarship Fund, esstudents to attend Clayton Junior College, has been ap- contribution made by the proved, according to Dr. Board of Directors of the Harry S. Downs, president Atlanta Airport Rotary

A new trust fund, es- of the two-year institution. Club, Inc., honors one of the announce the establishment The Mitchell C. Bishop club's most distinguished of this trust fund. We are tablished through a $1,000

Financial assistance to be provided by the trust fund ing students in the form of and our successors." scholarships, grants, awards, loans, and/or other appropriate stipends as determined by the college. Further contributions may be made to the fund, but only the interest income may be used to support the Scholarship Fund.

MEMBERS of the Atlanta Airport Rotary Club entered into the trust agreement with the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia on behalf of Clayton Junior. Approval of the agreement was made at the April meeting of the Oglethorpe University and Board of Regents and announced at a recent meeting of the Rotary Club.

"Clayton Junior College is indeed fortunate to be the Certificate in Traffic benefactor of the generous Engineering from the and thoughtful acts of the University of Tennessee. Atlanta Airport Rotary Bishop served as principal Club," Dr. Downs said. "It at Russell High School in is a great pleasure for me to south Fulton County and as members. Bishop is a past extremely proud to have the president and Paul Harris name of Mitchell C. Bishop Fellow with the Airport formally associated with Clayton Junior College, and I pray that the inspiration of this great and wonderful will be available to deserv- man will permeate all of us

The Rotary Club has sponsored an annual scholarship program at the college, the club's annual $600 contribution has been matched each year by INCLUDING this year's recipients, 45 students have received slightly over $10,0-00 in awards.

Born September 29, 1903, in Acton, North Carolina Bishop was graduated from high school in Ashville and attended the University of North Carolina. He received entered post graduate programs at the University of Georgia and at Mercer University. He received a (center), gives his smiling approval of a new trust fund established at Clayton Junior College. At left is dent of Clayton Junior College, announced the ap-Dr. Kirk L. Smick, president of the Atlanta Airport proval of the establishment of the trust fund.

Military Academy before being named Assistant Chief of Construction for on the board of South Fulton County.

Later, he served as direc- Fidelity Federal Savings tor of the division of traffic and Loan Association, and safety for the Georgia Bishop is a past foremen of Highway Department and the Fulton County Grand currently is a retired vice Jury and past president of president and co-owner of the South Fulton Chamber an instructor at Georgia Tri-State Tractor Company.

A FORMER director Fulton Hospital and Country Club. Bishop is a trustee grade counselor in Mid-dletown. Ohio.

TRUST FUND APPROVED-Mitchell C. Bishop Rotary Club which sponsored the Mitchell C. Bishop Scholarship Fund. Dr. Harry S. Downs (right), presi> of Commerce. He was a Emeritus at Oglethorpe charter member of the University and Elder MARTA Board and served from January, 1966, until Park Presbyterian Church. Married in 1926, Bishop December, 1972, and is a former member of the West and his wife Phoebe, have two End Golf Club, the Atlanta

> Athletic Club, the Capitol
> City Club, and the Lakeside
> Country Club Ann Bishop Beck, a ninth

Road near Clayton Junior College, as the downpour flooded a 50 foot section of the road. Pictured is a Clayton County public works truck carefully making its way across the new Heavy rains Monday evening forced the closing of Harper "lake". Several flash flood warnings were necessary as motorists had trouble with driving rain and water overflowing bridges and highways.

CJC Graduates 296; 183 from Clayton among the 296 graduates to receive Associate Degrees during annual commencement exercises at Clayton Junior College.

Included among the graduates were 183 from William O. Brogden, Lake Clayton County—36 from Riverdale, 35 each from College Park and Jonesboro, 28 from Forest Park, 26 from Morrow, seven from Ellenwood, six from Rex, five from Lake City, four from Conley and one from Moun-

Other graduates listed were from the counties of Fulton, Henry, Fayette, DeKalb, Newton, Spalding, Forsyth, Cobb, Gwinnett, Coweta, Butts and Carroll. Almost 900 graduates, faculty, and friends gathered outside on the College campus for the Saturday morning ceremony. Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College, presented candidates and Dr. Harry S.

Downs, president, awarded S. Truett Cathy, president and owner of Chick-fil-A, inc., and a charter member of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, delivered the commencement address. The Rev. Cleason L. Melton, missionary with the South Metro Baptist Association, gave the invocation and benediction. The complete list of local graduates follows:

Paul C. Aaron, Morrow; Phillip W. Adcock, College Park; Maria Aspinwall, Ellenwood; James E. Ayers, Riverdale; Genevieve N. Bailey, College Park; Debra A. Bannister, Forest Park; Conley; Kathleen Baugher, Jonesboro; Terry L. Bearden, Lake City; James C. Bell, Jonesboro; Paulette Benson, College Park; Marilyn Bertschin, Forest Park; Elizabeth Best, College Park; Deborah E. Betsill, College Park; Maria V. Bobo, Jonesboro

Frederick P. Bogel, Forest Park; David E. Bolton, Forest Park; Elizabeth A. Park; Kaye R. Hambrick, Bomford, Jonesboro; Arlene Jonesboro; Julia A.

F. Bowen, Forest Park; D. Hanes, Morrow; Sherry Charles E. Bowen, Forest J. Harrison, Riverdale; Park; Ann C. Brannen, Jonesboro; Denver A. Bridwell, Riverdale; B. Denese Britt, Forest Park;

Theresa E. Broe, Riverdale; City; Harold N. Brooks, Jr., College Park; Sarah P. Brown, College Park; Angela J. Bruce, Riverdale; Stephan R. Bryant, Riverdale; Mary H. Cantrell, College Park: Sharon G. Cantrell, Jonesboro; Charles

Riverdale; Herbert H. Carson, Morrow; Bill E. Carty, College Park; Rebecca L. Carty, College Park; Pamela S. Chambers, Rex; Ho Young Chung, College Park; Randy E. Cobb, Forest Park; Roxanne M. Cole, Ellenwood; Kenneth B. Collins, River-

Deborah Carmicheal, Morrow; Cynthia J. Carrin,

Charles W. Cooper, III, College Park; Patti G. Cramer, Rex; Tony D. Crews, Sr., Jonesboro; Marsha H. Crown, Jonesboro; Ronald K. Dameron, Jonesboro; Kelli R. Daniel, Riverdale; Roxie D. Daniel, College Park; Claudia A. Davis, Morrow;

Melanie D. Day Jonesboro; Gary R. Derrick, Forest Park; Margaret C. DeWeese, Lake City; Ronda D. Doster, Jonesboro; James Duke, Jr., Jonesboro; Gwyneth A. Duncan, Forest Park; Linda A. Durnwald,

Catherine A. Earnest, Morrow; Samuel A. Edwards, Morrow; Kendall C. Elliott, Jonesboro; Charles D. English, Riverdale; Richard J. Fallaw, Jonesboro;

Danny K. Floyd, Morrow; Lydia L. Frey, College Park; Karen L. Fuss, College Park; Lisa J. Garrison, Jonesboro; Janice M. Gazafy, Forest Park; Melanie C. Gilbert, Morrow; Ralph E. Gilmore, Riverdale; Denise S. Green, Morrow;

Teresa R. Greer, Conley; R. Terry Hadaway, Forest Robert E. Hendren, Jr.,

Jonesboro; Martha F. Henley, Jonesboro; Sheryl A. Hewell, Lake City; Katherine A. Hodges, College Park; Monica M. Holloway, Riverdale;

Shirley M. Holton, Jonesboro; Janice O. Honkanen, Jonesboro; William W. Hughes, Jonesboro; Danny E. Isenhour, Ellenwood; Ruth P. Jackson, College Park; Carolyn B. M. Carley, Riverdale; Johnson, College Park; Deborah Carmicheal, Mor-Richard F. Johnston,

Riverdale; Patricia J. Jones, Forest Park; Mark S. Kale, Morrow; Patrick J. Karol, College Park; Kenneth E. Keller, Riverdale; Michael W. King, Conley; Ramona J. Knight, Jonesboro; Mary M. Krakeel, Jonesboro; Melody S. Kreimann, Mountain View; Janice D. Lancaster, Riverdale; Jeri Landers, Ellenwood; Dan H. Lites, Paula A. Mackin, Morrow; Pamela L. Madonna, Riverdale; Douglas E.

Martin, Jonesboro; Vicki L. Mathis, Forest Park; Gail A. Maxwell, College Park; Karen L. Mayberry, Forest

Wayne H. McBride, Jonesboro; Jeffrey L. Mc-Cord, Morrow; Cathy L. McCully, Forest Park; Donald R. McDaniel, Morrow; Darrell G. McKinnon, Forest Park; Daniel B. Mc-Millan, Jonesboro; Barbara L. McPherson, Jonesboro;

Thomas M. Miller. Jonesboro; Janice T. Minnix, Conley; Donna L. Moore, Riverdale; James L Moore Riverdale; Elina M. Morales, Morrow; Jene R. Morris, Morrow; Robert B. Morris, Riverdale; Linda L. Morris, College Park; Judith P. Morrow, College Park; Sherry L. Mullins, S. Sparrow, Riverdale; Rex; Lisa J. Munson, River-William R. Spicer,

Joy L. Naylor, Jonesboro;

Marcelene Y. Parker, Mahne, College Park; G. Patterson, Forest Park; College Park; Diana E.

NEWS/DAILY

lips, Forest Park; Nezlee B. Pillow, Riverdale; Susan H. Pitman, Ellenwood; Kenneth R. Prock, Ellenwood; Joe F. Pruett, II, College Park; Deborah A. Pryor, Forest Park; Darrell A. Forest Park:

William R. Spicer, Col-

Floyd P. Neupert, Jr., Morrow; Anne G. Stewart, Riverdale; Edna H. Nix, Jonesboro; Deborah J.

Forest Park; Deborah D. William T. Sullivan, Col-Patrick, Riverdale; Steven lege Park; Carole E. Tanner,

Riverdale; Rebecca A. Quinn, Forest Park; Mary L. Ray, Riverdale; Lisa L. Redding, College Park; Daniel G. Rees, Reid, College Park; Pamela J. Richardson, College Park; William J. Roche, Jr.,

Dana L. Sammons, Riverdale; Linda W. Sargent, Rex; Michelle A. Schuder, College Park; Cecily A. Shull, Riverdale; Allen W. Sims, Riverdale; Bettie J. Snow, Forest Park; Donna

lege Park; Peggy J. Spratlin, Forest Park; Cynthia Stein, Morrow; Arthur L. Oglesby, Stone, Forest Park; Rex; Brian M. Osborne, Katherine M. Stotz, Forest

Vickie L. Mahurin, College Martha E. Perry, Riverdale; Toro, Morrow; Karen B. Morrow; Dianne W. War-Park; Paul L. Marchbanks, Mark F. Petro, Morrow; Trammell, Jonesboro; ren, Jonesboro; Kim S.

GRADUATE-Marie Aspinwall of Ellenwood receives her degree from Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of Clayton Junior College, during graduation ceremonies on June 7. Dr. Billy R. Nail (left), dean of the college, presented graduates; Ms. Annette B. Satterfield (second from left), director of admissions and registrar, assisted during the ceremony; and Dr. Avary Harvill (right), professor of physical education, served as grand marshall at the ceremony.

Merry L. Strickland, Rex; Charles E. Truss, College Washuta, Forest Park; Britton N. West, College William T. Sullivan, Col-Park; Gail Voyles, Morrow; Linda C. Watson, Lake Park; Cynthia A. Willy, Herbert C. Walker, III, Joneboro; Susan E. Walton, Riverdale;

Reid C. Webb, Riverdale; Yasinski, Jonesboro.

City; Judith P. Wayda, Morrow; Donna L. Windon, Morrow; Rose L. Wood, Morrow; and Kenneth M.

Clayton J.C. Graduates Listed From South Fulton

Students from a 13- The list of Southside county area were among the graduates follows: 296 graduates to receive Associate Degrees during annual Commencement exercises conducted at Clayton Junior College on Saturday
Marci C. Barber, Jr., Fayetteville;
Marci C. Barber, East Point; morning June 7

Included among the graduates were 79 from the south Fulton County area— 35 from College Park, 18 from Atlanta, 13 from East Denver A. Bridwell, Riverdale; Point seven from Fairburn Theresa E. Broe, Riverdale; Harold Point, seven from Fairburn, four from Hapeville, and two from Palmetto.

Other graduates listed were from the counties of Clayton, Henry, Fayette, DeKalb, Newton, Spalding, Forsyth, Cobb, Gwinnett, Coweta, Butts, and Carroll. Almost 900 graduates, faculty, and friends gathered outside on the College campus for the Saturday morning ceremony. Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College, presented candidates and Dr. Harry S.

S. Truett Cathy, president and owner of Chick-fil-A, Inc., and a charter member of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, delivered the Commence- rett, Atlanta; Carrie T. Dyer. ment address. The Rev. Cleason L. Melton, Missionary with the South Metro Baptist Association. gave the invocation and

Downs, President, awarded

Paulette S. Benson, College Park Elizabeth Best, College Park; Deborah E. Betsill, College Park;

George W. Biles, Jr., Fayetteville; Wallace A. Bittner. Favetteville; Eva M. Bomba, Fayetteville; N. Brooks, Jr., College Park; Sarah . Brown, College Park; Kathy A. Brown, Fayetteville; Angela J. Bruce, Riverdale; Stephan R. Bryant, Riverdale; Brenda L. Burson, Atlanta, Sylvia

Genevieve N Bailey College Park

James L. Baker, Jr., Fayetteville;

Butler, Atlanta; Carla P. Caldwell, East Point: Mary H. Cantrell. College Park; Thomas D. Carey, Hapeville; Charles M. Carley, Riverdale: Cynthia J. Carrin, River-Bill E. Carty, College Park; Rebecca L. Carty, College Park; Judy E. Cash, Atlanta; Ho Young

Chung, College Park: Caia A. Colev. Fayetteville; Kenneth B. Collins, Riverdale; Catherine A. Colombo Fayetteville; Charles W. Cooper, III, College Park; Carol M. Couch, Fairburn; Kelli R. Daniel, Riverdale; Roxie D.

Daniel, College Park; Sandra L. Davis, Peachtree City; David B. Dean, Palmetto; Muriel J. Dollar, Fayetteville; James M. Drury, Fayetteville; Thomas E. Dupree, Peachtree City; Linda A. Durnwald, Riverdale; W. John Dur-

Dori L. Eagen, Fayetteville; Margaret Egger, East Point; Charles D. English, Riverdale; Debra S. Fisk, Atlanta; Lydia L. Frey, College Park; Karen L. Fuss, College Park; Ralph E. Gilmore, Riverdale: Kathleen E. Grav, East Point; George P. Green, Fairburn; Marsha H. Grimes, Fairburn; Ginger C. Hammond, Atlanta; Julia Handley, Riverdale; George D. Hare, Peachtree City; Sherry J. Harrison, Riverdale; Dondra D.

Stephen K. Hedden, Fayetteville; Katherine A. Hodges, College Park; Monica M. Holloway, Riverdale; James A Howard Atlanta Esther F. Hurst, Atlanta; Ruth P. Jackson, College Park; Naila Jamal, Atlanta; Gary W. Jenkins, Atlanta; Carolyn B. Johnson, College Park; Richard F. Johnston, Riverdale; Rachel E. Jones, Palmetto; Patrick J. Karol, College Park; Mary L Kaurin, Peachtree City; Kenneth E.

Melody S. Kreimann, Mountain liew; Janice D. Lancaster, Riverdale; Phyllis A. Lee, Fayetteville; Marian J. Lee, Fayetteville; Celia E. Lett, East Point; Dan H. Lites, Riverdale; Terri L. Lyles, Favetteville:

Julia O. Mack, Atlanta; Kathy C. Maddock, Fayetteville; Pamela L. Madonna, Riverdale; Douglas E. Mahurin, College Park; Paul L. Marchbanks, College Park; Gail A. Mayes, East Point: Jan R. Mayfield.

Boyd A. McBurnett, Fairburn; Debra L. McKinney, East Point; Tracey L. McLendon, Fairburn; James H. Melear, Jr., Fairburn Donna L. Moore, Riverdale; James L.Moore, Riverdale; Robert B. Morris, Riverdale; Linda L. Morris, Col

BISHOP, C, GIVES SMILING APPROVAL TO NEW CJC TRUST FUND Looking On Are Dr. Kirk L. Smick, L, Rotary Club President; Dr. Downs

Rotary Club Honors Bishop With CJC Trust Fund

established to provide financial assistance for deserving students to attend Clayton Junior College, has been approved, according to Dr. Harry S. Downs, will be available to deserpresident of the two-year institution.

Scholarship Fund, estabilshed through a $1,000

> lege Park; Judith P. Morrow, College Park; Lisa J. Munson, Riverdale; Neupert, Jr., Riverdale; Patrick C Norton, Hapeville; Gale A Oliphant, Atlanta; Deborah D. Patrick, Riverdale; Martha E. Perry, Riverdale; Joe F Pruett, II, College Park; Deborah A Mary L. Ray, Riverdale; Lisa L. Redding, College Park; Darrell A Reid, College Park; Pamela J Richardson, College Park; Cecilia Ridenhour, Atlanta; Frank A Robinson, Jr., Fayetteville; Karen G. Sadler, Atlanta: Dans . Sammons, Riverdale; Michelle A. Schuder, College Park; Cecily A Shull, Riverdale; Allen W. Sims Riverdale; Billy W. Smith, Fayetteville; Geraldine B. Spahos, Fayet teville; Donna S. Sparrow, River Charles R. Spearman, Favettevile; Elaine P. Spicer, Fayetteville; William R. Spicer, College Park, James H. Stephens, East Point, Kathy L. Stewart, East Point; William T. Sullivan, College Park; Carole E. Tanner, College Park; Charles E. Truss, College Park; Nicki D. Turbeville, Fayetteville; Lonnie M. Turner, Fairburn; Priscilla E. Vandecar, Atlanta; Mark E. Walker, East Point; Judith P. Wayda, Riverdale; Reid C. Webb, Riverdale; Beverly

West, College Park; Mark A. Williams, East Point; Phyllis Vinchester, Atlanta; and Stephanie

K. Worrell, Atlanta.

A new trust fund, most distinguished members. Bishop is a past president and Paul Harris Fellow with the Airport Club. Financial assistance to be provided by the trust fund ving students in the form of scholarships, grants, The Mitchell C. Bishop awards, loans, and-or other appropriate stipends as determined by the College. contribution made by the Further contributions may Board of Directors of the be made to the fund, but only

Members of the Atlanta into the trust agreement with the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia on behalf of Clayton Junior College. Approval of the agreement was made at the April meeting of the Board of Regents and announced at a recent and thoughtful acts of the annual scholarship program University of North being named Assistant Chief Atlanta Airport Rotary at Clayton Junior College Airport Rotary Club entered Club," Dr. Downs said. "It is since 1972. The oldest a great pleasure for me to continuing scholarship Oglethorpe University and director of the Division of announce the establishment program at the College, the of this trust fund. We are Club's annual $600 extremely proud to have the contribution has been name of Mitchell C. Bishop matched each year by formally associated with Bishop. Including this year's Certificate in Traffic of Tri-State Tractor Clayton Junior College, and I recipients, 45 students have Emgineering from the Company. pray that the inspiration of received slightly over $10,000 this great and wonderful in awards.

"Clayton Junior College is and our successors."

meeting of the Rotary Club. man will permeate all of us Born on September 29, 1903, in Acton, N.C., Bishop Atlanta Airport Rotary Club, the interest income may be indeed fortunate to be the The Rotary Club, inspired graduated from high school Inc., honors one of the club's used to support the benefactor of the generous by Bishop, has sponsored an in Ashville and attended the Military Academy before

Carolina. He received a of Construction for Fuiton entered post graduate Traffic and Safety for the programs at the University State Highway Department of Georgia and at Mercer and currently is a retired University. He received a vice president and co-owner

University of Tennessee. at Russell High School in University and Elder south Fulton County and as Emeritus with the College an instructor at Georgia Park Presbyterian Church.

bachelors degree from County. Later, he served as Bishop is a Trustee Bishop served as principal Emeritus at Oglethorpe

FACULTY AND STAFF

WINNERS-Barbara Fuller, Kimberly Emert, David Beckwith and Lee Ann Emert were among those attending the recent convention of Georgia chapters of the Children of the Confederacy held in Macon. Mrs. Fuller, advisor to the chapter, said the chapter received four major awards at the conventionincluding recognition for having the youngest member in the state. That honor, of course, goes to Miss Lee Ann Emert, at right.

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN June 28, 1979

Clayton Junior Staff Honored

Twenty-five members of the faculty and staff who have completed either five or ten years of service at Clayton Junior College were honored by the Board of Trustees of the CJC Foundation recently.

Ten of the honorees have been with the college ten years or more, and fifteen have been employed at the Morrow institution for at least five years.

Harmon M. Born, chairman of the Board of members Claude H. Whaley and Thomas B. Clonts, presented certificates to all 25 members of the faculty and staff who reached one of the two milestones during the past year.

Clayton Junior College.

Jonesboro Road, Coco's at Southlake, or the New Moon Chinese Restaurant in Jonesboro Ten-year award winners were: Jerry H. Atkins, direchonored during the program tor of Public Information; included: Frances F. Bowen, Dr. Judy C. Brown, head of tificates, each honoree

at one of three area

Family Steak House on received a "dinner for two"

In addition to the cer- and Mathematics; Thomas restaurants: The Sizzler of Mathematics; Dr. Brooke

H. Mullenix, director of

Plant Operations; Fredric

R. Placy, assistant professor

M. Pridmore, assistant professor of Physics; and J.

Granger Ricks, assistant

Studies; Sherry L. Brown,

Comptroller's Office: Dr.

Patrick R. Collins, assistant professor of English: E.

Donald Crapps, counselor in Studies; John E. Feathers,

chairman of the Division of Business; Dr. William F.

Fisher, associate professor of Chemistry; Christopher M

tor of Art; and Dr. Thomas

H. Tidrick, instructor of

tance of a quality faculty and staff in the provision of a strong academic atmosphere, members of the Board of Trustees have provided special awards for this group since receiving its charter in September of sponsors a student awards program which recognizes and rewards outstanding students of the two-year institution, and supports a scholarship program for outstanding area students.

More than 50 top students will attend Clayton Junior College on Foundation

Joining Born, Whaley,

and Clonts as members of the Board of Trustees are G.

Robert Oliver of Morrow;

Charles S. Conklin of Jonesboro; Dr. Harry S.

Downs of Morrow; S. Truett

Cathy of Hampton; Dr.

Ernest A. Dunbar Jr. of

Morrow; W. Cameron

Mitchell of Hampton; and

James M. Wood Jr. of

Founded as a non-profit corporation dedicated to assisting Clayton Junior College in its "pursuit of excellence," all programs

sponsored by the Board of Trustees are totally funded by contributions, and all contributions are tax deduc-

Forest Park.

scholarships this fall.

highly-successful

The Foundation also

Recognizing the impor-

Business Administration.

Five-year award winners

professor of History.

assistant professor of the Department of Special Business Education; Dr. Leonard R. Daniel, director budget analyst in the James C. Doig, professor of Philosophy; Dr. Harry S. Downs, president; Mrs. Dianne D. Jordan, secretary the Department of Special to the president: Dr. Oscar C. Lam III, chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences Student Completes Her Internship

Gowing, housekeeping supervisor; John H. Kohler, Donna Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Phillips, Elliott W. McElroy, has completed her public relations internship program at chairman of the Division of Humanities; Larry T. Completing her final quarter of study with Georgia Moore, maintenance Southern College of Statesboro, Miss Phillips served her mechanic; Richard E. internship during the Summer Quarter in the Office of Moore, assistant to the Public Information at the two-year institution near Morrow. Dean of the College;

During her internship program, Miss Phillips has Patricia A. Noble, instrucprepared news releases, worked with radio and television tor of Dental Hygiene; Viproductions, and handled other duties in the public relations vian A. Thompson, instruc-

Counselors 8/30/79 Chosen at CJC

been named to fill vacancies Gainesville, Ga., before gowithin the office of counsel- ing to Pfeiffer College. ing and testing at Clayton Junior College, according to as president of the Southern Robert C. Bolander, Dean of College Personnel Association of a number of tests. has one grandchild. Dr. Jones, who served as dean of student development and associate professor of Psychology at Pfiffer College in Misenheimer, North Carolina, for the past degrees from the University six years, currently serves as of Delaware. In her unpresident of the Southern dergraduate studies, she College Personnel Associa- majored in art history and

Students. ing with students in a Schools variety of counseling areas,

A NATIVE of Norfolk, bachelor's degree in counseling and student perchemistry from Martha sonnel last year, she served Washington College and her as a graduate admasters degree in religious ministrative assistant in the education from Emory office of student services for University. Then, after serv- teacher education at the ing as a college lecturer for University of Delaware. 11 years, she enrolled at Boston University and obtained a Doctor of Theology degree in religious education

After obtaining her docstudents and assistant professor of Psychology at

Two new counselors have Brenau College in

In addition to her duties tion, Dr. Jones is involved as Dr. Jean M. Jones has a member of the National been named director and Association of Women Betsy V. Shackelford has Deans, the American Colbeen assigned as a counselor lege Personnel Association, in the center, which is in the and serves on evaluation office of the dean of stu- teams for the Southern Asdents. The two will be work- sociation of Colleges and

A Methodist, she is the and through the administra- mother of four children and

> MS. SHACKELFORD, a native of New Brunswick. New Jersey, received both her bachelor's and master's earned a minor in psychology and philosophy. While obtaining her Va, Dr. Jones earned her master's degree in college

Ms. Shackelford is a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association, the American College Personnel Association, torate, she served as dean of and the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators.

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN 7/12/79 CJC Professor Attends National Conference

Education at Clayton Junior College, returned from Washington, D.C., recently where he attended an annual conference for officers of state and district affiliates of the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

Dr. Harvill is president elect of the Georgia Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

"The Alliance works through state organizations to improve learning opportunities in schools and colleges, and to provide physical activity and recreation for all ages," Dr. Harvill said.

"Most communities see the importance of strengthening programs in sports, physical education and health," he added, 'helping to establish a strong base for lifetime physical activity and health."

The four-day workshop included small group meetings in which participants planned state programs. General topics included public affairs, communications, student involvement and National Alliance programs that are available to serve state groups.

The 50,000 member

Alliance and its affiliated

Dr. Avery Harvill, state associations are professor of Physical voluntary professional organizations. include health and physical educators, coaches and athletic directors, and personnel in safety, recreation, leisure services

SPECIAL DEGREE-Mrs. Jeannine R. Morrison, assistant professor of music at Clayton Junior College, shows her Licentiate Diploma from the Royal Academy of Music, London, England, to Dr. Billy R. Nail, dean of the college.

Morrison Receives Diploma From England's Royal Academy

Morrison of Decatur, assis-

faculty since September, 1972, Mrs. Morrison prepared for almost a year before taking a series of three examinations April 9 and 10 this year. Her degree, a highly-sought British award, was dated April 12.

IN BRITAIN, the Licentiate degree indicates that the bearer has received a formal attestation of professional competence or has performed with a certain degree of proficiency in some art from a collegiate or examining body. Included among the three examinations completed by Mrs. Morrison was a one-hour

tion, this twelfth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and seventy-nine.

MRS. MORRISON earned the bachelor of music degree from Rollins arts from Columbia University Teachers College in New York City. She studied piano in New York with the eminent pianist and teacher, Dr. Edwin Hughes, for the last 13 years of his

Mrs. Morrison has given

Mrs. Jeannine R. piano recital. debut recitals in New York's Town Hall, the National Academy, incorporated by Royal Charter in 1830, Washington, D.C., Eaton been awarded a Licentiate Diploma from the Royal Academy of Music in London, England.

A native of Atlanta and a member of the CJC music faculty since September

Royal Charter in 1830, reads: "These are to certify that Jeannine R. Morrison, having satisfied the Examiners as a Pianoforte Performer, was elected by the Directors a Licentiate of this faculty since September."

Royal Charter in 1830, Washington, D.C., Eaton Auditorium in Toronto, Ontario, and has appeared as soloist with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, the Florida Symphony, and local, state, and national music organizations, she has served as accompanist for rehearsals of the Atlanta Symphony Chorus and the Atlanta Chamber Chorus, under the direction of Robert Shaw. She has had several articles published College in Winter Park, several articles published Florida, and the master of concerning the various aspects of piano playing and teaching, and is in demand as an adjudicator for music competitions.

She is married to Don Morrison, also a pianist, and they make their home with their three children in

Robert H. Welborn

Talmadge's Watergate

The Talmadge hearings before the Senate ethics committee produced several surprising developments last week. As the committee's chief counsel, Carl Eardley, finished presenting his evidence (21 days worth of testimony), the senior senator from Georgia surprised everyone by announcing that he would not testify under oath in his own reservations were and then attempted to gain some small concession from the Russian to remove or at least lessen such doubts. Since the Senate must ratify by a two-thirds majority any treaty a President negotiates, one would assume that it would be a matter of simple prudence to seek, at least symbolically, the input of senior

Senators. Not to do so is to endanger the ratification of a crucial treaty, and in the nature of the job and the process of getting elected. Carter promised a new era of presidential politics during his campaign. His would be a presidency not only responsible to the people, but also sensitive to their problems and desires. He promised a new era of political leadership with

Not only did he promise all of this,

but the American public today apparently expects presidential candidates to make such promises.

Such faith in a president may be inflation and looming recession, the Many, in fact most, of the problems facing us today are not solvable by the President. But Carter's actions seem calculated to blunt what little positive effect could be obtained from presidential initiatives. He is not a bad president, just an inept one, but the political effect of both qualities is a loss of confidenc in presidential (Robert H. Welborn is assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a weekly columnist for the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not represent those of the college).

leadership.

is thus by definition inept.

new personalities.

Part of the problem, of co

his case without calling any witnesses in his own behalf. This presented his fellow senators on the ethics panel with a difficult defense, and that he intended to rest

problem. How could they truly say they had investigated the charges against Talmadge if they allowed him to get off without facing questioning? But due to senatorial reluctance to act harshly toward another member of that privileged body, how could they force him to testify except by subpoena? And a subpoena, although certainly within the power of the committee, has the taint of coercion about it with its threat of contempt of Congress proceedings if not obeyed.

As it turned out, the committee chairman, Senator Adlai Stevenson, III, was able to come up with a surprise of his own, a formal written invitation for Talmadge to appear under oath. It was not a subpoena, but it certainly contained the threat that one would follow if Talmadge still persisted in his refusal to testify.

Faced with such a choice, Senator Talmadge reluctantly gave in and announced that he had decided to testify and produce witnesses in his own behalf.

There's a great deal of irony in this situation due to the fact that in 1973 Talmadge was a rather important member of the famed Senate Watergate committee, which by its persistence was able to uncover many the misdeeds of the Nixon administration. No doubt it is unusual and uncomfortable to be on the other side of the investigative process.

But there are a number of points about these proceedings that deserve further comment. First, Talmadge has referred to the matters under investigation as being of little significance and, in several cases, mainly matters of his personal and family life. I would submit that charges of filing $50,000 in false Senate expense claims and the conversion of thousands of dollars of naive, but we demand such pledges as campaign contributions to personal the price of victory. Of course, even in use are hardly trifling matters. These the best of times, a president's are serious charges that need to be performance could never match his fully investigated if the public's rhetoric, but in our present period of already low level of confidence in its elected representatives is not to be gap between promises and further eroded. performance has becomne enormous.

Then there's the matter of Talmadge's refusal to testify unless forced to do so. His reasons for not appearing under oath before the committee smacked of the arrogance and narrow legalism resorted to by Nixon's defenders during the Watergate investigation. He contended that he did not need to appear because the committee had failed to prove its case and that "in any court...this case would have been dismissed." But, it's not a case, it's an investigation, and it's not a court, it's a committee of fellow senators.

In any court case a defendant need not testify to prove his innocence, but Talmadge has not yet been indicted for anything. Senators cannot simply be assumed innocent when serious charges are made concerning the possible misuse of public funds. We should expect an innocent representative to do everything possible to clear his name and reputation, not simply contend that no defense is necessary since not enough evidence has been produced to secure a criminal indictment. We don't need technically legal politicians, we need honest ones.

Robert H. Welborn is assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a weekly columnist for the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not represent those of the college).

Speaker

MARION, AL-Two years Cafter Dr. Hardy Jackson, chairman of the Social Sciences Department at Clayton Junior College in Morrow, graduated from Marion Military Institute, the school began an annual banquet for its top students. Last week, the young historian was guest speaker at Scholars' Supper. Dr. and Mrs. Jackson live in Jonesboro at 2917 Wood Hollow Lane.

Robert H. Welborn

One term president

Inept is defined in Webster's as anything not suitable to a specific purpose, unfit, foolish, awkward, or clumsy. It is an adjective that can be applied with particular accuracy to the Carter administration today. I say this not as a steadfast critic of the President, for I voted for him in 1976 and continue to hope for better days, but as a political realist.

Just this past week the President announced that on Thursday he would make a major address to the nation outlining important new policy changes with regard to energy. One would assume that such changes already had been researched. making such an announcement. But on Thursday the White House produces an announcement that the President will not be making an adenergy policy was still unsettled. Such an action leads to disappointment, frustration and a feeling akin to "Who's minding the store?" Such an action was inept. Not devious, or evil, or illegal, just clumsy, awkward, and foolish. And what Carter apparently doesn't appreciate is that being wellintentioned is not enough. An inept President can be just as politically unpopular as a devious and unscrupulous one.

The SALT II Treaty is another example. Carter's performance in Vienna was satisfactory enough, but important members of the Senate do have serious reservations about certain parts of the treaty. But this problem could have been handled beforehand if the President had tried dress for the final form of the new to find out what some of these

July 30, 1979 Profits tax no answer-economist

> By JOHN DUNN Editor

The best solution to the energy crisis would be for government to keep hands off and let the free enterprise system work, according to John Feathers, chairman of the Division of Business at Clayton Junior College.

Feathers' comments were made in an interview. The House is preparing a gasoline rationing bill, and the Senate is working on a proposed windfall profits tax on oil companies. "I think the solution to the energy crisis is for the government not to interfere with the operation of the free enterprise system," Feathers said. Feathers said placing a windfall profits tax on big oil will become a part of the problem rather than a solution.

"If they (oil companies) know there is a cap on the profits they can make, then how can they afford to commit substantial sums of money (for oil exploration)? Right now, they are concerned with how much of a profit the government is going to let them have.

"I'm suggesting we challenge the oil companies to solve the problem, and not threaten them with taxes which would stifle their incentive or profit motive.' "In my judgment, there is no conspiracy among the oil companies as far as withholding oil," he said. "The oil companies are not responsible for the crisis," Feathers said. "There are two sources of the problem. One is OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries)and it's not so much the fact that they've increased the price of oil as the fear and scare they've placed all over the country, and therefore caused our government or the administration to over-react. The other problem is not letting the free enterprise system operate--not allowing the oil companies to take the initiative and do it on their own."

Feathers said the government has helped create the oil crisis by price regulation and profit regulation of oil companies.

"The government has regulated the price of oil and gas to protect the individual consumer, when it should have allowed the price of oil to find its natural level, which would have been higher earlier. "If oil companies had been making the profits they should have been amking at the time, the companies would have been solvbing the problem "The question is, who owns the oil companies? We own the oil companies. Millions of people all over the country own the oil companies.' "What would President Carter's reaction have been if he had a warehouse full of peanuts and the price went up just before it came time to sell? How would he have felt if the government had taxed whatever excess profit he could have made?

"If you listen to all of the talk from Washington, you can imagine that somebody might get the idea of nationalizing our oil industry. "Let the government stay out."

Harvill Attends P.E. Conference

Dr. Avery Harvill, profes-D.C., recently where he attended an annual conference for officers of state Recreation, and Dance.

Dr. Harvill is president- physical activity and recreasor of physical education at elect of the Georgia As- tion for all ages," Dr. Harvill Clayton Junior College, sociation for Health, said. returned from Washington, Physical Education and Recreation.

and district affiliates of the through state organizations and health," he added, American Alliance for to improve learning oppor-Health, Physical Education, tunities in schools and colleges, and to provide prepared news releases, worked with radio and A 1975 GRADUATE of television productions, been tion for printed materials, groups

"Most communities see the importance of strengthening programs in THE ALLIANCE works sports, physical education,

"helping to establish a strong base for lifetime physical activity and health.' THE FOUR-DAY workshop included small group meetings in which participants planned state programs. General topics included public affairs, communications, student involvement, and National Alliance programs that are available to serve state

The 50,000 member Alliance and its affiliated state associations are voluntary professional organizations. Members include health and physical educators, coaches and athletic directors, and personnel in safety, recreation, leisure services, and dance.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN Thursday, August 16, 1979
Phillips Completes CJC Internship

Donna Phillips, daughter near Morrow. of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Phillips, of Decatur, has com-

nternship program at Decatur, she later darkroom procedures, Clayton Junior College. Completing her final Community College prior to quarter of study with transferring to Georgia and handled other duties in Georgia Southern College of Southern. She will graduate the public relations area. Statesboro, Miss Phillips with a bachelor's degree in served her internship during speech, with an emphasis in the summer quarter in the public relations.

pleted her public relations Towers High School in involved with camera and graduated from DeKalb served in graphics produc-

Pledged to Zeta Tau Alpha at Georgia Southern, she is a member of the Office of Public Information During her internship Public Relations Student at the two-year institution program, Miss Phillips has Society, of America.

Clayton program taking a new slant

By ANGEL RODRIGUEZ News Editor

An old employment program, the Comprehensive Employment Training Act CETA) of the Clayton County Community Services Authority (CSA), is taking

CSA Director Mrs. Wilma Shelnutt explained that until now CETA programs for the unemployed have always attempted to place the jobless in "public" jobs, such as within local government and community service agencies. Program coordinators have new federal funding, $200,000 for the 1979-80 fiscal year, to find jobs for the economically disadvantaged in private business. "And before, all CETA jobs were 100 percent subsidized," Mrs. Shelnutt continued. The new CETA program, called the Private Sector Initiative Program, asks private businessmen and women to hire CETA workers and meet most of the payroll costs.

Program funding comes in as a pay subsidy, helping the employer meet onthe-job training costs and giving him a tax credit for each position filled.

New to CSA and named as the program coordinator is Scott Lavendar. Lavendar reported the program is already well into the planning stages, with a 12-member Private Industry Council made up of local business representatives

Chairperson Ms. Ellen White of the Clayton Cities and Counties Credit Union heads up the advisory group, Lavendar said. Council member Otis Melton of Surburban LP Gas has been active in propelling the program to an Oct. 1, 1979 target for full implementation, the program coordinator added.

'We really want the business community to be involved in the planning and implementation of this thing," Lavendar said, "since eight out of 10 jobs are in the private sector and not the public sector.

He continued, "what we are trying to do is put economically disadvantaged people to work in the private sector where most of the jobs are. They will enter at all skill levels, but most job types we believe will be on the entry level."

The Community Services Authority is now polling 200 local businessmen to find out where the jobs are, what skill levels employers want, what beginning salaries are, what recruitment methods they use and more, Lavendar said. "We need this information so we can send them better qualified people," the program coordinator said.

Because of the funding, it is expected that between 35 and 40 people will be enrolled in the new CETA program. Applications are being taken now for the job slots to be created, Lavendar said.

There's no age restriction or any requirement for numbers of weeks out of work. "Those unemployed and in school are also eligible," Lavendar said. Applications are available at the CSA center at 667 South Avenue in Forest Park Monday through Thursday between 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Some jobs have already been found, according to Lavendar. "The businessmen I have been talking to have been very interested and responsive,"

CETA Director Roy Butts said many applications have already been processed, so by Oct. 1 we hope to have all on board." Butts is also an ex-officio member of the Private Industry Council

Others on the council are Phillip Fischer, Marvin T. Starr, Dutch Young, Jim Stewart, John White, Charles Grant (CSA deputy director), Rich Sanchez, Ron Hibbs, Burney Harmon and Ron Napty.

Husband-wife team on book

Dr. Sandra Corse, assistant professor of English and acting chairman of the Division of Special Studies at Gordon, and her husband, Dr. Larry Corse, have co-edited a book-length bibliography which will be published next year. It indexes 50 periodicals and will have about 25,000 entries. Swallow Press and Ohio State University Press will publish and distribute it. The tentative title is "British and American Lite Selected Journals, 1950-1977. "British and American Literature: An Index to

CJC Faculty Couple Has Book Accepted

The Swallow Press of The bibliography is a new Chicago has issued a con-reference tool designed to tract to a husband-wife team provide undergraduates with for the publication of their easy access to scholarly

Dr. Larry Corse, Associate addition, it will provide Professor of English and graduate students and English Coordinator at scholars with a source for a Clayton Junior College, and quick survey of periodical his wife, Dr. Sandra Corse, studies over a significant Assistant Professor of period. English and Acting Chair- The book, which indexes 50 man of the Division of literary journals and Special Studies at Gordon contains about 25,000 entries, and British Literature: An bibliographical series edited Periodicals, 1950-1977."

book-length bibliography, material useful in their studies of literature. In Junior College, combined to will be published as a part of write "Articles on American the Swallow Press Index to Selected by Dr. George Hendrick and Dr. Donna Gerstenberger.

PRIVATE INDUSTRY COUNCIL MEMBERS (L-R) MRS. SHELNUTT, LAVENDAR, SANCHEZ, MS. WHITE Hibbs, Rev. Grant, Napty, Fischer and Butts Plan For Oct. 1 Implementation Of New Program

GRIFFIN DAILY NEWS July 3, 1979

GOTOON

Dr. Williamson: 'It feels natural'

Dr. Jerry Williamson returned to Gordon

CJC prof back from conference

Dr. Avery Harvill, professor of physical education at Clayton Junior College, returned from Washington, D.C., recently where he attended an annual conference for officers of state and district affiliates of the American Alliance for Helath, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance.

Dr. Harvill is presidentelect of the Georgia Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

"The Alliance works through state organizations to improve learning opportunities in schools and colleges, and to provide physical activity and recreation for all ages," Dr. Harvill said.

"Most communities see importance of strengthening programs in sports, physical education, and health," he added, "helping to establish a strong base for lifetime physical activity and health.

The four-day workshop included small group meetings in which participants planned state programs. General topics included affairs, communications, student involvement, and National Alliance programs that are available to serve state groups.

Junior College as president yesterday and planned to get reac-

"It feels natural to be back," he said from his desk in Lambdin Hall. Of the controversy that swirled about his reassignment, Dr. Williamson commented, 'That's all behind us." "It's time to move forward," he said.

Dr. Jim Strickland who had been acting president of the fast growing institution returned to his former position as dean of students.

Dr. Williamson said he had become weary of commuting daily to Atlanta where he worked as vice chancellor of faculty development for the past 10 months. He said the daily trips to Atlanta from his home in Barnesville worked a hardship on him.

"I didn't come in contact with students and faculty and had a profound feeling of missing them," he commented.

Dr. Williamson became president of the Barnesville college when the University System of Georgia assumed control of old Gordon Military. As a military school, it was losing enrollment and had difficulty attracting

Dr. Williamson came to Gordon from Clayton Junior College where he had been one of administrators who led that school in its beginning. He worked under Dr. Harry Downs, president, in building that school from scratch.

With that background, he came to Gordon as president and quickly turned around the enforllment loss to one of steady gains.

Dr. Williamson recruited a strong faculty and soon students graduating from Gordon ranked among the best, scoring consistently at the top of college standard tests.

Our man Somoza themselves as the great innoncents abroad when it comes to foreign affairs, dispensing enlightenment and democracy to the less fortunate. But the view from the other side is quite different. While championing democracy at home, we have directly and indirectly encouraged, aided, and abetted numerous repressive regimes which have brutally suppressed democratic ideas and practices among their own people.

In the 1920's and 1930's the U.S. supported numerous dictatorships in Latin America in the name of economic stability for American business interests. But in the late 1940's came the Cold War and the fear of communist expansion. Any tin-horn dictator who said he was anti-

Americans still tend to think of communist became the recepient not only of Uncle Sam's blessing, but also arms, military advisers, and economic aid (which us aiding the dictator and his family more than the country). In the name of anti-communsim we supported and maintained regimes that were openly anti-democratic.

Our man, President Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua, is a good case in point. Forty-three years ago his grandfather, the founder of this family dynasty, pushed his way to power by eliminating, in a variety of ways, his major opponents. The Somoza family has since then enriched themselves at their country's expense and brought political stability to Nicaragua through military dictatorship.

Married Team Publishes Book

A husband-wife team will soon have their book-length bibliography published by Swallow Press of Chicago.

Dr. Larry Corse, Associate Professor of English and English Coordinator at Clayton Junior College, and on his wife, Dr. Sandra Corse, Assistant Professor of English and Acting Chairman of the Division of Special Studies at Gordon Junior College, combined to write "Articles on American and British Literature: An Index o to Selected Periodicals, 1950-1977

The bibliography is a new reference tool designed to provide under-graduates with easy access to scholarly material useful in their studies of literature.

In addition, it will provide graduate students and scholars with a source for a quick survey, of periodical studies over a significant period. The book, which indexes 50 literary journals and contains about 25,000 entries, will be published as a part of 부 the Swallow Press bibliographical series edited by Dr. George Hendrick and Dr. Donna Gerstenberger.

Members of the Clayton Junior College faculty participated in Faculty Seminar discussions on campus recently in preparation for the opening of Fall Quarter classes.

Participates

Returning faculty members were joined by new arrivals during the weeklong series of programs, held annually prior to the start of the Fall Quarter session.

Registration for credit courses offered during the quarter was conducted on Monday and classes began Tuesday.

New members of the fac-

Sulty include Joy Lynn Douglas, Associate Professor and Head of the Department of Nursing; Alan vices Librarian; Kathleen L. Sheridan, Instructor of Dental Hygiene; Dr. Christine

UD. Stah, Temporary Instructor of Biology; and Robert L. Vogel, Instructor of L. Vogel, I Mathematics. Dr. Jean M. Jones, Director of Counseling and Testing, and counselor Betsy Shackelford joined the CJC

faculty during the Summer

Quarter and are entering their first Fall Quarter.

In the 1940's anti-communism became the means whereby America's blessing was converted into directo assistance for the Somoza regime. Young Anastasio was educated at West Point at taxpayer's expense and the Nicaraguan national guard was equipped with American arms while its officers were given special instruction in Panama by American advisers.

Indeed, the military advisers did their job quite well for that wellequipped and well trained army is the main reason Somoza is proving so difficult to oust from power. The army that we helped to create in order to defend against communism is doing a creditable job also in defending against free speech, free press, and free elections. The brutal murder of an American newsman brought this fact home to us, but the action was really quite logical. Dictatorships cannot exist in societies where here there is freedom of speech and press, thus anyone interested in maintinaing such a regime must resist anyone who seeks to introduce

I am not advocating that the United States begin a program of toppling any government that does not come up to our standards of democracy at home. That would be as unwise as our former policy of lavishing money and arms on any type of government, so long as it called itself anti-communist. But we probably could do ourselves and milions of oppressed people around the world more good if we tied our aid and support to binding commitments for political reform.

(Robert H. Welborn is assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a weekly columnist for the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not represent those of the college).

NEW BOOK SHOWN-Dr. Harvey H. Jackson (right), professor of History and chairman of the Division of Social Sciences at Clayton Junior College, presents a copy of his new book to Dr. Jack Bennett, director of Learning Resources, as CJC President Dr. Harry S. Downs (left) looks on. The copy of "Lachlan McIntosh and the Politics of Revolutionary Georgia" will remain in the CJC Library

Jean Jones, L. Betsy Shackelford

Two Counselors Named At CJC

Two new counselors have been named to fill vacancies within the Office of Counseling and Testing at Clayton Junior College, according to Robert C. Bolander, dean of

Dr. Jean M. Jones has been named director and Betsy V. Shackelford has been assigned as a counselor in the center. located within the Office of the Dean of Students. The two will be working with students in a variety of counseling areas, and through the administration of a number of tests Dr. Jones, who served as Dean of Student Development and Associate Professor of Psychology at Pfeiffer College in Misenheimer, N.C., for the past six years, currently Association A native of Norfolk, Va., Dr. Jones earned her bachelor's degree in chemistry from Emory University. Then, after serving as a college lecturer for 11 years, she enrolled at Boston University and obtained a Doctor of Theology serves as president of the Southern College Personnel

Degree in religious education in 1968. After obtaining her doctorate, she served as Dean of Students and Assistant Professor of Psychology at Brenau College in Gainesville, Ga., before going to Pfeiffer College. In addition to her duties as president of the Southern College Personnel Association, Dr. Jones is involved as a member of the National Association of Women Deans, the American College Personnel Association, and serves on and Schools. Ms. Shackelford, a native of New Brunswick, N.J., received both her bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Delaware. In her undergraduate studies, she majored in art history and earned a minor in psychology.

evaluation teams for the Southern Association of Colleges and philosophy. While obtaining her master's degree in college counseling and student personnel last year, she served as a graduate administrative assistant in the Office of Student Services for Teacher Education at the University of Delaware. Ms. Shackelford is a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association, the American College Personnel Association, and The National Association of Student Personnel Administrators. The goal of personnel within the Office of Counseling and Testing is to assist students in making the best personal academic and vocational choices.

In addition to individual counseling, numerous group programs are scheduled regularly on topics such as study skills, anxiety reduction, career planning, and job search skills. Such sessions are offered at no cost to participating

Dr. Jones and Ms. Shackelford also will be involved in administering a number of tests including the General Educational Development (GED), or high school equivalency test, the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), the Dental Hygiene Aptitude Test, and examinations used to measure achievement for the purpose of granting credit for college courses.

Redwine joins foundation board

Hill R. "Sonny" Redwine, president of Farmers and Merchants Bank, Fayetteville, has been appointed to the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation.

Redwine, a Fayette County native, attended Riverside Military Academy, the Univeriii Sity of Georgia and Furman University. A member of the First United Methodist Church, Redwine lives with wife Dorothea, on Lanier Avenue in Fayetteville.

NEWS/DAILY 3/12/80 Intern

Diane Lynn Raebel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Raebel of 4229 Admiral Drive in Chamblee, will complete her ten-week public relations internship at Clayton Junior College this

A senior public relations major at Georgia Southern College, Miss Raebel began her internship on January 3. A 1976 graduate of Chamblee High School, she will graduate from Statesboro ininstitution at the end of the Spring

CJC Professor's Book Published By University of Ga. Press

A book authored by Dr. Harvey H. Jackson, professor of history and chairman of the Division of Social Sciences at Clayton Junior College, has been published by the University of Georgia

Entitled "Lachlan McIntosh and the Politics of Revolutionary Georgia," the book was based on information from Dr. Jackson's doctoral dissertation, compiled during his studies at the University of Georgia. Dr. Jackson, who has had a number of articles published in magazines and journals, wrote on the career of one who "reflects the evolution of Georgia from a colony to a state, and finally to part of a new nation.'

ALTHOUGH THE book deals with McIntosh, it extends far beyond the events of a single man's life. Focusing on the various groups of prominent Georgians, the author defines their goals and links them to the rising protest against Britain's colonial policy.

McINTOSH was a central figure in trying to bring unification. "His role in this capacity," as Dr. Jackson explains it, "casts new light on that phase of Georgia history dominated by the question of 'who would rule at home."

Classified as early on the faculties at South and a master's degree from American history, copies of the book may be ordered for the University of Georgia. $16 from the University of Georgia Press, Athens, CONSIDERED an

Georgia 30602. DR. JACKSON joined an associate's degree from Marion Institute in 1963, a the history faculty at bachelor's degree from Bir-Clayton Junior College in 1973. Before that, he served mingham Southern in 1965, Kelly, live in Jonesboro authority in early American history, Dr. Jackson earned

NEW BOOK-Dr. Harvey H. Jackson, right, professor of history and chairman of the Division of Social Sciences at Clayton Junior College, presents a copy of dent Dr. Harry S. Downs, left, looks on. The copy of "Lachlan McIntosh and the Politics of Revolutionary Georgia" will remain in the CJC Library collection.

his new book to Dr. Jack Bennett, director of learning resources, as CJC Presi-

States history from the University of Georgia in Dr. Jackson and his wife, Marcia, and their daughter, Florida Junior College and the University of Alabama the following year. He was awarded the doctor of philosophy degree in United first book published. Just two weeks ago he received an advance copy of "Lachlan McIntosh and the Politics of Revolutionary Georgia," a book he began while working on his doctorate degree in history at the University of Georgia. His is the first full length work on McIntosh, whom he calls "an important figure" in revolutionary Georgia.

"I chose McIntosh because of his importance and for practical reasons," Jackson said. "All his papers were in the University of Georgia library or in Savannah, so that cut down on the amount of travel I had to do while researching. That is a consideration for someone on a graduate school budget."

McIntosh, according to Jackson, was central to Georgia's unification, and one who "reflects the evolution of Georgia from a colony to a state, and finally to part of a new nation."

Jackson concentrated on Civil War history while pursuing his masters degree, but, as he puts it, "gradually receded into the past" and began working on Colonial Georgia. Whenever possible, he brings his academic specialty while teaching a course in American history at CJC.

"The revolution in Georgia is good to study if you want to know about revolutions in general. When we are studying the general principles of revolution I like to tie it in with what happened in Georgia. It gives the students more of a feel for history when they can associate with familiar names, like Hall, Gwinnett, McIntosh.'

Jackson admits that though his current book has yet to hit the bookstores (it should be at B. Dalton in two weeks, he said), he is already working on an article that might someday be part of a second book. "I would like to do a full study on Colonial Georgia, the society, politics and economics of the period.' Jackson joined the history faculty at CJC in 1973, having taught previously at South Florida Junior College and the University of Georgia. A native of Alabama, he lives in Jonesboro now with his wife and daughter.

News-Daily Photo-Courtesy CJC DR. HARVEY JACKSON (R) SHOWS HIS BOOK TO CJC COLLEAGUES CJC Pres. Harry Downs (L), Librarian Jack Bennet Congratulate Jackson

CJC Professor Has Book Published, UGA Press

volvement.

Junior College and the University of Georgia. From 1967 through 1970, he was director of student personnel, and later served as an instructor of history and political science at South

Florida. From 1970 through

A book authored by Dr. Harvey H. Jackson, professor of History and chairman of the Division of Social Sciences at Clayton Junior College, has been published by the University of Georgia

Entitled "Lachlan McIntosh and the Politics of Revolutionary Georgia," the book was based on information from Dr. Jackson's doctoral dissertation, compiled during his studies at the University of Georgia.

Dr. Jackson, who has had a number of articles published in magazines and journals, wrote on the career of one who "reflects the evolution of Georgia from a colony to a state, and finally to part of a new nation." Although the book deals with McIntosh, it extends far beyond the events of a single man's life. Focusing on the various groups of prominent Georgians, the author defines their goals and links them to the rising protest against Britain's colonial policy.

"Georgia was undergoing a process of trying to compare and meet the demands of her fellow colonies in legislative supremacy and economic progress while local elites were reaching for control of the new system,' explains Jackson.

McIntosh was a central figure in trying to bring unification. "His role in this capacity," as Dr. Jackson explains it, "casts new light on that phase of Georgia history dominated by the question of 'who would rule

In his book, Jackson

1973, while obtaining his argues that "conflict, not doctorate, he was a teaching concensus, shaped the fellow at the University of response of Georgians to the pressures of revolution and guided them in making

Considered an authority political decisions." in early American history, Jackson expressed the Dr. Jackson earned an asshift in political power once the colony had been essociate's degree from Marion Institute in 1963, a tablished as being reflective upon the struggles McIntosh bachelor's degree from Birmingham Southern in 1965 faced during his political inand a master's degree from the University of Alabama the following year. He was Dr. Jackson joined the awarded the doctor of history faculty at Clayton philosophy degree in United Junior College in 1973. States history from the Before that, he served on the faculties at South Florida

University of Georgia in Dr. Jackson and his wife Marcia, and their daughte Kelly, live at 2917 Wc Hollow Lane in Jonesby He is the son of Mr. no. Mrs. Harvey H. Jackents Grove Hill, Alabama.

July 22, 1979 Robert H. Welborn

Legal male dominance

"The husband is head of the family and the wife is subject to him. Her civil existence is merged into his..." This quaint sounding phrase is not simply a bit of legal history, it is still part of Georgia law, specifically Georgia Code 53-501.

It seems that during the last session when the General Assembly was in the process of rewriting Georgia's family laws to conform to the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling regarding alimony, this particular phrase was allowed to remain. It was almost deleted, but an eleventh hour appeal by several legislators (all apparently in need of a law to bolster their positions at home) succeeded in retaining the husband as the head of the family, at least in the eyes of Georgia law.

As a result of leaving this part of the law unchanged, there is now a class action suit being brought against the governor and attorney general seeking to overturn this last vestige of legal male supremacy. And just as predictably, there is another group calling itself MOM (Mothers on the March), composed of women who are apparently seeking to maintain their legal inferiority by upholding the law and defeating the suit.

Of course all of this would be unnecessary if the members of the General Assembly had shown the good sense to eliminate the head of household law or if the Equal Rights Amendment was now part of the Constitution.

One of the main reasons for the activism of the federal courts in the last two decades in such areas as civil rights, reapportionment of legislative districts, and equal rights for women has been the fact that state legislatures have refused to act on

To rewrite Georgia's family law in the name of equality of rights and then leave in a section that blatently denies women their legal equality is, at least to a layman, a curious bit of legal reasoning. Such a law also flies in the face of twentieth century reality. According to the latest figures released by the Census Bureau, 7.2 million families or 13 percent of all families, are headed by women without husbands. What is their legal status under such a law? To whom are they subject to?

The current family law creates a unique legal situation. It assures full legal equality to women only if they remain single or in the event of divorce. But if they remain married, their legal equality and separate civil identity are not allowed. Frankly, I do not think that the state of Georgia has any right to try to establish by law which partner should be head of a family or who should be subject to

The best outcome for this entire situation would be for the General Assembly to gird up its loins (pardon the sexist phrase) and during the next session eliminate this last vestige of legal male chauvinism before this case winds its way through court.

(Robert H. Welborn is assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a weekly columnist for the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not represent those of the college).

Robert H. Welborn

Clayton's noisy future

This past week there were a pair of oddly contrasting meetings and reports presented to Clayton residents and leaders. Officials of Forest Park that had studied ways to revitalize the downtown section of the city. A few days later the Clayton county commissioners and legislative delegation heard a report on aircraft noise abatement from FAA officials that in effect said there could be no abatement There's real irony in this situation. To their credit, the city fathers of Forest Park are committed to improving the image and livability of their city, but one of the most important ways to improve living and working conditions within the city would be to reduce aircraft noise, or at least not allow the present noise

NEWS/DAILY

However, FAA officials this week have, in effect, said that there's nothing they can do concerning heard a report from a consulting firm present take-off and approach patterns.

The long-term implications of the FAA's position are ominous for the entire county. As air traffic increases, as it will when the new midfield terminal is completed, the problem in the present noise-impacted areas will become worse and more areas of the county will become adversely affected by aircraft noise. As this happens, the quality of life within these areas will decline, and planting shrubbery on Forest Parkway won't really improve matters a great deal.

If the county leaders think we have an image problem now, can you imagine what our image problems will be five years from now when the entire area north of Morrow is considered noise-impacted and virtually useless for residential purposes? The noise-abatement meeting did show one thing rather clearly. however. The real nature of the noise problem from Hartsfield is political. Which is to say that the decision on who gets how much noise is a decision that is largely influenced by the political clout of the various groups that are now or could be in the future affected by noise pollution.

To put it simply, those with more political influence get less noise. In order for Clayton to have less noise, the city of Atlanta and DeKalb county are going to have to receive more. As the FAA spokesmen indicated, the political leaders of both Atlanta and DeKalb have indicated their firm opposition to any change to the present air traffic patterns.

The FAA will not move against such political opposition unless forced to do so by counter political pressure. The task for Clayton county leaders is to bring this pressure to bear as quickly and effectively as possible

If Atlanta receives over half of the revenue from the airport, it seems only fair that they begin to receive a proportionate share of the noise that generates the revenue.

(Robert H. Welborn is assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a weekly columnist for the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not represent those of the college).

Robert H. Welborn

NEWS/DAILY August 5, 1979

Henry's Dilemma

' Henry County government has been put into a temporary state of confusion, which promises to become even more convoluted before a solution emerges. Both the county commissioners and the county board of education have been notified by the U.S. Justice Department that their atlarge method of electing officials is not acceptable due to the fact that such a method dilutes the vote of the black population of the country. Henry's black population constitutes about 30 per cent of the county's total population, and is relatively concentrated around the center of the county. Under a singlemember district plan it would be much more likely that there might be black representation on both county boards than under the present atlarge system.

Both county governing boards have been given until Aug. 14 to notify the Justice Department of their intentions, but this would only be a first step. Whatever plans are adopted would also have to be approved by the Georgia General Assembly during the 1980 session. Thus, Henry County's electoral reconstruction is only beginning and the political uncertainity caused by this situation will probably continue for several months.

There are two major observations that are noteworthy concerning the situation. The first is that all the confusion was avoidable. Under the terms of the 1965 Voting Rights, local governments are required to have their election plans approved by the U.S. Justice Department. Henry County officials never submitted theirs, thus inviting future in-The present comtervention. missioners did not create this situation, they simply inherited it. The second observation is that Clayton County residents should not feel too smug, for our county commissioners, board of education, and members of the Georgia House of Representatives are all selected by the at-large method. Admittedly, the chances of intervention by the Justice Department are less than in Henry County, for Clayton's black population is much smaller proportionately, and is dispersed throughout the county. But why not adopt singlemember districts now on a voluntary basis, before the chances of federal intervention become greater?

There is only one county official that should be elected at-large and that is the county commission chairman. Representatives, county commissioners, and school board members should all be elected from single-member districts that they reside in. At-large elections make politics more complicated for the voters, make elections more expensive, and make accountability to the voters more difficult. Why not adopt progressive and democratic change before outside pressure forces us?

Robert H. Welborn

Sunday, August 12, 1979

Closed Primaries

A strong two-party system would probably help the political situation in this state, but as yet Georgia remains, at least on the local and state level, fairly solidly Democratic. One of the ways in which a two-party system could be encouraged would be the adoption by the General Assembly of closed primaries.

Forty-one states now have closed primary systems, in which voters must declare their party affiliation when they register to vote. On the day of the primary only registered members may vote in each party's primary. Georgia and eight other states (mostly Southern) still use the open primary, in which voters can choose when they enter the polling place which primary they wish to vote

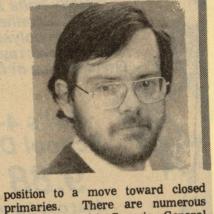

With an open primary system, cross-over voting, in which voters choose to vote for a party they will not support in the general election, are a real possibility. There is also the possibility of raiding, in which an organized effort is made to cross over and try to defeat an attractive candidate running for the opposition party's nomination.

States with closed primaries tend to have a much greater amount of interparty competition, and the greater the competition, the greater the interest of citizens in elections, and the greater the voter turnout. Anything that could possibly improve our poor voter turnout should certainly be considered.

Georgia's open primary system is also going to prevent Georgia voters from directly electing delegates to the Democratic National Convention in 1980, as they did in 1976. Due to the fear of cross-over voting, the Democratic National Committee has refused to allow the seating of any delegates chosen by direct vote from states with open primaries. In 1980 Georgia Democrats will only be able to elect delegates to congressional district conventions, and these delegates will then select national convention delegates.

There has been and will be op-

members of the Georgia General Assembly who probably fear that if party affiliation is required for voter registration, they will suddenly find themselves with large numbers of Republicans in their districts. This would obviously present them with a delicate situation, but for the sake of greater voter interest and greater voter turnout, the change should be pursued. Let me close by noting that I am not advocating this change as a Republican. I am now and have been, like my father before me, a Democrat. I do not remember seeing a live Republican until I was about twelve, and although my grandfather once voted Republican (for Eisenhower), the family kept it quiet and attributed this aberration to his advanced years.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR November 14, 1979

He Has New Duties

Alan L. Kaye (R), newly named Instructional Services Librarian at Clayton Junior College, goes over his duties with Dr. Jack Bennett, director of Learning Resources and associate professor.

DR. HARVEY JACKSON (R) PRESENTS BOOK TO DR. JACK BENNETT, AS DR. HARRY DOWNS LOOKS ON "Lachlan McIntosh And The Politics Of Revolutionary Georgia" Will Remain In School Library

Book On Revolution Era Added To Library Shelf

By DEBE BENSON News Editor

A book, authored by Dr. Harvey Jackson, professor of history and chairman of the division of social sciences at Clayton Junior College, is now on bookstore shelves.

Entitled "Lachlan McIntosh and the Politics of Revolutionary Georgia," the book, published recently by the University of Georgia Press, is based on information from Jackson's doctoral dissertation, compiled during his studies at the University of Georgia.

'The book reflects the evolution of Georgia from a colony to a state and finally to part of a new nation,' Jackson explained. "I've always had a long standing interest in the American Revolution," he commented. "I wanted to do a topic on Georgia because I was studying in Georgia."

When referring to his choice of topic Jackson said, "It was both scholarly interest and practicality. I wanted to know more about Georgia and I had easy accessibility of materials.'

Jackson also wrote a number of articles published in magazines and journals, focusing mainly on the colonial and revolutionay era.

Two major article topics covered were of attitudes on slavery in Jackson remarked that politics today are not really that much different than in colonial times.

Jackson, who joined the Clayton Junior faculty in 1973, is considered an authority in early American history, the classification of his

"Everything is fine," he commented. "The books out and now I'm just deciding what I'm going to do next.'

"I do plan to continue writing," he added. Jackson land his wife Marcia, reside in Jonesboro with their daughter Kelly, 11.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

Thursday, August 16, 1979

Cathy, Mitchell Trustees

S. Truett Cathy and W Cameron Mitchell, both of Hampton have joined the Board of Trustees at Clayton Junior College in Morrow.

Other members of the poard include Harmon M Born, chairman, Claude H. Whaley, Thomas B. Clonts; G. Robert Oliver, Charles S. Conklin, Dr. Harry S. Downs, Dr. Ernest A. Dunbar Jr., and James M.

Wood, Jr. The Board of Trustees recently honored twentyfive members of the faculty and staff who have completed either five or ten years of service at Clayton Junior College.

TEN OF THE honorees have been with the college ten years or more, and 15 have been employed at the Morrow institution for at least five years.

Recognizing the importance of a quality faculty and staff in the provision of a strong academic atmosphere, members of the Board of Trustees have provided special awards for this group since receiving its charter in September of students of the two-year institution, and supports a highly-successful scholar- More than 50 top students will attend Clayton Junior College on Foundation scholarships this fall.

The Foundation also sponsors a student awards program which recognizes and rewards outstanding

SCHOLARSHIP---Jerry Greer [left], President of the Fulton Federal Savings and Loan Association office in McDonough, presents a scholarship check to W. Cameron Mitchell, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation. An annual contribution by Fulton Federal Savings, the $362 check pays for one of the more than 50 scholarships funded by the Foundation this

Robert H. Welborn

NEWS/DAILY Sunday, August 19, 1979

Crime And Diplomats

There are two topics worthy of comment: Atlanta's crime problem and Andrew Young's resignation.

The response of state and city officials to Atlanta's increase in violent crimes is a good example of political expediency. The problem did not simply begin two weeks ago, violent crimes have been on the upswing all year. But what did happen a couple of weeks ago was that Atlanta's crime problem suddenly received national attention through major press and network coverage.

Anything that makes Atlanta look bad also, to some degree, reflects on the image of the entire state. Thus, crime on Atlanta's streets created a media image problem. How to solve it? Why not a new "program" that will produce lots of visible action and give the impression that "something" is being done?

But a few dozen state patrolmen doing traffic duty in Atlanta for a few weeks are not going to accomplish much of anything, except to maintain a few political reputations. What is needed is a full-strength, well-paid, and highly motivated police force. Right now the Atlanta police are lacking all of these qualities, and there appears to be little prospect of any significant improvement in the near future.

The hiring practices of the police department have been tied up in court suits for the past several years, but the court has repeatedly stated that whenever the city develops an equitable hiring plan it can hire all the police it wishes to. What is now needed is the immediate development of such a plan, a plan based on competence for the job and not racial quotas. This would do much more to help solve the crime problem than the temporary use of a few state troopers.

The resignation of Andrew Young has brought shouts of joy from his critics and accusations of betrayal by the President from his supporters. Politically, his resignation will probably hurt Carter's re-election chances more than help. Those people who wanted to see Young resign probably would not have supported Carter in 1980 anyway, while many of the former U.N. Ambassador's supporters saw Young as one of the few real assets of the Carter administration. Young's troubles arose from his refusal or inability to make the successful transition from outspoken Congressman to reticent diplomat. U.N. ambassadors do not make foreign policy; their job is to explain and defend policy decisions made by the President and Secretary of State. Young, however, conducted the job as if he were still an outspoken member of the House of Representatives, responsible only to his constitutents.

A number of his positions and statements were actually worthwhile and needed to be said, but not by our U.N. ambassador. Perhaps he will now find a political position more congenial to his talents, one in which he can give free rein to his controversial style of politics without worrying about embarrassing anyone

(Robert H. Welborn is a professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a regular columnist for News-Daily. His opinions expressed here are his own and not those of the college).

Morrow Women Aid Nature Preserve

The Morrow Junior treasury of recipes collected, womens Club has donated approximately $200 to the conservation departable of Womens Clubs this year.

The Morrow Junior treasury of recipes collected, project award during the 6th, District Spring Conference of Womens Clubs this year. benefit the William H. ment of the MJWC. Reynolds Memorial Nature Preserve in Morrow.

THE REYNOLDS Preserve has been adopted as an ongoing project of the money through the sale of club, earning the local be erected along a trail "Culinary Keepsakes," a women's group a first place which preserve directors from the sale of the recipe booklet will be used for the purchase of signs which will be erected along a trail

Area Business Applies Religion To Company

By CAROLYN WILDES Staff Writer

Biblical principles do appresident of operations. ply successfully to business, according to S. Truett Cathy, president of Chick-

These spiritual principles are reinforced in part through Monday morning devotional programs for the 45-person staff at the national headquarters in Hapeville, he says.

The devotionals also provide an opportunity for employees to share prayer requests for themselves and their family members, adds Cathy, who says attendance have the envyings, backbitings or interpersonal conflicts that I'm told take place in other offices," Cathy says.

Monday mornings helps set states. a family atmosphere all week long, he adds.

'We don't let anything happen to prevent us from having the devotionals every Monday morning," says S. Truett Cathy, who opened at the devotionals is op- the Dwarf House Restaurant in Hapeville in 1946.

Originating the idea for about our problems, it really the Chick-Fil-A sandwich pic weightlifting champion cements our relationships and seasoning method in the together," says Cathy's son early 1960's, Cathy has 128 Dan, Chick-Fil-A's vice-company-owned fast-food restaurants in several South-Having devotionals on eastern and Northeastern Belonging to the First Baptist Church of "I've never seen two em- Jonesboro, Cathy says the ployees quarrel with each devotionals are given by other here. We just don't staff members, lay speakers, ministers, businessmen and sports figures.

> Contemporary Christian music recording artists Andrew Culverwell of Stone Mountain and the Stone Brothers of Rome also have given devotionals for the staff members, says Dan

Other guest speakers have included former Olym-

According to Pat Robertson, MJWC conser-Specifically, the proceeds vation department chairman, the decision to support the Preserve and to help toward its future development was made after the group consulted with Clayton Junior College's Dr. O.C. Lamb, chairman of the Preserve's Board of Directors, and learned of the Preserve's

> MJWC MEMBERS submitted favorite recipes to include in the cookbook and conservation department members designed, compiled and assembled the recipes into "Culinary Keepsakes."

"We spent a number of hours putting the book together," remarked Ms.

Robertson. She indicated the club still has some copies of "Culinary Keepsakes" available for sale in the community. The 35-recipe booklet sells for 75 cents and bears the signatures of recipe contributors. All proceeds will go to the Revnolds Preserve.

ANYONE interested in obtaining a copy of "Culinary Keepsakes" can contact Ms. Robertson at 961-1679; Beverly Remington at 363-4242; or Julie Heath at 961-2872.

Other members of the conservation department include Connie Konkle, Vi-Sandra Lager and Elaine

The Preserve is being developed on property donated to Clayton County by former Superior Court Judge William H. Reynolds. The Clayton County Parks and Recreation Department operates the Preserve which is overseen by a citizens Board of Directors. Eric Hahn is the CCPRD's Preserve director.

For information on programs available at the Preserve, call Hahn at CCPRD offices, 478-9911, PRESENTS CHECK-Pat-Robertson, of the Morrow Junior Women's Club, presents a donation from the club to Dr. O.C. Lamb, chairman of the Reynolds Nature Preserve Board of Directors.

Robert H. Welborn

NEWS/DAILY August 26, 1979

The Public Initiative

On Sept. 10, Representative Bill Lee of Forest Park, chairman of the Rules Committee of the Georgia House of Representatives, will be conducting in Atlanta the first of five public hearings on the proposed public initiative bill. This is a bill that should be endorsed by all concerned citizens.

A public initiative law allows citizens to propose constitutional amendments (or in some cases even regular bills) through the petition nethod. If enough signatures are athered, the state's citizens must be allowed to vote on the proposed mendment at the next general election. If the voters approve the mendment, it becomes part of the state's constitution without any action by the state legislature or executive branch. The latest and most spectacular success of this political device was the approval by California voters of Proposition 13.

The initiative was first proposed as a political reform back at the turn of the century, and was seen as a way of allowing citizens to propose measures that state legislatures could not or would not deal with. In 1902 Oregon became the first state to pass a public initiative law and there are today a total of 13 states that allow the practice.

The bill under consideration by the House Rules Committee passed the Georgia Senate in the 1979 session, but time ran out before the House could take action. It provides for a constitutional amendment to be put on a state-wide ballot if at least 10 per cent of the voters from the latest gubernatorial election endorse a petition calling for a specific amendment. At present, state constitutional amendments may only be proposed by a two-thirds majority of both houses of the General Assembly.

Passage of this bill would be beneficial, for it would give Georgia voters a way of dealing directly with questions that the General Assembly refused or was unable to consider. But it would not be a cure-all for the state's political ills. It would take a major effort to organize the petition campaign, and it only allows voters to propose constitutional amendments, not regular bills. Such a practice could also possibly be abused by ambitious politicians using emotional appeals to stir up controversy over complicated, but unpopular, issues (Proposition 13 was in some ways an example of this type of abuse).

However, the potential for good is, I believe, worth a few risks.

If you are interested in seeing the political process made a little more democratic, contact your State Representative and urge passage of the public initiative.

(Robert H. Welborn is a professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a regular columnist for News-Daily. His opinions expressed here are his own and not those of the college).

SPREADING THE WORD

Chamber Committee Seeks to Educate on Freeport

By TRACY THOMPSON

The Clayton County Chamber of Commerce is missing few opportunities to spread the Freeport gospel these days. And a new committee announced last week by Clayton County Industrial Development Authority Chairman Harmon Born will ensure that the public will hear all the arguments in favor of proposed amendment to the county charter before the Sept.

The committee, called JOBS (Job Opportunity Boosters of Clayton County), is made up of 15 members including Born, who chairs the group.

OTHER MEMBERS ARE Orestus Adamson, Haskell Burks, Jim Stewart, John Lee, Charles Hutcheson, Dick Wynn, Ed Blalock, Jr., Bill Bennett, Bo Bolander, Chuck Conklin, Lou Hisel, Al Hammack, Gerald Matthews and Chuck Wells.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

"JOBS' main task will be to explain to our people how important passage of Freeport is to maintaining current jobs for our citizens by keeping industry within our borders," Born said.

FREEPORT, which provides partial exemption of taxes on inventory, raw materials, and some finished goods for locally based industry, has been approved in 48 of Georgia's 159 counties. In the 20-county area surrounding Atlanta and extending to the Alabama border, only Clayton and Rockdale counties currently have no

Freeport tax exemption for local industry, either county-wide or in selected municipalities within the county.

August 30, 1979

Depending on how the Clayton County Commission should choose to implement Freeport if it were passed, Freeport could provide tax exemptions of anywhere from 20 to 100 per cent on property tax.

Supporters of Freeport, including Born and Clayton County Chamber of Commerce President Carl Rhodenizer, assert that despite projected losses to the county and the school board of about $107,400 and $125,000 respectively should Freeport be approved, those losses would be more than offset by new industry moving to the county attracted by its favorable tax climate.

BUT AS IT IS, Born said, "our county lacks competitive equality for industrial growth and development which are crucial to adding jobs and improving the overall economic health of our communities.

As evidence, he cited "a major Morrow company and employer of 100 persons" as well as a Forest Park firm which have either considered moving out of the county or postponing expansion because of the lack of Freeport in Clayton County.

NO ORGANIZED opposition to the Freeport amendment has surfaced in the county, but Clayton County Property Owners Association President Claude Whaley, of Jonesboro, said last week he and most members of the organization are opposed to Freeport.

"Any business that's looking for a free ride is not the kind of business the county would want in its midst, anyway," Whaley

But he added tht the Property Owners Association would not issue a formal statement opposing Freeport "because I think it's going to be defeated anyway.' A referendum on Freeport was defeated recently in Rockdale County. Fayette County last year defeated a county-wide Freeport referendum, but Peachtree City has enacted freeport legislation. Born said last week that the JOBS committee is available to speak to civic, labor, political, business and religious groups on the proposed Freeport amendment. In addition, Born said, the JOBS committee has a slide presentation and a question-andanswer brochure prepared for the publication

Emergency Number

To its credit the Clayton County Board of Commissioners has begun to look into the possibility of establishing a uniform 911 emergency number for

Under a uniform emergency number system, a citizen from any point in the county could dial just one number (911) for any fire department, police, or ambulance request and a central radio dispatcher would then send the requested assistance.

The chief benefits of the system are simplicity and tax savings from the consolidation of several dispatcher operations into one central unit.

Simplicity is by far the most important advantage from the citizen's viewpoint. In Clayton county there are five municipal police departments (not counting College Park), four municipal fire departments, and separate county fire and police departments. Most of these have individual phone numbers and separate dispatchers. I am sure most citizens would prefer a simple threedigit number that would serve for all emergency situations, no matter what their location, in place of the present multi-number arrangement. Even a child can remember 911.

The money to be saved by such a system would come from the consolidation of the numerous dispatcher operations within the county into one central operation. While there might be some saving in personnel costs, it would probably not be large for such a centralized system would require several operators on duty at all times. The major savings would be in equipment due to the elimination of

Cathy Installed Mercer Trustee

by SCOTT HAMPLE Staff Writer S. Truett Cathy, president of Chick-fil-A, Inc. and member of the First Baptist Church in Jonesboro, took office as a newly-elected member of Mercer University's Board of Trustees Thursday.

The Hampton resident was among the 10 people elected by the Georgia Baptist Convention last month in Savannah to serve on the board of the Baptist university in Macon.

Others installed during ceremonies held at the student center at the Macon campus were: Dr. James C. Bruner of Macon, Jewell Bentley Childress of Augusta, William C. Davis of Gray, Dr. Truett Gannon of Stone Mountain, Virgil Harris of Winder, Mary Etta Sanders of Dalton, Roy Sewell, Robert Steed, both of Atlanta, and Dr. Julian Sizemore Jr. of Columbus. Cathy, who heads the fast food restaurant chain which now has 140 restaurants in 19 Dwarf House in Hapeville, is Waycross.

S. TRUETT CATHY New MErcer Trustee

also a director of the Clayton County Federal Savings and Loan Association and vicepresident of Clayton Fixture Company.

He presently serves as a trustee of Clayton Junior College Foundation: Christian City, sponsored by the Christian Church; and a Sunday School teacher at the First Baptist Church in Jonesboro. Cathy is a former states, and owner of the trustee of Baptist Village in

Banker Named To CJC Board

Fayette County banker Hill R. Redwine has been named to serve on the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, according to Harmon M. Born, Chairman of the nonprofit corporation.

President of the Farmers and Merchants Ban in Fayetteville, Redwine's appointment increases the Board of Trustees of the Foundation to 13 business and professional community leaders.

Born in Fayetteville. Redwine attended the Riverdale Military Academy, the University of Fayetteville.

Redwine joins two other Trustees. Guy L. Benefield have approved a 1980-81 of Morrow and Ernest L. operating budget of slightly who lives in Rex, G. Robert honors program.

HILL R. REDWINE On CJC Foundation Board

Oliver of Morrow, Charles S. Conklin of Jonesboro, Harry S. Downs of Morrow, S. Truett Cathy of Hampton, Georgia and Furman Thomas B. Clonts of University. A member of the Jonesboro, Ernest A. Official Board and Finance Dunbar Jr., M.D., of Committee of the First Morrow, W. Cameron United Methodist Church, he Mitchell of Hampton, Claude and his wife Dorothea live at H. Whaley of Jonesboro, and 205 Lanier Avenue in James M. Wood Jr., of Forest Park.

Chartered in September of newcomers to the Board of 1974, Foundation Trustees Cheaves of Forest Park were over $24,000 including funds named to the Board last for student scholarships, student academic awards, Others members are Born, and a faculty and staff the present multiple radio systems. The major obstacles to such a system are political, not technical. The governing bodies of the major municipalities in the county have viewed the plan with alarm due to the fact that such a system would eliminate the need for their individual dispatcher operations. They have also noted that the reaction time of their police and fire units might be increased due to the necessity of sending all requests through a central switchborad which would then have to contact the specific police or fire department having responsibility for answering the call

An unmentioned objection, but probably a major one, is that such a consolidated, county-wide system would in effect take away part of the political power of each municipality and bring us one step closer to a county-wide public safety depart-

But in considering such a question, the major consideration should be how to provide the best service to the largest number of citizens at the least possible cost. And when it comes to numbers, it should be remembered that over two-thirds of the people in Clayton County do not live in incorporated areas.

Perhaps a compromise can be fashioned which will allow the cities to keep their separate numbers and allow the rest of the county to enjoy the advantages of a uniform emergency number.

(Robert H. Welborn is a professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a regular columnist for News-Daily. His opinions expressed here are his own and not those of the college).

COUNSELORS (L-R) DR. JEAN JONES, BETSY SHACKELFORD TALK WITH DEAN OF STUDENTS ROBERT BOLANDER The Two Will Begin Work In The Clayton Junior College Office Of Counseling And Testing Beginning Fall Quarter

Sunday, September 2, 1979 NEWS/DAILY Robert H. Welborn

What We Don't Need

Rep. Tommy Smith, a Democrat from Alma, is sponsoring a bill that would mandate the teaching of 'scientific creation' and the theory of evolution in all Georgia schools. "Scientific creation" is defined by its supporters as the use of "scientific" evidence to support the literal Biblical version of the creation of man.

There is no doubt that his bill has gained a fair-sized following, especially among members of the more fundamentalist Protestant congregations of the state, for over 200 supporters attended a public hearing on the bill at the state Capitol on Monday. But if there is one thing Georgia does not need, it is this bill. There are, I believe, serious constitutional, moral, and practical reasons for ob-

Constitutionally, the bill in effect would be mandating the teaching of a particular religious doctrine, and would thus violate the first amendment protection of religious freedom. I do not know if the bill's supporters are aware of it, but even taxpayers who are not Christians are protected by the Bill of Rights. The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled on several occasions that the use of public school facilities for religious instruction is unconstitutional, and this bill would require just that. Thus, if the bill should pass, a test case would almost certainly be the result and just as certainly the law would be struck down.

Morally, the bill is objectionable because it seeks to force the public schools to assume part of the burden of religious instruction, but such instruction belongs in the home and in the church, not our tax-supported schools. It is the right and responsibility of all parents to decide on the type of religious teaching they wish for their children, and parents should not be compelled to have their children taught a religious doctrine contrary to their own. The last objection to such a law is that the whole idea of a state legislature writing a law specifying the teaching of a particular theory goes against our established governmental process. The function of the General Assembly is to provide the means for operating the state's schools and to hold those entrusted with such funds responsible for their judicious expenditure. We have a State Department of Education, composed of professional educators, to decide questions concerning course content, and this is the proper place for debates over curriculum, not the halls of the state house. If the General Assembly passes this bill, what is to prevent it from getting into the business of deciding which mathematical formulas shall be taught in high school algebra classes?

Let us hope that the "scientific creation" bill quickly becomes an example of evolutionary failure and dies a quiet death in committee.

(Robert H. Welborn is a professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a regular columnist for News-Daily. His opinions expressed here are his own and not those of the college).

Counselors

Will Do Testind

Educational Development

(GED), the Scholastic Ap-tal Hygiene Aptitude Test and examinations used to measure achievement for credit for college courses.

tion about any of the services, students may visit the

For complete informa-

Two new counselors will seling, both counselors will join the Office of Counseling be involved in scheduling and Testing at Clayton Jun- group programs, adminisior College, according to trating a number of tests, Robert C. Bolander, dean of including the General named director and Betsy titude Test (SAT), the Den-Shackelford has been assigned as a counselor in the center.

Two Join Staff

Dr. Jean Jones has been

The two will be working the purpose of granting with students in a variety of counseling areas and through the adminstration of a number of tests.

Ms. Jones, who served as office or call 363-7744. Dean of Student Development and Associate Professor of Psychology at Pfeiffer College in North Carolina, for the past six years, currently serves as president of the Southern College Personnel Associa-

In addition to her duties as president of the Southern College Personnel Association, Ms. Jones is involved as a member of the National Association of Women Deans, the American College Personnel Association and serves on evaluation teams for the Southern Association of Colleges and

Ms. Shackelford is a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association, the American College Personnel Association and the National Association of Student Personnel Admin-

The goal of the personnel within the Office of Counseling and Testing is to assist students in making the best personal, academic and vocational choices.

Besides individual coun-

Robert H. Welborn

Sunday, September 9, 1979 Parking Search

Clayton County schools have been faced in recent years with a growing drug problem. Our schools did not create this situation. The drug problem is a product of numerous cultural and social factors that have been fostered by our society, but schools are a natural setting for drug dealing due to the daily concentration of large numbers of potential customers.

Due to the awareness of the problem by teachers and administrators, and the relatively close supervision within school buildings, school parking lots have become the tavorite location within the county. Not only is it difficult to supervise a large parking lot, but there are legal problems involved in searching an automobile that are not applicable to the searching of a desk or locker.

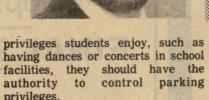

In an effort to prevent or cut down on drug dealing within school parking lots, the Clayton County Board of Education has adopted a parking permit plan in which a student must waive his rights to privacy and allow school officials to search his car for drugs or alcohol in return for being allowed to park on campus.

Guidelines for the new policy call for searches to be conducted only if there is "probable cause" and any evidence turned up in such searches can only be used in school disciplinary procedures, not criminal prosecutions.

This plan has been criticized as an unconstitutional violation of a student's 4th amendment rights (protection against unlawful search and seizure) and as an attempt to establish police-state tactics. Frankly, I think the school board should be commended for taking a stand against the presence of drugs in our schools.

While such a policy would be unthere is a very good case for considering the new plan as perfectly legal in its present context. Driving a car to a high school campus is not a constitutional right, it is a publicly subsidized privilege (Who do you think pays for all those nice paved parking lots?). Clayton County has an efficient bus system to provide free transportation to any student within the county.

Thus, students who drive cars to school do so for convenience and prestige, not out of necessity. Just as school officials have the authority to make and enforce reasonable regulations concerning other

The stipulation that any evidence found in such searches will not be used in criminal prosecutions is a clear indication that school officials do not wish to see students end up in jail, but are attempting to handle the problem within the schools.

This policy will not solve the drug problem within our schools, but it does represent an honest effort to deal with a difficult and harrowing problem. As concerned citizens and parents, we should applaud and support our school board and school officials for taking this stand.

(Robert H. Welborn is a professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a regular columnist for News-Daily. His opinions expressed here are his own and not those of the college).

Small Clothing Stores Facing Slow Demand

FOSTER DALTON

Staff Writer Despite the fact that women are known for their love of shopping for clothes, women's wear stores may be one of the nation's worst business ventures.

According to Woodward, director of the small business development center at Clayton Junior College, small women's that type of venture is the clothing shops have a hard time succeeding due to the large department stores, which are more wellestablished, a fact that gives them clout.

"Retail clothing stores, particularly small, independent ones are encountering slow demand and stiff competition," says an article in the March 1878 issue of "Money" magazine. "I imagine you'd find the same results now," was Woodward's comment on the magazine report.

According to Woodward, this trend is due to the fact that women's fashions are not resistent to a recession. "It wipes out new businesses and those without a good foothold since it lowers the margin for error," he explained.

On the other hand, do-ityourself businesses have a good economic outlook, Woodward said, as well as those which minimize initial investment, he added. competition and take According to Woodward, advantage of a rapidly infants' wear is an even expanding market.

The market in health clubs is present. expanding, he noted, since Americans are developing more of an interest in that

However, the drawback to fact that it requires a large poorer business idea than As examples, he named women's clothing since a hardware stores, health "baby boom" is markedly clubs and auto supply stores. absent from our society at

Arts Council Seeks Community Input

By SAM HODGES

Staff Writer After a somewhat disappointing response to their recent "Celebration Of The Arts," members of the Clayton County Arts and Humanities Council are seeking ways to make cultural opportunities in the county better known to local residents.

Rob Taylor, director of the council, believes there is no dearth of cultural events in the county, but that there is a problem in publicizing those events.

"We (the council) ae anxious to let people know we exist and that there are cultural outlets in the county," he said. "People here do not have to drive to Atlanta if they don't want to."

The council is made up of representatives from CJC, the Clayton County Board of Education, the Clayton County Parks and Recreation Department, the Soromundi Center of the YWCA, the Clayton County Art Alliance, the South Metro-Atlanta Music Teacher's Association, the Clayton County Public Libraries, and Historical Jonesboro.

"One of our goals is sharing information and assisting each other in publicizing events," Taylor said. "Since I've been on the council I've found out a lot I didn't know about othe things going in the county.

A unified calendar of cultural activities is printed by the council, sent to the local media, and placed in familiar gathering places, such as libraries.

Again the council is planning a celebration of the arts to focus on the cultural opportunities available in Clayton County, though this year the event will probably be scheduled for April or May, Taylor said. We think less people will be on vacation then and that we'll have better luck at getting increased participation.'

ROB TAYLOR New Council Chairman

Sales Tax Increase

Nursing Department Head Is Named

partment of Nursing has signed to train women and been named at Clayton Jun- men to meet the need for or College, according to Dr. nurses in the south Atlanta O.C. Lam III, Chairman of metropolitan area. the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics at general education and spe-Morrow.

former Director of the through the College's affilia-School of Nursing at Meth- tion with Clayton General odist Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., joined the CJC faculty of Sept. 1.

As Head of the Department of Nursing, Ms. Douglas will be responsible for instruction, curriculum improvement, educational experimentation, and academic advisement within the department.

She will coordinate and supervise all activities of the Department of Nursing, and will be responsible directly to the Chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics.

One of the College's original two-year career programs, the Nursing Pro-

A new Head for the De- gram at CJC has been de-

the two-year institution near cialized nursing courses, along with clinical ex-Joy Lynn Douglas, perience and training Hospital, South Fulton Hos-

Nursing and the State Board of Nurse Examiners.

and hospitals in the area.

One of the 13 two-year

Junior College, the Nursing

Program is accredited by Nurse.

Born in Homerville, Ga., programs offered by Clayton the National League for School of Nursing in 1953. Later, she received the pital, and other clinics and Board of Nursing licenses gia and a master's degree in hospital, and other clinics the graduate as a Registered nursing from Emory Unisurgical nursing department

She has completed additional studies at Memphis Ms. Douglas earned a State University and curdiploma from the Crawford rently is enrolled in the doc-W. Long Memorial Hospital tor of science in nursing program at the University of Alabama in Birmingham, bachelor of science degree majoring in administration.

the program and the ex- in nursing education from Ms. Douglas served as a er, became director at the amination of the Georgia the Medical College of Geor- clinical instructor and later Tennessee institution.

services at Crawford Long Hospital's School of Nurs-

In 1961, she was named assistant director of the Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, and four years lat-

New Faculty Librarian

welcomed new faculty within his division during a recent Robert L. Vogel, instructor of Mathematics. orientation program. With Dr. Lam are, from left: Dr.

Dr. O. C. Lam (left), chairman of the Division of Natural Christine D. Stah, temporary instructor of Biology; Sciences and Mathematics at Clayton Junior College, Kathleen L. Sheridan, instructor of Dental Hygiene; and

Lt. Gov. Zell Miller has set his sights on the enactment of a new sales tax law that would exempt food and drugs from any sales tax, while increasing the overall state-wide rate to 4 per cent. Miller's argument is that the sales tax is regressive, but exempting food and drugs from the tax will actually be a tax break for low income families since they spend a greater percentage of their total earnings on such necessities.

September 26, 1979

Even with the loss of food and drugs from the state sales tax (the state would lose about $225 million by their exemption), the extra one per cent would bring in about $300 million, leaving a net gain in state revenue of about $75 million. Miller's proposal is to spend this additional revenue on an increase in teacher's salaries.

NEWS/DAILY

The proposal seemingly has everything a politician with his eyes on a senatorship or governorship could wish for: popularity among low income voters due to an overall tax reduction because of the exemption, popularity among education groups due to the increase in money available for education, and at least acceptance among most state legislators due to the overall increase in state revenue.

Miller apparently feels that the negative effects of such an increase will be more than offset by the abovementioned benefits.

But many of Georgia cities and counties might be adversely affected counties have added their own one per cent addition to the state sales tax. local option sales tax as a way to reduce their dependence on property taxes for revenue and as a way to actually cut the level of property

The results of the new law have been encouraging for both tax payers and local government officials. The city of Athens, as a result of revenue generated by the tax, has reduced its residential property tax to one mill. The city of Savannah has seen its property taxes descend from 27 to 9

Such reductions are obviously pleasing to both voters and elected officials, but it is obvious that an additional one per cent would not be regarded as welcome.

The Georgia Municipal Association calculates that cities and counties that presently have the local option sales tax would lose about 25 per cent of their present revenue from the exemption of food and drugs.

From the evidence presented thus far, it appears that Miller's proposal would do more harm than good and that Clayton County would do well to consider the potential benefits of its own local option sales tax.

CJC Names Nursing Head

Department of Nursing has been named at Clayton Junior jcollege, according to of the Division of Natural Medical College of Georgia Sciences and Mathematics and a master's degree in at the two-year institution nursing from Emory Univerdirector of the School of joined the CJC faculty of

As head of the Department of Nursing, Ms. majoring in administration. Douglas will be responsible for instruction, curriculum improvement, educational experimentation and academic advisement within the department. She will coordinate and supervise all activities of the Department of Nursing, and will be responsible directly to the chairman of the Division of Natural Sicences and Mathematics.

BORN IN Homerville, Ga., Ms. Douglas earned a diploma from the Crawford member of the American

Later, she received the ditional studies at Memphis Nursing at Methodist State University and cur-Hospital in Memphis, Tenn, rently is enrolled in the doctor of science in nursing program at the University of Alabama in Birmingham, ministration.

Ms. Douglas served as a clinical instructor and later as chairman of the medicalsurgical nursing department and supervisor of nursing services at Crawford Long Hospital's School of Nursassistant director of the programs, the nursing Registered Nurse. Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, and four years later became director at the Tennessee institution.

MS. DOUGLAS is a

A new head for the W. Long Memorial Hospital Nurses' Association, the School of Nursing in 1953. National League for Nursing, the American Hospital and men to meet the need bachelor of science degree in Association, and a number for nurses in south Atlanta Dr. O.C. Lam III, chairman nursing education from the of other Tennessee and area. The program includes Southeastern nursing general education and organizations.

an appointment by the perience and training ear Morrow.

Joy Lynn Douglas, former

She has completed adSecretary of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare on the National Advisory Hospital and other clinics Council on Nurse Training of the Health Resource Ad-

A member of the Lutheran church, she also holds memberships in the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Pilot Club, Sigma Theat Tau, and Kappa Delta Pi.

One of the college's specialized nursing courses, She currently is serving along with clinical exthrough the college's affiliation with Claytor Hospital, South Fulton > and hospitals in the area. One of the 13 two-year programs offered by Clayton Junior College, the nursing program is accredited by the National League for Nursing and the State Board of Nurse Examiners.

Successful completion of the program and the examination of the Georgia Board of Nursing licenses In 1961, she was named original two-year career the graduates as a

Ms. Douglas

NEW FACULTY WELCOMED-Dr. O. C. Lam (left), chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics at Clayton Junior College, welcomed new faculty within his division during a recent orientation program. Pictured with Dr. Lam are, from left: Dr. Christine D. Stah, temporary instructor of biology; Kathleen L. Sheridan, instructor of dental hygiene; and Robert L. Vogel, instructor of mathematics.

C & H SUN 9/27/79 'Faculty Seminar' Held at CJC

Members of the Clayton Junior College faculty participated in "faculty seminar" discussions on campus last week in preparation for this week's opening of fall quarter clas-

Returning faculty members were joined by new arrivals during the week-long series of programs, held annually prior to the start of the fall

Registration for credit courses offered during the quarter was conducted on Monday of this week, and classes began on Tuesday. New members of the faculty include Joy Lynn Douglas, associate professor of Nursing; Alan L. Kaye, mathematics. instructional services librarian; Kathleen L. Sheridan, instructor of dental hygiene; Dr. Christine D. Stah, temporary instructor

LIBRARIAN JOINS CJC-Alan L. Kaye (right), newly named Instructional Services Librarian at Clayton Junior College, goes over his duties with Dr. Jack A. Bennett, Director of Learning Resources.

Dr. Jean M. Jones, director of counseling and testing, and Counselor Betsy Shackelford joined the CJC faculty during the of biology; and Robert L. summer quarter and are and head of the Department Vogel, instructor of entering their first fall

JEANNINE MORRISON Professor To Perform

Pianist Will Give Recital

Pianist Jeannine Romer Morrison, who is currently an assistant professor of music at Clayton Junior College, will be among the artists performing at the Winter World stage during Christmas at Callanwolde. Mrs. Morrison will give a recital on Dec. 8 at 7:30 p.m. Zat Callanwolde, 980 ZBriarcliff Road.

Mrs. Morrison has given debut recitals in New York's Town Hall, the National Galelery of Art in Washington, □D.C., Eaton Auditorium in Contario, Canada, and has appeared as a soloist with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, the Florida Symphony and several other or-

Robert H. Welborn

Alan L. Kaye (R), newly named Instructional Services Librarian at Clayton Junior College, goes over his duties with Dr. Jack A. Bennett, director of learning resources and

NEWS/DAILY September 23, 1979

Kennedy Vs. Carter

The fact that the presidential race, even though it is still over a year away, is already beginning a symbol of the political malaise that we are currently afflicted with. It is going to be a long and not very enjoyable cam-

Chief interest at the moment centers on the open, but officially unannounced, candidacy of Senator Kennedy against President Carter. Most of the opinion polls show him to be ahead of every other candidate of both parties in voter identification and in voter preference, but this favorable response must be based on something other than his stand on the issues, for many of his proposals are not in line with the prevailing political

Kennedy's political prescriptions for our ills are basically those of a latter day New Dealer. He contends more government spending and programs are needed, not less, while most voters appear to be reacting negatively to the idea of government expansion

Take his plan for national health insurance. Kennedy has put forward the idea of a comprehensive cradle to the grave national health plan which would cover all costs of virtually every type of medical procedure. The cost of such a program would obviously be in the billions. By way of contrast, Carter's proposal is a limited plan, underwritten by private insurance companies, that would provide coverage against only castatrophic illness. Such a plan, involving only a moderate increase in health care costs by the federal government, would appear to be more in keeping with current public opi-

If and when he announces, Kennedy will also have to deal with the ques tions that are bound to arise concerning the tragic death of Mary Jo Kopechne. To many voters, Ken nedy's attempts to avoid responsibility in this accident have cast grave doubts upon the question of his per sonal integrity. Carter may be laboring under many difficulties. but this type of question is not one of them. The main point of all this is that Kennedy's popularity as an unannounced candidate may not translate into guaranteed success when he officially announces. Now Kennedy has the glamor of his name, and the low popularity of Carter as his chief assets. When he has to publicly defend his proposals and his record, he might encounter more dfficulty.

For Carter, the irony is that his proposals have been much more politically acceptable than Kennedy's on such issues as health care, labor legislation, and national defense, but he has been unable to translate this into popular confidence. His chief difficulty is the growing impression that he lacks leadership ability and shows a consistent inability to compromise. Like I said, it's not going to be a very enjoyable campaign.

(Robert H. Welborn is a professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a regular columnist for News-Daily. His opinions expressed here are his own and not those of the college).

Douglas Heads Nursing At CJC

Department of Nursing has been named at Clayton Junior College, according to Dr. O.C. Lamm III, chair- and a master's degree in Memphis State University men of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics.

Joy Lynn Douglas, former Director of the School of Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., joined the CJC faculty Sept.

As Head of the Department of Nursing, Ms. Douglas will be responsible for instruction, curriculum improvement, educational experimentation, and academic advisement within the department. She will coordinate and supervise all activities of the Department of Nursing, and will be responsible directly to the Chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics.

Born in Homerville, Ga., Ms. Douglas earned a diploma from the Crawford W. Long Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in 1953.

A new Head for the She later received the nursing from Emory and currently is enrolled in bachelor of science degree in University.

nursing education from the She has completed Medical College of Georgia additional studies at the doctor of science in nursing program at the University of Alabama in Birmingham, majoring in

Robert H. Welborn October 21, 1979

Miller's Gamble

Zell Miller's of Herman Lt. Gov. denouncement Talmadge's conduct and his stated intention to oppose Georgia's senior senator in the 1980 Democratic primary constitute a major political gamble, and whatever the outcome. should make this an interesting political year.

Miller's strong moral stance will no doubt appeal to some voters, but could just as easily alienate others. American voters have shown an amazing capacity for forgiveness toward politicians who have publicly confessed and acknowledged their shortcomings, as Talmadge has done.

Staff Writer

their part in the selection of delegates to the 1980 Democratic National Con-

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Lake City Elementary School, on Phillips Drive in Lake City. According to Robert Bolander, chairman of the Democratic Party in Clayton County, "all those interested in becoming

The featured speaker for the meeting will be Robert Walling, vice-chairman of the Democratic Party in Georgia. A lawyer and former general counsel for the state Democratic Party, Walling will discuss delegate selection for the

"The National Democratic Party has in its rules that only Democrats may elect Democrats to the convention," Bolander explained. "Most states have no difficulty with that since they either have party registration or a loyalty oath stating that you will support the presidential nominee of the party you support."

and so state Democrats have "had to come up with an alternative."

from their own group to attend the national convention.

Georgia used to have such a loyalty oath, Bolander said, but does no longer

Bolander called the alternative, which Walling will explain in detail Thursday

Basically, four delegates for each state house district will be elected to a

Because Clayton County has four representatives to the state House of Representatives, there will be 16 delegates from the county to the district district caucus. Delegates to the district caucus will, in turn, elect delegates night, "a process which allows a lot of participation on the grassroots level."

delegates or finding out more about the selection process are urged to attend.'

Clayton County Democrats will hold a meeting Thursday evening to discuss

Such an acknowledgement does not have to be the full story (certainly Ted Kennedy's account was not complete), just a statement indicating personal errors in judgment and a pledge to do better in the future is normally sufficient.

Miller would do well to remember how Eugene Talmadge, father of the present senator, handled a similar situation in the 1930s, because it is evident that Herman Talmadge remembers the lesson.

Confronted by political opponents in a close race with clear evidence of financial misconduct, Gene Talmadge replied to the crowd, "Sure I stole, but I stole for you." It worked and he won the race. A little honesty can go a long way in politics, especially if the person displaying the honesty already has an established position.

Miller's other problems are that he is a liberal by Georgia standards (although he would certainly be considered only a moderate by national standards) and he has no established positions on major national issues. Miller's best strategy, now that he has stated his condemnation of Talmadge's activities, would probably be to begin speaking out on national issues and to deemphasize his liberal stance on social

Talmadge's major advantage is his incumbency and the state-wide reputation that he enjoys as a result of his Senate seat. He just may be able to turn his denouncement by the Senate into political capital if he can convince enough voters that he was a victim of the "Washington establishment" (a mythical group composed of all those people in Washington who disagree with Talmadge's view of the whole matter). But the race will still probably be a close one, for Talmadge's assertions of his votegetting ability may be inflated. The fact is that Talmadge has not faced any serious political opposition in 12

In 1968 a young Maynard Jackson ran against him, and by losing gained a political reputation. In 1974 Talmadge's only opposition was from an unknown Republican. Zell Miller is the first established political figure to challenge Talmadge in quite a while, and it will be interesting to see just

ROBERT BOLANDER Clayton Party Chairman

BOB WELBORN

Welborn: Clayton Lags In Recreation Staff Writer

Clayton Junior College history professor Bob Welborn says Clayton County is lagging behind neighboring counties in recreational development

Speaking at the second of three lectures in a series as part of Clayton Junior College's tenth anniversary, Welborn cited development and recreational usage in Clayton County since World War II.

He said Clayton County was a basically agricultural region until World War II, with a small population devoted to growing cotton. The 80-year period from 1860 to 1940 saw only an increase in population from 4,500 to 11,500. "The 1940s saw the first growth explosion in Clayton County," Welborn said.

'That came with the army depot at Fort Gillem and the expansion of the air-Up until that time, there had been little or no concern for the environment or recreational land. So little of the county was populated that it was not necessary, Welborn said. Forest Park became the first city in the county to have a population boom. "It was also the city that first did something about recreation," Wellborn said, citing the development of a recreation department in 1963.

At the same time the county was doing little toward providing land for recreation. "The county commissioners for the last thirty years have been concerned with getting people to work and back home again. So the money has gone for roads rather than parks.'

Yet Welborn used Forest Park as an example for what he thinks will happen county-wide with recreational facilities. "Forest Park has reached about as large a population as can be expected." Thus, he said, more attention is paid to recreation and environment.

"The only areas Clayton County could seem to expand would be Riverdale and the unincorporated areas. Also, the road construction intended to be completed by 1984 is finished, now under construction or will be under construction in the near future," Welborn said.

Welborn predicted that would mean an expansion of the present $577,847 parks and recreational budget in the near future.

He said one reason for the lack of parks in the county in the past has been that the close proximity of Atlanta parks have discouraged construction.

Clayton County spends only $6 per person for recreation each year, Welborn said. That compares with $11 spent by nearby Dekalb County and the state average of $17 per person.

Welborn mentioned new parks like Independence and Rex Park, and the Reynold's Nature Preserve as reasons for optimism for the future of Clayton

"Reynold's Nature Preserve is a unique aspect in a metro area," he said, speaking of a recent visit to the 120-acre preserve. That and the planned water quality control plant, which Welborn called "one of the model sewer systems in the Southeast," will both be beneficial to the county's environment in the future.

The final lecture in the series, concerning the national environment, will be next Monday evening, Oct. 29, at the junior college.

Cites Recreational Development

Robert H. Welborn

Trouble In Iran

(Robert H. Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a regular columnist for News-Daily. His opinions are his own and not necessarily those of the

The situation in Iran is troubling and dangerous, but a little perspective on the circumstances surrounding the present situation may help us make it through this crisis without precipitating a bigger one. Probably one question which bothers many people is why do they hate us? Such a question is especially troubling to most Americans since we normally tend to think of ourselves as benefactors bringing enlightenment and fast food franchises to less technological nations. But the answer to the question is quite simple- they hate the Shah and thus they also hate any nation identified as his supporter, and the fact is that the U.S. Government was his strongest supporter for many years.

Iranians hate the Shah for two main reasons: he was a political tyrant who kept himself in power by eliminating his potential opponents and critics through execution, banishment, and imprisonment. His other mistake was that he attempted to quickly Westernize the country, thus undercutting Iran's centuries-old conservative Islamic culture.

Either of these policies would have been enough to cause great resentment and resistance to his rule. Their combination was enough to spark a true revolution. And this is a fact we must not forget; what happened in Iran was a true people's revolt. It was not the result of a conspiracy by a small group of dedicated revolutionaries.

By the time of his hasty exit, the Shah was hated by virtually all classes and groups in the country. We must remember that the Shah tried to repress the revolt by the unrestrained use of his large, American-equipped army, but even well-trained troops cannot quash an entire population in rebellion.

But now that the revolution is over, Iran is in the midst of an internal debate as to what direction and in what form the country will now develop. Right now, the conservative Islamic leaders are in the ascendancy (i.e., the Ayatollah Khomeini and his cohorts), but their continued domination is not assured. The new middle class of Iran, dependent for their status and incomes on the continued development of a more urban and technological economy, number several million and their voice is bound to be heard more in the near future.

They probably do not wish to see their country revert to some preindustrial pure Islamic republic, for this would mean the end of such gains as the right of women to work outside the home and the freedom of students to be educated in non-Islamic countries.

As to the present situation, it should be noted that Carter did not initiate the policy of arming the Shah to be the protector of our oil interests in the Middle East; that distinction belongs to Nixon and Kissinger. But he is certainly having to deal with the results of that policy, and so far his actions appear to have just the right combination of firmness and moderation.

Let us hope for the sake of both the U.S. and Iran that reason prevails and that more drastic measures are not needed to free the hostages.

RECOGNIZED—Heart Unit volunteers recognized for outstanding service in 1979, from left, are Jean Rick, Waynes Hayes, Bettielu Conaway and Avery Har-

Heart Unit Volunteers Honored

The Clayton County Heart Unit began the New Year by recognizing the efforts of four of its Volunteers.

Dr. Avery Harvill, Chairman of the Physical Education Department of Clayton Junior College was recognized for his long-term work in the area of cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). Dr. Harvill served on the original Heart Assocation CPR Task Force and has continued in the capacities of County. District, and now is State CPR Chairman.

October 28, 1979 NEWS/DAILY

Gun Control

It is tragic that it takes a brutal incident such as the senseless murder of an innocent young woman and the suicide of her sick murderer to bring out a long overdue call for greater gun control in Georgia, for the need has been there for years.

Robert H. Welborn

The simple fact is that the easy availability of firearms, especially pistols, has created a situation in which there are simply too many people possessing weapons who have no business with them. In defense of a self-proclaimed right to bear arms, fearful of the pro-gun forces, and perplexed by the difficulty of obtaining a fair and enforceable law, our General Assembly has neglected this issue, with the result that our cities are becoming armed

Considering the probable number of guns in the metropolitian Atlanta area, the remarkable aspect of the city's murder rate is that it is not higher than the present score of 196.

Handgun limitation should be the first object of any new gun law in this state. The facts show that most armed robberies and murders are committed with pistols. By comparison, rifles and shotguns play a relatively minor role in the mayhem on our streets.

The object of such a handgun restriction law should be the reduction of domestic murders. We should not delude ourselves that handgun restrictions will prevent the confirmed criminal from acquiring a weapon. But the statistics show that your chances of being murdered by someone you know are much higher than of being murdered by a stranger during the commission of felony. Thus, be reducing the domestic murder rate we would be going a long way toward making our society safer.

The next question is how to devise a handgun law that can be enforced and that will be accepted by the public. A combination of a waiting period plus the posting of a substantial bond for one or two years might very well be the best combination of the alternatives so far presented.

A waiting period of a week or so between the filing of a purchase application and the conclusion of the sale would help to prevent crimes of passion and make possible at least a rudimentary check into the applicant's background. The posting of a substantial bond at the time of application for purchase (say $200-$500), with the provision that the bond would be kept if the background check turned up something serious enough to disqualify the applicant, would prevent the casual purchase of handguns. And frankly, anyone who is casual about the purchase of a handgun probably doesn't need one.

Let us hope that the General Assembly will act swiftly on this issue, for we have long needed such a

The following is only a partial list, so please feel free to add your own choices. Also, please note each of the following will require either changing present budget priorities or additional revenue. Such additional revenue could come from more stringent economy over present sources (this will be difficult for the present county budget contains little fat), raising the tax rate on present sources (never popular), or finding new sources (difficult, but not impossible). There is also the prospect of an increase in revenue due to the growth in Clayton's tax digest, but this growth will not be as large as it has been in the recent First, this county needs some public swimming pools. There is a pool that the county leases in the southwestern part of the county, but one pool for 140,000 people tends to make things a little crowded. Forest Park also has one, but with a population of over 20,000, that facility also sees considerable use. Although there are a couple of parks that could easily accomodate a pool, the county would not necessarily have to build a complete new complex, but could purchase some existing establishment. Next, the county commissioners should establish a tree ordinance similar to that of the city of Atlanta. Trees could do a great deal to soften the impact of the kind of strip development found in certain parts of the county, as well as contributing their obvious natural benefits.

Also, this county needs more sidewalks, especially around some of its schools. From personal observation, it is evident that there is still a considerable number of students who walk to school, and as subdivisions develop around some of the newer schools, their number will probably increase. But students who do walk in this county should surely be rewarded for their courage, for the obstacles they face are harrowing. They frequently are compelled to walk on the narrow shoulder of a busy highway, manfully pressing onward through knee-high weeds and wet grass, while trying not to notice the heavy traffic hurtling by only a couple of feet from them. Let us hope it does not take a tragic accident to bring about some improvement in this area.

And, we could also use a large multi-purpose auditorium for the county. Not the deluxe convention facility that was overwhelmingly rejected by county voters a few years ago, but simply a multi-use building that would be suitable for graduations, concerts, plays, or any other type of large assembly.

That's part of my list. If you agree with any of them, let your county commissioners know your Robert H. Welborn

NEWS/DAILY October 7, 1979

The Sales Tax

To recommend an increase in taxation is certainly a new experience for this writer, but that is the unusual position in which I now find myself. It has all been brought into focus by this week's rejection of the local option sales tax by Atlanta and Fulton county voters.

The great benefit of the local option sales tax is that it provides property tax relief while also providing in most instances increased revenue for local governments. But in Fulton county, even with its high level of property tax, the sales tax had at least two major strikes against it from the

First, an additional penny on top of the present 4 percent would have given Fulton county the dubious distinction of having the highest total sales tax of any county within the state. Second, the local option sales tax would not have provided any direct and immediate tax relief for the enormous rental population within the county. Owners of rental property would have seen a decrease in their assessments, but it is doubtful if many such owners would have passed such benefits along in the form of rent reductions.

But in Clayton County such a tax could be of real benefit to most citizens and to our county and municipal governments. while not raising our sales tax rate above the existing rate of surrounding counties. Clayton has relatively low population of apartment dwellers, so the thousands of home-owners in the county would enjoy a real tax savings. Such a saving would normally be more than the cost of the additional one per cent and the amount of property tax reduction would be visible immediately for the law requires that each property owner's tax bill carry a computation showing the effect of the local option sales tax in reducing his tax bill.

Now it is a fact that Clayton voters rejected this tax once before, but that was under the previous law which has since been declared unconstitutional. The original law allowed either cities or counties to enact such a tax and contained no guarantee concerning the division of revenue between county and city governments. The new law (which has already been passed in 82 of Georgia's 159 counties) must be county-wide and requires county and city officials to agree on a formula for sharing the revenue before the tax can be collected, thus removing one of the major defects of the old law.

The tax would also offer our local governments some barrier against the ravages of inflation, for the amount collected by the sales tax would increase along with retail

Finally, by not funneling a sales tax increase through the state (Zell Miller's plan), local governments would remain free of state restrictions and would be free to establish their own priorities for the use of their share of the new revenue.

Since we are going to provide tax relief to businesses through freeport, why not a little tax relief for the rest of us through our own local option sales

NEWS/DAILY Robert H. Welborn

Double Taxation

November 6, 1979

Representatives of the Clayton County Municipal Association will present to the Board of Commissioners next week a special study on double taxation of city residents within the county. And apparently they mean business, for they are asking for a written reply by January

The conclusions in the study are based on an analysis of how property tax funds are used by the county in providing recreation, public works, rabies control, police and fire protection, etc.

Double taxation occurs when taxpayers provide revenue for not only services that they use, but also pay for services that they will not use. Thus, a resident of Forest Park pays both city and county property tax to support the services of both governments. But there are certain services offered by the county, such as police protection, which are supported by his taxes but which he will not normally be able to use. The cities of the county claim that the county government has created through the duplication of services that were already being offered by municipal governments. The amount of money under consideration is substantial. The CCMA contends that taxpayers in the county's cities paid some $1,145,641 for services which weren't actually available to them and for which they received no substantial benefit. The major service looked upon as a county duplication from which city residents receive no real benefit is public safety or police protection. The chief recommendation of the CCMA is that the county provide some relief to city taxpayers by the creation of special tax districts for Clayton's municipalities, similar to the county fire district system. Such a system would mean that city residents would no longer be paying for services that they actually don't use. The CCMA calculates that such a special tax district plan would save most city residents about 38 per cent on their current county property tax bills.

question The next that naturally arises, however, is how will such a reduction in revenue affect county government.

It is doubtful that the county will be able to save enough from the reduction in services to cities to offset the loss of revenue. Thus, from a political perspective the commissioners are not likely to be too receptive to the special tax increase for a majority of the county's residents (only some 45,000 of the county's 130,000 residents live in incorporated areas)

One way or another the action of the CCMA should bring about some change in the present situation. My own preference would be to see the public safety services of the cities and the county consolidated because it would probably promote both efficiency and economy. But if this proves politically impossible, then the plan of the CCMA should be adopted. Double taxation is an unfair fact of life for municipal residents and they are entitled to some relief.

Robert H. Welborn NEWS/DAILY

Unwanted Cemetery

(Robert Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and regular columnist for News/Daily. The opinions expressed in his column are his own and not those of the college),

When is representative government not representative? When it makes decisions that are not representative of the people's representatives. The decision of the Veterans Administration to place a new national cemetery in Fort Gillem is an excellent example of this type of decision. It also raises some important questions about the real influence of our elected representatives over decisions made by the executive branch.

When the VA announced last year that it was looking into alternative sites for several national cemeteries. Fort Gillem was listed as one of the possibilities. Shortly thereafter, local political opposition be egan to emerge to the location of such a site in Clayton county. The remarkable aspect of this opposition was its unanimity. Within the space of a few months the Forest Park mayor and city council, the Clayton County Board of Commissioners, and the County Chamber of Commerce had all come out inopposition to the location of a national cemetery within Fort Gillem.

Also listed as a possible site was a location in Alabama, just across the state line from Fort Benning. Within a short period of time local political support for this site was quite evident. Congressman Jack Brinkley of the 3rd District of Georgia (just across the river from the proposed site) and the Alabama congressman in whose district the cemetery would be located issued joint statements of support for the selection of this site. Local politicans soon joined in this endorsement.

National political support soon developed for Clayton's opposition to the site. Congressman Newt Gringrich, and Senators Talmadge and Nunn came out in opposition to the Fort Gillem site and gave encouragement to local political leaders in their position. By the spring of 1978, it was quite evident that local and national representatives of Alabama' favored the selection of their site and that local and national representatives were opposed to the Clayton county site.

During the summer of 1979 the VA released figures on the estimated cost of converting the alternative sites into national cemeteries. As it turned out Fort Gillem was the most expensive, even using the VA estimates. Thus, reasons of economy were now allied with political opposition against the selection of Fort Gillem.

Now most of us would probably consider unified political opposition, increased expenditure, and the open desire of another area for the national cemetery to be compelling reasons for not locating the installation here. Ah, but that would be expecting the government to use reason in making such decisions, and as experience tells us reason and government decisions have only a casual relationship. There is also the consideration of an election year coming up, and no doubt there are more voting veterans in the Atlanta area than in eastern Alabama.

Thus, those who wanted a cemetery don't get one and those who didn't want one will now receive what they never desired. Such perversity certainly makes politics interesting, but it also adds to our frustrations.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR November 14, 1979

New Faculty Welcomed

Dr. O.C. Lam (L), chairman of the division of natural sciences and mathematics at Clayton Junior College, welcomed new faculty members within his division during fall orientation programs. The new faculty members are (L-R) Dr. Christine D. Stah, temporary instructor of biology; Kathleen L. Sheridan, instructor of dental hygiene; and Robert L. Vogel, instructor of mathematics. The new instructors joined the staff during the college's 10 year anniversary, which is being observed throughout the school terms this year.

IN THE OFFICE (L-R) IS TRUETT CATHY WITH HIS SON, BUBBA CATHY AND WIFE, JEANNETTE Founder And President Of Chick-Fil-A Inc., Cathy's Business Headquarters Are Located In Hapeville

EXPANSION OF CHICK-FIL-A INC. IS POINTED OUT BY THE COMPANY'S FOUNDER AND PRESIDENT

Company President Truett Cathy, 58, Is Planning To Open 70 New Chick-Fil-A's In The Next Two Year Connie King Named CJC

Financial Aid Director

has assumed duties as Director of Financial Aid and Placement at Clayton duties at CJC includes state, local, and institutional Junior College, according to assistance to students in a financial aid programs. She Robert C. Bolander, Dean of seeking out students in need Mrs. King, a native of offinancial assistance, Millen, Georgia, served as counseling them and Basic Grant Program members of their families Specialist at Georgia State about the various types of University for three years. financial aid available, and She came to Clayton Junior assisting these students in College to continue her completing a financial aid career as a financial aid application.

NEW FINANCIAL AID DIRECTOR AT CLAYTON JUNIOR Constance L. King and Dean of Students Robert C. Bolander

Responsible directly to maintain student records Dean Bolander, Mrs. King's and administer all federal, number of ways. She will be will be working with students involved in on-campus and off-campus jobs.

The office of Financial Aid Placement was established at Clayton Junior College to provide assistance to students who otherwise could not attend college. The Director of the Office administers a number of specialized and general work, loan, and scholarship

Students who plan to enroll at CJC, or others who already are enrolled, should contact Mrs. King (363-7735) for complete information about the various programs available.

A member of the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church and secretary of the East Glen Civic Association, Mrs. King resides at 4198 Ridgetop Trail in Ellenwood with her husband and 6-year old daughter. A graduate of Georgia State University, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calis Shumake of

June 11, 1980 CJC Announces Eight Promotions

Eight members of the Reading. Clayton Junior College Promoted from the rank of for promotions.

and Dr. Henrietta C. Miller. Pridmore, Physics.

faculty have been approved "assistant professor" to "associate professor" were Receiving promotions Dr. M. Catherine Aust, from the rank of "in- Mathematics; Dr. Helen D. structor" to that of Brown, Biology; Dr. C. "assistant professor" were Blaine Carpenter, Biology; William M. Gore, Music; Dr. Jeannine R. Morrison, Eugene A. Hatfield, History; Music; and Dr. Brooke M.

Founder's Work Started Early

By CAROLYN WILDES

Staff Writer Selling soft drinks from End at the age of eight, Truett Cathy little realized that he would one day become the founder and president of Chick-Fil-A Inc., which is based in Hapeville.

'There was never any doubt in my mind that someday I would have a business of my own. I just didn't know what it would be," says Cathy, 58.

Chick-Fil-A's in the next two weeklong Institute on Basic years, he oversees 135 units in 20 states from as far west as, New Mexico and Colo- the nation by Bill Gothard on rado to as far north as New

"I believe I'm doing the thing that God designed me for. I do believe that Biblical principles apply to businesses as well as to our own personal lives," says Cathy, who teache a 13 year old boys Sunday School class at the First Baptist Church of Jonesboro.

"We're grateful for the success that we've experienced and we just hope much of his success to the that God might receive the support of his wife of 32 years, Jeannette; daughter, glory for our accomplishments," he says.

clude closing all Chick-Fil-A vice-president of operations,

Day"; holding weekly devo-tional programs for the central staff employees and givhis front yard stand in West ing a $1,000 scholarship to each young person who has worked for the company for

Thus far, 446 young Chick-Fil-A employees have qualified to receive the scholarship money to go to the college of their choice.

Cathy also makes it a policy to pay the tuition fees of any Chick-Fil-A employee Planning to open 70 new who wants to attend the Youth Conflicts, a series of lessons taught throughout applying Biblical principles in one's daily life.

> "In developing our personnel, we try to motivate an individual to be his best self in relation to his community, his family and God as well as to his business. It's very difficult for a man to operate a business successfully and have problems at home," he says.

Cathy also attributes Mrs. John (Trudy) White His company policies in- and sons Dan, Chick-Fil-A's units on Sundays as a way and Bubba, manager of the "to preserve the Lord's company's Southlake unit." Robert H. Welborn

Revival Of The Klan

(Robert H. Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a regular columnist for News-Daily. His opinions are his own and not necessarily those of the

In recent months the Klu Klux Klan has begun to make itself visible again, and this should be a cause of concern for all law abiding citizens. Last month in McDonough the Klan held a parade and rally around the town square. Up in Cartersville, silent Klansmen marched to protest the firing of one of their members by local officials. And in Greensboro, N.C., in an open and brutal fashion, Klan members murdered five of their

The one hopeful aspect of this resurgence is that the Klan today is divided into several factions, each pushing for money, public exposure, and influence at the expense of the others and disliking each other almost as much as they dislike the 20th century. But one of the most serious mistakes we could make would be to pass off this resurgence as the work of a group of crackpots who like to walk around in bed sheets and pointed hats. These people are serious about their ideas and intentions and they are increasing their membership, especially among young white males of high school and college age. And those grim, silent young men who paraded in Cartersville last week are living proof that some of their propaganda is working.

It is useful then to remind ourselves occasionally of exactly what the Klan represents, for by simply dismissing the movement we unwittingly provide them with the opportunity to perpetuate their own myths. The Klanstands for white, Anglo Saxon, racial supremacy. They are anti-black, anti-Jewish, anti-Catholic, antiimmigrant, and anti-urban. They claim to be protectors of white Christianity, but their brand of religion must surely be puzzling to many, for it omits most of the basic tenets of the New Testament.

At its basic level, their doctrine is one of hatred based on fear; fear that the dominance which white, Protestant, middle-Americans once exercised in this country is slipping. They fear and hate the pluralistic and multi-racial society that might evolve in this country.

It is no accident that the leader of the gunmen in Greensboro was a member of the American Nazi party, for in truth the dividing line between the Klan and Nazism is almost indistinguishable. They are both based on theories of racial supremacy and extol the virtues of violence. Whenever we condone racism (casual or overt), violence, or resistance to lawful authority, we are in effect supporting their cause. This is not to advocate a policy of active repression against the Klan. Our best policy would be one of open denunciation of their ideas and silent contempt for their efforts to attain publicity. And most of all, we should remember what happened the last time (Germany in 1933) that such ideas and spokesmen were not taken

Truett Cathy Stands In Front Of The Dwarf House In Hapeville, Where It All Began

From A Dwarf To A Giant

Atlantan Truett Cathy, armed with a unique personal style and solid fast-food idea, has taken Chick-Fil-A from its

of popular restaurants

Hapeville beginnings to a national chain

By Joseph Litsch Constitution Staff Writer

BETTER MOUSETRAP is not always the only motivation the world needs to storm your door and patronize you into unexpected prosperity. Sometimes, it's a better sandwich. Truett Cathy marinated, seasoned, pressure-fried and perfected what began as a "chicken steak sandwich," today known as

Chick-Fil-A, a boneless chicken breast served with kosher dill chips on a buttered bun. In 1979 Cathy expects his nationwide sandwich operation to gross more than $55 million. And that's hardly chicken

So far, Chick-Fil-A has doubled in volume and gross every two years since Cathy introduced Chick-Fil-A to his Dwarf House clientele in Hapeville 17 years ago. Today, there are 137 Chick-Fil-A short-order restaurants in 20 states, from Albuquerque to Denver to Philadelphia, with projected openings into 1981.

The success of Chick-Fil-A — the product and the restaurant chain - can be traced to a time of great despair in Cathy's life, when the second and favorite of his "Dwarf" (sized) restaurants in Forest Park was gutted by fire in 1962. (The first opened in 1946 on Central Avenue in Hapeville. It has survived.)

During World War II, Cathy was stationed for a while at Atlanta General Depot, now Fort Gillem, in Forest Park. "I used to look at that spot on the corner and often wished that I could jump out there and get some scrambled eggs," Cathy said. In 1951, just in time for the influx of Army personnel the Korean conflict brought to the post, Cathy opened the Dwarf House, a branch of the original Dwarf Grill in Hapeville.

It was a small building with a grill, a counter with stools, a row of booths by the windows and a jukebox that blared out such tunes as Kay Starr's "Wheel of Fortune" and Tony Bennett's "Blue Velvet." There was curb service in the north parking lot.

Hamburgers were the main fare; they cost 20 cents. Fried apple and peach pies were 5 cents; so were Cokes, the six-ounce size served in a bottle with a glass of ice. And the steak plate, a seven-ounce ribeye with French fries and rolls, was the most expensive item on the menu at 90 cents.

expensive item on the menu at 90 cents.

The Dwarf House lived up to its name in every way but business volume. Often sizzling hamburgers completely covered the grill, manned by Weyman and Harold; Jean, the lone waitress, worked the floor. Cathy often joined the crew.

Weyman Evans later opened his own restaurant. Weyman's Food T'Go, in Morrow and the menu bore a striking similarity to original Dwarf House fare.

"Somebody always had to stop and catch the cash," Cathy reminisced of those days, "That was my second restaurant, but I felt like that one was home.

About 1952 Cathy turned the back portion of his building into a dining area, called The Mural Room after a painting of Snow White's castle in the distance, with a cottage on the left and a mine entrance on the left. The seven dwarves were attached to a chain that moved them from the cottage to the mine. The painting - and the one in the Hapeville restaurant as well - was by Atlanta artist Doug Davis, who was among the 129 victims in the Orly, France, plane crash of June 3, 1962, in which the cream of Atlanta's arts community perished.

See CHICK, Page 4-B

By CHRIS JACKSON

Georgia's Democratic

Staff Writer

This has been a depressing year, and it's probably good for all of us that it is about to end. To add to your holiday cheer, it might be instructive to review, before we get too merry for the holidays, just what we nave to be depressed about.

Internationally, the situation in Iran is bad and gives every indication of getting worse. WIth a religious prophet in charge who appears to care very little about his country's international reputation, its economic stability, or the lives of his followers. there appears to be precious little leverage that we can apply for the hostages' safe return.

And if they are tried and executed, the military reprisal strikes that we will almost certainly then carry out, will not bring them back and will probably destabilize even further (if that's possible) Iran's political situation. What an outcome that will be-- dead hostages, smoking Iranian military installations (and it will be American equipment burning), and the Soviet Union ready to capitalize on our "brutal" suppression of the newest "people's" revolution. The worst part is that as each day passes without some change, such a scenerio becomes more likely. On the national level, the candidacy of Sen. Edward Kennedy is enough to make any good Democrat depressed. What we do not need in the 1980's is a warmed-over version of the "New Frontier." Maybe we are seeking new leadership, as the pollsters tell us, but we will probably not find such qualities in a middle-aged Massachusetts senator, who still has not answered some hard questions concerning his activities on Chappaquiddick. The blunt truth is that without his family name, Kennedy's mediocre senatorial record would make his attempt at the Presidency seem rather ridiculous. On the State level, the most depressing aspect politically is the U.S. Senate race. Why is it that politicians can never realize when it's time to retire gracefully? The U.S. Senate has publicly disciplined only a few of its members throughout the whole history of the Republic, so when our distinguished Senators feel there is enough evidence to warrant such proceedings, you can be fairly certain that there must be sufficient incriminating material to convict, and put away for life any lesser mortal.

Talmadge's fellow members concluded after considerable expense and time that his actions were disreputable and tended to discredit the image of the Senate. I see no reason to doubt their verdict.

As I said, it's been a depressing year, and our only hope is that surely it can't get much worse with so little of

(Robert H. Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a regular columnist for News-Daily. His opinions are his own and not necessarily those of the

BO BOLANDER, JUNIOR DEAN OF STUDENTS He Explains The Democratic Party Delegation Procedure

the Clayton County Demo- The representative elec- of those delegates. The other tors themselves will be cratic Party. "This is far superior to vying for a spot as a pledged Party will use a new system the catastrophic system of delegate for a candidate and this year for sending dele- 1972," Bolander com- in May or April, will attend gates to the National Con- mented. "It allows for broad the Sixth District caucus and vention in New York where grassroots participation." cast votes for the national the party's presidential can-

When voters go to the convention delegates. The Sixth District will didate will be selected, and polls March 11 for the Presihopefully the process will be dential Preference Primary, send five national delegates more "democratic" than they will cast ballots for a and four alternates to New York. Georgia will send 60,

Allows 'Grassroot Participation'

including add-on and atlarge delegates. The number of representative electors are determined primarily by the amount of posts in each state House district generally two men and two women

Clayton County has four posts, but due to other factors, county voters will elect 10 men and 10 women as representative electors, ative electors and $25 for the Bolander said.

The controversial 'winner-take-all' delegate selection process has been eliminated in Georgia and a presidential candidate will receive a percentage of the representative electors in direct proportion to the outcome of the votes cast in the

For example, if presidential candidate John Doe wins 60 percent of Clayton County's votes March 11, he will receive 60 percent of the representative electors, those who were pledged to him and garnered the most votes themselves.

Candidate Doe would get 12 of Clayton's 20 represent-

These 12 electors would cast their own votes for the national delegates at the Sixth District caucus and the candidate would again receive the same percentage candidates would receive their own percentages also. Anyone can run for the position as representative elector or national delegate. Generally, qualifications are either membership with the Democratic Party or an oath of allegiance to the

The period for qualifying with the state is Jan. 15-29, but as "a service" for interested residents, the Clayton County Democratic Party will hold a one-day session Jan. 19 in the Forest Park courtroom from 10 a.m. until noon to aid in the filling out of forms.

An administrative fee is "requested" by the state party of $10 for representnational delegates, but under certain circumstances the fee could be waived, Bolander explained.

"The intent is not to exclude anyone," he said.

The system was approved last August by the State Democratic Committee, of which Bolander is a part. Bolander himself is quite pleased with the system. "The process as a whole is good in that it allows people at the grassroots to participate in the presidential selection," he re-

Continued From Page 1-B

The Forest Park Dwarf House era ended one cold February morning in 1962 when fire gutted the building. About the same time Cathy had to have surgery. "It just seemed like one thing happened after another and I was worn out physically," he said.

House adjacent to the burned-out building, go out on a limb and introduce self-service. "I knew when it opened that I had made a mistake, and I was puzzled about what to do.' Kentucky Fried Chicken rescued him, and he leased his building to the fast-growing franchise and went back to his Hapeville operation, transferring the Dwarf House name to the original place.

"That seemed to be the answer to my problems," said Cathy. "At one time I did have real desire to have a chain of restaurants. That was in the beginning, but after I opened the second restaurant, I realized that I had as many problems as I really wanted.

"But it (the failure of the new Dwarf House in Forest Park) led me into Chick-Fil-A. We'd already worked on this, calling it a chicken steak sandwich, for want of a better name. I realized it really had a lot of potential. So, we put it on the menu. We worked on the seasonings, and week after week, we could see the sales increase."

Southern Hotel and Restaurant convention as a franchise item, planning to sell it to restaurants and let them market it. It sounded like a good idea, but Cathy quickly became disenchanted with the way other people cooked his chicken. This was his baby; and he, a ferocious

"It seemed like some people would go out of their way to foul something up. I thought if the name 'Chick-Fil-A' meant anything, we had to do better than this. So, we opened our first unit at Greenbriar Shopping Mall (1962). We had a limited menu and only 340 square feet. It was literally a hole in the wall."

Through experimentation Cathy found a deboned chicken breast could be pressure-fried in peanut oil in four minutes, a world record, he claims. The seasonings are a secret Cathy won't divulge.

"I like to say that Chick-Fil-A is the first new fast food item in the last 50 years," he continued. "They're still trying to do some-thing different to a hamburger. Make them teeny-weeny, double-decker, but it's still a hamburger. Hot dogs are the same way. Eightinch dog, foot-long dog, or a 36-inch dog; still, it's a hot dog.'

Chick-Fil-A initially sold for 50 cents.

Today, one costs $1.40. The wholesale price of chicken has risen from 85 cents a pound in '62 to $2.35 today.

"And our first unit cost about $20,000 to open. Now they cost about $175,000."

Truett Cathy learned his business acumen and penchant for quality as a child growing up in Atlanta's West End. "I tell people, especially young people, that I got started in the restaurant business when I was eight years old. When I would go shopping for my mom, I'd go down to the corner grocery store and buy six Cokes for a quarter and go around the neighborhood selling them for a nickel. I'd ice 'em down - I stole a little ice from my mom's icebox - and go from door to door, and I'd make a nickel profit."

He soon learned to flag down the Coke truck and buy a whole case for 80 cents and thereby turn a 40-cent profit. He was also working as a paper boy for the Atlanta Jour-

"And I eventually set up a little stand and expanded my menu to include Nugrape and Orange Crush. So, that was really the beginning. After all those experiences of being in business as a youngster, there was never any doubt in my mind that I'd someday have a World War II interrupted Cathy's education, but when he left Army life in 1946, he decided to try his hand at restaurant management. He and his brother, Ben, pooled their resources and came up with $4,000.

"We bought the piece of property in Hapeville (where the original Dwarf restaurant sits today), 50-by-150 feet for $2,500, and we got a loan of $6,600 from the First National Bank in Atlanta.'

Because the war had depleted U.S. supplies, the Cathys built their restaurant and stocked it with used materials for less than $11,000. (Ben was killed in a plane crash two years after they opened in 1946.)

The location was ideal; under construction across the street was the Ford Plant, Cathy decided to build a new Dwarf providing a steady clinetele. More recently workers at nearby Hartsfield International Airport have also become steady patrons.

> Cathy's success can be measured in part because of his personnel policies and his own personal style. He calls his personnel section the Human Resources Department. He offers scholarships to his younger employees. And he has devised a unique manager incentive pro-

Evidently, he learned early on what makes employees happy. Many Dwarf House ovees have been with him more than 20 years. Henry Wright, kitchen manager, and Zelma Calhoun, chief pie maker, each have more than 25 years tenure.

The Dwarf House has never opened on Sundays (although some Chick-Fil-A units do), "and it never will be as long as Truett Cathy owns it," said former grill man Weyman Evans. "And I assure you more than 10 percent of what he makes goes to his church."

Cathy, though he won't make an issue of He introduced it to the world at the 1932 it, is staunchly religious. "I don't know what you mean by staunchly. I've tried to place a lot of emphasis on my spiritual growth. I have seen miracles performed in the development of my business and I have felt that the Lord had a hand in my development. The reason we close on Sundays is that it gives our employees a chance to rest and start off a new day. And I can't think of anything more distastful than facing a sinkful of dirty dishes in the middle of Sunday afternoon."

Cathy is an active member of the First Baptist Church of Jonesboro and has taught a Sunday School class of 13-year-old boys for almost 25 years both there and in previous churches. "I look at them and see the great potential that they have. I've enjoyed them because they are old enough to make decisions and I think they need to establish some principles in their lives. Also in our business we employ more than 3,000 young people.
"We offer a $1,000 scholarship for any young person who stays with us for at least two years. We know that $1,000 does not go very far, but it is a start and generally if somebody gets started with something, they'll find a way to finish." To date, Chick-Fil-A has awarded more than 450 scholarships worth more than $450,000.

Cathy has also devised his own franchise plan. "We lease our units out. We like the franchise concept, but we didn't want to invite everybody into business with us. So, why not tap that market of people who have a lot of quality to offer, but not the money necessary to take on one of the franchises. We put up the money, and he puts up his talent." Chick-Fil-A leases a unit to an approved manager for $5,000. He draws a set salary, the employees are paid set salaries, and Chick-Fil-A gets a set amount. The profits are split 50-50 between the manager and Chick-Fil-A. Unit managers are guaranteed $12,000 annual salaries, but some make as much as $100,000.

There is also an incentive program for managers to increase business: Lincoln Continental Mark V's. "Every manager that increases his business 40 percent over the previous year gets one of these cars to drive for a year," said Cathy. "If he increases it 40 percent two years in a row, then he gets to keep Already Cathy has given away more than 40 Mark V's and this year 15 will be awarded. The annual Chick-Fil-A seminar is an outing other restaurant chains can use as a standard. Last year, Cathy flew 281 managers and their wives to Ocho Rios, Jamaica, for the seminar. Chick-Fil-A picked up the tab. This year. Cathy transported them all to the Greenbriar, W. Va., resort.

He takes care of his own, family as well as employees. Dan, his oldest son is a Chick-Fil-A vice president; Bubba, his second son. and his wife manage the Southlake Mall Chick-Fil-A; and Trudy, his daughter, and her husband are finishing college at Samford University in Birmingham.

"but I guess I come as close to it as possible."

Despite all the success, Cathy, now 58, remains pretty much as he was back in the mid-1950s when he used to shuck his coat for a white starched cook's apron and paper cap and take a wicked spatula to a batch of hamburger

He never worried about getting his hands dirty. If there was work to be done, he jumped

"I wouldn't say I worship my dad," said
Dan, who calls his father "Truett" at work, live on their farm near Lovejoy. He doesn't Today, he and his wife, Jeannette, still cook as much as he used to, and Cathy Sunday dinners seldom include fried chicken. But he's at the office or on the road opening new units every weekday. He seems to thrive on work.

On the wall facing Cathy's desk is a framed, hand-lettered saying that epitomizes both his life and his business career: "The reason some people don't recognize opportunity is because it usually comes disguised as hard

"I like to say that Chick-Fil-A is the first new fast food item in the last 50 years," Truett Cathy says. "They're still trying to do something different to a hamburger. Make them teeny-weeny, doubledecker, but it's still a hamburger. Hot dogs are the same way. Eight-inch dog, foot-long dog, or a 36-inch dog; still, it's a

Robert H. Welborn

NEWS/DAILY

12/13/79

Gas, Inflation

The plight of the hostages in Iran is justifiably receiving most of the nation's attention, but while this crisis continues with little prospect of a quick or easy solution, our economic crisis also worsens.

Ironically, the situation in Iran, which has had the unexpected result of increasing Congressional and public confidence in the President, could provide Carter with the necessary political clout to push some major legislation through Congress that might help ease our economic inflation, followed by our developing recession. Now one of the primary sources of our inflationary spiral is the increasing cost of energy, particulary petroleum.

Our primary economic problem is

The Carter administration's program for curing our energy inflation is to let the price of gasoline continue to rise until drivers are literally forced off the road by high prices. Its plan to deal with the recession is to insure through high interest rates that it does become a reality. Administration spokesmen contend that such high interest rates will be bound to ultimately reduce inflation by slowing down the

My contention is that a continuation of such policies will bring us the worst of both evils-- continued inflation and a major recession. Perhaps a better idea, and it's not new or unique, would be to adopt some form of gasoline rationing.

To perceive the petroleum question accurately, we must look at it as a political question, the way the Arabs do. The problem in the future may be one of supply, but our immediate problem is cartel pricing. OPEC has plenty of oil and they are willing to sell us as much as we wish, provided we meet their price, which has long since ceased to have any relationship to production costs.

Now the only power we have over OPEC is the power that the biggest buyer has over the seller when he refuses to buy. (We buy almost half of the oil available on the world market). Moderate OPEC regimes, such as Saudi Arabia, torn between their desire for the highest possible returns and their fear of propelling the world into economic chaos, would have an incentive to accommodate us by leveling off or cutting back prices as we leveled off or cut back consumption.

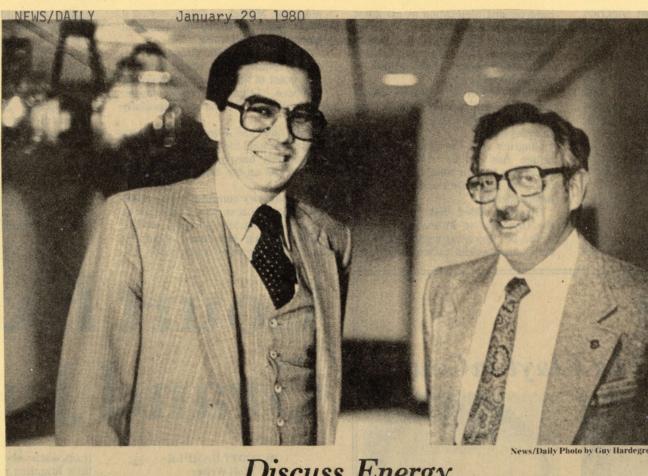

Will Americans voluntarily consume less petroleum if prices are allowed to continue to rise? My guess is that the main result of rising petroleum prices will continue to be rising prices for all commodities affected by such increases, followed by demands from all types of workers for higher wages to maintain their present living standards, and demands from all levels of government for higher taxes to maintain present levels of service

Such increases in prices and wages, it should be noted, will only further increase inflation. But a leveling off of petroleum prices would probably do much to restore stability to the dollar at home and abroad.

I believe that the country would support strong action by the President and I really don't see what we have to lose at this point.

(Robert H. Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and a regular columnist for News-Daily. His opinions are his own and not necessarily those of the

Discuss Energy

Richard D. Sanchez, Co-Director of the office of Community Services at Clayton Junior College in Morrow, and Bob Kerr, Executive Director of the Georgia Conservancy, Inc., discuss the planned national energy forum to be coordinated in Georgia by the Morrow school. Kerr will serve as chairman for the Metro Atlanta Steering Committee of "Energy and the Way We Live," a national forum sponsored by the American Association of Community and Junior

United Way Has Approved Funding For 3 Clayton Agencies

By JAN LITTLE Living Editor

Funding of three Clayton emergency assistance agencies has been approved by the Board of Directors of Metropolitan Atlanta United Way and will mean $30,000 will be available beginning in 1980.

The funds are part of county development monies which permit agencies to expand existing services or provide special services in a designated location, according to Henry Zimmer, United Way representative. Funds and agencies approved include: $18,000 for the emergency assistance meals program for the aging sponsored by the Clatyon Community Services Authority; $7,000 for emergency assistance for Clayton's Department of Family and Children's Services; and $5,000 for rendered by Clayton's Family Care Department. were made by the United Way Clayton County Advisory Committee for planning sub-committee which proposed focusing on services to the elderly,

jan little, editor

Each of the agencies will have to reapply for a funding next year through the county development

News-Daily Photos by Jan Little

emergency financial $10,000 to Clayton this past assistance, services to dependent children and services for families experiencing breakdown or social dysfunctioning.

The funds will be available to the agencies throughout the calendar year of 1980, Zimmer said. United Way has con-tributed funds for the past two years to CSA's aging program, he added.

United Way granted

year for a drug-abuse education project which was administered in cooperation with the Metropolitan Atlanta Council on Alcohol and Drugs, the Clayton Board of Education and Clayton on Drugs; and Jaime Mental Health Gaillard, director of Department. Clayton Mental Health's According to Bob

Halford, MACAD director, the program will continue in Clayton this year with additional emphasis placed on peer counseling for teenagers like the one at North Clayton High School. The program this past year focused on teacher education in drug abuse and emphasis on peer counseling this year is viewed as a necessary follow-up to it, he said. Training components are being developed by MACAD with part of the funds this year for junior and senior high school sutdents to use in classrooms to learn more about drug-abuse, Halford noted.

"We feel the whole year has been tremendously successful," he said referring to the pilot project on drug-abuse education for the county. "One of the most significant results is the formation of Committee on Advisory Committee on Drug Education in Schools.'

Members of the Advisory Committee form a crosssection of the county and include: Ronnie Thornton, Clayton police chief; Emmet Lee, assistant school superintendent; Child and Adolescent Judge Martha Glaza of the Juvenile Court; Pat Barnett, health and physical education coordinator for Clayton schools; Linda Brown, member of Clayton Council

Center's teen-age alcohol and drug abuse program. Halford noted the project succeeded because of interest and support from the Clayton community and the project is being circulated as a model one

throughout the state and

New officers for the United Way's Clayton Advisory Committee for 1980 have also been elected and include: Chairman Ric Sanchez, director of community services for Clayton Junior College and Vice Chairman Faye Menhart of Lake City.

THE FAYETTE NEIGHBOR 2/21

Prominent Fayette County banker Hill R. Redwine has been named to serve on the board of trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, according to Harmon Born, chairman of the group. Redwine is president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank and will become the 13th business and professional community leader on the

Redwine is a member of the official board and finance committee of the First United Methodist Church of Favetteville. He and his wife Dorothea have four children: Hill Parks, William Wilson, Charles Davenport and Elizabeth Re-

Redwine joins two other newcomers to the board of trustees: Guy L. Benefield of Morrow and Ernest L.

Cheaves of Forest Park. Other members are Born, who lives in Rex; Robert Oliver of Morrow, Charles S. Conklin of Jonesboro; Harry S. Downs of Morrow, Truett Cathy of Hampton, Thomas B. Clonts of Jonesboro, Ernest A. Dunbar Jr., M.D. of Morrow, Cam Mitchell of Hampton, Claude Whaley of Jonesboro and Jim Wood of Forest Park.

HILL REDWINE Farmers and Merchants Bank

December 20, 1979

Robert H. Welborn

A New Constitution

Many Georgians may not be aware of it, but their state constitution is in the process of revision. A constitutional revision commission, authorized by the General Assembly a couple of years ago, and consisting of the Governor and key members of the House and Senate, has been hard at work on our horse and buggy fundamental law.

What's wrong with the present constitution is the obvious first question, but a better way to phrase it would be what's not wrong?

OUTGOING CHAIRMAN PRESENTED PLAQUE OF APPRECIATION

Sanchez (L) And Warlick (R), Outgoing Chairman

Our present constitution, written in 1945 (basically a rewrite of the 1877 edition), revised in 1975, and now in the process of being rewritten article by article by the present commission, is too long, too detailed, and too complex to be of much use. It is also contradictory and, in places, rather

For instance, it is comforting to know that although the state of Georgia may lock you up for the rest of your life or perhaps even execute you, our state constitution provides total protection against public flogging or banishment from the

Thus, the need for revision is clear. But the next question is how to do this and I venture to say that the present method being used, a legislative commission, is somewhat analogous to allowing a successful burglar to keep your extra house key.

Those who have power, influence, and prestige under an existing system should not be expected to see much need for modification of the system. Two examples came up this week during meetings of the legislative

The first non-change concerned the number of elective executive (or constitutional) officers there should be, other than the governor. Under the present constitution, there are seven executive officials elected state-wide for 4-year terms, other than the governor. Now the problem with such a system is these positions, such as comptroller-general or attorneygeneral are primarily administrative, not policy-making. Also, due to their number and rather obscure nature, relatively few voters know who these people are or what they do.

The elective principle really works only when there is some competition for a position so that the voters may have a choice. But these positions are seldom subject to competion. The normal method of recruitment and retention is for an incumbent to keep getting re-elected until he dies or decides to retire.

The governor will then appoint a temporary replacement, who becomes the incumbent at the next election. Thus, while the position is officially elective, it is in practice appointive. And it looks like these positions will remain in their present state, because the commission rejected (on Tuesday) a proposal to transform their present informal appointive status into a formal, and less devious, system.

The other non-change was in the State Bill of Rights. The commission rejected a proposal to include a discrimination.

Such a guarantee would have amounted to a state-wide version of the ERA, but the commission obviously felt such a protection was too revolutionary.

Thus, Georgia's citizens may still have to wait awhile for protection against sexual discrimination, but while we wait it will be comforting to know that we're still protected against banishment and public flogging.

December 27, 1979 Robert H. Welborn

New Year's Aspirations

As we approach the beginning of a new year and a new decade, it seems appropriate to outline what we can hope for in the next 12 months. I find aspirations much more useful than resolutions, since if the former doesn't come about the blame can always be laid against someone else. But if a resolution doesn't last, the responsibility is inevitably personal. And who needs more guilt to carry over into another year; most of us carry around plenty from previous years. On the national level, we can hope to see the re-election of President Carter. He may not be the best President we've ever had, but he's the best choice we have from the field of announced contenders. This is not to say that all of his policies are correct, His domestic prescriptions for inflation and energy could be substantially improved, and he has certainly not brought us the streamlined, efficiency-oriented federal bureaucracy that was promised. But it appears doubtful if any of the other candidates have better solutions and in some cases the cures they propose could be worse than the illness.

But on the level of foreign affairs, Carter has accumulated an impressive record. The Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty is not the final solution to the Middle Eastern question, but it is a positive beginning, and through it we have gained a new Arab ally.

Although he inherited the Panama Canal negotiations, Carter wisely decided to push them through to conclusion. This treaty has removed another sore spot in our Latin American relations, and eliminated the possibility of a confrontation with Panama, which we could not have

As we know only too well from the Iranian crisis, military strength is not especially useful when a small country applies the techniques of political blackmail.

Regarding Iran, Carter so far has acted in a responsible and mature manner. He has not been drawn into a mutual shouting match with the Ayatollah, he has correctly kept the attention of the world focused on the plight of the hostages, and he has sought to eliminate international support for the Iranians by taking the issue to the United Nations.

In short, he has acted as the leader of a major world power ought to act when confronted with the unstable and radical political actions of an emerging nation.

If the United States is ultimately pushed into some unilateral military action, it will be because the Iranians leave us no choice, for the President has demonstrated clearly his preference for a peaceful solution.

(Robert Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and regular columnist in the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not necessarily represent those of the

Self-Image: Many Women Want To Stop Smoking

woman's self-image and next to losing weight, the resolution I heard most was women saying they wanted to stop smoking.

So many reasons for not quitting were cited that I than be fat. decided to consult Dr. Avery Harvill, the physical education director at Clayton Junior College, for facts regarding smoking and

The predominant remark I heard for not quitting is that women feared gaining weight if they did.

Dr. Harvill, originator of the Stop Smoking Clinic presented through the Clayton unit of the American Smoking, or rather not Cancer Society, said, "The smoking, is important in the statistics say that one-third sense of how it relates to a lose weight, one-third gain weight and one-third stay the same.

I asked him which was worse, being over-weight or smoking as many told me they would rather smoke His reply was, "Smoking is by far the worse. More damage is done to the body by smoking than being 100 pounds over-weight. Being overweight is dangerous, but it takes a long time to get that overweight while smoking does immediate, around a person's mouth. and lasting, damage due to the chemical action in the meticulous in their personal body. Harvill brought out is that cologne, do not realize that texture of the skin and its

Sylvia Shelnutt Image

smoking makes a person not only smell offensive but it also attributes to the tissue," he said. formation of small wrinkles

Consultant

"Many people who are appearance and would not body are when they smoke. Two other items that Dr. think of wearing an offensive Also smoking affects the

they smell like smoke. Not their clothes, but their skin

That statement alone should be enough to make people realize how powerful the chemical changes in the the mouth are more side effects of a carton? effects that are seen in If you are one of the many individuals who have who have resolved to quit smoked for a long period. smoking, keep up the good

I next asked Dr. Harvill work. whether there are people If you feel you need some who actually cannot quit. He extra help, contact the said, "No. Anyone who has Clayton Cancer Society in chosen to start smoking can Jonesboro for information on choose to stop.' It is not an easy habit to Smoking Clinic. break and has a very deep psychological seat in some instances. However, the habit can be broken if the person's desire is strong enough. According to Dr. Harvill, 'Many people use excuses to trick themselves into believing it is easier to continue to smoke than to elasticity. A noticeable removed from a person's vellow color in the skin and a body. Think how long it tendency to wrinkle around would take to remove the

the next scheduled Stop

Something I read many years ago and that I have always remembered is that it takes six months for the effects of one cigarette to be

College Names Two Trustees

Two prominent Clayton volunteer work. Countians have been named to serve on the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, according to Harmon M. Born, Chairman of the non-profit corporation. Elected to serve were Guy L. Benefield of Morrow and Ernest L. Cheaves of Forest Park, increasing the Board of Trustees to 12 business and professional community leaders.

A retired engineering group manager for Ford Motor Company, Benefield will add service on the Foundation's Board of Trustees to an already active list of community service activities. A member of the Board of Directors of the Clayton

County Chamber of Commerce, he also serves as a trustee on the Clayton Hospital Authority and on the Boards of the Clayton County Cancer Society and the C & S Bank of Clayton County. Benefield has served in all offices held by a layman at the Jones Memorial Methodist Church and is a Past Master of the Forest Park Masonic Lodge. He and his wife, Melba, who live at 6062

Phillips Drive in Morrow,

have four sons: Jerry, Jimmy Kenneth, and Harold. Born in Riverdale, Benefield graduated from Jonesboro Senior High and studied engineering at Georgia Tech. He worked his way through the ranks of Ford assembly plant in Hapeville, starting out on the line and advancing to all levels of supervision before retiring after 42 years of service. In 1966, he was promoted to Engineering Group Manager, a position he held until he retired in 1979.

Born in Wrightsville, Cheaves has lived in Forest Park since 1933 when he joined the Gulf Oil Corporation. Like Benefield, he too is retired and has turned much of his time toward

GUY BENEFIELD New Appointed Member

ERNEST CHEAVES New Board Member

The Upcoming Session

Next week the Georgia General Assembly reconvenes for what could be an interesting and important session. Although a record $3 billion budget will be the most important subject to be considered, several other items are certain to capture and hold more public attention. Among these less expensive, but more interesting, items will be gun control, the so-called "scientific creation" proposal, and a proposal to raise the legal drinking age from 18 to 21.

Each of these will no doubt receive extensive media attention, but in the interests of brevity, and also because I have already stated my opinion on each of these issues (and my opinion, like most, remains unchanged), I would like to look at the realistic prospects of these proposals.

Gun control is the only one of the three proposals that is both needed and likely to be beneficial if passed. What we need is a way to prevent virtually anyone who has a little spare cash from purchasing a handgun, and the best way to do that would be to establish a mandatory waiting period between the time a purchase application is filed and the weapon is picked up.

Fortunately, it appears that a bill establishing a minimum 3-day waiting period stands a good chance of passing. While such a bill will not prevent the professional criminal from acquiring a firearm, it will prevent convicted felons and mental patients from legally purchasing a handgun.

The most unnecessary and potentially harmful of these three proposals is the "scientific creation" bill. House Bill 690 would mandate the teaching of the biblical (King James version- the authors don't say anything about the Koran's version of creation) version of creation if the theory of evolution is being taught in high school science classes. Proponents of the bill say that this is not mixing religion and education, but my answer to that is simply to ask them what is the source of the information they intend to teach?

The other objection to House Bill 690, and the more serious one, is that it would establish the precedent of having the General Assembly mandate curriculum to the State Board of Education. I believe that many legislators are aware of and uneasy about this aspect of the bill, and are perhaps waiting to see if any real opposition emerges to the bill. Certainly the biblical literalists have captured most of the attention up to this point. If some sort of unified opposition does not materialize, this bill stands a good chance of passing.

Raising the drinking age to 21 from the present 18 (passed in 1972) is a proposal that was raised last year. The issue has been studied by a legislative committee in the interim and this study has revealed a growing problem with teenage alcoholism. A major concern of the proponents of the bill is the introduction of young teenagers (14-17) to alcohol by their

Raising the drinking age to 21 would, they argue, raise the age of introduction to alcohol and thus reduce the number of teenage drinkers by making it illegal for teenagers to drink. I do believe that something should be done to deal with the problem of teenage alcoholism, but I am not sure this is the answer.

The mistake we made was when we began to consider the age of adulthood to be 18 instead of 21. But we did make such a decision and I find it hard to justify allowing 18 year olds to vote for President and at the same time denying them the right to buy a drink.

(Robert Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and regular columnist in the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not necessarily represent those of the college).

ideas. Dr. King wanted to bring people together, not put them further apart, and the present situation is

We should also honor his memory in order to remind ourselves just how far our Southern society has come in the last 25 years. We may not be nearing the end of our struggle against racism, but at least we are no longer in the era of separate water fountains and lunch-counters. A large part of the progress we have made is due to

Dr. King, a Georgian who deserves to (Robert Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and regular columnist in the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not necessarily represent those of the

be remembered.

college).

certainly not helping us draw closer.

Packing A Gun

The abandonment of Gov. George Busbee's gun-control proposal is a defeat for law and order in Georgia and should not be accepted as the final verdict on the issue. It also has shown the strength of the pro-gun forces in the General Assembly and the state at large. When a popular governor with a sound record of economic and political conservatism cannot push through a bill as mild as this one, the political ability and strength of the pro-gun lobby certainly must be awesome.

fear. Fear by many Representatives that during an election year there was more to be lost than won by voting for such a measure. There might be an element of truth in such an assessment, while few voters would vote for a candidate simply because he favored such a bill, it is a demonstrable fact that there are thousands who would vote against a candidate because of his support for such a measure.

After examining the specifics of the hunting measure.

would be issued and the applicant dgun. The bill would not require per-

One other thing defeated this bill-- bill, one can only marvel at the strident tone of the rhetoric used in the debate against it. According to opponents, what the governor was proposing would amount to a denial of every American's God-given right to go out and buy a gun for the purpose of shooting up his family and friends whenever the need should arise. Also to be heard was the cry that such a bill would damage the rights of sportsmen and that the bill was actually an anti-

These arguments were and are fictitious, for the bill was designed to do only one thing-make it illegal for convicted felons or the mentally ill to purchase handguns in the state of Georgia. One can only conclude that the opponents of the bill are in favor of allowing felons and the insane to walk around our streets packing "rods" they legally purchased at the local gun shop.

The bill would require anyone wishing to purchase a handgun to obtain a permit from his local police department. After applying for a permit, the police would have three days to check out his background to see if there was a crimnal record or la record of commitment for mental illness. If nothing was found, the permit would be free to purchase his hanmit applications for rifles or shotguns, so it is hard to see how hunters would

Such a bill would not prevent criminals from obtaining guns, but it would make it a little more difficult. But such a bill would prevent the purchase of handguns in anger or their purchase by former felons and mental patients. Such a law would have prevented a handgun purchase by the former mental patient who, in the fall of 1979, murdered a young Atlanta secretary in the middle of downtown and then killed himself.

This bill should not be allowed to remain unpassed. The local option substitute introduced to prevent Atlanta's new handgun ordinance from being declared unconstitutional should be passed, but what we need is a state-wide law. Hopefully the governor and legislative supporters will continue to press the issue, and maybe next session, after the elections, we can put such a measure on the books.

(Robert Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and regular columnist in the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not necessarily represent those of the

Robert H. Welborn

Jan. 15 was the birthday of Martin L. King, Jr., but to the discredit of Georgia we do not yet have a state holiday named in his honor. This issue has been brought before the General Assembly on several occasions during sistently been postponed. In spite of this lack of state-wide endorsement, certain unofficial and official practices are ererging, such as the school holiday observed by Atlanta city schools and mass absences by black students in certain cities (i.e. in Savannah this year almost 1,000 students were absent from a high school with a total past sessions, but action has con-enrollment of 1,700). One of the standard arguments used against naming a day of observance in honor of Dr. King is that we already have too many state holidays in which state employees are given the day off. But there are some specific facts that are often omitted by those who use this argument.

A New Holiday

There are 12 legal holidays in Georgia, but seven of these are observed as legal holidays nationwide, while two others (Washington's Birthday and Columbus Day) are also national in origin. There are only three uniquely Georgia holidays and these are also observed in most other former Confederate states, Lee's Birthday (Jan. 19), Confederate Memorial Day (April 26), and Jefferson Davis' Birthday (June 3). Of these three, state employees normally only receive two days off, for state law prevents state employees from having a day off when the legislature is in session (Lee's Birthday, Jan. 19).

Why not simply combine the present three state holidays that honor the Confederacy and its leaders into a unified Confederate Memorial Day and at the same time establish a holiday in honor of Dr. King? This would actually reduce the number of state holidays by one and would not result in state workers receiving an additional day off. Such a system should answer the objections of those who profess to be primarily concerned about the efficiency of state government. But the most important reason for establishing such a day is that Dr. King and the ideas he represented need to be remembered. His dream was to bring about an end to the system of legal discrimination against blacks that prevailed in the South of his day and to try to bring about a society in which racism could be eliminated. He lived to see the achievement of the first part of his goal, but we are still struggling for the second, and more difficult, goal.

I believe that the present situation in which part of the state's population honor his memory either officially or unofficially, while the rest ignore it or are not aware of it, is an insult to his

February 7, 1980

Sales Tax

The 82 counties that have passed their own local option one per cent sales tax since the bill was rewritten last year must now be breathing a collective sigh of relief. On Tuesday the Georgia Supreme Court handed down its ruling on the latest test case concerning the constitutionality of the new law, and their collective judgment was that the modifications made during the middle of the legislative session were sufficient to guarantee the legality of the law.

The present law requires that city and county officials agree on the way in which their respective governments will share the revenue from such a tax, before the issue is put before the voters. Such a requirement is designed to eliminate much of the bickering and litigation that would be certain to arise in the absence of such an agreement.

The major benefit that the local option sales tax would offer for Clayton county taxpayers is that property taxes would be rolled back equal to the amount taken in by the tax within the county. This could provide some relief for homeowners and the additional amount that would be paid in sales tax would, in most cases, be less than the amount of individual property tax reduction. Thus, revenue for local governments should actually increase, while the total amount of tax paid by individual citizens should actually decrease. I know that sounds almost too good to be true, but that is the way the system is supposed to work.

With the constitutionality of the law accepted, now would be an excellent time for Clayton county officials to begin thinking about offering the voters a chance to vote on the issue.

Such a local option one per cent tax would make a lot of sense for this county. It would also go a long way toward solving the simmering controversy in the county between municipalities and county government regarding double taxation of city residents.

With our regional shopping mall now in full operation, shoppers from all over the state would be helping to support our local governments. Cities such as Forest Park which have seen property values decline in some areas would no longer be as dependent on property tax and business licenses for their revenue. Citizens would see property taxes decline without a loss of services. Also, in a time of rapid inflation, the sales tax provides a much more elastic revenue source than the property tax, for as prices climb, so do sales tax collections.

It is an odd sensation to actually advocate the introduction of a new tax, but in this case the situation and the law warrant such a policy. Let us hope that we see some action taken on this

(Robert Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and regular columnist in the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not necessarily represent those of the

After graduating from high school in Johnson County, Cheaves earned a degree from Middle Georgia College and later a law degree from Atlanta Law School. During his 42 years with Gulf, he also attended Georgia State University, the University of Georgia, and the University of Missouri. A real estate representative with Gulf, Cheaves served on special assignment missions all over Europe and Central and South America. When this country's interstate highway system began to develop, he traveled from coast to coast.

CJC Foundation Appoints Two Board Members

Two prominent Clayton cluding: Harmon M. Boarn 1974, the foundation recent-Countians have been named of Rex, chairman; G. Robert ly began its sixth year of to serve on the board of trustees of the Clayton chairman; Charles S. Junior College Foundation, Conklin of Joneseoro, according to Harmon M.

L. Benefield, of Morrow, and Ernest L. Cheaves, of Forest Park, increasing the board of trustees to 12 business and professional community leaders.

A retired engineering group manager for Ford Motor Company, Benefield will add service on the foundation's board of trustees to an already long list of community service activities. A member of the board of directors of the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce, he also serves as a trustee on the Clayton General Hospital Authority and on the boards of the Clayton County Cancer Society and the C & S Bank of Clayton County.

BENEFIELD has served in all offices held by a layman at the Jones Memorial Methodist Church, and is a past master of the Forest Park Masonic Lodge. He and his wife, Melba, who live at 6062 Phillips Drive in Morrow, have four sons: Jerry, Jimmy, Kenneth and

Born in Riverdale, Benefield was graduated from Jonesboro Senior High School and studied engineering at Georgia Tech. He worked his way through the ranks of the Ford assembly plant in Hapeville, starting out on the line and advancing to all levels of supervision before retiring after 42 years of service. In 1966, he was promoted to engineering group manager, a position he held until he retired in 1979.

Born in Wrightsville, Ga, Cheaves has lived in Forest Park since 1933 when he joined the Gulf Oil Corporation. Like Benefield, he is retired and has turned much of his time toward volunteer

After graduation from high school in Johnson County, Cheaves earned a degree from Middle Georgia College and later a law degree from Atlanta Law School. During his 42 years with Gulf, he also attended Georgia State University, the University of Georgia and the University of Mis-

A REAL estate representative with Gulf, Cheaves served on special assign ment missions all over Europe and Central and South America. When the country's interstate highway system began to develop, he traveled from coast to coast selecting sites for new sta-

A Mason, Cheaves serves as a deacon for the First Baptist church of Forest Park. He is a past president of the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce and the Forest Park Kiwanis Club, and holds a lifetime membership in the Jaycees. He currently is serving his second term as Lt. Governor of the 17th District of Kiwanis International and also serves as vice chairman of the Clayton County Industrial Board.

Cheaves and his wife. Glennis, live at 5160 Woodland Drive in Forest Park. They have two sons, Walter and Michael, and seven grandchildren.

BENEFIELD and Cheaves join ten others on the board of trustees, in-

Oliver of Morrow, vice secretary-treasurer; Harry Born, chairman of the non-S. Downs of Morrow, asisprofit corporation.

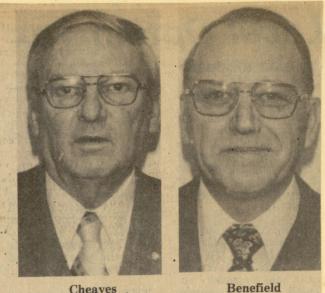

S. Downs of Morrow, asistant treasurer; S. Truett Elected to serve were Guy Cathy of Hampton; Thomas B. Clonts of Jonesboro; Ernest A. Dunbar, Jr., M.D. of Morrow; W. Cameron Mitchell of Hampton; Claude H. Whaley of Jonesboro; and James M.

Wood, Jr., of Forest Park.

operation by adopting a 1980-81 budget of just over $24,000. Included in the new budget are funds for 64 scholarships, cash awards for a student honors program, and money to finance a program to honor outstanding members of the college's faculty and staff.

All programs sponsored by the foundation are funded totally by contributions, and all contributions Chartered in September, are tax deductible.

BORN CONGRATULATED BY RHODENIZER AFTER RECEIVING TOP CHAMBER AWARD Stan May (L) Waits To Present Silver Bowl To Distinguished Service Award Winner

Robert H. Welborn

NEWS/DAILY

The New Draft?

While President Carter may be insisting that his proposal for the registration of 18 and 19 year old men and women does not amount to a reinstitution of the draft, the public perception is that such registration is simply a prelude to a new draft law. But before we completely accept the inevitability of the draft, there are some basic questions that have to be answered, and the reason that I raise these questions is that I don't believe they have been answered in Washington, or if they have, the public certainly hasn't been informed.

First, for what reason are we contemplating a draft law -- to frighten the Russians, to begin a massive build-up of our conventional forces, to show our allies our determination, or to put some backbone into our youth? Is the draft supposed to give us a bigger or a better Army, or both?

I have yet to hear a statement from a responsible official as to exactly what the size of the army is to be. Does the Army simply want to use the draft to bring itself up to 100 percent of authorized strength or does it wish to see an increase in authorized levels of manpower?

Also, what about those new pay levels? Pay in the armed forces has been increased dramatically since the end of the draft in an effort to attract volunteers. But are we to keep these same levels of pay if we begin to use conscription?

This would seem to be inconsistent with past practice, but could we actually go forward with a system in which volunteers continued to receive the higher rates of pay, while draftees received much less? But if we pay draftees the same as volunteers receive today, an enlargement of our army is going to be a very expensive proposition.

Also, what about deferments? It certainly sounds very democratic and popular (especially with those above age 25) to say that there will be no deferments, (except for physical reasons) but would such a universal service system really be workable? And what about this idea of universal service that would allow the individual to choose either the military or a non-military positon in fulfilling his-her obligation?

My hunch is that the result would be a glut of non-military volunteers, creating the need for some type of draft or quota system from the nonmilitary to military positions.

I ask these questions not out of any intention to discredit the Carter administration, but because I think that before we proceed with any major change in domestic or foreign policy we need to have some clear idea just what we intend to do.

So far what we have seen is a President confronted by a foreign crisis who appears to have endorsed draft registration as a measure designed to let the Russians know we are serious in our opposition to their aggression in Afghanistan. But to simply register people without answering some of the hard questions raised above could just as easily be taken as a sign of weakness rather than as a sign of strength.

Until we answer these questions registration will be an empty gesture. Why don't we ask the President and Congress to tell us their exact intentions before we institute registration?

(Robert Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and regular columnist in the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not necessarily represent those of the college).

HARMON BORN (C) SHAKES HANDS WITH CLAYTON CHAMBER PRESIDENT CARL RHODENIZER Executive Vice-President Stan May (L) Looks On As Born Receives A Distinguished Service Award

Local Chamber Has Its Annual Banquet

By CHRIS JACKSON

Staff Writer The Clayton County Chamber of Commerce held its Annual Banquet Saturday night at the Marriot in Atlanta and set the stage for the forging a an image of the county to enhance the life of present and future Clayton Countians.

Businessmen, elected officials, and other dignataries gathered at the Ballroom for the chamber's largest social evening of the year and witnessed the chamber's plans for the coming decade.

An audiovisual program prepared for the chamber by Creative Communications of East Point underlined the emphasis the organization is putting on the positive aspects of Clayton County.

The program touched on heritage, good government, the availability of churches and recreation, the good business atmosphere, transportation, education and community, concluding that Clayton County offered "the country life with metropolitan conveniences."

Carl Rhodenizer, president of the chamber for the second year in a row, indicated before the Banquet that a survey conducted during 1978 and 1979 showed that Clayton County "didn't have an image

The survey questioned residents of Clayton and people living outside the county for some hint at the perceptions of the county that are held by a majority of people in the general area.

'The survey told us that we have quality people, the resources we need, good leadership, excellent clean government and excellent schools, but it also told us that we needed to do some major repairs on our image," Rhodenizer explained.

To improve Clayton's image, the chamber has formed three councils: one for public affairs, another for economic development and a third for member relations.

Through these councils, the chamber hopes to "sell" Clayton County to national and international companies and also to people that are living elsewhere, Rhodenizer noted.

The theme for the program was "In Search of Tommorrow."

Several people were honored during the evening, including 12 recipients of the President's Club Award for outstanding work on increasing membership.

These include: William Dickerson, Jimmy Armour, arles Hutcheson, Gerald Matthews, Ernest Wright, Luther McDowell, Earlene Gardner, John Maner, Al Hammack, Ted Pylant, Dick Wynn and Joe Berry.

The chamber also bestowed an 'Honorary Life Member' award to past president of the chamber, Russ Fawcett, whose work has forced him to move north to colder

The top award of the night was presented to Harmon Born, who received the Distinguished Service Award. The DSA is given annually to the person the chamber feels has done more to help the county through his or her own time and efforts. Born, as president of Beaudry Ford in Atlanta, has "given unselfishly of himself," Rhodenizer noted and presented Born with a silver bowl, symbolic of the highest award the chamber gives.

Born, a native of Rex, told the large crowd that "I don't do what I do for recognition, I do it because I love Clayton County.'

He indicated that the "significant" things that have happened to him have "happened in Clayton County.

THE CLAYTON SUN

Born Named Chamber DSA in 1946, and was elected and Dick Wynn were chairman of the National honored. of Beaudry Ford, Inc., Ford Dealer's Council in recently was presented the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce's coveted Distinguished Service Award.

The award was presented at the chamber's annual awards banquet to honor a person who has, in the chamber's view, rendered the most in volunteer service to the county during the last year.

Born, a native of Rex, was a member and sometimes chairman of the Clayton County Planning and Zoning Commission 1954-1970.

HE HAS been a member of the Clayton General in Rex. Hospital Authority and is past Master of Rex Masonic Lodge #217. In business, he rose to the presidency of Beaudry soon after beginning work there Fitzpatrick, Eric Sauerbrey of Time Magazine's company National Dealer Award, one transferred him to another of the highest honors in the automotive industry.

ONE OF the early presiserved as chairman of the Clayton County Industrial Authority, and last summer was chairman of the chamber's successful effort to enact freeport legislation in the county. He is a member, deacon and Sunday School teacher at the Rock Baptist Church,

Other awards also were presented at the banquet:

RETIRING board of directors members Dr. Paul

Russ Fawcett who has served the chamber for In 1973, he was a winner several years and whose recently city, was presented an honorary life membership in the chamber.

The President's Club, dents of the chamber, he has which was responsible for a membership drive in 1979, also was honored. Members of the club are William (Buster) Dickerson, Jimmy Armour. Hutcheson, Gerald Matthews, Joe Berry, Ernest Wright, Luther McDowell. Earlene Gardner, John Maner, Al Hammack, Ted Pyland and Dick Wynn. Approximately 500 chamber members who attended the banquet, at the Mariott Hotel in Atlanta, also were treated to skits by the Wits End Players.

CJC Presents Service Awards

. Twenty members of the faculty and staff at Clayton Junior College have received service awards at the twoyear institution.

Honored by the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, all faculty and staff members who completed either ten years or five years of uninterrupted service to the College between July 1, 1979, and June 30, 1980, received Guy L. Benefield and Professor of History; Dr. and Alvin T. Wallace, Kropa, Assistant Professor Ernest L. Cheaves James E. Bright, Assistant Trustees at the awards Kathryn N. Donovan, presentation. Each recipient of an award received a restaurants.

Harmon Born

Recipients of ten year awards were: Harriet T.

represented the Board of Professor of Mathematics; Assistant Professor of Nursing; Dr. Rebecca A. "service award" certificate Halyard, Associate plus a "dinner for two" at Professor of Biology; Dr. one of three participating Dennie R. Kelley, Assistant Professor of Physical Education; Dr. Miriam P. Perry, Associate Professor Aiken, Receptionist; Robert of Biology; Annette B.

Maintenance Worker. Five-year award winners were: Dr. Catherine C. Aust, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; Martha O. Beliveau, Assistant Professor of Business Education, Gwendolyn G. Bell, Public Services Librarian; William M. Gore, Instructor of Music; J. Daniel Hardage, Assistant C. Bolander, Dean of Satterfield, Director of Professor of Business Students and Assistant Admissions and Registrar; Education; Dr. James C.

of Mathematics;

Priscilla G. Marsh, Office Supervisor for the Office of Community Services: Frank Orr, Plumber in Plant Operations; Ricardo D. Sanchez, Director of the Office of Community Services; Geraldine Smith, Custodian in Plant Operations; and Vennie E. Walden, Secretary in the Chamber Of Commerce

Harmon Born Receives Distinguished Service Award At Annual Banquet

By DANIEL PAGE Staff Writer

Rex resident Harmon Born, successful in business and active in community and church affairs throughout his life, was honored with the Distinguished Service Award Saturday night at the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce banquet. The award is given annually by the Chamber banquet to the individual who best exemplifies the Chamber's ideals of service to and achievement in the community.

Also honored at the banquet at the Marriott Hotel in dowtown Atlanta were the twelve recipients of the President's Club award and ex-Clayton County Chamber of Commerce president Russ Fawcett, now a Detroit resident, who was made an honorary lifetime member of the Chamber. Three outgoing Chamber directors, Erich Sauerbrey, Dr. Paul Fitzgerald, and Dick Wynn, were also recognised and for their achievements and service to the

The 500 people attending the banquet were also treated to an audiovisual presentation produced by Creative Communications, Inc. of East Point, which will serve as a promotional feature to lure business and industrial interests to Clayton County.

Chamber.

Entertainment at the banquet was presented by the Wits End Players and the Jimmy Black Band provided background and dance music.

Born, a lifetime resident of Rex, he rose to as president of Beaudry Ford in Atlanta. He is a past recipient of the Time Magazine National Ford Dealer Award. An Eagle Scout as a youth, he has served as president of the Atlanta area Scout council and as a Scoutmaster of the local Tara District. He has also been an active leader of the Rex Lodge, 217 is past chairman of the National

Ford Dealers Council, a position numerous public committees on behalf of Clayton County, the Chamber of Commerce and Clayton Junior College.

Masons Chapter, and served on

A longtime member of Rock Baptist Church in Rex, Born currently is serving there as Chairman of the Deacons. He has also served on the Board of Directors of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention. He has a wife, Rudy, and two daughters, Debra Lynn and Deanne.

Fawcett, who served as Chamber of Commerce President in 1976 and has since moved to the Detroit area, said he and his family would be moving back to Clayton County when he retires in a few

The President's Club recipients were honored for their efforts in the Chamber's membership drive. Honored with the award were William "Buster" Dickerson, Jimmy Armour, Charles Hutcheson, Gerald Matthews, Joe Berry, Ernest Wright. Luther McDowell, Earlene Gardner, John Maner, Al Hammack, Ted Pylant, and Dick Wynn.

The audio presentation emphasized the chamber's commitment to attracting business and industry to Clayton County in the future. It will be shown by the Chamber to corporations who may be interested in expanding in the

The Wits End Players entertained the Chamber audience with numerous comic sketches, including a spoof of Gone with the Wind. Dancing in the Grand Ballroom capped off the evening.

BORN HONORED BY CLAYTON CHAMBER Receives Distinguished Service Award

Robert H. Welborn

NEWS/DAILY 3/6/80

Church And State

Due to the rivers of ink that have been spilled already over the issue, and my own, previously stated position, I had decided not to write another column dealing with the issue of divine creation versus evolution in the public schools of Georgia, but the latest actions of the General Assembly have forced me to take back that decision.

At least the new version passed by the Senate and including the phrase "created by God" removes any of the ambiguities that were present in the "scientific Creation" version. The Senate version also removes any of the discretion that local school boards retained under the House version. The one virtue of the Senate bill is that it clarifies the issue- what we are dealing with in this bill is the entire issue of separation of church and Religious freedom and separation of church and state are among some of our oldest and most basic freedoms. In the Virginia Declaration of Rights of 1776, which became the model for the Bill of Rights found in the Constitution, James Madison stated the principle forcefully and clearly, "Religion...can be directed only by reason and conviction, not by force or violence: and therefore all men are equally entitled to the free exercise of religion.'

Thomas Jefferson in the Virginia Statute for Religious Freedom (1786), a document that he considered one of his greatest contributions to the establishment of our civil liberties, spoke out strongly against "legislators and rulers... who being themselves but fallible and uninspired men, would assume dominion over the faith of others, setting up their own opinions...as true and infallible."

And let us make no mistake. The present bill, if passed, would amount to an establishment of religion. The State of Georgia would, by law, require the teaching of a religious doctrine in public schools. Proponents of the bill contend that they are just as concerned about religious freedom as the opponents of the bill, but their assertions seem hollow in light of the fact that they are trying to mandate the teaching of a religious doctrine upon what is, in essence (due to the compulsory attendance law), a captive audience. The fate of the bill, if passed in its Senate form, is not hard to imagine. The Supreme Court in the last decade has declared unconstitutional similar statutes passed in Arkansas and Tennessee. Probably some members of the Senate voted for the "created by God" version with the hope that the high court would strike it down.

After all, they could then blame the "liberal and irreligious" federal court system for blunting the return of religion to our public schools. A far better course would be to defeat the bill openly in the General Assembly.

The danger inherent in a bill such as this is not to be belittled. If a legislative body asserts its right to require the teaching of a religious doctrine in our public schools part of the Bill of Rights is next?

(Robert Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and regular columnist in the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not necessarily represent those of the

NEW DIRECTOR-Constance L. King (left) and Dean of Students Robert C

CJC Selects Finance Chief

Constance (Connie) King dents involved in ontor of financial aid and placement at Clayton continue her career as a programs. financial aid officer.

Dean Bolander, Mrs. King already are enrolled, should will assist to students in a number of ways. She will be seeking out students in need of financial assistance, available. counseling them and about the types of financial aid available, and assisting them in completing financial aid applications.

Mrs. King also will maintain student records and ad- daughter. minister all federal, state. will be working with stu- Calis Shumake of Millen.

has assumed duties as direc- campus and off-campus

The Office of Financial Junior College, according to Aid and Placement was es-Robert C. Bolander, dean of tablished at Clayton Junior College to provide as-Mrs. King, a native of sistance to students who Millen, Ga, served as basic otherwise could not attend grant program specialist at college. The director of the Georgia State University for office administers a number three years. She came to of specialized and general Clayton Junior College to work, loan and scholarship

Students who plan to Responsible directly to enroll at CJC, or others who contact Mrs. King (363-7735) for complete information about the programs

A member of the Pleasant members of their families Grove Baptist Church and secretary of the East Glen Civic Association, Mrs. King lives at 4198 Ridgetop Trail in Ellenwood with her husband and six-year old

A graduate of Georgia local and institutional State University, she is the financial aid programs, She daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

New Financial Aid Director at Clayton Junior College Constance S. King (left) and Dean of Students Robert C.

Connie King Named To Position At Clayton College

Constance (Connie) King has assumed duties as Director of Financial Aid and Placement at Clayton Junior College, according to Robert C. Bolander, Dean of Students.

Mrs. King, a native of Millen, Georgia, served as Basic Grant Program Specialist at Georgia State University for three years. She came to Clayton Junior College to continue her career as a financial aid officer.

Responsible directly to Dean Bolander, Mrs. King's duties at CJC include assistance to students in a number of ways. She will be seeking out students in need of financial assistance, counseling them and members of their families about the various types of financial aid available, and assisting these students in completing a financial aid application.

Mrs. King will also maintain student records and administer all federal, state, local, and institutional financial aid programs. She will be working with students involved in oncampus and off-campus jobs.

The Office of Financial Aid and Placement was established at Clayton Junior College to provide assistance to students who otherwise could not attend college. The Director of the Office administers a number of specialized and general work, loan, and scholarship programs. Students who plan to enroll at CJC, or others who already are enrolled, should contact Mrs. King (363-7735) for complete information about the various programs available.

A member of the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church and secretary of the East Glen Civic Association, Mrs. King resides at 4198 Ridgetop Trail in Ellenwood with her husband and 6-year old daughter. A graduate of Georgia State University, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlis Shumake of Millen, Georgia.

Clayton College Names Financial Aid Officers

Constance (Connie) King has assumed duties as Director of Financial Aid and Placement at Clayton Junior College, according to Robert C. Bolander, Dean of Students.

Mrs. King, a native of Millen, Georgia, served as Basic Grant Program Specialist at Georgia State University for three years. - She came to Clayton Junior College to continue her career as a financial aid officer.

Responsible directly to Dean Bolander, Mrs. King's duties at CJC includes assistance to students in a number of ways. She will be seeking out students in need of financial assistance, counseling them and members of their families about the various types of financial aid available, and assisting these students in E completing a financial aid apш plication.

Mrs. King will also maintain student records and administer all federal, state, local, and in-Stitutional financial aid programs. She will be working with students involved in oncampus and off-campus jobs.

The Office of Financial Aid and Placement was established at Clayton Junior College to provide assistance to students who otherwise could not attend college. The Director of the Office administers a number of specialized and general work, loan, and scholarship programs.

Students who plan to enroll at CJC, or others who already are enrolled, should contact Mrs. King (363-7735) for complete information about the various programs available.

A member of the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church and secretary of the East Glen Civic Association, Mrs. King resides at 4198 Ridgetop Trail in Ellenwood with her husband and 6-year old daughter. A graduate of Georgia State University, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calis Shumake of Millen, Georgia.

TRUETT CATHY WAS THE RECIPIENT OF CHAMBER'S AWARD FOR DISTINGUISHED ACHIEVEMENT IN BUSINESS Truett Cathy Is The Founder And President Of Chick-Fil-A Which He Began 35 Years Ago

Chamber Of Commerce Awards Area Residents

By CAROLYN WILDES Staff Writer

Several Hapeville residents and businessmen were recognized during the Hapeville Chamber of Commerce's quarterly dinner meeting last Thursday.

Meeting at the Airport Hilton Inn on Virginia Avenue, the group of 170 chamber members and their guests watched the induction of the new chamber officers as administhe House Appropriations Commit-

New chamber officers, who will president Aubrey Lewis, owner of the Paul T. Donehoo Funeral Home in Hapeville; first vice-president Tom Freeman, owner of Freeman Forms and Supplies in Hapeville;

ance agent and Hapeville alderman and third vice-president Earl Knight, owner of the Earl Knight

Real Estate Agency in Hapeville. The outgoing chamber president is Stan Beavers, manager of Beavers Home Furnishings in Hapeville and Fayette County.

Receiving the chamber's community service award was the Rev. tered by State Rep. Joe Frank Harris of Cartersville, chairman of minister of education and counsel-Larry Parker, Hapeville's city ing at the Hapeville United Methodist Church.

Also known as a singer and a be serving one-year terms, are road race runner and for his witty comments, he is the president of the Georgia Association of Police Chaplains, president-elect of the Exchange Club of Hapeville and a consultant to the Georgia Departsecond vice-president Richard ment of Human Resources and the

Chick-Fil-A founder and president Truett Cathy was the recipient of the chamber's award for distinguished achievement in business. Beginning his vast Chick-Fil-A operation with the opening of the Dwarf House in Hapeville 35 years ago, he has his national offices located on Virginia Avenue in Cathy oversees 3,500 employees at more than 140 Chick-Fil-A units in 20 states to as far west as New Mexico and Colorado and as far north as New Jersey.

He also plans to open 47 new units this year.

Especially well known for his assistance in worth while causes. he is a member of the Lord's Day Alliance and the First Baptist Church of Jonesboro and a trustee of Christian City and Clayton Jun-

Receiving the chamber's community beautification award was Dr. Loel Wurl, a Hapeville dentist, for the remodeling work done on his dental office at 606 South Cen-

Awards also were given to several retiring chamber directors, who included Jackie Lewis, Henry Thrailkill, Hapeville Mayor Frank Coggin, Jim Clarke, Peggy Baker and Raymon Johnson.

By a unanimous vote, chamber members adopted a resolution asking the Fulton County Commission o continue to give the chamber noney in order to carry out its programs.

In the past, the chamber has received $2,250 from the county commissioners.

However, it is not yet known if the chamber will receive money this year since making special appropriations of this nature are deemed illegal by Fulton County Attorney Robert Young due to the lack of provision in the law for onetime contributions.

Chamber members also viewed a 14-minute slide presentation which was prepared by the chamber's publicity and publications committee and which will be used to promote Hapeville.

Noted for their work in preparing the presentation over the past several months were Mrs. Lewis, J.J. Allen of Flair Photographic, Cam Cato, Gary Adamson, JAM Studios in Hapeville, Bob McCord, Freeman, Beavers and the Rev.

Clayton Junior College Graduation Saturday morning, June 7.

The owner and president of Billy R. Nail, Dean of the A charter member of the one of the nation's fastest College, will present the Board of Trustees of the growing fast food restaurant candidates, and Dr. Harry S. Clayton Junior College Downs, President of the two- Foundation, Inc., Cathy also chains will deliver the year institution, will award serves as a Trustee for commencement address at degrees.

Clayton Junior College's The Rev. Cleason L. tenth annual Melton, Missionary with the Day Alliance of the United Commencement on Saturday South Metro Baptist States. He is a director with Association, will give the Clayton County Federal S. Truett Cathy, President invocation and benediction Savings and Loan of The Dwarf House in Hapeville and Chick-fil-A, at the ceremony.

Inc., will be the featured fast food chain in 1946. Airport Rotary Club. speaker at the graduation exercises, scheduled outside Today, Chick-fil-A, Inc., has 150 restaurants in 20 states, on the campus grounds at 10 operating principally in More than 300 graduates of regional shopping malls, and a youth Sunday school class. two-year programs will an additional 70 units are receive Associate Degrees included in expansion plans during the cremony. Dr. during the next two years.

Mercer University, Christian City, and Lord's Association and is an active Cathy started his popular member of the Atlanta

> He is a member of the First Baptist Church of Jonesboro where he teaches

> Cathy was named "Citizen of the Year" in 1974 by the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce, "Hapeville Man of the Year" in 1979 by the Exchange Club of Hapeville, and received the "Distinguished Achievement in Business" award in 1979 from the Hapeville Chamber of Commerce. The home office of Chickfil-A is located in Hapeville, but Cathy and his wife, the former Jeannette McNeil, live in their farm-home in south Clayton County.

Commentary

NEWS/DAILY

3/24/80

Education For Careers

By HARRY S. DOWNS, President

Clayton Junior College New educational programs are being developed every year to keep up with the changing needs of Georgians. Junior colleges, for example, have turned much of their attention away from traditional degree courses in favor of one-year or two-year careeroriented programs.

Although the need remains for fouryear programs of study, more and more people are finding out that "career" programs are the answer to their needs. Because of increased demands for such offerings, two-year colleges are developing programs especially designed for the people within the communites they serve.

Career programs generally combine regular college courses with special training. All such programs are designed by local professionals to prepare students for particular jobs in business and industry. Students enrolled in these programs gain a decided edge in landing jobs immediately after graduation.

Many businesses and industrial firms are supporting this new trend in education by giving employees an opportunity to "go to school" on them. It isn't unusual these days for college students to hold part-time jobs while learning more about their current duties or about an entirely new trade. In fact, that's the general characteristic of today's college student.

Junior colleges look to area leaders for suggestions about needed programs. As a result, people now may stay at home and take courses for college credit while improving their on-the-job skills.

In recent years, many colleges have added a number of vocationaltechnical career programs to their one-year and two-year offerings. Degrees are being offered in cooperation with nearby area voctional-technical schools, under special agreements with those schools. In many cases, vocational-technical divisions have been established within the colleges themselves.

During fall quarter, 1978, almost 11,000 Georgians were enrolled in career-type programs. Included among offerings were programs dealing with agriculture, aviation, auto repair, criminal justice, dental hygiene, electrical engineering technology, nursing, secretarial science, wildlife management, and many others.

All told, more than 75 such programs were taught at Georgia institutions during the 1978 fall quarter, each designed to meet specific community needs and in-

Over 1,000 students, for example, were enrolled in business-related programs like accounting, finance, and management. Another 800 participated in special classes dealing with criminal justice, and still another 500 studied about computers and data processing.

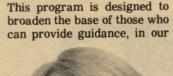

Two-year programs in nursing and dental hygiene continue to attract a number of Georgians each year. And, secretarial programs, including those for legal and medical practices, are offered by almost every institution in Career program needs in junior colleges change from county to county and state to state since such needs vary from one community to another. To find out exactly what types of programs are available, one should contact the nearest college admissions office. A career program could provide all the training needed for the chosen job.

Friday, March 21, 1980

LEADERSHIP CLAYTON BEING PLANNED

Individuals seeking to further develop their leadership and interpersonal skills will have such an opportunity by participating in a new program scheduled to begin this fall. Leadership Clayton will be a nine month experience for those individuals with leadership potential in order to train them so that they may be better prepared for leadership positions. "This is an effort sponsored jointly by the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce and Clayton Junior College," according to Carl Rhodenizer, President of the Chamber. He continued, "one of a community's greatest resources is its leadership.

Robert C. Bolander, Chair man Leadership Clayton Task Force

growing county, during the next decade."

Rhodenizer commented that the Leadership Clayton Task Force is chaired by Robert C. Bolander, Dean of Students at Clayton Junior College. Working with him are: Jimmy Benefield, Jean Bing, D. J. Fulton, Ann Gaultney, Charles Grant, Wayne Hayes, Emmett Lee, Gerald Mathews, J. Durham McAllister, Anne Plant, Lindy Rogers, Rick Sanchez, and Joe Vance.

give "participating individuals the opportunity to build a more positive identity and the chance to become informed about events and information regarding Clayton County," Bolander stated. "They will also develop their own capabilities Leadership Clayton should in response to a challenge, as well as make new friendships

Leadership Clayton will among community groups and leaders." The Leadership Clayton meetings will be held the first Thursday (except in January) each month beginning September 4, 1980 and running through June 4, 1981. The sessions, which will all be held at Clayton Junior College, will run from 4:30 PM until 8:00 PM.

"In facing the challenges of the 80's, Leadership Clayton will give participants a chance to make significant contributions to Clayton County's image and direction,' Bolander says. He continued, "it will also help put individuals in a position to work with others to make Clayton County a better place in which to live." Anyone who desires further information regarding telephone the Chamber of Commerce at 478-6549.

THE CLAYTON SUN 6/5/80 Truett Cathy To Address CJC Commencement

The owner and president of one of the nation's fastest growing fast food restaurant chains will deliver the commencement address at Clayton Junior College's tenth annual Commencement Saturday morning,

S. Truett Cathy, president of The Dwarf House in Hapeville and Chick-fil-A, Inc., will be the featured speaker at the graduation exercises, scheduled outside on the campus grounds at 10 a.m.

More than 300 graduates of two-year programs will receive associate degrees during the ceremony. Dr. Billy R. Nail, dean of the college, will present the candidates, and Dr. Harry S. Downs, president of the twoyear institution, will award degrees.

The Rev. Cleason L. Melton, missionary with the South Metro Baptist Association. will give the invocation and benediction at Cathy started his popular fast food chain in 1946. Today, Chick-filA, Inc., has 150 restaurants in 20 states, operating principally in regional shopping malls, and an additional 70 units are included in expansion plans during the next two years.

A charter member of the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation. Inc., Cathy also serves as a trustee for Mercer University, Christian City, and Lord's Day Alliance of the United States. He is a director with Clayton County Federal Savings and Loan Association and is an active member of the Atlanta Airport Rotary Club. He is a member of the First Baptist Church of Jonesboro where he teaches a youth Sunday school class.

Cathy was named "Citizen of the Year" in 1974 by the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce, "Hapeville Man of the Year" in 1979 by the Exchange Club of Hapeville, and received the "Distinguished Achievement in Business" award in 1979 from the Hapeville

Chamber of Commerce The home office of Chick-fil-A is located in Hapeville, but Cathy and his wife, the former Jeannette McNeil, live in their farmhome in south Clayton County. Their three children-Dan, Don, and Trudy-are married, and the two sons are actively involved in the expanding business

Clayton Junior College, opened in September of 1969 as a unit of the University System of Georgia, is completing its 11th vear of operation.

Prominent Banker Joining Board of Trustees

Prominent Fayette County banker Hill R. Redwine has been named to serve on the board of trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, according to Harmon Born, chairman of the group.

Redwine is president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank and will become the 13th business and professional community leader on the

Redwine is a member of the official board and finance committee of the First United Methodist Church of Favetteville.

He and his wife Dorothea have four children: Hill Parks, William Wilson, Charles Davenport and Elizabeth Regan Garner.

Redwine joins two other newcomers to the board of trustees: Guy L. Benefield of Morrow and Ernest L. Cheaves of Forest Park.

Other members are Born, who lives in Rex; Robert Oliver of Morrow, Charles S. Conklin of Jonesboro; Harry S. Downs of Morrow, Truett Cathy of Hampton, Thomas B. Clonts of Jonesboro, Ernest A. Dunbar Jr., M.D. of Morrow, Cam Mitchell of Hampton, Claude Whaley of Jonesboro and Jim Wood of Forest Park.

Farmers and Merchants Bank

Wednesday, April 2, 1980 New Programs Offered At Clayton

(Editor's Note: Clayton Junior College serves Henry students. Its president, Dr. Harry Downs, in the following article writes about how the school is gearing its programs to meet changing needs and the challenge of the future.)

BY HARRY S. DOWNS, PRESIDENT CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE

New educational programs are being developed every year to keep up with the changing needs of Georgians.

Junior colleges, for example, have turned much of their attention away from traditional degree courses in favor of one-year or two-year career-oriented pro-

Although the need remains for four-year programs of study, more and more people are finding out that "career" programs are the answer to their needs. Because of increased demands for such offerings, two-year colleges are developing programs especially designed for the people within the communities they serve.

Career programs generally combine regular college courses with special training. All such programs are designed by local professionals to prepare students for particular jobs in business and industry. Students enrolled in these programs gain a decided edge in landing jobs immediately after graduation.

Many businesses and industrial firms are supporting this new trend in education by giving employees an opportunity to "go to school" on them. It isn't unusual these days for college students to hold part-time or full-time jobs while learning more about their current duties or about an entirely new trade. In fact, that's the general characteristic of today's college

Junior colleges look to area leaders for suggestions about needed programs. As a result, people now may stay at home and take courses for college credit while improving their on-the-job skills.

In recent years, many colleges have added a number of vocational-technical career programs to their one-year and two-year offerings. Degrees are being offered in cooperation with nearby area vocational-technical schools, under special agreements with those schools. In many cases, vocational-technical divisions have been established within the colleges

During fall quarter, 1978, almost 11,000 Georgians were enrolled in career-type programs. Included among offerings were programs dealing with agriculture, aviation, auto repair, criminal justice, dental hygiene, electrical engineering technology, nursing, secretarial science, wildlife management, and many others.

All told, more than 75 such programs were taught at Georgia institutions during the 1978 fall quarter, each designed to meet specific community needs and interests.

Over 1,000 students, for example, were enrolled in business-related programs like accounting, finance, and management. Another 800 participated in special classes dealing with criminal justice, and still another 500 studied about computers and data processing.

Two-year programs in nursing and dental hygiene continue to attract a number of Georgians each year. And, secretarial programs, including those for legal and medical practices, are offered by almost every institution in the state.

Career program needs in junior colleges change from county to county and state to state since such needs vary from one community to another. To find out exactly what types of programs are available, one should contact the nearest college. admissions office. A career program could provide all the training needed for the chosen job.

N/D Press Run Set To Aid Cancer Unit

The News/Daily Press Run, a three mile road race for joggers through the streets of Jonesboro on Saturday, July 12, will benefit the Clayton County Unit of the American Cancer Society in a large way, said Mrs. Clara Tilly, local Cancer Society director.

"Our goal for the year has been set at $100,000. We have already raised $60,000 this year. We are hoping the Press Run will bring in a big part of the remaining $40,000," Mrs. Tilly continued.

The race director is Dr. Avery Harvill, physical education instructor at Clayton Junior College and volunteer worker for the Cancer Society.

Entry forms have been placed at a number of locations around the county, said Mrs. Tilly, including Reeder & McGauhey and the Athletes Foot at Southlake Mall. Registration forms are also available at the Jonesboro office of the American Cancer Society on McDonough Street.

Entry fees are $4 before the race and $5 the day of the race, according to Dr.

There will actually be two races to benefit the fight against cancer on July 12. One will be the three-mile, or 5,000 meter, run and the other will be a one-mile

"Both races will start in front of the News/Daily circulation building on Broad Street," said Dr. Harvill. "The shorter race will break off from the major run and loop back to the News/Daily office on Church Street. Both routes have been marked with arrows for those who want to run the course before the

T-shirts will be awarded to the first fifty finishers in the novice run and to the first 150 finishers in the longer race. Trophies will be awarded to the first male and female to finish in each race.

The race will start at 8 a.m. The course is flat, covering West Mill, Stewart, Church South Main, College, and Cloud Streets among others, with police escorts ensuring a traffic-free run. Parking will be available at First Baptist Church of Jonesboro and First United Methodist Church of Jonesboro.

May 8, 1980 NEWS/DAILY Robert Welborn

HILL REDWINE

Police And JPs

The session of the grand jury that delivered its presentments last week is to be commended for its detailed investigation of several important aspects of county government. But unfortunately grand jury reports are too often quietly forgotten after the initial reporting of their findings. There are, however, two specific aspects of this current report that are too important to the government of the county to be regulated to the status of simply a good idea. I am refering to the proposals concerning the upgrading of county police pay, and reforming the Justice of the Peace system.

Regarding police pay, they publicly documented what had been known to those involved in law enforcement for some time-- county police receive starting salaries substantially less than those provided by several municipalities within the county. Whether an increase of 30 percent is necessary is debatable, for the county police do have access to several fringe benefits not available to the municipal forces (such as the county health plan and a good pension program), but their major recommendation is unassailable-- if we wish to keep the high quality of officer that we have been able to attract thus far, county police salaries should at least be raised to the level of the municipal forces.

Concerning the JP system, the grand jury correctly identified the variation of fees charged as one problem in need of correction, and recommended a salary system for JPs as desirable, but not politically possible. But this option deserves more consideration. Why should it be "politically impossible" to institute a change which the grand jury has identified as the most desirable alternative?

The JP system overall performs a necessary, difficult, and valuable service. With the recent state law requiring some legal training for all JPs, the old criticism of untrained justices is no longer valid. But the fee system remains as the chief aspect of the system in need of change.

The variations that presently exist in the charging of fees is one example of how the system has not been totally standardized in spite of statutes designed to provide standard fees. But the real objection to the present system is simply the chargin of fees. To have to pay for justice is a practice dating back to the 18th century in this state and while it may have been appropriate in that day and time, such a practice today seems to contradict the essence of our stated intention to provide "equal justice under the law." The fee system is only equal if you have the fee. Such a practice is analagous to having to pay a policeman to respond to a request for

One of the major criticisms raised whenever the idea of salaries for JPs is proposed is the expense of providing salaries for such officials. But the JP system is already costing the county a considerable sum each year.

All search and arrest warrants issued by the JPs to the county police are paid for by the county, and Clayton County has budgeted some $82,000 for this present fiscal year to pay for JP services. Thus, at no increased expense to the county, and at considerable savings to the public, the eight JPs of the county could each be paid $10,000 annually. Although such a system might not work in all counties, a local constitutional amendment could establish a salary system for Clayton.

If a salary system is the best alternative, as stated by the Grand Jury, then why not the best?

(Robert Welborn is an assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and regular columnist in the News-Daily. The opinions expressed here are his own and do not necessarily represent those of the

DR. AVERY HARVILL

Hampton, Claude H. Whaley of Jonesboro, and James M. Wood, Jr., of Forest Park. Chartered in September of 1974, Foundation Trustees have approved a 1980-81 operating budget of slightly over $24,000 including funds for student scholarships, student academic awards, and a faculty and staff honors

Fayette County banker HIII R. Redwine has been named to serve on the Board of Trustees of the Clayton Junior College Foundation, according to Harmon M. Born, Chairman of the nonprofit corporation. President of the Farmers and Merchants Bank in Fayetteville,

Redwine's appointment

increases the Board of Trustees of the Foundation to 13 business and professional community

Born in Fayetteville,

Redwine attended the Riverside Military Academy, the University of Georgia and Furman University. A member of

Hill Redwine

the Official Board of Finance Committee of the First United Methodist Church, he and his wife Dorothea have four children: Hill

Parks, Charles

Davenport, William Wilson, and Elizabeth

Reagan (Mrs. Ralph

Mr. and Mrs. Redwine

Redwine joins two other newcomers to the Board of Trustees. Guy

L. Benefield of Morrow

and Ernest L. Cheaves of Forest Park were named to the Board last month.

Morrow, Charles S.

Conklin of Jonesboro,

Harry S. Downs of

Morrow, S. Truett Cathy

of Hampton, Thomas B.

Clonts of Jonesboro,

Ernest A. Dunbar, Jr.,

M.D., of Morrow, W.

Cameron Mitchell of

Other members are Born, who lives in Rex

Robert · Oliver of live at 205 Lanier Avenue

Garner).

in Fayetteville.

leaders.

All programs sponsored by the Foundation are funded totally by contributions, and all contributions are tax deductible.

program.

3 CJC Professors Compiling Clayton History

CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE PROFESSORS PLAN TO WRITE HISTORY OF CLAYTON

L-R: Robert Welborn, Harvey Jackson, Bradley Rice

Living Editor Three Clayton Junior College history professors have started work on compiling the history of Clayton County from its origin through the present as a reference book.

"We need a tremendous amount of community support to do this project,' said Dr. Robert Welborn, are planned and each one of the professors. "We want to encourage the community's interest in plement what's already

Harvey Jackson. The history will be divided into three dians, through 1870, the end of the Reconstruction Period; 1870 to the end of World War II; and 1945 to the balance of social, economic and political developments placing the county in the context of state, regional and speakers on state and local population was 5,477, he national history. The book would try to identify the forces that shaped the development of the county and its municipalities for all residents," Dr. Welborn

The three men will begin research in July of this year and hope to have a manuscript written by the end of next summer.

"We'd like to put out a public appeal that anyone with photos, diaries and sources of any kind contact us at Clayton Junior either through the social sciences division at 961-3460 or me at 961-3464," Dr. Welborn

Three chapters per period

jan little, editor

professor will be in charge of each period: Dr. Hatfield will research the first period; local history and com- Dr. Welborn, the second; The other two professors an historical reference, are Dr. Bradley Rice and Dr. statistical and biographical appendices will be included periods: 1820, or when the complement written now. It's surprising the

The professors are also interested in taping oral interviews of anyone with "We would try to present a knowledge about Clayton's history. In addition, the Lyceum series next fall will and 250 pages.

history and culture to help supplement the men's work on the book.

'As historians and writers, we have the ability and Dr. Rice, the third. As to research and assess the men plan the book to be material and the professional training to bring to the project as a service to the community. along with photographs to County histories are very big county belonged to the Indians, through 1870, the end length will be between 150 histories and we have a histories and we have a county with a lot of history so we have humbly leaped into the breach," Dr. Welborn

> The real problem Clayton has is of establishing an identity, not the one of 70 to include a workshop and 80 years ago when the population was 11,655 but since then there has been a "period of explosive growth" to the present population of approximately 155,000, he noted. The men plan to work closely with historical groups such as Ancestors Unlimited and Historical Jonesboro.

"A lot has been written on Clayton but it has been episodic, 'Gone with the Wind,' family histories and portraits rather than a comprehensive history." Dr.

Welborn noted

STUDENTS

WHS Grad Wins Grant

By JOE HIETT Seventeen year old Tammy

LaNell Moon, a June 1979 in marketing at Athens. graduate of Westwood High, has Administration degree. The pretty teenager is For all five years at planning a career in fashion Westwood High, Tammy served $200 grant from the NJHS. merchandising, but realizes a on the school student council. In BBA degree creates career the eighth grade she was a Future Business Leaders of Tammy is the daughter of Mr. a sensible and realistic attitude and Mrs. C.E. Moon and resides toward her future. Awarded a with her parents at 952 Boat full tuition John Word West Rock Road, Atlanta, S.W. scholarship to Clayton Junior Brother Eddie, 23, is attending College, Tammy plans to enroll West Georgia College, and two years hence at the sister Vicki, 21, is at the average on a 4.0 system University of Georgia to work University of Georgia. Tammy testifies. She was on the WHS Business attends Sandtown Baptist Church.

many fields. Tammy will major treasurer of her class in the ninth and tenth grades, secretary as a junior, and secretary-treasurer of the

> Tammy earned a reputation at Westwood as an excellent student, to which her 3.7 super honor roll every quarter as a senior, and in addition to her CJC scholarship, received a employment opportunities in homeroom representative, America, Tammy also was a

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN July 12, 1979 CJC Announces Local Dean's List

Clayton Junior College has named 131 students to the Spring Quarter Dean's were Carol M. Couch, To make List, according to Dr. Billy George P. Green, Marsha R. Nail, Dean of the Fulton Countians named Atlanta, and one each from Wanda C. Yarbrough of campus. Hapeville and Palmetto. East Point residents named to the list were Brenda A.Daniel, Margaret D. Egger, Debra L. McKinney, Mary A. Nash, Jan I. Owens and James H.

Stephens.
Other residents named include Mark E. Walker, Sally V. Woodward, Marci C. Barber, Nina K. Bristol, Nancy G. Jones, Marianne Largin and Celia E. Lett. College Park residents named were Mary J. Anderson, Meta C. Blackmon, Emmett J. Moran, David H. Walden III,

Vivian Wheeler and

H. Grimes and William M. Martin.

Atlanta residents named 4.0 for the quarter. to the list included 13 were Minnie G. Shannon The Spring Quarter, which residents from East Point, and Mary R. Skinner. In began in March and ended six from College Park, four from Fairburn, two from Jackson of Hapeville and students to the Morrow

Palmetto were named to

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible

Elected

Tammy Moon

varsity cheerleader in the outstanding VOT student in both eighth, ninth and eleventh Fulton County and district student, and was named most of which area she chooses.

Ben Hill.

competition, the latter held in Tammy enjoys reading, and assembling clothing. She is employed at a drycleaners in Pretty, multi-talented and sensible, Tammy Lanell Moon

has a bright future, regardless grades. She was in the Spanish

Club as a subfreshman and freshman, in the Fellowship of Christian Students as a sophomore, and on the annual

The talented young woman was also an excellent VOT

(Vocational Office Training)

staff as a junior.

Clayton Junior College's chapter of Phi Beta Lambda has newly elected members of the executive committee. The new officiers are Steve Rhodes, president: David Hunt, vice-president; Robin Raper, secretary; Jackie Morgan. treasurer: and Niena King, historian. Phi Beta Lambda serves to develop competent and aggressive leadership among students who are enrolled in business pro-

CJC Nursing Grads

Listed among the 280 students who received associate degrees during Clayton Junior College's ninth annual Commencement this year were 41 graduates of the two-year Nursing Program. Students in the Program represented a six-county area, including 22 from Clayton County, 11 from Fulton, three from Fayette, two each from DeKalb and Coweta, and one from Henry.

Upon completion of CJC's Nursing Program, and the

She Gets Aid

Sixteen students, including one from Henry County, I were awarded scholarships provided by the John Word R West Foundation Fund, according to Clayton Col- ege Z Financial Aid Director William Harrell. Included is Bonita Hoover & examination of the Georgia Board of Nursing, graduates may be licensed as registered

The nursing program, one of 13 two-year "Career programs" leading to immediate employment, consists of six quarters of study, and a new class begins each September. Candidates for acceptance into the program must meet all admission requirements of the college as well as special requirements of the nursing

Graduates of the 1979 nursing class at Clayton Junior College include: Margaret S. Clarke, College Park; Jimmie L. Dixon, College Park; Alberta M. Gatewood, Union City; Sharon A. Long, College Park; Amy C. McCullough, College Park: Peggy R. Valentine, Union City; Joyce H. Whittelsey, College Park.

More than 300 students have graduated from the nursing Program at Clayton Junior College Dean's List

CAROL COUCH Carol M. Couch of Fairburn Dean's List.

was named to the Clayton

Clayton Junior

MORROW, GA. -- Fred L. Covington and Edith F. Kilpatrick, both of Conyers, were among the 85 students to make the Dean's List at щ Clayton Junior College during the Summer Quarter. To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or H higher out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

Junior College Spring Quarter

GEORGE P. GREEN George P. Green of Fairburn has been named to the Clayton Junior College Dean's List for Spring Quarter.

MARSHA GRIMES Marsha H. Grimes of Fairburn has been named to the Spring Quarter Dean's List at Clayton Junior College.

WILLIAM M. MARTIN Named to the Clayton Junior College Spring Quarter Dean's List was William M. Martin of

Completes Research

The hours spent in the library may be tough ones, but the effort pays off for Clayton Junior College Students. Here, students Teresa Greer (L), and Karen Custred head for class after completing their day's research. The local college will have a new library complex open for students soon. (Staff Photo By Mark McGee)

Clayton Gives List

Clayton Junior College has named 131 students to othe dean's list for the spring quarter and 10 Henry students are included on the Stockbridge residents who made the list include Robert L. Bomar, Arlene E. Lively, Shirley A. Penn, Danny O. Reynolds and Vennie E. Walden.

Cynthia L. Holloway, mRobert Steffensen, Dianne W. Hammock and John D. Youmans of McDonough were also on the honors list. Terri L. Grey of Hampton was also a dean's list stu-

A student must maintain ща minimum grade point av-Errage of 3.6 to be included on the dean's list.

Riverdale Man Gets Promotion

W. Oscar Dunaway of Riverdale, was promoted to marketing manager in the Orlando, Fla. office of the Kemper Group.

Dunaway joined Kemper in 1965 as a district manager 5 trainee in Atlanta, served as a district manager in Birmingham, Ala., then returned z to the Atlanta marketing department in 1969. Dunaway studied business at Clayton Junior Col-He resides with his wife Sharon and their four children in Riverdale.

Four On Dean's List

Four Fayette County stu- Brown, Charles G. Denton, dents were listed among the Muriel J. Dollar, and 85 students on the summer Marian J. Lee, all of Fayetquarter Dean's List at teville. Clayton Junior College; ac- To make the Dean's List, cording to Dr. Billy R. Nail, a student must maintain a dean of the college:

Included among the higher of a possible 4.0 for honorees were Kathy A. the quarter.

grade point average of 3.6 or

Distinctive Caps

The profile shot of Nursing Service Supervisors at Henry General Hospital gives a view of nursing caps. Each one is different, representing the school of nursing attended. Left to right are Laura Furlong of Jonesboro, Carol N. Bryan of Stockbridge, Marlene K. June of Morrow and Nancy Lou Chaffin of

NURSING SCHOOLS DETERMINE STYLE

Nurses' Uniforms Same, But Their Caps Differ

BY JAN SAVAGE

in white uniforms, but a faith, hope and charity. close observance of the overall attire reveals

For instance, the cap worn by Director of Nursing Service Superlady graduated from a the same institution.

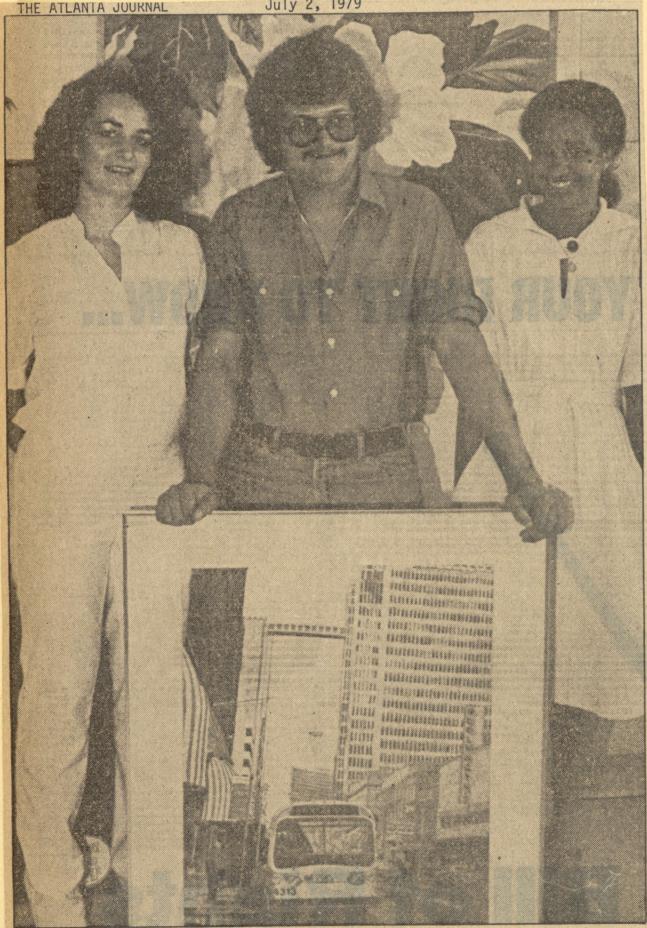

well-rounded personality. separate entities.

Just behind the brim, three sections of the cap are folded together. The General Hospital dress three points represent nurses are graduates of St. Luke merged. Thereing in Pennsylvania. fore, her cap is a One of the four Nurs-

Morrow graduated from Lutheran Hospital School of Nurses in Moline, Illinois. Two blue stripes on the brim of her cap The four registered symbolize her graduadissimilarity in nurse's nurses working out of tion. Carol N. Bryan of Jones' office wear differ- Stockbridge has one ent caps. 'Nancy Lou black stripe on her cap, Chaffin of McDonough is showing she is a gradu-Nursing Betty Jones a graduate of Presby- ate of Clayton Junior does not resemble any of terian-St. Luke's Hos- College School of Nursthose worn by her four pital School of Nursing ing. The M shaped cap in Chicago, Illinois. worn by Laura Lee visors, because each Nancy was a member of Furlong of Jonesboro the first graduating class represents her graduadifferent nursing school. of the Illinois school tion from McKeesport Caps will coincide only if after Presbyterian and Hospital School of Nurs-

Mrs. Jones, a 1962 combination of two caps ing Service Supervisors graduate of Georgia previously worn by will be assigned the Baptist Nursing School respective nurses who overall responsibility for explains the wide brim graduated from the providing and improving on her cap symbolizes a schools when they were nursing service during Mrs. Jones' absence.

July 2, 1979

STUDENT ART SALE

the sale of their prize-winning paintings and drawings. Sandy Fene of Jonesboro (left), Dean Wilson of East Point and Gail from award-winning students during the past several years. Maxwell of College Park were winners in this year's

Three Clayton Junior College students received $150 each for "Lyceum Art Purchase Award" contest. Their works go into Kim Lance, Georgia Demolay Sweetheart, will conclude her reign at the annual convention in Macon at the end of the month. Kim was chosen Clayton Chapter Sweetheart in January of last year and State Sweetheart in the August competition. As part of her duties as State Sweetheart, she has attended functions throughout Georgia in support of Demolay, a young men's organization sponsored by the Masonic Order. She graduated from Morrow High School this year and was a member of the band and chorus, majorette captain and a member of the all-state chorus for three years. She plans to attend Clayton Junior College. In recognition of her service, Clayton Demolay Chapter will sponsor a "roast" July 12.

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS

Clayton Junior College Names Fayette Students to Dean's List

Clayton Junior College has named 131 students to the Spring Quarter Dean's List, according to Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College.

Eleven students from Fayette County were included in the list and six of them reside in Fayetteville. Included were Shirley R. Bissell, Judith K. Bramlett, Marian J. Lee, Sandra K. Cochran, Judy ended in June, attracted 2,358 students to the Morrow C. Cochrane, and Kathy C. Maddock.

Peachtree City residents named to the list were Pamela K. Pleuss, Lynn Farr, Margaret M. Topp, Diane C. Zamborick. Deborah L. Snead of Woolsey also made the honor list.

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

The Spring Quarter, which began in March and

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN 7/19/79 Fayette Students Listed On CJC Dean's List

To make the Dean's List,

The Spring Quarter,

which began in March and ended in June, attracted

2,358 students to the

the quarter.

Clayton Junior College honor list.

has named 131 students to To make the Spring Quarter Dean's a student must maintain a List, according to Dr. Billy grade point average of 3.6 or R. Nail, Dean of the College. higher out of possible 4.0 for

Eleven students from Fayette County were included in the list and six of them reside in Fayetteville. Included were Shirley R. Morrow campus. Bissell, Judith K. Bramlett, Marian J. Lee, Sandra K. Cochran, Judy C. Cochrane and Kathy C. Maddock.

Peachtree City residents named to list were Pamela K. Pleuss, Lynn Farr, Margaret M. Topp and Diane C. Zamborik. Deborah L. Snead of Woolsey also made the

THE HENRY HERALD 10/3/ Clayton JC 79

Four Henry County students were listed among the 85 students on the Summer Quarter Dean's List at Clayton Junior College, according to Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College.

Included among the honorees were Donna L. Carlisle of McDonough, Kathy D. Shaw of Stockbridge, Robert Steffensen of McDonough, and Beverly K. Weaver of Stockbridge.

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

ART WINNERS--"Lyceum Art Purchase Award" winners at Clayton Junior Collège recently were [left to right] Sandy Fene of Jonesboro, Dean Wilson of East Point and Gail Maxwell of College Park. Each student received $150 for their award-winning painting or drawing.

Bonita Hoover Receives

Grant

Bonita Hoover of Mc-Donough is one of 16 students awarded scholarships provided by the "John Word West Foundation Fund," according to William T. Harrell, Director of Financial Aid at Clayton Junior College.

Bonita is a prechiropractic major at Clayton and a graduate of Henry County High Financial assistance in the way of scholarships is made available to deserving students as a result of a generous grant to the college by the John Word West Educational Foundation, Inc., a Jonesboro-based corporation created by u the late Col. John W. 二 West.

Scholarships in the 'John Word West Foundation Fund" are designed to provide incentive for deserving students who might not go to college without financial encouragement, and to provide an attraction for exceptional students to continue to develop their talents.

CICNames Dean's List Students

the spring quarter Dean's Williams. List, according to Dr. Billy

Clayton County residents include Diana M. Allen, named to the list included 21 students from Cynthia J. Carrin, Ruby A. Jonesboro, 17 from Hickox, Annette P. Riverdale, 12 from Morrow, nine from Forest Park, six Randazzo, Mary L. Ray, from College Park, three Julie M. Rayburn, Helen S. each from Conley and Rex, Rohrl, and Michael W. and two from Lake City. Smith. Jonesboro students named

N. Phillips. C. Dukes, Dan H. Fields, Rhonda K. Ballard, Jean Y. McBride, David W. Carolyn W. Bowen,

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 10/18/79

Artist Featured At Library

The Clayton County the moral support and en-Library in Jonesboro will couragement to continue her feature the works of Tammy persuance of a career in the

L. Dixon, of Jonesboro, as art field of commercial art.

Artist of the Month during The variety of pictures on at Clayton Junior College, mediums - pen and ink, oils, says she got started painting watercolor, charcoal and teacher. She has also had day, Wednesday and Friday

She credits her family, a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday

Ms. Dixon, an art student Dixon's work with various Clayton Junior College Dianne W. Warren, Libby David B. Parr, Nancy A. Morris, Joanne has named 131 students to M. Whitman, and Rita B.L.

Students who live in R. Nail, dean of the College. Riverdale named to the list named to the list were Correna G. Carlson, Hickox, Annette Plunkett, Karen A.

Other residents from to the list include Valerie A. Riverdale include Linda B. Bahr, Andrea M. Baird, Doddo, Benjamin T Brian S. Borchers, Sharon Lunceford, Joyce E. G. Cantrell, Janice O. Munson, Lisa J. Munson, Honkanen, David L. Howe, Kathie W. Nordan, Cynthia Patricia A. Howe, Stacey M. Orihuela, and Judith P.

McCoy, Janice A. Tittle, Rebekah E. Brewton,

display help emphasize Ms.

The library is open Mon-from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday from 9

July 20, 1979

L. Irwin, Patricia P. Wayda. Karski, William D. Lay, Deborah H. Lee, and Kerry

MORROW students named to the list were Susan J. Matthews, Paula OTHER RESIDENTS D. Mitchell, cynthia Stein, from Jonesboro include Ann L. Watterson, Donna Walter N. Sellers, Bonnie L. Windom, Paul C. Aaron, College Park residents Mary J. Anderson, Meta C. Blackmon, Emmett J. Moran, David H. Walden III, Vivian Wheeler, and Patricia E. Witt.

Forest Park honorees included V. Marie Cope, Susan E. Mackey, Jane C. Miller, Mikki S. Miller, Judy A. Mills, Sylvia F. honored were Victoria R. campus.

Petersen, and Kathy A. Heinemann, Mary J. Hicks, and Lydia C. Starke.

> Painter, Jess M. Palazzolo, and Burniece Howell along with Conley residents Francine M. Baer, Teresa R. Greer, and Joseph H.

Thompson.

Hewell. Also honored was Nancy C. Lyle from Ellenwood. To make the Dean's List, a THREE REX residents student must maintain a honored were Cathlene E. grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

The spring quarter, which began in March and ended in June, attracted 2,358 Lake City's two residents students to the Morrow

July 18, 1979 Fayette posts 11 on Dean's List

Clayton Junior College has according to Dr. Billy R. Nail, named 131 students to the Spring Quarter Dean's List, Dean of the College.

Eleven students from Fayette were included in the list and six of them reside in Fayetteville. Included were Shirley R. Bissell, Judith K. Bramlett, Marian J. Lee, Sandra K. Cochran, Judy C. Cochrane and Kathy C. Maddock.

Peachtree City residents named to the list were Pamela K. Pleuss, Lynn Farr, Margaret M. Topp and Diane C. Zamborik. Deborah L. Snead of Woolsey also made the honor

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for the

The spring quarter, which began in March and ended in June, attracted 2,358 students to the Morrow campus.

in the seventh grade with en- pastels.

especially her mother, with until 5 p.m.

couragement from her art

privated art lessons.

Beauty pageant

10 beauties will display charm Saturday in vying for 'Miss Clayton County' title

Living Editor The 22nd annual Miss Clayton County beauty pageant will be held Saturday at the Jonesboro Junior High School at 8 p.m.

The pageant is sponsored by the Jonesboro Jaycees and the winner of the 10 contestants will compete in the Miss Georgia beauty pageant and receive a $500

Contestants are as follows: Sherri Elston of Stockbridge is 1979 Miss Stockbridge 'High School and is listed in "Who's Who" among American high school students. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brody Lee Elston of Stockbridge.

Carla Elaine Gillespie of Riverdale is a graduate of North Clayton High School and will attend Emory University this fall. She received the University of Georgia Certificate of Merit and was a member of the National Honor Society. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carles Gillespie of Riverdale.

Beverly Sue Bartlett of Fayetteville is a graduate of Fayette County High School and attends Patricia Stevens Business and Fashion College in Atlanta. She was one of the top 10 finalists in the Miss Pride of Fayette County contest and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren H. Bartlett of Fayetteville

Traci May of Jonesboro is a graduate of North Clayton High School and attended Clayton Junior College and Tara Modeling Academy. She was second runner-up and Miss Congeniality in the 1978 Miss Georgia Rodeo pageant. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony May of Jonesboro.

Catherine E. McNeal of Griffin is a graduate of Jonesboro High School and attends Clayton Junior College. She was shorthand representative for Jonesboro High School in 1976 and 1977 and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie W. McNeal of Elizabeth Diane Britt of Forest Park is a graduate of Forest Park High School and attends Jacksonville State University. She was third runner-up in the Miss Clayton County contest in 1978 and also competed in the Miss Alabama contest in June of this year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otho Clayton Britt. Sr., of Forest Park.

Kimberly Elaine Peppers of Riverdale is a graduate of Riverdale High School were she was selected the Optimist Club's outstanding student.

Deborah Denise Wilkerson of Morrow is a graduate of Morrow High School and attends the University of Georgia. She was first runner-up inm the Miss Clayton County contest in 1978 and received the Helen Couch award in the contest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Wilkerson Jr., of Morrow.

Sherrie Melissa Ballew of Riverdale is a graduate of North Clayton High School and attends the Atlanta College of Medical and Dental Assistants. Shewas Miss Riverdale of 1979. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby C. Ballew of Riverdale.

Lisa Kaye Rayner of Jonesboro is a graduate of Forest Park High School. She was Miss Forest Park of 1978 and received the University of Georgia Certificate of Merit. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Rayner of Jonesboro.

Debbie Bridges, 1975 Miss Clayton County, is the pageant's director for the second year. Bill Julian will be emcee for the pageant and Darrel Hopson is chairman of the pageant for the second year.

TRACI MAY

CARLA GILLESPIE

CATHY MCNEAL

SHERRI BALLEW

Clayton Junior College names 131 to Dean's List

Clayton Junior College has named 131 students to the Spring Quarter Dean's List, according to Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the Clayton County residents named to the list included 21 students from Jonesboro, 17 from Riverdale, 12 from Morrow, nine from Forest Park, six from College Park, three each from Conley and Rex, and two from Lake City.

Jonesboro students named to the list include Valeria A. Bahr, Andrea M. Baird, Brian S. Borchers, Sharon G. Cantrell, Janice O. Honkanen, David L. Lowe, Patricia A. Howe, Stacey L. Irwin, Patricia P. Karski, William D. Lay, Deborah H. Lee, and Kerry N. Phillips. Other residents from Jonesboro include

Walter N. Sellers, Bonnie C. Dukes, Dan H. Fields, Jean Y. McBride, David W. McCoy, Janice A. Tittle, Dianne W. Warren, Libby M. Whitman, and Rita B. L.

Students who live in Riverdale named to the list include Diana M. Allen, Correna G. Carlson, Cynthia J. Carrin, Ruby A. Hickox, Annette P. Plunkett, Karen A. Randazzo, Mary L. Ray, Julie M. Rayburn, Helen S. Rohrl, and Michael W.

Other residents from Riverdale include Linda B. Doddo, Benjamin T. Lunceford, Joyce E. Munson, Lisa J. Munson, Kathie W. Nordan, Cynthia M. Orihuela, and

Morrow students named to the list were Susan J. Matthews, Paula D. Mitchell. Cynthia Stein, Ann L. Watterson, Donna L. Windom, Paul C. Aaron, Rhonda K Ballard, Carolyn W. Bowen, Rebekah E. Brewton, David B. Parr, Nancy A Petersen, and Kathy A. Pye.

College Park residents named to the list were Mary J. Anderson, Meta C. Blackmon, Emmett J. Moran, David H. Walden III, Vivian Wheeler, and Patricia

Forest Park honorees included V. Marie Cope, Susan E. Mackey, Jane C. Miller, Mikki S. Miller, Judy A. Mills, Sylvia F. Morris, Joanne F. Heinemann, Mary J Hicks, and Lydia C. Starke.

Three Rex residents honored were Cathlene E. Painter, Jess M. Palazzolo, and Burniece Howell along with Conley residents Francine M. Baer, Teresa R. Greer, and Joseph H. Thomason.

Lake City's two residents honored were Victoria R. Loftfield and Sheryl A. Hewell. Also honored was Nancy C. Lyle from

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higer out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

The Spring quarter, which began in March and ended in June, attracted 2,358 students to the Morrow campus.

Elected To Serve

Clayton Junior College's chapter of Phi Beta Lamdba recently elected new executive committee members. New officers are (Front L-R) David Hunt of College Park, vice-president and Steve Rhodes, president. Other officers are (Back L-R) Niena King of College Park, historian; Robin Raper, secretary and Jackie Morgan, treasurer.

SOUTH FULTON RECORDER 8/2/79

Two Named To Receive CJC West Scholarships

Two RECORDER area Westwood High. students are among sixteen Student financial assistance winners of scholarships is made available to deserving provided by the John Ward students by the John Wark West West Foundation Fund at Educational Foundation Inc., A Clayton Junior College. Donna L. Ferguson is a created by the late Col. John W. business administration major West. and a graduate of Campbell High of Fairburn.

Tammy L. Moon is a business $360 to cover costs of tuition and major and a graduate of

Moon

Bonita Hoover

Bonita Hoover

Bonita Hoover, a pre-

chiropractic major and a graduate of Henry County

High, was one of 16 area students to receive scholarships

provided by the "John Word

West Foundation Fund"

according to William T.

Harrell, Director of Finan-Zial Aid at Clayton Junior College.

Financial assistance in

She way of scholarships is made available to deserving students as a result of a grant made to the college by Educational Foundation,

poration created by the late Anc., a Jonesboro-based coring year.

tuition and fees for the com-

The scholarships include

he John Word West

Receives

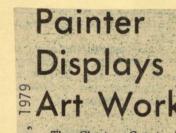

Scholarship

Jonesboro-based corporation The scholarships consist of fees at CJC for a year

Ferguson

The Clayton County Library in Jonesboro is displaying art works by Jonesboro artist Cindy Tucker, during this entire

Miss Tucker, a recent graduate of Jonesboro Senior High School, lives in Jonesboro with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Vernon ₹ Tucker.

She has been painting seriously for about four years, having been inspired in junior high school in Hialeah, Fla. under the instruction of Mike Richardson.

In 1976, Miss Tucker placed first in watercolor painting at the Dade County Youth Fair and also received a third place award in 1978 for her oil painting display at Clayton Junior College's Festival of Arts. She says she is especially interested in the mediums of pastel and charcoal and enjoys doing portraits of people and animals.

the News

Meet

Angie Ramage, Top News Photographer

Angie Ramage who is the Fayette County News photographer and darkroom technician, was born and raised in East Point.

She graduated from Russell High School and attended Clayton Junior College. Angie worked as a fashion designer and store manager in downtown Atlanta for of the major department stores.

Having taught herself the fundamentals of photography Angie has learned a great deal in the field, as Photographer for the Fayette County News, a position she has held for the past two years.

Angle is active in her church and is interested in such hobbies as writing, music, tennis and naturally, photography, what else.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN Thursday, August 16, 1979
CJC Has 15 Local Graduates ceremony, conducted out- regular college studies side on the college grounds. Listed among the honorees were 15 Henry County residents, including eight from Stockbridge, three from McDonough, two from Locust Grove, and two from Hampton. Stockbridge graduates include: Kim L. Ainsworth, Peter Broder, Robert L. Bomar, Brenda A. Dickerson, Terese A. Frizzell, David J. Malphurs, Danny O. Reynolds, and

Jimmy D. White. Students from Mc-Donough on the list were Marianna R. Brown, Saundra C. Jackson, and Erin A. Tolson. Locust Grove graduates were Dana C. Boehmer and Robert C. Brown, while Hampton residents on the honor list were Terri L. Grey and Barry W.

Graduates were listed from a 12-county area, plus four from out of state. Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College, presented candidates, and Dr. Harry S. Downs, President, awarded degrees during the exercises.

Thomas B. Murphy,

Speaker of the Georgia House of Representatives, delivered the Commencement Address. Although a student may be graduated at the end of any quarter in which degree

Associate degrees were requirements are fulfilled, awarded to 290 graduates the College conducts only during Clayton Junior one formal commencement College's ninth annual Com- exercise during the year. Among the graduates were More than students who have com-800 people gathered for the pleted the first two years of calaureate and professional degrees, as well as students who have completed one of the College's two-year 'career programs' which are designed to prepare stunts for immediate

Kim Ainsworth Completes Dental Hygiene Program

College recently.

Miss Ainsworth was well as special requirements among the 290 graduates in of dental hygiene students. the Morrow institution's Enrollment in the dental

Kim Ainsworth of consecutive quarters of full-Stockbridge was one of time study and leads to an thirty students to complete Associate in Arts Degree. the two-year dental hygiene Applicants for the program program at Clayton Junior must meet the admission requirements of the college, as ninth commencement on hygiene curriculum is June 9 listed from a nine- limited to 32 students each year, and a graduate of the The Dental Hygiene program may be licensed by Program at Clayton Junior the state of Georgia as a College consists of seven practicing dental hygienist.

SOUTH FULTON RECORDER Noctober 4, 1979 College News

were listed among the 85 College students on the Summer Quarter Dean's List at Clayton

A number of students from Junior College, according to Dr. the south Fulton County area Billy R. Nail, Dean of the Included among the honorees were ten students from College Park: Mary J. Anderson, Genevieve H. Bailey, Harold N. Brooks, Roxie D. Daniel, Michael J. Emeott, Karen L. Fuss, Billy F. Lindler, Vickie L. Mahurin, Jeffery A. Swagger, and David H. Walden, III.

Also included were George P. Green, Marsha H. Grimes, and Mark E. Vogtner, all of Fairburn; Tori L. Henry, Merrill G. Jackson, bridge. and Alan M. Jordan, all of

Hapeville To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for the

The Summer Quarter, which began in June and ended in August, attracted 1,129 students to the Morrow campus.

quarter

Ten Named To CJC's Dean's List

Ten Henry Countians have, been named to the Spring Quarter Dean's List at Clayton Junior College, according to Dr. Billy R. o Nail, Dean of the college.

Among the 131 students olisted were Robert L. Bomar, Arlene E. Lively, Shirley A. Penn, Danny O. Reynolds, and Vennie E. Walden, all of Stockbridge.

McDonough residents who made the honor list were Cynthia L. Holloway, Robert Steffensen, Dianne W. Hammock, and John D.

Terri L. Grey of Hampton was also named to the Spr-

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or Higher out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

The Spring Quarter,

which began in March and ended in June, attracted 2,358 students to the Morrow campus.

CJC Names Fayette Dean's List

Four Fayette County students were listed among the 85 students on the Summer Quarter Dean's List at Clayton Junior College, according to Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College. Included among the honorees were Kathy A. Brown, Charles G. Denton, Muriel J. Dollar, and Marian J. Lee, all of Fayetteville.

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

The Summer Quarter, which began in June and ended in August, attracted 1,129 students to the Morrow campus.

Four Students On Dean's List

Four Henry County students were listed among the 85 students on the summer quarter dean's list at Clayton Junior College, according to Dean Billy R. Nail. Included on the list were for the quarter.

August.

Donna L. Carlisle and Robert Steffensen of McDonough and Kathy K. Shaw and Beverly K. Weaver, both of Stock-To make the dean's list, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher from a possible 4.0 The summer quarter began in June and ended in

Phi Beta Lambda Committee Newly elected members of the executive committee for Clayton Junior College's chapter of Phi Beta Lambda include, from left: front row - David Hunt of College Park, vice president; and Steve Rhodes of Fayetteville, president; back row - Niena King of College Park, historian; Robin Raper of Jonesboro, secretary; and Jackie Morgan of Morrow, treasurer. Phi Beta Lambda serves to develop competent and aggressive leadership among students who are enrolled SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN

BUSINESS CLUB OFFICERS ELECTED-Newly elected members of the executive committee for Clayton Junior College's chapter of Phi Beta Lambda include, (from left front row) David Hunt of College Park, vice president; and Steve Rhodes of Fayetteville, president; (back row) Niena King of College Park historian; Robin Raper of Jonesboro, secretary; and Jackie Morgan of Morrow, treasurer. Phi Beta Lambda serves to develop competent and aggressive leadership among students who are enrolled in business programs.

BUSINESS CLUB OFFICERS--Newly elected members of the executive committee for Clayton Junior College's chapter of Phi Beta Lambda include, from left: Front row - David Hunt of College Park, vice president; and Steve Rhodes of Fayetteville, president; back row - Niena King of College Park, historian; Robin Raper of Jonesboro, secretary; and Jackie Morgan of Morrow, treaturer. Phi Beta Lambda serves to develop competent and aggressive leadership among students who are enrolled in business programs.

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN 8/2/79 CJC Students Given Scholarships

'John Word West Founda- major and a graduate of tion Fund," according to Campbell High; and Tam- Jonesboro William T. Harrell, director my L. Moon, a business maof Financial Aid at Clayton jor and a graduate of Junior College.

the way of scholarships is Word West Foundation his life to education. made available to deserving Fund" are designed to students as a result of a provide incentive for deservgenerous grant made to the ing students who might not College by the John Word go to college without finan-West Educational Founda- cial encouragement, and to tion, Inc., a Jonesboro- provide an attraction for exbased corporation created ceptional students to con-

The scholarships include $360 to cover the costs of scholarship program has tuition and fees for the com- been totally funded by the

by the late Col. John W. tinue to develop their talents.

Westwood High.

Support for the CJC Board of Directors of the Local scholarship John Word West Foundarecipients are: Lawanda tion, Inc. Members of the Davis, an accounting major Board are Hugh Dickson of Three Southside students and a graduate of Russell Jonesboro, Mrs. Helen have recently been awarded High; Donna L. Ferguson, a Denton of Riverdale, I. L. scholarships provided by the business administration Huie, Jr. of Jonesboro, and Mrs. Murdie B. Lewis of Both the Foundation and the CJC Trust Fund were named in honor of the late Financial assistance in Scholarships in the "John Col. West, who dedicated

Sixteen Local Students Awarded CJC Scholarships

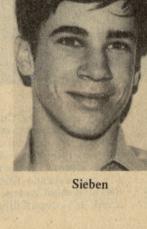

Norton

BRONWYN BROWN

KATHY O'DELL

Sixteen area students have been awarded scholarships provided by the John Word West Foundation Fund, according to William T. Harrell, director of financial aid at Clayton Junior College. Financial assistance in the way of scholarships is made available to deserving students as a result of a generous grant made to the College by the John Word West Educational Foundation, Inc., a Jonesborobased corporation created by the late Col. John W. West.

The scholarships include $360 to cover the costs of tuition and fees for the coming year.

SCHOLARSHIP

recipients include:

—Dawn A. Bourdage, a nursing major and graduate of Morrow Senior High; -Gary A. Bradford, a pre-dentistry major and graduate of East Coweta Bronwyn A. Brown, a business administration major and graduate of Jonesboro Senior High; -Gary Byars, a pre-engineering major and a graduate of Jonesboro Senior High; -LAWANDA Davis, an accounting major and a graduate of Russell High;

—Lynda Daugherty, a graduate from Forest Park Senior High and an undecided major; -Donna L. Ferguson, a business administration major and a graduate of Campbell High; —Angelique A. Garrett, a pre-dental hygiene major and a graduate of Morrow Senior High;

-BONITA Hoover, a pre-chiropractic major and a graduate of Henry County chology major and a graduate of Forest Park Senior High; -Tammy L. Moon, a business major and a graduate of Westwood High;

Jodi K. Johnson, a psy-

-Darrell F. Morrow, a graduate of Forest Park Senior High and an undecided major; -Sharon E. Norton, a secretarial major and a graduate of Morrow Senior

-KATHERINE D. O'Dell, a criminal justice major and a graduate of Morrow Senior High;

-Patrick J. Sieben, a graduate of Jonesboro Senior High and an undecided major; and

-Frank C. Risdale, a music major and a graduate of East Coweta High.

SCHOLARSHIPS in the John Word West Foundation Fund are designed to provide incentive for deserving students who might not go to college without financial encouragement, and to provide an attraction for exceptional students to continue to develop their Support for the CJC scholarship program has been totally funded by the Board of Directors of the John Word West Foundation, Inc. Members of the Board are Mr. Hugh Dickson of Jonesboro, Mrs. Helen Denton of Riverdale, Mr. I. L. Huie, Jr. of Jonesboro, and Mrs. Murdie B. Lewis of Jonesboro.

Both the Foundation and CJC Trust Fund were named in honor of the late Col. West, who dedicated his life to education.

County have received two-year scholarships to attend

Clayton Junior College. Funded by the Clayton

Junior College Foundation,

Inc., scholarships were awarded in three areas:

Foundation Merit Scholarships, Foundation

Talent Scholarships, and 1979 STAR Student

ners, announced during graduation ceremonies conducted by various high schools last spring, are designed to recognize and reward outstanding area

students for their record of academic achievement in

"Merit" scholarships win-

Awards.

Bourdage

Johnson

Four Students Awarded

ranking high school graduates in the Clayton,

Henry, Fayetteville, and

MYS KATHERINE H.

CF Y, a graduate of He y County High received a "Merit" scholarship. A Flippen resident, she plans to major in recipient is Nancy M.

Smith, a business major.

She is the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Carl P. Smith of Stockbridge and graduated from Stockbridge High.

secretarial studies.

Another

South Fulton area who elect available to the four STAR

"Talent" scholarship Keri is the daughter of Mr.

county area

College Scholarships

to attend CJC.

Four students from Henry are provided for the highest high school studies. Awards recipients are selected on

Clayton 4-H'er Wins

First Place In State The Clayton County Extension Service announced that Helen Randolph, 18-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

achievement Helen will receive her award at the state 4-H Congress held August 21-24 at the Marriott in Atlanta. For her achievement, Helen will travel to Chicago November 23-30 to attend the national 4-H Congress. She hopes that while there she will be named a national winner and receive an $800 scholarship.

John C. Randolph, has been named 4-H state winner in Helen has not only served her county 4-H program well, but has served as an officer for the entire metro district, served as a counselor at Camp Fortson, has done volunteer work in nursing homes, and now serves as a 4-H program assistant in the Clayton County Extension Office. Helen has modeled her members.

the basis of their talent and achievements in a number of selected fields. Awards are automatically made students from the four-

The STAR Student to accept an award this year is

Benjamin Wade Studdard

III, a graduate of Henry

County High. He is the son of Mrs. Anna Studdard of Hampton and Ben W. Stud-

Keri LuAnne Pritchett

also received a 1979

"Talent" scholarship. She is a graduate of Stockbridge

High and plans to major in aviation administration.

and Mrs. Donald Pritchett.

dard, Jr. of Clarkston.

HELEN RANDOLPH, CLAYTON JUNIOR STUDENT First Place Winner In Achievement

goals from a statement in a The achievement award is 4-H meeting: "If a man puts recognition for a 4-H'er who a limit on what he will do, he has just put a limit on what 4-H work, not only project he can do." It was this type work, but citizenship and of thinking and perception that placed Helen at the top of the achiever list for Georgia's 162,000 4-H leadership activities.

Helen, who plans a career in child development, attends Clayton Junior

Dixon's Paintings Featured

.The Clayton County Library in Jonesboro is featuring the works of Tammy L. Dixon of Jonesboro as artist of the o month.

Ms. Dixon, an art student at Clayton Junior College, says she started painting in Line seventh grade with encouragement from her art teacher. She also had private o art lessons.

The variety of pictures on display help emphasize Ms. Dixon's ability with various - media--pen and ink, oils, water-color, charcoal and pastels.

The library is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday until 6 p.m.; Tuesday and Thursday until 9 p.m.; and Saturday until 5 p.m.

Students On CJC Honor List

Four Henry County students were listed among the 85 students on the Summer Quarter Dean's List at Clayton Junior College, according to Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College.

Included among L. honorees were Donna L. Included among the Carlisle of McDonough, Kathy D. Shaw of Stockbridge, Robert Steffensen of McDonough, and Beverly K. Weaver of Stockbridge.

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a To make the Dean's List, grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible $ 4.0 for the quarter.

The Summer Quarter,

which began in June and Hended in August, attracted

1,129 students to the

Morrow campus.

Residents

Get Funds

Three South Fulton students have received John Word West Foundation Fund scholarships, according to William T. Harrell, director of financial aid at Clayton counting major at Clayton

Junior College is a recipient

Ms. Davis is also a graduate of Russell High School.

business administration major at the college also is a winner of a John Word West

Ms. Ferguson is a gradu-

A scholarship has also ate of Campbell High School

been awarded to Tammy L.

Moon, a business major at the college and a graduate of Financial assistance in the way of scholarships is made available to students as a result of a grant made to the college by the John

Word West Educational

Foundation Inc..

Westwood High School.

Donna L. Ferguson, a

Lawanda Davis, an ac-

Junior College.

of the scholarship.

scholarship.

in Fairburn.

LAWANZA DAVIS

TAMMY MOON Business Major

Clayton Announces Honors

A number of students from the South Fulton County area were listed among the 85 students on the summer quarter Dean's blist at Clayton Junior College, according to Dr. Billy R. Nail, dean of the college. Included among the honorees were ten students from College Park, Mary J. SAnderson, Genevieve H. Bailey, Harold N. Brooks, Roxie D. Daniel, Michael J. Emeott, Karen L. Fuss, Billy F. Lindler, Vickie L.

шС. Barber, Paul G. Gamblin, Rachel A. Pharo,

and Kathy L. Stewart.

Also included were George
P. Green, Marsh H. Grimes, and Mark E.
Vogtner, all of Fairburn;
Tori L. Henry, Merrill G.
Jackson, and Alan M. Jordan, all of Hapeville; and Atlanta residents Amalia A. Loupis and Roger D. Noble.
To make the Dean's List,
a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or

Mahurin, Jeffrey A Swagger, and David H. Walden, III.

Four students from East Point on the list were Marci higher out of possible 4.0 for the quarter.

PATRICK SIEBEN

LYNDA DAUGHERTY

CJC

ANGIE GARRETT July 30, 1979

students as a result of a include:

BONITA HOOVER

JODI JOHNSON

--Lynda Daugherty, a graduate from Forest Park

Senior High and an un-

pre-dental hygiene major

and a graduate of Morrow

chiropractic major and a

-Angelique A. Garrett, a

-Bonita Hoover, a pre-

decided major;

Senior High:

Senior High and an un

Scholarships in the "John

Word West Foundation

Fund" are designed to provide incentive for deserving students who might not go to college without financial encouragement, and to provide an attraction for exceptional students to continue to develop their Support for the CJC scholarship program has decided major.

DARRELL MORROW

11 area students awarded West Fund scholarships

-Dawn A. Bourdage, a nursing major and graduate

GARY BYARS

Eleven area students have been awarded scholarships provided by the "John Word West Foundation Fund," according to William T. Harrell, cirector of financial aid at Clayton Junior way of scholarships is made available to deserving generous grant made to the college by the John Word West Educational Foundation, Inc., a Jonesborobased corporation created by the late Col John W. West. The scholarships include $360 to cover the costs of Financial assistance in the tuition and fees for the coming year. Scholarship recipients of Morrow Senior High; -Bronwyn A. Brown, a business administration major and graduate of Jonesboro Senior High;

-- Gary Byars, a pre-engineering major and a graduate of Jonesboro graduate of Henry County -- Jodi K. Johnson, a psychology major and a graduate of Forest Park Senior High; > graduate of Forest Park Senior High and an undecided major; -- Sharon E. Norton, a secretarial major and

-Katherine D. O'Dell, a criminal justice major and a graduate of Morrow Senior High; and --Patrick J. Sieben, a graduate of Jonesboro education.

been totally funded by the -Darrell F. Morrow, a Board of Directors of the John Word West Foundation, Inc. Members of the Board are Mr. Hugh Dickson of Jonesboro, Mrs. Helen Denton of Riverdale, Mr. I. graduate of Morrow Senior L. Huie Jr. of Jonesboro, > Jonesboro. Both the Foundation and CJC Trust Fund were named in honor of the late Col. West who dedicated his life to and Mrs. Murdie B. Lewis of Sosebee Named To Trammell PR Post

DAWN BOURDAGE

Leslie Burch Sosebee has been appointed public relations director for Trammell Real Estate Corporation. Previously in real estates sales, Mrs. Sosebee also serves as secretary elect on the Clayton /Fayette Young Council of Realtors where she writes a monthly newsletter distributed to all Realtors and affiliate members of the Clayton and Fayette Counties' Boards of Realtors. She also is a representative on the board of directors with the Clayton County Board of Realtors. Mrs. Sosebee is a North Clayton High School graduate and attended Clayton Junior College. She has lived in

Local Artist Displays Work

The Clayton County Library in Jonesboro is featuring the works of Tammy L. Dixon, of Jonesboro as Artist of the Month.

Ms. Dixon, an art student Ms. Dixon, an art student at Clayton Junior College, says she got started painting in the seventh grade with encouragement from her art teacher.

She credits her family, especially her mother, with the moral support and encouragement to continue her persuance of a career in the art field and hopes to some day be in the field of commercial art.

The variety of pictures on display help emphasize Ms. Dixon's ability with various mediums pen and ink, oils. watercolor, and pastels.

Area Students Enter College

Twenty One students from five South Fulton high schools are taking credit courses at Clayton Junior College this quarter that also satisfy high school requirements. according to Judith C. Nichols, admissions counselor.
Students from Feldwood High School in College Park

Clay M. Brown, Sharon L. Brown and Sharon M. Guritz. Newsome, Barbara Steen, David Dr. Tomlinson, Glynis J. West, Randal A. Westrick and Melinda M. Whitehead. Students from M.D. Collins High School in College Park

Westwood High School students attending Clayton Junior College are Karen V. Dilliard and Anthony A. Myers. Charles M. Smith, a student at College Park High School in Fairburn, is also attending the college.

attending the college are Carol L. Adams, Janice M. Allen, Other Feldwood High School students are Geoffrey Jones, Lamar R. Knight, David R. Miller, Thomas J.

attending the college are Virginia DerMoushegian, Deborah A. Fussell and James H. McLeroy Jr.

Donna L. Ferguson, a student at Campbell High School is attending the college.

Scholarship program.

graduating seniors.

Merit Program by taking the PSAT/NMSQT qualifying test. Semifinalists are the highest scorers in each state.

Local Students Awarded Scholarships Ten Clayton County stu- students as a result of a Scholarships in the "John velop their talents.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

tion Fund," according to Jonesboro-based corpo-William T. Harrell, Director ration created by the late of Financial Aid at Clayton Col. John W. West. Junior College.

the way of scholarships is tuition and fees for the commade available to deserving ing year.

dents have been awarded generous grant made to the Word West Foundation 'John Word West Founda- West Educational Inc., a

The scholarships include Financial assistance in $360 to cover the costs of scholarships provided by the College by the John Word Fund" are designed to provide incentive for deserving students who might not go to college without financial encouragement, and to provide an attraction for exceptional students to continue to de- Helen Denton of Riverdale.

amed district winners.

Support for the CJC scholtally funded by the Board of Directors of the John Word West Foundation Inc. Members of the Board are Hugh

I. L. Huie Jr. of Jonesboro, CJC Trust Fund were named and Murdie B. Lewis of in honor of the late Col. West, who dedicated his life

PATRICK SIEBEN Undecided Major

Undecided Major

GARY BYARS Pre-Engineering Major

KATHY O'DELL SHARON NORTON

Undecided Major

Criminal Justice Major

BRONWYN BROWN Business Administration

Pre-Dental Hygiene Major

LINDA DAUGHTERY

Dickson of Jonesoboro, year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Randolph.

She won in achievement and, according to a 4-H spokesman, the award is an outstanding career as a 4-H'er." She not only has served in her county 4-H program but also has served as an officer for the entire counselor at Camp Fortson. done volunteer work in nursing homes, and now serves as a 4-H program assistant in the Clayton County Extension Office.

HELEN HAS modeled her goals from a statement in a 4-H meeting: "If a man puts a limit on what he will do, he has just put a limit on what he can do," she said. The achievement award is recognition for a 4-H'er who has excelled in all phases of 4-H work, not only project work, but citizenship and eadership activities. Miss Randolph, who plans a career in child scholarships of $800-1,000. Clayton Junior College. Miss Randolph is the 18-

Clayton 4-Hers Win State Honors

MISS GILLESPIE, 18. of Riverdale, was named the State Winner in the Leisure Education-General Recreation project. National 4-H November 23-30.

creative movement dance to handicapped children and Metro District, served as a adults. She has taught this program with the Clayton County Parks & Recreation Center for three years. An active 4-H member for has participated in Foods, Citizenship projects. She has been asked to cluding State 4-H council servation; Amy Parrish, and the State Donors health; Mark Fowler, per-winner, Greg Evans in archery, but he already has competed at state in July. Four-H'ers not only competed in projects at state congress, but they also attended banquets, tours and "merely Helen's reward for Congress in Chicago, luncheons sponsored by the respective donors to the Her winning demonstra- state 4-H program. "It's a tion deals with teaching week of recognizing all the elements that have contributed to a truly successful 4-H year," said the spokesman. Attending from Clayton County were Paula White, home management; Janet eight years, Miss Gillespie Dupree, fashion revue; Margaret Fowke, dairy performing Arts and foods; Carla Gillespie, general recreation; Desiree Smith, home furnishing; perform at various state- Helen Randolph, achievewide 4-H functions, in- ment; Anita Gammill, conforming arts; Rodney Sat-Miss Gillespie is the terfield, bicycle; Scott daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, public speaking Charles Gillespie, and will be (also district leadership winattending Emory University ner); and Scott Dorris, clothing.

Accompanying the group were Clayton County Exten-CLAYTON County ac- sion Agents, Dawn Trivett development, attends tually had one other district and Monty Griffin.

Carla Gillespie

Helen Randolph

Dunbar lands Clayton Junior College scholarship

Cora Jean Dunbar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dunbar of 303 Journeys End, Peachtree City, was among the 23 students from the four-county area of Clayton, Fayette, Henry and South Fulton to receive a two-year scholarship to attend Clayton Junior College, the Morrow school announced last week.

Two other Fayette students, Kris Creecy and Shirley Jean Taylor also received scholarships, the school announced.

Ms. Taylor is a 1979 graduate of Fayette County High and a speech and drama major. She

the summer quarter Dean's

Included on the honor list were 15 students from

Jonesboro, 11 from Riverdale, 10 from College Park, from Morrow, three from

Rex, two each from Conley and Lake City, and one from Clayton County.

Christopher,

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

Top Students:

has named 85 students to Hoover, Susan E. Hulley,

List, including 56 from Keyser, Angela M. Pesce, released by Dr. Billy R. were Judith A. Beekman,

Nail, dean of the college, Cynthia J. Carrin, Linda B.

seven from Forest Park, five Pryor, Karen Ramey, Mary

JONESBORO students lege Park were Mary J on the list were Valerie A. Anderson, Genevieve H. Bahr, Brian S. Borchers, Bailey, Harold N. Brooks, Mary E. Bowen, Marian F. Roxie D. Daniel, Michael J.

Bridgman, Donald L. Emeott, Karen L. Fuss, Bil-

H. Crown, Ronda D. Doster, Mahurin. Jefferv A. Swag-

A. Tittle.

Weingartner.

Marsha ly F. Lindler, Vickie L.

funded by the Clayton Junior College Foundation Inc. "Talent scholarship recipients are selected on the basis of their talent and achievements in a number of selected fields," the college. Ms. Creecy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Creecy of Favetteville, also received a talent scholarship. Also a 1979 graduate of Fayette County

according to a spokesman for High, she is a music major. Ms. Taylor, an undecided major, received a merit scholarship designed to recognize and reward students for Penny S. Kelley, James C.

Toni A. Tidwell, and Janice

Included from Riverdale

Doddo, Michele F. Hagist,

Delano W. Keheley, Sylvia

E. Koehler, Deborah A.

L. Ray, Elizabeth K.

Thompson, and John G.

STUDENTS FROM Col-

October 4, 1979

Clayton Junior Names Dean's List from Summer Quarter

Clayton Junior College Willie M. Glenn, Bonita ger, and David H. Walden, zolo, and Merry L

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey R. Taylor, Fayetteville.

The new awards are included in a $22,204 budget approved by the foundation's Board

Strickland; Francine M.

a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0

The summer quarter,

which began in June and ended in August, attracted

1,129 students to the Mor-

for the quarter.

row campus.

Forest Park students on Baer and Teresa R. Greer of the list were Karen S. Conley; . Meg C. DeWeese Gardner, Kayre K. Hines, and Josie M. Snow of Lake

Stephen D. Honea, Rebecca City; and Arlene Bonner of mons, Kim S. Washuta, and To make the Dean's List,

A. Quinn, Gladys J. Sim- Ellenwood.

ALSO included were

Morrow residents Janet E.

Burba, Claudia A. Davis,

Emory S. Holloway, Connie

E. Peterson, and Ann D.

Schley; Rex residents Mary

E. Batten, Jess M. Palaz-

Janet I. Wheeler.

Cont'd on p. 13A

Trustees for the 1979-80 year.

All scholarships funded by the Dunbar

Cont'd from p. 12A foundation are in the amount of $720, covering cost of tuition and fees during two years at Clayton.

Joining the 23 new students in this year's program will be students who entered college a year ago and will be entering their second year of study. Approximately 50 scholarship recipients are anticipated to enroll in fall quarter classes, the school spokesman said.

Since its founding in September of 1974, the Board of Trustees of the foundation has supported a program featuring student scholarships. The program, which also includes funds to honor outstanding students and members of the faculty and staff, has grown from an annual budget of $1,700 to more than $22,000.

All programs supported by the toundation are funded totally by contributions, and all contributions to the non-profit corporation are tax deductible.

In Merit Program Lori Shafrit, a senior at Jonesboro. He attends Forest Park Senior High Clayton Junior College School, and Doug Morris, a through a program which freshman scholar at Clayton allows high school students Junior College, have to substitute a college qualified as semifinalists in curriculum for their senior the 1980 National Merit This summer Doug at-Over 1.1 million students tended Emory University as enrolled in about 18,000 high part of a summer scholar schools entered the 1980 program, where he achieved received a University of Georgia certificate of merit. He has no definite plans named from the top half of for which university he will one percent of the state's attend after receiving his senior class in numbers high school diploma, but proportional to that state's intends to go into the law

the Dean's List. He also percentage of the nation's field. To be eligible for Merit Lori is the daughter of Scholarships, Fred and Doris Shafrit of semifinalists must become Forest Park. This summer finalists by being fully enshe and Doug participated in dorsed and recommended by the Governor's Honors their principals, submitting program, a six week study records that confirm their session, during which they high academic standing, and studied social science at substantiating their previous Wesleyan College in Macon. test scores with equivalent scores on another test. She is a member of the Over 90 percent of the band, French club, Interact club, Beta club and National Honor Society, and the school's newspaper. Lori plans to attend the University of Georgia after graduation and study political science with law as $1000 scholarships are

Doug is the son of Tommy and Peggy Morris of semifinalists are expected to qualify as finalists next February. The Merit Scholars will be chosen from this group and notified in April and May. The 1000 National Merit supported by grants from business and industrial organizations

LORI SHAFRIT

DOUG MORRIS

Fifty-Six Students Make Dean's List

Fifty-six Clayton County students completed last quarter on the Clayton Junior College Dean's List.

Dr. Billy Nail, dean, released the list, which included 15 students from Jonesboro, 11 from Riverdale, 10 from College Park, seven from Forest Park, five from Morrow, three ex and two each from Conley and Lake City and one from Ellenwood.

Jonesboro students are Valerie Bahr, Brian Borchers, Mary Bowen, Marian Bridgman, Donald Christopher, Marsha Crown, Ronda Doster, Willie Glenn, Bonita Hoover, Susan Hulley, Penny Kelley, James Keyser, Angela Pesce, Toni Tidwell and Janice Tittle.

Included from Riverdale are Judith Beekman, Cynthia Carrin, Linda Doddo, Michele Hagist, Delano Keheley, Sylvia Koehler, Deborah Pryor, Karen Ramey, Mary Ray, Elizabeth Thompson and John Weingartner.

College Park Students are Mary Anderson, Genevieve Bailey, Harold Brooks, Roxie Daniel, Michael Emeott, Karen Fuss, Billy Lindler, Vickie Mahurin, Jeffery Swagger and David Walden III.

Students form Forest Park are Karen Gardner, Kayre Hines, Stephen Honea, Rebecca Quinn, Gladys Simmons, Kim Washuta and Janet Wheeler, Morrow residents are Janet Burba, Claudia Davis, Emory Holloway, Connie Peterson and Ann Schley.

Also included are Rex residnets Mary Batten, Jess Palazzolo, Merry Strickland; Conley residents Francin Baer and Teresa Greer and Meg DeWeese and Josie Snow of Lake City and Arlene Bonner of Ellenwood.

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS

Wednesday, August 22, 1979

Meet The News

Connie Mason vital part of News operation

Connie Mason has learned every aspect of the newspaper business since she began working with the Fayette County News.

Not only do Connie's duties at the paper include advertising work, composition and circulation, but Connie also is a valuable asset with her news tips and advertising ideas. Connie graduated from Fayette County High School in 1978.

She was born in Atlanta and moved to Dallas, Texas and New Jersey, before coming back to Fayette in 1978. Connie's father works for Delta, helping open new cities and setting up the details for new operations for the airline.

Connie loves to swim, travel and play softball. She is currently attending Clayton Junior College and is interested in accounting and legal secretary work.

56 Clayton Students On CJC Dean's List

Clayton Junior College has named 85 students to the Summer Quarter Dean's List, including 56 from Clayton

Included on the honor list released by Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College, were 15 students from Jonesboro, 11 from Riverdale, 10 from College Park, seven from Forest Park, five from Morrow, three from Rex, two each from Conley and Lake City, and one from Ellenwood.

Jonesboro students on the list were Valerie A. Bahr, Brian S. Borchers, Mary E. Bowen, Marian F. Bridgman, Donald L. Christopher, Marsha H. Crown, Ronda D. Doster, Willie M. Glenn, Bonita Hoover, Susan E. Hulley, Penny S. Kelley, James C. Keyser, Angela M. Pesce, Toni A. Tidwell, and Janice A. Tittle.

Included from Riverdale were Judith A. Beekman, Cynthia J. Carrin, Linda B. Doddo, Michele F. Hagist, Delano W. Keheley, Sylvia E. Koehler, Deborah A. Pryor, Karen Ramey, Mary L. Ray, Elizabeth K. Thompson, and John G. Weingartner. Students from College Park were Mary J. Anderson,

Genevieve H. Bailey, Harold N. Brooks, Roxie D. Daniel, Michael J. Emeott, Karen L. Fuss, Billy F. Lindler, Vickie L. Mahurin, Jeffery A. Swagger, and David H. Walden, III. Forest Parkstudents on the list were Karen S. Gardner, Kayre K. Hines, Stephen D. Honea, Rebecca A. Quinn, Gladys J. Simmons, Kim S. Washuta, and Janet I. Wheeler.

Also included were Morrow residents Janet E. Burba, Claudia A. Davis, Emory S. Holloway, Connie E. Peterson, and Ann D. Schley; Rex residents Mary E. Batten, Jess M. Palazzolo, and Merry L. Strickland; Francine M. Baer and Teresa R. Greer of Conley; Meg C. DeWeese and Josie M. Snow of Lake City; and Arlene Bonner of Ellenwood.

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for

The Summer Quarter, which began in June and ended in August, attracted 1.129 students to the Morrow campus.

THE CLAYTON SUN Spring Enrollment Up at Clayton Jr.

Spring Quarter enrollment figures at Clayton 2,500 who are enrolled in terfield, director of admissions and registrar.

The spring quarter, which showed that 1,448 women began in late March and and 1,037 men are enrolled continues into early June, in credit classes, and that 73 attracted 2,485 students to percent of the total student the Morrow campus, an in- population is unmarried. crease of 127 over the 2,358 who were enrolled during cent of the students enrolled the quarter one year ago. (1,558 are taking a day, or System of Georgia, Clayton

Junior College reflect an in- credit programs at the colcrease of more than five per- lege, more than 2,000 comcent over last year's total, munity residents are enrolaccording to a report led in non-credit classes ofreleased by Annette B. Sat- fered through the Office of Community Services.

În addition, over 61 per-led in evening or mostly evening classes. Students from a 21-

In addition to the almost mostly day, classes, with the county area are enrolled at the two-year institution, including 1,342 from Clayton The quarterly report County, 626 from Fulton County, 207 from Fayette County, 154 from Henry County, 42 from DeKalb, 28 from Spalding, 22 from Coweta, and 20 from Rockdale.

remaining 39 percent enrol-

A unit of the University

Jarita Richardson, 19, has the right idea of how to get around in these days of rising gas costs. foot it. She is a second year Spanish major at Clayton Junior College in Morrow and is on her way to class. Ms. Richardson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Richardson. (Staff Photo By Ray James)

Local Ten Make List

Ten Henry County stu-dents were listed among the 145 students on the Fall Quarter Dean's List at Clayton Junior College, according to Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College.

Included among the honorees were Stockbridge residents Marla J. Cochran, Barbara P. Johnson, William R. MacLauchlin, Brenda L. Moss, Linda M. Pan-lips.

Also listed were Larry A.

Garner and Robert Steffensen of McDonough and R. Schalk of Hampton.

CJC's Freshman Scholar Program Draws 51 Students

Fifty-one seniors from 12 area high schools are taking credit courses at Clayton Junior College this quarter that also satisfy high school requirements, according to Judith C. Nichols, admissions counselor at the two-year institution near Morrow. Jointly enrolled in the Freshman Scholar Program at the College, the 51 students met special admission standards of the program. Students who meet these requirements may enroll at the college during the quarter following completion of their junior year in high school, or during any subsequent academic quarter.

OFFERED in cooperation with local county Boards of Education, students enrolled in the program include 16 from Stockbridge High School; 14 from Feldwood High; five from Jonesboro Senior High; three each from Morrow Senior and M. D. Collins High; two each from Henry County High, Westwood High, and North Clayton Senior;

SOUTH FULTON NEIGHBOR 12/5/79 Charles D. Paris of Riverdale has been promoted to assistant vice-president by the Fulton National Bank

Paris joined the bank in 1972 and

He now is assistant manager of the

He is a graduate of Clayton Junior College and has attended Georgia State University.

He lives with his wife, Martha, and two children on Lucan Way.

has worked primarily in the commercial finance area, according to a bank's commercial finance depart-

Board of Directors.

and one each from Fayette County High, College Park Belair Drive, Stockbridge; High, Forest Park Senior High, and Campbell High

Over half of the students enrolled in the program are taking courses offered at two off-campus locations. Daytime courses are being taught by College instructors at Stockbridge High School in Henry County and at Feldwood High School in south Fulton County.

STOCKBRIDGE High students enrolled in the -Anna Marie Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry

D. Bowen, of Pinehurst Drive, Stockbridge;

—Jeannette R. Bull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Bull, of Garden Trail, Stockbridge; —Timothy L. Cook, son of Mrs. Mary C. Bailey, of Highway 42, Stockbridge; John C. Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Dunn of Pink Ladies Present Nursing Scholarship

Mrs. Jewel McNeal (second from left), president of the Pink Ladies Auxiliary at Clayton General Hospital, presents a scholarship check to Mrs. Lou Ray of Riverdale, a sophomore nursing student at Clayton Junior College. Looking on are Harmon M. Born (left), chairman of the Clayton County Hospital Authority and of the Clayton Junior College Foundation; and Dennis Scheidt (right), administrator at the hospital. Members of the Pink Ladies Auxiliary have been saving for the last five years, and the $450 scholarship check to Mrs. Ray is the first scholarship funded through investments.

-KATHRYN L. Greer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronal A. Greer, of Shields Road, Stockbridge;
—Brent A. Huff, son of Mrs. W. G. Anderson, of Coffee Lane in Ellenwood, and Frank H. Huff;

—Laura A. Hunerwadel, daughter of Mrs. Louise M. Hunerwadel, of Panola Road, Ellenwood; -Kalina Marie James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion C. James of Stagecoach Drive, Stockbridge; -Brenda A. Hoffman, daughter of Mrs. Nancy Hoffman, of Stockbridge;

-THOMAS S. Hortman, son of Mr. and Mrs. T.L. Hortman of Hickory Drive, Stockbridge; -David S. Knowles, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D.

Knowles, of Stagecoach Circle, Stockbridge; -Glenn E. Latimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Latimer, of Asa Mosley Road, McDonough; -Twilla A. Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest

Porter, of Davis Road, Stockbridge; -Linda D. Sandifer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Sandifer of Lynwood Drive, Ellenwood;

-MARGARET R. Swann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram, T. Swann, of Rex Road, Stockbridge; and -Mary E. Winn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Winn, of Route 1, Stockbridge.

FELDWOOD High School students enrolled include: -Carol L. Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby G. Adams, of Morning Creek Drive, College Park; —Janice M. Allen, daughter of Mrs. Marie G. Allen, of Morning Creek Drive, College Park;
—Clay M. Brown, of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Brown, of Mallory Road, College Park; -Sharon L. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Westert N. Brown, of Deer Run Trail, College Park;

-Sharon M. Guritz, daughter of Mr. David Guritz, of Pebblebeach Drive, College Park; -Geoffrey Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy R. Jones, of Potomac Court. East Point:

-LAMAR R. Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Knight of Lawrence Avenue, Fairburn; -David R. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Miller, of

Mallory Road, College Park;
—Thomas J. Newsome, son of Mrs. Gail B. Newsome, of Flat Shoals Road, Union City;

BARBARA Steen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Steen, of Lester Road, College Park; -David D. Tomlinson, brother of Russell A. Tomlinson

Jr., of Flat Shoals Road, Union City; -Glynis J. West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack West, -Randal A. Westrick, son of Mrs. Geraldine R. Thorpe, of Flat Shoals Road in Union City, and Wayne A. -Melinda M. Whitehead, daughter of Mrs. Terri J. Whitehead, of Buckhurst Trail in College Park, and

-Julie M. Crane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Records

Crane, of Walt Stephens Road, Jonesboro -Maria G. Hausmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Hausmann, of Tide Court, Jonesboro;

Douglas T. Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Morris, of Dundy Court, Jonesboro; -Deirdre D. Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James

Stewart, Lake Jodeco Rad, Jonesboro; Jane G. Winkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Winkle, of Saw Mill Road, Hampton;

REPRESENTING Morrow Senior High in the program

—Lisa L. Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy V. Edwards, of Allatoona Road, Morrow; -Leslie L. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob W.

Smith, of Grant Road, Ellenwood; -Juli E. Yowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yowe, of Charles Drive, Morrow.

STUDENTS from M. D. Collins High School include: -Virginia DerMoushegian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack DerMoushegian, of Ravencliff Lane, College Park; -Deborah A. Fussell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Eric

Fussell, of Wolfcreek Circle, Atlanta;
—James H. McLeroy Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. McLeroy Sr., of Cannongate Circle, Sharpsburg.

HENRY County High School students enrolled include: -Denese A. Rodgers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Rodgers, of East Lake Road, McDonough; —Annette Sposaro, daughter of Mrs. Peter T. Sposaro, Turner Church Road, McDonough.

WESTWOOD High students included are: -Karen V. Dillard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dillard, of Enon Road, College Park; -Anthony A. Myers, son of Mrs. Linnie C. Myers, of Pitman Road, College Park.

ATTENDING from North Clayton Senior High are: -Rubbina T. Mamdani, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P.

Mamdani, of Virginia Avenue, East Point; —Andrew M. Sperry, son of Douglas Sperry, of Flat Shoals Road in College Park, and Mrs. Eleanora E. Sper-

REPRESENTING Fayette County High School is Joanna Jimmerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Jimmerson, of Dix-Lee' on Drive, Fairburn.

From College Park High is Cathy A. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Smith, of Draper Drive, College

Forest Park Senior High's representative is Timothy C. Weems, son of Mrs. Helen W. Martin of Tara Boulevard,

And representing Campbell High is Donna L. Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Ferguson, of Tell Road, Fairburn.

CLAYTON Junior College's Freshman Scholar Program offers high school seniors an opportunity to accelerate their educational program by electing courses at the College which also satisfy high school graduation requirements.

Students interested in the program should contact their JONESBORO Senior students enrolled in the program high school counselor or principal, or Mrs. Nichols (phone actude:

363-7723) in the College's Office of Admissions and principal or the college's Of-

College Program In Progress 24, 1979

Local Seniors Acquire College Credits

Attending from North at Stockbridge High School

high school seniors are takiselor at the two-year academic quarter.

Junior College this quarter the college during the quar- Park Senior. that also satisfy high school ter following completion of Jonesboro Senior High

Jointly enrolled in the with local county Boards of Freshman Scholar Program Education, students enrolled at the college, the area stu- in the program include five Leslie Smith and Juli Yowe. taught by college instructors quirements. dents met special admission from Jonesboro Senior High,

Eleven Clayton County standards of the program. three from Morrow Senior, Clayton Senior High are in Henry County and at program may contact their Students who meet these two from North Clayton Sen- Rubbina Mamdani and An- Feldwood High Scool in high school counselor or ing credit courses at Clayton requirements may enroll at ior and one from Forest drew Sperry requirements, according to their junior year in high School students include Julie Timothy Weems. Judith C. Nichols, admission school or during subsequent Crane, Maria Hausmann, Offered in cooperation Stewart and Jane Winkle.

Richard J. Whitehead.

Forest Park Senior

High's representative is Freshman Scholar Program cords at 363-7723.

Over half of the students Douglas Morris, Deirdre enrolled in the program are their educational program taking courses offered at by electing courses at the Representing Morrow two off-campus locations. college which also satisfy Senior are Lisa Edwards, Daytime courses are being high school graduation re-

South Fulton County.

Clayton Junior College's fice of Admissions and Reoffers high school seniors an

Stockbridge High School Seniors At Clayton Junior College

CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE PROGRAM

High School Seniors Take College Credit Courses

Fifty-one seniors from during any subsequent 12 area high schools are academic quarter. taking credit courses at Clayton Junior College this quarter that also satisfy high school requirements, according to Judith C. Nichols, Admissions Counselor at the two-year institution near Morrow.

gram" at the College, the 51 students met special admission stan-Students who meet these requirements may enroll at the College during the quarter following com-

Offered in cooperation with local county Boards Drive, of Education, students bridge High School.

Over half of the students enrolled in the Jointly enrolled in the program are taking "Freshman Scholar Pro- courses offered at two off-campus locations. Daytime courses are being taught by College dards of the program. instructors at Stockbridge High School in Henry County and at and Mrs. Ronal A. Greer Feldwood High School in of Shields Road, Stocksouth Fulton County.

D. Bowen of Pinehurst Stockbridge; Jeannette R. Bull, enrolled in the program daughter of Mr. and included 16 from Stock- Mrs. Raymond A. Bull of Garden Trail, Stockbridge; Timothy L. Cook, son of Mrs. Mary C. Bailey of Highway 42, Stockbridge; John C. Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Dunn of Belair Drive, Stockbridge; Kathryn L. Greer, daughter of Mr.

pletion of their junior dents enrolled in the son of Coffee Lane in Latimer, son of Mr. and year in high school, or program include: Anna Ellenwood, and Frank H. Mrs. Samuel L. Latimer of Mr. and Mrs. Harry wadel, daughter of Mrs. McDonough; Twilla A. Louise M. Hunerwadel of Porter, daughter of Mr. Panola Road, Ellen-Kalina Marie James.

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion C. James of Stagecoach Drive, Stock-Hoffman, daughter of Mrs. Nancy Hoffman of Stockbridge; Thomas S. Hortman, son of Mr. and Mrs. T.L. Hortman of Hickory Drive, Stockbridge; David S. Knowles, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.D. Knowles of bridge; Brent A. Huff. Stagecoach Circle, Stock-Stockbridge High stu- son of Mrs. W.G. Ander- bridge; Glenn E.

Marie Bowen, daughter Huff; Laura A. Huner- of Asa Mosley Road, wood; Margaret R and Mrs. Ernest Porter of Davis Road, Stock- Swann of Rex Road, bridge; Linda D. Sandi- Stockbridge; and Mary fer, daughter of Mr. and E. Winn, daughter of Mr. Mrs. James R. Sandifer and Mrs. Robert E. Winn of Lynwood Drive, Ellen- of Route 1, Stockbridge.

Swann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram T.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR

Clayton Junior Graduation Slated

Clayton Junior College's sixth annual Academic Honors Convocation will be held tomorrow at 7:15 p.m. in room D-200.

Dr. H. Dean Propst, vice/chancellor of Academic Development for the University System of Georgia, will deliver the honors address during the ceremony which honors the academic achievements of students at the twoyear institution. A reception will follow.

- SOUTH FULTON RECORDER November 15, 1979 At Feldwood High

'Early' College Studies In Area High Schools

courses at Clayton Junior County College this quarter that also requirements, according to Counselor at the two-year of Morning Creek Drive, included are: institution near Morrow.

Jointly enrolled in the at the College, the 51 students Creek Drive, College Park; met special admission requirements may enroll at the following completion of their junior year in high school, or academic quarter.

Offered in cooperation with local county Boards of Education, students enrolled in the program include 14 from Feldwood High; three from M.D. Collins High; two from Westwood High; and one each from College Park High, and Campbell High School.
Over half of the students enrolled in the program are taking courses offered at two off-campus locations. Daytime Shoals Road, Union City; courses are being taught by College instructors at Stockbridge High School in of Lester Road, College Park; McLeroy Sr. of Cannongate

Fifty-one seniors from 12 area Henry County and at Feldwood and Mr. Wayne A. Westrick; high schools are taking credit High School in south Fulton

Feldwood High students school enrolled include: -Carol L. Adams, daughter of J. Whitehead. Judith C. Nichols, Admissions Mr. and Mrs. Bobby G. Adams

> College Park; -Janice M. Allen, daughter of

-Clay M. Brown, son of Mr. standards of the program. and Mrs. Paul E. Brown of Students who meet these Mallory Road, College Park; -Sharon L. Brown, daughter College during the quarter of Mr. and Mrs. Westert N. Brown of Deer Run Trail, -Sharon M. Guritz, daughter of Mr. David Guritz of Pebblebeach Drive, College Park; -Geoffrey Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy R. Jones of Potomac Court, East Point;

-Lamar R. Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Knight of Lawrence Avenue, Fairburn; -David R. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Miller of Mallory Road, College Park;

-Thomas J. Newsome, son of Mrss, Gail B. Newsome of Flat -Barbara Steen, daughter of Route 4, Fairburn; -Randal A. Westrick, son of Mrs. Geraldine R. Thorpe of CHARLES D. PARIS Named By Fulton National

Westwood High students

-Anthony A. Myers, son of Mrs. Linnie C. Myers of Pitman

Ferguson of Tell Road, Fair-From College Park High is Cathy A. Smith, daughter of Mr.

-Virginia DerMoushegian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack DerMoushegian of Ravencliff Lane, College Park; -- Deborah A. Fussell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.

Eric Fussell of Wolfcreek Circle, Atlanta; -James H. McLeroy Jr., s Mr. and Mrs. William C. Steen of Mr. and Mrs. James i.

-David D. Tomlinson, brother of Russell A. Tomlinson Jr., of Flat Shoals Road, Union City; -Glynis J. West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack West of

Flat Shoals Road in Union City, -- Melinda M. Whitehead, daughter of Mrs. Terri J. Whitehead of Buckhurst Trail in College Park, and Mr. Richard

-Karen V. Dillard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. "Freshman Scholar Program" Mrs. Marie G. Allen of Morning Dillard of Enon Road, College and Mrs. Charles M. Smith of Draper Drive, College Park. Students from M.D. Collins High School include:

> Road, College Park. From Campbell High is Donna L. Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P.

ton Junior College. This year's list of recipients includes 14 in the merit program, eight in the talent program and one STAR Student, who is from Henry County.

The STAR Student to ac-The STAR Student to accepte an award this year is Benjamin Wade Studdard County High School.

He is the son of Mrs. Anna Studdard of Hampton and Ben W. Studdard Jr. of Clarkston.

The recipients of 1979 merit scholarships include two Henry residents, Katherine H. Chaney and Nancy M. Smith.

Mrs. Chaney is a graduate of Henry County High School and has plans to major in secretarial studies.

She is the wife of William Lee Chaney of Flippen.

Ms. Smith, a business education major is a gradueducation major, is a graduate of Stockbridge High School.

She is the daughter of Mr. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl P. Smith of Route 1, Stockbridge. The recipients of the 1979 talent scholarships include Keri LuAnne Pritchett of Route 1. Stockbridge. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pritchett.

KERI PRITCHETT Scholarship Winner

NANCY SMITH Business Ed. Major

KATHERINE CHANEY Has Merit Scholarship

CJC Lists

S. Fulton Honor

Students

A number of students from the south Fulton County area were listed among the 145 students on the Fall Fall Quarter Dean's List at Clayton Junior. College, according to Dr. Billy

R. Nail, Dean of the College.

Included among the honorees were 13 students from College Park: Carol L. Adams, .Kaye F. Baskin, Meta C. Blackmon, Rebecca L. Carty, Virginia Dermoushegian, Sharon M. Guritz, Catherine V. Hunt, Guritz, Catherine V. Hunt, Paul L. Marchbanks, Van G. McCullough, Linda L. Morris, Mark D. Poole, ELinda M. Thomas, and Melinda M. Whitehead.

Three students from Fair-Sburn on the list were Carol M. Couch, Pasher G. Smith and Mark E. Vogtner.

Also included were Also included were Marci

TC. Barber and Raymond L. Fuller of East Point; Rebecca R. Chisenhall and Don M. Darragh of Atlanta; Tina L. Frazier and Randal A. Westrick of Union City; and Hapeville residents Shirley

A. Gorman and Merrill G.

Dean's List

A number of students from the south Fulton County area were listed among the 145 students on the Fall Quarter Dean's List at Clayton Junior College, according to Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College.

Included among the honorees were 13 students from College Park: Carol L. Adams, Kaye F. Baskin, Meta C. Blackmon, Rebecca L. Carty, Virginia Dermoushegian, Sharon M. Guritz, Catherine V. Hunt, Paul Marchbanks, Van G. McCullough, Linda L. Morris, Mark D. Poole, Linda M. Thomas, and Melinda M.

Three students from Fairburn on the list were Carol M. Couch, Pasher G. Smith, and Mark E.

Also included were Marci C. Barber and Raymond L. Fuller of East Point; Rebecca R. Chisenhall and Don M. Darragh of Atlanta; Tina L. Frazier and Randall A. Westrick of Union

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for the guarter.

The Fall Quarter, which began in September and ended in December, attracted 2,990 students to the Morrow campus.

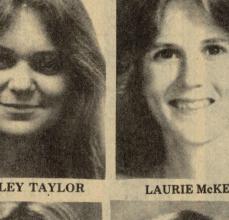

Clayton J.C. Awards Scholarships To Area Graduates

CLARE KNEURR

SHIRLEY TAYLOR

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN

KRIS CREECY

MICHELLE HAWKINS

NEWS/DAILY

Twenty-three students from the 1979 graduating classes of 14 different high schools in the four-county area of Clayton, Henry, Fayette, and south Fulton have received two-year scholarships to attend Clayton Junior College.

Funded by the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc., scholarships were awarded in three areas: "Foundation Merit Scholarships," "Foundation Talent Scholarships," and 1979 STAR Student Awards.

"Merit" scholarship winners, announced during graduation ceremonies conducted by various high schools last spring, are designed to recognize and reward outstanding area students for their record of academic achievement in high school studies. Awards are provided for the highest of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Hawkins of 2582 Browns ranking high school graduates in the four-county area who elect to attend Clayton Junior College.

recipients are selected on the basis of their talent and achievements in a number of selected fields, and awards are automatically made available to the four STAR students from the fourcounty area. Recipients of 1979 "Merit Scholarships" include

Cynthia Gale Archer, an undecided major and a graduate of Briarwood High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Archer of 2652 Stoneview Terrace in East Point.

Nancy Elizabeth Foster, a graduate of Westwood High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Foster of 3820 Union Road in College Park. She plans to major in education. Michelle Elise Hawkins, an undecided major, is a graduate of Hapeville High School. She is the daughter

Mill Road in Atlanta. "Talent" scholarship graduate of Russell High the daughter of John R. Jones, 1946 Montrose Drive in East Point

Clare E. Knuerr, an undecided major, is a graduate of Headland High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Knuerr, 2771 Plantation Drive in East

Shirley Jacquelyn Thomas, also an undecided major, is a graduate of Campbell High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Jack Thomas of 740 Pinehurst Drive in Fair-

Recipients of 1979 'Talent Scholarships' include Kris Elaine Creecy, a music major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Creecy of Fayetteville. She graduated from Fayette County High School. Cora Jean Dunbar, speech/drama major and a graduate of Fayette County High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James. L. Dunbar of 303 Journeys End, School, plans to major in

CINDY ARCHER

Clayton Continues To Lead College

Clayton County continue to dominate head-count totals at Clayton Junior College, according to an enrollment report issued by Annette B. Satterfield, director of admissions and registrar.

Of the 2,668 students enrolled in credit courses during the current winter quarter, 1,481 of them live in Clayton

She said 654 live in Fulton, 206 reside in Fayette, and 169 are Henry Countians. The four-county accumulation of 2,510 students represents slightly over 94 percent of the quarterly en-The college's enrollment represents a student popu lation from a 20-county area, including 35 from DeKalb, 30 from Spalding, 27 from Rockdale, 21 from Coweta and 13 from Cobb County. Women students out-number men 1,491 to 1,177 and slightly over 73 percent of students enrolled in credit programs are single.

Day classes are preferred over night classes, according to the report, with just over 62 percent of those enrolled taking day or mostly day courses.

Airport Rotary Club. Scholarship recipients are, seated, left to right, Sharon Geiger Cantrell, Jonesboro; Cynthia Jane Carrin, Riverdale; Janice Orr Honkanen, Jonesboro; and Toni Adaire Tidwell, Jonesboro. Standing from left, are, Robert C. Bolander, dean of students; Dr. Kirk Smick, Airport Rotary president; M.C. Bishop, scholarship program organizer; Dr. Harry S. Downs, CJC president; and George Sparrow, chairman of the club's scholarship

Most CJC Enrollment From Surrounding Area

Fayette and Henry continue to dominate head-count totals at Clayton Junior College, according to an enrollment report issued by examinations on March 13- registration on March 24. Annette B. Satterfield. director of admissions and registrar. Of the 2,668 students enrolled in credit courses during the current Winter Quarter, 1,481 of them live in Clayton County, 654 live in Fulton, 206 reside in Fayette. and 169 are Henry Countians. The four-county accumulation of 2,110 students represents slightly over 94 percent of the quarterly enrollment. CJC's enrollment represents a student population from a 20-county area, including 35 from DeKalb, 30 from Spalding, 27 from Rockdale, 21 from Coweta, and 13 from Cobb County.

Women students outnumber men 1,491 to 1,177 and slightly over 73 percent of students enrolled in credit programs are single. Day classes are preferred over night classes, according to the report, with just over 62 percent of those enrolled began in early January and classes for the quarter will will continue through final begin with advisement and

The four-county area of taking day or mostly day 18. The deadline for new Students to make application students to make application for Spring Quarter credit Winter Quarter classes classes is March 6, and

(L-R) SHARON CANTELL, CYNTHIA CARRIN, JANICE HONKANEN, TONI TIDWELL Back, L-R, Robert Bolander, Dr.Smick, M.C. Bishop, Dr. Downs, And George Sparrow

Four Junior College Students Awarded

ships funded by the Atlanta year de Airport Rotary Club.

Recipients of this year's awards are Toni Tidwell of Jonesboro, a criminal justice major; Janice Honcounting major; Sharon Cantrell of Jonesboro, a French major; and Cynthia Carrin of Riverdale, a nurs- arship committee.

Rotary Club representpients during a luncheon $10.000 level in awards this meeting at the college. Representing the club dent; George Sparrow. chairman of the club's scholarship committee; and M.

ganizers of the nine- year

lege students have oeen . Each of the four scholarawarded tuition scholar- ship recipients honored this strated outstan ding academic credentials during previous work at Clayton Junior. To be selected in the honor program, students must kanen of Jonesboro, an ac- be recommended by faculty members within the college's four divisions and selected by a special schol-

The Airport Rotary Club scholarship program, inatives met with the reci- itiated in 1972, topped the were Dr. Kirk Smick, presi-scholarship program admin-

The oldest continuous istered by Clayton Junior College, a total of 44 students have received $10,000 C. Bishop, one of the or- in awards since the program

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN Students Win Rotary Scholarships

awarded tuition scholarships funded by the Atlanta Airport Rotary Recipients of this year's awards met with Rotary Club representatives during a luncheon meeting at the College Representing the club were committee; and M. C Bishop, one of the spring. She is a 1967 organizers of the nine-year-

SCHOLARSHIP winners honored were:

old scholarship program.

justice major: -Janice Orr Honkanen. of Jonesboro, an accounting of Riverdale, a nursing ma-

Each of the four

MS. TIDWELL, a 1969

Four Clayton Junior police officer with the College students have been Clayton County Police Clayton County Police Department. Having completed 40 credit hours toward her degree, she anticipates to graduate from the CJC criminal justice program in the Spring of 1981 and plans to continue her education toward a degree in law.

Ms. Honkanen, who has graduating from CJC next graduate from a high school in Neward, Ohio.

Ms. Cantrell has completed 61 credit hours and graduates in the Spring. A 1970 high school graduate Jonesboro, a criminal in Rabun Gap, she plans to continue her studies in French at Georgia State University

> MS. CARRIN has completed 77 credit hours in CJC's nursing program and anticipates graduating in the spring. A 1972 high school graduate from Franklin, Tennessee, she plans to begin her nursing career immediately after graduation and to eventually return to college to earn a bachelor's degree.

The Airport Rotary Club scholarship program, initiated in 1972, topped the $10,000 level in awards this

SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS-Recipients of this year's Airport Rotary Club scholarships were honored during a luncheon at Clayton Junior College recently. Seated from left, are Sharon Cantrell, Cynthia Carrin, Janice Honkanen, and Toni Tidwell. Standing from left, and Robert C.

Bolander, Dean of Students; Dr. Kirk Smick, Airport Rotary president; M. C. Bishop, scholarship program organizer; Dr. Harry S. Downs, CJC president; and George Sparrow, chairman of the club's scholarship committee.

Local Students Predominate at Clayton Junior The four-county area of in Clayton, 654 live in from Spalding, 27 from courses. Clayton, south Fulton, Fulton, 206 reside in Fayet-Rockdale, 21 from Coweta, Wint Fayette and Henry continue te, and 169 are Henry Coun- and 13 from Cobb County. totals at Clayton Junior Col-

THE CLAYTON SUN .

to dominate head-count tians. Of the 2,668 students CJC's enrollment reprelege, according to an enroll- cumulation of 2,510 stu- and slightly over 73 percent ment report issued by An- dents represents slightly of students enrolled in credit nette B. Satterfield, director over 94 percent of the of admissions and registrar. quarterly enrollment.

enrolled in credit courses sents a student population during the current winter from a 20-county area, in-

Women students out-

The four-county ac- number men 1,491 to 1,177 programs are single. Day classes are preferred over night classes, according classes is March 6, and clas-

Winter quarter classes began in early January and will continue through final examinations on March 13-

The deadline for new students to make application for spring quarter credit to the report, with just over ses for the quarter will begin 62 percent of those enrolled with advisement and quarter, 1,481 of them live cluding 35 from DeKalb, 30 taking day or mostly day registration on March 24.

recently. Dr. Kirk Smick, president; completed 70 credit hours George Sparrow, chairman toward an accounting of the club's scholarship degree, anticipates

-Toni Adaire Tidwell, of

-Sharon Cantrell, of Jonesboro, a French major; and -Cynthia Jane Carrin, scholarship recipients honored this year demonstrated outstanding academic credentials durng previous work at Clayton Junior College.

high school graduate from Timonium, Maryland, is a

Area Students Receive Scholarships

Three Fayette students ton Junior College.

ave received two-year They include Shirley Jean have received two-year

Fayette County High School ship.

scholarships to attend Clay- Taylor, daughter of Mr. and music major and Fayette Fayetteville. Mrs. Harvey R. Taylor of County High School gradu-

She is the daughter of Mr. in Peachtree City, also a achivement. graudaute. She is the daugnter of Mr. In Peachtree City, a Kris Elaine Creecy, a and Mrs. John W. Creecy of scholarship recipient.

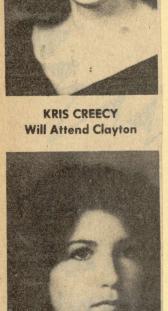

Cora Jean Dubar, daugh- designed to recognize and school graduates in the County Line Road and a ate, also received a scholar- ter of Mr. and Mrs. James reward outstanding area South Metro area who de-

Awards are provided for Merit scholarships are the highest ranking high L. Dunbar of Journeys End students for their academic cide to attend Clayton College.

SHIRLEY TAYLOR Gets Scholarship

CORA DUNBAR

Seven students from 1979

graduating classes of different South Fulton high schools have received two year Foundation Merit

Scholarships to attend Clay-

were Cynthia Gale Archer, who is undecided about her major, is a graduate of

Briarwood High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Archer of

Stoneview Terrace in East

Receiving scholarships in education.

ton Junior College.

Scholarship Recipients Announced at CJC

Twenty-three students from the 1979 graduating classes of 14 different high schools in the four-county area of Clayton, Henry Fayette, and south Fulton have received two-year scholarships to attend Clayton Junior College.

Funded by the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc., scholarships were awarded in three areas: Foundation Merit Scholarships, Foundation Talent Scholarship, and 1979 STAR Student Awards.

Merit Scholarship winners, announced during graduation ceremonies conducted by various high schools last spring, are designed to recognize and reward outstanding area students for their record of academic achievement in high school studies. Awards are provided for the highest ranking high school graduates in the four-county area who elect to attend Clayton Junior College.

TALENT Scholarship recipients are selected on the basis of their talent and achievements in a number of selected fields, and awards are automatically made available to the four STAR students from the four-county area.

This year's list of recipients includes 14 in the merit program, eight in the talent program, and one STAR Student.

The STAR Student to accept an award this year is Benjamin Wade Studdard III, a graduate of Henry County High School. He the son of Mrs. Anna Studdard of Hampton and Ben W. Studdard Jr. of

RECIPIENTS of 1979 Merit Scholarships are:

-Cynthia Gale Archer, an undecided major and a graduate of Briarwood High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Archer of 2652 Stoneview Terrace in East

-Katherine H. Chaney, a graduate of Henry County High School, plans to major in secretarial studies. She is the wife of William Lee Chaney of Flippen.

-Nancy Elizabeth Foster, a graduate of Westwood High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Foster of 3820 Union Road in College Park. She plans to major in education.

-RHONDA Marie Gunny, a dental hygiene major, is a graduate of North Clayton Senior High. She is the daughter of Scholarships Awarded

of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M.

Hawkins, a graduate of Hapeville High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

SUSAN THOMAS

Ms. Hawkins is undecided

Harold M. Hawkins.

about her major.

College Park.

Foster of Union Road in lege.

Also receiving a scholar-ship was Michelle Elise Clare E

Nancy Elizabeth Foster, Dorothy A. Jones, a grada graduate of Westwood uate of Russell High School

High School, is the daughter in East Point, plans to ma-

Ms. Foster plans to major the daughter of John R.

jor in business at the col-

The scholarship winner is

Clare E. Knuerr, un-

She is the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. G. P. Knuerr of decided about her major, is a graduate of Headland High

Jones of Montrose Drive in

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald B. Gunny of 6711 Collier Way in Riverdale.

—Michelle Elise Hawkins, an undecided major, is a graduate of Hapeville High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Hawkins of 2582 Browns Mill Road in Atlanta.

-Dorothy A. Jones, a graduate of Russell High School, plans to major in business education. She is the daughter of John R. Jones, 1946 Montrose Drive in East Point.

-LEA ANN Kelley, a graduate of Forest Park Senior High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kelley, 6143 Navaho Trail in Morrow. She is undecided about a major of

-Clare E. Knuerr, also an undecided major, is a graduate of Headland High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Knuerr, 2771 Plantation Drive in East Point.

-Laurie Cynthia McKee, a graduate of M. D. Collins High School, is the daughter of Mrs. Cynthia M. McKee of 4701 Flat Shoals Road in Union City. She will major in criminal justice.

-Donna Michelle Padgett, a graduate of Morrow Senior High, plans to major in anthropology. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Padgett of 6593 Katie Lane in

-ANGELA Ann Roberts, a graduate of Jonesboro Senior High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Roberts of 7821 Adamson Road in Jonesboro. She plans to major in accounting.

-Nancy M. Smith, a business education major, is a graduate of Stockbridge High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl P. Smith of Route 1, Stockbridge.

-Shirley Jean Taylor, an undecided major, graduated from Fayette County High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey R. Taylor, Route 5, County Line Road, Fayetteville.

-Susan Jacquelyn Thomas, an undecided major, is a graduate of Campbell High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Jack Thomas of 740 Pinehurst Drive in

RECIPIENTS of 1979 Talent Scholarships are:

Theron Allen Brock Jr., a pre-medicine major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theron A. Brock Sr. of 6096 Landover Circle in Morrow. He is a graduate of Morrow Senior High.

Plantation Drive in East

Scholarship winner

She is the daughter of

Laurie Cynthia McKee is a graduate of M. D. Collins

Cynthia M. McKee of Flat

Shoals Road in Union City.

jor in criminal justice.

School in Fairburn.

Ms. McKee plans to ma-

Susan Jacquelyn Thomas,

an undecided major, is a graduate of Campbell High

High School.

-Kirk Elaine Creecy, a music major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Creecy of Fayetteville. She graduated from Fayette County High School.

-Cora Jean Dunbar, a speech/drama major and a graduate of Fayette County High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dunbar of 303 Journeys End, Peachtree City.

LISA DeLee Landgrebe, a graduate of North Clayton Senior High, is an undecided major. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Landgrebe of 160 Timberland Trail in Riverdale.

—Jo Anne Nesmith, a forestry major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Nesmith of 1153 Grace Drive in Forest Park. She is a graduate of Forest Park Senior High. -Keri LuAnne Pritchett plans to major in aviation administration. A graduate of Stockbridge High, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pritchett, Route 1, Stockbridge.

—Lois Devonne Stallings graduated from North Clayton Senior High. An undecided major, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady W. Stallings of 1177 East Fayetteville Road in Riverdale.

-Tammie Doreen White, also an undecided major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. White of 755 Blue Ridge Drive in Forest Park. She is a graduate of Forest Park Senior High.

THE NEW awards are included in a $2-2,204 budget approved by the Foundation's Board of Trustees for the 1979-80 year. All scholarships funded by the Foundation are two-year awards in the amount of $720, covering the cost of tuition and fees during two years of study at Clayton Junior College.

Joining the 23 new students in this year's program will be students who entered college a year ago and will be entering their second year of study. Approximately 50 scholarship recipients are anticipated to enroll in Fall Quarter classes.

Since its founding in September of 1974, the Board of Trustees of the Foundation has supported a program featuring student scholarships. The program, which also includes funds to honor outstanding students and members of the faculty and staff, has grown from an annual budget of $1,700 to more than $22,000.

All programs supported by the Fountain are funded totally by contributions, and all contributions to the non-profit corporation

Theron Brock

Donna Padgett

DeLee Landgrebe

Jo Nesmith

Lea Ann Kelley

Rhonda Gunny

Tammie White

Angela Roberts

Lois Stallings

Freshman Scholar Program" at the College and three area high schools, the three new enrollees met all standards for admission into the program. Students entered in the program include one each from Morrow Senior High, Riverdale Senior High, and

Freshman

Winter Quarter enrollment figures at Clayton Junior College include three more high school seniors who are taking college credit courses that also satisfy high school

Jointly enrolled in the Scholars

At CJC

requirements.

Campbell High School. They join 50 other students from area high schools who were already enrolled in the program.

Representing Morrow Senior High is Benjamin D. e Grizzell, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Grizzell of Ellenwood.

Riverdale Senior High is represented by Michael Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Wilson of River-

Margaret E. Eidson, daughter of Mrs. Cora F. Eidson Pippin is a student at Campbell High School.

The Freshman Scholar Program offers an outstanding high school senior an opportunity to accelerate his educational program by electing courses at the College which also will is serve to satisfy high school graduation requirements. The program is ooffered by the College in cooperation with the local Boards of Education.

> A student who meets the admission requirements may enroll at the College during the quarter following completion of his junior year in high school, or during any subsequent academic

Eidson At CJC

Campbell High student Margaret E. Eidson, daughter of Mrs. Cora F. Eidson Pippin, has enrolled for winter quarter studies at Clayton Junior College of Morrow.

A high school senior, Margaret is taking college credit courses that also satisfy high school requirements. She joins 52 other students from area high schools enrolled in the Freshman Scholar Program' 'A'students meeting admission requirements may enroll at the College during a quarter following completion of the junior year in high school, or during any subsequent academic quarter.

dgrebe of 160 Timberland

--Jo Anne NeSmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Charles D. NeSmith of 1153

Grace Drive in Forest Park.

is a graduate of Forest Park

graduate of Stockbridge

High, is the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Donald Pritchett.

graduated from North

Clayton Senior High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Grady W. Stallings of 1177 East Fayetteville Road in

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR

Displays Work

Local Artist10/17/79

The Clayton County Library in Jonesboro is featuring the works of Tammy L.

Dixon, of Jonesboro as Ar-

Ms. Dixon, an art student at Clayton Junior College, says she got started painting in the seventh grade with encouragement from her art

She has also had private

She credits her family, especially her mother, with the moral support and encouragement to continue her persuance of a career in the art field and hopes to some day be in the field of com-

display help emphasize Ms.

Dixon's ability with various mediums pen and ink, oils, watercolor, charcoal and

The variety of pictures on tist of the Month.

teacher.

art lessons.

mercial art.

-Lois Devonne Stallings

Route 1, Stockbridge.

-Keri LuAnne Pritchett, a

Trail in Riverdale.

Senior High.

Scholarships Awarded By CJC To Students

Fifteen students from the Scholarships" are: 1979 graduating classes of high schools in the Clayton received two-year dover Circle in Morrow. scholarships to attend

Clayton Junior College. Funded by the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc., scholarships were awarded in three areas.

The STAR Student to accept an award this year is Benjamin Wade Studdard III, a graduate of Henry County High School. He is the son of Mrs. Anna Studdard of Hampton and Ben W. Studdard Jr. of Clarkston.

Recipients of 1979 "Merit Scholarships" are: -- Katherine H. Chaney, a graduate of Henry County High School, is the wife of William Lee Chaney of

-Nancy Elizabeth Foster, a graduate of Westwood High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Foster of 3820 Union Road in College Park. -Rhonda Marie Gunny, a graduate of North Clayton Senior High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald B. Gunny of 6711 Collier Way, Riverdale. -- Lee Ann Kelley, a graduate of Forest Park Senior High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kelley, 6143 Navaho Trail in Morrow. -- Clare E. Knuerr, a graduate of Headland High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.P. Knuerr, 2771 Plantation Drive in East

-Donna Michelle Padgett, a graduate of Morrow Senior High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Padgett of 6593 Katie Lane in Morrow. -Angela Ann Roberts, a graduate of Jonesboro Senior High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Roberts of 7821 Adamson Road in Jonesboro. -- Nancy M. Smith, a graduate of Stockbridge High School, is the daughter

Smith of Route 1, Stockbridge. Recipients of 1979 "Talent of Mr. and Mrs. Carl P.

-Theron Allen Brock Jr.,

-Tammie Doreen White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theron daughter of Mr. and Mrs. and Henry counties have A. Brock Sr. of 6096 Lan- Carl F. White of 755 Blue Ridge Drive in Forest Park. -Lisa DeLee Landgrebe, a is a graduate of Forest Park graduate of North Clayton Senior High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.E. Lan-

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

October 4, 1979

Local Students Named Merit Semifinalists

Two Clayton County students have been named named from the top half of semifinalists in the 1980 Merit Program sponsored by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, of Evanston, Ill.

In addition, two Riverdale students at College Park's will compete next February Woodward Academy were to become finalists in the one per cent of the state's senior class in numbers proportional to that state's percentage of the nation's graduating seniors.

Both Morris and Safrit tending classes as a Freshman Scholar at Clayton Junior College, is a former dean's list student in the Freshman Scholar Program at Emory Univer-

Sun Community Life

society, clubs, religion, features

named Commended Students in the 1980 competi-

Semifinalists are Forest Park Senior High senior Lori Safrit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.S. Safrit, of Forest Park, and Douglas Morris, of Jonesboro Senior High, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Morris, of Jonesboro.

Commended students are Bruce Fetterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy W. Fetterman, and Diane Bowen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Bowen, of both of Riverdale.

THE NATIONAL Merit Scholarships are awarded to students who score exceptionally well on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test each year, and over 1.1 million students nation-wide enter the scholarships.

MISS SAFRIT is active in various organizations at

FPSH, including the school newspaper staff, the Beta Club, the French Club, and Co-Ed Hi-Y. She has won numerous awards including awards from mathematics and history departments, and has been named to Who's Who in Foreign Languages. The area winner and district semifinalists in the Optimist Oratoical Contest she was a participant in this year's Governor's Honors field of social studies.

program, eligible for up to sity. A participant in this $1,000 in college year's Governor's Honors Program, nominated in the field of social studies, he is a recipient of the University of Georgia Certificate of Merit. He is a member of the

JSH Drama Club, and has performed roles in "The Crucible" and "Arsenic and Old Lace.' THE 1980 National Merit Scholarship competition marks the 25th conducted by NMSC since the Merit

In the 24 competitions completed between 1956 program, nominated in the and 1979, over 58,000 stu-

Program was established.

Scholarships valued at more than $161 million. Over She was also awarded the 15,500 Merit Scholars are University of Georgia Cer- currently enrolled in about tificate of Merit, and was a 715 higher education incompetition each year. participant in the 11th anstitutions throughout the Semi-finalists are the nual Government Day in U.S.

CINDY ARCHER

MICHELLE HAWKINS

DOROTHY JONES

NANCY FOSTER College Park Resident

College Scholarships Are Awarded

ing counties have received ates. tend Clayton Junior College. Marie Gunny, a dental of Riverdale.

Twenty-three students Nine of the award win- hygiene major and a gradu- Lea Ann Kelley, a Forest She is undecided about her High School and the daughfrom Clayton and surround- ners are Clayton 1979 gradu- ate of North Clayton Senior Park Senior High graduate, major. two-year scholarships to at- They include Rhonda Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gunny Mrs. Tom Kelley of Morrow. an anthropology major, is a High. She is the daughter of is the daughter of Mr. and Donna Michelle Padgett, Lisa DeLee Landgrebe, a North Clayton Senior High graduate, is undecided about estry major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nesmith of Forest Park.

ter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Padgett of Morrow.

Angela Ann Roberts, a graduate of Jonesboro Senior High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts of Jonesboro. She plans to major in ac-

Theron Allen Brock Jr., a pre-medicine major, is a graduate of Morrow Senior High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Brock her major. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Landgrebe of Riverdale. Jo Anne Nesmith, a forstudents to the two-year institution near Morrow.

> freshman. A unique feature of the in fall quarter credit courses, according to Annette B. Satterfield, director of admissions and represents only a slight increase of 25 students over the 2,965 who enrolled one year ago, but the final count natives of Burma, Canada, Columbia, Ecuador, Guyana, Haiti, India, Iran, Jamaica, Kenya, Korea, egistrar. Nigeria, Phillipines, Saudi The quarterly head count Arabia, Scotland, Taiwan, Tanzania, Trinidad, and United Arab Emirates.

CJC Enrolls 2,990

For Fall Quarter

Students from a 24county area are entered in turned out to be con- credit programs at the siderably higher than college, with the four coun-college officials had anties of Clayton, Fulton, Fayette and Henry con-Of the total enrolled, sl-ightly over 1,200 are new the total. Students living in Clayton County number 1,648 (55.1 percent of the And, almost half of that total enrollment), while 738 number (539) are beginning Fulton Countians (24.7 percent), 229 Fayette Countians (7.7 percent) and 203

fall quarter enrollment Henry Countians (6.8 showed a total of 32 foreign percent) are included. students from 19 different Clayton Junior College class rolls. Non-resident the student population was has 2,990 students enrolled students enrolled are female (1,720 women to 1,270 men), and that 74.7 percent of the students were single (2,233 single to 757 married). Almost 62 percent of the students enrolled (1,842) are taking classes during the day, or mostly day, with the remaining 38 percent (1,148) taking night, or mostly night, classes.

Fall quarter classes began Sept. 25 and will continue until the last final examinations are given on Dec 13 Then following the Dec. "breaks," students will return for winter quarter classes in early January,

A state-operated institution, Clayton Junior College is the largest junior The quarterly report college within the Univernations who are included on showed that 57.5 percent of sity System of Georgia.

Undecided About Major

DELEE LANDGREBE Undecided About Major

THERON BROCK JR

RHONDA GUNNY

Dental Hygiene Major

LEA ANN KELLEY

DONNA PADGETT Anthropology Major

October 24, 1979 Henry County Has 203 Students At Clayton JC

College includes students single from a 24-county area students.

Students from Henry, Clayton, Fulton, and overall enrollment.

A quarterly report given on December 13th. percent of the student Georgia.

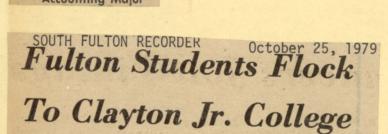

Fall quarter enroll- population is female, ment at Clayton Junior while 74.7 percent is

TAMMIE WHITE Undecided About Major

The report shows a with Henry County mak- total of 32 foreign stuing up 6.8 percent of the dents from 19 different total enrollment with 203 countries are included on

Fayette Counties make started September 25th up 94.2 percent of the and will continue until final examinations are reveals almost 62 per- Clayton Junior College cent of students takes is the largest junior classes offered during college within the Unithe day and that 57.5 versity System of Clayton Junior College has Clayton Junior College is the 2,990 students enrolled in Fall largest junior college within the Quarter credit courses, University System of Georgia. according to Annette B. Sat terfield, Director of Admissions and Registrar. The quarterly headcount represents only a slight increase of 25 students over the 2,965 who enrolled one year ago, but the final count turned out to be considerably higher than College officials had anticipated. Of the total enrolled, slightly over 1,200 are new students to the two-year institution near Morrow. And, almost half of that number (539) are beginning freshman. A unique feature of the Fall Quarter enrollment showed a total of 32 foreign students from 19 different nations who are included on class rolls. Students from a 24-county area are entered in credit programs at the College, with the four counties of Clayton, Fulton, Fayette and Henry contributing 94.2 percent of the total. Students living in Clayton County number 1,648 (55.1 percent of the total enrollment), while 738 Fulton Countians 24.7 percent), 229 Fayette Countians (7.7 percent) and 203 Henry Countians (6.8 percent) are The quarterly report showed that 57.5 percent of the student population was female (1,720 women to 1,270 men), and that 74.7 percent of the students were single (2,233 single to 757 married). Almost 62 percent of the students enrolled (1,842) are taking classes during the day, or mostly day, with the remaining 38 percent (1,148) taking night, or mostly night,

A state-operated institution

Nursing Scholarship

Mrs. Jewel McNeal (second from left), president of the Pink Ladies Auxiliary at Clayton General Hospital, presents a scholarship check to Mrs. Lou Ray of Riverdale (center right) a sophomore nursing student at Clayton Junior College. Also present are Harmon M. Born (L), chairman of the Clayton County Hospital Authority and of the Clayton Junior College Foundation; and Dennis Scheidt (R), administrator at the Hospital. Members of the Pink Ladies Auxiliary have been saving for the last five years, and the $450 scholarship check to Mrs. Ray is the first scholarship funded through investments.

Art Showing

Bruce Copeland and Sandy Fane, University of Georgia subject matter, may be viewed in the Learning Resources students from Jonesboro, are shown with some of their Center during January. Both students attended Jonesboro paintings that are on display at Clayton Junior College. The Senior High and Clayton Junior College, and are presently paintings, done in oil and acrylic representing various working toward degrees in painting and drawing.

Oils Shown At College

Bruce Copeland and Sandy Fane, two University of Georgia students from V Jonesboro, had some of their paintings on display at Clayton Junior College.

The paintings, done in oil and acrylic representing Harious subject matter, were presented in the Learning Resources Center during January Both students attended Jonesboro Senior High and Clayton Junior College, and Tare presently working toward degrees in painting and drawing.

Former CJC Students Display Art

Bruce Copeland and Sandy Fane, University of Georgia students from Jonesboro, are shown with some of their paintings that are on display at Clayton Junior College. The paintings, done in oil and acrylic representing various subject matter, may be viewed in the Learning Resources Center during January. Both students attended Jonesboro Senior High and Clayton Junior College, and are presently working toward degrees in painting and drawing.

CJC Honor Roll

residents named to the list were Margaret L.

and Martha E. Land-

Clayton Junior College Names Top Fayette Academic Students

Clayton Junior College has named 145 students to the Fall Quarter Dean's List, according to Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College.

Thirteen students from Fayette County were included on the list and eight of them reside in Fayetteville. Included were Wesley H. Bethea, Judith K. Bramlett, Kathy A. Brown, Carol A. Holland, Marian J. Lee, Jean J. Loefer, Kenneth D. Richard, and William C. Turbyfield

Peachtree City honor list.

Barrett, Cynthia A. Clark, Vera A. Fricano, To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point siedel. Deborah L. Snead average of 3.6 or higher of Woolsey also made the out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

The Fall Quarter, which began in September and ended in December, attracted 2,990 students to the Recipients of this year's Airport Rotary Club scholarships were honored during a luncheon at Clayton Junior College recently. Seated from left, are Sharon Cantrell, Cynthia Carrin, Janice Honkanen, and Toni Tidwell. Standing from left, are Robert C. Bolander, Dean of Students; Dr. Kirk Smick, Airport Rotary President; M. C. Bishop, scholarship program organizer; Dr. Harry S. Downs, CJC President; and George Sparrow, chairman of the club's scholarship committee.

Airport Rotary Funds Four CJC Scholarships

College students have been scholarships funded by the Atlanta Airport Rotary

Recipients of this year's awards met with Rotary Club representatives during a luncheon meeting at the college · recently. Representing the club were Dr. Kirk Smick, president; George Sparrow, chairman of the club's scholarship committee; and M. C. Bishop, one of the organizers of the nine-yearold scholarship program. Scholarship winners honored were:

Jonesboro, a criminal justice major; Janice Orr Honkanen of Jonesboro, an her education toward a accounting major; Sharon degree in law.

Four Clayton Junior Geiger Cantrell of Riverdale, a nursing major.

scholarship recipients Spring. She is a 1967 honored this year graduate from a high school demonstrated outstanding academic credentials during previous work at Clayton Junior College.

MS. TIDWELL, a 1969

high school graduate from Timonium, Maryland, is a police office with the Clayton County Police Department. Having completed 40 credit hours pleted 77 credit hours in scholarship program adtoward her degree, she an- CJC's nursing program and ministered by Clayton ticipates to graduate from anticipates graduating in Junior College, a total of 44 the CJC criminal justice the Spring. A 1972 high students have received program in the Spring of school graduate from $10,101 in awards since the 1981 and plans to continue Franklin. Tennessee, she program began.

diverdale, a nursing major. degree, anticipates ly return to college to earn a Each of the four graduating from CJC next bachelor's degree.

in Neward, Ohio. Ms. Cantrell has completed 61 credit hours and College's four divisions, and anticipates graduating in selected by a special the Spring. A 1970 high scholarship committee. school graduate in Rabun Gap, Georgia, she plans to continue her studies in scholarship program, in-French at Georgia State itiated in 1972, topped the

Ms. Honkanen, who has plans to begin her nursing Jonesboro, a French major; completed 70 credit hours career immediately after and Cynthia Jane Carrin of toward an accounting graduation and to eventual-

To be selected in the honor program, students must be recommended by faculty members within the

The Airport Rotary Club University. $10,000 level in awards this Ms. Carrin has com- year. The oldest continuous

145 Students Named To Fall Dean's List At CJC

Clayton Junior College has Marie V. Bobo, Hazel A. Sturdevant, Janice A. Tittle, Elizabeth IK. Thompson, named 145 students to the Brown, Judith H. Burnham, and Dianne W. Warren. Fall Quarter Dean's List, Sharon G. Cantrell, Judy K. including 106 from Clayton Carmickle, Peggy L.

Included on the honor list Julie M. Crane, Kathleen B. released by Dr. Billy R. Nail, Crawford, Marsha H. Crown, Dean of the College, were 27 Melanie D. Day, Robert T. students from Jonesboro, 20 Denham, Janice O. from Riverdale, 14 from Honkanen, Bonita Hoover, Forest Park, 14 from Stacey L. Irwin, Judith K. Morrow, 13 from College Paleveda, Geraldine Park, 5 from Rex, 5 from Petersen, Lucille L. Philpot, Lake City, and 4 each from Jeanie H. Sartwell, Walter Ellenwood and Conley.

Jonesboro students on the Sandra R. Stewart, Glenda list were Valerie A. Bahr, B. Sturdevant, Robert J.

Chancey, Judy C. Coulter,

N. Sellers, Angerla Starr,

Included from Riverdale were Stephan R. Bryant, Elizabeth R. Comings, Pamela S. Couch, Patricia D. Duncan, James R. Dutton, Jennifer J. Grose, Julia Handley, Debbie L. Hunter, Pamela M. Miller, Lisa J. Munson, Deborah A. Pryor, Ronald H. Pyle, Patricia R. Rasmussen, Steve B. Rasmussen, Mary L. Ray, Julie M. Rayburn, JoAnn Reid, Helen S. Rohrl, were Jean S. Armstrong, Kemp, Dianne E. Love, Karen B. Mayberry, Carol H. Schultz, Sonja C. Sellers, Lydia C. Starke, Anne G.

Stewart, and Fran B.

Morrow students on the list

Students from Forest Park

were James L. Baker Jr.,

Linda H. Branan, Emma J.

Edmondson, Suzette S.

Escoe, Karen S. Gardner,

Joann Johnson,, Ronald I.

and Katherine O. Tull.

Carolyn W. Bowen, Linda R. chbanks, Carbo, Jacqueline G. Combs. Rodney D. Hanson, Joan C. Hughes, Robert J. Jones, Ginger L. Kellar, Deborah K. Rawlins, Dulcy A. Smith, Patricia M. Stockes, Patricia L. Strauss, Debra C.

Walker, and Deana B. Webb.

F. Baskin, Meta C. Blackmon, Rebecca L. Carty, Virginia Dermoushegian, Sharon M. Guritz, Catherine

McCullough, Linda L. of Ellenwood; and Francine Morris, Mark D. Pooke, M. Baer, Valorie D. Bozardt, Linda M. Thomas, and Teresa R. Greer, and Carol Melinda M. Whitehead.

Also included were Rex residents Angela D. Borup, Kerri L. Davis, Beverly F. Earl, Gail D. Jackson, and Those from College Park Jess Palazzolo; Lake City were Carol L. Adams, Kaye residents Meg C. DeWeese, Sheryl A. Hewell, Anita L. Lawrence, Victoria R. began in September and Loftfield, and Josie M. Snow; 'Christine M. Bennett, attracted 2,990 students to V. Hunt, Paul L. Mar- Glenda M. Odom, Leslie L.

G. Smith, and Tamara E. Swift A. Neal of Conley.

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

The Fall Quarter, which

Jonesboro Has Highest Percentage

106 Named To Clayton Dean's List

Included on the honor list released by Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College, were 27 students from Jonesboro, 20 from Riverdale, 14 from Forest Park, 14 from Morrow, 13 from College Park, 5 from Rex, 5 from Lake City, and 4 each from Ellenwood and Conley.

Jonesboro students on the list were Valerie A. Bahr, Marie V. Bobo, Hazel A. Trown, Judith H. Burnham, Sharon G. Cantrell, Judy K. Carmickle, Peggy L. Chancey, Judy C. Coulter, Julie M. Crane, Kathleen B. Crawford, Marsha H. Crown, Melanie D. Day, Robert T. Denham, Janice O. Honkanen, Bonita Hoover, Stacey L. Irwin, Judith K. Paleveda, Geraldine Petersen, Lucille L. Philpot, Jeanie H. Sartwell, Walter N. Sellers, Angela Starr, Sandra R. Stewart, Glenda B. Sturdevant, Robert J. Sturdevant, Janice A. Tittle, and Dianne W. Warren.

Included from Riverdale were Stephan R. Bryant, Elizabeth R. Comings, Pamela S. Couch, Patricia D. Duncan, James R. Dutton, Jennifer J. Grose, Julia Handley, Debbie L. Hunter, Pamela M. Miller, Lisa J. Munson, Deborah A. Pryor, Ronald H. Pyle, Patricia R. Rasmussen, Steve B. Rasmussen, Mary L. Ray, Julie M. Rayburn, JoAnn Reid, Helen S. Rohrl, Elizabeth K. Thompson, and Katherine O. Tull.

Students from Forest Park were James L. Baker Jr., Linda H. Branan, Emma J. Edmondson, Suzette S. Escoe, Karen S. Gardner, Joann Johnson, Ronald I Kemp, Dianne E. Love, Karen B. Mayberry, Carol H. Schultz, Sonja C Sellers, Lydia C. Starke, Anne G. Stewart, and Fran B. Wallace.

Morrow students on the list were Jean S. Armstrong, Carolyn W. Bowen, Linda R. Carbo, Jacqueline G. Combs, Rodney D. Hanson, Joan C. Hughes, Robert J. Jones, Ginger L. Kellar, Deborah K. Rawlins, Dulcy A.

Patricia L. Strauss, Debra C. Walker, and Deana

B. Webb. Those from College Park were Carol L. Adams, Kaye F. Baskin, Meta C. Blackmon. Rebecca L. Carty, Virginia Dermoushegian, Sharon M. Guritz, Catherine has named 145 students to Marchbanks, Van G. Mc- Kerri L. Davis, Beverly F. Josie M.Snow. the Fall Quarter Dean's List, including 106 from Clayton County.

Wareinbanks, Vali G. Mc Schelly F. Solic Missiow.

Residents from El-Bright Greer, and Carol A. Neal of lenwood were Christine M. Descender and lenwood were Christine M. Conley.

Thomas, and Melinda M. Lake City residents were Bennett, Glenda M. Odom, To make the Dean's List, ended in December, at-

Meg C. DeWeese, Sheryl A. Leslie L. Smith, and Tamara a student must maintain a tracted 2,990 students to the Also included were Rex Hewell, Anita L. Lawrence, E. Swift of Ellenwood; and grade point average of 3.6 or Morrow campus.

Clayton Junior College V. Hunt, Paul L. residents Angela D. Borup, Victoria R. Loftfield, and Francine M. Baer, Valorie higher out of a possible 4.0 D. Bozardt, Teresa R. for the quarter.

Christine M. Bennett,

Glenda M. Odom, Leslie L.

Smith, and Tamara E. Swift of Ellenwood; and

Francine M. Baer, Valorie

D. Bozardt, Teresa R.

Greer, and Carol A. Neal of

Lawrence, Victoria R. Loft- To make the Dean's List,

grade point average of 3.6 or

higher out of a possible 4.0

The fall quarter, which began in September and ended in December, attracted 2,990 students to the

for the quarter.

Local Students Named to CJC Dean's List

Clayton Junior College N. Sellers, Angerla Starr, B. Wallace. has named 145 students to Sandra R. Stewart, Glenda the fall quarter dean's list, B. Sturdevant, Robert J. list were Jean County.

Included on the honor list

JONESBORO students on the list were Valerie A. Bahr, Marie V. Bobo, Hazel A. Brown, Judith H. Elizabeth K. Thomps and Katherine O. Tull. Cantrell, Judy K. Carmickle, Peggy L. Chancey, Judy C. Coulter, Julie M. Park were James L. B. Crane, Kathleen B. Craw, Jr., Linda H. Branford, Marsha H. Crown, Emma J. Edmonds ford, Marsha H. Crown, Melanie D. Day, Robert T. Denham, Janice O. Honkanen, Bonita Hoover; Stacey L. Irwin, Judith K.

more high school seniors who are taking college credit courses that also satisfy high

Jointly enrolled in the

Freshman Scholar Program

at the college and three area high schools, the three new school requirements.

including 106 from Clayton Sturdevant, Janice A. Tittle, and Dianne W. Warren. Included from Riverdale released by Dr. Billy R. were Stephen R. Bryant, Nail, dean of the college, Elizabeth R. Comings, were 27 students from Pamela S. Couch, Patricia Jonesboro, 20 from River- D. Duncan, James R. Dutdale, 14 from Forest Park, 14 ton, Jennifer J. Grose, Julia from Morrow, 13 from Col- Handley, Debbie L. Hunter, lege Park, 5 from Rex, 5 Pamela M. Miller, Lisa J. from Lake City, and 4 each Munson, Deborah A. Pryor, from Ellenwood and Conley. Ronald H. Pyle, Patricia R. Rasmussen, Steve B. Rasmussen, Mary L. Ray, Julie M. Rayburn, JoAnn Reid, Helen S. Rohrl, Elizabeth K. Thompson,

> STUDENTS from Forest Park were James L. Baker Jr., Linda H. Branan, Emma J. Edmondson, Suzette S. Escoe, Karen S. Gardner, Joann Johnson, Ronald I. Kemp, Dianne E. Love, Karen B. Mayberry,

THE CLAYTON SUN February 14, 1980

Local Students Freshmen Scholars at CJC program.

lenwood.

Winter quarter enroll- enrollees met all standards daughter of Mrs. Cora F.

ment figures at Clayton for admission into the Eidson Pippin is a student Junior College include three program.

Mrs. L. H. Grizzell, of El-

Louis D. Wilson, of River-

MARGARET E. Eidson,

Morrow students on the field, and Josie M. Snow; a student must maintain a list were Jean S. Armstrong, Carolyn W. Bowen, Linda R. Carbo, Jacqueline G. Combs, Rodney D. Hanson, Joan C. Hughes, Robert J. Jones, Ginger L. Kellar, Deborah K. Rawlins, Dulcy A. Smith, Patricia M. Stokes, Patricia L. Strauss, Debra C. Walker and Deana B. Webb.

THOSE FROM College Park were Carol L. Adams, Kaye F. Baskin, Meta C. Blackmon, Rebecca L. Carty, Virginia Der-moushegian, Sharon M. Guritz, Catherine V. Hunt, Paul L, Marchbanks, Van G. McCullough, Linda L. Morris, Mark D. Poole, Linda M. Thomas, and Melinda M. Whitehead.

Also included were Rex residents Angela D. Borup, Kerri L. Davis, Beverly F. Earl, Gail D. Jackson, and Paleveda, Geraldine Carol H. Schultz, Sonja C. Jess Palazzolo; Lake City Petersen, Lucille L. Philpot, Sellers, Lydia C. Starke, residents Meg C. DeWeese, Jeanie H. Sartwell, Walter Anne G. Stewart, and Fran Sheryl A. Hewell, Anita L.

The Freshman Scholar

subsequent academic

STUDENTS entered in Program offers an out-the program include one standing high school senior each from Morrow Senior an opportunity to accelerate

High, Riverdale Senior his educational program by

High, and Campbell High electing courses at the Col-

School. They join 50 other lege which also will serve to students from area high satisfy high school gradua-schools who were already tion requirements. The enrolled in the program. program is offered by the Representing Morrow College in cooperation with

Edmonds Fund Plans Five Scholarships

One graduate from each of Clayton County's five senior high schools this year will be awarded a $400 scholarship from the J.E. Edmonds Scholarship Fund, trustees of the fund announced this week.

The trustees decided in a March 6 meeting to expand the scholarship program, which in the past two years Shas awarded five scholarships of $400 each to Clayton County high school graduates.

Of the five past recipients, three are students at the Georgia Institute of Technology, one is attending Clayton Junior College, and one is enrolled at Berry College in Rome. "Contributions to the Efund have been very gratifying," said Fund President Wilbur Peacock. Peacock added that he Hoped "this will continue to be a purposeful scholarship for deserving graduates of Clayton County high schools each year." The fund is named after a

Senior High is Benjamin D. the local Boards of Educa-Grizzell, son of Mr. and tion. former Clayton County A student who meets the School Superintendent, and is made possible by private Riverdale Senior High is admission requirements represented by Michael may enroll at the College Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. during the quarter following completion of his junior year in high school, or during any

Morrow campus. Dean's List Announced

Thirteen Fayette residents were named to the fall quarter Dean's List at Clayton Junior College.

Fayetteville residents named were Wesley H.
Bethea, Judith K. Bramlett,
Kathy A. Brown Carol A. Fayetteville residents Kathy A. Brown, Carol A. Holland, Marian J. Lee, Jean J. Luefer, Kenneth D. Richat C. Turk eld. Pe. ee Ci ns named were Ma gare Barrett, Cynthia (& k, vera Fricano Z and Marth. E. Landsiedel. Deborah L. Snead of Woolsey als made the her or list. To make the Dean's List

To make the Dean's List. grade point average of 3.6 or. higher out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

2 Area Students Get Scholarships

Two more area students junior year in high school, or have been accepted into the during any subsequent Freshman Scholar Program academic quarter. The at Clayton Junior College, College offers the Program according to Judith C. in cooperation with local Nichols, Admissions Boards of Education. Counselor at the two-year

Dana Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gregory of East Point and Carlyn A. Frith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Frith of Forest Park, enrolled in the Program at spring Quarter.

The Freshman Scholar Program enables outstanding high school seniors to accelerate thedir educational programs by electing courses at the College which also serve to satisfy high school graduation requirements. Mrs. Gregory is a senior at Headland High School and Ms. Frith is a student at Jonesboro Senior High School. Currently, 45 area students are enrolled in the Program.

A student who meets the admission requirements of the Program may enroll at Clayton Junior College during the quarter following completion of his or her

Scholar Program Accepts Two

Fayette

Third in Figures

Enrollment

Spring Quarter enrollment figures at

Clayton Junior College

reflect an increase of more than five percent over last year's total,

according to a report released by Annette B.

Satterfield, Director of Admissions and

The Spring Quarter,

which began in late March and continues into early June, attracted 2,485 students to the Morrow campus, an increase of 127 over the

2,358 who were enrolled during the quarter one

In addition to the almost 2,500 who are enrolled in credit programs at the College, more than 2,000 community residents are enrolled in non-credit

- classes offered through the Office of Community

The quarterly report showed that 1,448 women and 1,037 men are enrolled in oredit classes, and that 73 percent of the total student population is unmarried. In addition, over 61 percent of the students enrolled (1,558)

are taking a day, or mostly day, classes, percent enrolled in evening or mostly

Students from a 21-

county area are enrolled at the two-year institution, including 1,342

from Clayton County, 626

from Fulton County, 207

from Fayette County, 154

from Henry County, 42

from DeKalb, 28 from Spalding, 22 from Coweta, and 20 from

A unit of the University System of Georgia, Clayton Junior College conducts both day and evening classes on a quarterly basis. Now in its 11th year of service to the South Atlanta area, the College is the largest of 15 state-supported junior colleges.

with the remaining 39

evening classes.

Rockdale.

Registrar.

year ago.

Services.

CJC

Two more area students have been accepted into the Freshman Scholar Program at Clayton Junior College, according to Judith C Nichols, missions counselor at the two-year institution. Dana Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gregory, of East Point, and Carlyn A. Frith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Frith, of Forest Park, enrolled in the program at the start of the spring quarter. The Freshman Scholar Program enables outstanding high school seniors to accelerate their educational programs by electing courses at the 5College which also serve to satisfy high school graduaztion requirements. Ms. Gregory is a senior at ⊢Headland High School and Ms. Frith is a student at UJonesboro Senior High School. Currently, 45 area students are enrolled in the program. A student who meets the admission requirements of the program may enroll at Clayton Junior College during the quarter following completion of his or her junior year in high school, or during any subsequent academic quarter.

Students interested in complete information about the Freshman Scholar Program should call Mrs. Nichols in the Office of Admissions and Records (363-7723) or contact their high school counselor.

Fayette County NEWS February 13, 1980 February 13, 1980 Like CJC

Fayette among top with number of students attending CJC

The four-county area from DeKalb, 30 from Day classes are through final head-count totals at County. Clayton Junior College,

Of the 2,668 students enrolled in credit courses during the current Winter Quarter, 1,481 of them live in Clayton County, 654 live in Fulton, 206 reside in Fayette, and 169 are Henry Countians.

The four-county accumulation of 2,510 students represents slightly over 94 percent of the quarterly enrollment.

CJC's enrollment represents a student population from a 20county area, including 35 of Clayton, south Fulton, Spalding, 27 from Rock-Fayette and Henry dale, 21 from Coweta, continue to dominate and 13 from Cobb

Women students outaccording to an number men 1,491 to enrollment report issued 1,177 and slightly over 73 by Annette B. Sat- percent of students preferred over night classes, according to the report, with just over 62 percent of those enrolled taking day or mostly day courses.

terfield, Director of enrolled in credit began in early January with advisement and Admissions and programs are single. and will continue registration on March 24.

examinations on March 13-18. The deadline for new students to make application for Spring Quarter credit classes is March 6, and classes for Winter Quarter classes the quarter will begin

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR

Clayton Junior Dean's List Is Announced

has named 108 Clayton County students to the winter quarter dean's list.

Jonesboro students included on the list were Valerie A. Bahr. Barbara T. Benton, Maria V. Bobo, Mary E. Bowen, Ronald L. Brinkman, Sharon G. Cantrell, James L. Cottingham, Julie M. Crane, Robert T. Denham, Janice O. Honkanen, Stacey L. Irwin, Marcia L. Jackson, Morrison Jolly, Ruchi M. Kumarhia and Sandra L.

Other students named were William D. Lay, Jimmy R. Massey, Suzanne F. Mittenzwei, Jerry R. Nash, Judith K. Paleveda, L.

Rollins, Jeanie H. Sartwell, Sandra R. Stewart, Glenda B. Sturdevant, Robert J. Sturdevant and Wendell R.

M. Gazafy, Marilyn G. Hudgins, Donna R. Ivie, Dianne E. Love, Douglas R.

cluded on the list were Dana Markham, Gail A. Maxwell. M. Armes, Susan K. Vilkinson. Bentley, Sandra S. Feagans, Included on the honor list Debbie L. Hunter, Patty G. form Forest Park were Nan- Lambert, Terrell M. Nelson, cy B. Algood, Cheryl L. An-Stephen R. Pariseau, Dederson, Linda H. Branan, borah A. Pryor, Ronald H. Victoria L. Carver, Edward Pyle, Ratricia R. A. Collins, Linda Y. Cook, Rasmussen, Carolyn B. Marie I. Cottrell, Wendell L. Rentz, Helen S. Rohrl, Cushing, Claudia A. Davis, Rhonda G. Smith, Lois D. Suzette S. Escoe, Karen S. Stallings, Dianne B. Gardner and Allen J. Gates. Thacker, Stephen . Thomas, Also named were Janice Vicki L. Thompson, Brenda B. Trice and Raymond W.

Weber. Students from College Powell, Lani L. Ray, Peggy Park were Kaye F. Baskin, borah A. Vogel, all of El-C. Schroeder, Sonja C. Phyllis P. Beecham, Meta Dianne Phillips, Lucille L. Sellers, Lydia C. Starke, C. Blackmon, Kathleen M.

Clayton Junior College Philpot, Merry P. Rainey, Leigh A. Vanderels, Linda Blevins, Phyllis A. Gross, Beverly F. Earl, Gail D. as named 108 Clayton Countries. Reagin, Sheila M. D. Warren and Martha B. Ruby L. Henning, Ruth P. Jackson and Jess M. Jackson, Sandra L. King, Palazzolo, all of Rex. Riverdale students in- Curtis A. Lewis, Deborah E. Others were Francine M. Baer and Kathy M. Reese of Phillip E. Peters, Ronald H.

To make the dean's list, a higher out of a possible 4.0

The winter quarter,

which attracted 2.668 stu-

Stewart, Charles R. Tarpley and Melinda M. Whitehead. Morrow residents instudent must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or cluded were Joan C. Hughes, Ralph C. Jenkins, Harriet A. Lawson, Cindy M. Lewis, for the quarter. Michelle K. Maynard, acqueline C. Peak, Mark . Petro, Lucille M. Renfroe, dents to the Morrow cam-Deana B. Webb, and Donna pus, began in January and

L. Windom. Other Clayton Countians on the list were Georganna Bartlett, Glenda M. Odom lenwood.

Also Charles F. Davis.

CJC's Spring Quarter Enrollment Up 5 Percent

to a report released by Annette B. Satterfield, who were enrolled during the Office of Community Serdirector of Admissions and quarter one year ago.

The Spring Quarter, which 2,500 who are enrolled in figures at Clayton Junior began in late March and credit programs at the College reflect an increase of continues into early June, College, more than 2,000 more than five percent over attracted 2,485 students to community residents are last year's total, according the Morrow campus, an increase of 127 over the 2,358 classes offered through the In addition to the almost

The quarterly report showed that 1,448 women and 1,037 men are enrolled in credit classes, and that 73 percent of the total student population is unmarried. In addition, over 61 percent of the students enrolled (1.558) are taking a day, or mostly day, classes, with the remaining 39 percent enrolled in evening or mostly evening classes.

Students from a 21-county area are enrolled at the twoyear institution, including 1,342 from Clayton County, 626 from Fulton County, 207 from Fayette County, 154 from Henry County, 42 from DeKalb, 28 from Spalding, 22 from Coweta, and 20 from Rockdale.

A unit of the University System of Georgia, Clayton Junior College conducts both day and evening classes on a quarterly basis. Now in its 11th year of service to the South Atlanta area, the College is the largest of 15 state-supported junior has named 155 students to the Winter Quarter Dean's List, including 108 from Clayton County.

April 21, 1980

155 Students On CJC's Dean's List

Heading the honor list. named by Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College, were 30 students fron Jonesboro, 24 from Forest Park, from Forest Park were 19 from Riverdale, 15 from Nancy B. Algood, Cheryl L. College Park, ten from Morrow, four each from Ellen- Victoria L. Carver, Edward wood and Rex, and two A. Collins, Linda Y. Cook, from Conley.

cluded on the list were Davis, Suzette S. Escoe, Valerie A. Bahr, Barbara T. Karen S. Gardner, Allen J. Benton, Maria V. Bobo, Gates Mary E. Bowen, Ronald L. Brinkman, Sharon G. Can- Marilyn G. Hudgins, Donna trell, James L.. Cot- R. Ivie, Dianne E. Love, Phillip E. Peters, Ronald H. tungham, Julie M. Crane, Douglas R. Powell, Lani L. Robert T. Denham, Janice Ray, Peggy C. Schroeder. O. Honkanan, Stacey L. Ir- Sonja C. Sellers, Lydia C. Marcia L. Jackson, Morrison Jolly, Ruchi M. Kumarhia, Sandra Landers;

William D. Lay, Jimmy R. Massey, Suzanne F. Mittenzwei, Jerry R. Nash, Sandra S. Feagans, Debbie Judith K. Paleveda, L. L. Hunter, Patty G.

Philpot, Merry P. Rainey, Linda S. Reagin, Sheila M. Rollins, Jeanie H. Sartwell, Sandra R. Stewart, Glenda B. Sturdevant, Robert J. Sturdevant, and Wendell R. Wilkinson.

Included on the Honor list Anderson, Linda H. Branan, Marie I. Cottrell, Wendell Jonesboro students in- L. Cushing, Claudia A.

Starke, Leigh A. Vanderels Linda D. Warren, and Martha B. Wilson.

Riverdale students included on the list were Dana M. Armes, Susan K. Bently. Nelson, Stephen R. Pariseau, Deborah A. Pryor, Ronald H. Pyle, Patricia R. Rasmussen, Carolyn B. Rentz, Helen S. Rohrl, Rhonda G. Smith, Lois D. Stallings, Diane B.

Thacker, Stephen F.

Thomas, Vicki L. Thompson, Brenda B. Trice, and Raymond W. Weber. Students from College Park were Kaye F. Baskin, Phyllis P. Beecham, Meta Blevins, Phyllis A. Gross, Ruby L. Henning, Ruth P. Jackson, Sandra L. King, Janice M. Gazafy, Curtis A. Lewis, Deborah E. Markham, Gail A. Maxwell, Clayton Junior College Dianne Phillips, Lucille L. Lambert, Terrell M. Stewart, Charles R. Tarpley and Melinda M. Whitehead.

Morrow residents included were Joan C. Hughes, Ralph C. Jenkins, Harriet A. Lawson, Cindy M. Lewis, Michelle K. Maynard, Jacqueline C. Peak, Mark F. Petro, Lucille M. Renfroe, Deana B. Webb, and Donna L. Windom Other Clayton Countians on the list were: Georganna which attracted 2,668 Bartlett, Glenda M. Odom, Leslie L. Smith, and C. Blackmon, Kathleen M. Deborah A. Vogel, all of and ended in March.

Davis, Beverly F. Earl, Gail D. Jackson, and Jess M. Palazzolo, all of Rex; and Francine M. Baer and Kathy M. Reese of Conley.

To make the Dean's List, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

The Winter Quarter, students to the Morrow campus, began in January

THE CLAYTON SUN

Names Winter Quarter Dean's List

Clayton County. named by Dr. Billy R. Nail, Benton, Maria V. Bobo, dean of the college, were 30 Mary E. Bowen, Ronald L. R. Massey, Suzanne F. Mitstudents from Jonesboro, 24 Brinkman, Sharon G. tenzwei, Jerry R. Nash, from Forest Park, 19 from Cantrell, James L. Cot- Judith K. Paleveda, L.

Clayton Junior College Park, 10 from Morrow, four Robert T. Denham, Janice Philpot, Merry P. Rainey, has named 155 students to each from Ellenwood and O. Honkanen, Stacey L. Linda S. Reagin, Sheila M. the winter quarter dean's Rex, and two from Conley. Irwin, Marcia L. Jackson, list, including 108 from Jonesboro students in Morrison Jolly, Ruchi M. cluded on the list were Kumarhia, Sandra L. Heading the honor list, Valerie A. Bahr, Barbara T. Landers;

William D. Lay, Jimmy Riverdale, 15 from College tingham, Julie M. Crane, Dianne Phillips, Lucille L.

May 8, 1980 THE CLAYTON SUN

Earth Day Observed at CJC

Biology students at Clayton Junior College participated in Earth Day activities on Tuesday, April 22, in a number of ways. Some of the students in the class of Dr. Pat Perry, right, were (left to right): Elatha Weems, of Stockbridge; Patty Williams, of East Point; David Burton, of Stockbridge; Debbie Watts, of Rex: and Michelle Hawkins, of Atlanta.

Rollins, Jeanie H. Sartwell. Sandra R. Stewart, Glenda B. Sturdevant, Robert J. Sturdeyant, and Wendell R.

> INCLUDEDon the honor list from Forest Park were Nancy B. Algood, Cheryl L. Anderson, Linda H. Branan, Victoria L. Carver, Edward Collins, Linda Y. Cook, Marie I. Cottrell, Wendell Cushing, Claudia A. Davis, Suzette S. Escoe, Karen S. Gardner, Allen J.

> > Janice M. Gazafy, Marilyn G. Hudgins, Donna R. Ivie, Dianne E. Love, Douglas R. Powell, Lani L. Ray, Peggy C. Schroeder, Sonja C. Sellers, Lydia C. Starke, Leigh A. Vanderels, Linda D. Warren, and Martha B. Wilson.

Riverdale students in-

Bentley, Sandra S. Feagans, Debbie L. Hunter, Patty G. Lambert, Terrell M. Nelson, Stephen R. Pariseau, Deborah A. Pryor, Ronald H. Pyle, Patricia R. Rasmussen, Carolyn B. Rentz, Helen S. Rohrl, Rhonda G. Smith, Lois D. Stallings, Diane B. Thacker, Stephen F. Thomas, Vickie

Thompson, Brenda B.

Trice, and Raymond W. Students from College Park were Kay F. Baskin, Phyllis P. Beecham, Meta C. Blackmon, Kathleen M. Blevins, Phyllis A. Gross, Ruby L. Henning, Ruth P. Jackson, Sandra L. King, Curtis A. Lewis, Deborah E. Markham, Gail A. Maxwell, Phillip E, Peters, Ronald H. Stewart, Charles R. Tarpley, and Melinda M.

MORROW residents included on the list were Dana cluded were Joan C. M. Armes, Susan K. Hughes, Ralph C. Jenkins, Whitehead.

M. Lewis, Michelle K. Maynard, Jacqueline C. Peak, Mark F. Petro, Lucille M. Renfore, Deana B. Webb, and Donna L. Win-

Other Clayton Countians on the list were: Georganna Bartlett, Glenda M. Odom, Leslie L. Smith, and Deborah A. Vogel, all of Ellenwood; Charles F. Davis, Beverly F. Earl, Gail D. Jackson, and Jess M. Palazzolo, all of Rex: and Francine M. Baer and Kathy M. Reese of Conley.

To make the Dean's List. a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher out of a possible 4.0 for the quarter.

The winter quarter, which attracted 2,668 students to the Morrow campus, began in January and ended in

Keceive Awards

Twenty-eight students from Clayton County high schools will receive scholarships to attend the Georgia High School Music Workshop to be held June 15 to 21 at the University of Georgia, Athens.

The scholarships are made possible through a Clayton County Band-Art A'Rama held recently at Tara Stadium in which student musicians performed for an audience who paid admission to the event. Originally, a scholarship for one member of each school band performing at the stadium was planned by the sponsors of the program, the Rotary Club of Forest Park, the Clayton County Board of Education and Clayton Junior College. The success of the Band-Art A'Rama allowed two scholarships to be given to members of each band participating, according to sponsoring officials. Plans are now being made for a second program next spring.

Students attending the workshop at the University of Georgia will participate in private lessons, music theory classes, bands, orchestras and other musical exercises during the week long seminar. They will be placed in various activities according to auditions. Each night during the workshop, guest musicians will perform for the students. Winners of the scholarships from North Clayton Junior High School were Doug Perkins and Alan Gibby. Riverdale Junior High winners were Greg Ball and Cecilia Barry. Cheryl Hutcheson and Jacque Joultrie received the scholarship from Pointe South Junior High School. From Adamson Junior High School, winners were David Callaway and Keith Scott. Forest Park Junior High School winners were Scott Skipper and Kim Morrow Junior High School winners were Iva Fowke and Doug Zuschlag. Attending from Jonesboro Senior High School will be Kevin Brown and Cindy Straight, from Morrow Senior High School are David Miller and Melanie Driver, from Fountain Junior High School are Sherri Dobbs and Beth Ballard and Steve Woodson and Tim Carroll from Riverdale Senior High School.

Winners from Forest Park Senior High School were Kenny Hudson and Cherri Shaffett, from Mundy's Mill Junior High School are Warren Griffin and Kim Lloyd, from Babb Junior High School are Rebecca Wellman and Alan Harkness, and from North Clayton Senior High School are Leigh Keller and Kelly

Clayton Junior College to Honor 32 Students

stitution's sixth annual ceremony. Dr. Bill R. Nail, vocation" Thursday even- Welborn, chairman of the chancellor for academic ment awards, and Harmon development for the Univer- M. Born, chairman of the sity System of Georgia, will board of trustees of the deliver the honors address foundation, will present during the ceremony, cash awards. scheduled in Room D-200 at 7:15 p.m.

STUDENTS to be nonored have accumulated a grade point average of 3.8 or better out of a possible 4.0, with at least 15 of 30 or more hours having been completed at Clayton Junior College.

Four students who, with the same qualifications, have compiled a perfect 4.0 average on all college work attempted, will receive cash awards provided by the Clayton Junior College Foundation, Inc.

dents will be recognized for before joining the faculty at academic achievement.

'Academic Honors Con- dean, and Dr. Robert H. academic honors commit-Dr. H. Dean Propst, vice tee, will present achieve-

> Dr. Propst, a native of Hickory, North Carolina, joined the staff of the board of regents in 1979. From 1969 until 1979, he served as dean of the college and professor of English at Armstrong State College. During the last four years of his service at the Savannah institution, he also served as vice president.

DR. PROPST began his professional career as a high school English teacher in Candalia, Ohio. He served as an instructor at Wake A number of other stu- Forest College for one year Radford College in Virginia

Thirty-two students at DR. HARRY S. in 1962. Working his way up Clayton Junior College will DOWNS, president of the the instructional ladder to be honored during the in- college, will preside over the the rank of Professor of State in 1969.

A member of a number of He was awarded a Carnegie Philosophy Degree in professional and community Foundation Fellowship and organizations, Dr. Propst at- earned his master's degree Peabody College. English, he remained at tended North Carolina in English from Peabody Radford College until taking public schools before College. He received a Ford on new duties at Armstrong graduating "cum laude" Foundation Fellowship and from Wake Forest College. claimed his Doctor of and the public is invited.

American Literature from Thurday's "Academic Honors Convocation" will be followed by a reception,

CJC's Graver, Corse In Griffin Production

Jonesboro, a sophomore stu- zance. dent at Clayton Junior College, will play the lead role in the Griffin Footlight Plaayers' production of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

at 8 p.m. on Wednesday who will appear as the old through Saturday at the Imperial Theatre in Griffin. Graver will be recreating the role of the slave Pseudolus, which he first performed in a production of "Forum" at North Clayton Senior High School.

An art major at the twoyear institution near Morrow, Steve also has been active in drama productions of the CJC Choir. He recently played the role of Tevve in 'Fiddler on the Roof," and also designed and painted the sets, did the art work for the program, and was responsible for makeup.

He appeared as Captain in "H.M.S. Pinafore." last fall's operetta by the Choir, and played the role of Lycus in last spring's College presentation of "Forum." in the College performance, he also designed the costumes.

Graver will be seen at CJC this summer as Major General Stanley in the Steven Graver of operetta "Pirates of Pen- man Erronius.

Others from Clayton Junior College who will appear in the Griffin show are available by calling the box Ronnie Grist as Hysterium, a role he first performed at the College; and Dr. Larry between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 Productions are scheduled Corse, CJHC choir director,

Information concerning tickets for the play is office of the Imperial Theatre in Griffin, 227-9895. p.m. and between 4:30 and

FOUR CASH AWARDS GIVEN

THE CLAYTON SUN

CJC Honors Convocation Recognizes Students

Four students received Baer, of Conley. cash awards and 28 others Dr. Ernest A. Dunbar, Jr., were honored with a member of the Board of scholarship achievement Trustees of the CJC Founawards at Clayton Junior dation, made the cash College's sixth annual presentations. Academic Honors Convocation on Thursday, May 22. ranking academic grades.

development for the Univer- 4.0 grade point average in sity System of Georgia, all college work attempted. delivered the honors address Achievement award winat the annual event, held to ners accomplished at least a honor students with high- 3.8 grade point average after completing at least 30 quarter credit hours, 15 of Cash award winners were which had to be at CJC. Dr. freshmen Jean Jacobs Billy R. Nail, dean of the Loefer, of Fayetteville, Mik-college, and Dr. Robert H. ki Sue Miller, of Forest Welborn, chairman of the Park, and Deborah L. Academic Honors Commit-Snead, of Woolsey; and tee, made the presentations. sophomore Francine M. A number of other stu-

academic achievement, including all students at the college who made the Dean's List for two or more consecutive quarters. Academic discipline awards were recognized in Dr. H. Dean Propst, vice FOUNDATION award chemistry, business, bancellor for academic winners compiled a perfect biology, French, and dents were recognized for college's 1980 Academic Valerie Ann Bahr, James Lynn Cottingham, Honors Convocation were: Jonesboro; Judith Karen Jonesboro; NANCY M. Boggs Al-Sharon Geiger Cantrell, burn; Melba Lee Freeman,

Sun Community Life

society, clubs, religion, features

Scholarship achievement Igood, College Park; Fran- Jonesboro; Cynthia A. Lilburn; winners in Clayton Junior cine M. Baer, Conley; Clark, Peachtree City; Vera Anne Fricano, Lucille Lynne Philpot, Riverdale

Honkanen, Jonesboro; Joan Pryor, Riverdale; Mary Carol Hughes, Morrow; Gail Dover Jackson, Rex; Marie Rayburn, Riverdale; Stanley W. Johns, Lilburn; Kenneth Dale Richard, Barbara Pepper Johnson, Fayetteville; Stockbridge; Donna C.

Helen Smith Rohrl Knowles, Riverdale; Marian Riverdale; Jeanie H. J. Lee, Fayetteville; Curtis Sartwell, Jonesboro; Alan Lewis, College Park; Deborah L. Snead, Woolsey; Jean Jacobs Loefer, Lydia Cutchin Starke Fayetteville: Mikki Sue Forest Park; Linda Mae Miller, Forest Park; Jess Thomas, College Park; and Marie Palazzolo, Rex; Judith Pennington Wayda,

Annual Event Shows Local Talent

Forest Park resident Lee Cushing looks over purchase awards paintings by Clayton Junior College students. Three winners will be chosen by the college. The winners will each received $150 and their art work will be on permanent display at the college.

Cushing, an art student at the college, has completed his required art classes. He assists instructor Tommy Daughty whle completing his curriculum. Cushing is the son of Wendell and Joan Cushing of Forest Park. (Staff Photo By Ray James)

Dr. Larry B. Corse (left), CJC Choir Director, and Steven Graver.

'Forum' Funny thing will happen

Steven Graver of Jonesboro, a sophomore student at Clayton Junior College, will play the lead role in the Griffin Footlight Players' production of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

Productions are scheduled at 8 p.m. on June 4, 5, 6, and 7 at the Imperial Theatre in Griffin. Graver will be recreating the role of the slave Pseudolus, which he first performed in a production of "Forum" at North Clayton Senior High School.

An art major at the two-year institution near Morrow, Steve also has been active in drama productions of the CJC Choir. He recently played the role of Teyve in "Fiddler on the Roof," and also designed and painted the sets, did the art work for the program, and was responsible for

He appeared as Captain in "H.M.S. Pinafore," last fall's operetta by the Choir, and played the role of Lyus in last spring's College presentation of "Forum." In the College performance, he also designed the costumes. Graver will be seen at CJC this summer as Major General Stanley in the operetta "Pirates of Penzance.'

Others from Clayton Junior College who will appear in the Griffin show are Ronnie Grist as Hysterium (a role he first performed at the College), and Dr. Larry Corse, CJC Choir Director, who will appear as the old man Erronius.

CJC Outstanding Fayette Students

Teresa Renay Greer of Conley received the 'outstanding student leadership" award at a recent honors awards ceremony conducted at Clayton Junior College. Miss Greer, sophomore journalism major at the two-year Institution, served as editor of the student newspaper, "The Bent in Tree," and completed the year by leading her staff to on-time delivery of all issues. Robert C. 'Bo" Bolander, Dean of Students, made the honor presentation.

The ceremony, fin sponsored by the Cabinet Student Administrators (CSA), was conducted by Robert Taylor, Director of Student Activities. Dr. Harry S. Downs, President of the College; Ms. Betsy Shackelford, Student Alde Coordinator; and Dr. C. Blaine Carpenter, CSA Advisor, also par- on ticipated. Miss Greer was one of thirteen students chosen & to receive "leadership citations." Other honored were Carla Parlene Caldwell of East Point, Julie Carol Rogers of Fayetteville, William Russell Beamon of Riverdale, Melody Sue Kriemann of Mountain View, David Hugh Deering of Jonesboro; Ronald Frank Grist of East Point, Steven Frederick Graver of Jonesboro, Joyce Lynn Montgomery of Jonesboro, Julie Ann Ivie of Morrow, Merrill Glenn Jackson of College and Carol Ann Bergholt of Peachtree City. New student government leaders presented at the meeting were Wilkinson, who will serve as CSA president; Beamon, vice president; Grist, minister of operations; Rogers, special activities; Montgomery, student relations; and Kris Creecy, finance and

Park, Wendell Roy

Wilkinson of Jonesboro,

Grist, the outgoing CSA president, presented faculty awards to Dr. Downs, Dean Bolander, Taylor, Dr. Carpenter, and Dr. Larry B. Associate Professor of English.

treasurer.

Two CJC Students, CJC Professor Featured in Griffin Players' Production 'A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum'

Steven Graver, of He appeared as Captain Jonesboro, a sophomore student at Clayton Junior fall's operetta by the Choir, role in the Griffin Footlight in last spring's College Players' production of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." In also designed the costumes. the Way to the Forum."

are Productions scheduled at 8 p.m. on June CJC this summer as Major 4, 5, 6, and 7 at the Imperial General Stanley in the Theatre in Griffin. Graver Gilber and Sullivan operetwill be recreating the ta "Pirates of Penzance." he first performed in a pear in the Griffin show are High School. year institution near man Erronius. Morrow, Steve also has been active in drama productions of the CJC Choir. He recent- tickets for the play is ly played the role of Teyve available by calling the box in "Fiddler on the Roof," and also designed and painted the sets, did the art between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30

College, will play the lead and played the role of Lycus slave Others from Clayton which Junior College who will approduction of "Forum" at Ronnie Grist as Hysterium the North Clayton Senior (a role he first performed at the College), and Dr. Larry Corse, CJC Choir Director, An art major at the two- who will appear as the old office of the Imperial Theatre in Griffin, 227-9895, work for the program, and p.m., and between 4:30 and was responsible for makeup. 6:30 p.m.

CJC STUDENT IN PLAY-Dr. Larry B. Corse, left, CJC choir director, and Steven Graver.

CJC Students Recognized At Convocation

cash awards and twentyeight others were honored with scholarship achievement awards at Clayton Junior College's sixth annual Academic Honors Convocation on Thursday.

Dr. H. Dean Propst, vice chancellor for academic development for the University System of Georgia, delivered the Honors Address at the annual event, held to honor students with high-ranking academic grades.

Cash award winners were freshmen Jean Jacobs Loefer of Fayetteville, Mikki Sue Miller of Forest Park, and Deborah L. Snead of Woolsey; and sophomore students were recognized for Jonesboro; Francine M. Baer of Conley. academic achievement, in- MacGregor Couch, Fair-

Dr. Ernest A. Dunbar, Jr., a cluding all students at the member of the Board of Trustees of the CJC Foundation, made the cash presen- consecutive quarters.

Foundation award winners point average in all college work attempted.

Achievement award winners accomplished at least a 3.8 grade point average after completing at least 30 quarter credit hours, 15 of which had to be at CJC. Dr. Billy R. Nail, Dean of the College, and Dr. Robert H. Welborn, chairman of the Academic Honors Committee, made the presentations.

A number of other

College who made the Dean's List for two or more Academic discipline awards recognized in compiled a perfect 4.0 grade chemistry, business, biology, French, and

> Scholarship achievement winners in Clayton Junior College's 1980 Academic Honors Convocation were:

Nancy M. Boggs Allgood, College Park; Francine M. Baer, Conley; Valerie Ann Bahr, Jonesboro; Judith Karen Bramlett, Fayetteville; Sharon Geiger Cantrell, Jonesboro; Cynthia A. Clark, Peachtree City; James Lynn Cottingham, Lilburn: Vera Anne Fricano,

Peachtree City; Janice Orr Honkanen, Jonesboro; Joan Carol Hughes, Morrow; Gail Dover Jackson, Rex; Park; and Judith Penn-Stanley W. Johns, Lilburn; Barbar Pepper Johnson, Stockbridge; Donna C. Knowles, Riverdale; Marian J. Lee, Fayetteville; Curtis Alan Lewis, College Park;

Jean Jacobs Loefer Fayetteville; Mikki Sue Miller, Forest POark; Jess Marie Palazzolo, Rex; Lucille Lynne Philpot. Jonesboro; Deborah Ann Pryor, Riverdale; Mary Louise Ray, Riverdale; Julie Marie Rayburn, Riverdale; Kenneth Dale Richard, dale; Jeanie H. Sartwell. Jonesboro; Deborah L. Snead, Woolsey; Lydia Cutrchin Starke, Forest Park; Linda Mae Thomas, College ington Wayda, Riverdale.

Merrill Jackson Joins Sun As Reporter

Sun Newspaper has added a lege for two more years to new member to its organization. Merrill Jackson came to the Fayette section in May as a reporter and will Faye Edmundson.

Jackson is currently completing an Associate of Arts Degree in Journalism and English at Clayton Junior College where he has served as a member of the staff of The Bent Tree, the school's newspaper, for approximately two years. After receiving his degree at Clayton, he will be at-either English or jour- perience for me.

standing Leadership and the Citation for Outstanding Service as a Stu-

In addition to the merit awards, Jackson has also served as vice president of the Foreign Language Club, held the student chair on the school's Executive Decision Committee, taught a special program in Supplemental Spanish and tutored in English and philosophy.

A ten-mile a day jogger, he also found time to win the school intramural crosscountry championship.

"I feel fortunate to be able to pursue a career in The Fayette-Southside tending West Georgia Col-un Newspaper has added a lege for two more years to Bachelor of Arts degree in Jackson said. "Writing is English and plans to con- what I feel that I do best, tinue his education on a and I also like the newgraduate level, working spaper business. It's an extoward a masters degree in citing, exhilarating ex-

I love Fayette County While at Clayton College, and all the great people I've Jackson has received several met since I've been working awards for academic excel- here," he continues. "After lence and student completing my education, I leadership. Included are the plan to make Fayette my Honors Award for Academic permanent home. I want to Achievement for being stay connected with the named to the Dean's List for newspaper in some way, and four consecutive quarters, I also want to teach school. I the Dean's Citation for Out- hope that I'll be able to do

Statewide Winner

Laura Barabas (right) of Jonesboro shows Greg Kordecki, Instructor of Business Administration at Clayton Junior College, her award for winning statewide Phi Beta Lambda competition in "business law." Mrs. Barabas, wife of Jack Barabas and the mother of four children, will represent Georgia in national competition in Washington, D.C., July 5-8. She won the statewide title May 24 in Macon.

June 19, 1980

THE CLAYTON SUN

New CJC Officers

Newly-elected officers of the Cabinet of Student Administrators at Clayton Junior College include, left to right: front row-Rusty Beamon of Riverdale, vice president; Kris Creecy of Fayetteville, minister of finance and treasurer; and Roy Wilkinson of

Jonesboro, president; back row-Lynn Montgomery of Jonesboro, minister of student relations; Ronnie Grist of East Point, minister of operations; and Julie Rogers of Fayetteville, minister of special activities.

New Student Leaders

Newly-elected officers of the Cabinet of Student Administrators at Clayton Junior College include, left to right: front row-Rusty Beamon of Riverdale, vice president; Kris Creecy of Fayetteville, minister of finance and treasurer; and Roy Wilkinson of Jonesboro, president; back row - Lynn Montgomery of Jonesboro, minister of student relations: Ronnie Grist of East Point, minister of operations; and Julie Rogers of Fayetteville, minister of special ac-

Teresa Greer Gets CJC Award

Teresa Renay Greer of Administrations (CSA), was David Hugh Deering of Conley received the "out-conducted by Robert J. Jonesboro; Conley received the "outstanding student leadership" award at a recent honorsawards ceremony conducted at Clayton Junior College, College; year institution, served as Blaine Carpenter, CSA editor of the student Advisor, also participated. newspaper, "The Bent Miss Greer was one of Tree," and completed the thirteen students chosen to year by leading her staff to receive "leadership on-time delivery of all citations." Others honored issues. Robert C. "Bo" were Carla Parlene Caldwell Bolander, Dean of Students, of East Point, Julie Carol made the honor presen- Rogers of Fayetteville, Taylor, Director of Student Activities. Dr. Harry S. Downs, President of the Miss Greer, a sophomore Shackelford, Student Aide journalism major at the two- Coordinator; and Dr. C.

William Russell Beamon of The ceremony, sponsored Riverdale, Melody Sue by the Cabinet of Student Kreimann of Mountain View, Ronald Frank Grist of East Point, Steven Frederick Graver of Jonesboro, Joyce Lynn Montgomery of Jonesboro, Julie Ann Ivie of Morrow, Merrill Glenn Jackson of College Park, Wendell Roy Wilkinson of Jonesboro, and Carol Ann Bergholt of Peachtree City.

New student government leaders presented at the meeting were Wilkinson, who will serve as CSA president; Beamon, vice president; Grist, minister of operations; Rogers, special activities; Montgomery, student relations; and Kris Creecy, finance and treasurer

Grist, the outgoing CSA president, presented faculty awards to Dr. Downs, Dean Bolander, Taylor, Dr. Carpenter, and Dr. Larry B. Corse, Associate Professor

STUDENT LEADERS ELECTED—Newly-elected officers of the Cabinet of Student Administrators at Clayton Junior College include, left to right: front row-Rusty Beamon of Riverdale, vice president; Kris Creecy of Fayetteville, minister of finance and treasurer; and Roy Wilkinson of Jonesboro, president; back row-Lynn Montgomery of Jonesboro, minister of student relations; Ronnie Grist of East Point, minister of operations; and Julie Rogers of Fayetteville, minister of special activities. special activities.

Art Winners

Robert J. Taylor, left, director of student activities at Clayton Junior College, presents checks to each of this year's Purchase Award Winners. The three paintings were purchased following competition sponsored by Lyceum and added to the more than 30 collections owned by the College. Pictured from left are Taylor, Toby Denham of Jonesboro, Gail Maxwell of College Park, and Teddy Kemph of Forest Park. Ms. Maxwell also won an award last

Robert J. Taylor, left, director of student activities at Clayton Junior College, presented $150 checks each to this year's Purchase Award Winners. The three paintings were purchased following competition sponsored by Lyceum and added to the more than 30 collections owned by the College. Pictured from left are Taylor, Toby Denham, of Jonesboro, Gail Max-well, of College Park, and Teddy Kemph, of Forest Park. Ms. Maxwell also won an award last year.

CJC ART WINNERS—Robert J. Taylor, left, Director of Student Activities at Clayton Junior College, presented $150 checks each to this year's Purchase Award Winners. The three paintings were purchased following competition sponsored by Lyceum and added to the more than 30 collections owned by the College. Pictured from left are Taylor, Toby Denham of Jonesboro, Gail Maxwell of College Park, and Teddy Kemph of Forest Park. Ms. Maxwell also won an award last year.

ACTIVITIES

Upcoming CJC events

FASHION COURSE Offered through the Office of Community Services, a course on proper styling will meet each Tuesday and Thursday morning for the next three weeks, beginning July 10. Entitled "Style, fashion, and your personal image," the class will meet p.m. each session. Sylvia Shelnutt will be the instructor for the three-week course, designed to help participants create their individual style, and to use common sense and economy in making fashion decisions. Personality, self image, wardrobe planning and from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30

accesories, color and proportion, make-up, and hair style will be covered.

DRAWING Adults who would like to learn more about drawing and sketching may enroll in a five week daytime class to Junior College. Designed to teach participants to draw with pencil, charcoal, pen and ink, or pastels, no experience is necessary to enroll in the class. Scheduled from 10:30 Monday and Wednesday for Services at 363-7717.

selection, accents and five consecutive weeks, the class will meet for the first time on July 9.

The course will include composing, shading, perspective, and a number of other methods to add realism to sketches and drawing. The class will be taught by Kitty Fischer, and be offered during July and a $30 registration fee does early August at Clayton not include the cost of

To reserve a place in either class, or to abtain complete information about this and other non-credit courses offered by Clayton Junior College, call the a.m. to 12:30 p.m. each Office of Community

'College Now' Applications Being Accepted, Clayton Junior

being accepted for the "College Now" program, an annual summer offering of special classes at Clayton 8:30 or 10:30 a.m. Six of special College for acceptance of the college for the work of the college for the work of the college for the Junior College for creative the scheduled offerings will munity Services at 363-and talented students who meet each Monday and 7717. each course carries a will be eighth or ninth Wednesday, and five other separate tuition fee, and graders this fall.

Classes in the program, Tuesdays and Thursdays. than one subject. cheduled two mornings each from the week of July 9 through August 9, will provide activities, aboratories and field trips for participants. Courses offered this year include: music theory, folk guitar, creative writing, genealogy, energy sources, life through a microscope, French conversation and customs,

Applications are still karate, tennis, and the Civil To reserve a place in class, classes will meet on students may enroll in more

6/27/79

Southlake Activities

Southlake Mall will hold a special series of activities Tuesday in preparation for the Fourth of July. During the day merchants will have sidewalk sales, music will be provided by the Clayton Community Band and the Clayton Community Chorus will perform from 5-9:30 p.m. The public is invited to take part in all festivities.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN Style

At CJC, Sylvia Shellnutt Shows How to Have It

course on proper styling will to help participants create begin next week at Clayton their individual style, and to Junior College.

the course will meet each morning for the next three proportion, make-up, and 7717. weeks, beginning July 10. Entitled "style, fashion, and your personal image," the class will meet from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. each

SYLVIA SHELNUTT will be the instructor for the

A special three-week short three-week course, designed hair style will be covered.

To reserve a place in use common sense and class, or to obtain complete economy in making fashion information about this and Offered through the Of- decisions. Personality, self- other non-credit courses office of Community Services, image, wardrobe planning fered by Clayton Junior Coland selection, accents and lege, call the Office of Com-Tuesday and Thursday accessories, color and munity Services at 363-

College Now Program Starts

Applications are still be- laboratories, and field trips scheduled offerings will ing accepted for the College for participants. Now program, an annual summer offering of special classes at Clayton Junior College for creative and talented students who will Classes in the program, the Civil War in Georgia. scheduled two mornings each from the week of July 9 provide activities, 8:30 or 10:30 a.m. Six of the ject.

year include: music theory, folk guitar, creative writing, genealogy, energy sources, be eighth or ninth graders life through a microscope, French conversation and customs, karate, tennis, and meet each Monday and Wednesday, and five other COURSES offered this classes will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays. To reserve a place in class, or to obtain complete information about the College Now program, call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717. Each course carries a separate tui-Most classes will meet tion fee, and students may through August 9, will for two hours, beginning at enroll in more than one sub-

College Now Program

Classes Available

lege Now program, an annual summer offering of speci il classes at Clayton Junior College for creative and talented students who will be eighth or ninth graders this fall. Classes in the program, scheduled two mornings each from the week of July 9 through Aug. 9, will provide activities, laboratories, and field trips for the partici-

Courses offered this year include music theory, folk guitar, creative writing, genealogy, energy sources, life through a microscope, French conversation and customs, karate, tennis and the Civil War in Georgia. Most classes will meet for two hours, beginning at 8:30 or 10:30 a.m. Six of the scheduled courses will meet each Monday and Wednesday, and the THE ATLANTA JOURNAL Fashion 7/2/ Course

Offered

A special course on fashion and style is being offered at Clayton Junior College for three weeks, beginning July Entitled "Style, Fashion and Your Personal Image," the class will meet from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. The instructor will be Sylvia Shelnutt.

The course is designed to help participants create their own individual style and how to get the best from their money in making fashion decisions. Personality, selfimage, wardrobe planning and selection, accents and accessories, color and proportion, make-up and hairstyles will be covered. Call 363-7717 for more de-

Applications are still five other classes will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, being accepted for the Col-

THE ROCKDALE CITIZEN July 2, 1979 Course On Styling, Fashion

A special three-week short personal image," the class course on proper styling will will meet from 10:30 a.m. begin next week at Clayton until 12:30 p.m. each ses-

Junior College. of Community Services, the information about this and course will meet each Tues- other non-credit courses day and Thursday morning offered by Clayton Junior for the next three weeks, College, call the Office of beginning July 10. Entitled Community Services at 363-"style, fashion, and your, 7717

Offered through the Office To obtain complete

Drawing, Sketching Classes

Adults who have a desire class. Scheduled between and sketching may want to each Monday and Wednesto learn more about drawing 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. enroll in a five-week day- day for five consecutive time class to be offered weeks, the first class will during July and early Aug- meet for the first time on ust at Clayton Junior July 9. To obtain complete infor-

Designed to teach parti- mation about this and other cipants to draw with pencil, non-credit courses offered charcoal, pen and ink, or by Clayton Junior College, pastels, no experience is call the Office of Community Hencessary to enroll in the Services at 363-7717.

THE ROCKDALE CITIZEN July 2, 1979 Business Computer Course

Small business owners Wednesday, July 9 and 11, who are considering the the seminar will include option of leasing or buying a information on "small comcomputer would be interest- puters for small business." ed in a two-night seminar to A $10 registration fee will be conducted by Clayton cover both sessions. Junior College's Small Bus-9:30 p.m. on Monday and 363-7788.

iness Development Center For additional information, contact the Small Bus-Scheduled between 7 and iness Development Center at

THE ATLANTA JUUKNAL 7/18//9 Tennis Courses Planned

Special beginning and intermediate tennis courses will begin next week at Clayton Junior College. The classes meet Tuesdays and Thursdays for five weeks, beginning July 24. Morning classes for beginners will be from 8:45-10:15, with evening classes from 5:30-7. Intermediate classes will be from 7:15-8:45 p.m. Jack Hanson will be the instructor. Students must provide their own tennis balls, racquets and shoes. Call 363-7717 for further information and to sign up. Registration is limited to 24

'College Now' Inks Applicants

Clayton Junior College continues to accept applications for its "College Now" program of special classes for creative and talented eighth and ninth grade students.

ing through Aug. 9.

Courses offered this year

beginning July 9 and continu- rate, tennis and the Civil War will meet Tuesdays and in Georgia.

Most classes will meet for rate tuition fee and students

two mornings each week, conversation and customs, ka- days and the other classes Thursdays. Each course carries a sepa-

include: music theory, folk two hours, beginning at either may enroll in more than one For more information, call

Classes in the program in-clude activities, lab work and nealogy, energy sources, life the scheduled courses will field trips. They will meet through a microscope, French meet Mondays and Wednes-

July 3, 1979 Openings for CJC special classes NEWS/DAILY

Applications are still being accepted for the "College Now" Program, an annual summer offering of special classes at Clayton Junior College for creative and talented students who will be eighth or ninth graders this

Classes in the program, scheduled two mornings each from the week of July 9 through August 9, will provide activities, laboratories, and field trips for participants.

Courses offered this year include: music theory, folk the Civil War in Georgia. Most classes will meet for Applications are still being offering of special classes at who will be eighth or ninth

Classes in the program, scheduled two mornings each from the week of July 9 through August 9, will provide activities, laboratories, and field trips for

Courses offered this year

include: music theory, folk guitar, creative writing,

genealogy, energy sources, life through a microscope, french conversation and customs, karate, tennis, and the Civil

Most classes will meet for two hours, beginning at 8:30 or 10:30 a.m. Six of the scheduled offerings will meet each Monday and Wednesday, and five other classes will meet on Tuesdays

To reserve a place in class, or

FULTON NEIGHBOR 2/13/80

Dr. Paul McCracken, a former member of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, will speak on

'inflation and Productivity: Are

There Solutions?" at 11 a.m. Wednes-

The lecture is open to the public.

day at Clayton Junior College.

to obtain complete information about the "College Now" graders this fall.

participants.

War in Georgia.

and Thursdays.

accepted for the "College Now"

French conversation and customs, karate, tennis, and two hours, beginning at 8:30 or 10:30 a.m. Six of the scheduled offerings will meet each Monday and Wednesday, and five other classes will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

To reserve a place in class, or to obtain complete information about the "College Now" program,

SOUTH FULTON RECORDER Thursday, June 28, 1979

program, call the Office of Community Services at 363-

separate tuition fee, and

Applications Taken

For CJC Program

program, an annual summer 7717. Each course carries a Clayton Junior College for students may enroll in more creative and talented students than one subject.

genalogy, energy sources, Services at 363-7717. Each enroll in more than one life through a microscope, course carries a separate subject. CJC Offers guitar, creative writing, call the Office of Community tuition fee, and students may

'Snack Plan'

Program

Do you have children or habitual nibblers in your

If so, a free two-hour source scheduled next week 3t Clayton Junior College could help you develop a snack plan at your house. Planned from 7 until 9 p.m. on Wednesday, July 18, the program will offer hints on how to enjoy casual eating without shor-Changing nutrition.

KATHY WAGES, Clayton County extension home economist, will serve as the instructor for the onenight course. Included in The snack plan will be explanation on how to create xdelicious and nutritious snacks for the whole family, with special emphasis on sugarless recipes. To reserve a place in the class, or to obtain additional information, call the College's Office of Community Services at 363-

Tennis lessons set at Clayton Junior

Special beginning and intermediate tennis courses will begin next week at Clayton Junior College.

Offered through the Office of Community Services, the courses will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning July 24. Morning classes for beginning students will meet from 8:45 a.m. until 10:15 a.m., while evening classes will meet from 5:30 p.m. until 7 p.m. Intermediate classes will beheld between 7:15 p.m. and 8:45 p.m. only.

Jack Hanson will be the instructor for the five courses which are designed to improve techniques of those who are familiar with the game and to stress fundamentals of the game for beginners.

Students will be required to provide their own tennis balls, rackets and tennis shoes.

To reserve a place in class or obtain complete information about these or other non-credit courses offered by the College, call the Office of Community Services at 363-

Registration will be limited to 24 participants in each

Style, Fashion Short Course Begins, CJC mation about this and other be covered.

A special three-week short course on proper styling will begin next week at Clayton Junior College. Offered through the Office of Community Services, the course will meet each Tuesday and Thursday morning for the next three weeks, beginning July 10. Entitled 'style, fashion and your personal image," the class will meet from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. each session. Sylvia Shelnutt will be the instructor for the three-week course, designed to help participants create their individual style, and to use common sense and economy in making fashion decisions. Personality, self-image, wardrobe planning and selection, accents and accessories, color and proportion, make-up, and hair style will

Drawing, Sketching Class Slated

Adults who have a desire to learn more about drawing and sketching may want to enroll in a five-week daytime class to be offered on Designed to teach partici-Spants to draw with pencil, charcoal, pen and ink, or pastels, no experience is necessary to enroll in the >class. Scheduled between 310:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Seach Monday and Wednesday for five consecutive weeks, the first class will meet for the first time on clude composing, shading, perspective, and a number of Frealism to sketches and drawing. To be taught by

To reserve a place in class. or to obtain complete infor-

Styling Course

A special three-week

short course on proper styl-

Is Offered

by Clayton Junior College,

non-credit courses offered

call the Office of Community Services at 363-

RESTAUR

'Assert Yourself, 'is Advice

Have you ever wondered about attenuation? Do psychological terms such as "actualize" leave you puzzled and confused? If so, you're not alone. Clayton Junior College recently gave a group of interested citizens a chance to learn more about these and other facets of the popular field of Assertiveness Training. Not so long ago, people like Dr. Timothy Leary were advising us all to "tune in, turn on, and drop out." Now, in the late '70s, an important phrase seems to be "assert yourself." To let the general public find out more about this watch-phrase of our times, the college held a day-long workshop entitled, "Assertiveness at Work." It was the holds as a community service.

By KEVIN KINCHELOE

Special to the Sun

The workshop, which concentrated on the ways assertiveness could be used on the job, lasted 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and featured such activities as an "awareness wheel" presentation, relaxation exercises and role playing.

OF THE 23 people who attended the workshop, 18 were women, perhaps a sign of society's changing views about woman's cultural role. Most of those present seemed outspoken and uninhibited. Evidently, they viewed "Assertiveness at Work" as more a chance to improve their knowledge of Assertiveness Training than as an introduction to

In charge of the workshop was Bill McKinnon, a bearded and youthful counselor from the Ridgeview Institute. McKinnon, who holds a Specialist degree in counseling and has worked at the Clayton Mental Health Center, started the day off with a flourish by drawing. To be taught by Kitty Fischer, a $30 registration fee does not in-

To reserve a place in class, clude the cost of supplies.

wished to smoke during the sessions. Eventually, the smokers agreed to abstain until the break. AFTER THIS object lesson in Assertiveness Training, McKinnon explained that urging his audience to participate in a discussion on what should be done about those who the concept was evolved in the 1940s by California pyschologist Arnold Lazarus. Assertiveness took thirty years to expand beyond its home state and catch on at large with such books as I'm O.K., You're O.K. and Pulling Your Own Strings now selling into the millions.

"Lord knows with the changes going on in today's society, we all feel stress," says McKinnon. Over a period of 100 years from 1850 to 1950, society doubled its knowledge at least 420 times. The past 29 years have seen even more change.

We react to this stress, he claims by binding anger" in our bodies and taking it out on our loved ones. This process is callted "attenutation." As we become used to stressful situations, or "figures," they fade into the "ground" and we become attenuated.

THE GOAL OF assertivemess is to bring these feelings out of the ground. McKinnon said he believes that since a basic part of AT is "the idea of taking care of me," training must comprise the physical, emotional, and spiritual aspects of life, as well as the intellectual. How does he relate the idea of assertiveness with the ethic of 'turning the other cheek?' Religion is based on belief in God and God's creations. As we grown and become more actualized, he says we become more pleasing to our creator.

Actualization, far from being a complicated term, means becoming more in touch with ourselves and our feelings. McKinnon says any differences in assertiveness and religion are in application. INCLUDED IN the materials at the workshop were a list of 12 tenets of assertiveness, another list of what were termed "Irrational Western Ideas," such as, "one should be quite upset over other people's problems and disturbances," and bibliography of related books for those who wished to learn more on their own. The audience was asked to give examples of their own experiences in utilizing assertiveness. One woman told of her experience in standing up to her boss while another described an incident in which she and a group of hospital workers used a form of assertiveness on a doctor who was throwing a temper tantrum.

When asked if he saw his work producing beneficial results, Counselor McKinnon replied simply, "Always." "By contending with the idea of taking car s of others at the expense of ourselves. "We are better able to function as individuals. We feel a heck of a lot better about ourselves, and that's the

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN July 5, 1979 Small Business Computer Course

Small business owners who are considering the option two night seminar to be conducted by Clayton Junior

9 and 11, the seminar will include information on "small computers for small business." A $10 registration fee will cover both sessions. Participants will learn how to decide whether to lease or to buy a computer, or whether to purchase the ser-

Experienced computer specialists will teach the course, another in a series of programs offered for small business owners

THE ATLANTA JOURNAL July 2, 1979
Seminar on Computers

A two-day seminar giving information on small computers for small businesses will be held from 7:30-9 p.m. July 9 and 11 at Clayton Junior College. The seminar, to be conducted by the college's Small Business Development Center, will inform participants on how to decide whether to lease or buy a computer or if the services of a data processing company would be better. Computer specialists will teach the course. A $10 registration latest in a long series of such psychologically oriented presentations that Clayton Junior SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN July 5, 1979 Drawing, Sketching Course Offered class. Scheduled between 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday for five consecutive weeks, the first class will meet for the first time on July 9.

Adults who have a desire to learn more about drawing and sketching may want to enroll in a five-week daytime class to be offered during July and early August at Clayton Junior College.

of other tricks that will add realism to sketches and

munity Services at 363-7717.

buy a computer, or whether to purchase the services of a data cialists will teach the course,

For additional information, 7788. To reserve a place in class, call Clayton Junior College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717 or to obtain complete information about this and other Designed to teach partici-The course will include non-credit courses offered pants to draw with pencil, composing, shading, by Clayton Junior College, charcoal, pen and ink, or perspective, and a number call the Office of Compastels, no experience is necessary to enroll in the CJC computers: lease, buy or rent A $10 registration fee will cover Center next week. Scheduled between 7 and 9:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday, July 9 and 11, the seminar will by Clayton Junior College's include information on "small Small Business Development computers for small business."

Small business owners considering leasing or buying a computer would be interested in a two-night seminar conducted

Small Business Seminar 7/11/79

Small business owners in the south Atlanta area will have an opportunity to learn ways to improve their cash flow and financial conditions during a three-night seminar. Sponsored by Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center, the seminar begins at 7 o'clock July 16 and will continue July 18 and 23 at the same time. Essentials of cash budgeting will be taught, as well as hints on how to borrow and how to manage assets in order to minimize debt and expenses. Cost is $15 per person. Call 363-7788 for more information.

both sessions. Participants will learn how to decide whether to lease or to > processing company. Emphasis will be placed on the growing availability of inexpensive computers, and the growing need for up-to-the-minute nformation. Experienced computer spe-

another in a series of programs offered for small business owners

contact the Small Business Development Center at 363-

ing will begin next week at Clayton Junior College. Offered through the Office of Community Services, the course will meet each o Tuesday and Thursday morning for three weeks, beginning July 10. Entitled "Style, Fashion and Your Personal Image," the class will meet from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. each session. Sylvia Shelnutt will be the instructor of the three-week course, designed to help participants create their individual style, and to use common sense and economy in making fashion decisions. Personality, self image, wardrobe planning and selection, accents and ac-

THE COURSE will inother tricks that will add clude the cost of supplies.

during July and early August at Clayton Junior College.

Kitty Fischer, a $30 B registration fee does not in-To reserve a place in E class, or to obtain complete information about this and fered by Clayton Junior Col-I lege, call the Office of Community Services at 363-at Clayton Junior College. No experience is necessary to enroll in the class, which is designed to teach participants to draw with pencil, charcoal, pen and ink or pastels. The classes will be held cessories, color and proportion make-up and hair style

To reserve a place in class, or to obtain complete information about the course, interested persons can call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

Sketching Class

Adults who want to learn on more about drawing and

- sketching may want to en-

· roll in a five-week daytime

d class beginning this month

Is Offered

will be covered.

from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday beginning July 9. The course will include composing, shading, perspective and other techniques that add realism to sketches and drawings.

of leasing or buying a computer would be interested in a Small Business Development Center Scheduled 7-9:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday, July vices of a data processing company. Emphasis will be placed on the growing availability of inexpensive computers, and the growing need for up-to-the-minute infor-

For additional information, phone the Small Business Development Center at 363-7788. reserve a place in class, call Clayton Junior College's Office of Community Services at 373-7717.

fee will cover both sessions. Call 363-7788 for more de-

July 18

A free seminar on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) will be conducted at Clayton Junior College on Wednesday evening, July 18.

A requirement for taking college credit courses at CJC and other institutions, the seminar has been designed To discuss a number of topics about the SAT and to present hints on how to do well on other standardized

MS. JUDY Nichols, admissions counselor at the two-year institution, will conduct the seminar. She will relate the types of questions asked on the test, how It is scored, and how easy it vis for almost everyone to equalify for entrance to college.

In addition, all entrance requirements of the College will be explained.
For complete information about next week's free seminar, or to make an apipointment with an admissons counselor, call the Office of Admissions and Records at 363-7748.

SATseminar set at Clayton

A free seminar on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) will be conducted at Clayton Junior College on Wednesday evening, July 18.

A requirement for taking college credit courses at CJC and other institutions, the seminar has been designed to discuss a number of topics about • the SAT and to present hints on how to do well on other standardized tests.

Ms. Judy Nichols, Admissions Counselor at the two-year institution, will conduct the seminar. She will relate the types of questions asked on the test, how it is scored, and how easy it is for almost everyone to qualify for entrance to college.

In addition, all entrance requirements of the College will be explained.

For complete information about next week's free seminar, or to make an appointment with an admissions counselor, call the Office of Admissions and Records at 363-7748.

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS Got a Nibbler?

Maybe CJC Course can help your family habitual nibblers in your the "snack plan," will be To reserve a place in next week at Clayton whole family, with of Community Services at Junior College special emphasis on 363-7717. could help you develop a "snack plan" at your house. Planned from 7 until 9 p.m. on Wednesday, July 18, the program will offer hints on how to enjoy casual eating without short-changing nutrition.

Kathy Wages, Clayton County Extension Home Economist, will serve as the instructor for the one-

Do you have children or night course, Included in sugarless recipes. an explanation on how to the class, or to obtain If so, a free two- create delicious and additional information, hour course scheduled nutritious snacks for the call the College's Office

BUSINESS SEMINAR

Small business owners in the south Atlanta area will Olearn ways to improve their cash flow and financial condi-Tions during a three-night seminar scheduled by Clayton _Junior College's Small Business Development Center

The seminar, which begins on Monday, July 16, will continue on Wednesday, July 18, and the following Monday. July 23. Each session will begin at 7 p.m. and conclude at 9:30, and a $15 fee covers all three. Essentials of cash budgeting to ensure that receipts are sufficient to cover cash obligations will be covered during the short course. Participants will be offered hints on how do borrow and how to manage assests in order to minimize

For additional information, contact the SBDC at 363-7788. To reserve a place in class, call the College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

Tennis Offered

at Clayton

Special beginning and 10:15 a.m., while evening Students will be intermediate tennis classes will meet from required to provide their courses will begin next 5:30 until 7 p.m. Inter- own tennis balls, rackets, week at Clayton Junior mediate classes will be and tennis shoes.

Office of Community instructor for the five-Services, the courses will meet on Tuesdays and improve techniques of Thursdays, beginning those who are familiar July 24. Morning classes with the game, and to for beginning students stress fundamentals of will meet from 8:45 until the game for beginners. in each session.

held between 7:15 and 8:45 p.m. only.

Offered through the Jack Hanson will be the week courses, designed to

To reserve a place in class, or to obtain complete information about these or other noncredit courses offered by the College, call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717. Registration will be limited to 24 participants

Tennis

Classes

Special beginning and courses will begin next week at Clayton Junior

Offered through the Office of Community

Services, the courses will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning July 24. Morning

classes for beginning

students will meet from 8:45 until 10:15 a.m., while evening classes

o will meet from 5:30 until

∞classes will be held between 7:15 and 8:45 >p.m. only.

Jack Hanson will be the instructor for the designed to improve techniques of those who are familiar with the game, and to stress

Ofundamentals of the

To reserve a place in class, or to obtain

Complete information about these or other non-

Tcredit courses offered by шthe college, call the Office of Community

Services at 363-7717.

Registration will be limited to 24 participants

The first of three administrations of the Scholastic

Aptitude Test (SAT) for Fall

Quarter entering students at Clayton Junior College will be given by the two-year institution near Morrow on

A requirement for admission into college credit

programs, students interested in taking the SAT > do not have to sign up prior to the testing. Scheduled at 6 p.m. in Room G-132, the test lasts for approximately three hours and an $8.25 fee

is payable at the time of

Remaining SAT administrations scheduled prior to க் will be given on August 9 and

September 6. New students have until September 4 to z file all applications and credentials with the Office

the start of the Fall Quarter in each session.

S.A.T.

Thursday evening.

testing.

Is Given

game for beginners.

courses,

five-week

7:00 p.m. Intermediate

Slated

intermediate

College.

Special Tennis Classes Held

Special beginning and intermediate tennis courses o will begin next week at Clav-

ton Junior College.
The courses are being offered through the Office of ∞ Community Services and will meet Tuesdays and > Thursdays, beginning next Tuesday.

Morning classes for beginning students will meet from 8:45 to 10:15 a.m. while evening classes will meet from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Intermediate classes will be held between 7:15 and ₩ 8:45 p.m. only.

Jack Hanson will instruct the courses and students will be required to provide their own tennis balls, rackets J and shoes.

To reserve a place in 말 class, persons may contact the Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

Seminar helps cash flow and financial conditions

Small business owners in the south Atlanta area will learn ways to improve cash flow and financial conditions during a Three-night seminar scheduled ⇒by Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center (SBDC) next week.

The seminar, which begins on Monday, July 16, will continue on Wednesday, July 18, and the following Monday, July 23. Each session will begin at 7 Ep.m. and conclude at 9:30, and a $15 fee covers all three. Essentials of cash budgeting to ensure that receipts are

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN

Clayton Junior College on Wednesday evening, July

college credit courses at

CJC and other institutions,

the seminar has been designed to discuss a number of topics about the

Ms. Judy Nichols,

Admissions Counselor at course scheduled next week

'snack plan" at your house.

Planned from 7 until 9 p.m.

program will offer hints on Scholastic Aptitude Test testing.

SATS are a requirement for admission into college credit programs. Students interested in taking the SAT

do not have to sign up prior p.m. in Room G-132, the test 363-7723.

evening, July 26.

standardized tests.

Free SAT Seminar To Be Held

A free seminar on the the two-year institution,

Scholastic Aptitude Test will conduct the seminar.

(SAT) will be conducted at She will relate the types of

A requirement for taking one to qualify for entrance

SAT and to present hints about next week's free on how to do well on other seminar, or to make an

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN 7/12/79

Snack Seminar Offered, C.J.C.

Do you have children or County Extension Home habitual nibblers in your Economist, will serve as the

If so, a free two-hour course. Included in the at Clayton Junior College planation on how to create could help you develop a delicious and nutritious

how to enjoy casual eating class, or to obtain additional without short-changing information, call the Upcoming events

The first of three three hours and an $8.25 fee administrations of the is payable at the time of

(SAT) for fall quarter Remaining SATS are entering students at Clayton scheduled prior to the start

Junior College will be given of the fall quarter will be at the school on Thursday given on August 9 and to the testing. Scheduled at 6 plication procedures, call

Kathy Wages, Clayton munity Services at 363-on Wednesay, July 18, the sugarless recipes.

sufficient to cover cash obligations will be covered during the short course. Participants will be offered hints on how to borrow and how to manage assets in order to minimize debt and expenses. For additional information, contact the SBDC at 363-7788. To reserve a place in class, call the College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717. The three-part seminar is another in a series of short courses for small business owners, offered by Clayton Junior College through its Small Business Development Center.

questions asked on the test,

how it is scored, and how easy it is for almost every-

In addition, all entrance

For complete information

appointment with an admissions counselor, call the Office of Admissions instructor for the one-night

"snack plan." will be an ex-snacks for the whole family, with special emphasis on

To reserve a place in the College's Office of Com-

lasts for approximately

September 6. New students have until September 4 to file

all applications and credentials with the Office of

For complete information about the SAT or other ap-

Admissions and Records.

and Records at 363-7448.

requirements of the College

will be explained.

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN July 12, 1979 Business Seminar Held To Improve Cash Flow

Small business owners in session will begin at 7 p.m. course. Participants will be Office of Community Sercash flow and financial conditions during a three-night Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center (SBDC) next

The seminar, which begins on Monday, July 16, will continue on Wednesday, July 18, and the following Monday, July 23. Each

Business Briefs

Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center will offer a two-night seminar next week for area small business owners who are considering the option of leasing or buying a com-

Wednesday, will include information on "small computers for small the south Atlanta area will and conclude at 9:30 p.m., offered hints on how to vices at 363-7717. learn ways to improve their and a $15 fee covers all borrow and how to manage

July 19, 1979

Essentials of cash debt and expenses.

assets in order to minimize another in a series of short budgeting to ensure that receipts are sufficient to cover cash obligations will 363-7788. To reserve a place Small Business Developbe covered during the short in class, call the College's ment Center.

courses for small business

The three-part seminar is

Seminar Is Scheduled

Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center will both sessions. offer a two-night seminar next week for area small business owners who are considering the option of leasing or buying a com-

The seminar, to be held from 7 until 9:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday, will include information on "small computers for small

July 19, 1979

Participants will learn how to decide whether to buy or leas a computer, or whether to purchase the services of a data processing

The seminar will emphasize the growing availability of inexpensive computers and the growing need for up-to-the-minute information.

July 18, 1979

the services of a data processing The seminar, to be held from 7 company until 9:30 p.m. Monday and The seminar will emphasize the Business Briefs growing availability of inexpensive computers and the growing need for up-to-the-minute information.

A $10 registration fee will cover

Participants will learn how to decide whether to buy or leas a computer, or whether to purchase

Seminar Is Scheduled

Seminar Is Scheduled

both sessions.

Business Development Center will both sessions. offer a two-night seminar next week for area small business owners who are considering the option of leasing or buying a com-

The seminar, to be held from 7 until 9:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday, will include information on "small computers for small

Clayton Junior College's Small A $10 registration fee will cover

Participants will learn how to decide whether to buy or leas a computer, or whether to purchase the services of a data processing

The seminar will emphasize the growing availability of inexpensive computers and the growing need for up-to-the-minute information.

Seminar Is Scheduled

Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center will both sessions. offer a two-night seminar next week for area small business owners who are considering the option of leasing or buying a com-

The seminar, to be held from 7 until 9:30 p.m. Monday and tion on "small computers for small

A $10 registration fee will cover

Participants will learn how to decide whether to buy or leas a computer, or whether to purchase the services of a data processing

The seminar will emphasize the Wednesday, will include informa- growing availability of inexpensive computers and the growing need for up-to-the-minute information.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN July 19, 1979 Tennis Courses To Begin At CJC

Clayton Junior College.

Offered through the Ofuntil 10:15 a.m., while even- beginners. ing classes will meet from

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

The first of three ad ministrations of the

Scholastic Aptitude Test

(SAT) for fall quarter entering students at Clayton

Junior College will be given by the two-year institution

near Morrow on Thursday

A requirement for admission into college credit programs, students interested in taking the SAT

do not have to sign up prior to the testing. Scheduled at 6 p.m. in Room G-132, the test lasts for approximately three hours and an $8.25 fee

August 1, 1979

evening, July 26.

Special beginning and 5:30 until 7 p.m. to provide their own tennis intermediate tennis courses Intermediate classes will be balls, rackets, and tennis will begin next week at held between 7:15 and 8:45 shoes. p.m. only.

July 26, 1979

is payable at the time of

REMAINING SAT administrations scheduled prior to the start of fall quarter will be given Aug. 9 and Sept. 6. New students have until Sept. 4 to file all applications and credentials

with the Office of Admis-

about the SAT or other application procedures, call

363-7723. Clayton Junior

College can administer the SAT only for its prospective

For complete information

sions and Records.

beginning July 24. Morning who are familiar with the classes for beginning stu- game, and to stress fun- vices at 3637717. dents will meet from 8:45 damentals of the game for Students will be required each session

SAT Slated At Clayton Jr.

To reserve a place in JACK HANSON will be class, or to obtain complete fice of Community Services, the instructor for the five- information about these or the courses will meet on week courses, designed to other non-credit courses of-Tuesdays and Thursdays, improve techniques of those fered by the College, call the Office of Community Ser-

> Registration will be limited to 24 participants in

SAT dates set at CJC

The first of three administrations of the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) for Fall Quarter entering students at Clayton Junior College will be given by the two-year institution near Morrow on Thursday evening, July 26.

A requirement for admission into college credit programs, students interested in taking the SAT do not have to sign up prior to the testing. Scheduled at 6 o.m. in Room G-132, the test lasts for approximately three hours and an $8.25 fee is payable at the time of testing.

Remaining SAT administrations scheduled prior to the start of the Fall Quarter will be given on Aug. 9 and Sept. 6. New students have until Sept. 4 to file all applications and credentials with the Office of Admissions and Records.

For complete information about the SAT or other application procedures, call 363-7723. Clayton Junior College can administer the SAT only for its prospective

Exam Given Second Time

Another administration of the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) for Fall Quarter entering students at Clayton Junior College will be given by the two-year institution near Morrow tomorrow eve-

A requirement for adi mission into college credit programs, students interested in taking the SAT do not have to sign up prior to the testing, according to a spokesman.

Scheduled at 6 p.m. in Room G-132, the test lasts Sfor approximately three hours and an $8.25 fee is upayable at the time of tes-

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 8/2/79 "EMERGENCY" BLOODMOBILE SET

The Atlanta Regional Red Cross Blood Program will dispatch an "emergency" bloodmobile unit to the Clayton Junior College campus Thursday, August 2. The bloodmobile will operate 9:30 a.m. — 1 p.m. in the student lounge area on the lower level of the Library/Student Center Building. Directions will be provided for off-campus donors. The drive was made necessary by increased Atlanta-area demands for whole blood, a spokesman said.

2 Deadline Date Set On Tuesday

Students who plan to enter Clayton Junior College for the first time this fall must have all credentials and application forms in by Monday. These forms can be either mailed or dropped by the registrar office. Registration for fall quar-

Her will be Sept. 24 with classes starting Sept. 25. Classes conclude Dec. 14. 平 For more information 二 call 363-7723.

August 1, 1979 Thursday

The Clayton County Water Authority will meet at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the headquarters on Lake Harbin Road in

The Atlanta Regional Red Cross Blood Program will dispatch an "emergency" bloodmobile unit to the Clayton Junior College campus Thursday, and the public is encouraged to donate blood from 9:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. in the student lounge area on the lower level of the Library-Student Center Building.

Exam Given

A requirement for admission into college credit oprograms, students interested in taking the SAT do not have to sign up prior to the testing, according to a

Scheduled at 6 p.m. in for approximately three payable at the time of tes-

The final SAT administration scheduled prior to the start of the Fall Quarter

New students have until Sept. 4 to file all applicathe Office of Admissions and Clayton Junior College can administer the SAT only of for its prospective students. the spokesman said.

application procedures, residents may call 363-7723.

CJC Offers Beginning, Intermediate Tennis

Special beginning and courses, designed to imintermediate tennis courses prove techniques of those will begin next week at who are familiar with the Clayton Junior College. Offered through the Of- fundmentals of the game for fice of Community Services, beginners. the courses will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, to provide their own tennis beginning July 24. Morning balls, racquets and tennis classes for beginning stu-shoes. dents will meet from 8:45 until 10:15 a.m., while even- or to obtain complete ining classes will meet from formation about these or 5:30 until 7 p.m. other non-credit courses of-Intermediate classes will be fered by the College, call the instructor for the five-week participants in each session.

game, and to stress Students will be required

To reserve a place in class, held between 7:15 and 8:45 Office of Community Services at 363-7717. Registra-Jack Hanson will be the tion will be limited to 24 Blood need 'urgent' The Atlanta Region Red Cross has issued an urgent appeal for blood donations from citizens throughout the metropolitan area and two blood drives are scheduled in Clayton County. The appeal is due to what a spokesman called "a crisis situation" in the amount of blood available to the 115 hospitals in Clayton and 63 other counties throughout the northeast portion of the state. "Poor donor turnout at blood drives and summer vacations has reduced the supply desperately," said the spokesman. Only 112 units were on the shelves of the blood center in Atlanta Tuesday night and orders of at least 300 were expected for Wednesday

NEWS/DAILY

The Red Cross has also announced special drives will be held at the Student Center at Clayton Junior College Thursday from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. and at the Civil Defense Building in Jonesboro on Friday from 10 a.m. The blood center requires 750 units of blood daily.

Due to this low blood supply, hospitals have been

All blood types are needed .- SCOTT HAMPLE.

canceling elective surgery.

THE ROCKDALE CITIZEN August 1, 1979

SAT Testing The first of three adminis- three hours and an $8.25 fee

Aptitude Test (SAT) for Fall testing. Quarter entering students at Clayton Junior College will

A requirement for admission into college credit programs, students in- about the SAT or other apterested in taking the SAT do plication procedures, call not have to sign up prior to 363-7723. Clayton Junior Colthe testing. Scheduled at 6 lege can administer the SAT p.m. in Room G-132, the test only for its prospective stulasts for approximately dents.

trations of the Scholastic is payable at the time of Remaining SAT adminisbe given by the two-year trations scheduled prior to institution near Morrow on the start of the Fall Quarter Thursday evening, July 26. will be given on August 9 and September 6.

For complete information

NEWS/DAILY

CLAYTON WATER AUTHORITY

RED CROSS BLOODMOBILE

of Admissions and Records. For complete information about the SAT or other u application procedures, call = 363-7723. Clayton Junior College can administer the SAT only for its prospective stu-

Second Time

Another administration of the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) for Fall Quarter entering students at Clayton Junior College will be given by the two-year institution near Morrow tomorrow evening.

∞ spokesman.

Noom G-132, the test lasts hours and an $8.25 fee is will be given on Sept. 6. H tions and credentials with Records.

For complete informaion about the SAT or other

SOUTH FULTON RECORDER

SAT Tonight At CJC

CJC Fall SOUTH FULTON RECORDER Enrollment

Summer Quarter classes at Clayton Junior College will end next week and final examinations will continue into the following week. Credit classes in the College's "regular session" which began on June 19 will end on Tuesday, August 21, but classes for the special "second session" which began on July 25 will continue through Friday, August 24.

Registration for Fall classes will be conducted on September 24, and classes will begin the following day. Fall Quarter classes will continue through December 13.

New students who plan to enroll in in Fall Quarter classes should contact the College's Office of Admissions and Records at 363-7723 for complete information. All applications and credentials for credit programs must be filed with the College by September

H & C SUN 8/23/79 CIC Sets SAT

Class This Week

A free preparation seminar for students who are planning to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test SAT) will be conducted on the Clayton Junior College campus next week. A requirement for admission into credit programs at the two-year institution, the types of questions on the SAT, and how it is scored, will be explained. In addition, hints will be offered on how to do your best on stan-

CLAYTON Junior Colege will administer the SAT to prospective students on Thursday, Sept. 6. The deadline for new students to file all applicants and credentials is Sept. 4. The free seminar will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the 'round building" on the CJC campus. For more information about the SAT or other entrance requirements of the College, call the Office of Admissions and Records at 363-7723.

Enrollment Deadline Is Tuesday

New students who plan to enroll in fall quarter credit classes at Clayton Junior College have until next week to meet a couple of important deadlines. The application deadline of for new students is set for Tuesday and the last adminonistration of the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) prior to the start of the fall quarter is scheduled for Sept. 6.

To be considered pro-To be considered for adgrams, new applicants must complete and return all required forms to the college at least 20 days before the registration day of the quar-

Registration day for the ☐fall quarter is set for Sept.

The SAT, which last ap-The SAT, which last approximately three hours, will be given in Room G-132, Sept. 6 beginning at 6 p.m. It is not necessary to sign wup prior to testing, but participants are encouraged to phone the Office of Counseling and Testing so that most questions may be answered prior to the testing time.

An $8.25 testing fee is payable at the time of tes-

For further information persons may call 363-7723.

For complete information about the SAT or other application procedures, call 363-7723. Clayton Junior College can administer the SAT only for its prospective

8/9/79

Another administration of the for Fall Quarter entering Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) students at Clayton Junior

August 16, 1979 Sept. 24 hours and an $8.25 fee is payable at the time of testing.

> and Records. For complete information about the SAT or other application procedures, call 363-7723. Clayton Junior College can administer the SAT only for its

Preparing

A free preparation seminar for students who are planning to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) will be conducted on the Clayton □ Junior College campus next

A requirement for admission into credit programs at the two-year institution, the types of questions on the SAT, and how it is scored, will be explained.

In addition, hints will be explained offered on how to do your best on standardized tests.

Clayton Junior College will administer the SAT to propective students on Sept. 6. The deadline for new students to file all applicants and credentials is Sept 4.

The free seminar will bein at 7:30 p.m. in the round building on the CJC campus. For more information about the SAT or other entrance requirements of the college, persons may callthe Office of Admissions and Records at 363-7723.

Small Business Course

Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center will sponsor an o all-day program on "how to ш expand vour sales through exporting." Scheduled for small business owners, the program will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude at 4:30 p.m. Phone 363-7717 or 363-7788 for complete information.

of short seminars for small business owners will be presented at Clayton Junior

"Marketing and Sales

Promotion" is the topic of a two-night seminar,

scheduled for Monday and Wednesday, October 1 and 3.

Three-hour sessions will begin at 6:30 p.m. each evening, and a $15

registration fee covers both

College next week.

College will be given by the two-year institution near Morrow on Thursday evening, August 9. A requirement for admission into college credit programs, students interested in taking the SAT do not have to sign up prior to the testing. Scheduled at 6 p.m. in Room G-132, the test lasts for approximately three

The final SAT administration scheduled prior to the start of the Fall Quarter will be given on September 6. New students have until September 4 to file all applications and credentials with the Office of Admissions prospective students.

CJC SAT Test Seminar 8/23/79

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS 8/22/79

Free SAT Seminar

how it is scored, will be SAT or other entrance explained. In addition, requirements of the hints will be offered on College, call the Office of how to do your best on Admissions and Records

THE SOUTH FULTON NEIGHBOR 8/22/79

South Fulton residents may participate in a free

The seminar will be conducted on the Clayton Junior

A requirement for admission into credit programs at the two-year institution, the types of questions on the SAT and preparation seminar for students who are planning to take

Area College

Seminar Set

Clayton Junior College

will administer the SAT

to prospective students on Thursday, September

6. The deadline for new students to file all applicants and credentials

The free seminar will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the

"round building" on the

CJC campus. For more information about the

is September 4.

at 363-7723.

A free preparation seminar for students who are planning to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test

(JAT) will be conducted on the Clayton Junior College campus next

A requirement for admission into credit

programs at the two-year institution, the types of questions on the SAT, and standardized tests.

the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

how it is scored will be explained.

College Campus.

file all applicants and credentials is September 4.

CJC campus.

A free preparation sion into credit programs at seminar for students plann- the two-year institution, ing to take the Scholastic the types of questions on Aptitude Test (SAT) will the SAT, and how it is be held on the Clayton scored, will be explained. In Junior College Campus addition, hints will be of-Thursday, Sept. 6. The fered on how to do your best deadline for new students to on standardized tests.

For more information The free seminar will about the SAT or other begin at 7:30 p.m. in the entrance requirements of the College, call the Office "round building" on the of Admissions and Records prove their mental and Progressive muscle

relaxation skills, deep physical well-being.

seminar.

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS October 3, 1979

Relaxation, It Takes Skill, Learn How at CJC

A one-day seminar on will learn ways to im-"relaxation skills" will be offered at Clayton Junior College next Scheduled between 9 breathing exercises, and a.m. and 5 p.m., the a simple concentration training course will be technique will be taught given on Tuesday, demonstrated and October 9. A $15 practiced during the registration fee is required. Twiggs will offer hints on formation, call the learning how to relax, College's Office of even in stressful Community Services at Instructor Hugh obtain complete in-situations. Participants 363-7717. HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 10/4/79 ARTHRITIS IS TOPIC OF DISCUSSION

A free health education series offered by Clayton Junior College will continue this week. "Arthritis: what can be done? will be the topic of discussion for a two-hour program Tuesday Oct. 9, beginning at 7 p.m. Designed to help participants understand health-related problems, programs in the series are offered without charge.

To register, or to obtain complete information, contact the college's Office of Community Services at 363-

Blood Drive Proved To Be Big Success

By RICK HAMMOCK Staff Writer

The Atlanta Regional Red Cross' blood drive last Thursday at Clayton Junior College turned out to be a Clayton Junior College. successful venture.

"The Red Cross was hoping to obtain about 50 pints of blood to help out the summer shortage of blood here in Atlanta," Jerry Atkins, the Public Information Director at Clayton Junior College, said.

"However, almost 56 pints were obtained at the blood drive to surpass the expectations of the Red Cross. The Red Cross was very pleased with the response of the community and wishes who participated," Atkins continued.

Thursday, between 9:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. in the student lounge area of the Library/Student Center Building at

If you are going to college, Mark Date of SAT test at Clayton Junior

The success of the Red Cross at the Clayton Junior College location makes the area a prime target for future efforts by the Red Cross.

"The Red Cross holds a regularly scheduled blood drive every six months and has already scheduled its October blood drive for the Clayton Junior College location," Atkins said. "We here at Clayton Junior College are proud of our association with the Red Cross and look forward to doing to express its gratitude to everyone whatever is necessary to benefit the community," Atkins said.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR

8/15/79 Clayton Junior Holds Final Exams—Page 6B

Registration Begins September 24

Summer Quarter classes at Clayton Junior College will end next week and final examinations will continue into the following week. Credit classes in the College's regular session, which began on June 19, will end next Tuesday, but classes for the special second session which began on July 25 will continue Finals for students enrolled in the regular session will begin on Wednesday and continue through Aug. 28, while second session exams will be given on Aug. 27 and 28.

August 15, 1979 THIS WEEK CJC summer classes end

Summer Quarter classes at Clayton Junior College will end next week and final examinations will continue into the following week.

Credit classes in the college's 'regular session," which began June 19 will end Tuesday, Aug. 21, but classes for the special 'second session," which began on July 25 will continue through Friday, Aug. 24.

Finals for students enrolled in the regular session will begin Wednesday and continue through Tuesday, Aug. 28, while second session exams will be given on Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 27 and 28. Students enrolled in summer quarter classes will enjoy almost a month break before the fall quarter begins. Registration for Fall classes will be Sept. 24, and classes will begin the following day. Fall quarter classes will continue through Dec. 13.

New students who plan to enroll in fall quarter classes should contact the college's office of admissions and records at 363-7723 for complete

THE CLAYTON *NEIGHBOR 2/13 Dr. Paul McCracken, a former member of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, will speak on 'inflation and Productivity: Are day at Clayton Junior College.

The lecture is open to the public.

8/29/79 CJC Deadlines Nearing

To register, or to New students who plan to programs, new applicants her score. enroll in Fall Quarter credit classes at Clayton Junior College have until next week to meet a couple of important deadlines, according to Annette B. Satterfield, Director of Admissions and

The application deadline for new students is set for Tuesday, Sept. 4, and the last administration of the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) prior to the start of the Fall Quarter is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 6.

admission into credit

must complete and return all required forms to the College at least 20 days before the registration day of the quarter, Mrs. Satterfield pointed out. Registration day for the Fall Quarter is set for Monday, Sept. 24.

The College participates in the Institutional Admissions 7744) Testing Program which permits them to administer admission because of his or administered on Dec. 13.

The SAT, which lasts approximately three hours, will be given in Room G-132, beginning at 6 p.m. on the 6th. It is not necessary to sign up prior to testing, but participants are encouraged to phone the Office of Counseling and Testing (363-Fall Quarter classes for both day and evening the SAT to its prospective students will begin the day students. The SAT is following registration required for the purpose of (Tuesday, Sept. 25) and academic placement, and no continue until the last of final To be considered for applicant is refused examinations are near Morrow on Thursday evening, July 26. admission into college credit programs,

The first of three ad- have to sign up prior to minstrations of the the testing. Scheduled at Scholastic Aptitude Test 6 p.m. in Room G-132, the (SAT) for Fall Quarter test lasts for apentering students at proximately three hours Clayton will be given by and an $8.25 fee is the two-year institution payable at the time of testing.

A requirement for ministrations, scheduled procedures, call 363-7723. prior to the start of the Clayton Junior College Fall Auarter will be given can administer the SAT students interested in on August 9 and Sep- only for its prospective taking the SAT do not tember 6. New students students.

have until September 4 to file all applications and credentials with the Office of Admissions and Records.

For complete information about the SAT Remaining .SAT ad- or other application

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS August 15, 1979

CJC Schedules Exams

Summer Quarter classes at Clayton Junior College will end next week and final examinations will continue into the following week. Credit classes in the College's "regular session" which began on June 19 will end on Tuesday, August 21, but classes for the special "second session" which began on July 25 will continue through Friday, August 24. Finals for students enrolled in the regular session will begin on Wednesday and continue through Tuesday, August 28, while second session exams will be given on Monday and Tuesday, August 27 and 28.

Students who are enrolled in Summer Quarter classes will enjoy almost a month break before the Fall Quarter begins. Registration for Fall classes will be conducted on September 24, and classes will begin the following day. Fall Quarter classes will continue through December 13.

New students who plan to enroll in Fall Quarter classes should contact the College's Office Admissions and Records at 363-7723 for complete information. All applications and credentials for credit programs must be filed with the College by September 4.

Blood Drive Begins

By RICK HAMMOCK Staff Writer

The Atlanta Regional Red Cross Blood Program will dispatch an "emergency" bloodmobile unit to the Clayton Junior College campus tomorrow.

The bloodmobile will operate between 9:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. in the student lounge on area on the lower level of the Library-Student Center - Building.

· Directional assistance to the location will be provided

+ for off-campus donors. "We are expecting as much as 50 pints of blood Afrom the drive' Jerry Atkins, public information director at Clayton Junior College said.

"During the months of February and March, donations of blood reached up to ≥ 100 pints, but the school population was much larger then," Atkins continued. The Red Cross is encouraging members of the community to participate in the blood drive because of the lower student population in the summer months at the 岁 college. The Clayton Junior College campus was chosen as the site of the bloodmobile visit because of its conve-ਰ nient location and proximity ш to large areas of population "Community participation is imperative if a summer blood shortage is to be corrected," Atkins said. "We encourage everyone to come out to Clayton Junior College tomorrow and help the Red Cross in its quest to serve the meti tan Atlanta area," Atkins commented.

Wednesday, August 22, 1979

CJC To Offer Seminar A free preparation seminar for students Clayton Junior College will administer the who are planning to take the Scholastic SAT to prospective students on Thursday

A requirement for admission into credit

Aptitude Test (SAT) will be conducted on Sept. 6. The deadline for new students to. the Clayton Junior College campus next file all applicants and credentials is Sept. 4.

The free seminar will begin at 7:30 p.m. in programs at the two-year institution, the the "round building" on the CJC campus. types of questions of the SAT, and how it is For more information about the SAT or scored, will be explained. In addition, hints other entrance requirements of the College will be offered on how to do your best on call the Office of Admissions and Records a

Clayton Junior Enrollment Deadlines Told

classes at Clayton Junior to Annette B. Satterfield, the Scholastic Aptitude quired forms to the college

Offered CJC Seminars

opening course in the Fall

Quarter series will be Dan

Fazekas, a member of the faculty at the University of Georgia's Small Business

Development Center

(SBDC). Prior to returning to the University to pursue his doctoral degree, Fazekas had many years of marketing and sales

In dealing with the practical application of marketing approaches to management experience.

New students who plan to director of admissions and Test (SAT) prior to the start testing fee is payable at the enroll in Fall Quarter credit registrar. College have until next week dents is Tuesday, Sept. 4, to meet deadlines, according the last administration of

The deadline for new stu- day, Sept. 6.

management, Fazekas will discuss ways to identify types of customers for various products and services. In addition, he will explain how location, promotion, and distribution channels used by business

To enroll in this six-hour

Community Ser-

course, contact the Office of vices (363-7717) at Clayton

Junior College. For in-owners affects their sales.

of the fall quarter is Thurs-New applicants must complete and return all re-Small Business Owners at least 20 days before the registration day of the quarter Monday, Sept. 24. The College participates in the Institutional Admissions Testing Program which permits them to administer the SAT to its prospective students. The SAT is required for the purpose of academic placement, and no applicant is refused admission because of his or her score. The SAT, which lasts approximately three hours, will be given in Room G-132, at 6 p.m. on the 6th. It is not necessary to sign up prior to testing, but participants are encouraged to phone the Office of Counseling and Testing (363-7744) so questions may be answered prior to the testing time. An $8.25 time of testing. For information about admission requirements into credit programs call the office of admissions and records (363-7723) or visit the office in the Administration Building. Fall Quarter classes for day and evening students will begin the day after registration and continue until the last of final examinations.

CJC Posts Deadlines For Students

registrar.

The application deadline Tuesday, Sept. 4, and the proximately three hours, for Thursday, Sept. 6.

TO BE considered for admission into credit programs, new applicants must complete and return all required forms to the college at least 20 days before the registration day of the for Monday, Sept. 24.

New students who plan to sions Testing Program ministration Building. enroll fall quarter credit which permits them to adclasses at Clayton Junior minister the SAT to its both day and evening stu-Annette B. Satterfield, ment, and no applicant is until the last of final excost. director of admissions and refused admission because of his or her score.

last administration of the will be given in Room G-132, Scholastic Aptitude Test beginning at 6 p.m. on the (SAT) prior to the start of 6th. It is not necessary to the fall quarter is scheduled sign up prior to testing, but participants are encouraged to phone the Office of Counseling and Testing (363-7744) so that most questions may be answered

$8.25 testing fee is payable at the time of testing. quarter, Mrs. Satterfield about admission requirepointed out. Registration ments into credit programs day for the fall quarter is set may be obtained by calling the Office of Admissions prior to the testing time. An

Complete information

The College participates and Records (363-7723) or in the Institutional Admis-visiting the office in the Ad-

ENRY AND CLATTON SON 9/20/7 Health Programs At CJC programs dealing with health-related problems will be offered on the Clayton Junior College campus next

"How to cope with stress and depression" will be discussed during a two-hour 25, beginning at 7 p.m.

in the quarterly 'health education series" will take place on successive form or by phoning 363-Tuesday evenings from 7 7717.

The first of four free until 9 p.m. Drawing on the sionals in the community,

Fall quarter classes for ministered Dec. 13. As a state institution, College have until next week prospective students. The dents will begin the day fol- Clayton Junior College ofto meet a couple of impor- SAT is required for the pur- lowing registration (Tues- fers a wide variety of tant deadlines, according to pose of academic place- day, Sept. 25) and continue programs at a minimum

. VIOLIN RECITAL by Homer W. Holloway, Jr., for new students is set for THE SAT, which last apwill be presented at Clayton Junior College Wednesday, beginning at 12 noon. Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Free and open to the public.

NEWS/DAILY October 5, 1979 Relaxation Taught

A one-day seminar on how to relax even in stressful College next week. Scheduled between 9 a.m. being.

and 5 p.m., the training course will be given on Tuesday, October 9. A $15 registration fee is required. Instructor Hugh Twiggs will offer hints on learning

"relaxation skills" will be situations. Participants will offered at Clayton Junior learn ways to improve their mintal and physical well-Progressive muscle relaxation skills, deep > simple concentration technique will be taught, demonstrated and practiced during the seminar. To register, or to obtain complete information, call breathing exercises, and a the College's Office of Community Services at 363-

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 9/27/79 SEPTEMBER

Clayton Junior College in Morrow begins its Lyceum Series of visiting speakers, lecturers, musicians and artists, a program which has in the past attracted such nationally known writers and speakers as New Yorker Magazine film critic Pauline Kael and historican Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. The series usally lasts through January, and a complete schedule can be obtained from the college's public information department at 363-7748.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 10/4/79 MARKETING SEMINAR SET

A detailed review of marketing opportunities through international trade will be the topic of an allday seminar for small business owners next week. Sponsored by Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center (SBDC), the seminar will be conducted on the college campus 9 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 12. A $20 registration fee includes the Complete information on assistance and incentives will be provided by the University of Georgia SBDC's International Trade Development Center in cooperation with state and federal agencies.

To enroll in the all-day seminar, contact the Office of Community Services (363-7717) at Clayton Junior College. For more information, call the SBDC office at

CJC Lecture Planned

Dr. Andrew Brimmer, president of an economic and financial cousulting firm in Washington, D.C., will discuss "Economics: Change and Challenge" during a lecture at Clayton Junior College next week. Dr. Brimmer will be featured in the College's

Lecture Hall, Room G-132, at 11 a.m. on Monday, October

8. A presentation in a series of lectures and events

sponsored by Lyceum in Commerce at the University celebration of the College's of Pennsylvania, and at tenth anniversary, the Harvard University. program will be open to the public without reservation or Brimmer served as a faculty member at Michigan State University, the University of School of Finance and that body until 1974.

He entered full-time government service in the Department of Commerce in A former member of the 1963, and two years later was Federal Reserve Board, Dr. named Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Affairs. He was appointed to the Reserve Board in 1966 California, the Wharton and served as a member of program on Tuesday, Sept. cerns. REMAINING programs

Time will be allotted for participants to ask questions and to discuss con-

knowledge of health profesthe free programs will provide up-to-the-minute information

No fee will be charged, bu anyone planning to attend is encouraged to register in advance by using a Community Services registration

College Non-Credit Courses Scheduled To Begin Registration is being campus near Morrow, a courses will be offered in completed for more than 80 number of non-credit cooperation with area Parks completed for more than 80 number of non-credit cooperation. Depart City Auditorium

lege this fall. college's Office of Community Services, non-credit programs have been designed to help community residents in reaching personal and professional goals. Courses range from one-day or one-evening seminars to 10-week sessions.

Most classes will begin the week of Sept. 24 through

Included on the fall quarter schedule are a number of business and professional courses dealing with computers, salesmanship, supervision, communication, real estate sales, typing, bookkeeping, shorthand and oth-

Courses in personal growth include rapid reading divorce adjustment, public speaking, style, fashion, personal image and oth-

Sports and recreation offerings include karate, fly fishing, discorobics, slimnastics and yoga.

Arts, music and leisure will include such topics as 5string banjo, folk guitar, beginning piano, macrame, photography, drawing, painting, community band and community chorus.

A series of courses on you and your home includes one on antique furniture, trees and shrubs, houseplants, interior design and others. In addition to offering a full program of courses on the Clayton Junior College

Fall Reg. At CJC Monday

Registration for Fall Quarter classes at Clayton Junior College will be conducted next Monday (September 24), and classes will begin the following

Students will register between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. or between 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. for the 11-week quarter. New students will attend orientation oprograms prior to registering for classes.

For complete information registration about requirements and procedures, Scontact the Office of Adomissions and Records (phone 1363-7723) in the Administration

Offered through the Dog obedience training Clayton Community Center, bers of the general public education units are awarded non-credit courses sched- courses also will be offered and Recreation Depart- City Auditorium. uled at Clayton Junior Col- at M.D. Collins High School ments at the Jonesboro Rec- Community Services reation Center, the North courses are open to all mem- lege credit but continuing

NEWS/DAILY Thursday, September 6, 1979

CJC Lecture Series

about the results. They have good reason to be.

foreigh affairs, Dr. Morton H. Halperin.

Theme Of Anniversary

Staff Writer Since February, Robert Bolander and Rob Taylor have been working to put together a lecture program which they feel would be appropriate to "Change

And Challenge," the theme of the tenth anniversary of Clayton Junior College.

Now, after many telephone calls and much negotiation, they are ecstatic

This fall CJC will host a major SALT debate as well as addresses by: a leading liberal writer, Arthur Schlesinger Jr.; a leading conservative writer,

William A. Rusher; two economists, Dr. Andrew Brimmer and Dr. Donald Ratajczak; an ecologist and author, Dr. Barry Commoner; and an expert in

For those more inclined to music, they have engaged Leonard Rose, former lead cellist with the New York Philarmonic, who will give a recital on

DR. MORTON HALPERIN ander, dean of students at CJC, is particularly excited about the SALT

"This will be the major SALT debate in Atlanta and the state of Georgia," he said. "The two speakers we have are knowledgeable and have debated the issue

Advocating the SALT treaty will be Dr. Herbert Scoville Jr., vice president of the Arms Control Association and former technical director of the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project for the U.S. Department of Defense. Arguing against the treaty will be retired Lt. General Daniel Graham, co-chairman of the Coalition for Peace Through Strength and former Deputy Director of the

Because Congress is supposed to be considering the SALT treaty, possibly

Dr. Mike Petersen, an assistant professor of political science at CJC, will moderate the debate, and Bolander said the format will insure equal time for Another contrast of opinions will come with the lectures by Schlesinger and Rusher. Schlesinger, a former assistant to John F. Kennedy and a recent advocate of Sen. Edward Kennedy for the presidency, is the author of several books and many articles espousing the liberal viewpoint. He will speak on Rusher, who will speak on October 25, has been publisher of the National

About Commoner, author of "The Politics Of Energy" and othe books,

Brimmer, who will speak on "Economics: Change and Challenge," is a former member of the Federal Reserve Board, and Halperin, scheduled for Bolander and Taylor, who is director of student activities at CJC, are currently working to confirm the list of speakers for winter term. "Our winter

October 23, is the current director of the Center for National Security Studies.

program will be of the same calibre as the one this fall," Bolander said.

Review, a conservative magazine, since 1957. He is tha author of a syndicated even voting on it, during October, Bolander believes this debate might have influence on the votes of Georgia Senators Herman Talmadge and Sam Nunn.

both parties and the opportunity for audience participation newspaper column called "The Conservative Advocate."

Bolander said, "He is a natural if you're talking about ecology.

debate, which is scheduled for October 3, at 7 p.m.

Central Intelligence Agency.

Courses do not carry col-

to obtain more information persons may call 363-7717

Since most classes carry limited enrollments, the col-

Registration will continue through Sept. 28.

October 18, 1979 NEWS/DAILY

Thursday

•LECTURE by Dr. Donald Ratajczak, director of the Economic Forecasting Project at Georgia State University, will speak "on keeping up with economic changes" during a free Lyceum lecture series presentation, scheduled at 12 noon in the lecture hall (Room G-132) at Clayton Junior •CJC SPEAKER, Dr. Donald Ratajczak, director of the Economic Forecasting Project at Georgia State University, will speak during a noon lecture Thursday at Clayton Junior College. Topic: "Keeping up with economic

Tuesday

•CJC SPEAKER, Dr. Morton H. Halperin, director of the Center for National Security Studies and a former deputy assistant secretary of Defense, will speak on "America" role in world affairs" during an 11 a.m. lecture Tuesd Clayton Junior College.

ARTHUR SCHLESINGER JR.

Communication Workshop

An all-day workshop de- chronic lateness or absensigned to help both subor- teeism, the assigning and-or dinates and supervisors or receiving of extra responmanagers enhance their sibilities, the accepting andability to communicate ef- or giving of criticism, and fectively will be offered at other topics. Clayton Junior College on Tuesday, Oct. 16.

A $20 registration fee for Scheduled between 9 a.m. the course includes lunch. and 6 p.m., the "asser- To register, or to obtain tiveness at work" course more information, call the will emphasize the use of Office of Community Serassertive techniques in diffi- vices at 363-7717. The class

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 10/10/79 COMMUNICATION WORKSHOP

cult situations. Participants size will be limited, so early will learn how to deal with reservations are important.

An all-day workshop designed to help both subordinates and supervisors or managers enhance their ability to communicate effectively will be offered at Clayton Junior College Tuesday, Oct. 16.

Scheduled 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., the "assertiveness at work" course will emphasize the use of assertive techniques in difficult situations. Participants will learn how to deal with chronic lateness or absenteeism, the assigning and/or receiving of extra responsibilities, the accepting and/or giving of criticism, and other topics. Previous exposure to assertiveness training will be helpful for the workshop, but is not required. A $20 registration fee for the course includes lunch.

To register, or to obtain more information, call the college's Office of Community Services at 363-7717. The class size will be limited, so early reservations are

Bookkeeping Course For Small Business

A two-night seminar on "simplified bookkeeping" for small business owners will be conducted at Clayton

Junior College next week Sponsored by the college's Small Business Development Center, three-hour sessions will be held Monday and Wednesday, Oct. 29 and 31, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

A $15 registration fee covers both sessions. Small business owners will receive tips on preparing and maintaining needed records without hassles. Also included will be information on meeting internal revenue requirements.

For more information about the course, phone the Small Business Development Center at 363-7788. To register, phone the Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

Registration Continues At CJC For Non-Credit Offerings

Registration is being completed for more than 80 non-credit courses scheduled at Clayton Junior College this fall.

Offered through the College's Office of Community Services, non-credit programs have been designed to help comreaching personal and professional goals. Courses range from one-day or one evening seminars to tenweek sessions. Most classes will begin the week of September 24-

Included on the fall quarter schedule are a number of business and professional courses dealing salesmanship, supervision, communication, real estate, sales, typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, and others. Courses in personal growth include rapid reading, divorce adjustment, public speaking, style, fashion, and personal image, and others. Sports and recreation offerings include karate, fly fishing, discorobics, slimnastics, and yoga, while classes in arts, music and leisure will include such topics as 5-string banjo, folk guitar, beginning piano, macrame, photography, drawing, painting, community band, and community chorus.

A series of courses on cludes one on antique furniture, trees and shrubs, houseplants, interior design, and others.

In addition to offering a full program of courses on the Clayton Junior College campus near Morrow, a number of non-credit at M. D. Collins High School in College Park. Dog obedience training courses will be offered in cooperation with area Parks and Recreation Departments at the Jonesboro Recreation Center, the North Clayton Community Center, the Riverdale Community Center, and the College Park City Auditorium. Community Services courses are open to all members of the general public, and there are no minimum educational requirements or entrance tests required. Courses do not carry college credit, but continuing education units are awarded and cer tificates given for some conferences and courses. To register for a class, or to obtain more information, call 363-7717 between 8 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Registration will continue through September 24-28, the first week of clas-

October 27, 1979 WEEKEND

Clayton Junior College. Morrow. (FREE) A symposium exploring the historical development of philosophies and policies about the environment. 6:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 29: "Post World War II Developmental Patterns in Clayton County." Co-sponsored with Revnolds Nature Preserve. In room G-132. 363-7717.

Former Georgia Governor Carl Sanders will speak. 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 28. 363-

Dr. Barry Commoner, director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems, will speak on "Man, Nature and Technology." 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 31. 363-7735.

THE FAYETTE NEIGHBOR 2/14
Clayton Junior College is offering a course about marketing products next Scheduled for Monday and Wednesday, the course will provide hints for South Metro businessmen on how to improve their sales ability.

There is a $15 fee for the course. For more information, South Metro businessmen can call 363-7788.

Clayton college offers personal growth

November 6.

CJC Business Classes Offered

Another series of short seminars for small business the C JC campus will begin owners will be presented at with a Monday and Wed-Clayton Junior College this nesday program on October fall, according to Perry L. Woodward Jr., director of the Small Business Development Center (SBDC)

Seven seminars will be conducted during October, November, and early December, sponsored jointly by the College's Office of Community Services and the Small Business Administration.

An extension service of CJC's division of business, the Small Business Development Center works closely with the Georgia SBDC network and other related agencies and organizations to provide business seminars. In addition, information and counseling for small business owners is available free of charge.

Fall quarter offerings on nesday program on October 1 and 3 dealing with "marketing and sales

On Friday, October 12, an all-day program will provide information on "how to expand sales through exporting," and a two-evening program on October 15 and 17 will deal with "inventory control for small businesses.

'Income tax avoidance' will be discussed during a three-part program on November 12, 14, and 19, and information on "how to apply for an SBA loan" will be provided during a Saturday seminar on December 8.

For more information about any of the small business seminars scheduled, call Woodward in the SBDC at 363-7788.

NEWS/DAILY Uctober 3, 1979
DEBATE ON SALT II TREATY will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the lecture hall (G-132) of Clayton Junior College. Speaking for the treaty will be Dr. Herbert Coville, vice president of the Arms Control Association. Speaking against the treaty will be Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham, retired, co-chairman of the Coalition for Peace Through Strength.

pleted for more than 80 Clayton Junior College this fall. Offered through the College's Office of Community Services, non-credit programs have been designed to help community residents in reaching personal and professional goals. Courses > ning seminars to ten-week Most classes will begin the week of Sept. 24-28.

range from one-day or one-eve-

Included on the fall quarter schedule are a number of "business and professional" courses dealing with computers, salesmanship, supervision, communication, real estate sales, typing, bookkeeping, shorthand and others.

Courses in "pesonal growth" include rapid reading, divorce adjustment, public speaking, style, fashion, and personal image and others. "Sports and recreation" offerings include karate, fly fishing, discorobics, slimnastics, and yoga, while classes in "arts, music and leisure" will include such topics as 5-string banjo, folk guitar, beginning piano, macrame, photography, drawing, painting, community band and community chorus. A series of courses on "you and your home" includes one on antique furniture, trees and shrubs, houseplants, interior design, and others.

In addition to offering a full program of courses on the Clayton Junior College campus near Morrow, a number of non-credit courses also will be offered at M.D. Collins High School in College Park. And, dog obedience training courses will be offered in cooperation with area Parks and Recreation Departments at the Jonesboro Recreation Center, the North Clayton Community Center, the Riverdale Community Center

Registration is being com- non-credit courses scheduled at and the College Park City

Auditorium. Community Services courses are open to all members of the general public, and there are no minimum educational requirements or entrance tests required. Courses do not carry. college credit, but "continuing education units" are awarded and certificates given for some conferences and courses.

Communication Workshop Set

An all-day workshop, designed to help both subordinates and supervisors or managers enhance their ability to communicate effectively, will be offered at Scheduled between 9 a.m.

is not required. A $20 registration fee for the course includes lunch. To register or to obtain information persons amay call the college's Office of Community Services at be limited, so early reserva-

and 5 p.m., the Assertive-

Gateness or absenteeism, the cassigning and or receiving of criticism and other topics.

363-7717. The class size will

NEWS/DAILY

Clayton Junior Compo Oct.

Thess At Work course will oemphasize the use of assertive techniques in difficult situations. Participants will learn show to deal with chronic

Cextra responsibilities, the Paccepting and or giving of Previous exposure to assertiveness training will be helpful for the workshop, but tions are important.

college's Office of Comscheduled for the home in- Basic Interior Design.

munity Services, courses in Home Decorating and County Fire and Police Departments will serve as in-

Antique Furniture for be-scheduled for Wednesdays

ginners is a six-week course tween 7 and 9 p.m.

sure what they want, the each Monday class will meet weekly be-

Weapons Project for the Department of Defense; as deputy director for research and assistant director for scientific intelligence for the Central Intelligence

Agency; as assistant director in science and technology for the U.S. Arms

Control and Disarmament

Agency; and as director of the Arms Control Program for the Carnegie Endowment

Lt. Gen Graham, who

for International Peace.

For those who are curious four week course beginning about antiques but are not Sept. 24 between 7 and 9 p.m. The class will deal with key ingredients in making Growing Trees and yards attractive. A six week class on houseplants and how they need tender loving care will begin Sept. 27. The professional approach to plant decor and proven techiques in helping plants to survive the winter months will be covered.

Decorating for a Traditional Look is a six week course beginning Sept. 27. Participants will learn the art of choosing and using furniture and accessories. The basic fundamentals of color, fabrics, room arrangements and accessories will be covered in another class on Basic Interior De-

It is a nine week course beginning Sept. 25. A free one night class on the Selection of Top uality Fruits and Vegetables and Techniques on How to Keep

Them Fresher Longer will be offered Oct. 2.

currently serves as cochairman of the Coalition for Peace through Strength, worked as a research professor with the University of Miami's Washington Center for Advanced International Studies; as director of the Defense Intelligence Agency; and as deputy director of the Central In-

The first in a series of free lecture programs and cultural events in celebration of Clayton Junior College's tenth anniversary, the SALT debate will begin at 7 p.m. in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132).

telligence Agency. He served in the U.S. Army from 1943-1976.

Dance Group Will Perform

A well-known Atlanta based dance company, the -Ruth Mitchell Dance Company, will perform at Clayton Junior College Jan. 30.

The company will present Tan hour-long program beginning at noon in the Lecture Wiall (Room G-132).

All performances by the group are presented with the joint support of the Georgia Council for the Arts and Humanities and the National □Endowment for the Arts and in offered at no charge.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR Wednesday, September 12, 1979
Clayton Junior Deals With Home

Non-Credit Courses Will Be Offered

than 80 non-credit courses offered by Clayton Junior College this fall is a series of classes dealing with care for the home

Offered through the and Houseplants.

Growing Trees and Shrubs inar scheduled for Sept. 27 between 7 and 9 p.m.

clude Making Your Home Making Your Home Se- structors. Secure, Antique Furniture, cure is a one-night free sem-

Junior College, will serve as moderator for the debate.

Equal time for both parties will be provided and audience participation will

The author of books of foreign policy and foreign affairs, Dr. Scoville has held a number of key positionsin

Washington. He served as technical director of the

be encouraged.

Graham, Scoville Will Debate SALT II Treaty At CJC

Dr. Herbert Scoville Jr., Political Science at Clayton during a special program scheduled at Clayton Junior College next Wednesday, Oct. 3. The Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT),

A topic of nationwide

concern will be debated

Washington, D.C., will speak in favor of the SALT agreement, while retired Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham, director of special projects currently under heavy for the American Security debate in Congress, will be Council Education Foundiscussed by two speakers dation, will speak against who know the subject and the treaty. have debated the issue ex-

Dr. Michael Petersen, Assistant Professor of Armed Forces Special

vice president of the Arms

Control Association in DEBATE ON SALT II TREATY will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the lecture hall (G-132) of Clayton Junior NEWS/DAILY Wednesday in the recture han to labor. Herbert Coville, College. Speaking for the treaty will be Dr. Herbert Coville, vice president of the Arms Control Association. Speaking against the treaty will be Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham, retired, co-chairman of the Coalition for Peace Through Strength.

> October 19, 1979 NEWS/DAILY

•SEMINAR: an overview of small business management, will be held at Clayton Junior College from 9:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday. A $20 fee includes lunch. For information, call 363-7788.

•CJC SPEAKER, Dr. Morton H. Halperin, director of the Center for National Security Studies and a former deputy assistant secretary of Defense, will speak on "America" role in world affairs" during an 11 a.m. lecture Tuesday Clayton Junior College.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN October 4, 1979
How to Relax

A one-day seminar on given Tuesday, Oct. 9. A sful situations. 'relaxation skills' will be $15 registration fee is re- To register, or to obtain offered at Clayton Junior quired. Scheduled 9 a.m.-5 p.m., will offer hints on learning munity Services at 363the training course will be how to relax, even in stres- 7717.

Instructor High Twiggs the college's Office of Com-complete information, call

Sunday

 CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE Tenth Anniversary Celebration will be held Sunday. Former Gov. Carl E. Sanders will be the featured speaker at 3 p.m. on the upper level of the Student Center Building. An Open House will be held between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. Public invited.

SOUTH FULTON NEIGHBOR 2/13

course about marketing products next day, the course will provide hints for South Metro businessmen on how to

There is a $15 fee for the course.

Metro businessmen can call 363-7788.

October 28, 1979

For more information, South

mprove their sales ability.

Clayton Junior College is offering a

Scheduled for Monday and Wednes-

By SAM HODGES Staff Writer At a time when the SALT treaty appears in jeopardy because of the by the U.S. Senate. CJC is calebrating its tenth anniversary with a fall program of alleged Soviet threat in Cuba, two men with very differing opinions will be at Clayton Junior College to debate whether the treaty should be ratified lectures and cultural events entitled "Change And Challenge," and the opening event is the SALT debate, set for 7 p.m. Wednesday in the college auditorium (room G-132). The public is welcome and there is no admission

Dean of Students Robert Bolander was primarily responsible for arranging the SALT debate, and in picking speakers for it he went to an organization supporting the treaty and an organization opposing it, asking each for the best speaker they

WEEKEND December 1, 1979
Clayton Junior College. Morrow. Noted cellist Leonard
Rose, a member of the Juliard School of Music faculty, will perform works by Beethoven, Brahms, Francoeur, Debussy, Schumann and Chopin. 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2. 363-7743. (FREE) The fourth annual holiday Madrigal Dinner, a French Christmas feast with music, dancing and drama. 7 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Dec. 7-8. $6. 363-

By KEVIN KINCHELOE tice your base palm strokes leaves? Do you want to bone season's medical T. V. and other karate moves up on medical terminology shows as well as your own Do you feel a need to prac- among autumn's falling to help you understand this

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR

November 7, 1979 Monday, November 12

Clayton Community Band meets at 7 p.m. for rehearsal at Clayton Junior College in room G-101.

South Metro Atlanta Dental Hygienists Society meets at 7:30 p.m. at Clayton Junior College

If so, then Clayton Junior second decade, but work College is ready to lend and expansion continue. assistance in those and

This year marks CJC's tenth year of service to the Program. Its job, according community. In June of 1965, to Kathie Robichaud, "is to reach out to the comthe Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia authorized a junior college for Atlanta's community services, Ms. Robichaud shares her southern metropolitan area. responsibility with Director Rick Sanchez and other completed just over four staff members.

THE PROJECT was

years later. Sept. 25 will Ms. Robichaud points out herald the start of Clayton's that one of the major problems with the program is the apprehension and Intimately involved in the reluctance that many adults life of the college has been feel about the possibility of its Community Services returning to college, or attending for the first time.

As a hand-out puts it, "If you are over 25 chances are ou are uncertain about whether you can juggle work and family responsibilities with a return to school. You may also be worried about your ability to succeed as a student and may wonder is college is the host practical way to reach your goals." IF THIS describes your situation, CJC has a number of offerings which might be of interest. 'Adults Back to College-Some Special Concerns," is an informal and informative two-hour program that will bring you together with college staff and adult students who are successfully meeting the challenge of returning to school. The session will focus on the exciting possibilities

"Adults" is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 23.

Also on the agenda is a general overview entitled 'What's for Me at CJC, and a look at the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) for those who might wish to take credit courses.

One middle-aged homemaker who went back to school for courses in shorthand and typing is able to provide encouragement. 'After taking these continuing education courses and finding out that I could indeed handle them along with my duties as a homemaker and mother, it encouraged me to go on and get a Master's degree in col-

This eventually led to the resumption of her role as an educator, a career that she had given up in order to rear

ASKED what courses are given the best reception by the public, the assistant director replies,". Two categories basically; Personal growth courses, you know, like public speaking and arts and leisurepainting, music, and so on."

This quarter, the former category contains seven course offerings. Included is a seven-week course on assertiveness training by Bill McKinnon who also taught workshops on the same subject, and another called basic psychology for the layman. This last should be of particular interest in our age of "psycho-babble.

Then, of course, there is public speaking.

In the field of Arts and Leisure, you can gain expertise in everything from guitar and piano to flower arranging. There are 14 clas-IN ALL, there are 92 posbibilities designed to lure you to Clayton or keep you there a slightly higher number than in previous Some of the courses are rather unusual or arcane. One combines the latest dance craze with a comparatively new concept of exercise under the port manteau title of "Discorobics." Another teaches you to select fresh

As in past years CJC is featuring several distinguished speakers. Last year, one of their guests was famed film director Frank Capra. Among those invited this quarter are historian Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. who will lecture on the Individual and the Sate.

Dr. Barry Commoner whose latest work is the topical "The Politics of Energy," is scheduled to give a talk on "Man, Nature and Technology.'

Also on hand this fall will be economic expert Donald Ratajczak and celloist

Leonard Rose, along with Whatever your interests, chances are you'll find something at Clayton Junior College to satisfy. Most courses last from six to ten weeks and are inexpensive.

On Agenda Clayton Junior College

As assistant director of faculty and students will combine for an orchestra concert next week.

Concert

The concert is scheduled for noon next Wednesday in Room G-101, and will be open to the public. Performing will be music faculty members Doris Holloway and Jeannine Mor-Martha Wilson, and guest artist Beverly Gilbert. Selections will include the '' works of Stamitz, Vivaldi, Menotti, and Mozart.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN Nationally Known Speakers Tapped for Lyceum

Atlanta economist Donald Ratajczak, foreign affairs expert Morton Halperin, and historian Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. will be just three of the speakers signed up for Clayton Junior College's upcoming Lyceum Lecture Series, marking the college's 10th anniver-

To celebrate the milestone, the college has developed a series of programs dealing with America's role in world affairs, the individual and the state, economics, technology, and fine arts.

Eight programs have been scheulded during fall quarter, each free and open to the

NEWS/DAILY

OPENING the series will be a SALT Debate, planned for Wednesday, Oct. 3.

Speaking in favor of the SALT treaty will be Dr. Herbert Scoville, Jr., vice president of the Arms Control Association and a member of the Board of Advisors of the Center for Defense Information. Arguing against the treaty will be retired Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham, director of special projects for the American Security Council Education Foun-

Dr. Michael Petersen, assistant professor of political science at CJC, will serve as moderator for the debate, scheduled to begin

September 30, 1979

WASHINGTON, D. C. economist Dr. Andrew Brimmer will be featued in an 11 a. m. lecture Oct. 8, and Atlanta economic forecaster Dr. Donald Ratajczak will speak at noon Oct. 18. Dr. Brimmer, a former member of the Federal Reserve Board, is president of an economic and financial consulting firm. Dr. Ratajczak, director of the Economic Forecasting Project at Georgia State University, is well-known locally.

"America's Role in World Affairs" wil be the topic of an 11 a.m. lecture Oct. 23 by Dr. Morton H. Halperin, an expert in foreign affairs. William A. Rusher, publisher of 'National Review' since 1957 and a leading conservative writer, will be featured in a 10 author Dr. Barry Commoner will speak on 'Man, Nature and Technology" during a 7 p.m. program Oct. 31.

ARTHUR Schlesinger Jr., who served as special assistant to the late President John F. Kennedy, will speak on "The Individual and the State" during an evening presentation nov. 6. Currently an Albert Schweitzer Professor of Humanities at the City University in New York, Schlesinger is a leading liberal writer.

Completing the fall quarter schedule of programs will be a Sunday afternoon cello recital by Leonard Rose, considered one of America's finest cellists. Scheduled on Dec. 2, the program will begin at 3 p.m.

DURING the past ten years, a great amount of change has taken place on the Clayton Junior College campus as members of the institution's faculty and staff worked to meet the challenge of providing and improving programs and services for area residents. Thus, the theme Change and Challenge was developed for the 10th anniversary Celebration," said a CJC spokesman.

Programs scheduled during the months ahead have been planned around this general theme. For complete information about any of the programs, call the Office of the Dean of rison, students Tom Bell and

SMALL BUSINESS MANAGEMENT SEMINAR

Designed for small business owners, subjects to be discussed during the day will deal with marketing, management, legal problems, insurance and financial

To register, contact the college's Office of Community Services (phone 363-7717). For additional information, phone the Small Business Development Center at 363-

BLOODMOBILE VISIT SET

The Atlanta Red Cross Blood Services will dispatch a bloodmobile unit to the Clayton Junior College campus

the college campus Wednesday, October 24. Community residents are invited to join members of the college's student body, faculty and staff in the blood program. For complete information, call the Office of

BACK TO COLLEGE

A free Clayton Junior College program entitled 'Adults (Back) To College" Oct. 23 will address some special concerns of adults who are considering entering (or re-entering) college. Phone 363-7723 for complete inplanned on Monday and Wednesday, October 15 and

17. Scheduled between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening, participants will learn how to determine inventory levels, the best purchase order sizes, and other tips on how to meet sales needs while holding down costs. A $15 fee covers both sessions.

management will be the subject of an all-day session on starting and managing a small business. Scheduled between 9:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

on Saturday, October 20, included in the overview will be marketing, management,

legal, insurance and financial concerns. A $20

registration fee includes

To register for any of the courses, contact Clayton

Junior College's Office of Community Services (phone

overview

Clayton Junior College's of a two-part program Small Business Development Center will sponsor three different short courses for small business owners

An all-day program on how to expand sales through exporting will be offered this week, and programs on inventory control and ways to start and manage a small business are planned next will feature 'the five-member Southern Brass Quintet Oct. 31 during a noon pro-

Nic, the Lyceum sponsored

5"Star Spangled Banner, The Federal March," Chester," "Amazing Closer Walk With Thee.' Wednesday noon presentations scheduled at Clayton Junior College throughout the topic of an all-day seminar scheduled on the Claytor Junior College campus Saturday, Oct. 20. Sponsored by the college's Small Business Development Center, the meeting will be held 9:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. A $20 registration fee includes lunch.

Scheduled 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. on the lower level of

Expanding sales through exporting will be discussed

Inventory control for small 363-7717). For additional

Brass Quintet To Be Featured

program will be given in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) Members of the group are Donald Day, trumpet; Kevin Eisensmith, trumpet: George Atkinson, horn; Ronald Rodman, trombone; and Joseph Githens, tuba. Included on the program will be such selections as the

An overview of small business management will be the Student Center Building, the bloodmobile will visit

Community Services at 363-7717.

CJC Sponsors Short Courses

within the next two weeks.

between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on Friday, October 12. Included will be a detailed review of marketing opportunities through international trade, along with complete information on assistance and incentives provided through the University of Georgia's Small business Development Center. A $20 registration fee will include lunch.

businesses will be the topic information, call 363-7788.

Clayton Junior College

Free and open to the pub-

the fall quarter.

Blood Unit

Oa Bloodmobile unit to the Clayton Junior College campus today. The unit will be on the Spublic.

iator March," Holst's "Suite No.1 in E Flat," and Robert Russell Bennett's "Down to the Sea in Ships.'

VIOLINIST HOLLOWAY TO GIVE CJC RECITAL Public Invited To Wednesday Recital Violinist To Give Recital On Wednesday At CJC Homer W. Holloway Jr., where he received a BFA programs scheduled on the degree. Graduate studies followed at the Eastman campus at 12 noon each School of Music where he completed his masters Fall Quarter.

associate professor of violin at Georgia State University, will be featured in a violin recital at Clayton Junior College Wednesday. degree in Music Literature and Violin and was awarded Free and open to the public, the recital will be given in the College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132), beginning at 12 noon... A native Atlantan and a Clayton County resident, Holloway will be accompanied at the piano by his wife, Doris A. Holloway, Associate Professor of Music at Clayton Junior College. Included on the program will be sonatas by Bach, Beethoven and Brahms. Holloway has studied with some of the most famous artist-teachers, including Jascha Heifetz, Joseph Knitzer, Ivan Galamian, Eudice Shapiro and Eduard Melkus. His chamber music coaches have included Jascha Heifetz, John Celentano, Millard Taylor, Francis Tursi, Gregor Piatigorsky, Gabor Rejto and George Micquell.

An active participant on Georgia State University faculty recitals and chamber concerts, Holloway attended Georgia State when it was a division of the University of Georgia and later attended the University in Athens

Fruit Seminar

At CJC Oct. 2

A free seminar on the selection and care of fruits and vegetables will be offered at Clayton Junior College next week.

Kathy Wages of the Clayton County Extension Service will offer hints on how to select top quality fruits and vegetables and zhow to keep them fresher Clonger during the two-hour seminar planned on Tuesday evening, Oct. 2. The free session will begin at 7 Fp.m. on the CJC campus.

a Performer's Certificate in While at Eastman, Holloway was concertmaster of the Eastman Philharmonica under the direction of Howard Hanson. He has appeared as soloist with the Eastman-Rochester Orchestra, the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, the Seventh Army Symphony Orchestra, the Atlanta Community Orchestra, the Georgia State University Symphony Orchestra, the GSU Chamber Orchestra, and numerous other chamber and orchestral groups through the United States and Europe. The husband-wife Holloway recital will be the first in a series of Lyceum-sponsored concerts and

Dr. Ratajczak slates lecture at area college

Dr. Donald Ratajczak, director of the economic forecasting project at Georgia State University and professor of economics, will lecture Oct. 18 at noon as part of Clayton Junion College's Change and Challenge series celebrating the Morrow school's 10th anniversary.

Ratajczak has developed econometric models for the United States, the Southeast and several individual states and is considered one of Atlanta's foremost economic experts.

For more information call the

A former Woodrow Wilson

tute of Technology, he writes a weekly column in the Atlanta

Fellow at Massachusetts Insti-

Clayton Junior College Wednesday throughout the

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS

Clayton Junior College

of this week.

Quarter classes at the following day.

College Offers

A free health education series offered by Clayton

Junior College will conclude

A discussion on "life's blood" will be the topic for the two-hour program planned Oct. 16 beginning at

Designed to help participants understand health-related problems, all programs in the series have been offered without charge.

circulation, diseases and

To register or to obtain complete information per-

College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

S offer participants a look at a community blood programs.

出sons may contact the Tuesday's program will

Health Series

Monday (September 24), p.m. or between 5:30 and

Scoville, Graham Debate On Treaty In First Of CJC Anniversary Series Staff Writer

An advocate of the SALT treaty said in a debate at Clayton Junior College Wednesday night that the treaty is verifiable and would "improve strategic balance" for the United States. His opponent in the debate argued that the treaty is not verifiable and is "lopsided"

Such divergence of opinion was expected in the debate, the first in a series of programs intended celebrate the tenth

Students will register will attend orientation

in favor of the Soviets.

Fall Registration and

Registration for Fall and classes will begin 8:30 p.m. for the 11-week will be conducted next between 10 a.m. and 2 programs prior to

Classes Begin Next Week

LT. GENERAL DANIEL GRAHAM

SaltII

anniversary of CJC. A nearly full auditorium was present to hear Dr. Herbert Scoville Jr. debate in favor of the treaty's ratification and Lt. General Daniel Graham (USA, retired) debate against.

Scoville, vice president of the Arms Control Association and a former assistant director of the CIS, began the debate with a ten minute opening statement in which he said the treaty provides some "very useful firsts" in the effort for arms control.

Wednesday, September 19, 1979

civil defense program, and a weakened U.S. Intelligence force, these advantages put the Soviets in a favorable position over the He said the U.S. needs to have a "war fighting, war winning"

"The treaty will limit the Soviet force strength by 10 percent to one third," he said.

'Also, there will be actual

According to Scoville, the Soviets will be forced to scrap 250 weapon systems if the treaty is ratified. The treaty hardly affects any U.S. program," he Graham, co-chairman of the Coalition for Peace Through

Strength and former deputy director of the CIA, said strategy is the main reason for not ratifying the pact. He argued that the treaty will give the Soviets strategic advantages, and that combined with a superior Soviet reductions in existing

DR. HERBERT SCOVILLE

stockpiles.'

capability. After the opening statements, both speakers answered questions from the audience. The questions went into detail about the Soviet backfire bomber, the Soviet missile systems, and how serious the loss of the U.S. intelligence base in Iran is in verifying Soviet military activities. Graham argued that there is "linkage" between Soviet activities in Cuba, Africa, and other areas in the globe, and their insistance upon the SALT treaty. Scoville said there is no linkage, and that even such conservatives as Sen. Barry Goldwater had admitted as much. In a closing statement, Graham said the treaty is "grossly in favor of the Soviet military machine" and that ratification would mean "risking this republic." Scoville disagreed, saying the treaty places "restraint after restraint" on the Soviet Union, while allowing "a lot of provisions which are useful to the FAYETTE NE IGHBOR 2/14/80 Dr. Paul McCracken, a former member of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, will speak on 'inflation and Productivity: Are There Solutions?" at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Clayton Junior College. The lecture is open to the public.

quarter. New students registering for classes.

For complete information about registration requirements and procedures,

contact the Office of Admissions and Records

(phone 363-7723) in the Administration Building.

Health Series Continues
HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 10/11/79

series offered by Clayton beginning at 7 p.m.

Junior College will conclude

the two-hour program, plan-

A free health education ned on Tuesday, Oct. 16,

A discussion on "life's tact the College's Office of blood" will be the topic for Community Services at

To register, or to obtain complete information, con-

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR October 24, 1979

Monday, October 29 Clayton Community Band meets for rehearsal at 7 p.m. at Clayton Junior College in Room G-101.

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN 10/25/79 Southern Brass Quintet To Perform At CJC

'Southern Brass Quintet" of Atlanta will be featured during a noon program at Clayton Junior College Oct.

bone; and Josepy F Githens, tuba. "Star Spangled Banner," 'The Federal March,

"Chester," "Amazing Grace," "Music for Brass Quintet," and "Just A Closer Walk With Thee.' Day, trumpet; Kevin E.

The five-member Eisensmith, trumpet; George W. Atkinson, horn;

Free and open to the will be such selections as the public, the Lyceumsponsored program will be given in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Members of the group are Donald K.

ZGrace," "Music for Brass Quintet," and "Just A The program will be an-Oother in a weekly series of

Ronald W. Rodman, trom-

At College The Atlanta Red Cross The Atlanta Record Blood Services will dispatch

The unit will be on the lower level of the Student H Center Building from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.
Community residents are invited to join members of 5 the college's student body, faculty and staff in the blood For c For complete information, persons may call the # Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

With Band The Clayton Junior College Band will present a concert next week. structor Bill Gore, the per-

Show Set

王 p.m. on Feb. 21, in Room 吕 G-101. It will be open to the The repertoire will in-formance will begin at 8:30

clude Sousa's "The Glad-

A free seminar on the

To register for the free eseminar, call the College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717. After loss of foods, participants

≥ learning how to prevent the Halso will be provided with Another series of short seminars for small business owners will be presented at Clayton

Junior College this fall,

Seven seminars will be conducted during

October, November, and early December, co-

sponsored by the

College's Office of Community Services and

the Small Business

Fall Quarter offerings

on the CJC campus will begin with a Monday and Wednesday program on October 1 and 3 dealing with "marketing and sales promotion." On Friday, October 12, an all-day program will provide information on "how to expand sales

through exporting," and a two-evening program

on October 15 and 17 will deal with "inventory control for small business" will be the topic of a day-long siminar scheduled on Saturday, October 20, bookkeeping" will be featured during a two-

part program on October

29 and 31. "Income tax avoidance" will be discussed during a three-part program on November 12, 14, and 19,

and information on "how to apply for an SBA loan" will be provided during a Saturday siminar on December 8.

For more information about any of the small business seminars

scheduled, call Woodward in the SBDC at 363-

7788. To register, phone

the Office of Community

Christmas Concert

THE ROCKDALE CITIZEN

A variety of traditi

and contemporary carols

Services at 363-7717.

ember 14.

"How to start and a small

"simplified businesses."

manage

and Administration.

r(SBDC).

Performance Sessions

Workshops designed to improve on-the-job perfor-mance have been scheduled during September and October by Clayton Junior College's Office of Community

The one and two day non-credit workshops were plan-ned to benefit both the employee and the employer.

on "effective report writing" will be the first of these special programs. They are scheduled 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

Thursdays (September 27 and October 11).

Participants will be provided with simple guidelines for planning and rganizing a written report.

An all-day course dealing with interpersonal conflicts as they deal with working environments will be offered

Tuesday, Oct. 2. A number of topics will be discussed to help participants to effec-

The deadline to register is Tuesday, September 25.

"Time management" will be the topic of a day-long workshop scheduled Friday,

Oct. 5. Skills to help one effectively manage valuable time will be taught during Registration must be

PARTICIPANTS in a completed by Friday, Sept.

class planned for Tuesday, Oct. 9, will learn to relax and to improve their mental and physical well-being.

"Relaxation skills training" will include concentration demonstrations and prac-

Both subordinates and the seven-hour course.

tively handle conflicts.

A TWO-DAY workshop

Services.

A "Gone Like the Wind" will be required for entrants. front of the College's swing to the left, go a little Tara Fun Run will begin on Registration forms may Physical Education building more than half the distance the Clayton Junior College be obtained from Dr. Harvill no later than 9:30 a.m. on campus Saturday, Oct. 27, at the college, or at race day, and the fun run the finish line near the and conclude 5,000 meters Southlake Mall 5-9 p.m. will begin at 10 a.m. After lower-level entrance of the (3.1 miles) later at Friday, Oct. 12, through leaving the campus, runners shopping center.

Run will go to the American will be held 9-5). Cancer Society, according to Dr. Avery Harvill, professor of Physical Education. Donations of $3.50 in advance and $5 on race day Participants will meet in "circle" road, runners will categories.

Southlake is on the lower level near Sears.

Thursday, Oct. 25 (except will run down North Lee The first 500 participants 54), cross the tracks and travel Highway 54 across I-

Proceeds from the Fun Sundays, when registration Street (parallel to Highway to cross the finish line will receive "Gone Like the Wind" t-shirts, and trophies The registration booth at 75 until reaching the will be presented to first and entrance of Southlake Mall. second place finishers in Upon reaching the Mall both men's and women's

Southlake Fun Run For Cancer Oct. 27

Southlake Mall will spon-fees are $3.50 in advance, sor a 3.1 mile "Fun Run" to and $5.00 the day of the benefit the American race. Deadline for registra-Cancer Society Oct. 27 tion is 9:30 a.m. the day of beginning at 10 a.m. at the race at Clayton Junior Clayton Junior College. The College at the Physical run will be co-sponsored by Education Building. WATL-TV 36 and WSB

Registration blanks can will be "Let's make cancer be tuned in and entry fees 'Gone Like the Wind.' paid at Southlake Mall from Proceeds from the registra-Oct. 15 until Oct. 25. The tion fees and monies thrown hours of the registration into the Davison's fountain booth will be from 5 p.m. on the lower level at Mon.-Sat. and 1 until 5 p.m. Southlake will be donated to campus Saturday, Oct. 27,

(3.1 miles) later at South-

Run will go to the American Cancer Society, according to

Dr. Avery Harvill, Professor of Physical Education at the College. Donations of $3.50 in advance and $5 on Registration forms may be obtained from Dr. Harvill at the College, or at Southlake Mall between 5 and 9 p.m. Friday, Oct. 12, through Thursday, Oct. 25

(except Sundays, when registration will be held between 9 and 5 p.m.). The registration booth at Southlake is located on the lower

Participants will meet in front of the College's Physical Education Building no later than 9:30 a.m. on race day, and the fun run will begin at 10 a.m. After leaving the College campus,

runners will run down North

Lee Street (parallel to Highway 54), cross the tracks and travel Highway 54

entrance of Southlake Mall. Upon reaching the Mall

"circle" road, runners will

CLAYTON SUN

free and open to the public.

NEWS/DAILY

Friday

call 363-7717.

Monday

October 12, 1979

across I-75 until reaching the level near Sears.

race day will be required for lake Mall.

entrants.

The theme for the race on Sundays. Registration the American Cancer

the finish line near the receive "Gone Like the Wind" t-shirts. Trophies will be presented to first and second place finishers in both men's and women's

Income Tax

The Small Business Development Center at Clayton

Junior College will sponsor a three-part course in income tax preparation and record

keeping for small business

Another seminar in a series of courses scheduled during the fall quarter, the income tax class will meet between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m.

on Monday and Wednesday

A $25 registration fee cov-

A basic review of income tax preparation and record

keeping with an emphasis on legal means of reducing tax liabilities will be included in the course.

For more information,

persons may contact the and again on Nov. 19.

ers all three sessions.

persons may center at 363-7788.

1/17/80

THE ATLANTA Chamber Players will be presented in a noon concert at Clayton Junior College Jan. 23. the concert, to be held in the college's lecture hall (room G-132), is

•CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE Small Business

Development Center will sponsor the Georgia Export

Conference, beginning at 9 a.m. Friday. For information,

*INVENTORY CONTROL FOR SMALL BUSINESS,' the first session of a two-part program, will be offered on the Clayton Junior College campus between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m.

Monday. The program will continue on Wednesday, Oct. 17.

For information, call 363-7717 or 363-7788.

。Class Held

owners next week.

The first 500 participants shopping center.

Tara Fun Run

Goes Like Wind

A "Gone Like the Wind" swing to the left, go a little

Tara Fun Run will begin on more than half the distance

the Clayton Junior College around the Mall, and reach and conclude 5,000 meters lower-level entrance of the Proceeds from the Fun to cross the finish line will

The race will begin at 10 a.m. on the Clayton Jr. College campus at the Physical Education Building. Runners are asked to report no later than 9:30 a.m.

A map of the race course will be available at the registration booth at

In conjunction with the Fun Run, merchants will sponsor a special one-day

CJC Sponsors Three Part Tax Course

Development Center at Clayton Junior College will sponsor a three-part course on income tax preparation and record keeping for smal business owners next week. Another seminar in covers all three sessions.

keeping, with an emphasis tax liabilities, will be in-Development Center (phone Community Services at 363-

February 13, 1980

MEMBERS of the Clayton Junior College Band will be presented in concert during an 8:30 p.m. performance Nov. 20. Directed by Bill Gore, the concert will be given in the College's lecture hall (Room G-132)nd admission will

CLAYTON JUNIOR college music students will be presented in student ensembles during a noon performance in the College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132) Nov. 21. Admission will be free

Clayton Junior College and the Clayton County Parks and Recreation Department, will sing for the "Great Tree Lighting" at Rich's downtown store on Thanksgiving night

The Small Business

series of courses scheduled during the Fall Quarter, the income tax class will meet between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, November 12 and 14, and again on Monday, November 19. A $25 registration fee

A basic review of income e tax preparation and record on legal means of reducing - cluded in the course.

For more information, contact the Small Business ♀ 363-7788). To register, call the College's Office of

Black History Week Observed At CJC

THE CLAYTON Community Chorus, co-sponsored by

according to Perry L. October 10, 1979 Woodward Jr., Director CJC Workshop Slated of the Small Business Development Centedesigned to help both subordinates and supervisors or managers enhance their ability to communicate effectively will be offered at Clayton Junior College on Tuesday, Oct. 16.

Scheduled between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., the "assertiveness at work" course will difficult situations. Participants will learn how to deal with chronic lateness or absenteeism, the assigning and-or receiving of extra responsibilities, the accepting and-or giving of criticism, and other topics.

Previous exposure to assertiveness training will be helpful for the workshop, emphasize the use of but is not required. A $20

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR October 17, 1979

College Question To Be Answered

Three free seminars designed to answer questions and concerns about enrolling in college credit programs will be offered at Clayton Junior College next week. Special concerns by adults who are planning to enter or re-enter college studies will be discussed between 7 and 9

Two nights later, on Oct. 25, a program entitled What's For Me at CJC? will be conducted between 7 and 8 p.m., immediately followed by a seminar on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT)

Tuesday's session, designed for adults, will focus on the special challenges of organizing yourself for a return to the

Hints on how to gain support of family and friends, and concerns about abilities to succeed in the classroom will be Dr. Jean Jones, director of counseling and testing, and

Don Crapps, counselor in the department of special studies, will conduct the two-hour program. Thursday's opening session will deal with courses offered at CJC, with special emphasis to be placed on the interests of those who attend. College personnel will be on hand to answer questions about educational programs, financial assistance, career counseling, special studies programs, continuing education opportunities and admissions and registration requirements. The SAT preparation seminar, also scheduled on Thursday, has been designed to make participants aware of the types of questions asked on the test and how it is scored. Judy Nichols, admissions counselor, and Dr. Jones, will be on hand to discuss admission requirements and to provide helpful hints on how to do well on standardized tests. All three programs will be free.

For more information, persons may phone the college's Office of Community Services at 363-7717 or the Office of Admissions and Records at 363-7723.

12/12/79

be no admission fee for the

The Clayton Community from several countries will

Chorus will present its 11th be presented in the 8 p.m.

Annual Christmas Concert program, scheduled in the

at Clayton Junior College College's Lecture Hall

on Friday evening, Dec- (Room G-132). There will ional program.

An all-day workshop assertive techniques in registration fee for the course includes lunch. To register, or to obtain more information, call 363-

Symposium Is Monday

The Clayton County Parks and Recreation's Reynolds Nature Preserve and Clayton Junior College (CJC) will present their final segment of the Symposium on the Environment on Monday.

Dr. Robert Welborn, assistant professor of history at CJC, will present a program entitled Post World War II Development Patterns in Clayton County. The presentation will be held at the college in Room

B-12 beginning at 6:30 p.m. The session will focus on the change in attitude by local officials and citizens groups concerning the environment and recreation since 1945.

Items covered will be the development of Parks and Recreation Departments locally, a brief history of Revnolds Nature Preserve and current activities by the county and cities to preserve the quality of the environment.

For further information, persons may call Eric Hahn at 478-9911, extension 245.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR 2/13/80 Clayton Junior College is offering a course about marketing products next Scheduled for Monday and Wednesday, the course will provide hints for South Metro businessmen on how to improve their sales ability. There is a $15 fee for the course. For more information, South

Metro businessmen can call 363-7788.

supervisors or managers are offered a course dealing with "assertiveness at work," scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 16. The ability to communicate effectively, even in difficult situations, will be explored. All five workshops will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude between 4 and 5 p.m. Each session carries a separate registration fee which includes the cost of lunch for For complete information about any or all of the workshops, or to reserve a place in class, call the office of community services at 363-7717.

CLAYTON NEIGH. 2/27 Biochemist Sets Lecture

Dr. Robert Shuster, a biochemist, will be the guest speaker for two lectures at Clayton Junior College today at a 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

THREE PART ENVIRONMENTAL SYMPOSIUM PLANNED AT CJC DURING OCTOBER (L-R) Are Hahn, Barnett, Dr. Carpenter, Dr. Welborn

Music/Recitals

December 8, 1979 Clayton Junior College. Morrow. The fourth annual holiday Madrigal Dinner, a French Christmas feast with music, dancing and drama. 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 8. $6.

Speakers Bureau At CJC Plans Environmental Program

By JAN LITTLE

Living Editor October 15 begins a three week environmental symposium sponsored by Clayton Junior College and Reynolds Nature Preserve to be held at the college.

Planned last spring, the symposium will include a presentation by Tom Barnett, assistant professor of English at Clayton Junior, "Wilderness and the American Imagination: the Development of an Attitude from William Bartram to John Muir" on October 15.

The following Monday night, Dr. Blaine Carpenter, assistant professor of biology at the college, will speak on "Ecology and Government: Current Environmental Issues and scientist's. Policy." Dr. Robert Welborn, assistant professor of history, will be the speaker for the program on October 29 on the topic

Clayton County.' of setting aside land for begun by John Muir," he recreational purposes and said. how the county and its cities "This presentation will Barnett.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR 1/16/80
Bays Performs Tomorrow

noon in the upper level of the student building at Clayton

The event is free and open to the public

Singer/guitarist Tim Bays will perform today at held for several reasons. He would like to make the also to the American conpublic more aware of the sciousness Preserve and also provide education for the community, he said.

nature trails," Hahn said. Barnett's topic will focus use legislation.

programs of interest and

"My personal motivation impact of current enfor the programs is to get vironmental policy and focus them there and to teach them once they come awareness of the historical through backpacking and background of federal on two perspectives of the North American continent's tation on patterns in Clayton natural resources prior to will focus on the change in the mid 18th century, that of attitude by local government the pioneer's and the officials and citizens' groups "Beginning with the traveller William Bartram in the 1770's, continuing through the painter Thomas of parks and recreation Cole and the writers departments by the county "Post-World War II Washington Irving and Developmental Patterns in James Fenimore Cooper, a perspective emerged which Purpose of the program is came to fruition with the to inform people of the value conservation movement cities to preserve the quality attitude which saw the vast Eric Hahn, director of tracts of wilderness as Reynolds Nature Preserve, important not only to requested the program be commercial interests or for scientific advancement but > imagination," he added. Dr. Carpenter's presentation on ecology and government will concern the on the need for public pollution control and land Dr. Welborn's presenconcerning the environment and recreation since 1945. Specific items to be covered will include the development and its cities, a brief history of Reynolds Nature Preserve and current activities by the county and

The symposium is also the first in a series of programs of the environment.

have done so, according to trace the development of the planned by Clayton Junior's Speakers' Bureau.

The bureau is composed of the college's faculty members who are available to speak on a variety of topics free of charge and is designed to involve them in the Clayton community.

Part of the bureau's effort in making the public more aware of the college's resources in this area is its publication of a brochure entitled "One Night Stands" which will be available to the public soon, he said.

The term is derived from the music industry and serves to differentiate the group from the college's Community Services division and regular curriculum.

Arrangements for speakers from the bureau can be made by calling the Community Services Office at Clayton Senior College at

January 6, 1980

Three Different Programs Will Be Offered

Clayton College Sponsors Small Business Courses

ment Center will sponsor Development Center. three courses for small business owners within the next include lunch. two weeks.

An all-day program on how to expand sales through exporting will be offered this week, and programs on inventory control and ways to start and manage a small business are planned next

Expanding sales through exporting will be discussed between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on Friday.

The program includes a detailed review of marketing opportunities through international trade, along with complete information on assistance and incentives pro-

Small Business Develop- of Georgia's Small Business A $20 registration fee will Inventory control for

Clayton Junior Colleges vided through the University small businesses will be the how to determine inventory sions. topic of a two-part program levels, the best purchase orplanned Oct. 15 and 17 be- der sizes, and other tips on agement will be the subject tween 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. how to meet sales needs of an all-day session on each evening.

while holding down costs. Participants will learn A $15 fee covers both ses-

TUESDAY

starting and managing a insurance and financial consmall business

October 23, 1979

The program scheduled An overview of man- between 9:30 a.m. and 5 cludes lunch. p.m. Oct. 20, include marketing, management, legal,

To register for any of the courses, persons may contact Clayton Junior College's Office of Com-

A $20 registration fee in- munity Services at 363-7717. For additional information persons may phone the Development Center at

College's Small Business

Wednesday, Jan. 9, at 12 noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Public invited free admission.

Wednesday

CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE'S Lyceum Committee will present the Atlanta Civic Opera in a concert on

NEWS/DAILY October 30, 1979

• CONCERT by the Southern Brass Quintet of Atlanta will be featured during a Lyceum-sponsored program, beginning at 12 noon Wedneday in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) at Clayton Junior College. Free; pulbic invited.

· LECTURE at Clayton Junior College by Dr. Barry Commoner, director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems and professor of environmental science at Washington University in St. Louis, will be given at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) at the college. Topic: "Man, Nature and Technology." Public invited;

October 13, 1979

Clayton Junior College. Morrow, in room G-132. Dr. Donald Ratajczak, director of the Economic Forecasting Project at Georgia State University, will speak on "Keeping Up With Economic Changes." Noon Thursday, Oct. 18, in the Lecture Hall, room G-132. 363-7735. (FREE)

Clayton Junior College. Morrow. Carson-Newnan College faculty members W. Sue Swilley (flute) and Alma R. Baskerville (piano) will be presented in recital, featuring works of Bach, Kvandal, Copland and Franck. Noon Wednesday, Oct. 17. 363-7743. (FREE)

WEEKEND

NEWS/DAILY

formation, call 363-7717.

•CJC SPEAKER, Dr. Morton H. Halperin, director of the Center for National Security Studies and a former deputy assistant secretary of Defense, will speak on "Americal role in world affairs" during an 11 a.m. lecture Tuesda Clayton Junior College.

• RED CROSS BLOODMOBILE will be on the Clayton Junior College campus fron 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Wednesday; on the lower level of the Student Center Building. For THE ROCKDALE CITIZEN 10/10/79 Economist To Speak

Washington, D.C., econo- ing an 11 a.m. lecture in mist Dr. Andrew Brimmer, Room G-132 at Clayton Juna former member of the ior College. Sponsored by Federal Reserve Board, will Lyceum, the program will speak on "economics: be free and open to the change and challenge" dur- public.

'Gone Like the Wind'

The theme for the race will be: Let's make cancer "Gone from the registration fees and Davison's fountain on the lower level at Southlake will be donated to the American

The race will begin at 10 a.m. on the college campus at

RUNNING FOR FUN-Clayton Junior College Physical Educatoin Students

Just A Closer Walk With

The program will be

tions scheduled at Clayton

Quintet To Perform At CJC

The five-member tions as the "Star Spangled Southern Brass Quintet of Banner," The Federal Atlanta will be featured March," "Chester," during a noon program at "Amazing Grace," "Musice Clayton Junior College on For Brass Quintet," and "- sponsored program will be another in a weekly series of given in the Lecture Hall Wednesday noon presenta-

Members of the group are Junior College throughout

Donald K. Day, trumpet; the fall quarter.

Wednesday, Oct. 31.

(Room G-132).

Free and open to the Thee.'

public, the Lyceum-

Kevin Eisensmith,

trumpet; George W.

Atkins, horn; Ronald W.

Rodman, trombone; and

INCLUDED on the program will be such selec-

Joseph F. Githens, tuba.

money thrown into the one-day sale Oct. 27.

Fun Run is Planned

Southlake Mall will spon-sor a 3.1 mile "Fun Run" to Junior College at the Physical

Clayton Junior College. The Like the Wind." Proceeds

Registration fees are $3.50 the Physical Education in advance, and $5 the day of Building. Runners are asked the race. Deadline for to report no later than 9:30

Society.

benefit the American Cancer Education Building.

Society Saturday, Oct. 27, beginning at 10 a.m. at

run will be co-sponsored by WATL-TV 36 and WSB

Registration blanks can be turned in and entry fees paid at Southlake Mall Oct. 15 -

Oct 25, 5-9 p.m. Mon.-Sat.

registration is 9:30 a.m. the and 1-5 p.m. Sundays.

Morrison, Rogers to Perform at CJC

Soloist Joanne Rogers, to Perform with leannine Morrison at

CIC Next Week

Duo pianists Jeannine Morrison and Joanne Rogers will be featured at Clayton Junior College next week.

Mrs. Morrison, assistant professor of music at CJC, and Mrs. Rogers, a member of the music faculty at Carlow College in Pittsburgh, will perform during a noon recital on Wednesday, Oct. 24.

selections from Sonata II in B Flat, by

Clementi; Variations on a Theme by

Beethoven, Opus 35, by Saint-Saens; En Blanc et Noir, by Debussy; Three Vaudeville

Marches, by Rietti; and Valse Symphonique,

A native of Atlanta, Mrs. Morrison taught at Georgia State University before joining the Clayton Junior College music faculty.

She earned the bachelor of music degree from Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla., and a master of arts degree from Columbia University Teachers College in New York.

She studied in New York with the eminent teacher and pianist Edwin Hughes, for the last 13 years of his life.

MRS. MORRISON has given debut recitals in New York's Town Hall, the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.

C., Eaton Auditorium in Toronto, Canada,

A map of the race course will be available at the registration booth at race, Southlake Mall merchants will sponsor a special prices "gone like the wind."

Southlake merchants will have a full day of special

The sale will take place

Dance Company

A well-known Atlanta-

based dance company will perform at Clayton

Junior College next

The Ruth Mitchell

Dance Company, which blends jazz with classical and modern dance, will present an hour-long program of

at 12 noon in the Lecture

Wednesday, January 30.

the group are presented with the joint support of the Georgia Council for the Arts and Humanities

and the National Endowment for the Arts, and are offered at no

All performances by varied works, beginning

Hall (Room G-132) on week.

Coming to CJC

during regular mall hours, 10

a.m. - 9:30 p.m.

bargains and sales for shop-

In an attempt to make high

INCLUDED ON the program will be and has appeared as soloist with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra and several other

She recently earned the Licentiate Diploma in Piano Performance from the Royal Academy of Music in London,

Mrs. Rogers, married to Fred Rogers, television's beloved "Mister Rogers" and society, clubs, religion, features

creater and producer of the Mister Rogers

Neighborhood series, also received her bachelor of music degree fom Rollins College.

She then was chosen to study with Ernst von

Dohnanyi, the renowned Hungarian composer, conductor, pianist, and "Composer in Residence" at Florida State University.

ACTIVE as a recitalist, both in solo and duo-piano capacity, Mrs. Rogers achieved a master of music degree from Florida State. The Wednesday noon program, another in a series of Lyceum-sponsored events on the Clayton Junior College campus, will be one Sun Community Life

Jeannine Morrison

Economist:

October 24, 1979

Federal Actions Are Necessary

By SCOTT HAMPLE Staff Writer

With predictions of a further recession, a Washington economist here applauded the Federal Reserve Board's (Fed) latest package of antiinflation measures with a slight reservation.

"I have a hunch that the Fed did enough to curb inflation," said Dr. Andrew Brimmer before a standing room only crowd at Clayton Junior College Monday. "But they may need at least one more twist (of action.) I can't assure you the measures will reduce inflation.

NEWS/DAILY

The package, unveiled Saturday night by Paul A. Volcker, chairman of the Fed, included a one percentage point increase in the discount rate to local banks to 12 percent, the imposition of an additional eight percent reserve requirement, and an appeal toward long-term investment trends rather than on short-term interest rate fluctuations.

ture Hall (Room G-132), will be open to the

These measures to tighten the money supply, added Brimmer, are "uncomfortable but necessary."

The package is seen by many economists, like Brimmer, as part of a delicate effort to dampen the rising prices without causing a severe economic slowdown. It will be more difficult for banks to lend money and more expensive for people, particularly businessmen, to borrow. The package should further slow down economic expansion in the private

The Fed is also hoping to break the psychology of inflation, which makes people willing to pay higher prices today because they expect to see prices rise further in the future, said the former member of the federal reserve board.

A reduction in the Gross National Product, the dollar-volume of goods produced in the United States, can be expected to continue for at least another six months or into possibly next winter because of these antiinflationary measures. Unemployment should reach around eight percent, he said, but not necessarily as severe as it was in 1974. The heavy industrial sections of the country, the northeast and mid-west. will be the hardest hit in the upcoming recession while a mild recession will plague the south. The southwest and west, he added, will hardly realize they are in the midst of a recession.

"We have already seen the decline in automobile production and housing starts," said Brimmer in reference to the two key indexes used in measuring the strength of the economy.

Although housing starts for 1979 are approximately 200,000 below last year's level, the economist predicted a further decline in 1980 to 1.6 million homes; (or 400,000 below the 1978 availability of money rather than the higher interest rates that will prevent the public from investing into a home. Savings and Loan Associations, finding it already hard to compete in where money wage-earners put their small savings, will have even less money to lend because of the recession, he predicted.

The increase in food and energy costs, although obvious culprits, are not necessarily the major push behind the 11 percent inflation rate, he said.

The increase in employee compensation (averaging around nine percent annually) and the slight increases in productivity (averaging around two percent annually) are the major culprits, he said.

"We need to either increase productivity or slow down the rises in salaries," he said. Government spending should be decreased.

Dr. Brimmer was the second in a series of lecture programs and cultural events celebrating Clayton Junior College's 10th Anniversary.

DR. ANDREW BRIMMER

Performance Set Today

co Clayton Junior College music students will be pres-> ented in recital during a program today at noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). The public is invited free of charge.

coast, has been featured for and Professor of Enthe past two years on the vironmental · Science at "Good Morning America" Washington University in St. television show as a par-Louis, will speak on "Man, ticipant in its face-off segment. For over four years, he served as the rugular conservative spokesman on "The Advocates," a Public Broadcasting System program. Prior to joining the

October 24, 1979

Two Lectures

and challenge" will be given

William A. Rusher, a syndicated columnist and former publisher of the 'National Review" will speak on "the future of western democracy" during an 11 a.m. program on

Dr. Barry Commoner,

Director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems

at Clayton Junior College

this week and next.

Thursday.

Slated At CJC

Two more programs in a Nature and Technology' continuing series on "change during a 7 p.m. lecture on Wednesday, Oct. 31.

The two programs, free and open to the public, are being sponsored by Lyceum

as part of the College's Tenth Anniversary Celebration.

Both will take place in the Rusher, whose column

The Conservative Advocate" appears three times

weekly in more than 70

newspapers from coast to

lecture Hall (Room G-132)

'National Review," considered by many as the nation's leading journal of conservative opinion, Rusher was an associate with Shearman and Sterling, Wall Street's largest law firsm. The author of three books, his most recent one entitled, "The Making of the New Majority Party," proposed a dynamic replacement for the Republican Party. Dr. Commoner, a former associate editor of "Science Illustrated," has served in several capacities with the American Association for the Advancement of Science Activities. The author of a number of books, he currently is on the board of directors of the National Parks Association.

Dr. Commoner has been awarded several honorary degrees and has received the 'First International Humanist Award" from the International Humanist and Ethical Union.

For additional information about either of the programs, call Clayton Junior College's Office of the Dean of Students at 363-7735.

Concert Slated Wednesday

Carson-Newnan College faculty will be featured Scotland and Wales in 1977, during a recital at Clayton and was the flutist in the Junior College this week.

Dr. W. Sue Swilley, associate professor of music at Carson-Newnan, will be featured on the flute and Ms. Alma R. Baskerville, professor emeritus, will accompany her at the piano during a noon recital on Wednesday, October 17.

Included on the program will be "Conversation Sonata" in G minor, by Bach; Da lontano, Op 32 (1970), by Kvandal; Duo for Flute and Piano (1971), by Copland; and Sonata in A Major, by Franck.

Dr. Swilley serves as professor of woodwinds and European countries. She theory at Carson-Newnan currently is teaching in her College, located in Jefferson own piano studio. City, Tennessee. She has performed numerous recitals in east Tennessee, Iowa, Louisiana, Michigan and Arkansas. She was flute

Two members of the soloist with a vocal ensemble that toured England. Yaynfest Orchestra in Eisenstadt and Vienna. Austria during the summer

> Presently, Dr. Swilley is playing piccolo and flute for the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra.

Ms. Baskerville taught piano and music history at Carson-Newnan for 26 years. She served as an exchange teacher at Bretton Hall College in Wakefield. Yorkshire, England, during the 1959-60 academic year, and has had extensive travel experiences in Britain, Scandinavia and other

Dr. Swilley and Ms. Baskerville have been performing together for 15

The noon program, included in a series of weekly features by Lyceum, will be free and open to the public.

Quintet Featured In CJC Concert

'SOUTHERN BRASS QUINTET' OF ATLANTA

To Be Featured In Program At CJC

The five-member "Southern Brass Quintet" of Atlanta will be featured during a 12 noon program at Clayton Junior College on Wednesday, Oct. 31.

Free and open to the public, the Lyceum-sponsored program will be given in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Members of the group are Donald K. Day, trumpet; Kevin E. Eisensmith, trumpet; George W. Atkinson, horn; Ronald W. Rodman, trombone; and Joseph F. Githens.

Included on the program will be such selections as the "Star Spangled Banner," "The Federal March," "Chester," "Amazing Grace," "Music For Brass Quintet," and "Just A Closer Walk With Thee."

The program will be another in a weekly series of Wednesday noon presentations scheduled at Clayton Junior College throughout the Fall Quarter.

NEWS/DAILY October 11, 1979

Friday

•CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE Small Business Development Center will sponsor the Georgia Export Conference, beginning at 9 a.m. Friday. For information,

"INVENTORY CONTROL FOR SMALL BUSINESS," the first session of a two-part program, will be offered on the Clayton Junior College campus between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. Monday. The program will continue on Wednesday, Oct. 17. For information, call 363-7717 or 363-7788.

DR. MORTON HALPERIN CJC Speaker

Halperin Backs SALTII

By SAM HODGES Staff Writer

Dr. Morton Halperin, the man responsible for compiling the Pentagon Papers, gave a speech at Clayton Junior College Tuesday in which he advocated senate ratification of the SALT II treaty, calling it "clearly in the interests of the United

Halperin, who is the current director of the Center for National Security Studies and a former deputy assistant Secretary of Defense, spoke generally in regard to America's role in world affairs and specifically about the SALT

Passing the treaty, according to Halperin, means "reducing chances of nuclear war" and "increasing

American security interests." Rejecting the treaty would insure that the Soviet Union "vastly increase" strategic forces, which would mean that the United States, in turn, would have to escalate defense efforts and possibly reinstate the draft, Halperin

The position held by Sen. Sam Nunn that the U.S. should, if it passes the SALT treaty, increase defense spending by five percent, "makes absolutely no sense at all," Halperin

The increase in spending should come if the treaty is not passed, Halperin asserted, since then the U.S. will be facing a massive Soviet buildup. He also criticized the increased defense spending proposal on the grounds that it is being considered 'with no agreement about what the money will be used for.'

Halperin, who testified in defense of Daniel Ellsberg in the Pentagon Papers trial, expressed concern that there has been a "substantial decrease'in American civil liberties over the past several years.

"When the government wants to limit civil liberties it is always in the name of 'national security', He also argued that the U.S. has "an obligation" to speak out on human rights issues and should do it 'whether it will have immediate favorable consequences." In that regard, he attacked Secretary of Defense Harold Brown's recent visit to South Korea, where Brown allegedly promised U.S. support to that nation even if it does not become more

Business Reviewed

A two-night seminar on Simplified Bookkeeping for Small Business Owners will be conducted at Clayton Junior College next week.

Sponsored by the college's Small Business Development Center, threehour sessions will be held on Oct. 29 and 31 beginning at 6:30 p.m. each evening. A $15 registration fee covers the cost of both sessions. Small business owners will receive tips on preparing and maintaining needed records without hassles. Also included will be information on meeting internal revenue requiree ments. For For more information, persons may call the Small Business Development Center at 363-7788. To register, persons may call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

designed to answer questions and concerns about enrolling in college credit programs will be offered at Clayton Junior College next week. Special concerns by adults who are planning to enter, or re-enter, college studies will be discussed between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Tuesday, October 23. Two nights later, on Thursday, October 25, a program entitled "What's For Me at CJC?" will be conducted between 7 p.m. and 8 p.m., immediately followed by a seminar on the Scholastic Aptitude Test oneself for a return to the classroom. Hints on how to gain support of family and friends, and concerns about abilities to succeed in the classroom will be discussed. Dr. Jean Jones, director of counseling and testing, and Don Crapps, counselor in the designed for adults, will focus on the special challenges of organizing

October 15, 1979

Entering College Planned

Seminars For Adults

Three free seminars Tuesday's session, department of special studies, will conduct the twohour program. Thursday's opening session will deal with courses offered at CJC, with special emphasis to be placed on the interests of those who attend. College personnel will be on hand to answer questions about educational programs, financial assistance, career counseling, special studies programs, continuing education opportunities, and admissions and registration

The SAT preparation seminar, also scheduled on Thursday, has been designed to make participants aware of the types of questions asked on the test and how it is scored. Judy Nichols, admissions counselor, and Dr. Jones will be on hand to discuss admission requirements and to provide helpful hints on how to do well in standardized tests.

All three programs will be free. For more information phone the College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717, Office of Admissions and Recores at 363-7723 or Office of Counseling and Testing at 363-7744.

will be featured at Clayton Junior College next week. Mrs. Morrison, assistant professor of music at CJC, and Mrs. Rogers, a member of the music faculty at Carlow College in Pittsburgh, will perform during a noon recital on Wednesday,

Included on the program will be selections from Sonata II in B Flat, by Clementi; Variations on a

A native of Atlanta, Mrs.

Morrison taught at Georgia

State University prior to joining the Clayton Junior College music faculty. She earned the Bachelor of Music degree from Rollins

JOANNE ROGERS

JEANNINE MORRISON THE CLAYTON SUN January 24, 1980 EXEC. SECRETARIES TAUGHT SKILLS

Recognizing that today's executive secretary or administrative secretary is more than the boss's "silent" partner, Clayton Junior College has designed a special two-day workshop for these professionals.

The workshop, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 28 and 29, has been designed to help executive secretaries acquire and implement effective management and communications skills.

Specific topics include planning, organizing, decision making, supervision, time management, listening and responding, assertiveness and problem solving. Marilyn Buckner will be the instructor for the two-day program. For information, or to reserve a place in the workshop, phone the college's Office of Community Services at 363-7717. A $30 registration fee includes a Monday luncheon.

An all-day workshop designed to help both subordinates and supervisors or managers enhance their ability to communicate effectively will be offered at Clayton Junior College in p.m., the assertiveness course will emphasize the use of assertive techni-

with chronic lateress or absenteeism.

assigning of receiving extra responsibilities, the accepting and giving or crticism and other topics, according to training will be helpful for the workshop, Atkins said, but is not required.

Previous exposure to assertiveress

The $20 registration fee for the

To register or obtain more in-

The class size will be limited,, formation, residents may call the office of community services at 363-7717.

Scheduled between 9 a.m. and 5

Participants will learn how to deal

Morrow on Oct. 16.

ques in difficult situations spokesman Jerry Atkins.

course includes lunch.

Duo-pianists Jeannine Theme by Beethoven, Opus Teachers College in New Rollins College, and Danville Scheduled in the Lecture Worrison and Joanne Rogers 35, by Saint-Saens; En Blanc York. She studied in New Junior College in Danville, Hall (Room G-132), will be York with the eminent Virginia. et Noir, by Debussy; Three Vaudeville Marches, by teacher and pianist, Mr. Rietti; and Valse Edwin Hughes, for the last 13 Symphonique, by Dohanyi. years of his life.

Mrs. Rogers, also received her Bachelor of Music degree from Rollins College. Active as a recitalist, both in solo and duo-piano capacity, Mrs. Rogers achieved a Master of Music degree from

The Wednesday noon program, another in a series of Lyceum-sponsored events on the Clayton Junior College campus, will be one of five recitals to be played by this duo team this year. Other recitals are scheduled at Valdosta State College,

The recital at CJC, charge.

Clayton Jr. Sponsors Seminar For Adults Hitting the Books designed to answer questions and concerns about enrolling in college credit adults who are planning to Three free seminars Clayton Junior College next studies will be discussed personnel will be on hand to Special concerns by Tuesday, Oct. 23.

p.m., immediately followed registration requirements. by a seminar on the Scholastic Aptitude Test

TUESDAY'S session, designed for adults, will focus on the special challenges of organizing yourself for a return to the classroom. Hints on how to gain support of family and friends, and concerns about abilities to succeed in the classroom will be discussed. Dr. Jean Jones, director of counseling and testing, and Don Crapps, counselor in the department of special studies, will conduct the free. two-hour program.

between 7 and 9 p.m. on answer questions about enrolling in college credit programs will be offered at programs will be offered at programs will be offered at program entitled "What's For Me at CJC?" will be conducted between 7 and 8 educational programs, conducted between 7 and 8 and admissions and

THE SAT preparation seminar, also scheduled on Thursday, has been designed to make participants aware of the types of questions asked on the test and how it is scored.

Judy Nichols, admissions counselor, and Dr. Jones will be on hand to discuss admission requirements and to provide helpful hints on how to do well on standardized tests.

All three programs will be

For more information, THURSDAY'S opening phone the College's Office of session will deal with Community Services (363courses offered at CJC, with 7717), Office of Admissions special emphasis to be and Records (363-7723) or placed on the interests of Office of Counseling and those who attend. College Testing (363-7744).

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN October 18, 1979 Back to School:

open to the public without

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN October 25, 1979

CJC Slates Speakers

Two more programs in a the Lecture Hall (Room Gcontinuing series on 132). 'change and challenge'' will be given at Clayton Junior llege this week and next. William A. Rusher, a syndicated columnist and former publisher of the 'National Review' will speak on "the future of western democracy" during an 11 a.m. program Thursday, Oct. 25.

Dr. Barry Commoner,

director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems and professor of environmental science at Washington University in St. Louis, will speak on "Man, Nature and Technology" during a 7 p.m. lecture Wednesday,

The two programs, free

Southlake Mall. Clayton Junior College, Morrow. 10 a.m.

Oct. 27. A 3.1-mile fun run will benefit the American Cancer Society. Register at Southlake until Oct. 25. Registration: $3.50 advance; $5 day of race (by 9:30

Clayton Junior College. Morrow, in room G-132. 363-7735. (FREE)

Dr. Morton H. Halperin, former senior staff member of the National Security Council and Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense.

will speak on "America's Role in World Af-

William A. Rusher, publisher of "National Review," will speak on "The Future of Western Democracy." 10 a.m. Thursday,

A symposium on the environment, exploring the historical development of philosophies and policies about the environment.

6:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 22: "Ecology and fairs." 11 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 23.

ture Preserve. 363-7717.

Workshop Is Planned

October 20, 1979

WEEKEND

proposed a dynamic replacement for the Rusher, whose column Republican Party. Dr. Commoner, a former

"The conservative Advocate" appears three times weekly associate editor of "Science in more than 70 newspapers Illustrated," has served in from coast to coast, has several capacities with the been featured for the past American Association for two years on the "Good the Advancement of Morning America" televi-Science Activities. The sion show as a participant in author of a number of its face-off segment. For books, he currently is on the over four years, he served as board of directors of the the regular conservative National Parks Associaspokesman on "The Advocates," a Public Broadcasting System program.

Prior to joining the 'National Review," considered by many as the nation's leading journal of International Humanist conservative opinion, and Ethical Union. Rusher was an associate with Shearman and Sterland open to the public, are ing, Wall Street's largest tion about either of the being sponsored by Lyceum law firm. The author of programs, call Clayton as part of the college's three books, his most recent tenth anniversary celebration. Both will take place in three books, his most recent one entitled, "The Making of the Dean of Students at 363-7735.

awarded several honorary degrees and has received the 'First International

Dr. Commoner has been

For additional informa-

'HMS Pinafore'

At Clayton Jr.

Members of the Clayton

Junior College Choir will be

Sullivan musical comedy

"H.M.S. Pinafore" or

"The Lass That Loved a Sailor" will be presented during performances on Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 13.

15, 16 and 17. Scheduled in the College's Lecture Hall

K(Room G-132), all performances will be free and open

Performances will begin #at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday, and at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

to the public.

during four performances presented in a Gilbert and

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS

October 10, 1979

Business Owners

CJC offers short courses

for small business man / woman Clayton Junior assistance and incentives provided through the University of Georgia's Small College's Small Business Development Center will sponsor three different short courses for small business owners within the next two weeks. An all-day program on now to expand sales through exporting will be offered this week, and programs on inventory control and ways to start and manage a small business are planned next week.

Expanding sales through exporting will be discussed between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on Friday, October 12. Included will be a detailed review of marketing opportunities through international trade, along with complete information on Business Development Center. A $20 registration fee will include lunch. Inventory control for small businesses will be the topic of a two-part program planned on Monday and Wednesday, October 15 and 17. Scheduled between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening, participants will learn how to determine inventory levels, the best purchase order sizes, and other tips on how to meet sales needs while holding down costs. A $15 fee covers both sessions.

An overview of management will be the subject of an all-day session on starting and managing a small business. Scheduled between 9:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Saturday, October 20, included in overview will be marketing, management, legal, insurance and dinancial concerns. A $20 registration fee includes lunch.

To register for any of the courses, contact Clayton Junior College's Office of Community Services (phone 363-7717). For additional information, phone the College's Small Business Development Center at

NEWS/DAILY October 26, 1979

Saturday

NEWS/DAILY

Tuesday

Thursday

Saturday

For information, call 363-7788.

October 16, 1979

*HEALTH EDUCATION COURSE on "Life's Blood: a

•CJC SEMINAR on "assertiveness at work" will be of-

•RECITAL by Carson-Newman College faculty members

W. Sue Swilley, flutist, and Alma R. Baskerville, pianist, will be presented at 12 noon Wednesday in the lecture hall (room G-132) at Clayton Junior College. Free, public in-

·LECTURE by Dr. Donald Ratajczak, director of the Economic Forecasting Project at Georgia State University, will speak "on keeping up with economic changes" during a free Lyceum lecture series presentation, scheduled at 12 noon in the lecture hall (Room G-132) at Clayton Junior

•SEMINAR: an overview of small business management, will be held at Clayton Junior College from 9:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday. A $20 fee includes lunch.

fered from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday. A $20 fee includes look at circulation, diseases and community blood program, will be offered at Clayton Junior College from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday. For information, call 363-7717.

lunch. For information, call 363-7717.

•SEMINAR: an overview of small business management, will be held at Clayton Junior College from 9:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday. A $20 fee includes lunch. For information, call 363-7788.

Sunday

• CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE Tenth Anniversary Celebration will be held Sunday. Former Gov. Carl E. Sanders will be the featured speaker at 3 p.m. on the upper level of the Student Center Building. An Open House will be held between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. Public invited.

Wednesday

· CONCERT by the Southern Brass Quintet of Atlanta will be featured during a Lyceum-sponsored Program, beginning at 12 noon Wedneday in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) at Clayton Junior College. Free; pulbic invited.

NEWS/DAILY October 21, 1979

Tuesday

•CJC SPEAKER, Dr. Morton H. Halperin, director of the Center for National Security Studies and a former deputy assistant secretary of Defense, will speak on "America's role in world affairs" during an 11 a.m. lecture Tuesda Clayton Junior College.

Wednesday

• RED CROSS BLOODMOBILE will be on the Clayton Junior College campus fron 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Wednesday; on the lower level of the Student Center Building. For information, call 363-7717.

Saturday

•SEMINAR: an overview of small business management, will be held at Clayton Junior College from 9:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday. A $20 fee includes lunch. For information, call 363-7788.

NEWS/DAILY October 15, 1979

Tuesday

•HEALTH EDUCATION COURSE on "Life's Blood: a look at circulation, diseases and community blood program, will be offered at Clayton Junior College from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday. For information, call 363-7717.

•RECITAL by Carson-Newman College faculty members W. Sue Swilley, flutist, and Alma R. Baskerville, pianist, will be presented at 12 noon Wednesday in the lecture hall (room G-132) at Clayton Junior College. Free, public in-Government: Current Environmental Issues and Policy." 6:30 p.m. Oct. 29: "Post World War II Developmental Patterns in Clayton County." Co-sponsored with Reynolds Na-

NEWS/DAILY Wednesday, October 17, 1979 2 Experts Scheduled To Speak

On CJC Anniversary Program Two experts in "change and challenge," the theme of Association and the Econometric Society.

Clayton Junior College's Tenth Anniversary Celebration, will speak at the two-year institution near Morrow this Dr. Donald Ratajczak, director of the Economic Professor Economics in the School of Business Administration, will speak on "keeping up with economic changes" during a noon lecture on Thursday Dr. Morton H. Halperin, Director of the Center for National Security Studies and a former Deputy Assistant world affairs" during an 11 a.m. lecture next Tuesday. The two programs, scheduled as part of a continuing Lyceum series commemorating the College's Tenth Anniversary, will be free and open to the public. Both lectures will be given in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132).

Dr. Ratajczak has developed econometric models for the United Staes, the Southeast, and several individual states. Each quarter, he holds forecasting conferences at Georgia

The author of a weekly column in the Atlanta Constitution and a bimonthly article for Business Atlanta, Dr. Ratajczak has been quoted and interviewed by numerous national magazines and journals. He is a member of the American Economic Association, the Economic History

Staff Writer

Dr. Barry Commoner, one of the leading ecologists in the United States, will give a speech tonight at Clayton Junior Commoner will speak on "Man, Nature and Technology, beginning at 7 p.m. in room G-132 of the college. The public

"He (Commoner) is one of the top two men in his area," said Robert Bolander, dean of students at CJC and the man

Dr. Paul Ehrlich, author of "The Population Bomb" and College as part of the school's Lyceum lecture series.

is invited and there is no admission charge.

responsible for securing Lyceum speakers.

Formerly on the faculties of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston College and the UCLA Graduate School of Management, he received his bachelor's degree from Haverford College. He was a Woodrow Wilson Fellow at Massachusetts Tech where he received his doctoral

Dr. Halperin, who directs the American Civil Liberties Union National Security Project, will address world affairs during his Tuesday lecture. The recipient of the Meritorious Civilian Service Award from the Department of Defense in 1969, he is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations and the Federation of American Scientists

The author, co-author and editor of more than a dozen books on foreign policy and national security, he currently serves on the editorial board of Foreign Policy.

Dr. Halperin served as senior fellow at the Brookings Institution, senior staff member of the National Security Council, and Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense in charge of international security affairs and responsible for political-military planning and arms control. He has taught at Harvard University and served as a research associate at the Harvard Center for International Affairs.

Dr. Halperin received his bachelor's degree in political science from Columbia College and both his master's and doctoral degrees in international studies from Yale

the man whom Bolander lists as the other top ecologist,

Bolander said visitors from the University of Georgia,

Dalton Junior College, Macon, Alabama, and the Georgia

Conservancy will all be in attendance to hear Commoner speak. He added that the Halloween date for the speech was Commoner is director of the Center for the Biology of Commoner has achieved fame as an author, and his Natural Systems and a professor of environmental science recent book, "The Politics Of Energy," earned him an

Dr. Barry Commoner To Speak At CJC

at Washington University, in St. Louis.

spoke at CJC two years ago.

'purely coincidental.'

NEWS/DAILY

November 1, 1979

Tuesday

•LECTURE by Arthur Schlesinger Jr., former special assistant to the late President John F. Kennedy, will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in Clayton Junior College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132). He will speak on "The Individual and the State. Public invited; free.

Wednesday

•RECITAL by Clayton Junior College music students will be presented at 12 noon Wednesday in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Public invited; free.

NEWS/DAILY November 2, 1979

Tuesday

•LECTURE by Arthur Schlesinger Jr., former special assistant to the late President John F. Kennedy, will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in Clayton Junior College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132). He will speak on "The Individual and the State. Public invited; free.

and "The Poverty of Power."

•RECITAL by Clayton Junior College music students will be presented at 12 noon Wednesday in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Public invited; free.

audience which extended beyond the scientific community

Other Commoner books include "Science and Survival"

Commoner is an enthusiastic supporter of solar energy and he published two lengthy articles on that subject last Spring in "The New Yorker" magazine. In the current issue

When President Carter made his now legendary energy speech, following his retreat to Camp David, Commoner was the first perion interviewed by NBC television for a reaction. He criticized the president's program and called for more reliance on solar energy, less on nuclear energy.

of "The New Yorker" he has an article on fuel.

Change And Challenge Theme

Two Programs Slated

nuing series on Change and Challenge will be given at Clayton Junior College this

William A. Rusher, a syn-

NEWS/DAILY Wednesday, October 31, 1979

• CONCERT by the Southern Brass Quintet of Atlanta will be featured during a Lyceum-sponsored program,

WEDNESDAY

beginning at 12 noon Wedneday in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) at Clayton Junior College. Free; pulbic invited. • LECTURE at Clayton Junior College by Dr. Barry

Commoner, director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems and professor of environmental science at Washington University in St. Louis, will be given at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) at the college. Topic: "Man, Nature and Technology." Public invited;

TUESDAY

•LECTURE by Arthur Schlesinger Jr., former special assistant to the late President John F. Kennedy, will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in Clayton Junior College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132). He will speak on "The Individual and the State. Public invited; free.

Two programs in a contidicated columnist and Dr. Rusher's column The for the past two years on the program tomorrow.

The Future of Western De- more than 70 newspapers

THIS WEEK 11/14/79 'H.M.S. Pinafore' set to sail

Performances of the Gilbert and Sullivan musical comedy "H.M.S. Pinafore" will be given at Clayton Junior College Thursday, Friday and Saturday

Presented by members of the CJC Choir, performances will be given in the College Lecture Hall, room G-132, and will be open to the public free of evenings.

Julie Rogers of Fayetteville is a member of the cast of the musical, which is directed by Dr. Larry Corse. Faculty members Jeannine Morrison, Dr. Elena Zimmerman and Doris Holloway will accompany mocracy during an 11 a.m. from coast to coast. He has also been featured former publisher of the Na- Conservative Advocate ap- Good Morning America tele-tional Review, will speak on pears three times weekly in vision show as a participant

New Majority Party," proposed a replacement for the Republican Party. Dr. Barry Commoner, di-

Biology of Natural Systems and professor of environmental science at Washington University, will speak on Man, Nature and Technology at 7 p.m. on Oct. 31.

in its face-off segment.

The author of three books, his most recent one entitled "The Making of the rector of the Center for the Commoner, a former associate editor of "Science Illustrated," served in several capacities with the American Association for the Advancement of Science Activities.

> .The author of a number of books, he currently is on the board of directors of the National Parks Association.

The two programs, free and open to the public, will be held in the Lecture Hall Room G-132).

The Lyceum is sponsoring the programs as part of the college's 10th Anniversary.

Forecasting Project at Georgia State University and a Secretary of Defense, will speak on "America's role in

MYRA VANDECAR (R) HAS HER BLOOD PRESSURE TAKEN BY NURSE MARTHA SHORES OF MARIETTA This Is The First Station Of The Blood Giving Operation Where Donors Are Checked Before Giving Blood

FINAL STAGE OF GIVING BLOOD IS THE MOST ENJOYABLE STAGE Relaxing Are (L-R) Susan Anderson, Rhonda Smith, Judy Stein, And Susan Gibson

NURSE ROBIN LUMLEY (L) OF ATLANTA GIVES JOHN HEMBREE AID Hembree Gave Blood During Clayton Junior College's Blood Drive

Foreign Language Club; Main Blood Contributors

Staff Writer A recent blood drive at up with a few pints over are open to the public. Dur-Clayton Junior College re- what was promised," Com- ing each drive the campus is pproximately 133 units of Rob Taylor said. lood. This blood will be have had in the past but we were pleased that we collected as much as we did," Clayton Junior College Community Services Director

Ric Sanchez said. "Many of the people are on medication due to the weather and the red cross won't accept that blood," he explained. "The main contributor in the drive was the Foreign Language Club. The advisor, June Legge promised us the public without charge.

NEWS/DAILY

ulted in the collection of munity Services spokesman always well marked with public and each drive is held said.

directions. We would like to Every blood drive that see people come by and give ised in the Atlanta area the school has is open to the on their lunch hour," Taylor 'This drive wasn't as in the lower level of the The college sponsors a

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR October 31, 1979

SAT Set For Tomorrow At Clayton Junior

with 40 pints and they came alize that the blood drives

Clayton Junior College will administer the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) to prospective students tomorrow. A requirement for entrance into credit programs offered by the College, applicants interested in enrolling during Winter Quarter classes which will begin in January must take the test prior to that time.

The college will administer another SAT on Dec. 13. The test, which takes approximately three hours will begin at 6 p.m. in Room G-132. An $8.25 testing fee is payable prior to taking the SAT. For complete information about the test, or other admission requirements, persons may call the Office of Admissions and Record at 363-7723 or the Office of Counseling and Testing at 363-7744.

CJC Presents 'H.M.S. Pinafore'

Students Must Enroll

New students who plan to enroll in Winter Quarter credit classes at Clayton Junior College have only until tomorrow to file all applications and credentials with the Office of Admissions and Records.

CJC

Sponsors

Cellist

December 2.

charged.

Concert

One of America's finest

cellists will be featured during a Sunday afternoon recital at Clayton

Junior College on

Leonard Rose, a member of the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music, will perform at 3 p.m. in the College's

Lecture Hall (Room G-

132). Open to the public,

no admission will be Accompanied on the tour by pianist David

Stein, Rose's rare

Amati cello, dated 1662,

ranks one of the finest

Cremonese instruments

At age 20, Rose was named solo cellist for the NBC Symphony, and a year later, became solo cellist with the Cleiveland Orchestra.

At 25, he joined the New York Philharmonic Or-

For a number of years.

he has toured as a solo

recitalist and as a guest artist with many major orchestras. In addition,

he has recorded more than seven albums with

Many of Rose's students have been first-chair

cellists with several orchestras. Rose himself studied with Felix Sal-

mond at the Curtis In-Sunday afternoon's

recital will be the last in a series of Fall Quarter programs and events planned in celebration of Clayton Junior College's Tenth Anniverstitute.

Columbia Records.

chestra as solo cellist.

in existence today.

The Winter Quarter will begin with registration day on Jan. 2, and continue until 2the last of final examinations are given on March 18. Students who were enrolled in Summer and/ or Fall Quarter classes were permitted to register last nonth for Winter Quarter Others who did not take advantage of early registration and all new students will register on Jan. 2.

The college will administer the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) to its prospective students also tomorrow. The SAT, a requirecredit programs, will be given at 6 p.m. in Room G-132. For complete informa-Stion about admission requirements, phone the Of-fice of Admissions and Records (363-7723).

Additional information tained from the Office of Counseling and Testing Commoner Critical Of Nuclear Energy

Staff Writer

Criticizing nuclear energy as "a highly inappropriate way to boil water," ecologist Barry Commoner argued at Clayton Junior College Wednesday night that the United States should make an immediate transition to solar energy.

Commoner, the author of "The Politics of energy" and several other books, appeared as part of the CJC Lyceum lecture series. A nearly full auditorium, including visitors from several other colleges, was present

> CJC Student Recitals Set

A number of Clayton Junior College music students will be presented in two recitals scheduled at the two-year institutuin next

Free and open to the b public, student recitals are scheduled for Tuesday evening, December 4, and Wednesday, December 5. Tuesday's recital will begin at 8:30 p.m. and Wednesday's will be given at 12

Both recitals, sponsored by Lycem, will be given in the College's Lecture Hal Z (Room G-132).

Commoner said the United States is 'in deep trouble economically," and he identified the source of that trouble as rising costs in energy. As a nonrenewable source, such as oil. becomes more scarce, it becomes exponentially more expensive, he

This results in "an intolerable economic situation" in which a larger percentage of individual and corporate budgets are devoted to energy costs. He added that the United States is already in this situation and that the problem "is bound to get worse."

Commoner believes the solution to such an economic labyrinth is to find a renewable source of energy, one that will not escalate in cost because of scarcity

In that regard he discounted nuclear energy as "inherently dangerous" and too expensive to be the primary energy source of the

the Three Mile Island report, released this week by the president's com-mission, as proof "of what we have been saying all along, that nuclear energy is inherently dangerous."

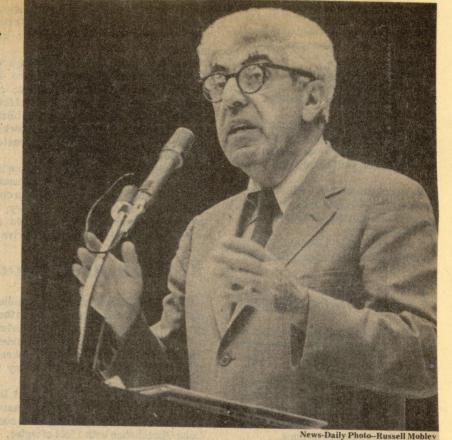

According to Commoner, there is already a moratorium on nuclear power plant construction, since utitlity companies have determined that in wake of Three Mile Island it's a risky and expensive investment, one they want nothing to do with.

Since the so-called "breeder reactor", which generates it's own fuel, is not yet fully developed, Commoner said the sensible course of action is a swift transition to solar

"Every major solar technology can be introduced now, but the way in which you introduce it is very im-

Commoner said the transition to solar power has become "a political problem" and that there is a danger that solar technology will go first to the wealthy, leaving conventional utility bills, which will become even more expensive, to the poor.

Because he believes neither the Democratic or Republican party has dealt correctly with the energy problem, Commoner is active in the formation of the Citizens Party, a group he said is dedicated to bringing democracy into the

BARRY COMMONER SPEAKS AT CJC Favors Transition To Solar Power

NEWS/DAILY November 6, 1979 Schlesinger Speaks At CJC Auditorium

Arthur Schlesinger Jr., one of the nation's leading historians, will give a speech tonight at Clayton Junior College. The event will begin at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium, and the public is invited. There is no admission charge.

Schlesinger served from 1961 to 1964 as a special assistant to President John F. Kennedy. From that experience he wrote "A Thousand Days: John F. Kennedy in the White House." Subsequent Schlesinger books include: "The Imperial Presidency," "The Age of Jackson," and his most recent offering, "Robert Kennedy and

For his writings, Schelsinger has received: the Pulitzer Prize for history (1946), the Pulitzer Prize for Biography (1966), and the National Book Award (1966 and 1979).

Schlesinger is a frequent contributor to a number of national magazines and writes a weekly film critique for Saturday Review magazine. He was among the first prominent Democrats to state a public preference for Sen. Edward Kennedy over Pres. Carter, in the race for the 1980 Democratic party

Schlesinger Says U.S. Will Overcome National Exhaustion

By SAM HODGES Staff Writer

Pulitzer Prize winning historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr., said in a speech at Clayton Junior College Tuesday night that the United States is in "national exhaustion," but predicted that in the 1980's "our sense of adventure will return.' Schlesinger was the last speaker in a series entitled "Change and Challenge," designed to celebrate the tenth anniversary of CJC.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN

Noting the cyclical nature of American history, Schlesinger said

A requirement for January must take the test

1930's and 1950's in that the nation seems in need of rest following a period of great social upheaval.

"Sometime in the 80's the dam will break," he said. "We are plainly in the depressive phase of the cycle. We will not be in that phase of the cycle forever."

Schlesinger cited inflation and "high cost energy" as the two major threats to the health of American life. But unlike most observers, he said a strong national government is the only agency capable of solving those budget and limiting the size of the federal bureacracy have little to do with inflation

"We need leadership that stimulates, rather than disparages, the role of government and the ferment of ideas. Great problems will not yield to paltry solutions. Small is not necessarily beautiful."

Schlesinger criticized Pres. Carter's handling of both the inflation and energy problems, and said that what is needed is leadership of the sort Franklin Delano Roosevelt provided.

'When we are faced with apparently intractable problems, the American way, as FDR said, is 'bold, persistent experimentation. Taking a method and trying. If it fails, trying another, but above all trying something.'

In a question and answer period after the speech, Schlesinger repeated his support of Sen. Edward Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination. He cited Kennedy as one who favors a "can do" government over the "can't do" governments of Carter and former Pres. Gerald Ford.

Before the speech Schlesinger also repeated his claim that Chappa quiddick made Kennedy "a stronger man.

"It was one of those transforming experiences. He has been wanting every day since then to redeem himself, and he has become a much more serious, weighty politician.

Schlesinger served as a special assistant to Pres. John F. Kennedy, and he wrote prize-winning biographies of JFK and Robert Kennedy. His latest project is to finish a cycle of books on Franklin

NEWS/DAILY November 4, 1979

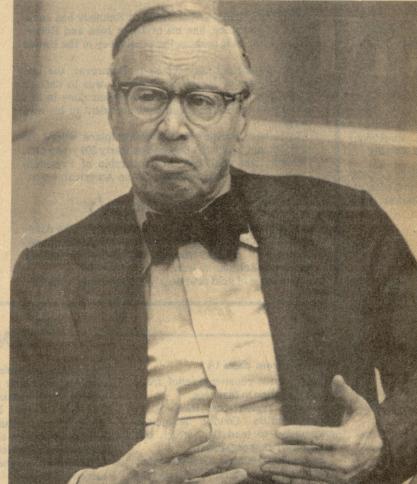

•LECTURE by Arthur Schlesinger Jr., former special assistant to the late President John F. Kennedy, will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in Clayton Junior College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132). He will speak on "The Individual and the State. Public invited; free.

•ARTHUR SCHLESINGER JR., author and a high

Tuesday

Wednesday

•RECITAL by Clayton Junior College music students will be presented at 12 noon Wednesday in the Lecture Hall

DISTINGUISHED HISTORIAN SPEAKS AT CJC Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Pulitzer Prize Winner

Clayton Junior College drama students next week. Three performances are in the College's Lecture Hall vengence" and the beginning (Room G-132), beginning at of justice by law."

Junior College Choir will

course, will participate in

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR Bloody Production Planned

CJC Offers SAT Today

Clayton Junior College entrance into credit mission requirements, call will administer the programs offered by the Col- the Office of Admissions

Scholastic Aptitude Test lege, applicants interested and Records at 363-7723 or

(SAT) to prospective stu- in enrolling during winter the Office of Counseling and

The college will administer another SAT on

THE TEST will begin at 6 p.m. and continue approximately three hours.

Scheduled in Room G-132,

an $8.25 testing fee is payable before taking the

For complete information about the test, or other ad-dents on Thursday, Nov. 1. quarter classes beginning in Testing at 363-7744.

A Greek production of structor of drama, will par-Blood on the House of ticipate in the performance Atreus' will be presented by as Agamemnon. Clayton Junior College drama students next week.

Three performances are scheduled for the production by Euripides and Aeschlyus, and each will be open to the public without charge. Performances will be given in the college's lecture hall (Room G-132) beginning at noon and 8 p.m. on Wednesday, and at 8 p.m. on During the performance.

those in the audience will witness the Citizens of Argos, the Creek Gods, Apollo and Athena involved. in an "End of blood-letting vengeance" and the beginning of justice by law. Pat Collins, assistant professor of English and in-ranking aide in the Kennedy administration, will speak at Clayton Junior College on Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. The speech will be in room G-132.

November 5, 1979 NEWS/DAILY

•LECTURE by Arthur Schlesinger Jr., former special assistant to the late President John F. Kennedy, will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in Clayton Junior College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132). He will speak on "The Individual and the State. Public invited; free.

(Room G-132). Public invited; free.

Choir will be joined by former members who played major roles in previous musicals. Sets were designed by Graver, NEWS/DAILY November 21, 1979 CJC Students Present Drama Pat Collins, Assistant Cassandra; John Baubien of A Greek production of 12 noon and 8 p.m. on "Blood on the House of Wednesday, November 28, Professor of English at CJC

November 14, 1979

During the performance, present a Gilbert and Sul- Sailor" will be presented and open to the public.

Kathy Seymour of Forest

Atlanta, Apollo; Cora Dunbar of Peachtree City, Athena; Candy Smith of Forest Park, Electra; and Lisa Horne of Ellenwood,

Presented as part of the College's Lyceum Cultural Affairs schedule, tickets will Atreus" will be presented by and at 8 p.m. on Thursday, and instructor of the drama scheduled for the production those in the audience will by Euripides and Aeschlyus, witness the Citizens of and each will be open to the Argos, the Greek gods, public without charge. Apollo and Athena involved Performances will be given in an "end of bloodletting

Continuing performances of the Gilbert and Sullivan musical comedy "H.M.S. Pinafore" will be given at Clayton Junior College Thursday, Friday and Saturday

Presented by members of the CJC Choir, performances will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday and at 8 p.m. both Friday and Saturday. All performances will be given in the College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132) and will be open to the Members of the cast will be Jim Huff of Jonesboro,

Steven Graver of Jonesboro, Tim Burton of Morrow, David

Hunt of College Park, Steven Caswell of Atlanta, Connie

Lambert Durham of Riverdale, Julie Rogers of Fayetteville, Martha Wilson of Forest Park, Carla Caldwell of

Directed by Dr. Larry Corse, other members of the CJC

East Point, and Kathy Thurman of Rex.

"The Lass That Loved a all performances are free

the performance as Students in the drama will be Michele Hagist of Riverdale, Clytemnestra;

Rasmussen of Riverdale, performances.

Park, Iphigenia; Steve not be required for the choreography is by Mike Holt of Forest Park, and costumes were designed by Stephanie Simmons of Forest

Accompanying the choir are CJC faculty members

Jeannine Morrison and Dr. Elena Zimmerman at the piano and Doris Holloway with the violin. Mark Dubuisson, a

The first performance of the Fall Quarter musical was student from Griffin, will play the cello.

given on Tuesday evening.

Comedy Slated For Next Week

Clayton Junior College Choir Performs nie Durham of Riverdale, Forest Park will make the "H.M.S. Pinafore" or lecture hall (Room G-132), Friday and Saturday. Huff of Jonesboro, Steven Park.

Cast members are Jim and Martha Wilson of Forest Graver of Jonesboro, Tim

Mike Holt of Forest Park for the free performances

ing four performances next and Saturday of next week. at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Burton of Morrow, David will do the choreography and and seats will be available Scheduled in the college's Thursday and at 8 p.m. on Hunt of College Park, Con- Stephanie Simmon also of on a first-come, first-served costumes Tickets will not be issued

Among his other books are

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 11/1/79 Schlesinger to Speak At Clayton Junior former special assistant to "A Thousand Days: John F. President John F. Kennedy, Kennedy in the White will be featured at Clayton House," "The Age of Jackson," and "The Junior College Nov. 6. Appearing in a continuing Imperial Presidency.' Lyceum-sponsored lecture Recipient of numerous series, Schlesinger will honorary degrees and speak on "The Individual awards, Schlesinger is a

Arthur Schlesinger, Jr.,

and The State." The trustee of the Robert F. program, scheduled at 8:30 Kennedy Memorial, and p.m. in the lecture hall serves on the Board of Direc-(Room G-132), will be free tors of the John F. Kennedy and open to the public. Library and the Harry S. Currently an Albert Truman Library. Schweitzer Professor of Tuesday's lecture will be Humanities at the City another in a series on University in New York, "change and challenge," the theme of Clayton Junior Schlesinger served from 1961 until 1964. He was a College's Tenth Anniversary member of Adlai Stevenson's presidential campaign staff, both in 1952 and 1956. A graduate of Harvard, Schlesinger did postgraduate work at Cambridge University in England. He received the Pulitzer Prize for History in 1946, and another for Biography in 1966. He also received the National Book Award in 1966, and again in 1979 for his book, "Robert Kennedy and His Times."

owners are scheduled next week by the Clayton Junior College Small Business Development Center. "Effective Advertising and Promotion" will be conducted Feb. 25 and 27 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each day. "How To Apply for An SBA Loan" will be discussed during the second seminar, scheduled between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. on March 1.

A $15 registration fee covers both sessions in the opening seminar and a $17 fee for Saturday's program includes lunch. Additional information may be obtained by telephoning 363-7788. South Metro business people may call 363-7717 to reserve a place in either Schlesinger

Former Advisor Supports Teddy

By RANDY COX

Historian Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., who served as special assistant to Presirecently said he would back the presidential candidacy of the late presidency's younger brother, Ted. Schlesinger, the final guest lecturer at Clayton the tide of inflation and hold Junior College's lyceum back the cost of energy. series, made his comments in a pre-lecture news con- favor dismantling all ference at the college.

won a Pulitzer Prize for "A but added he didn't endorse Thousand Days," his book construction of any more about the Kennedy nuclear plants. presidency, also told a crowded auditorium of his intentions to support the youngest of the Kennedy entitled to a choice," he said. "They didn't get one in 1976," referring to the presidential race between President Jimmy Carter and former President Gerald

"We're in a situation where it will require a real flation and energy," problem, nor would have Roosevelt.

IN HIS lecture, Schlesinger listed inflation and high-cost energy as the biggest problems facing Americans today. "Inflation is as great a threat to individual freedom

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN

to the public.

at 7 p.m. on Dec. 7 and 8.

will feature a French Christ-

Activities each evening dents.

Lass That Loved a Sailor" will day and Saturday.

be presented at Clayton Junior Directed by Dr. Larry Corse,

College during performances on "H.M.S. Pinafore" is the story

Nov. 13, 15, 16 and 17. of an age-old struggle between Scheduled in the College's Lec- father and daughter over the ture Hall (Room G-132), all per- man she is to marry. In love

formances will be free and open with a common sailor, her

8:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Members of the cast are Jim

Festivities Center Around St. Nick

Performances will begin at has better things in mind.

as the depression was 50 years ago," he said. He said high interest rates won't stop inflation.

"NO ONE knows how to stop inflation," he said. He added, however, the country needs a "weightier" political leader to take "stronger" measures to halt

Schlesinger said he didn't nuclear energy plants SCHLESINGER, who Three Mile Island Plant,

COMMENTING on the current situation in Iran, Schlesinger said if the United States uses military "The American people are force to free 60 American hostages now being held captive at the U.S. Embassy in Iran, it would mean death for all the hostages.

The students holding the hostages have a "selfrighteous hatred of the modernizing west," he said. Schlesinger says he's effort on the problems of in- retired from politics, and plans to complete his multi-Schlesinger said. "Carter volume work of the hasn't attacked the presidency of Franklin father, the captain of the ship,

'Pinafore'

Continues At Clayton Jr.

Continuing performances of the Gilbert and Sullivan musical comedy "H.M.S. Pinafore" will be given at Clayton Junior College

Thursday, Friday and Presented by members of the CJC Choir, performances will begin at 8:30 Pp.m. on Thursday and at 8 p.m. both Friday and Satur-All performances will be given in the College's Lec-Sture Hall (Room G-132) and will be open to the public without charge.

MEMBERS of the cast will be Jim Huff, of Jonesboro, Steven Graver, of Jonesboro, Tim Burton, of Morrow, David Hunt, of College Park, Steven Caswell, of Atlanta, Connie Lambert Durham, of Riverdale, Julie Rogers, of Fayet-teville, Martha Wilson, of Forest Park, Carla Caldwell, of East Point, and Kathy Thurman, of Rex. Directed by Dr. Larry Corse, other members of the CJC Choir will be joined by of former members who played major roles in previous musicals. Sets were designed by Graver, choreography is by Mike Holt, of Forest Park, and costumers were designed by Stephanie Simmons, of

THE SOUTH FULTON RECORD Non-Credit

Forest Park.

December 20, 1979 Clayton Junior College will begin taking registration for Winter Quarter non-credit continuing education classes on Wednesday, January 2, 1980.

Coordinated through the Office of Community Services, more than 75 non-credit offerings are scheduled during the quarter, and most classes will begin the week of January

A number of courses for the business and professional field will be offered, along with others dealing with the home and individual person growth. In addition, classes are planned in sports, recreation, the arts, music and leisure time ac-

Also included in the Winter Quarter schedule is a continuation of a "small business management series" co-sponsored with the College's Small Business Development

Sir Joseph Porter; Steven

Graver of Jonesboro, Captain

Corcoran; Tim Burton of

Morrow, Ralph Rackstraw;

David Hunt of College Park,

Dick Deadeye; Steven Caswell

of Atlanta, Bill Bobstay; Connie

Lambert Durham of Riverdale.

Josephine; Julie Rogers of Fayetteville and Martha Wilson of Forest Park, Cousin Hebe-

and Carla Caldwell of East

Point and Kathy Thurman of members of the College choir, the chorus for the show will in-

In addition to the other

Clayton Is Planning Madrigal Dinner

Clayton Junior College's the life of Saint Nicholas. the meal" ticket, must be be an original stage dance clude turkey with chestnut provide free babysitting for fourth annual holiday Music, dancing, drama and obtained through the Office accompanying the Benjamin and pork dressing, nutty patrons.

Madrigal Dinner will be held skits also will be provided by of the Dean of Students Britten's "Saint Nicholas" sweet potato peach bake,

tion in order to view the Reservations, which will purchase a dinner reserva- Dr. Larry Corse.

clude 12 former members of the first-served basis each evening.

approximately 80 CJC stu- (phone 363-7735) by Dec. 5. cantata, sung by the CJC fruit and nut salad, and oth- sic Department will com-

It will not be necessary to Choir under the direction of er festive foods.

Rex, Little Buttercup.

HMS Pinafore On Stage At Clayton Junior College

"H.M.S. Pinafore" or "The Thursday, and at 8 p.m. on Fri- Huff of Jonesboro who will play choir who have had roles in

Cello Performance Amati Cello Rose Gives To Be Part Admirable Of Concert

Concert

By JOHN SCHNEIDER

Leonard Rose has been cited by the New York Times

as "the most successful American cellist playing today." His winning recital at Clayton Junior College Sunday afternoon affirmed that tribute. One of the few artists of his generation to have received his entire musical training in this country, Rose has enjoyed a distinguished career as orchestral musician, soloist, chamber music player and teacher, that might well serve as a model

o for all young musicians.

The first half of Sunday's program - Beethoven's E-flat Variations, Brahms's F Major Sonata, and a Sonata in E Major by Francoeur - revealed the playing of a true master. Rose's tone, from his Cexquisite 1662 Amati instrument, is in itself a joy, but so is the unerring projection of the structure and musical verity of everything he plays.

the stage, inducing a friendly atmosphere that enhanced even more the enjoyment of

In Debussy's only cello sonata, Rose blended sensuousness and humor with consummate skill. Schumann's sweep, and

Adagio and Allegro, Opus 70, surged along with the right emotional sweep, and Chopin's dashing Introduction and Polonaise Brillante brought the printed program to an appropriately brilliant

Rose's young and highly sensitive playing could not be faulted, although there were competent collaborator. His moments, especially in the Brahms and Debussy sonatas,

when the difference in level of maturity between the two

As encores for the very appreciative capacity audience,

Jacques Ibert's delightful Little White Donkey and a Chopin nocturne were added.

artists was discernible.

previous musicals. Sets will be designed by Steven Graver.

choreography will be by Mike

Holt of Forest Park, and costumes will be designed by

Stephanie Simmons of Forest

be CJC faculty members Jeannine Morrison and Dr. Elena

Zimmerman at the piano and Doris Holloway with the violin.

Mark Dubuisson, a student from Griffin, will play the cello.

the free performances and seats will be available on a first-come,

Tickets will not be issued for Accompanying the choir will his superb playing.

emotional

Rose chatted amiably from

One of America's finest cellists will be featured during an afternoon recital at Clayton Junior College Sun-

Leonard Rose, a member of the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music, will perform at 3 p.m. in the College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132)

Open to the public, no admission will be charged. Accompanied on the tour by pianist David Stein, Rose's rare Amati cello, dated 1662, ranks as one of the finest Cremonese instruments in existence today.

At age 20, Rose was named solo cellist for the NBC Symphony, and a year later, became solo cellist with the Cleveland Orchestra. At 25, he joined the New York Philharmonic Orchestra as solo cellist.

For a number of years, he has toured as a solo recitalist and as a guest artist with many major orchestras. In addition, he has recorded more than seven albums with Columbia Records. Many of Rose's students have been first-chair cellists with several orchestras. Rose himself studied with Felix Salmond at the Curtis Institute

Sunday afternoon's recital will be the last in a series of Fall Quarter programs and events planned in celebration of Clayton Junior College's 10th Anniversary.

Signups Planned On Jan. 2

Registration for Winter Quarter classes offered at Clayton Junior College will be conducted on Wednesday, Jan. 2 and classes for the 11week quarter will begin the following day.

Students enrolling at the College for the first time must report to Room G-132 either at 10 a.m. or 6 p.m. for orientation and registration explanations.

Returning students may register between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., or 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday Registration for credit classes has been moved to the upper level of the Student Center Building-the "D" Building-this quarter. For complete information about the registration process, phone the College's Office of Admissions and Records (363-7723).

To set the mood, the Mu-

Bill Gore will direct varibine efforts to provide music

Dinner will be served by appropriate for the occa-

CELLIST LEONARD ROSE In Recital At CJC Sunday

Cellist Featured In CJC Recital

cellists will be featured during a Sunday afternoon recital at Clayton Junior Lenard Rose, a member of the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music, will perform at 3 p.m. in the College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Open to the public, no admission will be charged.

Accompanied on the tour by pianist David Stein, Rose's rare Amati cello, dated 1662, ranks as one of the finest Cremonese instruments in existence

At age 20, Rose was named solo cellist for the NBC Symphony, and a year later, became solo cellist with the Cleveland Orchestra. At 25, he joined the New York Philharmonic Orchestra as solo cellist.

For a number of years, he has toured as a solo recitalist and as a guest artist with many major orchestras. In

Registration Is Slated At College

Clayton Junior College will begin taking registration for winter quarter non-credit continuing education classes on Wednesday.

Coordinated through the Office of Community Services, more than 75 noncredit offerings are scheduled during the quarter and most classes will begin the week of Jan. 14-18. A number of courses for the business and professional field will be offered, along with others dealing with the home and individual personal growth. In addition, classes are planned in sports, recreation, the arts, music, and leisure time activities. Also included in the winter quarter schedule is a continuation of a Small Business Management Series cosponsored with the college's Small Business Development Center. Designed to help small business owners with big problems associated with their firm, experts in the various fields to be covered will teach these courses. In addition to a full schedule of classes to be taught on the College campus near Morrow, non-credit courses will again be offered at M.

D. Collins High School in College Park. Dog obedience training will be co-sponsored with local organizations at the Jonesboro Recreation Center, the Riverdale Community Center and the North

Clayton Community Center. A new course in Home Appliance Repair will be taught on Tuesday evenings at Forest Park Vocational High School.

To reserve a place in one or more classes, to obtain a listing of all courses, or for more information, residents can call the Office of Community ervices at 363-7717 on or after Wednesday.

To accommodate registration, special office hours have been scheduled during the first three weeks of January (Jan. 2-18). The office will be open from 8 a.m. until 7:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday each week; between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Fridays and from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Satur-

Registration by mail should be addressed to the attention to the Office of Community Services.

One of America's finest addition, he has recorded more than seven albums with Columbia Records.

> Many of Rose's students have been first-chair cellist with several orchestras. Rose himself studied with Felix Salmond at the Curtis

> Sunday afternoon's recital will be the last in a series of Fall Quarter programs and events planned in celebration of Clayton Junior College's Tenth Anniversary.

Clayton To Hold Concert

The Clayton Community Chorus will present its 11th Annual Christmas Concert at Clayton Junior College on Friday evening.

A variety of traditional and contemporary carols from several countries will be presented in the 8 p.m. program, scheduled in the College's Lecture Hall

There will be no admission fee for the program. Co-sponsored by the College and the Clayton County Parks and Recreation Department, the Community Chorus includes area residents who "sing for fun."

A quarterly non-credit offering through the College's O Office of Community Services, chorus members have been preparing for the Christmas concert season ∾ since late September.

Directed by Marti Slife, the Community Chrous was selected this year to sing with other groups for the Dighting of the Great Thanksgiving evening at Rich's downtown.

In addition to Friday's performance at the College, the group will sing at the Yule Log Ceremony during a 6:30 p.m. program at the Reynold's Nature Preserve ─ on Dec. 17.

On the following evening, beginning at 6:30 p.m., they will perform at the Omni International. Included in Friday's program will be a series of traditional English and French carols. An unusual Huron Indian carol will be performed, along with a performed, along with a Czech Zither carol, a West Indian Calypso carol, and a new carol with words and music by Rod McKuen.

Vocal soloists on the program include Diane Land, Bud Yancey and Cathy Bashaw. Also featured will be Kathy Massengill, flutist; Hans Hamm, guitarist; and George Henderson on the resonator bells. Ann Manuel will accompany the Chorus at the piano. All three holiday performances will be free and open to the public.

CJC Madrigal Dinner Planned Clayton Junior College's provide free babysitting for

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 11/29/79

Leonard Rose

Featured Cellist

At Clayton Jr.

One of America's finest cellists will be featured during a Sunday afternoon recital at Clayton Junior College Dec. 2.

Leonard Rose, a member of the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music, will perform at 3 p.m. in the College's Lecture Hall (Room C. 132).

G-132). Open to the public, no admission will be charged.

Rose will be accompanied on the tour by pianist David Stein. Rose's rare Amati cello, dated 1662, ranks as one of the finest

AT 20, Rose was named solo cellist for the

NBC Symphony, and a year later, became solo cellist with the Cleveland Orchestra. At 25, he joined the New York Philharmonic

For a numer of years, he has toured as a solo recitalist and as a guest at with many major orchestras. In addition, he has recorded more than seven albums with Columbia Records.

MANY of Rose's students have been first-chair cellists with several orchestras. Rose himself studied with Felix Salmond at the Sunday afternoon's recital will be the last in a series of fall quarter programs and events planned in celebration of Clayton Junior College's tenth anniversary.

Orchestra as solo cellist.

Cremonese instruments in existence today.

fourth annual holiday Madrigal Dinner will be held at 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, December 7 and 8.

Activities each evening will feature a French Christmas feast centering around the life of Saint Nicholas. Music, dancing, drama and skits also will be provided by approximately Reservations, which will include a $6 "cost-of-themeal" ticket, must be obtained through the Office of the Dean of Students at 363-7735 by Wednesday, December 5. However, it will not be necessary to purchase a dinner reservation in order to view the festivities. CJC drama students, under the direction of Dr. Bill Pasch, will enact various scenes from the legend of Saint Nicholas. Included will be cantata, sung by the CJC choir under the direction of Dr. Larry Corse. The evening also will include other entertainments in the form of entrees, desserts and games. An elaborate menu planned by Food Services Manager Mrs.

festive foods. Dinner will be served by Language Club, sponsored by Dr. June Legge, also will 80 CJC students.

an original stage dance accompanying the Benjamin Britten's "Saint Nicholas"

Bea Allen and her staff will include turkey with chestnut and pork dressing, nutty sweet potato peach bake, fruit and nut salad, and other members of the College's Foreign Language Club, dressed in period costumes they have designed and made. The Foreign

To set the mood, the Music Department will combine efforts to provide music appropriate for the occasion. Bill Gore will direct various students in instrumental offerings, including music by Francois Couperin. Mrs. Doris Holloway will accompany students singing traditional Christmas carols, both in French and English.

In addition, guests will be serenaded by strolling minstrels.

Madrigals Continue

More than 80 Clayton Junior College students will take part in festive singing, dancing, and acting productions during the College's Cfourth annual holiday Madrigal Dinner this weekend.

Activities during a French Christmas feast will begin in the College cafeteria at p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 7 and 8. Dinner reservations at $6 each are required through the Office of the Dean of Students, but there will be no charge to view the z festivities.

CJC music and drama students will join with a number of faculty members in providing entertainment throughout each evening. Foreign language students, fully-dressed in period costumes, will serve dinner. ≥ feast will include turkey with chestnut and pork dressing, nutty sweet potato peach bake, fruit and nut salad, and other festive

NEWS/DAILY February 10, 1980 CJC Schedules Seminar

Personnel problems of small business owners will be the topic of a two-day workshop scheduled at Clayton Junior College this week.

Sponsored by the College's Small Business Development Center (SBDC), "understanding and dealing with personnel problems" will be the topic of three-hour sessions scheduled on Monday and Wednesday. A $15 registration fee will cover the cost of both sessions, planned between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening.

During the program, participants should obtain a better understanding of how to successfully select and manage the human side of their business.

Another in a continuing series of programs for small business owners, complete information may be obtained by phoning the SBDC office at 363-7788. To register, call CJC's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

Clayton College slates events

Upcoming events at Clayton Junior College: Wednesday, Jan. 9

Clayton Junior College's Lyceum Committee will present the Atlanta Civic Opera in a noon concert in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132).

Dr. Stu Martin, Associate Professor of English at Clayton Junior College, will be presented in a "tenor recital" at noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132), Jan. 16.

Also on Jan. 16 Clayton ✓ Junior College's General Entertainment Committee will present singer/guitarist Tim Bays in a noon concert to be given on the upper level of the Student Center Building. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

Festive Dancing

mas feast centering around include a $6 "cost-of-

CJC Students Plan Fourth Madrigal Dinner

More than 80 Clayton Junior College students will take part in festive acting productions during the College's fourth annual holiday

Madrigal Dinner this weekend. Activities during a French Christmas feast number of faculty will begin in the College members in providing cafeteria at 7 p.m. on entertainment throu-

Friday and Saturday, December 7 and 8. Dinner reservations at $6 singing, dancing, and each are required through the Office of the Dean of Students, but there will be no charge to view the festivities. CJC music and drama students will join with a Foreign language students, fully-dressed in period costumes, will serve dinner. The elaborate

Christmas feast will include turkey with chestnut and pork dressing, nutty sweet potato peach bake, fruit and nut salad, and other festive foods.

Clayton Jr. Sets Registration

The evening also will in- members of the College's sion.

clude other entertainments Foreign Language Club, der the direction of Dr. Bill serts and games. An they have designed and offerings, including music

Pasch, will enact various elaborate menu planned by made. The Foreign Lan- by Francois Couperin.

scenes from the legend of Food Services Manager Bea guage Club, sponsored by Saint Nicholas. Included will Allen and her staff will in- Dr. June Legge, also will company students.

CJC drama students, un- in the form of entrees, des- dressed in period costumes ous students in instrumental and classes for the 11-week following day.

Students enrolling at the Office of Admissions and College for the first time Records (363-7723) on either at 10 a.m. or 6 p.m. for orientation and registration explanations.

12/20/79

must report to Room G-132 registration day.

may register between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., or 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN Registration for winter Registration for credit clasquarter credit classes of- ses has been moved to the fered at Clayton Junior upper level of the Student College will be conducted on Center Building ("D" Wednesday, Jan. 2, 1980, Building) this quarter. For complete information quarter will begin the about the registration process, phone the College's

RETURNING students

Thursday

•CJC SPEAKER, Dr. Donald Ratajczak, director of the Economic Forecasting Project at Georgia State University, will speak during a noon lecture Thursday at Clayto Junior College. Topic: "Keeping up with econor

will be presented at 12 noon Wednesday in the lecture hal

(room G-132) at Clayton Junior College. Free, publi

Saturday

·SEMINAR: an overview of small business management, will be held at Clayton Junior College from 9:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday. A $20 fee includes lunch. For information, call 363-7788.

Tuesday

•CJC SPEAKER, Dr. Morton H. Halperin, director 677. Center for National Security Studies and a former deali assistant secretary of Defense, will speak on "Amerin role in world affairs" during an 11 a.m. lecture Tuesday

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS

December 26, 1979

CJC News

Registration Begins for Non - Credit Courses

Clayton Junior College begin taking registration for Winter Quarter non-credit continuing education classes on Wednesday,

January 2, 1980. Coordinated through the Office of Community Services, more than 75 non-credit offerings are scheduled during the quarter, and most classes will begin the week of January 14-18. A number of courses for the business and professional field will be offered, along with others dealing with the home and individual personal growth. In addition, classes are planned in sports, recreation, the arts, music, and leisure time activities.

Also included in the Winter Quarter schedule is a continuation of a 'small business management series" cosponsored with the College's Small Business Development Center. Designed to help small business owners with problems associated with their firm, experts in the various fields to be covered will teach these In addition to a full schedule of classes to be taught on the College campus near Morrow, non-credit courses will again be offered at M.D. Collins High School in College Park. Dog obedience training will be co-sponsored with local organizations at the Jonesboro Recreation Center, the Riverdale Community Center, and the North Clayton Community Center.

A new course in "home appliance repair" will be taught on Tuesday evenings at Forest Park Vocational High School. To reserve a place in one or more classes, to obtain a listing of all courses, or for more information, call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717 on or after January 2. To accommodate registration, special office hours have been scheduled during the first three weeks of January (Jan. 2-18; . The office will be open from 8 a.m. until 7:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday each week; between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Fridays; and > on Saturdays. Registration by mail should be addressed to the attention to the Office of Community Services.

from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Signups Planned On Jan. 2

Registration for Winter Quarter classes offered at Clayton Junior College will be conducted on Wednesday, Jan. 2 and classes for the 11week quarter will begin the following day. Students enrolling at the College for the first time must report to Room G-132 either at 10 a.m. or 6 p.m. for orientation and registration explanations. Returning students may register between 10 a.m. and ☐ 2 p.m., or 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. ☐ on Wednesday. Registration for credit classes has been moved to the upper level of the Student Center Building-the "D" Building-this quarter. For complete information about the registration process, phone the College's U Office of Admissions and Records (363-7723).

Signups Planned On Jan. 2

Registration for Winter Quarter classes offered at Clayton Junior College will be conducted on Wednesday, Jan. 2 and classes for the 11week quarter will begin the following day. Students enrolling at the oCollege for the first time must report to Room G-132 either at 10 a.m. or 6 p.m. for orientation and registration explanations.

Returning students may register between 10 a.m. and p.m., or 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. ○ on Wednesday.

Registration for credit classes has been moved to Zthe upper level of the Stu--dent Center Building-the 'D" Building-this quarter. For complete information about the registration process, phone the College's Office of Admissions and Records (363-7723).

NEWS/DAILY January 9, 1980

Monday

•SOUTH METRO DENTAL HYGIENE COMPONENT will meet Monday, Jan. 14, at 7:30 p.m. at Clayton Junior College (Room D-7). Dr. Michael M. Vuocolo will speak on oral and maxillofacial surgery.

Wednesday

CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE'S Lyceum Committee will present the Atlanta Civic Opera in a concert on Wednesday, Jan. 9, at 12 noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Public invited; free admission.

NEWS/DAILY January 8, 1980

Monday

•SOUTH METRO DENTAL HYGIENE COMPONENT will meet Monday, Jan. 14, at 7:30 p.m. at Clayton Junior Collège (Room D-7). Dr. Michael M. Vuocolo will speak on oral and maxillofacial surgery.

Wednesday

CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE'S Lyceum Committee will present the Atlanta Civic Opera in a concert on Wednesday, Jan. 9, at 12 noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Public invited; free admiss

THE SOUTH FULTON RECORDER CJC Registers Jan. 2

Registration for Winter problems associated with their To reserve a place in one or Quarter credit classes offered firm, experts in the various more classes, to obtain a listing at Clayton Junior College will fields to be covered will teach of all courses, or for more be conducted on Wednesday, Janaury 2, 1980, and classes for the 11-week quarter will begin the following day. Students enrolling at the non-credit courses will again be registration, special office College for the first time must offered at M. D. Collins High hours have been scheduled report to Room G-132 either at School in College Park. Dog during the first three weeks of 10 a.m. or 6 p.m. for orientation obedience training will be coand registration explanations. Returning students may register between 10 a.m. and 2 Recreation Center, the p.m., or 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday. Registration for and the North Clayton credit classes has been moved Community Center. to the upper level of the Student

For complete information Park Vocational High School. Services. about the registration process, phone the College's Office of Admissions and Records (363-7723) on registration day.

these courses.

of classes to be taught on the on or after January 2. College campus near Morrow, sponsored with local organizations at the Jonesboro Riverdale Community Center,

A new course in "home Center Building ("D" Building) appliance repair" will be taught on Tuesday evenings at Forest the Office of Community information, call the Office of In addition to a full schedule Community Services at 363-7717

January (Jan. 2-18). The office will be open from 8 a.m. until 7:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday each week; between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Fridays; and from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Saturdays.

Registration by mail should be addressed to the attention to

Registration Is Slated Is Slated At College

Clayton Junior College will begin taking registration for winter quarter non-credit continuing education classes on Wednesday.

Coordinated through the Office of Community Services, more than 75 noncredit offerings are scheduled during the quarter and most classes will begin the week of Jan. 14-18.

A number of courses for the business and professional field will be offered, along with others dealing with the home and individual personal growth. In addition, classes are planned in sports, recreation, the arts, music, and leisure time activities. Also included in the winter quarter schedule is a continuation of a Small Business Management Series cosponsored with the college's Small Business Development Center. Designed to help small business owners with big problems associated with their firm, experts in the various fields to be covered will teach these courses. In addition to a full schedule of classes to be taught on the College campus near Morrow, non-credit courses will again be offered at M. D. Collins High School in College Park.

Dog obedience training will be co-sponsored with local organizations at the ter, the Riverdale Community Center and the North Clayton Community Center. A new course in Home Appliance Repair will be taught on Tuesday evenings at Forest Park Vocational High School. To reserve a place in one or more classes, to obtain a listing of all courses, or for more information, residents can call the Office of Community ervices at 363-7717 on or after Wednesday. To accommodate registration, special office hours have been scheduled during the first three weeks of January (Jan. 2-18). The office will be open from 8 a.m. until 7:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday each week: between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Fridays and from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Satur-room G-132 at 8 p.m.

Registration by mail should be addressed to the attention to the Office of Community Services.

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS 1/9/80

CJC's Upcoming Events

Upcoming events at Clayton Junior College:

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 9

Clayton Junior College's Lyceum Committee will present the Atlanta Civic Opera in a 12 noon concert in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). The public is

+++++

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 16

Dr. Stu Martin, Associate Professor of English at Clayton Junior College, will be presented in a

'tenor recital" at 12 noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). The public is invited to attend free of

Clayton Junior College's General Entertainment

Committee will present singer-guitarist Tim Bays in a 12 noon concert to be given on the upper level of the Student Center Building. The public is invited to A free seminar on "how to buy a house" will be conducted at Clayton Junior College, featuring

Clayton County Extension Agent Charles Tucker

and a panel of experts. For complete information, call the College's Office of Community Services invited to attend free of charge.

attend free of charge.

Clayton Singers

"Fiddler on the Roof" will be presented by the

Clayton Junior College Choir Thursday, Friday and

Free tickets are required from the office of the dean of students by calling 363-7735.

Thursday's performance will be held in room G-132

Friday's and Saturday's performance will be held in

Set Performance

Registration At College

Clayton Junior College will begin taking registration for winter quarter non-credit continuing education classes on Wednesday.

Coordinated through the Office of Community Services, more than 75 noncredit offerings are scheduled during the quarter and most classes will begin the week of Jan. 14-18. A number of courses for the business and professional field will be offered, along with others dealing with the home and individual personal growth. In addition, classes are planned in sports, recreation, the arts, music, and leisure time activities.

Also included in the winter quarter schedule is a continuation of a Small Business Management Series ocosponsored with the college's Small Business Development Center.

Designed to help small business owners with big problems associated with their firm, experts in the various fields to be covered will teach these courses. In addition to a full schedule of classes to be taught on the College campus near Morrow, non-credit courses will again be offered at M. D. Collins High School in College Park. Dog obedience training will be co-sponsored with local organizations at the Jonesboro Recreation Center, the Riverdale Community Center and the North Clayton Community Center. A new course in Home Appliance Repair will be taught on Tuesday evenings at Forest Park Vocational High School.

To reserve a place in one or more classes, to obtain a listing of all courses, or for more information, residents can call the Office of Community ervices at 363-7717 on or after Wednesday. To accommodate registration, special office hours have been scheduled during the first three weeks of January (Jan. 2-18). The office will be open from 8 a.m. until 7:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday each week: between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Fridays and from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Satur-

Registration by mail should be addressed to the attention to the Office of Community Services.

On Soviets Talks Here

"U.S.-Soviet Relations" (Room G-132).

to the public.
While working as a member of Gold Kist's commodity research department, Lord was responsible for international and domestic market analysis and international trade negotiations.

He once worked as a negotiator for an exchange of historical documents between the Library of Congree and the Liningrad Public Library, and served as a Russian linguist for the U.S.

Business Seminar Planned

programs sponsored by ment Center is scheduled for Saturday.

lunch.

legal procedures, insurance, and financial concerns. For more information, contact the Small

Another program in a continuing Lyceum series, Lord's lecture will be open

The day-long course, entitled "how to start and manage a small business," will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 4:30 p.m. A $22 registration fee includes at 4:30 p.m. A $22 registration fee includes lunch.

Clayton Junior College's

Authority 2/6/

An authority on the Soviet Union will be featured during a lecture at Clayton Jun-

After receiving his bachelor's degree from Birmingham Southern College, Lord majored in Rus-

Monday

•SOUTH METRO DENTAL HYGIENE COMPONENT will meet Monday, Jan. 14, at 7:30 p.m. at Clayton Junior College (Room D-7). Dr. Michael M. Vuocolo will speak on oral and maxillofacial surgery.

Wednesday

•RECITAL. Dr. Stu Martin, associate professor of English at Clayton Junior College, will be presented in a "tenor recital" on Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 12 noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Public invited; No charge.

•CONCERT. Clayton Junior College's General Entertainment Committee will present singer-guitarist Tim Bays in a concert on Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 12 noon. Upper level of Student Center Building. Public invited; no charge. •SEMINAR on "How To Buy A House," will be held at Clayton Junior College on Wednesday, Jan. 16, from 7 to 9 p.m. For information, call 363-7717.

NEWS/DAILY January 14, 1980

Monday

•SOUTH METRO DENTAL HYGIENE COMPONENT will meet Monday, Jan. 14, at 7:30 p.m. at Clayton Junior College (Room D-7). Dr. Michael M. Vuocolo will speak on oral and maxillofacial surgery.

Wednesday

•RECITAL. Dr. Stu Martin, associate professor of English at Clayton Junior College, will be presented in a 'tenor recital' on Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 12 noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Public invited; No charge. •CONCERT. Clayton Junior College's General Entertainment Committee will present singer-guitarist Tim Bays in a concert on Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 12 noon. Upper level of Student Center Building. Public invited; no charge.

•SEMINAR on "How To Buy A House," will be held at Clayton Junior College on Wednesday, Jan. 16, from 7 to 9 p.m. For information, call 363-7717.

THE CLAYTON SUN 1/24/80 Dance Troupe At CJC Jan. 30

A well-know Atlanta- classical based dance company will perform at Clayton Junior the Gershwin music, and College next week. The Ruth Mitchell Dance Company, which blends jazz with classical and modern dance, will present an hour-long program of varied works, beginning at National Endowment for noon in the lecture hall day, Jan. 30.

RUTH MITCHELL, founder and artistic director of the company, has been invative in the use of contemporary rock music in her concerts, and this season is no exception. The group will perform "Faces of Eve," set to the music of Tomita, when it appears at the College. The dance is based on the classical story of "multiple personality," and features Anne Finch, Lauri Worrill, and Carla Lewis.

the Arts, and there is no (Room G-132) on Wednes- charge. THE CLAYTON SUN Furniture 1/24/80

Workshop

"Embraceable You," set to others from the repertoire.

group are presented with the joint support of the Georgia

Council for the Arts and Humanities and the

All performances by the ballet

A furniture refinishing short course will be taught by Kathy Wages and Dawn Trivett, Clayton County Extension Service Home Economists at Clayton Junior College.

Slated Jan. 28

The first part of the series will be taught Jan. 28 from 1-4 p.m. and then again from 6:30 p.m.-9:30 p.m., and will cover steps in refinishing, cleaning, repairing, removing old finish and dents, bleaching, sanding and using wood filler.

THE SECOND part of the series will be taught Jan. 30 from 1-4 p.m. and then again from 6:30-9:30 p.m. To register for the class.

call Clayton Junior College at 363-7717.

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS December 12, 1979 Clayton Chorus sings Friday

The Clayton Comthe College's Lecture munity Chorus will Hall (Room G-132). present its 11th Annual There will be no ad-Christmas Concert at mission fee for the Clayton Junior College program. on Friday evening, December 14.

Co-sponsored by the College and the Clayton A variety of traditional County Parks and and contemporary Recreation Department, carols from several the Community Chorus countries will be includes area residents presented in the 8 p.m. who "sing for fun." A program, scheduled in quarterly non-credit offering through the College's Office of Community Services, chorus members have been preparing for the Christmas concert season since late September. Directed by Marti Slife, the Community Chorus was selected this year to sing with other groups for the lighting of he "Great Tree" on Thanksgiving evening at Rich's downtown. In addition to Friday's performance at the College, the group will sing at the Yule Log Ceremony during a 6:30 p.m. program at the Reynold's Nature Preserve on Monday, December 17. On the following evening, beginning at 6:30 p.m.,

North Clayton Center.

TO RESERVE a place in one or more classes, to ob-they will perform at the Omni International. Included in Friday's program will be a series of traditional English and French carols. An unusual Huron Indian carol will be performed, along with Czech Zither carol, a West Indian Calypso carol, and a new carol with words and music by Rod McKuen. Vocal soloists on the program include Diane Land, Bud Yancey and Cathy Bashaw. Also featured will be Kathy Massengill, flutist; Hans Hamm, guitarist; and George Henderson on the resonator bells. Ann Manuel will accompany the Chorus at the piano. All three holiday performances will be free and open to the

have been scheduled during through Thursday each week; between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Fridays; and from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Registration by mail

Clayton Junior College

Community Services.

A new course in home ap- the first three weeks of pliance repair will be taught January (Jan. 2-18). The oron Tuesday evenings at fice will be open from 8 a.m.

Saturdays.

Forest Park Vocational High until 7:45 p.m. Monday

Services at 363-7717 on or attention to the Office of

_NEWS/DAILY January 13, 1980

Non-Credit Classes Offered Through CJC

Clayton Junior College will begin taking registration for Winter Quarter noncredit continuing education classes on Wednesday, Jan.

vices, more than 75 non- business owners with big credit offerings are problems associated with scheduled during the their firm, experts in the quarter, and most classes various fields to be covered the business and profestaught on the College after Jan. 2. sional field will be offered, campus near Morrow, nonalong with others dealing with the home and individual personal growth. In School in College Park, Dog

NEWS/DAILY

ALSO included in the Center, the Riverdale Com-winter quarter schedule is a munity Center, and the tion, special office hours continuation of a small business management series co-sponsored with the College's Small Business Coordinated through the Development Center. Office of Community Ser- Designed to help small will begin the week of Jan. will teach these courses. tain a listing of all courses, or for more information, call the Office of Community should be addressed to the

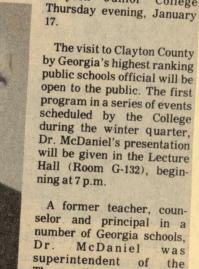

In addition to a full A number of courses for schedule of classes to be addition, classes are plan- obedience training will be ned in sports, recreation, the co-sponsored with local arts, music, and leisure time organizations at the Jonesboro Recreation

McDaniel To Speak At Clayton College January 13, 1980

Dr. Charles McDaniel, "Education in Georgia: state superintendent of Change and Challenge' schools, will speak on during a lecture scheduled at assuming the duties of state superintendent in August of Dr. Charles McDaniel NEWS/DAILY January 10, 1980 Furniture Refinishing

Shortcourse Planned A furniture refinishing and using wood filler shortcourse will be taught by Kathy Wages and Dawn Trivett, Clayton County 30 from 1 p.m to 4 p.m. and Extension Service home then again from 6:30 p.m. to economists at Clayton Junior College. The first part of the series different finishes, rubbing will be taught January 28 and polishing. from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and then again from 6:30 p.m. to call Clayton Junior College 9:30 p.m. and will cover at 363-7717. steps in refinishing, Both afternoon sessions, or

The second part of the series will be taught January 9:30 p.m. and will cover how to fill small holes and cracks, To register for the class,

Thomasville Public Schools and the Clarke County

School District before

cleaning, repairing, both evening sessions are removing old finish and necessary to attend to have dents, bleaching, sanding the complete course.

SOUTHSIDE AND FAYETTE SUN 1/10/80 "How To Buy A House"

On Agenda At CJC

Information on "how to formation on home loans buy a house" will be discus- (VA, FHA and conven-Clayton Junior College next seminar scheduled at buying a house. Clayton County Extension Agent Charles Tucker what to look for in adequate storage spaces also will be will serve as the moderator discussed.

for the program, scheduled 16. Panel members will diswell-constructed house, in- (363-7717).

sed by a panel of experts tional); and the various during a free two-hour documents you need when Tips on obtaining an energy efficient home plus

For complete information between 7 and 9 p.m., Jan. on this free seminar, contact Clayton Junior College's Ofcuss what to look for in a fice of Community Services

NEWS/DAILY January 10, 1980

Monday

SOUTH METRO DENTAL HYGIENE COMPONENT will meet Monday, Jan. 14, at 7:30 p.m. at Clayton Junior Collège (Room D-7). Dr. Michael M. Vuocolo will speak on oral and maxillofacial surgery.

Wednesday

•RECITAL. Dr. Stu Martin, associate professor of English at Clayton Junior College, will be presented in a tenor recital" on Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 12 noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Public invited; No charge. •CONCERT. Clayton Junior College's General Entertainment Committee will present singer-guitarist Tim Bays in a concert on Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 12 noon. Upper level of Student Center Building. Public invited; no charge. •SEMINAR on "How To Buy A House," will be held at Clayton Junior College on Wednesday, Jan. 16, from 7 to 9 p.m. For information, call 363-7717.

ior College next week.

Dr. Wayne Lord, manager of special projects for Gold Kist, Inc., will speak on during a 7 p.m. presentation in the College's Lecture Hall

The first seminar in a series of Winter Quarter Clayton Junior College's Small Business Develop-

An overview of small business management will be covered, including information on marketing,

contact the Small Business Development Center at 363-

Seminar The first seminar in a series of Winter Quarter programs sponsored by January 19. The day-long course, entitled "how to start business," will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude Center at 363-7788. To reserve a place in class, phone the College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

Other pieces to be presented include "Trio," a SMALL BUSINESS PROGRAM SET The first seminar in a series of winter quarter programs sponsored by Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center is scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 19. The daylong course, entitled "how to start and manage a small business," will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 4:30 p.m. A $22 registration fee includes lunch. An overview of small business management will be covered, including information on marketing, legal procedures, insurance and financial concerns. For more information, contact the Small Business Development Center at 363-7788. To reserve a place in class, phone the college's Office of Community Services

HENRY AND CLAYTON SUN 1/17/80

CJC Small Business

Small Business Development Center is scheduled for Saturday, and manage a small

An overview of small business management will be covered, including information on marketing, legal procedures, insurance, and financial concerns. For more information, Business Development

CHORUS DIRECTOR AT CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE, LARRY CORSE GETS PREPARED FOR THIS WEEKEND The Chorus Will Perform Songs At The Foreign Language Club's Madrigal Dinner Set For This Weekend

hours of practice the Foreign Language Club of Clayton Junior College will put on the Madrigal Din-

Staff Writer

After months of preparation and

MADRIGAL DINNER PREPARATIONS TAKE A LOT OF DIFFERENT LOOKS IN A LOT OF DIFFERENT AREAS Preparations Include Getting The Costumes Ready So Shirley Williams (L) Sews And Louise Smith Irons

Saturday. The format for the dinner was developed four years ago as an activity for the different clubs and organizations involved.

ner for the faculty and citizens of Clayton County this Friday and

'The first few years the choir was the chief organization involved in putting on the dinner. This is the first time that the foreign language club has handled it," Assistant Professor of English William Pash Pash is responsible for writing much of the script. Many of the ideas he has used came from old french Christmas customs.

"I have been involved with the dinner for the past three years. This year I worked with Dr. June Legge who is the sponsor for the foreign language club," Pash

About 100 students are involved in this year's production. The students are dancers, servers, actors and background people who help with the whole production.

"The format for the dinner changes each year as a different club or organization sponsors it," Pash explained

CARLA CALDWELL (L) AND DEBBIE TAYLOR, ARE PRACTICING ONE OF THE CHORUS SONGS Both Girls Are Members Of Clayton Junior College Chorus Which Will Perform Af The Madigral Dinner

RAINBOW POSE IS PART OF ONE OF THE MADRIGAL DINNER DANCES Practicing are (L-R) David Lively, Donna Sparrow And Dale Fuller

THOUGHT IS HEAVY WHEN WRITING A SPECIAL OCCASION PLAY Dr. William Pasch, CJC Professor, Wrote The Madrigal Script

KELLY LANGLEY MODELS ONE OF THE DRESSES THAT WILL BE WORN

She Will Wear It At The Madrigal Dinner To Be Held This Weekend

PRACTICE IS ESSENTIAL BEFORE PERFORMING A NEW PLAY David Pinkney (L) Steward, Merrill Jackson Is Master Of Ceremonies

Soviet Authority To Give Lecture At CJC

during a 7 p.m. presentation Library of Congress and the Studies in Atlanta.

program in a continuing and served as a Russian analyst for the Atlanta Lyceum series, Dr. Lord's linguist for the U.S. Navy. Constitution, Dr. Lord has lecture will be open to the After receiving his lectured at the Smithsonian While working as a Birmingham Southern ment's Foreign Service member of Gold Kist's College, Dr. Lord majored in Institute, and at the commodity research Russian history with an Georgetown Center for during a lecture at Clayton and domestic market and doctoral degrees from Junior College next Tuesday. analysis and international Georgetown University. He Dr. Wayne Lord, manager trade negotiations. He once was chosen to serve as of special projects for Gold worked as a negotiator for an "study group leader" on the Kist, Inc., will speak on exchange of historical U.S.S.R. for the Southern "U.S. - Soviet Relations" documents between the Center for International in Room B-15. Another Liningrad Public Library, A free-lance political bachelor's degree from Institute, the State Depart-

An Authority on the Soviet department, Dr. Lord was emphasis in Soviet affairs Strategic and International history and Soviet affairs at Union will be featured responsible for international while obtaining his masters Studies. He once taught Monmouth College in N. J.

CJC Opens for Registration

enter Clayton Junior prospective students, a re-College for the first time quirement for admission spring quarter have until into credit programs. next week to make application with the Office of Admissions and Records at the to apply, and the SAT may two-year institution. deadline for new students to (363-7723) or the Office of file applications and creden- Counseling and Testing tials for enrollment in credit (363-7744). programs at the college.

Students who plan to titude Test (SAT) to Complete information about credit programs, how be obtained from the Office Thursday, March 6, is the of Admissions and Records

Spring quarter classes will Also on Thursday, the begin with advisement and college's Office of Counsel- registration on March 24, ing and Testing will ad- and will continue through minister the Scholastic Ap- June 3-6 final examinations.

THE CLAYTON SUN 2/7/80 Soviet Authority To Speak at CJC

An authority on the Soviet Union will be featured during a lecture at Clayton Junior College next week.

Dr. Wayne Lord, manager of special projects for Gold Kist, Inc., will speak on "U.S. - Soviet Relations" during a 7 p.m. presentation in the college's lecture hall (room G-132). Another program in a continuing Lyceum series, Dr. Lord's lecture will be open to the public.

While working as a member of Gold Kist's commodity research department, Dr. Lord was responsible for international and domestic market analysis and international trade negotiations. He once worked as a negotiator for an exchange of historical documents between the Library of Congress and the Leningrad Public Library, and served as a Russian linguist for the U.S. Navy.

After receiving his bachelor's degree from Birmingham Southern College, Dr. Lord majored in Russian history with an emphasis in Soviet affairs while obtaining his masters and doctoral degrees from Georgetown University. He was chosen to serve as "study group leader" on the U.S.S.R. for the Southern Center for International Studies in Atlanta.

A free-lance political analyst for the Atlanta Constitution, Dr. Lord has lectured at the Smithsonian Institute, the State Department's Foreign Service Institute, and at the Georgetown Center for Strategic and International Studies. He once taught history and Soviet affairs at Monmouth College in New Jersey.

Personnel Problems Workshop at CJC

Personnel problems of small business owners will be the topic of a two-day workshop scheduled at Clayton Junior College next week.

Sponsored by the college's Small Business Development Center (SBDC), "understanding and dealing with personnel problems" will be the topic of three-hour sessions scheduled Monday and Wednesday, Feb. 11 and

A $15 registration fee will cover the cost of both sesions, 6:30 - 9:30 p.m.

During the program, participants should obtain a better understanding of how to successfully select and manage the human side of their business.

Complete information may be obtained by phoning the SBDC office at 363-7788. To register, call CJC's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

NEWS/DAILY January 30, 1980 CJC Schedules Budget Seminar

Small business owners can learn the essentials of cash budgeting during a two-part seminar at Clayton Junior College next week

Scheduled for Monday and Wednesday, February 4 and 6, the seminar is entitled "improving your cash flow and financial condition." Beginning at 6:30 and concluding at 9:30 p.m. each evening, a $15 registration fee will cover

Participants will receive information on how to borrow and how to manage their assets so as to minimize debt and ce in the two-part seminar, phone the

College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

FEDERAL OFFICIAL TO SPEAK AT CJC

The special assistant to the deputy administrator of the Small Business Administration (SBA) will speak at Clayton Junior College next week.

Ms. Kay Drew, who also has served as deputy advocate for the SBA and as deputy assistant comptroller of the 1976 Carter presidential campaign and inauguration, will speak at 11 a.m. on Thursday, February 7.

Another program in the College's continuing Lyceum series, the presentation will be given in Room B-12 and will be open to the public.

Ms. Drew, listed in "the top 400 women in U.S. government," has worked with the Office of Economic Opportunity, Volunteers in Service to America, and the Poverty Program.

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS 1/16/80 CJC Non Credit Courses

Clayton Junior College will offer more daytime non-credit classes this quarter than ever before, according to Ricardo D. Sanchez, Director of Community Services at the two-year Institution near Morrow.

"We have scheduled eight courses during the day in an effort to meet the many requests we have received for such offerings," Sanchez said. Most non-credit classes are offered during the evening hours.

Courses scheduled during the day include: Real Estate Sales Preparation, planned between 9 a.m. and 12 noon each Monday and Wednesday.

Introduction to Bookkeeping and Accounting, scheduled between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. also on Mondays and Wednesdays. Slimnastics, to be offered between 10 and 11 a.m. each Monday. Refresher Typing, scheduled for two weeks (January 14-25) between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Beginning Plano for Adults, planned between

"plus," scheduled between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. each Thursday. Sytle, Fashion and Your Personal Image, planned for Tuesdays between 9:30 and 11:30 These and other noncredit classes offered by the College will begin the 12 noon and 1 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday.

Drawing and Sketching for Adults, to be offered between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. each

Monday and Wednesday.

Fashion Sewing

week of January 14-18. Refresher Typing is a two-week course, Slimnastics, Drawing and Sketching, Fashion Sewing, and Style, Fashion and Your Personal Image will run six weeks each; and Real Estate Sales Preparation, Introduction to Bookkeeping and Accounting, and Beginning Plano for Adults will run for ten weeks.

Since most classes have limited enrollments, participants should phone the Office of Community Services (363-7717) to reserve a place in class.

Recital Set At College

Clayton Junior College music students will be presented during two recitals next

Sponsored by the college's Lyceum Committee, the recitals will be given in the lecture hall-room G-132-at 8:30 p.m. on March 11 and at noon on March 12. Both will be free and open to the public

By SCOTT HAMPLE

Staff Writer Dr. Tim Ryles, administrator of the State Office of Consumer Affairs, predicted Thursday the 1980s will see a movement towards more individual participation in consumer protection, a function traditionally the responsibility

President Carter initiated this movement several months ago in allowing consumers a direct voice on several federal regulatory agency executive boards but Ryles felt public participation would reach in other directions.

His lecture was one of a series of Lyceum programs observing Clayton Junior College's 10th Anniversary.

State and federal governmental agencies have been partially successful in their roles to protect the individual consumer against unfair and deceptive business practices but the triumvirate of government, industry and labor unions have not always made decisions in the best interests of the public, he

He mentioned the recent negotiations between the auto industry and the United Auto Workers as an example.

Under traditional economic theories of supply and demand, wages and employment should have been lowered in the time of declining automobile sales. But the UAW held for higher wages and fringe benefits, industry executives were concerned about profits and the federal government was only interested in keeping the peace between the two. The consumers, he said, were not represented and ultimately will be purchasing higher-priced and lower quality Government has further shown its critical interest in private industry in what Ryles called consumer legislation in reverse.

Corporations, he said, presently have limited liability unlike that given to consumers. A person caught stealing from a corporation will likely be prosecuted for his crime but the same would not hold true if the situation was reversed.

Sometimes legislation designed to protect the consumer often only benefits Laws that govern consumer protection create a different kind of law enforcement than the usual cops-and-robbers roles. "The laws don't throw (corporation executives) in jail but merely tell the corporation to stop doing whatever they are doing," he said.

Ryles felt consumers will be more actively participating in protecting their rights in the upcoming decade than ever before. Consumers could probably be sitting on the Board of Directors of corporations and become more instrumental

CJC Plans Observance Of Black History Week

celebrated during a series of events at Clayton Junior College, Tuesday through Thursday. Art exhibits will be featured, along with lectures by two prominent Black educators.

The theme for this year's Black History Month is "Heritage for America." Adopted by the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History, the theme emphasizes the Association's interest in encouraging all Americans to study our history. Speakers scheduled to appear during CJC's threeday event are Dr. Prince E. Wilson, vice president for academic affairs at Atlanta University, and Dr. Johnnie L. Clark, chairman and professor of accounting at Atlanta University Dr. Wilson will open the series of events with an 11 a.m. lecture in Room B-15 on Tuesday. A graduate of Talladega (Ala.) College, Dr. Wilson received both his masters and doctoral degrees in history from the University of jchicago. Skilled in administration, management, research, teaching, project developand conflict mediation, Dr. Wilson will speak on "Black History and Black History Week will be The Humanities." He has African imports and served as a consultant and lecturer, and has taught at every level of formal education, including allblack, all-white, and integrated schools.

> Art exhibits will be the highlight of activities on Wednesday. To be displayed between 9 a.m. and 12 noon on the Lobby of the "C" Building, art exhibits will be provided by Walter F. George High School, Henry County High School, Mt. Carmel Craft Class, and the Shrine of the Black Madonna

Exhibits will feature paintings, artifacts, crafts, hand-crafted jewelry, College clothing, and books by famous Black writers.

Dr. Clark will speak on the subject of "Blacks in Business and Accounting and Credit" during an 11 a.m. program in Room B-15 on Thursday.

Throughout February, art exhibits will be on display at two campus locations. Gwendolyn G. Bell, Public Services Librarian at CJC, has provided a display for the Lobby of the Learning Resources Center. Display cases in the "G" Building will hold exhibits by Calvin Kenly from the Phoenix Art Center and Atlanta Junior

DR. TIM RYLES, ADMINISTRATOR State Office Of Consumer Affairs

CIC Has Alumnus 'In Residence'

A former student at Clayton Junior College will return next week to serve as 'artist in residence" at the two-year institution near

Scott Belville, formerly of Jonesboro, currently a Fellow in Residence at the McDowell Colony in Peterborough, N.H., also will be featured during a lecture presentation on Thursday,

Free and open to the public, his lecture on "Art at the Moment" will be given at noon in the Lecture Hall (room G-132).

BELVILLE'S tenure as "artist in residence" will begin Jan. 28, and continue through Feb. 1. During his visit, he will be working with art students at the College.

An art instructor at Ohio University from 1975 through 1977, Belville has served as a visiting artist at the Atlanta College of Art, and as Young Artist in Residence at the University of Georgia.

HE RECEIVED his degree in painting from Ohio University after studying at CJC and the University of Georgia. His exhibits have been shown at the High Museum of Art, the Delaware Art Museum, Alfred University, and the Monique Knowlton Gallery in New York City.

In addition, Belville has participated in an invitation exhibit in Cortona and Florence, Italy.

THIS WEEK February 6, 1980 Small business problems aired

Personnel problems of small business owners will be the topic of a two-day workshop scheduled at Clayton Junior College next week.

Sponsored by the college's Small Business Development Center (SBDC) understanding and dealing with personnel problems will be the topic of three-hour sessions scheduled Monday and Wednesday, Feb. 11 and 13. A $15 registration fee will cover the cost of both sessions, planned between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening. During the program, participants should obtain a better understanding of how to successfully select and manage the human side of their businesses.

Another in a continuing series of programs for small business owners, complete information may be obtained by phoning the SBDC office at 363-7788. To register, call CJC's Office of Cummunity Services at 363-

Also at the college Dr. Wayne Lord, an authority on the Soviet Union, will be featured during a lecture Feb. 12. The lecture, which will begin at 7 p.m., is free of charge.

Furnishing

Clayton County Extension NAgent Kathy Wages will teach a home furnishings program March 5 from 7 until 9 p.m. at Clayton Junior College.

The program entitled, Your Money's Work in Home Furnishing," will explain what to look for when Sbuying new, used, unfinished, upholstered, modular and quick assembly of furniture.

For more information For more information and reservations, persons may call 363-7717.

Travel NEWS/DAILY January 27, 1980

CJC Schedules Educational Tour Of Great Britain

Ever want to pack your bags and take a two-week tour of London, major British cities, the English countryside, and the Scottish Highlands?

If so, Clayton Junior College has scheduled an educational tour in late June that would fulfill these dreams.

An exploration of Britain and her people has been planned for the two-week period beginning June 18 and ending on July 3. Sponsored through the College's Office of Community Services, the tour will be led by Dr. Robert H. Welborn, Assistant Professor of History at the two-year institution near Morrow.

The tour is open to any United States States citizen, and the $1,528 cost per person fee includes round-trip air transportation, and all hotel accomodations. Also covered will be all transportation around Britain (the tour will have its own private bus) most meals, most sight-seeing tours, boat trips, and a theater ticket and discount card for restaurants, shops, and attractions.

Because of his experience, receive an educational side of the "old country," something not ordinarily included in a travel agency tour.

participants on this tour will of Parliament, Buckingham of interest. The next nine days

Dr. Welborn, who has studied in London and traveled throughout the United Kingdom, designed the tour to be entertaining as well as educational. "I created the itinerary as if a friend came to me and asked what would be the high points to see in a twoweek period," he pointed out.

Cambridge, York, Jedgurgh, Edinburgh, Aberdeen, The first four days will be Upon-Avon, and Bristol.

spent in London, visiting the Tower of London, the Houses Palace, and other landmarks Personnel problems of small business owners

will be the topic of a two-day workshop scheduled

Sponsored by the

College's Small Business

Development Center

(SBDC), "understanding and dealing with personnel problems" will be the topic of three-hour sessions scheduled on Monday and Wednesday,

February 11 and 13. A

$15 registration fee will cover the cost of both sessions, planned between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m.

During the program, participants should obtain a better understanding of how to successfully select and manage the human side

Another in a continuing series of programs for small business owners,

complete information

may be obtained by phoning the SBDC office

at 363-7788. To register, call CJC's Office of Community Services at

of their business.

each evening.

College next week.

Clayton Junior

of the tour will include visits to Scots' House, Fort Glencoe, such cities as Windsor, Shakespeare's birthplace, and the famous Roman Baths will be included.

Glasgow, Chester, Stratford-Visits to such cities as Windsor Castle, York Cathedral, Mary Queen of

Since the tour will be limited to the first 30 people, reservations will be accepted on a first-come, ffirst-served basis. A $100 deposit will be required

REVIEWING DETAILS OF CJC SPONSORED SUMMER TOUR OF GREAT BRITAIN

Dr. Welborn (L), Tour Director, Discusses Plans With Ricardo Sanchez

and payment of the balance must be made by April 18. To obtain a brochure listing the complete itinerary, or for additional information, call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717, or Dr. Welborn (363-7758, office; or

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS

Solve Personnel Problems at CJC

Business Seminar

Solve Your Problems at CJC Seminar

Managers and administrators who have ever been faced with a problem will be interested in a one-day workshop scheduled at Clayton Junior College next week.

"Creative problem solving" was designed to help business leaders find fresh approaches to solving organizational problems. workshop, scheduled between 9 a.m. and 4 February 1, will be led by management consultant Vyto Stoskus.

A "how to" approach to creativity, stressing the practice of specific techniques and skills, will be included in the workshop. The "Think system, a Tank" recently-developed tool for generating a wide range of alternatives to problem situations, will be explained.

For additional information, or to reserve a place in class, call the College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717. registration fee includes the cost of lunch for the day-long workshop.

London Tour Planned

Ever want to pack your bags and take a two-week tour of London, major British cities, the English countryside and the Scottish highlands?

If so, Clayton Junior College has scheduled an educational tour in late June that would fulfill these dreams.

An exploration of Britain and her people has been planned for the two-week operiod beginning June 18 and ending July 3. Sponsored through the Ocollege's office of Communily Services, the tour will be Hed by Dr. Robert Welborne. assistant professor of his-Etory at the two-year institu-The tour is open to any

United States citizen and the $1,528 cost per person fee includes round-trip air transportation and all hotel accommodations. Also covered will be all transportation around Brit-

The first four days will be spent in London, visiting the Houses of Parliament. Buckingham Palace and oth-Ser landmarks of interest. The next nine days of the tour will include visits to such cities as Windsor, Camubridge. York, Jedburgh. Edinburgh. Aberdeen. Glasgow. Chester. Stratford-Upon-Avon A-Bristol.

The tour will be limited to the first 30 people and reservations will be accepted on a first-come. first-served basis.

To obtain a brochure, persons may call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717 or Welborn at 363-7758.

THE CLAYTON SUN February 28, 1980 SMALL BUSINESS SEMINARS SET

Seminars for small business owners have been scheduled at Clayton Junior College on Saturday of this week and Monday and Wednesday of next week. Saturday's session (March 1) will be on preparing a loan package and meeting requirements for a Small Business Administration (SBA) loan while next week's short course (Monday and Wednesday, March 3 and 5)

A $17 registration fee for Saturday's session, planned between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., includes the cost of lunch. The Monday-Wednesday course will be held between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening, and a $15 registration fee covers both sessions.

will be on planning a successful business.

Additional information about the two seminars may be obtained by contacting Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center (phone 363-7788), or the Office of Community Services (363-7717).

Pack Your Bags --CJC to Offer England Tour

tour of London, major restaurants, shops, and at-British cities, the English tractions. countryside, and the Scottish Highlands?

June that would fulfill these as well as educational. dreams.

and her people has been asked what would be the planned for the two-week high points to see in a twoperiod beginning June 18 week period," he pointed and ending July 3. Spon- out. sored through the College's Office of Community Services, the tour will be led by Dr. Robert H. Welborn, as- this tour will receive an sistant professor of history educational side of the "old at the two-year institution country," something not ornear Morrow.

any United States citizen, spent in London, visiting and the $1,528 cost per the Tower of London, the person fee includes round- Houses of Parliament, trip air transportation, and Buckingham Palace, and all hotel accommodations. other landmarks of interest. Also covered will be all tran- The next nine days of the sportation around Britain tour will include visits to (the tour will have its own such cities as Windsor, private bus), most meals, Cambridge, York, Jed-

C.IC Slates Marketing Seminar

Small business owners can learn more about marketing products during a two-part seminar at Clayton Junior College next week. Scheduled on Monday and Wednesday, February 18 and 20, the seminar is entitled 'personal selling." Planned ment of the balance must be between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. made by April 18. each evening, a $15 registration fee covers both listing the complete sessions.

helpful hints on how to of Community Services at improve their sales ability. Another program in a series sponsored by Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center (SBDC), additional information may be obtained by phoning the SBDC office at 363-7788. To reserve a place in the two-part seminar, call the College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

Ever want to pack your boat trips, and a theater bags and take a two-week ticket and discount card for

Dr. Welborn, who has studed in London and If so, Clayton Junior Col- traveled throughout the lege has scheduled an United Kingdom, designed educational tour in late the tour to be entertaining

"I created the itinerary as An exploration of Britain if a friend came to me and

BECAUSE of his experience, participants on dinarily included in a travel agency tour.

THE TOUR is open to The first four days will be most sight-seeing tours, burgh, Edinburgh, Aberdeen, Glasgow. Chester. Stratford-Upon-Avon, and

> VISITS to such cities as Windsor Castle, York Cathedral, Mary Queen of Scots' House, Fort Glencoe, Shakespeare's birthplace, and the famous Roman Baths will be included.

Since the tour will be limited to the first 30 people, reservations will be accepted on a first-come, firstserved basis. A $100 deposit will be required and pay-

To obtain a brochure itinerary, or for additional Participants will receive information, call the Office (363-7758, office; or 474-8797, home).

Two-Night Program 2/6/80

Small Business Confab On Tap

Personnel problems of small busi- three-hour sessions. ness owners in the South Metro area will be the topic of a two-day work- and Wednesday. shop scheduled at Clayton Junior College next week. Sponsored by the College's Small 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening. Business Development Center, "understanding and dealing with per- will obtain a better understanding of college's Office of Community Sersonnel problems' will be the topic of how to successfully select and manage vices at 363-7717.

CJC Schedule

The talks are scheduled on Monday

A $15 registration fee will cover the cost of both sessions, planned between During the program, participants the human side of their business. The activity is another in a continuing series of programs for small business owners.

Complete information may be obtained by phoning the 363-7788. To register, persons should call the

To Speak

A biochemist will be featured during two lectures scheduled at Clayton Junior College next week.

Dr. Robert Shuster, who series sponsored by the College's Small Business Development Center (SBDC), additional expenses.

Learn Cash

Small business owners

of cash budgeting during a two part seminar at

Scheduled for Monday

and Wednesday,

February 4 and 6, the seminar is entitled

"improving your cash flow and financial condition." Beginning at 6:30 and concluding at 9:30 p.m. each evening, a

$15 registration fee will

Participants will receive information on how to borrow and how to manage their assets so as to minimize debt and Another program in a cover both sessions.

can learn the essentials

Clayton Junior College

Budgeting

at CJC

mext week.

the two-part seminar, phone the College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

Biochemist

currently serves as associate professor of biochemistry at the Emory University School of Medicine, will lecture at 11 a.m. and again at 7 p.m. on Feb.

Sponsored as a part of the college's continuing Lyceum series, the first presentation will be given in Room G-14 and the second in Room

Both are open to the pub-information may be obtained by phoning the office at 363-7788. To reserve a place in

Clayton Junior College Sponsors Executive Secretary Workshops Recognizing that

today's executive secretary of administrative secretary is more than the boss's 'silent' partner, Clayton Junior College has designed a special two-day workshop for these professionals. The workshop, scheduled between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, January 28 and 29, has been designed to help executive secretaries acquire and implement effective management and communications

Specific topics include planning, organizing, decision making, supervision, time management, listening and responding, assertiveness, and problem solving. Marilyn Buckner will be the instructor for the two-day program. For information, or to reserve a place in the workshop, phone the College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717. registration fee includes a Monday luncheon.

Two-Night Program Services at 363-7717. Wednesday, February 6 presented in a chamber concert, beginning at 12 noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). The public is invited. ness owners in the South Metro area Thursday, February 7 will be the topic of a two-day work-

Ms. Kay Drew, an executive with the Small

1/30/80

Monday, February 4

The first session in a two-part seminar for small business owners on "improving your cash flow and financial condition" will begin at 6:30 p.m. at Clayton Junior College. For complete information,

phone the College's Small Business Development

Center at 363-7788 or the Office of Community

Clayton Junior College faculty members will be

Business Administration, will speak on the subject of "Small Businesses: An American Institution" during an 11 a.m. lecture at Clayton Junior College. Scheduled in Room B-12, the public is invited free of Small Business Confab On Tap Personnel problems of small busi- three-hour sessions.

shop scheduled at Clayton Junior Colege next week. Sponsored by the College's Small Business Development Center, "understanding and dealing with personnel problems" will be the topic of how to successfully select and manage

The talks are scheduled on Monday and Wednesday

A $15 registration fee will cover the cost of both sessions, planned between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening. During the program, participants will obtain a better understanding of the human side of their business. The activity is another in a continuing series of programs for small business owners. Complete information may be obtained by phoning the 363-7788. To register, persons should call the college's Office of Community Services at 363--7717

Staff Writer

Speaking to an audience at Clayton Junior College Tuesday, poet, teacher and scholar X. J. Kennedy said that the ancient art of poetry, while threatened by technological inventions in the field of entertainment, is by

"The future of the printed word looks reasonably bright," Kennedy told an auditorium filled with students and faculty members. Kennedy's lecture was part of the Lyceum lecture and cultural events program at the

A professor of English at Tufts University in Medford, Massachusetts, Kennedy focused primarily on his theories of why poetry would survive in the age of widescreen video recorders and cable television.

"Just look at the news on television. It take fifteen minutes for them to tell you the weather. With a newspaper, you pick it up and it says it's going to rain. That's all you need to know. If you don't like something in a newspaper you leave it and go to the next column.

Kennedy said that the impact of video screens and global communications had caused many theorists to predict that printed poetry would soon be a thing of the past. "Not long ago there were many dire prophecies that the printed page was doomed," he said, citing the work of Marshall McLuhan But Kennedy insisted that were poetry to be confined to spoken recordings, that would be nothing new. "You go back to the 1600s-most poetry was sung then. Great bards were making up epics of great actions and adventure to entertain their people.

Unlike many professors of English, Kennedy believes that some of the folk music written today can be regarded as poetry. "If a song can be regarded as poetry, too, then it adds another dimension.

Yet Kennedy thinks that the full meaning and flavor of some poetry cannot be done justice solely by being heard. "Some poems you can't catch the first time you hear them," he told the audience. "You miss parts of it and say to yourself 'what does that mean?'

"There are poems that you have to slow down and read quietly to Despite his enthusiasm for his art, the poet admitted that poetry is not the most popular form of entertainment in America. "If a book of new poetry sells 3,000 copies, it's a best seller. Today, the magazines in which you find poetry are few. Poetry usually appears in small magazines with

Kennedy also feared that the current rise in the rate of illiteracy was a direct threat to poetry. "In a society whre the majority of people are illiterate, the death of poetry would be comparable to the death of a cat in the alley of a large apartment complex," he said.

Such fears did not keep the poet from taking an optimistic viewpoint about the future, however. "There's plenty that's rotten with our civilization, but when you walk into a bookstore and buy a copy of

News-Daily Photo by Joe Chandler

MASSACHUSETTS POET X.J. KENNEDY Lectured At Clayton Junior College Tuesday

Shakespeare's Sonnets for $1.50 then that civilization still has something

He also said that the rise in popularity of a new, fresh ppoet could restore the art to it's rightful place. "There's no one at the moment who's that popular, not the way, say Robert Frost was. I guess the best-selling book of poetry I know of was written by John Asberry. It sold 10,000 copies.

Kennedy closed the lecture by reading several of his poems. The Lyceum series will continue Jan. 28 when Dr. Melvin Kranzberg speaks on "The Effects of Technology on Modern Man."

An Award-Winning Poet Talks About His Works

> By JOE CHANDLER Staff Sriter

Dressed in a well-tailored grey suit, a peppermint-striped white shirt, maroon tie and horn-rimmed glasses, there is little in X.J. Kennedy's appearance that would fit into most people's preconceived notion of what a poet should look like.

He would seem to be more comfortable in an executive office, or swinging a business deal over lunch in some well-established

Yet when he begins to talk of poetry, or he reads one of his wry, intelligent poems, the mischief in his eyes gives him away. "The last time I saw Allen Ginsburg, he was wearing a three-piece suit," Kennedy says of the poet who stunned audiences in the 1960s by reading his poems in the nude. So it's obvious Kennedy cares little for

As a highly-respected, much-awarded poet, his interests lie somewhere else. "My poems usually start with a line that comes to me in bed in the morning," he said Tuesday after completing a lecture at Clayton Junior surface appearances.

"It will have a certain rhythm to it, and I'll take it from there." Kennedy explained that he takes the line that first comes to him and follows his instincts until he has books. something which feels complete. Then he works on the poem's technical mechanics, until "I feel it's as good as it can be."

'Many people think you start a poem with rational than that, hinging on his faith in his subconscious. "I find that most of the time I'm working in the dark," he said.

Kennedy began working on his poetry during a stint in the Navy at the time of the Korean War. He published his first book of poems, "Nude Descending a Staircase" in 1961, and was awarded the Hopwood Award that year for the book.

Since that time he has also written "Growing Into Love", "Breaking and Entering: New and Selected Poems", and "Emily Dickinson in Southern California". His other honors include a Guggenheim Fellowship, the Shelley Memorial Award and the Lamont Poetry Selection Award.

While Kennedy is noted by critics for his sharp wit, he showed a great talent for both humor and seriousness in the two poems he read during his lecture Tuesday. In "The Shorter View", he spoke of the doubt of bringing new life into the world, and in "The Great Chain of Being", he delivered humorous rhyme in a sing-song voice.

"I'm kind of a throwback," Kennedy explained. "I'm one of the few poets who still works with rhyme and meter."

Besides working on poems and teaching at Tufts University in Massachusetts, Kennedy is also working on a number of children's

He also shed some light on the mysterious initials "X.J." Tuesday. "The X is a phony front," he said. "My real name is Joseph Charles. But if you had the name Joe a definite idea," the poet said. Yet Ken- Kennedy and you lived in Massachusetts, nedy's method seems to be much less you'd do something about it, too.

NEWS/DAILY February 13, 1980

2 Musical Concerts Scheduled At CJC

Two concerts will be presented at Clayton Junior College next week.

to the public.

Clayton Junior College faculty and students will Thursday. combine for an orchestra concert at 12 noon on Wednesday, Feb. 20, in Room G-101, and will be open

Those performing will be music faculty members Doris Holloway and Jeannine Morrison, students Tom Bell and Martha Wilson, and guest artist Beverly Gilbert. Selections will include the works of Stamitz, Vivaldi, Menotti, and Mozart.

The Clayton Junior College Band will be presented in concert at the two-year institution near Morrow next

Directed by Bill Gore, Instructor of Music, the performance will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday evening, Feb. 21, in Room G-101, and will be open to the

The repertoire will include Sousa's "The Gladiator March," Holst's "Suite Number 1 in E Flat," and Robert Russell Bennett's "Down to the Sea in Ships."

February 17, 1980 CJC Program To Be Offered

Georgia's unique outdoor recreation area for the handicapped will be featured during a free two-hour program at Clayton Junior College next week.

The Will-A-Way Recreation Area, located in Fort Yargo State Park near Winder will be explored through the use of a slide presentation during a program scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. on Tuesday,

February 26. Co-sponsored by the College's Office of Community Services and the Therapeutic Division of the Clayton County Parks and Recreation Department, the program will be conducted by Sharon Fitzgerald of the Georgia Department of Natural Resources. The Department's Division of Parks and Historic Sites administers the Will-A-Way Recreation Area.

Will-A-Way, the first facility of its type in the United States, is devoted solely to the needs of the handicapped. Steep slopes, uneven walks, steps, and narrow doorways have been eliminated, allowing handicapped individuals full access to park facilities.

The recreation area complex includes a day use area, cottages, and a group

McDaniel Sees Tough Times Ahead

DR. MCDANIEL WARNS OF TOUGH CHALLENGES He Said Educators Will Have To Be More Frugal

By DANIEL PAGE Staff Writer

"We are facing, in the near future, a time when less money will be available and there will be more competition for quality teachers, yet I am confident that public education will continue to grow and improve," Dr. Charles McDaniel told an audience at Clayton Junior College, Thursday night. McDaniel the State Superintendent for Schools, was guest speaker at the college's Lyceum series.

Speaking on the theme of changes and challenges in the future for education, McDaniel emphasized the need for more efficient use of funds, because education would probably not receive as large a percentage of the state budget as it has in the past.

"We are going to have to do more with less money," he said. "We are just going to have to eliminate all the waste."

He also said it would be more difficult for school systems to raise money through bond i ssues and tax referendums in the future. "A few years ago, over half of the voters in this state had children in public schools. Today, only 25 per cent have children in public schools. That means 75 per cent of the voting public has no direct interest in supporting more money for education.

Private schools he said, also pose a problem. "More and more people are putting their children in private schools, mainly as a way of fighting integration. Most of these schools are virtually all white. These people have no personal stake in public education.'

"Also, the population will be made up of more senior citizens. These people are also less likely to support public education, and yet we can help them find ways to make their lives more exciting and useful. We should include them more in public education."

'This is an era of increased accountability," he said. "We are being held more and more accountable for our results."

Despite the certain financial barriers public education faces in the coming years, Dr. McDaniel said that the state would have to find a way to pay teachers more money. "A lot of very qualified technical people want to teach, but our salary structure makes it almost impossible for them. They cannot afford to teach. We can only offer an outstanding physics major $9,600 to start when a company like Westinghouse will offer him $19,600."

Dr. McDaniel said he remains optimistic about the future because of what education has accomplished in the past. "My son will graduate from high school with a much better education than I received in 1940," he said. "I was taught no physics, calculus or chemistry. Only the elite were collegeeducated then. Today a college education is for everyone.

DR. CHARLES McDANIEL CONFERS WITH CLAYTON EDUCATORS

From Left, Larry Foster, Ernest Stroud, McDaniel, and Dr. Harry Downs

NEWS/DAILY January 17, 1980

Famed Poet Slates Lectures At CJC

A poet of worldwide experiences will be featured during two lectures Kennedy has been on the scheduled at Clayton Junior College next week.

X. vo J. Kennedy, vd who currently serves as a Professor of English at Tufts University in Medford, Massachusetts, will lecture at 11 a.m. and again at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, January 22. Sponsored as a part of the College's continuing Lyceum series, each presentation will be given in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) and will be open to the public.

A former poetry editor for "The Paris Review," faculties of the University of Michigan and the University of North Carolina, and has been a visiting lecturer at Wellesley College and the University of California at Irvine. In addition, he served as a Bruern fellow in American Civilization at the University of Leeds in

After receiving degrees from Seton Hall College and Columbia University, Kennedy received a certificate in literature from the Sorbonne in Paris.

Included among his many awards is the Hopwood Award, presented for his collection of poems entitled 'Nude Descending A Staircase." Among his other works are "Growing Into Love," "Breaking and Entering: New and Selected Poems," and "Emily Dickinson in Southern California.'

McDaniel to Speak At Clayton Junior

Dr. Charles McDaniel, state superintendent of schools, will speak on "Education in Georgia: Change and Challenge" during a lecture scheduled at Clayton Junior College Thursday evening, Jan. 17.

The visit to Clayton County by Geogia's highest ranking public schools official will be open to the public. The first program in a series of events scheduled by the college during the winter quarter, Dr. McDaniel's presentation will be given in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132), beginning at 7 p.m.

A former teacher, counselor and principal in a number of Georgia schools, Dr. McDaniel was superintendent of the Thomasville Public Schools and the Clarke County School District before assuming the duties of state superintendent in August, 1977.

A past president of the Georgia Association of School Superintendents, Dr. McDaniel currently serves as a member of the advisory council of the American Association of School Administrators. A former chairman of the State Advisory Council for Vocational Education, he also serves the Council of Chief State and School Officers and the Georgia Tax Reform Commission.

McDaniel

Budget Taught

Small business owners can learn the essentials of cash budgeting during a twopart seminar at Clayton Junior College

next week. Scheduled for Monday and Wednesday, Feb. 4 and 6, the seminar is entitled "improving your cash flow and financial condition." The seminar begins at 6:30 and concludes at 9:30 p.m. A $15 registration fee will cover both sessions.

Participants will receive information on how to borrow and how to manage their assets so as to minimize debt and ex-

The program is another in a series sponsored by the college's Small Business Development Center (SBDC). Additional information may be obtained by phoning # the SBDC office at 363-7788.

To reserve a place in the two-part seminar, phone the college's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

Technology is Topic Of CJC Lecture Jan. 28

the field will speak on "The Effects of Technology on Modern Man" during a lecture scheduled at Clayton Junior College next week.

Dr. Melvin Kranzberg, who currently serves as Calloway Professor of the

A technology professor Technology, will lecture at with a wide background in 10 a.m. Monday, Jan. 28. Sponsored as a part of the college's continuing Lyceum series, the presentation will be given in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) and will be open to the public.

Dr. Kranzberg is the principal founder of the Society for the History of History of Technology at the Technology, and serves as Georgia Institute of editor of its quarterly journal, "Technology and Committee for the History Culture.'

graduate program dealing Policy. with the history of Dr. Kranzberg is the university.

of Technology; national He has served on the president of Sigma Xi, the faculties of Case Western Scientific Research Society; Reserve University, Har- and as chairman of the vard. Stevens Institute and American Association for Amherst College. While at the Advancement of Science Case Western, Dr. Committee on Science, Kranzberg directed the first Engineering, and Public technology at any American author of two volumes on European history as well as He serves as vice presi- numerous books, and artident of the International cles for scholarly journals.

Agency Head at Clayton Jr.

The Administrator of the State of Georgia's Office of Consumer Affairs, Dr. Tim Ryles, will speak at Clayton Junior College next week.

Dr. Ryles' lecture, scheduled at 10 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 31, will be on the topic of "The Individual and the State: Consumer Protection." The presentation, part of the college's continuing Lyceum series, will be given in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) and is open to the public. The author of several publications on government, public opinion and consumer protection, Dr. Ryles is a member of several national consumer organizations. In May of 1979, he was elected president of the National Association of Consumer Agency Administrators.

science faculties at Georgia State University and the University of Georgia. He also has served as a researcher for former Governor Jimmy Carter's "goals for Georgia program," and served on the campaign staffs of U.S. Senator Sam Nunn and Governor George Busbee. He managed Congressman Elliot Levitas' 1974 cam-

Prior to his appointment as administrator of the Office of Consumer Affairs, he was a member of the political paign in Georgia's 4th Congressional District, and in 1976 he was a member of the Georgia steering committee for the Carter-Mondale campaign.

Dr. Ryles received degrees from Troy State University and the University of Georgia.

Poetry Reading Slated at Clayton Junior A poet of worldwide ex- Review," Kennedy has been Award, presented for his sity in Medford, Mass., will of California at Irvine. at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. Bruern fellow in American California.

Sponsored as a part of the sity of Leeds in England. College's continuing Lyceum series, each presentation will be given in the from Seton Hall College and Lecture Hall (room G-132) Columbia University, Kenand will be open to the nedy received a certificate

A FORMER poetry Included among his many editor for "The Paris awards is the Hopwood periences will be featured on the faculties of the during two lectures University of Michigan and scheduled at Clayton Junior the University of North case." Among his other College next week. Carolina, and has been a works are "Growing Into X.J. Kennedy, a professor visiting lecturer at Wellesley of English at Tufts Univer- College and the University lecture at 11 a.m. and again In addition, he served as a Dickinson and Southern > in literature from the Sorbonne in Paris.

Civilization at the Univer-collection of poems entitled "Nude Descending A Stairworks are "Growing Into Love," "Breaking and Entering: New and Selected Poems," and "Emily

Energy Forums to Begin

The first in a series of three public forums on energy will be conducted at Clayton Junior College this week.

Entitled "Energy and the Way We Live," the forum is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 21, 7-9 p.m. on the upper level of the Student Center (D Building), and is open to the public. It is held as part of an educational program which includes a series of articles currently being printed weekly in the SUN.

Dr. Melvin Kranzberg, Calloway Professor of the History of Technology at Georgia Tech, will talk about how our use of energy in the past can help us in solving present problems. He will examine today's values and life styles in relation to the energy shor-

Representatives from Shell Oil Company, Georgia Power Company, the Georgia Conservancy, the Georgia Office of Energy Resources, and the Solar Coalition will be present to answer questions.

John H. Kohler, assistant professor of History at Clayton Junior College, will serve as program moderator.

Funded by the Committee for the Humanities in Georgia and by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges, the forum is part of a nationwide program designed to generate discussion on what can and should be done about the energy issue.

To reserve a place in the free forum, call Clayton Junior College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

THE HENRY NEIGHBOR 2/21/80 Two seminars for small business owners are scheduled next week by the Clayton Junior College Small Business Development Center. "Effective Advertising and Promotion" will be conducted Feb. 25 and

27 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each day. "How To Apply for An SBA Loan" will be discussed during the second seminar, scheduled between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. on March 1. A $15 registration fee covers both sessions in the opening seminar and a $17 fee for Saturday's program includes lunch. Additional information may be obtained by telephoning 363-7788. South

Metro business people may call 363-7717 to reserve a place in either

Professor: Energy Is A Crucial Issue

By JOE CHANDLER Staff Writer

Georgia Tech professor Melvin Kranzberg told an audience at Clayton Junior College Monday that the crucial issue facing the country concerning energy is not so much what source of energy we choose to alleviate shortages, but reaching an intelligent decision sometime in the Kranzberg, who was speaking on 'The Effects of Technology on Modern Man" as part of the school's Lyceum lecture series, focused primarily on the use of energy in the past and how problems related to the use of energy will affect the future. According to Kranzberg, "Physicists say energy is the ability to do work (and) engineers say it is input-output efficiency. But energy is also a social phenomenon.

How we use energy, Kranzberg says, shows where we place our emphasis in life. Its use "helps to determine the values of society," the Georgia Tech professor said.

CIC Chorus To Perform March 14

. The Clayton Community Chorus presents a concert at Clayton Junior College on Friday, March 14 at 8 p.m. in Room 132, G building. The 40 member singing group will perform Norman Luboff's African Mass accompanied by Ann Manuel, pianist and O Doug Honea, percussionist. John Gore is the featured tenor soloist. Built on the usual Latin text of a mass, _ Luboff's composition adds the interest and excitement of African rhythms and drum sounds. The second part of the program consists of several Negro spirituals arranged by Alice Parker, Norman Luboff and Jester Hairston. The accompanists will be Sonald Day on trumpet and Hans Hamm playing guitar. Marti Slife is director of

The concert is free and open to the public.

CJC Schedules Short Workshop

A two-night workshop on inventory control for small businesses will be conducted at Clayton Junior College next week. Scheduled bewteen 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, April 7 and 9, the workshop was designed by the College's Small Business Development

Free Class Is Offered

A free program designed for adults who are planning Z to enter or re-enter college will be conducted at Clayton Junior College on Tuesday > from 7 until 9:30 p.m.

For more information call the college's office of "Mankind first gained the ability to control energy with fire," Kranzberg said. "Among ancient and primitive people, fire was regarded as a gift of the gods. It meant an increased food supply, the ability to cook, and it enabled people to live in more diverse areas. Later, the use of pyrometallurgy meant that man could use minerals from the earth.' Since that time, Kranzberg said, the advancement in the ways that mankind has harnessed and used energy has been of vital importance to patterns and developments in civilization. When the energy from slave labor greatly decreased in fourth century Europe, this contributed to the fall of the Roman Empire, he said. When Europe was faced with another energy crisis in the Middle Ages, the invention of the water wheel helped to facilitate the first use of power for industrial use (casting metal). Also, the use of wind power and the improvement of the harness aided in coping with a shortage of wood that later occurred. Citing development of the steam engine, the internal combustion engine and the use of fossil fuels, Kranzburg gave further examples of how man has continually come up with new ideas to provide himself with a means of energy in an increasingly complex world. Yet today, Kranzberg observed, "triumphs in the energy field are echoed by moral, political and enviromental questions as never before. Neither man nor energy are yet free,"

he warned. This brings about Kranzberg referred to as "Kranzberg's First Law": "Technology is neither good nor bad, nor is it neutral." By this he means that new forms of energy can have both beneficial and harmful consequences which "lead to unexpected results far from neutral in Such a case was the invention of the cotton gin, he said. Eli Whitney had intended for his invention to free blacks from the yoke of Southern slavery, but instead it helped to make the growing of cotton such a profitable business that it served to reinforce the use of slaves.

While Kranzberg criticized America's dependence on the automobile, he also cautioned that the wrong choice of a new energy source could have damaging repercussions. "The 1970s saw us caught in a technological mess by our own institutions and the value systems which put a premium value on finite petroleum products," Kranzberg said. "One out of eight people in this country are employed by the automobile industry. We are married to the automobile -- the cost of divorce is too high to contemplate."

For solutions, Kranzberg said, "We rely on the technological fix. But technology gives us different options. You'll see some trade-offs occur in developing energy technology for the Kranzberg hinted at the increased use of nuclear energy when he said "We have learned to accept the danger of the automobile. Of course, we can choose to drive the automobile or not to." The troubling aspect of nuclear energy, he said, was that it is not something which can be turned on and off.

"The real risk is that we should be so afraid of risks that we don't take any action at all," Kranzberg said. "We might well be having a crisis of national will. The question is whether we have the moral strength to use the power that is available.'

He closed the lecture on a note of conditional optimism. "I think we can overcome the energy crisis if we don't lose our nerve."

Besides teaching at Georgia Tech, Kranzberg has taught at several other highly respected universities and has authored numerous books and articles in scholarly magazines.

CJC Schedule FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS February 13 ECONOMIST TO LECTURE

A former member of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, Dr. Paul McCracken, will speak at Clayton Junior College next week.

Dr. McCraken's lecture, scheduled at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, February 20, will be on the topic of "Inflation and Productivity: Are There Solutions?" The presentation, part of the College's continuing Lyceum series, will be given in the lecture area on the upper level of the Student Center Building, and the public is invited free of

MARKETING

Small Business owners can learn more about marketing products during a two-part seminar at Clayton Junior College next week. Scheduled on Monday and Wednesday, February 18 and 20, the seminar is entitled "personal selling." Planned between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening, a $15 registration fee covers both sessions. Participants will receive helpful hints on how to improve their slaes ability. To reserve a place in the two-part seminar, call the College's Office of Community Services at 363-

FACULTY-STUDENT CONCERT

++++++

Clayton Junior College faculty and students will combine for an orchestra concert next week. The concert is scheduled at 12 noon on Wednesday, February 20, in Room G-101, and will be open to the public. Those performing will be music faculty members Doris Holoway and Jeannine Morrison, students Tom Bell and Martha Wilson, and guest artist Beverly Gilbert. Selections will include the works of Stamitz, Vivaldi, Menotti, and Mozart.

+++++ CJC BAND IN CONCERT

The Clayton Junior College Band will be presented in concert at the two-year institution near Morrow next week.

Directed by Bill Gore, Instructor of Music, the performance will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday evening, February 21, in Room G-101, and will be open to the public.

The repertoire will include Sousa's "The Gladiator March," Holst's "Suite 1 in E Flat," and Robert Russess Bennett's "Down to the Sea in

Artist Creates Fantasy

By JOE CHANDLER Staff Writer

Scott Belville ended his stay as artist-in-residence at Clayton Junior College Friday with a demonstration of the creative ideas that make his work so distinctive from other artists. Entitled "Nuclear Destruction" Belville began the project Thursday by taking CJC students Lani Ray, John Hobbs, Janice Lancaster and Teddy Kemph to a Zayre's Department store in Forest Park and gaving "an 88 cent photograph" taken of them against a natural backdrop. "Then I brought them back and had them sign a release form which removed any responsibility from me for what would happen to them. I told them that what would happen to them would be uncomfortable, but not really dangerous. But I would not be held responsible for anything that happened.

Photos Page 6A

The second step was the part viewed By a small group of students in the clobby of the G Building Friday. Sitting his blindfolded subjects in chairs, Belville swathed their heads with plastic wrap and aluminum foil, put patches of green, orange and yellow material on their heads, placed springs and baby bottle nipples on their face and then covered their entire head with panty hose.

The crowning touch was a series of thick dollops of Vaseline applied to each subjects head. The grotesque, distorted effect was indeed remindful of a fantasy of the aftermath of a nuclear catastrophe.

The third step, Belville said, would be to return to Zayre's for another round in front of the camera, only this time his subjects will appear slightly different than before and will be photographed "with children and mothers", according to Belville, against a black backdrop.

Belville will take the two set of photos and mount them, along with the signed release forms he had previously obtained from the Belville will now return to McDowell Colony in Peterborough, New Hampshire.

When last seen, he was leaving the CJC campus in his car, along with four CJC students who probably drew some stares from a few Clayton County residents Friday afternoon.

Artist

NEWS/DAILY

February 1, 1980

Scott Belville Finds Creativity In Variety, Extremes

admitted to a small audience at Clayton Junior College he "not the most traditional art vou'll ever see.'

the college's artist-inresidence for a three-day period, was speaking as a part of the school's Lyceum lecture series. A student at the junior college in the founding days of the school, he is now a Fellow-in-Residence at the McDowell Colony in Peterborough, New Hampshire. He has previously been an art instructor at Ohio contrast of construction and University and Young Artistin-Residence at the University of Georgia.

mean little to Belville, meant the destruction of a however, as part of the fun pastoral landscape in favor he derives from his art of the gaudy, cheap arcomes from his playing chitecture that now litters

Defining himself as an an "illustrated lecture" much of the county. artist. Scott Belville which featured slides of his work, Belville explained that started "very Thursday that his work is realistically" with paintings utilizing a large canvas. 'I've always been in-Belville, who is serving as terested in extremes," the young artist said, explaining how he has come to paint canvases that will fit into the palm of your hand. This stemmed from Belville's habit of observing details, rather than larger generalities. His earlier work featured brilliant lines of color breaking across a bland grey background, signifying the destruction, Belville said. "Having grown up in this area, I saw the New South Such credentials probably happening," he said. That It was working with the called his "devious deceptions" on the art world. He took handmade scale models of a gallery wall, placed his minature canvases on them and made slides. Sending the slides to scholarship foundations, he then received grants for what the foundation apparently felt were much larger works. Belville says this is out of a system that isn't right.' French tradition of painting that places its emphasis on such a medium because

By JOE CHANDLER hoaxes on the art world. small canvas that led "fooling the eye" and also there is a certain magic in Staff Writer As part of what he termed Belville to work what he American cultural transposing something from peculiarities such as land one scale to another. Another emphasis on portfolios and mind. slide presentations. "Some people don't come off well on slides. I like doing this because it is a type of sharing. It's cheating a

The artist said he works in

NEWS/DAILY

development programs-

one for experienced and one held at Clayton Junior College beginning in March.

assist anyone on doing the galleries, dollhouse-like same thing, as it is a way of structures that he urges getting back at an art world fellow artists to fill with that places its prime whatever comes to their Belville spoke of several fraud and false advertising. project of his has been to Belville said he would construct minature > other projects he has going currently, including constructing facisimiles of wall murals and working on blow-up details of his earlier minature paintings.

As a trickster artist "trying to get away from market art-art as a commodity," Belville doubts that he will never become a millionaire. But he had one idea of how he might acquire a house.

"I could construct a scale model and then make a slide of it, Then I'd put an ad in the New York Times and wait for new supervisors- will be interpersonal skills of Feb. 20.

February 13, 1980

ARTIST SCOTT BELVILLE TALKS TO AUDIENCE AT CJC

Belville Presented Slides Of His Varied Work

The pre-supervisory

Students who plan to enroll at the college for the first time have until Thursplications and credentials

Questions about enrollment in credit programs at day, March 6, to file all ap-

Supervisory Skills Topic of Class

Free Seminar Starts Tuesday

A three-week free seminar on wills, taxes and estate planning will begin at Clayton Junior College Tues-

Co-sponsored by the Clayton Junior College Foundation, the first session of the seminare will be held from 7 until 9 p.m. The seminar is designed to answer questions on taxes and its relation to probate, life insurance, wills and trusts and other aspects of estate planning. Session will continue each Tuesday for the remainder of April. For more information call the office of community services at 363-7717.

Two supervisory develop- perienced and one for new which is for new supervisors ment programs—one for ex- supervisors—will be held at and work-group leaders, will Clayton Junior College be held from 2-5 p.m. March reginning in March.

sist of a combination of in- deadline is Feb. 27. dependent study and designed to improve the interpersonal skills of super-

The program for experienced supervisors will be held from 2-5 p.m. March 12, March 26, April 9, April 23 and May 7. The deadline for registration is Feb. 20. The pre-supervisory development program.

25, April 8, April 22 and The programs, which con- May 6. Registration

The programs are sponseminar sessions, are sored by the University of Georgia and Clayton Junior College and are certified by the Georgia Business and development Industry Association.

The seminars, which are conducted by management new approaches.

materials, graduation certificate and refreshment breaks, is $250 for the supervisory development program and $200 for the presupervisory development experts, will review proven approaches to effective supervision and investigate The program fee, which includes tuition, study > program. Further information on the program is available from Rick Sanchez, director of continuing education and public service at Clayton

Tickets Major Bargain For Fiddler On the Roof

ton Junior College Winter p.m. Quarter musical productions of Fiddler On The Roof, directed by Dr. Larry B. Corse, will be available from the office of the dean of students beginning Friday morning. Sponsored by the school's Lyceum Committee, all six productions will be free, but tickets will be required for seating.

Productions are scheduled for Feb. 28, 29 and March 1, 6, 7 and 8.

The producation is to be staged in the College's Lecture Hall (Room G-123). Thursday productions will begin at 8:30 p.m. while

all Friday and Saturday

Free tickets for six Clay- presentations will begin at 8 tickets will be issued to the Although tickets will not be for assigned seats, tickets will be required for each performance. minutes before each show,

Free tickets for six Clayton Junior College for consecutive Thursday, productions of "Fiddler on first 225 requests.

To reserve tickets or to obtain complete information, South Metro residents can call the office of the To be honored until ten dean of students at 363-7735 after 9 a.m. Friday.

productions will begin at 8:30 p.m. while all Friday and Saturday presentations will

Although tickets will not be for assigned seats, free

tickets will be required for each performance. To be honored until ten minutes

get under way at 8 p.m.

February 20, 1980 Tickets 0 Productions are scheduled the Roof" will be available from the Office of the Dean of Students beginning Friday morning, Feb. 22.

Members of the Clayton Junior College Choir, directed by Dr. Larry B. Corse, will present "Fiddler on the Roof" as their Winter Quarter musical production. Sponsored by Lyceum, all six productions will be free, but tickets will be required for seating.

will be issued to the first 225 Friday, and Saturday requests. evenings - Feb. 28, 29, and To reserve tickets, or to March 1; and March 6, 7, and obtain complete information, call the Office 8. To be staged in the College's Lecture Hall of the Dean of Students (363-(Room G-132), Thursday 7735) after 9 a.m. Friday morning.

CJC Plans Supervisory Programs Two supervisory independent study and March 12, March, April 9, be held from 2-5 p.m. March seminar sessions, are April 23 and May 7. The 25, April 8, April 22 and May designed to improve the deadline for registration is > supervisors. The development program development program,

The programs, which for experienced supervisors which is for new supervisors consist of a combination of will be held from 2 - 5 p.m. and work-group leaders, will

> College will end and final examinations will begin next week. The quarter, which with the Office of Admisopened with registration sions and Records. Jan. 2, will end Wednesday, March 12. Finals will begin

Winter quarter credit

classes at Clayton Junior

the following day. Continuing students at the two-year institution near Morrow will have a Clayton Junior College or other institutions of the University System of Georgia should be directed brief break before the start to the Office of Admissions (phone 363-7723). of the spring quarter.

Clayton Posts Exam Schedules

THE CLAYTON SUN April 10, 1980
THE FIRST of four programs on "a look at local history" will be presented at Clayton Junior College between 7 and 9:30 p.m. April 10. Scheduled on consecutive Thursday evenings, the program will look at the growth of this area from pre-Civil War days to the present.

Call the Office of Community Services (363-7717) for complete information on this free program.

6. Registration deadline is

Feb. 27. The sponsored by the University of Georgia and Clayton Junior College and are certified by the Georgia Business and Industry Association. The seminars, which are conducted by management experts, will review proven approaches to effective supervision and investigate new approaches. The program fee, which includes tuition, study materials, graduation certificate and refreshment breaks, is $250 for the supervisory development program and $200 for the pre-supervisory development program. Further information on the rogram is available from Rick Sanchez, Director, Continuing Education and Public Service, Clayton Junior College, Morrow, 30260, phone (404) 363-7717.

HE CLAYTON SUN April 10, 1980 MUSIC STUDENTS at Clayton Junior College will be presented in recital April 16 beginning at noon in the college's lecture hall (room G-132) The public is invited.

Shift Cited In U.S.-Soviet Relations

Kremlinologist Dr. Wayne Lord told a crowd at Clayton Junior College Thursday night that from the Soviet's viewpoint, the invasion of Afghanistan was an "overwhelming chance for gain with almost no risks", but that as a result U.S.-Soviet relations can "never be quite the same again." Lord, a speaker in the college's continuing Lyceum series, has served as an international trade advisor and was instructor of Soviet Affairs at Monmouth College in New Jersey. A student of Russian history who has visited the Soviet Union four times, Lord is presently an instructor in modern European history at Oglethorpe University in Atlanta.

GOP's Phil Crane

In his lecture Tuesday, Lord emphasized that the shift in U.S.-Soviet relations took place not simply as a result of changes in the U.S. or their view toward the Soviet Union, but also because of changes in the Soviet Union itself.

Lord, admittedly taking a subjectively American view of the present situation, said that "since World War II, Soviet-American relatiaons have reached almost euphoric points and also plunged to dangerous depths" (Berlin crises, Cuban missile crises, invasions of Hungary and Yugoslavia).

"During that history there have been certain assumptions that there were certain things the Soviet Union cannot do," Lord said. "The invasion assumptions torn asunder.'

"In the sense of the use of aircraft mobilization, these moves are unprecedented," Lord pointed out. "They represent a qualitative change in their tactical program. Afghanistan is not part of the empire.'

While the Soviet Union has not "changed its verbal commitment to a peaceful 'coexistence''. Lord termed Soviet leader Leonoid Brezhnev comments on the invasion as "typical Lord then listed a lengthy set of reasons that he theorized might have been behind the Soviet invasion. 'They had to see the crumbling of U.S.-Soviet detente," he said. "It was evident that SALT II was in trouble.

-- "All they expected from the U.S. was a rhetorical rebuff. The Soviets probably misjudged that.

-- "They went in because they woulc not accept a setback. There is a problem with their revolutionary fervor-something has gone wrong. Their people are becoming very materialistic.

-- "Their economy is terribly sluggish. Their agriculture is in very deep trouble. This move could divert people's attention.

"They have a fear of the radical Moslem state. There is logic in taking Afghanistan for strictly strategic reasons. If the situation in Iran or Pakistan blows up, they are postured to move. But I doubt they are planning

-- "This served their plan to crackdown on dissidents. That probably has the European nations more upset than the invasion of Afghanistan.'

-- "It was a chance for military action. To test military skills. That is a cynical opinion. Of course, it serves the double purpose of U.S. intelligence being able to observe them.'

-"They do have a historical interest in a warm weather port." "They might have perceived Carter as weak and thought that he would not react like he has. They saw mistakes in his past policies.'

Lord called the American response "justified and proper". He listed the major items of that response as the halt to SALT II, the embargo on trade, offers of aid to Pakistan, the move toward strategic offensive positions in the area and the boycott of the Moscow Olympics. "This litany of things is quite impressive," Lord said. "The move by the U.S.S.R. was militarily unchallengeable, but not politically.

Lord feels the U.S. has perhaps been victim, of a somewhat naive foreign policy in dealing with the Soviets. "There has always been a certain dualism in their policies," he said. "They have the ability to have a number of policies simultaneously. They have not since 1917 advocated only one policy. That kind of sophistication tends to be overlooked.'

Despite the sharp turn in our relations with the Soviets, Lord emphasized, "We must continue some degree of dialogue. We have to live with the contradictions of international relations. When you can't talk anymore, there's nothing left to do but fight.

He listed a number of axioms that the U.S. should follow in future dealings with the Soviets. "We must reject the notion that the good guy always wins. There are limitations to American power. We have to ask how we maximize our strengths within these limitations.

"If we use brute force with the Soviets, in what way are we different? The era of the U.S. as the only superpower is over. Moscov: will remain a power. Wisdom and consistency are just as important as military policy and national will. Also, we must realize that influencing international behavior is a rough

We should have no illusions about Russia. That the Soviets are both arrogant and insecure are two constant themes (in their history). We should study the patterns of our involvement and realize that the ideological struggle is going to go on. Our policy has been Soviet-centered since 1945 -- we ought to look elsewhere. Also, we should accept that we will have continued problems with the Allies, but that the Soviets are still encircled (territorially). Human rights as an issue will be

"Of course, new technology may change all this," Lord observed wryly.

Lord saw particular significance in the fact that Soviets are chess players, not card-players. He said cards is a two dimensional game based on either bluffing or playing. but that chess is multi-dimensional. with the player "always thinking five or ten moves in advance.'

The Lyceum series continues at CJC on Feb. 20 when Dr. Paul McCracken speaks on inflation and productivity.

Clayton Junior College will be conducted Monday.

on quarter will begin Tuesday.

ш will continue through June 2 and final examinations will be administered June 3 through 6.

Workshop

personal growth and values realization will be conducted at Clayton Junior College

fessor of humanistic education at the University of Massachusetts and the author and co-author of a number of books, will serve sessions scheduled between A $41 registration fee will

Testing for persons in-terested in becoming Census takers will be given at Clay-

Testing will be held at 10

Classes for the 11-week

Room G-132 either at 10 a.m. program.

tion about credit class registration, contact the ofcords at 363-7723.

Spring quarter classes

The college's annual commencement exercises will be held June 7.

A two-day seminar on March 29 and 30.

a.m. and 1 p.m. in roomD-207 of the college.

Special 4/9/80 Workshop Planned

A special day-long workshop on learning how to effectively manage your time will be conducted at Clayton

Participants will learn

To register for the day-

Crane To Visit Clayton

By JOE CHANDLER

Staff Writer

become the first Presidential candidate to visit Clayton County

when he comes to Clayton Junior

Crane, a five-term congressman, was invited to speak at the junior college by the College Political Union, a non-partisan student-faculty group.

He is to speak on the upper level of the Student Center Building, with a question and answer period to follow.

inviting all major presidential candidates to visit and Crane is the first to respond," CJC Public Relations Director Jerry Atkins said

At 49, Crane is one of the youngest candidates in the crowded Republican field. He was the first candidate to announce his intentions of running for othe Presidency, launching his

Despite his early involvement,

Crane still is well back of frontrunners

Ronald Reagan and George Bush in both popularity polls and early primary results. Yet Crane remains optimistic, hoping he can make a strong showing in the upcoming primaries before the March 18

Latest polls in New Hampshire, primary in his home state of Illinois.

scene of the next primary on Feb. 26, show Reagan and Bush fighting for the lead, with Tennessee Senator

Howard Baker trailing themby a wide margin. The same polls show Crane to be among the group that includes

John Connally, Bob Dole and John

Anderson, all with only a small percentage of the New Hampshire

Crane seems to be devoting much of his platform to current problems in the national economy. He favors a Constitutional amendment to require restraints on federal spending and favors a tax cut, saying "without a tax cut, inflation will escalate and productivity will continue to falter."

But Crane shows his Republican background when it comes to other government action devised to half inflation. He opposes mandatory wage and price controls, saying controls simply expand government, and is also against the "windfall profits"

tax, claiming such a tax "is not a tax on companies but a tax on consumers.

Consumers pay all taxes. Businesses don't pay taxes, they just gather taxes and they will raise their prices to cover those taxes.

campaign on Aug. 2, 1978.

"The Union is in the process of College at noon Friday.

Republican Phil Crane of Illinois

While Crane has been criticized as nearly identical to Ronald Reagan in his proposals, he asserts that "My background and experience is different. I'm an insider, because I've worked in Washington for 10 years. and an outsider because I've been a member of the minority party all that time, fighting against big government," Crane states in a picso release.

In that same release, Crane reiterates his point that the machinery of government has become too bulky and concentrated at the federal level to be effective. "We have overturned the concept of a government of limited powers," he said. "Government today enjoys unlimited potential power. We have eroded the concept of local government and the trend has been

As a means to solving problems stemming from energy shortages, major oil companies. "The only way cannot conserve our way out of this solution to that problem.

"I do feel we should reintroduce the draft, because our problems are in the area of weapon systems and modernization. Weapon systems like the B-1 bomber, which Carter cut from the budget and which I would have gone ahead with because we Crane's plans for securing the Hampshire, Massachusetts and Florida. Then home to Illinois. I can use the momentum I gain there to win the nomination."

man whose time is running out.

To Appear At CJC Managing Editor

The 1980 presidential campaign trail is leading into Clayton County. Republican presidential candidate Phil Crane will make a campaign appearance on the Clayton Junior College campus next Friday.

Jerry Atkins, CJC public relations director an nounced Friday that Crane has accepted an in vitation issued by the College Political Union, a newly-formed student-faculty group, and will speak at noon Friday on the upper level of the Student Center Bulding. The speech and a question-and-answer session to follow will be open to the

"The Union is in the process of inviting all major presidential candidates to visit the campus and Crane is the first to respond--he accepted,"

Crane became the first announced GOP presidential candidate on Aug. 2, 1978, but he still is fighting for national name recognition. His campaign, however, has been anything

He has occasionally been attacked by his own "friends" in the conservative movement, has gone into debt, has replaced almost his entire staff in a shakeup and has watched the GOP field become crowded with candidates saying exactly what he has

If Crane's enthusiasm and confidence ever lags, however, he doesn't show it. In fact, he sees himself in much the same situation that Jimmy Carter was in in 1976--an unknown with a penchant for political campaigning. Crane did not show well in the Iowa caucuses, but he now is campaigning hard to make a good showing in the New Hampshire primary on Feb. 26. He is entering every primary and every caucus in the country at least up to the key March 18 primary in Ilinois, his home state. Crane has said "If I can be up there with the cluster of candidates at the top, then we've got a credible front running position going into my home

He feels that if he can win in Illinois he will be in a strong position to continue on with round two of the cam-

Until the Illinois primary, Crane is concentrating on local organization and personal contacts with as many people as possible in primary and caucus states. Thus, his interest in coming to Georgia, which will have a primary on March 11.

The 49-year-old Crane is one of the voungest of the crowded field of presidential hopefuls. He has served in Congress since Nov. 25, 1969, when elected in a special election.

Prior to entering politics, Crane was a school teacher and administrator. He is a devoted family man, spending as much time as possible with his wife Arlene, their eight children, and dog Sam. He says, however, he hasn't spoken to Sam since he was involved in a biting incident last year which resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Crane.

Crane's campaign so far has been marked by both financial troubles and dissension within bedrock conservative ranks. However, the financial problem has eased since he began receiving some federal matching funds after the first of the year, and he is such a political fighter that he hopes to overcome any problem within the ranks and win at the polls.

Ex-Economic Advisor To Speak at CJC

A former member of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, Dr. Paul McCracken, will speak at Clayton Junior College

Dr. McCracken's lecture, scheduled at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 20, will be on the topic of "Inflation and Productivity: Are There Solutions?" The presentation, part of the college's continuing Lyceum series, will be given in the lecture area on the upper level of the Student Center Building, and the public is invited free of charge.

A professor of business administration at the University of Michigan, Dr. McCracken also serves as chairman of the Council of Academic Advisors for the American Enterprise Institute for Public Research in Washington, D.C.

While on leave from the University from 1956 until 1959, he served as a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisors under President Eisenhower. He returned to the council to serve as Chairman for three years under President Nix-

Dr. McCracken also has served as an economist with the Department of Commerce, and was a financial economist and director of research with the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. A fellow of the American Statistical Association, Dr. McCracken is a member of the American Economic Association and the American Finance Association. He is listed in "American Men of Science," "Who's Who in America," and "Inter-national Who's Who."

Dr. McCracken, a worldwide lecturer, is the author of many articles for journals on financial and economic

CJC Offers Seminars, Courses During March

business owners have been scheduled at Clayton Junior College on Saturday of this week and Monday and Wednesday of next week. Saturday's session (March 1) will be on preparing a loan package and meeting requirements for a Small Business Administration (SBA) loan while next week's short course Monday and Wednesday, March 3 and 5) will be on planning a successful

A $17 registration fee for Saturday's session, planned between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. includes the cost of lunch. The Monday-Wednesday course will be held between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening, and a $15 registration fee covers both

Additional information about the two seminars may be obtained by contacting Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Center (phone 363 7788), or the Office of Community Services (363-

Students who plan to enter Clayton Junior College for the first time during the Spring Quarter have until

Seminars for small next week to make ap- College. plication with the Office of Admissions and Records at College's Office of Couseling the two-year institution. Thursday, March 6, is the the Scholastic Aptitude Test deadline for new students to (SAT) to prospective file applications and sstudents, a requirement for credentials for enrollment in admission into credit credit programs at the programs. CJC Offers Program

A free program designed will be conducted at cerns will be discussed dur-

Adults will learn how to for adults who are planning organize themselves for a to enter or re-enter college return to studies, to gain the support of their families and Clayton Junior College next friends, and to overcome concerns about their ability A number of special con- to succeed in the classroom. ing the program, scheduled the discussion leaders for

For New Students

Also on Thursday, the April 10, 1980

and Testing will administer between 7 and 9:30 p.m. on questions about special con-Tuesday evening, April 15. cerns. Dr. Jean Jones, director of the office of counseling and For more information, call testing, and E. Donald the College's Office of Ad-Crapps, counselor in the missions and Records at department of special 363-7723, or the Office of studies at the college, will Counseling and Testing at

Energy Is 4/10/80 CJC Speech Topic

Congressman Newt Gingrich, 6th District Representative from Carrollton, will speak on the budget and energy during a speech at Clayton Junior College on Fri-

Scheduled at 10 a.m, the one-hour appearance by Gingrich will take place on the upper level of the Student Center "D" Building. The public is invited. Rep. Gingrich's appearance is sponsored by the College Political Union, a newly-formed impartial group of students and faculty members who are interested in the Following planned remarks on the budget, energy and other topics, time has been set aside for a question-and-

CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE CHOIR MEMBERS Rehearsing for "Fiddler on the Roof"

February 29, 1980 NEWS/DAILY

Free Tickets To All

'Fiddler On Roof' Underway At CJC

Quarter musical production. change. The first performance was last night, with others this production will include tonight and Saturday night some authentic Russian at 8 p.m. and three set next dance routines. production will begin at 8:30 with a wide range of exp.m. with the March 7 and 8 perience behind them.

The two-act musical is a structed the set.

Members of the Clayton dramatic story about a Junior College Choir are Jewish family affected by presenting "Fiddler on the social change. The main Roof" as their Winter theme is tradition versus

Along with Russian music,

Under the direction of Dr. The Thursday March 6 Larry Corse will be a cast performances at 8 p.m. Steven F. Graver, who will Performances will be in the be performing the main role CJC Lecture Hall (Room G- of "Tevye" in the musical, also designed and con-terpersonal communications' will be conducted at Clayton Junior College April college, the SAT seminar ty services, communication techniques that could help in will begin at 7 p.m. in the S Round Building on Thursdifficult situations will be highlighted, according to a ay, April 24. The types of questions asked on the test, For more information Show it is scored, and hints on how to do well on the H SAT and other standardized tests will be discussed.

Sponsors

Clayton Jr.

of the Dean of Students

A free seminar on the

Z entering credit classes at the CJC Non-Credit Signup Underway offered, along with others problems associated with taking registration for Spring Quarter non-credit continuing education

Coordinated through the Office of Community Services, more than 90 noncredit offerings are scheduled during the quarter, and most classes begin the week of March 31-April 4.

A number of courses for and professional field will be individual personal growth. In addition, classes are planned in sports, recreation, the arts, music, and leisure time activities. taught on the College Quarter schedule is a continuation of a "small business management School in College Park. Dog series" co-sponsored with the College's Small Business sponsored with local Development Center, organizations at the dealing with the home and their firm, experts in the various fields will teach these courses.

In addition to a full schedule of classes to be Also included in the Spring campus near Morrow, noncredit courses will again be offered at M. D. Collins High obedience training will be co-Designed to help small Jonesboro Recreation business owners with "big" Center, the Riverdale courses "automotive repair" and one in "how to make wise consumer decisions" will be taught on Thursday evenings at Forest Park High School.

Community Center, the Office of Community College Park Auditorium, and the North Clayton Community Center.

To reserve a place in one or more classes, to obtain a should be addressed to the listing of all courses, or for attention of the Office of more information, call the Community Services.

To accommodate registration, special office hours have been scheduled for March 10 through April 14. The office will be open from 8 a.m. until 7:45 p.m.

Monday through Thursday

each week; between 8 a.m.

Services at 363-7717.

and 5 p.m. on Fridays. Registration by mail

Workshop S Is Planned

A workshop on "in-18 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sponsored by the college's office of communi-spokesperson. 岩 and registration call 363-7717.

SAT Seminar

and Ronnie Grist are among other students who have had major roles in past

will be an orchestra

comprised of David Pickney,

John Hembre, Michelle

Parker, Mark DuBuisson,

Sponsored by Lyceum, all productions are free, but

tickets will be required for seating. To reserve tickets, or to obtain complete information, call the Office and Doris Holloway.

Accompanying the choir production.

Required for students

as the workshop leader for 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. each day. A $41 registration workshop. To reserve a place and for ਰ more infarmation, call Clayton Junior College's office of community services at 二 363-7717.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR Census Test 3/19 To Be Given ton Junior College on next

Junior College on Friday,

April 11. Sponsored by the College's Office of Community Services, the workshop will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m. A $22 registration fee for the "time management" workshop includes the cost of lunch.

how to delegate responsibilities, to improve techniques for preparing and conducting meetings, and to tackle deadlines and set priorities to keep the organization running smoothly long workshop, or to obtain more information on this or other non-credit course offerings, call the Office of Community Services at 363-

Registration for spring quarter credit classes at

Students enrolling at the two-year institution for the first time must report to or 6 p.m. for an orientation

All other students should obtain registration and advisement materials and report to the upper level of the student center in building D between the hours of 10 a.m. 5 and 2 p.m. or 5:30 and 8:30 For complete informa-fice of admissions and re-

Plans Made

Dr. Sidney B. Simon, pro-

toward centralized power.' Crane suggests deregulation of the we can put any type of cap on oil prices is to increase supply. We Another portion of the Crane platform deals with national security, which he sees as threatened by the lack of emphasis put on the military earlier in the Carter administration. "For the last 10 years, the Soviets have been going up and we have been going decidely down," he said. Yet Crane, unlike many of his fellow Republicans, does not see a reintroduction of a military draft as a need it." Republican nomination hinged on his ability to "run with the front runners in the Iowa precinct caucuses, in New

As Crane defines the frontrunners as those candidates "clustered near the top", it is apparent that he has a rough job on his hands when it comes to surviving in the Republican primaries. So Clayton County's first visit from a presidential candidate Friday may prove to be a visit from a ton Junior College Winter p.m.

Corse, will be available performance.

Quarter musical productions of Fiddler On The Roof,

directed by Dr. Larry B.

from fhe office of the dean

Sponsored by the school's

Lyceum Committee, all six productions will be free, but

tickets will be required for

Productions are sched-

The producation is to be staged in the College's Lec-

Thursday productions will begin at 8:30 p.m. while

all Friday and Saturday

ture Hall (Room G-123)

Winter

Ends

next week.

at CJC

Winter Quarter credit

classes at Clayton Junior

College will end and final examinations will begin

The quarter, which opened with registration

on January 2, will end on Wednesday, March 12. Finals will begin the following day and continue through the two-year institutions

near Morrow will have a brief break before the start of the Spring Quarter. Advisement

and registration for the next session will be held on Monday, March 24,

Students who plan to enroll at the College for the first time have until

Thursday, March 6, to credentials with the

Records: Questions

Office of Admissions and about enrollment in credit programs at

Clayton Junior College

or other institutions of the University System of Georgia should be directed to the Office of Admissions (phone 363-

Z and classes will begin the following day.

Tuesday, March 18.

Quarter

uled for Feb. 28, 29 and

March 1, 6, 7 and 8.

By JOE CHANDLER

Staff Writer

THE HENRY NEIGHBOR February 21, 1980

Tickets Major Bargain

For Fiddler On the Roof

Free tickets for six Clay- presentations will begin at 8 tickets will be issued to the

Although tickets will not will be required for each

College next week.

are open to the public.

Yale University School of Medicine of students beginning Friday minutes before each show, after 9 a.m. Friday.

of his lecture Tuesday. Wilson warned his tests. Conditions for American audience that blacks are blacks have improved since the time in the 1960s when effort spearheaded by Atlanta University vice-California educational president Dr. Prince E. psychologist Arthur Jensen Wilson was forcibly removed that seeks to prove "that from a restroom in south black people are stupid and Georgia. But if the subjects unintelligent" genetically. examined by Wilson during a Besides questioning lecture at Clayton Junior Jensen's credibility (a College are an accurate psychologist dabbling in the indication, then the field of genetics), Wilson improvement has been very quoted figures which showed SAT scores and IQ tests are Wilson, one of three more a measure of difspeakers in a series at CJC ferences in economic level of hat will celebrate Black income" than of genetic History Month this wee, inferiorities. Wilson showed was a terrific experience for chose "Black History and that test scores declined in me-seeing the depth and first 225 requests.

be for assigned seats, tickets obtain complete informa-

To be honored until ten dean of students at 363-7735

BIOCHEMIST TO LECTURE

A biochemist of wide scientific background will be

Dr. Robert Suster, who serves as associate professor of biochemistry at the Emory University School of Medicine, will lecture at 11 a.m. and again at 7 p.m.

Wednesday, Feb. 27. Sponsored as part of the college's continuing Lyceum series, the first presentation will be given in Room B-14 and the second in Room B-13. Both

Dr. Suster has held positions at the National Institute of Health and in the Department of Radiobiology at the

He received degrees from Brooklyn College, Purdue University, and Albany Medical College, and is a member of the Biophysical Society and Sigma Xi. His numerous articles have appeared in the Journal of Bacteriology, Nature, the Journal of Virology, the Journal of Biological Chemistry, and the Bulletin of the Society of Chemical Biology.

featured during two lectures scheduled at Clayton Junior

To reserve tickets or to tion. South Metro residents can call the office of the income of persons taking the racial hostility.'

While warning that presently endangered by an Jensen's attack is the most direct example of racial hostilities that still exist in America, Wilson was not without other examples. He cited his experience traveling coast-to-coast while visiting eight American cities several years ago. "I found hostility between Indians and blacks, between Chicanos and Puerto Ricans, and we were verbally assaulted by whites and Chicanos," Wilson said. "It

Black University Official Says Improvements Slight the Humanities" as the topic accordance with the level of pervading character of

"If you look at the history The answer to such a problem come in erasing the racial divisions which separate Americans, Wilson said. "America needs to spend a great deal of time in finding ways to make now have to face the issues of "they merely substituted a and Credit." Americans human beings, rather than whites, blacks, Chicanos and so forth."

"If you are a human being, you have the rights and respect of other human beings," Wilson emphasized. The Atlanta University official enumerated current social problems that are shared by everyone in this country, regardless of race, and hinted that such problems serve to push civil rights into the background. "President Carter has now begun to speak less of human rights and more of military preparedness," he noted.

Wilson approached the current status of racial relations in America with an ambiguous attitude. "There's no doubt that since the 60s a good deal more of a liberating influence has permeated this nation." he said. Citing his incident in the south Georgia restroom, Wilson said, "We've come a long way from that--from where we had to sit on the back of the bus--but we have a long way to go. What do we see in the 1980s--we see the Ku Klux Klan coming back again. There's the accentuation of white flight from the cities to the suburbs. None of the top 100 businesses listed in Fortune magazine are black businesses.'

As past chairman of the Georgia Committee for the Humanities and as an educator, Wilson expressed his belief that education and wisdom can be of extreme importance in changing the course of the future. "The greatest of all sources of wealth is intelligence," he told the audience in his opening remarks. Later, he stressed that people must pose "questions of value and

(of) quantitative of humanity, almost in- youth movement of the 60s, true, some of these the basic values of the larger lecture Thursday on "Blacks degenerate into myths. We society. Instead, he found in Business and Accounting

Wilson also criticized the beliefs as their myths.' The celebration of Black varibly, every city, state and saying he at first thought History Week will continue culture has been based on a there was great value in with a high school student mythos," he said. "If that is their questioning of some of art show Wednesday and a

CJC Plans 2 Seminars For Business Owners

Two seminars for small prepare a loan package that be obtained by phoning the Business Development

The first seminar, entitled effective advertising and promotion," will be conducted on Monday and Wednesday, February 25 and 27, from 6:30 until 9:30 each evening. Information on 'how to apply for an SBA loan" will be discussed during the second seminar. scheduled between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Saturday, March 1.

A $15 registration fee covers both sessions in the opening seminar, and a $17 fee for Saturday's program includes lunch.

"Effective advertising and promotion" for small business owners will deal with choosing the most effective advertising media at the lowest cost per customer, and getting the most from public relations.

Saturday's seminar will provide participants with information on how to business owners have been meets the requirements of SBDC office at 363-7788. To scheduled next week by the Small Business reserve a place in either Clayton Junior College Small Administration financing. program, phone the Additional information College's Office of Comabout the two seminars may munity Services at 363-7717.

Small Business Seminars Set

scheduled next week by the includes lunch. Clayton Junior College "Effective advertising Small Business Develop- and promotion" for small ment Center.

6:30-9:30 each evening. In- Additional information formation on "how to apply about the two seminars may for an SBA loan" will be dis- be obtained by phoning the cussed during the second SBDC office at 363-7788. To covers both sessions in the vices at 363-7717.

February 20, 1980

Two seminars for small opening seminar, and a $17 business owners have been fee for Saturday's program business owners will deal The first seminar, entitled with choosing the most ef-'effective advertising and fective advertising media at promotion," will be con- the lowest cost per ducted Monday and customer, and getting the Wednesday, Feb. 25 and 27, most from public relations.

seminar, scheduled 10 a.m.- reserve a place in either p.m. Saturday, March 1. program, phone the college's A $15 registration fee Office of Community Ser-

CJC Business Seminar

A two-night workshop on inventory control for small businesses will be conducted at Clayton Junior College next Scheduled between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, April 7 and 9, the workshop was designed by the College's Small Business Development Center for owners of small businesses throughout the community.

registration fee will cover both sessions. Participants will learn how to determine their best inventory levels, as well as how to set purchasing policies to meet their sales needs. In addition, a review of record-keeping techniques for bookkeeping and tax purposes will be covered. For more information about he two-night workshop, and others scheduled during the Spring Quarter, call the SBDC office at 363-7788. To register, call the College's Office of Community Services at

KRANZBERG (L) AND KOHLER Discuss Public Forum On Energy

CJC Sets Energy Forum

The first in a series of in the past can help in serve as three public forums on solving present problems. moderator. energy will be conducted at He will examine today's Clayton Junior College this values and life styles in for the Humanities in

Entitled "Energy and the Way We Live," the forum is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 21, from 7 until 9 p.m. on the upper level of the Georgia Conservancy, the Student Center (D Building), Georgia Office of Energy and is open to the public.

Calloway Professor of the answer questions. History of Technology at John H. Kohler, assistant Georgia Tech, will talk about professor of history at relation to the energy Georgia and by the shortage.

363-7717.

Representatives from Shell Oil Company, Georgia Dr. Melvin Kranzberg, Coalition will be present to Funded by the Committee American Association of Community and Junior Colleges, the forum is part of Power Company, the a nationwide program designed to generate discussion on what can and Resources, and the Solar should be done about the energy issue.

To reserve a place in the free forum, call Clayton Junior College's Office of how American use of energy Clayton Junior College, will Community Services.

CJC Presents Fiddler On The Roof" Mar. 6-8

Junior College Choir will Larry Corse is a cast with a continue their presentation of "Fiddler on the Roof" this Steven F. Graver, who is weekend. Their winter performing the main role of quarter musical production, three presentations were designed and constructed given last week.

Productions scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings March 6, 7 and 8. Performances will be in the College's Lecture Hall (Room major roles in past produc G-132) with the Thursday tions. production beginning at 8:30 and the Friday and will be an orchestra com-Saturday presentations prised of David Pickney, Saturday presentations beginning at 8 p.m.

The two-act musical is a dramatic story about a and Doris Holloway. Jewish family affected by social change. The main productions are free, but theme is tradition versus tickets are required for change. sian dance routines.

Under the direction of Dr. wide range of experience. 'Tevye" in the musical, also the set, and has been in are three previous shows at the College.

Carla Caldwell, Jim Huff, and Ronnie Grist are among other students who have had

Accompanying the choir John Hembre, Michelle Parker, Mark DuBuisson,

Sponsored by Lyceum, all seating. To reserve tickets. Along with Russian or to obtain complete informusic, this production in- mation, call the Office of the cludes some authentic Rus- Dean of Students at 363-

Economist Pleads For Fiscal Control

PAUL McCRACKEN Former Presidential Advisor

Staff Writer Economist Paul McCraken said Wednesday the United States could cure its economic woes in the 1980s by following a current international trend of placing tighter controls on governmental spending.

The former presidential advisor, who served six years during the Eisenhower and Nixon administrations, also advocated more investment in capital improvements with closer attention being paid to productivity

His lecture was part of a series observing the 10th anniversary of Clayton Junior College.

'The American economy has virtually lost is capability to deliver gains in real income," said McCracken. "If one looks at the rest of the industrial world, the per capita gains in productivity and real income--they're one and the same -- in the United States are the lowest."

He also cited inflation, the disturbed state of world economy and unemployment as several characteristics of American economy today and felt these problems were "distinctly out of context" with trends of the past.

The Consumer Price Index, one of the major indicators of inflationary rates, during the first two-thirds of the 20th century averaged increases at 2.1 percent annually. In 1979, that increase stood at around 13 percent,

America's capability to make gaoins in productivity, meanwhile, has declined over the same period. Increases in output per manhour per year stood at 2.5 percent before the mid-1960s while production decreased to 1.3 percent in 1973, and to .3 percent in 1978. Increases in output for 1979 should be negative, he added.

"The question is 'are we going to stay on this same track?' Increasing inflation rates, the inability to register gains in productivity and high unemployment are completely out of context with American history," he said. "Or will things improve?"

McCracken noted nations rarely have the opportunity "to be born again" economically-"Great Britain, for instance, has developed a hardening of the arteries (since its heyday in the 18th century). Their disappointments are only exceeded by our disappointments"but said he held out for a few reasons for optimism.

internationally of a growing feeling that governmental fiscal policy be put on a shorter leash," he said. "There is a growing conviction that (governments) have been budgeting too loosely--that budgets have been rising too fast.'

Many major European countries have shown similar trends of government absorbing a greater percentage of its national income. But there are movements, he said, to impose tougher limits on government spending and turn around respective economies.

"California's Proposition 13 was not an aberration limited to the American scene. And it probably will not be the last," said McCracken. "I would attach some significance to this (trend.)'

The economist also noted American industry is beginning to pay closer attention to more efficient production methods, concentrating on increasing supplies--rather than demand. He also predicted the proposal of legislation to give industry better tax advantages for investing in capital improvements.

Relaxed depreciation allowancesthe value of assets averaged over its life expectancy-would lead to additional spending in capital improvements and increased productivity.

"In recent years, the net stock capital per worker has been declining. We have been going from the earth-moving behemoths back to shovels," he said. "The use of capital (assets) does determine the health of our economy."

Other methods to improve our ailing economy would likely fail, said McCracken while noting wage and price guidelines has proven it does not reduce inflation rates and that hastily implemented measures to strengthen the ailing dollar could lead to its collapse on international markets.

"Presidents today have less room to maneuver," he said. "Our best hopes lies with a 'liberal' economy rather than a reliance on a government managed one."

A three-week free seminar on "wills, taxes, and estate planning" will begin at Clayton Junior College next week. Co-sponsored by the Clayton Junior College Foundation, the first

CJC

Sponsors

Planning

Estate

Course

ween 7 and 9 p.m. on Tuesday, April 15. The seminar has been designed to answer Important questions on taxes and their relation to probate, life insurance, wills and trusts, and other aspects of session in the seminar

will be conducted bet-

estate planning. Sessions will continue each Tuesday for the remainder of April.

For complete information on this and other non-credit course offerings of the College, call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717. Although free, advance reservation by phone is encouraged.

Involvement THE CLAYTON SUN

New College Group Seeks to Spark Political Awareness

By DAVE HAMRICK

Not too long ago, college campuses were well known as hotbeds of political activism, with dozens of groups holding any of a variety of philosophies and regularly demonstrating for their beliefs.

Not so these days, according to Anna Smalley, of College Park, a freshman at Clayton Junior College. Political science teachers found some students don't even know who the governor is, she said. But the CJC Political Union, an organization which she recently helped to form, plans to reverse the current trend toward apathy, "OUR GOAL IS to increase consciousness of politics, not only here in the school, but in the whole community," said Ms. Smalley. "The government is now run largely by special interest groups and other people who have axes to grind, just because the rest of the people are not getting out and voting," she added.

The idea for the political union originated with Drs. Joe Trachtenberg and Gene Hatfield, of the political science department. said Ms. Smalley. "They became concerned that the students simply were not involved." she said. "They found many students didn't know who their congressman was, or even who the governor is.'

So the teachers asked some of the more involved students and political science majors to form the union and begin working for increased awareness and involvement.

THE GROUP HAS held two meetings, each attended by about 25 people, she said. A real indication of the possiblity for success came recently, she added, when the union was able to schedule a speech by Phil Crane, Republican candidate for President.

About 400 turned out for the talk," said Ms. Smalley. "That's bigger than any one event the college has ever had," she added. Georgia Institute of Technology, a much larger school, hosted Crane for a crowd of about 150.

"I think the difference is that this event was pushed by a group who worked for it, and it was the first time a Presidential candidate has ever come here, and a lot of people from the community came in," said Ms.

THE UNION'S SECOND project was just as successful. The group held a mock Presidential preference primary, and 1,283 people, or 40 percent of the student body, cast ballots for either Democratic or Republican candidates.

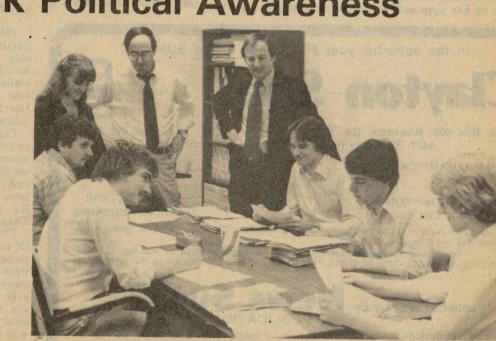

Predictably, President Jimmy Carter received 79 percent of the Democratic vote. or 610 votes, to Edward Kennedy's 56, or seven percent, and Edmund G. Brown's three percent, or 26 votes. Sixty-eight students, or nine percent, were uncommitted. Ronald Reagan took 244, or 48 percent of Republican votes, followed by John Anderson with 74 (14 percent), George Bush with 68 (13 percent), Crane with 62 (12 percent) and Harold Stassen with 30 (six

"WE FEEL LIKE this was a good turnout," said Dr. Trachtenberg. "It was ten times better than in any student government election the last five years.'

Trachtenberg said he also is encouraged by the number of students who said they are registered to vote, and will. "We had a ques-

(See POLITICAL, Page 12B)

POLITICAL UNION—Coordinating committee for CJC's new Political Union counts votes in a recent mock Presidential preference primary. From left, around the table, are Tim Hill, Taliaferro Livingston, Anna Smalley, Dr. Joe Trachtenberg, Dr. Gene Hatfield, John Lee, Jeff McCord and Chuck O'Kelley. (SUNPhoto by Dave Hamrick)

Scheduled

Lecturer

Dr. Robert A. Holmes, a state representative from Atlanta and an expert on U.S. and China relations, will be featured in a lecture at Clayton Junior College May 8 at 10 a.m. in Lecture

The co-author of five book-length studies and publisher of more than 40 articles and reviews, Holmes is a member of the National Committee on U.S.

and China Relations.

Music Recital Clayton Junior College music students will be presented during two recitals scheduled at the two-year institution next week. Sponsored by Lyceum, recitals will be given in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 11, and at 12 noon, on Wednesday, March 12. Both will be free and open to the public.

CJC

CJC Personal Growth Seminar

A highly-respected writer and workshop leader will conduct a two-day seminar on personal growth and values realization at Clayton Junior College this month. Dr. Sidney B. Simon, Professor of Humanistic Education at the University of Massachusetts and the author or co-author of a number of books, will serve as the workshop leader on Saturday and Sunday, March 29 and 30. Sessions are scheduled between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. each day, with an optional program planned for Saturday evening. Of Interest to educators, ministers, social workers, civic and social leaders, administrators, and almost everyone, the workshop will focus on developing each individual's respect for his or her own abilities. Participants will leave with new tools, approaches, skills, concepts and energy to use at home or work.

will be charged for the weekend workshop. To reserve a place in "people-oriented" workshop, or to obtain additional information, call Clayton Junior College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

A $41 registration fee

Calendar of Events

FAYETTE COUNTY NEWS 3/5/80

THURSDAY, MARCH 6

Applications for new students enrolling in credit programs at Clayton Junior College must be filed with the Office of Admissions and Records by 5 p.m. on this date. Call 363-7723 for complete information.

The Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) will be administered at Clayton Junior College, beginning at 5:30 p.m. Call the Office of Counseling and Testing (363-7744) for complete information.

The fourth performance of "Fiddler on the Roof" by the Clayton Junior College Choir will be given in Room G-132, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Free tickets are required from the Office of the Dean of Students

FRIDAY, MARCH 7

The fifth performance of "Fiddler on the Roof" by the Clayton Junior College Choir will be given in Room G-132, beginning at 8 p.m. Free tickets are required from the Office of the Dean of Students (363-7735).

SATURDAY, MARCH 8

The final performance of "Fiddler on the Roof" by the Clayton Junior College Choir will be given in Room G-132, beginning at 8 p.m. Free tickets are required from the Office of the Dean of Students (363-7735).

MONDAY, MARCH 10

The first program in a two-part seminar for small business owners will be conducted at Clayton Junior College between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Small Business Development Center at the College, the program will on "how to comply with EEO guidelines." (The second program will be on Wednesday.) Call 363-7788 or 363-7717 for complete information.

TUESDAY, MARCH 11

Clayton Junior College music students will be presented in an 8:30 p.m. recital in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). The public is invited free of charge.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12

Clayton Junior College music students will be presented in a 12 noon recital in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). The public is invited free of charge.

February 28, 1980

Rep. Gingrich To Speak At CJC

THE CLAYTON SUN

Congressman Newt Gingrich, 6th District Representative from Carrollton, will speak on the budget and energy during a speech at Clayton Junior College on Friday, April 11.

one-hour appearance by Rep. Gingrich will take place on the upper level of newly-formed impartial the Student Center "D" Building. The public is in-

Scheduled at 10 a.m., the Rep. Gingrich's appearance is sponsored by the College Political Union, a group of students and faculty members who are interested in the political process.

Following planned remarks on the budget, energy, and other topics, time has been set aside for a question-and-answer period.

PHIL CRANE SHOWS MANY EXPRESSIONS Presidential Candidate Spoke At Clayton Jr. College Friday.

News-Daily Photos by Russ Moble

Phil Crane Urges 'Restraint, Re-Orientation Of Priorities'

By JOE CHANDLER

Staff Writer Urging Americans to practice 'restraint and a re-orientation of priorities," Republican presidential hopeful Phil Crane told a large crowd at Clayton Junior College Friday that "economic problems must be addressed to get the economy on a robust track.'

Sponsored by the College Political Union, Crane told an audience of approximately 250 people, composed primarily of college students that the future held both promise and excitement for them.

"Everything looks rosy, if we avoid World War III and we avoid a major depression--and those are the things that made me decide to run for president," the 49-year-old-

Illinois Congressman said. Crane drew a picture of a future that will include mammoth advancements in medicine, such a synthetic blood and cancer vaccines, and said his studies indicated "the energy problem would be resolved through (nuclear) fusion." Yet he saw that future as directly threatened by the current tide of world events."There are some very troubling trend-lines," Crane said. This was a theme he would emphasize continually throughout his 40 minute speech, and he placed the major threat to America in its economic problems. "We are dealing with issues that could lead to a depression," he warned.

"There are disincentives to work and industry. Americans are tempted into isolating themselves financially. By doing so, they are denying the creation of job opportunities and growth.

"Once government consumes more than 50 percent of the economic pie, we are no longer by definition a free people," the Illonois Republican emphasized. "You cannot have progress without freedom. We take too much of it (freedom) for granted." Crane called the current inflationary rate "ominous", and said "we sowed the seeds of a great deal of anguish and hurt because of a failure to understand human nature and by thinking that we can spend our way into prosperity. Congress is regulating us out of ex-

At a press conference held after the speech, Crane was to place deregulation of business as one of the top priorities of his campaign. "I have proposed a constitutional amendment which would fix the portion of private and business income that the government can spend "Crane said

During his speech, Crane said "We should acknowledge that we have vastly overtaxed our people. We have to build back into the system incentives that make people want to be productive.'

Crane's speech was followed by a question and answer period, during which he offered his campaign position on a number of issues. Concerning the Equal Rights Amendment, Crane said, "I think it is redundant," and indicated that it would not gain his support.

He also clarified his view on the military. "I am opposed to drafting women. My record shows I am for pure, unadulterated military superiority. I don't think restoration of the draft is consistent with that policy. It is an inefficient utilization of manpower.'

In touching on the Iranian crisis, Crane said, "I will blame President Carter exclusively. He had six months warning. Under no circumstances would I permit the linkage between whatever the Shah did or the U.S. did in Iran and what the student militants did.'

Concerning the Russian invasion of Afghanistan, Crane claimed that

"the things that should have been done were not done. We should not have been exporting high technology," he said to loud applause. "We have given them the capability to improve their missle system. What are we-suicidal? We have to get over our schizophrenic attitude about what the Russians

Crane said he had based his candidacy on three assumptions. One was that the support for Ronald Reagan was not there as it had been in the past. Secondly, Crane noted that there was "a yearning from the public for new leaders. The Bush victory in Iowa confirms that." Lastly, Crane, said the Establishment wing of the Republican party had to focus on Howard Baker or George Bush, who Crane sees as candidates that he can eventually overcome. "Here in Georgia you folks are in a position to give me a tremendous push forward, "he said. "If I can come out of the southeastern states with that shot in the arm, I'm confident we can win in Illinois

Crane later said he felt his campaign would do well in the South due to a tight organization. He downplayed his poor showing in the Iowa caucuses, saying he was saving the bulk of his money for the more important New England primaries. Crane restated his belief that a 10 percent share of the vote in New Hampshire would leave him in "great shape" and that a good showing in the, southeastern primaries on March 11 and the Illinois primary a week later would put him "among the frontrunners.'

Other positions outlined by Crane at his press conference included:

·Support for increasing the defense budget.

·Abolishing the Department of Energy and deregulating the oil companies ("I have faith in free men...not a demogogic windfall profits tax which is only going to hurt the independents. I haven't seen the big oil companies lobby against that".) •Opposition to SALT II ("It's beneficial to the Soviets, Our greatest deterrent in weapons agains the Soviet build-up was before the treaty.")

If Crane is able to survive the early primaries, he will perhaps stand a chance of garnering more support from the conservative wing of the party and moving up among the frontrunners, currently limited to Reagan and George Bush. He is a charismatic, impressive speaker who presents his platform with clarity and a sense of assuredness. And his views present a direct, indentifiable contrast to those of the cureent administration. His present difficulty seems to be finding an identity within his own party, however, as most of the Republican candidates besides Indiana's John Anderson are espousing almost interchangable plat-

The Crane campaign will continue into Florida following the Friday stopover in Clayton County. From there, Crane will return to New Hampshire to prime for Tuesday's primary.

forms.

'Disturbing Trends' Phil Crane Campaigns at Clayton Jr.

By TRACY THOMPSON

Republican Presidential candidate Phil Crane (R-Ill.), speaking in Clayton County last week, balanced his prediction of a bright future for America with wary prophecies about "disturbing trends" in the nation's economy that could, he said, bring on a massive depression and possibly a third world war if Democratic administrations are allowed to pursue their social priorities without trying harder to preserve the free enterprise system. "Everything looks rosy, with a couple of big 'ifs'-if we can avoid World War III, if we can avoid a major depression," Crane told his audience of about 250 students at Clayton Junior College last Friday in a speech sponsored by the college's newly formed Political Union. "Those 'ifs' are what caused me to run for President.

A GALLOPING level of inflationbolstered by an announcement last week by the Bureau of Labor Statistics that the monthly price increase in consumer goods for January was 1.4 per cent—was the first of the disturbing trends Crane said was a potential disruptor of the current generation's pursuit of the American dream of continued

Other trends Crane cited were a decrease in productivity, three record trade deficits in a row, and a high rate of personal and business indebtedness.

"Traditional vices have become virtues," Crane said, describing the current inflation mentality that leads consumers to spend money, not save it, in an effort to win the race with rapidly increasing prices.

SPRINKLING his talk with homely reminiscences of his childhood in lower-class Chicago, Crane advocated some oldfashioned remedies for the country's economic troubles, including the abolition of taxation on interest earned in savings accounts, decontrol of oil and gas prices, and easing up on environmental standards and federal regulations in an effort to get American businesses to increase their productivity. "Americans are being tempted to insulate themselves against the ravages of inflation,' Crane said, "but buying Treasury bills does nothing to create new jobs. Campaigning on traditional conservative political and economic ideology in Georgia was the latest strategy in an effort by Crane's political organizers to get the Republican representative's sagging political campagin off the ground—a ploy Crane acknowledged when he told his audience, "I've got to get support in a hurry, because if I don't, both (myself and Ronald Reagan) will be gone.'

CRANE PREDICTED George Bush would defeat Reagan by a slim margin in y's Presidential primary—a predicater borne out-and said that with m. gan's defeat in the Iowa primary, the original Republican front-runner would suffer a permanent dimming of his chances at the Republican nomination. By presenting himself as a younger, more attractive alternative to Reagan, while sharing most of Reagan's conservative political beliefs, Crane said he hopes to place himself first in line as an heir to the Reagan political campaign.

'It's time to pass the torch," said Crane, who is at 49 one of the youngest Presidential candidates in the race. "Iowa demonstrated that Reagan suffered a loss on his own turf . . You people in Georgia are in a position to give me a tremendous shot in the arm when Reagan's fortunes begin to fade.' Crane said his current strategy involves winning upcoming primaries in Alabama, Florida and Georgia (March 11) before entering the primary in his home state of Illinois, slated exactly a week after the Georgia primary, March 18. IN A QUESTION and answer session after his speech, Crane won applause from his audience for his stands on the Equal Rights Amendment ("unnecessary and redundant"), registration for the draft for both men and women ("Registration and the draft would result in higher manpower costs than in the all-volunteer Army") and the United States' reaction to the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan.

'Basically, I support what the President is doing, only a lot more," Crane said. "Instead of cutting off shipments of American technology to the Soviet Union, we should never have been exporting it in the first tinued. "We have to get away from our schizophrenic ideas about the Soviet Union's intentions in the first place. I called President Carter a modern Rip Van Winkle for just waking up to that threat, and I fault (former Secretary of State) Henry Kissinger On the U.S. boycott of the Summer Olympics in Moscow, Crane said, "I think it was inappropriate of us to agree to the Moscow site in the first place." A boycott, he added, "would inflict an injury to the Soviet economy, and it would be a propaganda victory for the forces of freedom.

A member of the House Ways and Means Committee and the chairman of the American Conservative Union, Crane has been a member of the House of Representatives since his election to that body in 1969. Most recently, he was re-elected in 1978 with 81 per cent of the vote.

Crane was the first candidate to declare his Presidential intentions, calling a press conference to announce his candidacy for the Republican Presidential nomination in August, 1978.

PHIL CRANE

CJC Math Results

Heritage High School of finishers in individual Conyers and Fayette County competition. High School of Fayetteville won first place honors in the High School team placed third annual Mathematics second in upper level Tournament conducted at contests while the Heritage Clayton Junior College on Monday, March 17.

Fourteen area high schools were represented in the day-Competition and 155 Stewart and Gayle Garrison students took tests.

Cindy Hall, And Glenn of Southwest DeKalb Glover won upper level accompanied their students competition and the Fayette to the tournament. County team of Mark Roberson. Ray Hindman, Cliff Rogers, and Anny Barron claimed top honors in the lower level contest.

The two schools also dominated individual competition with Glover of Heritage and Roberson of Fayette County claiming first place awards in upper z level and lower level contests respectively. Heritage's Cindy Hall and Jeff Smith were second place

The Southwest DeKalb team placed second among lower level entries.

Faculty sponsors Dennis of Heritage, Kay Seabolt and The Heritage High team of Linda Sellmer of Fayette Rita Palmer, David Jansen, County, and Ron Hutcheson

MATH WINNERS--Fayette County High School placed first in lower level math competition of Clayton Junior College's third annual mathematics tournament. Shown following the match are (from left) sponsor Linda Selmer, Mark Roberson, Ray Hindman, Eddie Baker, Danny Barron and sponsor Kay Seabolt. Cliff Rogers was also on the team. Roberson received additional honors as first place winner, individual lower level competition.

February 21, 1980 THE CLAYTON SUN GOP Candidate Crane To Speak at Clayton Jr.

By TRACY THOMPSON

Republican presidential candidate Phil The 49-year-old Crane is a Republican Crane will take time off from campaigning representative from Illinois, and has served for the Feb. 26 New Hampshire primary to in Congress since 1969, when he was elected make a swing through Clayton County next in a special election. Friday, as he delivers a speech at noon on the Besides being the first presidential canlayton Junior College.

Union, the speech is the first in what Union Aug. 2, 1978. members hope will be a series of presidential candidates' forums held at the college.

to all the candidates to speak.

the Union would attract more candidates to speak at the college before Georgia's March presidential primary.

upper level of the Student Center Building at didate to appear at CJC, Crane was the first Sponsored by the CJC's College Political making it official at a press conference held

AFTER A poor showing in the Iowa Public Information Director Jerry Atkins caucuses, Crane is trying to overcome a persaid Crane was the first presidential can-sistent problem of low name recognition by didate to respond to the Union's invitations entering every primary and caucus leading up to the March 18 primary in his home state or Illinois.

"WE RECENTLY formed the College Crane is scheduled to make a short speech Political Union, and Crane will be the first at CJC, with a question and answer session. presidential candidate to appear at the to follow. Both the speech and the question college," Atkins said, adding that he hoped and answer period are open to the public.

NEWS/DAILY April 16, 1980 Clayton Jr. College Plans Free SAT Seminar April 24 A free seminar on the entering credit classes at the how it is scored, and hints on the SAT for students who

Scholastic Aptitude Test College, the SAT seminar Clayton Junior College next Round Building on Thursday, April 24. The types of Required for students questions asked on the test, Clayton Junior College offers

(SAT) will be conducted at will begin at 7 p.m. in the and other standardized tests will be discussed.

how to do well on the SAT plan to enroll in credit programs at the two-year institution. Two test Throughout the year, administrations are

By JOE CHANDLER

Staff Writer

An estimated 17,000 Clayton

Countians will take part Tuesday in Georgia's second presidential preference primary, joining voters in Florida and Alabama in gaining the

With more than 300 delegates at stake in the three Southern states, it appears President Jimmy Carter and Republican frontrunner Ronald Reagan will have little trouble national spotlight.

Primary

Carter, Reagan Top Straw Vote

As Clayton Readies For Balloting

garnering the majority of those votes.

at Clayton Junior College by the College Political Union, a campus organization, showed both Carter and Reagan winning lopsided victories. A total of 1,283 day and evening students

On the Democratic side, with 771

students voting, Carter took 610, or 79 percent of the vote. Massachusetts

Senator Edward Kennedy finished a dismal second with 56, or seven took part in the mock election.

A mock election conducted Friday

Candidates: We Tolerate the Bozos

Republican Presidential candidate Phil Crane after hearing him speak Friday at Clayton Junior College?

Well, let's see. He's certainly forceful. Good public how he was going to acspeaker. Has a certain complish the remarkable amount of charisma. Nice feat of holding federal eeth. Rugged profile. With spending at one end and increasing it at the otherthose looks, he could easily retire from politics and make a bundle as the

But his speech? Just the standard party line, that's

You might ask who qualified me to give my opinion on Presidential politics. Believe me, I don't like the thought of being the 4,000th commentator on

Presidential affairs in Clayton County alone, but what the heck. If NBC can send Tom Brokaw up to

New Hampshire to interview somebody's Uncle Ezra

as he warms his soles at a pot-bellied stove in the local general store, I certainly feel entitled to do a little expounding of my own.

WHAT I FEEL obligated

to point out about Phil

Crane (thanks to the CJC

Political Union who brought him here for close inspection) is simply this: he's no amateur at political doublespeak. In fact, he's pretty darned good- and that's no recommendation.

So adept was he that it wasn't until after I left the CJC campus and started reviewing my notes that I realized some of the things

he said were exactly the opposite of what he meant-even though they had been delivered in statesmanlike tones to enthusiastic ap-

FOR INSTANCE,

someone asked Rep. Crane

what he thought of the Equal Rights Amendment.

dant." he replied, in a phrase wonderfully illustrative of the qualities he supposedly deplores. His audience dutifully ap-

Rep. Crane played

semantical footsie with his proposal to limit federal spending, too. His position paper boldly advocates a Constitutional amendment to "prohibit any federal spending in excess of 33.3

per cent of the average his audience, "without sacrificing any existing

OHO, I THOUGHT. I asked

"We can do this," he told national income.

programs.

plauded.

'Unnecessary and redun-

Obligated, in fact.

Marlboro man.

'reorder our priorities. "One thing I would do, " Departments of Energy and Education." In other words, don't sacrifice programs, sacrifice departments. Oh, very well, that's all right (WAIT a minute...)

BUT THE MOST amaz-

gas and oil industries," in order to help the huge oil

Now, if you think careful- discover. ly about this, what the man ! Phil Crane would be a

What is my reaction to ference, if the U.S. needed a just said was a pretty dam- tempting candidate to vote bigger budget for national ming indictment of the com- for, were I of the Republican panies he's supposedly leaning. He's bright. He's rooting for-and I'm not engaging. He certainly looks "Oh, boy, do we ever," even taking the figures he like a leader. But what the Rep. Crane said. To the next tossed out literally, since man stands for, I still don't logical question—which was I'm sure he didn't mean know, even after hearing them that way. But think: if, with their billion -dollar profits, Gulf, Standard Oil and Texaco Rep. Crane said he wouldn't can't do any better than cut any program, just finding a small percentage of the new oil discovered in this country every year, he added, "is cut the maybe they need federal Maybe, like the dinosaurs whose remains they halfheartedly go about un-earthing, their time in history has passed.

THOSE three examples of one candidate's ing demonstration of Rep. doublespeak are not an in-Crane's ability to say what dictment of his party, since he didn't mean was yet to the Democrats have their share of doublespeak prac-Calling for "immediate titioners, too. Seeing the exand total deregulation of the tent of this problem at close range makes me feel very gloomy about how we go companies find new oil and about choosing our coal reserves, Crane said in Presidential candidates. the next breath that "cur- (Don't worry, Uncle Ezra, rent federal regulations I'm coming to you.) Why? don't hurt the big oil Because most of the time, companies—they only hurt we base our votes on what the 10,000 little ones who we perceive candidates to find 90 per cent of the new be, not what they really are—difficult as that is to CJC Calendar of Events him speak.

MONDAY, MARCH 24

The first session in a three-part workshop for small business owners "income tax avoidance" will be conducted at Clayton Junior College between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. (Sessions continue on Wednesday, March 26, oand Monday, March 31.) Call 363-7788 or 363-7717 complete

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2

+++++

Dr. Larry B. Corse, Director of the Clayton Junior College Choir, will be presented in a tenor recital, beginning at 12 noon in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Sponsored by Lyceum, the program will be free and open to the public.

+++++

FRIDAY, APRIL 4

Clayton Junior College's first annual "spring magical ex-travaganza" will be featured during a stage show beginning at 8 p.m. in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132). Performers will include Dr. Jim Braun, Kerry Doyal (Shuffles the Clown),. Rod Hanson (Romar), Jeff Hicks, Don Knight (McBoondoggle) and Debbie McMinn. The public is invited free of

Personal Growth Seminar Slated

o author or co-author of a at home or work.

A $41 registration fee will be charged for the weekend workshop. or for more information, call Clayton Junior College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

A highly-respected writer and workshop leader will conduct a two-day seminar on personal growth and values realization at Clayton Junior College this planned for Saturday evening.

Of interest to educators, ministers, social workers, a civic and social leaders, administrators, the workshop will focus on developing his or her own abilities. Participants will leave with new tools, approaches, skills, concepts and energy to use people-oriented workshop,

Dr. Sidney B. Simon, professor of Humanistic Education at the University of Massachusetts and the number of books, will serve as the workshop leader on Saturday and Sunday, March 29 and 30. Sessions are scheduled between 9 a.m. and 4°p.m. each day, with an optional program

To reserve a place in this

Register at CJC for Hold Seminar & Registration Spring

Quarter

Registration for Spring Quarter credit classes at Clayton Junior College will be conducted on Monday, March 24, and classes for the 11-week quarter will o begin the following day. Students enrolling at the two-year institution near Morrow for the first time must report to Room G-132 either at 10 a.m. or 6 p.m. for an orientation program. All other students should obtain registration and advisement materials and report to the upper level of the Student Center "D" Building between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. or 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. For complete information about credit class registration, contact the Office of Admissions and Records ய at 363-7723. Spring Quarter classes will continue through June 2 and final examinations will be administered June 3-6.

The College's annual commencement exercises will be held en Saturday morning, June CJC Sets Spring Non-Credit Courses

CLAYTON JUNIOR COLLEGE STUDENTS JILL TURNER AND DENISE JORDAN VOTE

Mock Election Showed Carter And Reagan Winning Big

obtain additional information,

call Clayton Junior College's

Office of Community Services at

Registration for Spring Quarter

credit classes at Clayton Junior College will be conducted on Monday, March 24, and classes for the 11-week quarter will begin

Students enrolling at the two-year institution near Morrow for the first time must report to Room

G-132 either at 10 a.m. or 6 p.m.

for an orientation program. All other students should obtain registration and advisement materials and report to the upper level of the Student Center "D"

Building between the hours of 10

a.m. and 2 p.m. or 5:30 and 8:30

For complete information about credit class registration, contact the Office of Admissions and Records at 363-7723. Spring

Quarter classes will continue through June 2 and final examinations will be ad-

The College's annual commencement exercises will be held on Saturday morning, June 7.

ministered June 3-6.

the following day

Clayton Junior College is quarter, and most classes addition, classes are plantaking registration for spr-begin the week of March 31-ned in sports, recreation, lege's Small Business ing quarter noncredit con- April 4. tinuing education classes. Coordinated through the the business and profes-Office of Community Sersional field will be offered, vices, more than 90 non- along with others dealing Spring Quarter schedule is a

A highly-respected writer and workshop leader will conduct a two-day seminar on personal growth and values realization at Clayton Junior College this

Dr. Sidney B. Simon, Professor of Humanistic Education at the University of Massachusetts and the author or co-author of a number of books, will serve as the workshop leader on Saturday and Sunday, March 29 and 30. Sessions are scheduled between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. each day, with an optional program planned for Saturday

Of interest to educators, ministers, social workers, civic and social leaders, administrators, and almost everyone, the workshop will focus on developing each individual's respect for his or her own abilities. Participants will leave with new tools, approaches, skills, concepts and energy to use at

A $41 registration fee will be

To reserve a place in this

"people-oriented" workshop, or to charged for the weekend evening.

home or work.

workshop.

A number of courses for time activities. credit offerings are with the home and in- continuation of a small

SOUTHSIDE INSIDER March-April, 1980

Clayton Junior College To

the arts, music, and leisure

ALSO INCLUDED in the scheduled during the dividual personal growth. In business management series their firms, experts in the various fields will teach these courses. In addition to a full schedule of classes to be taught on the College campus near Morrow, noncredit courses will again be offered at M.D. Collins High School in College Park. Dog obedience training will be co-sponsored with local organizations at the Jonesboro Recreation Center, the Riverdale Community Center, the College Park City Auditorium, and the North Clayton Community Center.

Development Center.

Designed to help small business owners with 'big'

problems associated with

TWO COURSES in automotive repair and one on how to make wise consumer decisions will be taught on Thursday even-ings at Forest Park High

To reserve a place in one or more classes, to obtain a listing of all courses, or for more information, call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

To accommodate registration, special office hours have been scheduled from March 10 through April 14. The office will be open from 8 a.m. until 7:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday each week; between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Fridays.

Registration by mail should be addressed to the attention of the Office of Community Services.

percent of the votes. California Gov. Jerry Brown received 26 votes for three percent. However, more voters selected the uncommitted category than voted for either Kennedy or Brown. 68 students, representing nine percent of the vote, were Reagan, who handily defeated thenpresident Gerald Ford in the 1976 Georgia primary, narrowly missed receiving 50 percent of the 512 votes polled on the Republican side of the mock election.

uncommitted.

With 244 votes, Reagan had 48 percent of the vote. The recent upswing in the campaign of John Anderson was reflected by his second place finish. Anderson's 74 votes gave him 14 percent of the total, brushing by George Bush, who received 68 votes, or 13 precent of the vote. Illinois Senator Phil Crane, a recent visitor at CJC, finished a close fourth with 62 votes. Former president Ford was fifth with 30 write-in votes, good for six percent of the total vote. Howard Baker and John Connally finished in a dead heat for sixth with 17 votes. Baker dropped out of the campaign last week while Connally announced his withdrawal from the race on

Of those voting in the CJC election. 50 percent of the Democrats and 73 percent of the Republicans said they were registered voters. A full 100 percent of the Democrats and 90 percent of the Republicans said they would vote the same way in Tuesday's primary. Officials of the College Political Union said they would probably hold another straw poll before the November election.

As in Georgia, both Carter and Reagan are expected to win easy victories in Florida and Alabama. The biggest challenge to Reagan may come in Florida, where Bush has campaigned diligently. Bush started strong with a victory in the Iowa caucuses, but has been trampled in recent primaries by a Reagan comeback.

The South will provide little evidence as to what chances upstart John Anderson has in his underdog bid to win the Republican nomination. Anderson, who did surprisingly well in primaries in Vermont and Massachusetts last week, has virtually ignored the South, choosing to focus on next week's primary in his home state of Illinois. Anderson is on the ballot in Georgia and Florida, but not in Alabama It may be only in Alabama that Kennedy will provide Carter with any threat of a race. Kennedy staffers have worked hard for the heavy black vote in the state, and a complicated method for choosing delegates may gain the Massachusetts challenger more delegates than the popular vote actually merits.

The voting process in Georgia will hardly be so complicated. Republican voters will simply select the candidate of their choice on Tuesday's ballot. On the Democratic side, voters will select a candidate on one portion of the ballot, and then select eight men and eight women from their state House district on another section of *the ballot. These men and women will later be involved in the selection of Georgia's delegation to the national convention. A statehigh total of 43 representatives will be competing for the slots in Clayton Tuesday, according to local Democratic Party Chairman Bo Bolander.

Following a national trend, a large number of voters are expected to turn out for the Tuesday primary. Probate Judge Kathryn Gibbs predicts 17,000 Clayton County voters will participate. Judge Gibbs said the polls would be open at all 27 local precincts from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday.

him later, in a press con-Monday, April 14, 1980 CJC Workshop Slated Friday

A one-day workshop situations will be conducted up at work also will be at Clayton Junior College on covered.

Friday, April 18. Office of Community and management consultant Services, the program will who has designed and begin at 9 a.m. and conclude conducted training at 5 p.m. A $25 registration programs in assertiveness, fee includes the cost of lunch.

Interpersonal communications to be covered during the workshop will help supervisors learn to deal with employee conflicts, and explain how to accept and give criticism.

Easy ways to assign and designed to present com- receive work, evaluating munications techniques that performances, and handling will help in difficult personal problems that show

The workshop instructor, Conducted by the College's Hugh Twiggs, is a counselor stress management, relaxation, and communications For complete informaion, or to reserve a place in class, call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717 at Clayton Junior College.

THE CLAYTON SUN March 27, 1980 Energy Forum Set at CJC

A free public forum on energy will be Dr. Weaver serves as chairman of the featured at Clayton Junior College Thursday Department of Nuclear Engineering at Georgia Tech, Dr. Hill serves on an organiza-Scheduled 7 - 9:30 p.m. on the upper level tion that advises the governors of 17 southern of the Student Center Building, the forum is states about energy policy and another program in a continuing series on regulation reforms, and Brown is a member

"energy and the way we live." The Clayton of the Wood Energy Research Project at Sun currently is publishing a series of arti- Georgia Tech. cles connected with the program. The continuing energy series is a program Appearing on a panel of experts during the of the American Association of Community forum will be Dr. Merle Lefkoff, Dr. Lynn and Junior Colleges with support from the Weaver, Dr. Jerry Hill and Mike Brown. Dr. National Endowment for the Humanities, Lefkoff represents a firm that advises the United States Department of Energy, governmental agenices and businesses on and the Committee for the Humanities in problems related to growth and change, and Georgia. serves as president of the board for an For more information about Thursday's organization that advocates the use of free forum, call Clayton Junior College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717. renewable energy resources.

Public Energy Forum Will Be Held At CJC A free public forum on and change, and serves as American Association of Oenergy will be featured at Clayton Junior College on Thursday evening.

Scheduled between 7 and 9:30 p.m. on the upper level of the Student Center Building, the forum is another program in a continuing series on "energy and the way we live."

Appearing on a panel of experts during the forum will be Dr. Merle Lefkoff, Dr. Lynn Weaver, Dr. Jerry Hill, and Mr. Mike Brown. E Dr. Lefkoff represents a firm that advises governmental agencies and businesses on

Dr. Weaver serves as chairman of the Department of Nuclear Engineering at Georgia Tech, Dr. Hill serves on an organization that advises the governors of 17 southern states about member of the Wood Energy Research Project at Georgia

The continuing energy problems related to growth series is a program of the president of the board for an Community and Junior organization that advocates Colleges with support from the use of renewable energy the National Endowment for the Humanities, the United States Department of Energy, and the Committee for the Humanities in Georgia.

For more information about Thursday's free forum, call Clayton Junior energy policy and regulation College's Office of Comfeforms, and Mr. Brown is a munity Services at 363-7717.

College Schedules Activities

Clayton Junior College has scheduled a number of events for area residents. The college's first annual "spring magical exo traganza" will be featured during a stage show beginoning at 8 p.m. April 14 in the decture hall which is room

Performers will include Dr. Jim Braun, Kerry Doyal, Rod Hanson, Jeff Hicks, Don Kight and Debbie McMinn. Dr. James Green, pro-

5 fessor of economics at the University of Georgia, will speak on "the economy on the 1980 elections" during April 7 at an 11 a.m. lecture The free lecture will be The free lecture will held in the lecture hall.
Tim O'Brien, ABC's Tim O'Brien, ABC's su-₩ preme court correspondent, will be featured during a noon lecture at the college

CJC Sets Credit Talks

Area small business owners will have an opportunity to learn more about "credit and colleccions" during a two-night seminar scheduled at Clayton Junior College next week.
Sponsored by the College's

_Small Business Development Center as part of an onogoing series for small business owners, the program will be offered between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, April 28 and 30. A $15 registration fee covers the cost of both sessions.

Requirements for extending credit under the truth in lending law, and legal means of recovering delinquent accounts will be stressed during the seminar. For more information, call the SBDC Office at 363-7788. To register, call the College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

Fiddlin' Around at CJC

a relatively small junior college to present a production as complex and difficult as Joseph Stein's musical, "Fiddler on the Roof."

After all, singing a nice, drama students in the cast, but also chorus members interested.

I was pleasantly surprised by the Clayton Junior College Division of production, which was presented three days last week and will be offered three days this week.

spots. It's an amateur much to the believability of production. But the dif- scenes like Tevye's nightference between a poor mare and the observance of amateur production in the Sabbath. which the weak points jar Graver's performance is does an artful job of casting another daughter. and coaching his characters and making use of the more the performance of Connie talented members of the Durman, who plays Chava, cast to help those less Tevye's daughter who brtalented along.

the necessary insight into flashy, but very neatly done. 1905. The nucleus of to sing and dance. Clayton Junior's presenta- Another performance I struggles to be heard on the to notice all that much. low notes, Graver does an The fiddler is a was not surprised. The set easily becomes the town square, both the posed to be crazy, or is he? inside and outside of Gallman's knowing smile 8:30 every night the rest of Tevye's home, the home of elicits the classical wonder- this week, including tonight. Motel, the tailor, the the ing about who really is crazy mellow/tenor doesn't make local pub with a minimum and who is not. one an actor. There are of shuffling about the props.

And instead of telling you adds to the credibility of price. It's free. about the program art, I've this production is costum- But you have to phone the and anybody else who was put a sample of it on this ing. Costumer Crafters office of the dean of stu-

RICHARD Holloway and

Commentary

SURE, THERE are weak portant element which adds

the viewer's sensibilities and admirably supported by disturb his enjoyment and a those of Carla Caldwell, good one in which they are playing Golde, his wife, hard to remember is in the Steven Caswell as Lazar Wolf, the butcher, Debra Larry Corse, an associate Taylor as daughter Tzeitel professor of English at CJC, and Julie Rogers as Hodel,

Especially impressive was ings shame on the family by The nucleus of the plot of marrying a Christian. Her "Fiddler on the Roof" is acting is pretty strong, but Tevye, the dairyman whose her voice is probably the soliloquies and his dialogues best in the cast, and her with God provide viewers short dance is nothing the problems and the tradi- I only wished there were tions of Russian Jews circa more opportunities for her tion naturally is Steven noticed, although few would Graver, who plays Tevye. take note of it, was that of Russell Gallman as the fiddler. Few would take note THOUGH his voice because you're not supposed admirable job of capturing metaphoric representation the facial expression and of the precarious lives of the other mennerisms, which Jews. He sits on the roof define the character of the playing and smiling during philosophical dairyman. He the opening scene and is has been in three other rarely seen during the rest of productions at the college. the play. But his presence is When I read the program felt everytime Tevye holds and discovered that Graver up his hands in supplicaalso designed the set and tion, sometimes as if to ask

I must admit I was was responsible for the "Why?" and sometimes as if strumentation well, esdubious about the ability of artwork on the program, I to ask, "Why not?" pecially considering the

THE FIDDLER is sup- the front row seats.

Another element which best news until last; the provides the costumes and dents, 363-7735, and get

Music is as important to there a little early because if Theron Corse handle the play as acting, and the auditorium isn't full ten ing four bucks for a movie, Humanities and Lyceum's lighting for the play, an im- several members of the minutes before show time, college chorus strengthen admission will be opened to live theater with (yech) the singing. A small whoever wants in, with or television. orchestra handles the in- without tickets.

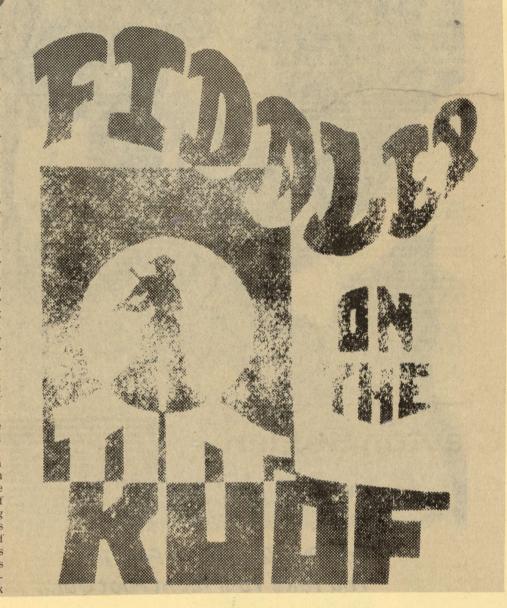

pecially considering the musicians must play from The play is being held at

AND I'VE saved the

they do their jobs well. tickets. And you have to get

I recommend going. It beats the dickens out of payand I won't even compare Go. Enjoy

MATH WINNERS-Fayette County High School won first place in lower level competition of Clayton Junior College's third annual Mathematics Tournament. Pictured from left are: sponsor Linda Selmer, Mark Roberson, Ray Hindman, Eddie Baker, Danny Barron, sponsor Kay Seabolt, and tournament director Dr. Peggy Capell. Not pictured was Cliff Rogers.

CJC Math Winners Named

Fayette County High School was among the winners of first place honors in the third annual Mathematics Tournament conducted at Clayton Junior College recently.

Fourteen area high schools were represented in the day-long competition and 155 students took tests.

The Fayette County team Seabolt and Linda Sellmer of Mark Roberson, Ray accompanied thier students Hindman, Cliff Rogers, and to the tournament. Danny Barron claimed top honors iin the lower level

Faculty sponsors, Kay staff served as judges.

Dr. Peggy Capell, Associate Professor of Roberson also claimed Mathematics, directed the first place awards in lower mathematics competition level individual competition, and members of the Clayton Junior College Faculty and

Computers Topic Of CJC Program

'Small Computers for Small Business" will be the topic of a two-part program scheduled at Clayton Junior

Sponsored by the college's Small Business Development Center (SBDC), the seminar is scheduled for Monday and Wednesday, May 5 and 7, 6:30-9:30 p.m. A $15 registration fee covers both sessions.

Small business owners from throughout the area will learn how to decide whether to lease or buy a computer, or to purchase the services of a data processing company. Emphasis will be placed on the growing availability of inexpensive computers, as well as the growing needs for upto-the-minute information.

For complete information on the program, another in a continuing series, call the SBDC Office at 363-7788. To register, call the college's Office of Community Services

THE CLAYTON SUN 5/8/80 Concert Slated at Clayton Jr.

lege Choir and Band will be presented in a noon concert presented in separate con- on Wednesday, May 14. certs at the two-year institution near Morrow next Gore, will perform the fol-

The Choir, directed by May 15, beginning at 8:30

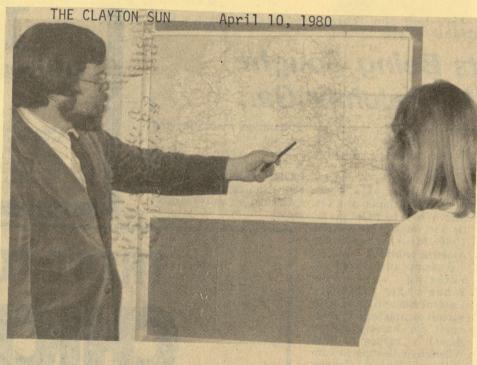

The Clayton Junior Col- Dr. Larry Corse, will be The band, directed by Bill

lowing evening, Thursday,

Both presentations will be given in the College's Lecture Hall (Room G-132) and will be free to the public.

PLANNING EASTER SUNRISE SERVICE—Making plans for the Easter Sunrise Service scheduled on the Clayton Junior College campus Sunday morning, April 6, are, from left: John O. Strickland, J. W. Smith, The Rev. Steven P. Lorimer, and Ricardo D. Sanchez, director of community services at the college. Sponsored by the Clayton County Ministerial Association and the Kiwanis Clubs of Clayton County, the service will begin at 6:19 a.m. Father John Kieran will deliver the Easter message.

England Tour Planned

Dr. Robert H. Welborn, assistant professor of history at Clayton Junior College and tour director for a two-week educational tour of Britain this summer, points out some of the sites to be visited to Jerri Hager, secretary in the Division of Social Sciences. Included on the June 18-July 3 trip will be a tour of London, major British cities, the English countryside, and the Scottish highlands. Sponsored through the College's Office of Community Services, a few tour spaces are still available, but reservations must be completed and the $1,528 per person fee paid by Monday, April 14. Call 363-7717 for complete information

Transportation, Energy NEWS/DAILY April 10, 1980

CJC Panel Urges Energy Changes

By JOE CHANDLER Staff Writer

An Energy and Transportation Conference held at Clayton Junior College Wednesday morning that featured speeches by Rep. Newt Gingrich and State Department of Transportation Commissioner Tom Moreland revealed several facts pertinent to Clayton County:

-- An Atlanta to Savannah rail line that would have passed through a large portion of the county has apparently been vetoed by Amtrak. -- An energy program developed and used by the city of Morrow is being lauded by officials statewide. -- Unless Clayton comes up with some alternative methods of transportation, it faces a serious problem for future development.

The conference was opened by Gingrich, who asserted to the audience of Sixth District political and business leaders that "the alternative transportation approach offers a real response to the rising demand for energy.'

Gingrich told the audience that several realities have to be faced when looking to the future of transportation and energy resources. "The price of energy will continue to go up in the near future," the Carrollton Republican said. "And we face the real possibility of losing onehalf of our oil supplies," he added, alluding to the crises in Iran and the Middle East.

Solutions to these problems

COMMISSIONER MORELAND SPEAKS AT CONFERENCE Business, Political Leaders Gathered At CHC

currently baffle even veteran national politicians, Gingrich admitted. 'Whatever level of confusion you have seen is accurate," he said. "In the Congress, we are confused about what to do. The level of concern and apprehension among even the top officials is shocking. All the models we grew up with are falling.'

Gingrich chastized both politicians and the media's reaction to the nation's ills, saying they have "focused on describing the pain," rather than offering answers.

The second portion of the conference focused on the availability of energy resources in the state for the '80s. Mark Zwecker, director of the Georgia Office of Energy Resources, told the audience to expect a continued rise in the price of gasoline, natural gas and coal, despite the fact

See TRANSPORTATION on page 3

News-Daily Photo by Russell Mol

REP. GINGRICH TALKS WITH JOE SHELNUTT OF CLAYTON COUNTY Gingrich Said That Several Realities Have To Be Faced

CJC Plans Local History Series

By JOE CHANDLER

Staff Writer "To Preserve and Protect", a fourpart series on local history, will be launched April 10 at Clayton Junior College with programs continuing every Thursday throughout April. Grant funds for the program were provided by the Committee for the Humanities, according to CJC assistant director of community services Kathy Robechaud. "To look at history and see how to preserve history at the same time" will be the purpose of the series, Ms. Robechaud

The first program in the series will begin at 7 p.m. April 10 in room G-132 at the college. On that date, a movie dealing with the Civil War in the Jonesboro area starring Clark Gable and Vivian Leigh will be shown. The name of the movie cannot be publicized because of an agreement with the film company, MGM.

The remaining portion of the film will be shown the following Thursday. Before and after the film, history professors Hardy Jackson and Gene Hatfield will discuss both the film and the actual history of the county during and after the Civil War.

According to Jackson, the novel "Gone With the Wind" by Margaret Mitchell is a fairly accurate historical account of life in the area during the period. Jackson said he will talk about "the myth of the Old South" after the film, and Hatfield will discuss the realities of Reconstruction after the war. Following Reconstruction and extending almost up to World War II, Clayton County was a reasonably poor agricultural area. That phase of its history will be covered by Robert Welborn in the third program in the series. The final portion will span from World War II to the present, with Brad Rice the main speaker. Rice said his portion would be "mostly a statistical overview" focusing on "post-war suburbia". "It was Fort Gillem that first brought people into the county, and then later Hartsfield Airport," Rice said. A spokesman from Delta Airlines will talk about the expansion of the airport during this part of the program. Rice said he would place an emphasis on the early blue collar growth in Clayton.

Both students and the general public will be invited to attend the four-part series. Programs will begin

CJC Sets 'Studies' Workshop

A free program designed to enter or re-enter college will be conducted at Clayton Junior College next week. A number of special scheduled between 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Tuesday evening, April 15. Dr. Jean Jones, Director of the Office of Counseling and Testing, and E. Donald Crapps, Counselor in the Department of Special Studies at the College, will conduct the session.

Agulst will learn how to support of their families and friends, and to overcome concerns about their ability to succeed in the classroom. Time will be set aside by the discussion leaders for questions about special

For more information, call the College's Office of Ad-concerns will be discussed organize themselves for a missions and Records at 363for adults who are planning during the program, return to studies, to gain the 7723, or the Office of Counseling and Testing at 363-7744.

Tax Seminar Set At CJC

A three-week free seminar Foundation, the first session ton, Junior College next week. Co-sponsored by the Clayton Junior College planning" will begin at Clay- ducted between 7 and 9 p.m. of April. on Tuesday, April 15.

designed to answer course offerings of the and their relation to probate, life insurance, wills and estate planning.

Sessions will continue each on "wills, taxes, and estate in the seminar will be con- Tuesday for the remainder

For complete information The seminar has been on this and other non-credit important questions on taxes College, call the Office of Community Services at 363-7717. Although free, adtrusts, and other aspects of vance reservation by phone is encouraged.

Jazz Concert Slated At CJC

Three area high school bands will join the CJC Jazz Band in concert at Clayton Junior College next week. Bands from George High School, Henry County High School, and North Clayton High School will perform in concert, beginning at noon on Tuesday, Arpil 29. Scheduled on the upper level of the Student Center Building, each band will play a 20-minute concert. The CJC Jazz Band, directed by the College's Band Director, Bill Gore, will host the concert. Band members will assemble on their performance. The concert is being sponsored by the College's Black Cultural Awareness withe campus at 10 a.m. to tour college facilities prior to

Exams Begin

Spring Quarter classes will end and final examinations will begin at Clayton Junior College next week.

Monday, June 2, will be the last day for regular classes. Finals will begin on Tuesday and continue through Friday, June 6.

The College will conduct its 10th annual Commencement on Saturday morning, June 7. Scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., approximately 100 of more than 300 students who are to receive associate degrees will participate the graduation ceremony.

Bookkeeping Workshop Set At CJC

A two-night workshop on Business Development small business. Meeting Community Services at 363simplified bookeeping for Center for owners of small internal revenue 7717. be conducted at Clayton community. A $15 the topics covered. Junior College next week. registration fee will cover

Scheduled between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, April 14 and 16,

Dr. Kenneth W. Stein,

the cost of both sessions.

A well-traveled expert on Assistant Professor of Near East Relations" will be during a 7 p.m. lecture on Wednesday, April 23. Free

small business owners will businesses throughout the requirements will be among For more information about the two-night

Participants will receive workshop, and others tips on how to prepare and scheduled during the Spring Quarter, call the SBDC office the workshop was designed maintain the records at 363-7788. To register, call by the College's Small necessary in operating a the College's Office of

given in the Lecutre Hall

Dr. Stein has traveled extensively in the Middle East, visiting Israel, Egypt,

Jordan, and Saudi Arabia.

He has received several fellowships and grants, including one to establish and direct the International Studies Program at Emory.

Next Wednesday evening's lecture will be sponsored by

Clayton Junior College's

continuing Lyceum series of programs and cultural

SAT Slated

At CJC May 1

Clayton Junior College will administer the

Scholastic Aptitude Test

(SAT) to prospective students of the two-year institution on Thursday even-

The first of two SAT administrations before the start of summer quarter credit classes will begin at 6 p.m. in Room G132. An $8.25 testing fee is payable before taking the three-hour

Although it is not necessary to sign up prior to the testing time, applicants should call the Office of Admissions and Records (363-7723) or the Office of

Counseling and Testing

(363-7744) for complete in-

The second SAT to be summer quarter classes in June is scheduled for Thursday, May 29. New students must make applications with the College on or before

ш given prior to the start of formation.

May 28.

next week.

Sponsored as a part of Lyceum's continuing cultural affairs program, Britton will be presented next

Hall, which is Room G-132.

the program will be free and selections will be included in the presentation, including numbers with flavors of Old English, colonial, Old

French, 15th century German, Scottish, Irish, Swiss,

Clayton Junior College sophomore music students will be presented in a voice recital Tuesday beginning at 8:30 p.m. in the Lecture

The Tyrone based band Saturn will be featured.

Fairburn resident Richard Smith and Jonesboro resident Joseph Slife are performing in the popular musical "Shenandoah" at LaGrange College today

Slife is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Slife of Jonesboro and a graduate of Morrow High School

The Clayton County Arts and Humanities Council will present the second annual Celebration of the Arts Saturday from 10 a.m. until 4 The celebration will be held on the campus of Clayton Junior College in Mor-There will be one-act theatrical productions by the Clayton Little Theatre and country music presented by the Country Gold and Starlite Ramblers bands.

The Swint, Lake Harbin,

Also the Clayton Com-

Morrow and Kilpatrick

Elementary School

munity Chorus, Clayton

Choruses will perform.

through Saturday.

The program is free. The second annual Tyrone Rock and Roll Festival will be held May 24 from 8 until 12 p.m. at Shamrock Park on Highway 74.

western and Civil War.

Scheduled in the Lecture

A variety of musical

Wednesday at noon.

open to the public.

ing, May 1.

(Room G-132).

Business Workshops C Sets Middle East Talk at CJC

Small

Two workshops designed to help small business owners will be conducted at Clayton Junior College next week.

Sponsored by the Development Center will be $15 each.

Businessmen will I from greeting the Thursday program. shop was designed to improve the sales per-

Community Services at 363-7717.

College's Small Business (SBDC), the two workshops are a part of a continuing series for small business owners in the area.

Scheduled between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, April 21 and 23, is a workshop on "marketing and sales promotion." _ Then, on Tuesday and Thursday, April 22 and 24, "retail salesmanship" will be the topic of discussion. Registration for the two workshops receive tips on how to identify their product and its market potential during the Monday-Wednesday program.

Detailed techniques, customer to closing and cross-selling, will be covered in the Tuesday-Taught by a highly successful professional salesman, the "retail salesmanship" work-and clerks alike. For more information, call the SBDC Office at 363-7788. To register for one or both of the workshops, phone the College's Office of

Monday

•SPECIAL CONCERT AT CLAYTON JR. COLLEGE

Monday, June 23 at 8:30 p.m. in Room G-132. Featuring the Vintage Singers from DeAnza College in Cupertino, Calif.

Free and open to the public. Sponsored by CJC Lyceum.

For ticket information call CJC office of Dean of Students at formances of mangers

THE CLAYTON SUN April 30, 1980
O'Brien To Speak at CJC

The Supreme Court cor- as well as the Bar Associa- Justice Centers," which airrespondent for ABC News tions of Louisiana and the ed in July, 1978. In addition, will speak at Clayton Junior District of Columbia, he is a O'Brien and ABC were College during a noon lecture on Thursday, April 10. Appearing in the College's Orleans. continuing Lyceum lecture series, Tim O'Brien will address a number of Supreme Court decisions and how they affect individual members of our country. A member of the ABC News Bureau team in the nation's Capital since the spring of 1977, O'Brien has received numerous awards casts. for his work. An attorney graduate of Loyola Univer- recognized for a report ensity Law School in New titled "Getting Even as Penalty," aired on ABC IN 1979, O'Brien Radio News. was awarded two Cer- A native of New York, tificates of Merit by the O'Brien entered television American Bar Association in New Orleans, serving in a in its Gavel Awards com- variety of capacities inpetition. For his coverage of cluding anchorman, the Supreme Court, he producer, writer, and received certificates for both reporter.

Justification for the Death television and radio broad- Thursday's presentation at Clayton Junior College O'Brien and ABC News will be given in the Lecture and a member of the received an award for a Hall (Room G-132) and will American Bar Association report on "Neighborhood be open to the public.

ABC Correspondent

CIC Plans Business Workshops

Two workshops designed to help small business owners will be conducted at Clayton Junior College next week.

Sponsored by the College's Small Business Development Center (SBDC), the two workshops are a part of a continuing series for small business owners in the area. Scheduled between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, April 21 and 23, , is a workshop on "marketing o and sales promotion." Then, on Tuesday and Thursday, April 22 and 24, "retail salesmanship" will be the topic of discussion. Registration for the two workshops will be $15 each. Businessmen will receive tips on how to identify their product and its market potential during the Monday-Wednesday program. - Detailed techniques, from greeting the customer to closing and cross-selling, will be covered in the Tuesday-Thursday program. For more information, call the SBDC Office at 363-7788.

To register for one or both of the workshops, pphone the

College's Office of Community Services at 363-7717.

To Lecture At CJC The Supreme Court a member of the American correspondent for ABC News Bar Association as well as will speak at Clayton Junior the Bar Associations of College during a 12 noon Louisiana and the District of Appearing in the College's continuing Lyceum lecture series, Tim O'Brien will address a number of Supreme Court decisions and how they affect individual members of our country. A member of the ABC News Bureau team in the nation's Capital since the spring of 1977, O'Brien has received numerous awards for his work. An attorney and lecture on Thursday.

School in New Orleans. In 1979, O'Brien was awarded two Certificates of Merit by the American Bar Association in its Gavel Awards competition. For his coverage of the Supreme Court, he received certificates for both television and radio broadcasts.

Columbia, he is a graduate of

Loyola University Law

O'Brien and ABC News received an award for a report on "Neighborhood Justice Centers," which aired in July, 1978. In addition, O'Brien and ABC were recognized for a report entitled "Getting Even as Justification for the Death Penalty," aired on ABC Radio News.

A native of New York, O'Brien entered television in New Orleans, serving in a variety of capacities including anchorman, producer, writer, and reporter.

Thursday's presentation at Clayton Junior College will be given in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) and will be open to the public.

THE CLAYTON SUN 5/8/80 Small Bus. Seminar

The rights and respon- discussed during three-hour sibilities of small business programs scheduled on owners under the law will be the topic of a two-part May 12 and 14. program scheduled at A $15 registration fee Clayton Junior College next covers the cost of both sessions, scheduled to begin at 6:30 each evening.

'How to comply with Participants from area

Monday and Wednesday,

OSHA guidelines" will be small businesses will receive tips on how to identify potential health and safety hazards before inspection of problems occur. In addition, a specialist in the field will review and explain changes in regulations. For more information on the short course, contact the college's Small Business Development Center (SBDC) at 363-7788. To register, phone the Office of Community Services at 363-

Bands To Give Concert

next week.

Band in concert at Clayton a 20-minute concert. Junior College next week.

Bands from George High School, Henry County High School, and North Clayton will host the concert. Band High School will perform in members will assemble on concert, beginning at 12 noon the campus at 10 a.m. to on Tuesday, April 29. tour College facilities prior Scheduled on the upper level to their performance.

Three area high school of the Student Center bands will join the CJC Jazz Building, each band will play

The CJC Jazz Band. directed by the College's Band Director, Bill Gore, The concert is being sponsored by the College's Black Cultural Awareness Association

Monday

the Middle East will lecture Eastern History at Emory

at Clayton Junior College University, will be featured

Director of the International and open to the public, the Studies Program and presentation on "U.S.-Mid

SPECIAL CONCERT AT CLAYTON JR. COLLEGE Monday, June 23 at 8:30 p.m. in Room G-132. Featuring the Vintage Singers from DeAnza College in Cupertino, Calif. Free and open to the public. Sponsored by CJC Lyceum. For ticket information call CJC office of Dean of Students at

CJC To Administer SAT Test

administer the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) to prospective students of the two-year institution on Thursday evening, May 1.

The first of two SAT Although it is not complete information.

taking the three-hour test.

Clayton Junior College will administrations prior to the necessary to sign up prior to The second SAT to be start of Summer Quarter the testing time, applicants given prior to the start of credit classes will begin at 6 should contact personnel in Summer Quarter classes in p.m. in Room G-132. An $8.25 the Office of Admissions and June is scheduled for testing fee is payable before Records (363-7723) or the Thursday, May 29. New Office of Counseling and students must make Testing (363-7744) for application with the College on or before May 28.

Voice Recital

Clayton Junior College sophomore music students will be presented in a voice recital next week. Scheduled in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 6, the program will be open to the public. Participants in the voice recital (L-R) will be Julie Rodgers of Fayetteville, Carla Caldwell of East Point, Connie Durham of Riverdale, and Martha Wilson of Forest Park. David Pinckney of College Park and Kris Kreesey of Fayetteville will accompany the singers.

Clayton Junior College sophomore music students will be presented in a voice recital next week. Scheduled in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132) at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 6, the program will be open to Participants in the voice recital will be (left to right): Julie Rodgers, of Fayetteville, Carla Caldwell of East Point, Connie Durham, of Riverdale, and Martha Wilson, of Forest Park. Seated are David Pinckney, of College Park, and Kris Kreesey, of Fayetteville who will accompany the singers.

Festivals Scheduled For Area Folksinger George Brit- Community Band, Georgia Park concert Saturday be- for various concerts, includton will be featured during a Belle Cloggers and the Joy- ginning at 2 p.m.

THE CLAYTON NEIGHBOR

NEWS/DAILY

lute and guitar presentation ful E's Gospel Singing Group at Clayton Junior College will perform. For more information, Jazz Ensemble under the years. Taylor, chairman of the Southlake Mall will host its first annual Jazz in the has won a number of awards of band music.

persons may contact Rob direction of Bill Molony. The Clayton Junior Col-Clayton County Arts and Hullege Orchestra, under the manities Council at 363-7735. direction of Bill Gore, will also perform.

ing a rating of superior in The concert will feature each of the nine festivals the Riverdale Junior High attended in the past six

In June, the group will perform for the National Band Association Convention, the world's largest organization dedicated to the The Riverdale ensemble advancement of all phases lege Orchestra features saxaphones, trumpets and trombones playing contemporary jazz rock.

The orchestra has been invited to play a command performance for the board of regents of the university system of the State of Georgia June 10.

Students Practice For Recital At College

Clayton Junior College sophomore music students will be Point, Connie Durham of Riverdale and Martha Wilson of Forest presented in a voice recital Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the college's Standing: Juilie Rodgers of Fayetteville, Carla Caldwell of East the singers.

Park, rehearse for the program. (L-R) Seated: David Pickney of Lecture Hall. The program is free. Here, students (L-R) College Park and Kris Kreesey of Fayetteville will accompany

MSH, Woodward Score Big in Festival and Woodward Academy were the big winners in the eighth annual Creative Arts Festival conducted at Clayton Junior College

Morrow students won two High; Connie Crisp, North the five rotating challenge Clayton Junior High School; Alan of the five rotating challenge Miller, Babb Junior High School trophies an five first-place awards in individual events. Woodward took home one of the challenge trophies and led all schools with seven individual event winners.

Morrow Junior High School won three first place dy, Riverdale Senior High School. awards in individual competition to lead the junior high division. Babb Junior High and Riverdale Junior High each claimed one first place trophy.

An estimated 1,000 students from 35 area schools— 26 senior highs and nine junior highs-participated in the annual event.

photography, essay writing,

French drama and essay position, play writing,

poetry, short story, and Spanish drama and essay.

Entries were judged by staff prior to the day-long event. Junior high and high school students participated throughout the day, and winners were announced at an awards ceremony that were provided by the College's Student Affairs

Committee on behalf of the student body. Rotating dent Administrators).

the Student Government High

Challenge trophy winners were: Terry White, of Forest

Park Senior High School,

with the best art entry; the

Griffin High School group of

Sue Baird, Beverly

Fitzhugh, Cary Griffin,

Shawn Lannan, Margaret

Gilchrist, and Debbie

Rutherford with the best foreign language entry;

Lakeshore High School,

with the best literary entry

ners was Bill Crane of Morrow Senior High School with the best music entry. Morrow and Woodward tied for the best student publication, Morrow winning with its literary publication "Cavalier" and Woodward with its student newspaper

Following Woodward and

Morrow with winners in high school individual competition were Jonesboro and Riverdale with four each;

Southwest DeKalb with three: Forest Park, Newman.

Pace Academy, and Griffin

with two each; and North Clayton, M. D. Collins, Booker T. Washington, and Certificates were awarded to the three best entries in each of more than 40

Dr. William A. Pasch, assistant professor of English,

served as director of the

Creative Arts Festival, an annual event sponsored by the College's Division of Humanities. Dr. Elliott W.

McElroy is chairman of the division, and Dr. June M.

Legge served as foreign language programs coor-

A complete listing of win-

OVERALL WINNERS

Senior High School; Sue Baird, Beverly Fitzhugh, Cary Griffin,

Shawn Lannan, Margaret

Gilchrist, Debbie Rutherford,

Griffin High School; Dara Harlen

Collins, Lakeshore High School

Terry White, Forest Park

dinator.

categories of competition.

Lakeshore with one each.

'The Blade

Also among the top win-

Dana Harlan Collins, of Junior High School.

afternoon

in special workshops and newspaper, music com- School

Morrow Senior High "Cavalier," Morrow Senior High Woodward Academy School tied with "The Blade," Woodward Academy; Bill Crane, Morrow Senior High School.

> ART - TWO DIMENSIONAL Stan Beech, Morrow Senior

ART - TWO DIMENSIONAL loth Grade Donna McAfee, North Clayton
Senior High School; David
Martin, Forest Park Senior High Senior High School: Richard Ed-Susan LaPlante, Morrow Senior High School; Sara Mimbs,

ART- TWO DIMENSIONAL 11th Grade

Terry White, Forest Park Senior High School; Margaret Alford, Newnan High School; Larry Carlisle, Forest Park Senior High School; Johnnie Johnson, North Clayton Senior

ART- TWO DIMENSIONAL

Sun Community Life

society, clubs, religion, features

School; Heather Hodson, Henry County High School; Norris D.

ART - THREE DIMENSIONAL

9th and 10th Grades

Alfred E. Chalkey, II. Jonesboro

ART - THREE DIMENSIONAL

11th Grade

Gene Davis, Riverdale Senior

High School; Joan Belyeu,

ART - THREE DIMENSIONAL

Norris D. Ivie. Riverdale Senior

VIDEOTAPE

Bruce Moore, Newnan High School; Brian O'Kelley, John

ART - PHOTOGRAPHY

Richard Holloway, Morrow

Junior High School; John C. Har-rell, Southwest DeKalb High

10th Grade

Bryan White, Morrow Senior High School; Danny Barron, Brown High School; Bryan White,

ART - PHOTOGRAPHY

Morrow Senior High School.

Webster, Woodward Academy.

Competition included two Chris McGehee, Jonesboro and three dimensional art, Senior High School; Cheri Ann writing, literary magazine Ivie, Riverdale Senior High members of the Clayton Senior High School; Dwayne

Junior College faculty and Stooksbury, Riverdale Junior staff prior to the day-long High School; Rodney Perkins, Individual event trophies Palmetto High School; Margie Carter, M.D. Collins High School.

trophies, which remain at High School; Rosmond Lee,

the winning school for one Washington High School; Cheri full year, were provided by Ann Ingle, North Clayton Senior Association (Cabinet of Stu-ART - CINEMATOGRAPHY/-

Stacey Barnard, Woodward Academy; Eric Christian, Paul Detwiler, Southwest DeKalb High School; Ron Wilson, North Clayton Senior High School

ART - PHOTOGRAPHY

Patti Meason, Southwest DeKalb High School; Kris Thompson, North Clayton Senior High School; Linda Coleman, Henry County Senior High School.

> EXPOSITORY ESSAY 9th and 10th Grades

EXPOSITORY ESSAY III

12th Grade

Donna Alexander, Southwest DeKalb High School; Debra S. Corn, Southwest DeKalb High School; Beverly Hutt, Booker T. Washington High School.

FRENCH DRAMA

Kathy Anderson, Richard Blackburn, Angela Cosby, Ann

Gasper, Scott Goddard, Mike Green, Lisa Hall, Lisa Holland,

Anne Isbell, Margaret Isbell, Des

Latham, Tina Maloof, Tim Marchbanks, Jeana Thomas,

M.D. Collins High School; Denise

Fulcher, Lee Johnson, Stephanie Keck, Annette Smith, Wanda

Stephens, Ashley Williams, Jody

Atchley, Nora Nikazy, North Clayton Senior High School;

Cindy Chamberlain, Bobby Callahan, Tammy Hobgood, Mark

Bednarz, Jack Bruce, Kevin Sanders, Terry Glaze, Riverdale Senior High School; Lee Kin-

namon, author, Lee Kinnamon, Tommy Barshall, Vince Hackeny, Alecia Wiggs, Jackie Nicholson,

James Clark, Headland High School.

FRENCH ESSAY

Robin Porter, Woodward

Academy; Marlene Woolsey,

Jonesboro Senior High School:

Gail Kiblinger, Jonesboro Senior

FRENCH ESSAY

2nd Year

Lisa Lindsey, Riverdale Senior

High School: Dee Reynolds, Grif-

Jonesboro Senior High School; Lisa DeForst Bradshaw,

FRENCH ESSAY

Luis Soto, Woodward Academy;

Nancy Griffith, Jonesboro Senior High School; Wanda Renee Good,

Washington High School; Lalla

Walker, Woodward Academy.

High School.

Woodward Academy; Billy Jones, Woodward Academy EXPOSITORY ESSAY II 11th Grade

Nancy Gresham, Southwest DeKalb High School; David Langford, Woodward Academy Kellie Brimer, Southwest DeKalb

"Cavalier 1978-79," Morrow Senior High School, Clint Morrison, editor; "Knight Gallery," Pace Academy: "Possibilities. Riverwood High School, Marshall Johnston, editor, David Sisk, editor; "Philograph," Forest Park Senior High School; "The Starting Point," Griffin High School, Lisa Maxwell, editor,

Beverly Hutt. Booker T

Washington High School;

Anthony Joiner, Brown High School; Erica Holloway, Washington High School.

LITERARY MAGAZINE

MUSICAL COMPOSITION - CLASSICAL

Bill Crane, Morrow Senior High School; Daniel A. Duke, David Anthony Rape, Griffin High School; Mark Reid, Griffin High

MUSIC COMPOSITION POPULAR

Susan Hansard, Babb Junior High School; Mark Reid, Griffin High School; Bobby Burns, Griffin High School; Stanley Watkins, Washington High School.

> NEWSPAPER Junior High

"The Battlecry," Riverdale Junior High School, Suzanne Hall, editor, Carol Isaac, assistant editor; "Cat Scratchins," row Junior High School, Bonnie Boles, editor, Wade Warren,

> NEWSPAPER Senior High

"The Blade," Woodward Academy, Brian L. O'Kelley, editor; "Bear Facts," Griffin High School, Maria Hurt, editor; "The Prowler," Southwest DeKalb High School; "The Tiger's Roar," Fayette County High School, Janet Bundrick, coeditor, Andy Ebert, co-editor.

PLAYWRITING

Norris Ivie, author; Bobby Callahan, Karen Hammond, Danny Hedges, Norris Ivie, Jerome Lyons, April Stephens, Jill Vesser, cast, Riverdale Senior High School, "Voices from Within"; Stephanie Irene Harrison, Washington High School; Christopher Brian Dupree, Washington High School.

> POETRY 9th Grade

Adam Slagle, Woodward Academy; Pam Metzger, Riverwood High School; Debby Carter, Westwood High School.

> POETRY 10th Grade

High School; Todd McBride, Griffin High School; David Allen, fin High School; Susan Freeman, Southwest DeKalb High School.

Margaret Shippen, Pace Academy; Bobby Burns, Griffin High School; David Sisk, BEST STUDENT PUBLICATION-Alan Brown, center, of Woodward Academy is flanked by Morrow Senior High students Anne Turner, left, and Cindy Downey to share first place in "best student publication" category in the Creative Arts Festival at Clayton Junior College recently. Woodward won its share of the award with its student newspaper "The Blade," with Brian O'Kelley serving as its editor. Morrow won with its literary magazine "Cavalier 1978-79," edited by Clint Morrison.

CREATIVE ARTS FESTIVAL WINNERS-

Cindy Downey, Ann Tucker, Sheralyn Smith, and Brian O'Kelley, Woodward High School; Marvin Morrison, High School; William Young, Academy; Jackie McNally, Morrow Senior High School. Jonesboro Senior High School; SHORT STORY III Fred Scott, Woodward Academy;

Morrow Senior High School students displaying two challenge trophies they won during Clayton Junior College's recent Creative Arts Festival are, left to right: Susan Bradley, Marvin Morrison, Bill Crane,

11th Grade

Jim Baughn, Forest Park Senior High School; Larry

Turner, Stockbridge High School; Suzanne Bradley, Morrow Senior

High School; Robert E. Barrett,

Woodward Academy; Teresa Godfrey, Griffin High School;

Gary S. Griffin, North Clayton

SHORT STORY

12th Grade

Dana Harlan Collins, transportation.

Brief presentations by the panelists will be followed by audience discussion. Kohler of Clayton Junior and

James Fisher of DeKalb

Community College will serve as discussion

THE FORUM is sponsored in the Atlanta area by

Clayton Junior College,

lege, and Spelman College, and the Atlanta/Fulton

County League of Women

Voters. Funding support has been provided from the Committee for the Free and open to the public, the national series on "energy and the way we live" has been conducted by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges with support from the National Endowment for the Humanities and the United States Department

Questions about the May 13 forum should be directed Humanities in Georgia.

Lakeshore High School; Mark

High School.

SHORT STORY I 9th Grade

Dana Madison, Morrow Senior

High School; Thomas O. Munson, Mundy's Mill Junior High School; Aprille Williams, Morrow Junior High School; Cara Danielle Bullock; Bass High School; Ryan Harper, Babb Junior High School Laura Harris, Woodward

> SHORT STORY II 10th Grade

Fowler, Forest Park Senior High School; Louise Lergenmiller, Pace Academy; Cary Coffey, Forest High School; Richard Eddy, Riverdale Senior High School; Park Senior High School; Cindy Downey, Morrow Senior High

John Kohler, of Clayton

Junior College, will moderate at a public forum on the shaping of energy for the Atlanta area next week.

Future: A Challenge to Metropolitan Atlanta" is the subject of the public forum, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 13, in the midtown Community

co feature a panel of planners and policy makers who are involved in determining the future directions of the Bradley, Director of Planning for the City of Atlanta;

Paul Bolster, a member of the Georgia House of Representatives; George

Ramsey, Professor of Energy

with the College of Architecture at the Georgia Institute of Technology; Adolph Reed, representing the Southern Center for Studies in Public Policy at Clark

ய College; Doug Bulleit of Panelists will be Panke metropolitan area.

THE FORUM will

Room at Colony Square.

"Shaping Our Energy

CJC to Participate

In Area Energy Meet

faculty sponsor Vivian Rice. Crane won the best music entry award for his classical composition 'Suite for Saxophones: Third Movement." The other students are members of the literary magazine staff "Cavalier 1978-79" which tied for first place as the best student publication entry.

SPANISH DRAMA

Sue Baird, Beverly Fitzhugh, Cary Griffin, Shawn Lannan, Margaret Glichrist, Debbie Rutherford, Griffin High School; Carol Davis, Judy Lucas, Teri Schoemann, Clay Tomlinson, Riverdale Senior High School; Marla Brewer, Miles Eudy, Tina Shurley, Eric Turner, James Wilson, Riverdale Senior High School; Lakeshore High School.

> SPANISH ESSAY 1st Year

Deanna Fene, Jonesboro Junior High School; Matt Crawford, Riverdale Senior High School

SPANISH ESSAY

Pamela Boyd Jonesboro Senior High School; Shiela Silves, Michelle Eskew, Palmetto High School; Vonda Renee Pitt, Lakeshore High School; Lisa Thompson, Lakeshore High

SPANISH ESSAY

Sue Baird, Griffin High School Tommy Knight, Russell High School; Christina Vernon, Russell High School; Janet Stallins Newnan High School.

> SPANISH ESSAY 4th Year

Lisa Magune, Jonesboro Junior Lee B. Jones, Newnan High High School; Barbara Hagen, School; Louise Lergenmiller, Pace

Community Chorus To Hold Annual Spring Sing

"A Tribute to Richard Rodgers" will be presented by the Clayton County of Community Chorus' on Saturday, May 31, at 8:00 p.m., in the auditorium room G-132 at Clayton Junior College.

This is the eleventh annual spring concert by this chorus. It will feature show music by Richard Rodgers and his collaborators, Lorenz Hart and Oscar Hammerstein II. You will hear "Oklahoma!", "State Fair," "The King and I." "The Sound of Music," and other memorable shows. The concert is free.

The Community Chorus is under the direction of Marti Slife and accompanied by CJC Summer Quarter Signup Is Underway Clayton Junior College is To reserve a place in one taking registration for or more classes, call the Summer Quarter non-credit Office of Community continuing education Services at 961-3550.

WITH A SONG IN MY HEART--Clayton Junior

College sophomores delivered a voice recital last night on campus and two local talents performed.

Practicing are (front row, from left) Kris Kreesey of Fayetteville, David Pickney, (back row) Julie

Rodgers of Favetteville, Carla Caldwell, Connie

Durham and Martha Wilson,

May 7, 1980

THIS WEEK

Coordinated through the Office of Community Services, more than 45 noncredit offerings are scheduled during the quarter, and most classes begin the week of June 16-20. A number of courses for business professional field will be offered, along with others dealing with the home and individual personal growth. In addition, classes are planned in sports. recreation, the arts, music, and leisure time activities. Also included in the Summer Quarter schedule is a continuation of a "small business management series" co-sponsored with the College's Small Business Development Center. Designed to help small business owners with "big" problems associated with their firm, experts in the various fields will teach these courses.

In addition to classes scheduled on the College campus near Morrow, dog obedience training will be cosponsored and offered with local organizations at the Jonesboro Recreation Center, the Riverdale Community Center, and the North Clayton Community Center.

appliance repair," "basic metal working," "auto body repair," "basic furniture construction," and "basic masonry" will be taught on Thursday evenings at Forest Park High School.

College offers personal selling

A two-evening program _ on "Personal Selling," designed for small business owners, will be conducted at Clayton 5 Junior College next week. The program, another in a continuing series sponsored by the College's Small Business Development Center, will be conducted between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, June 30 and July 2. A $15 registration fee covers both three-hour sessions. Participants will gain tips on how to improve their sales ability in " marketing products directly to their customers. For more information, call the SBDC office at 961-3414. To register, call the Office of Community Services at 961-3550.

CJC Plans 'Selling' Workshop

'Personal Selling,' designed for small business owners, will be conducted at Clayton Junior College next week.

The program, another in a continuing series sponsored by the College's Small Business Development Center, will be conducted between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday. June 30 and July 2. A $15 registration fee covers both three-hour sessions.

Participants will gain tips on how to improve their sales ability in marketing products directly to their w customers.

For more information, call the SBDC office at 961-3414. To register, call the Office of Community Services at 961-

CJC Slates 2-Part Business Program and rights responsibilities of small business owners under the law will be the topic of a twopart program scheduled at college next week.

"How to comply with OSHA guidelines" will be discussed during three-hour programs scheduled on Monday and Wednesday, May 12 and 14. A $15 registration fee covers the cost of both sessions, s scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. each evening.

Participants from area small businesses will receive tips on how to identify potential health and safety hazards before inspection of problems occur. In addition, a specialist in the field will review and explain changes in regulations.

For more information on the short course, contact the College's Small Business Development Center (SBDC) at 363-7788. To register, phone the Office of Community Services at 363-

Spring Quarter Ends At CJC Next Week end and final examinations will begin at Clayton Junior College next week.

Monday, June 2, will be the last day for regular classes. Finals will begin on Tuesday and continue through Friday. June 6.

The college will conduct 10th annual Commencement on Saturday morning, June 7. Scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., ap-

Spring Quarter classes will proximately 100 of more than 300 students who are to receive associate degrees will participate in the graduation ceremony.

NEWS/DAILY May 28, 1980

will host graduating high school band members during a special jazz concert on Friday. George Rawlin, considered one of the top professional trumpeteers in the Atlanta Area, will be featured during the concert, scheduled at 12 noon in the members of the CJC band. Orchestra, will conduct the NEWS/DAILY June 23, 1980

*SPECIAL CONCERT AT CLAYTON JR. COLLEGE Monday, June 23 at 8:30 p.m. in Room G-132. Featuring the Vintage Singers from DeAnza College in Cupertino, Calif. Free and open to the public. Sponsored by CJC Lyceum. For ticket information call CJC office of Dean of Students at

Henry Energy Consultants; to the Office of Community and Annie Hunt of the Services at Clayton Junior Georgia Department of College, phone 363-7717. May 21, 1980 Shakespearean Play Scheduled At CJC of Energy.

Shakespeare's romantic comedy "As You Like It" will play at Clayton Junior College this week.

College drama students will enact the play at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, and at 8 p.m. both Friday and Saturday evenings. Scheduled in the Lecture Hall (Room G-132), the public is invited free of charge.

The subject of the play is romantic love and you may take it "as you like it" for Shakespeare does not insist on any of the several varieties presented. Rosalind, the play's leading figure, appears to have the fullest, most satisfying understanding. She will be played by Michele Hagist of Riverdale, whose previous credits include key roles in Romeo and Juliet" and "Orestera. Orlando, her lover, receives a good lesson in romantic love from Rosalind before winning her hand. David Hunt of College Park, who also starred in "Romeo and Juliet," matches Miss Hagist in energy and technique.

The supporting cast has Betsy Thompson of Stockbridge as Celia, Steve Rasmussen of Riverdale as Silouis, Robert Crawford of College Park as Thochstone, Candy Smith of Forest Park as Audrey, and David Deering of Jonesboro as the melancholy Jacques.

In addition to directing the play, Dr. Pat Collins of the Humanities Division also performs in several minor roles.

CJC Program For Secretaries

A special program for secretaries, clerks and other office workers on "Negotiating With Your Boss" has been scheduled at Clayton Junior College. Offered through the Office of Community Services, six sessions have been planned for Tuesday and Thursday evenings, July 8-24. An $18 registration fee covers the cost of the workshop, scheduled 7-9 each evening.

The purpose of "Negotiating With Your Boss" is to present specific skills for determining the job benefits you want and how to get them. Such benefits can include salary, working conditions, work responsibilities

medical and dental benefits, vacation, travel, training and career advancement. Course instructor Alan Goodman is a successful advertising executive who has applied sales concepts and communications techniques to the office setting.

Registration deadline for the course is July 3, and since the class size will be limited, registrants are encouraged to reserve a place in class by phoning the Office of Community Services at 961-3550.

Questions about this and other non-credit courses to be offered during the summer quarter should be directed to the Office of Community Services.

CJC To Host High School Band Members

Band and Jazz Orchestra G-132)

The Clayton Junior College's lecture hall (Room a jazz quintet, made up of the band and the Jazz Also to be featured will be Bill Gore, director of both concert.

Monday

'Hard Decisions'

Underwood Addresses CJC; Calls for National Goals

By DAVE HAMRICK

Georgia Senior Senator Responding to a question like solar energy, and "a Herman Talmadge's reference the students, election campaign is "an ex- Underwood said he would Responding to a question, pensive, carefully cultivated not improve the country's effort to have us cling to the balance of trade by impos-Underwood, 38, who is seek- tarriffs. "I don't think you the 1980 election.

ing to close the curtain on could make," he said. this long-running production of Talmadge Theater?"

series of programs planned leadership, tied to private this spring, Underwood attacked the 23-year incumbent's record, but steered and Dawson Mathis.

nor's office by force. "He crisis).

Talmadge claims to have population as a whole." helped, actually have been hurt by his long term in of-Underwood called for policy fice. "Most farmers in this changes to encourage state are so deeply in debt that for all practical purposes they are share croppers with (various agencies) and the banks," Underwood

UNDERWOOD, who goals.' was executive secretary to Gov. George Busbee from 1975-1979 and a judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals during 1979, said reduced productivity is one of the main causes of America's economic ills.
"Productivity was down nine tenths of a percentage point last year, which is terrible when you consider we ing of the 1970s," he said. to $25,000. He added the country has The nation's energy steadily lost ground to other problems could be addresnations in growth of in- sed by a fourpronged ing the aircraft industry."

past," according to Norman ing overly strict or too high ing to unseat Talmadge in can build an economic wall for the country, but we have "The question that has to not made as good of deals be answered by the people of (at the international tariff this state is 'when are we go- bargaining table) as we

Underwood told and the country, said audience of students at Underwood, is that "there is Clayton Junior College last no consensus on foreign get us to borrow from the policy. When there is Invited by the College leadership from Congress, Political Union for one of a its a negative kind of

He called for strengthenclear of direct attacks on ing the national defense. "In other challengers Zell Miller nuclear weapons, we can still hope that we have superiority, or at least "IN THE NAME of parity, but in conventional seniority or nostalgia, are we warfare, I'm afraid we are at going to give Herman a disadvantage. We must Talmadge a six-year last provide more expenditures hurrah?" said Underwood. to improve our conventional He said Talmadge, who capabilities to avoid making was governor of Georgia that painful and difficult before being elected decision (whether to use Senator, seized the gover- nuclear weapons in a was removed by law, but the He added, "We have got office was handed to him to go back to the draft so again in a county unit elec- that our long term military capability will reflect the He said farmers, whom character of the civilian

> Concerning the economy, capitol formation. "We need to commit ourselves not only to a balanced budget, but also to a balanced economy," he said. "We've got to set some material

Those goals include reaching a growth in personal savings of 6-7 per cent by 1985, increased productivity of 2.5 per cent by 1983 and four per cent by 1985, and increased international trade from 14 to 15 per cent of the gross national product, Underwood said.

SAVINGS could be inwere enjoying a growth rate creased by removing income of 2-3 per cent at the beginn- tax on savings accounts up

"We program, he said, includ to Japan and now we're los- domestic production of oil, healthy economy is the only realities in the 1980s," he

Underwood said the skills he hopes to bring to the office include "some skills in pulling together legislative packages and doing the work that needs to be done to get them accepted."

Of thy other two major challengers, he said Zell Miller has during his term as Lt. Governor often called ANOTHER problem in for bond issues to finance pay raises for government employees. "He's trying to future to pay people now, a policy with which I have disagreement," he said.

DAWSON Mathis, he said is "a good campaigner, and has a real interest in agriculture. I don't know about his stand on other is-

Would Underwood draft women? "I would not vote to draft women," he said. With more young people of draft age than the national defense could ever use, decisions about whom to draft would be difficult, he said. "Putting women into that availability pool only compounds the problem," he said, adding he doesn't yet know what kind of system for choosing draftees would be most fair.

"It will take a great deal of study," he said.

For the national's floundering food stamp program, he prescribed a 'strategy of restraint. The program is a good idea, but so many more people have gotten in than the program was intended for, the cost has gotten out of hand," he

BUT SOCIAL programs should not be the only items reduced in balancing the national budget, he cautioned. "We can't require poor people to bear a disproportionate share of the burden of economic stability. That's wrong. But economic stability is more in the interests of poor peo-ple than anyone else," he

The government should provide public service jobs for urban youths and minorities, but only limited amounts of money in areas of extremely high unlost the electronics industry conservation, increased employment. "Otherwise, a use of renewable sources, cure. Until we have one, said. we're going to continue to employment. speech by urging voters not out," he said. "It's one of to consider Talmadge's the most important elecseniority as a great asset. tions in our history, and it "It's a stained, tarnished will say a lot about our state

'Personal

A two-evening program on "Personal Selling," designed for small business owners,

will be conducted at

Clayton Junior College

The program, another

vin a continuing series

sponsored by the College's Small Business

Development Center,

will be conducted between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, June 30 and July

2. A $15 registration fee

covers both three-hour

Participants will gain

tips on how to improve their sales ability in marketing products directly to their

For more information,

acall the SBDC office at ≥ 961-3414. To register, call the Office of Community Services at 961-

Selling'

At CJC

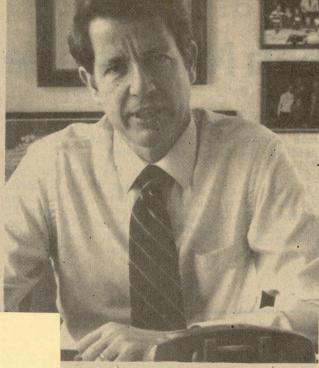

next week.

sessions.

directly customers.

And, he added, the elechave a good deal of un-tion will be a historic one because of that seniority. Underwood concluded his "This is no election to sit seniority, ill-suited to grap-pling with these harsh have matured politically."

UNDERWOOD

Summer Program In Adult Education Slated To Continue

By KIRK MARTIN Staff Writer

Clayton County Board of Education's Adult General Education Program will continue with night classes throughout the summer, according to Dr. Sam Dennard, adult education coordinator. The adult education program allows adults who dropped out of school before completing the 12th grade to study for the General Education Development Examination. Passage of that exam entitles a student to the equivalent of a high school diploma. Persons who have passed the GED test may then enroll in classes in Clayton Junior College, Dennard said.

Courses are taught in the major fields of study tested by the GED examination. Those areas include social studies, science, reading and language arts. The courses are taught by a few full time adult education insturctors and several part-time

To enroll in the program, a person needs only to appear at one of the two schools where the summer adult education program is being conducted. They will be tested to find out what schooling they have and where they need to start their instruction. Most instruction is on an individual basis or in small groups, according to

"We give them a test to see where they are," said Dennard, "If they can't read, we start them there. If they can read, we find out where they should start.'

A person who could not read or write who started the program would probably need about five to six years before being ready for the GED test. That time would depend on the student, according to Dennard. At least one person who began with no reading ability has graduated from Clayton Junior College, he said.

The adult education programs are continuous, with no definite starting point. Any interested person should attend one of the classes for placement. Classes are held at Jonesboro Senior High School, 7728 Mount Zion Blvd., Jonesboro from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and at Morrow Senior High School, 2299 Old Rex Morrow Rd., Morrow, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

There is no tuition for the Adult General Education Program.

News-Daily Photo by Jan Little ALAN GOODMAN, ATLANTA ADVERTISING EXECUTIVE NEWS/DAILY Designed "Negotiating with Your Boss"

Succeed

Talk With Your Boss And Get What You Want

By JAN LITTLE Living Editor

Books and courses which show people how to succeed in business are usually geared for those in corporation and upper level management, not secretaries, clerical and lower management workers.

"Nothing tells them how to get more money or job benefits," said Atlanta advertising executive Alan Goodman who designed such a course entitled "Negotiating with Your Boss" and will offer it at Clayton Junior College in

Goodman said he discovered the lack of such material when he began helping his wife prepare to approach her boss for a raise. Recuperating from an operation, he spent the time researching the area and discovered most books and courses deal with companies negotiating with other companies or key employees' negotiating for raises and better working

He also realized how ill-prepared his wife was to go in and ask for a raise. He worked with her, and she came out with 30 percent more than what her boss had offered her.

"She didn't get what she should have but I didn't have her confidence built up enough at the time," he said. "People are usually afraid to rock the boat no matter what the economic situation is like, there's a recession or inflation, and they're willing to settle Most secretaries and clerical workers are inarticulate when it comes to saying why they need more money. "It's not really the company's problem if they can't live on what they're being paid, but it is the company's problem and to their advantage to pay more if the employee leaves and it will cost them more to replace him than give him a raise," he noted. In addition, the boss's attitude is usually that the employee should be grateful for what he is already receiving.

"There is no reason after six months for an employee not to receive a raise," Goodman emphasized. Many companies only give year-end raises but those should be more than token ones, if so. Secretaries and lower management workers must learn how to put a dollars and cents value on what they are doing and approach their bosses in an organized manner, he said. Instead, they often have the attitude that their "boss really knows what can be afforded, "whereas, in actuality, he is either answerable to someone else or is his own boss which means the raise directly affects him. Consequently, he will give as little as possible, Goodman siad. "If an employee is pulling more than his share of the weight, why shouldn't he receive a larger slice of the pie?" Goodman said. An employee should look at his company realistically and determine what type situation it is in. "If the company is in the position at the time that it cannot afford raises, the employee should note his loyalty and set a time limit of three months before he comes back to re-negotiate," he said. When businesses experience problems repaying loans at banks, they negotiate with the institutions for extensions, he noted. "Consider yourself as a loaning institution. Your raise is to go in effect in three months with an interest consideration for the three months' delay." Propaganda usually believed by workers is that loyalty to a company is more of a motivational factor in working than money, Goodman said. "Money is definitely a motivation to work," he noted, but most workers feel "if they have a good job, don't make waves."

Instead, an employee should take as much of a work load as he can and show he is valuable to the company then approach his boss and show how much money has been saved by his doing the work of two employees. If told he does not have to do that much work, the employee can then tell the boss to assign those responsibilities to someone else.

If a boss hedges and says things will work out but profits are low at that time, the employee can come back by saying he is entitled to know when in the future the boss will be able to sit down and work out terms for a raise, or say, "I really appreciate your honesty and guess we all need to start looking around." The boss may well then envision a panic in the office beginning and begin to back down. If he still hedges, the employee should ask if he is doing a satisfactory job. If the boss praises him then the employee can counter with asking why then the raise should not be forthcoming at least within a definite time frame.

If a boss suggests longer than a three month wait, then other terms should be worked out such as the company's paying the employee's dental bills, Goodman said.

"It's your life and you're entitled to an answer," he noted. If an employee settles for less in times of a recession, then the company will expect him to settle for less when times are good.

"The time to begin looking for a raise is when you get the job," he said. If the position offers $700 a month and the employee really wants it but needs $900 to live, then he should let the employer know he is only temporarily settling for that amount and he is actually worth more.

"At the end of the probation period, he may receive the $900 or he may get $1,100," Goodman said.

"If you come to an absolute deadlock, the company doesn't value you and won't pay you, then quit and let them interview several applicants. Then reapply for the job," he said. "That's a last resort but it's always an alternative and one that should be used if you believe that strongly "There are so many angles to use from the business viewpoint in

The course has been designed for six sessions for Tuesday and Thursday evenings, beginning July 8 and concluding July 24, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Registration deadline is July 3 and class size will be limited. For more information, call the Office of Community Services at 961-3550.

CJC Non Credit Courses misic, and leisure time Services at 961-3550. Clayton Junior College is taking registration for Summer Quarter noncredit continuing education classes. Coordinated through the Office of Community Services, more than 45 non-credit offerings are scheduled during the quarter, and most classes begin the week of June 16-20. A number of courses for the business and professional field will be offered, along with others dealing with the home and individual personal growth. In addition, classes are planned in sports, activities.

Also included in the Summer Quarter schedule is a continuation of a "small business management series" co-sponsored with the College's Small Business Development Center. Designed to help small business owners with "big" problems associated with their firm, experts in the various fields will teach these courses. To reserve a place in one or more classes, to obtain a listing of all courses, or for more information, call the recreation, the arts, Office of Community Fridays.

Courses in "home appliance repair,' "basic metal working," "auto body repair," "basic furniture construction," and "basic masonry" will be taught on Thursday evenings at Forest Park High

To accommodate registration, special office hours have been scheduled through June 20. The office will be open from 8 a.m. until 7:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday each week; and between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on

Vintage Singers To Be At CJC

throughout the United States use of this wide variety of and Europe will be literature that vocal presented in concert at students are exposed to a Clayton Junior College next realistic view of per-

The Vintage Singers from public, the concert will be presented in the Lecture sponsorship of Lyceum.

The Vintage Singers are Community College District. known for their versatility and variety of performance. 16th Centruy madrigals to tion. contemporary vocal jazz with "stops along the way" to contemporary vocal jazz Junior College's Office of for Brahms, Debussy, Ravel 3510.

A California group known and Durufle. It is through the formance today.

The DeAnza College DeAnza College in Cuper- student body numbers better tino, Calif., will perform at than 20,000 students, and in 8:30 p.m. on Monday, June addition to music, many 23. Free and open to the subject disciplines are represented in the membership of the Singers. Hall (Room G-132) under the shared by the Associated Sponsorship of the tour is Students of DeAnza College and the Foothill-DeAnza

The director of Vintage and membership in the Singers is Roger Letson and ensemble is attained through the ensemble is acaudition. The repertoire of companied by Robert the group "travels" from Newton and a rhythm sec-

For information about the from 16th Century madrigals free concert, call Clayton with "stops along the way" the Dean of Students at 961-

NEWS/DAILY June 18, 1980 CJC Begins Summer Business Programs

ply for an SBA Loan" on July

For complete information

961-3414. To register, call the

College's Office of Com-

Clayton Junior College's on July 7 and 9; and an all-Small Business Develop- day program on "How to Apment Series (SBDC) will begin Summer Quarter programs for small business owners on Saturday and con- about any of the programs, tinue the series the following call the SBDC office at

An all-day workshop on munity Services at 961-3550. "How to Start a New Business" will open the series on Saturday and a two-evening program on "Income Tax Avoidance" will be offered next Monday and Wednesday.

Information on deciding what product or service to offer, examining market potential, planning operations, and financing will be discussed during Saturday's workshop. Scheduled between 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., a $22 registration fee includes the cost of lunch.

The Monday-Wednesday program will present a basic review of income tax preparation and recordkeeping, with an emphasis placed on legal means of reducing tax liabilities. Scheduled between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening, a $15 registration fee covers both sessions.

Other Summer offerings scheduled by the Small Business Development Center include a two-day seminar on "Personal Selling" on June 30 and July 2; another on "Effective Advertising and Promotion"

Selling Seminar Set At Clayton Junior

A two-evening program on "Personal Selling," designed for small business owners, will be conducted at Clayton Junior College next week. The program, another in a continuing series sponsored by the college's Small Business Development Center, will be conducted 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday, June 30 and July 2. A $15 registration fee covers both Participants will gain tips on how to improve their sales ability in marketing products directly to their For more information, call the SBDC office at 961Small Business Courses Starting

Clayton Junior College's Small Business Development Series (SBDC) will

Advertising and Promotion" July 12.

For complete information College's Office of Comment about any of the programs, munity Services at 961begin Summer Quarter Apply for an SBA Loan" on call the SBDC office at 961- 3550. programs for small business owners on Saturday, June 21, and continue the series the following week.

An all-day workshop on "How to Start a New Business" will open the new series on Saturday, and a two-evening program on "Income Tax Avoidance" will be offered on Monday and Wednesday, June 23

Information on deciding what product or service to offer, examining market potential, planning opera-tions, and financing will be discussed during Saturday's workshop. Scheduled between 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., a $22 registration fee includes the cost of lunch.

The Monday-Wednesday program will present a basic review of income tax preparation and recordkeeping, with an emphasis placed on legal means of reducing tax liabilities. Scheduled between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening, a $15 registration fee covers both sessions.

Other Summer offerings scheduled by the Small Business Development Center include a two-day seminar on "Personal Selling" on June 30 and July 2; another on "Effective

CJC's Summer Classes Begin Next Week

programs will get under way July 21 and ends August 19; Students must register for for non-credit offerings or at Clayton Junior College and the "regular" session the session or sessions of the Office of Admissions and next week. Registration for credit classes will take place between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., and 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. on Monday, and classes for the quarter will begin the following day. New students must report to Room G-132 either at 10 a.m. or 6 p.m. for an orientation program.

Non-credit courses offered through the Office of Community Services will begin throughout the week of June 16-20. Registration for these courses began last week and will continue until classes meet for the first time this week.

Students interested in credit programs have the option of attending either or both five-week short sessions this summer, or a regular 10week session. The "first" short session begins Tuesday

Summer Quarter classes and ends July 18; the begins July 17 and ends phone the Office of Comin both credit and non-credit "second" session begins August 19.

about Summer Quarter located in the classes at the two-year Administration Building on institution near Morrow, the College campus.

munity Services (961-3550) their choice on Monday. Records (961-3500) for credit For complete information classes. Both offices are

Free Concert Slated At CJC

A California group known be presented in the Lecture throughout the United Hall (Room G-132) under Brahms, Debussy, Ravel States and Europe will be the sponsorship of Lyceum.

The Vintage Singers from and membership in the DeAnza College in Cuper- ensemble is attained tino, California, will per- through audition. The form at 8:30 p.m. Monday, repertoire of the group June 23. Free and open to ranges from 16th Century the public, the concert will madrigals to contemporary presented in concert at Clayton Junior College next known for their versatility of literature that vocal stuand variety of performance, dents are exposed to a and Durufle. It is through realistic view of performance today, a spokesman said.

The DeAnza College student body numbers better than 20,000 students, and in addition to music, many subject disciplines are represented in the membership of the Singers. Sponsorship of the tour is shared by the Associated Students of DeAnza College and the Foothill-DeAnza Community College District.

The director of Vintage Singers is Roger Letson and the ensemble is accompanied by Robert Newton and a rhythm section. For information about the free concert, call Clayton Junior College's Office of the Dean of Students at 961-

